Wycliffe's Bible with Modern Spelling, was made in response to requests from readers who wanted my Wycliffe's Old and New Testaments and Apocrypha in one volume. Printing limitations dictated the number of pages available to me and the letter size. In my previous books, Wycliffe's Bible, Wycliffe's Old Testament, Vols. 1 amp 2, Wycliffe's New Testament, and Wycliffe's Apocrypha, I have tens of thousands of rewritten verses, presented in parentheses "()", to provide help in comprehending the 14th century Middle English vocabulary and grammar. In this present volume, with space at a premium, those "helps" had to be eliminated, to make room for the text of the Apocrypha.

GENESIS

<sup>2</sup> Forsooth the earth was idle and void, and darknesses were on the face of depth; and the Spirit of the Lord was borne on the waters [for the Spirit of God was borne upon the waters].

<sup>5</sup> and he called the light, day, and the darknesses, night. And the eventide and the morrowtide was made, one day.

<sup>7</sup> And God made the firmament, and parted the waters that were under the firmament, from the waters that were on the firmament [for that were above the firmament]; and it was done so.

<sup>8</sup> And God called the firmament, heaven. And the eventide and the morrowtide was made, the second day.

<sup>9</sup> Forsooth God said, The waters, that be under heaven, be gathered into one place, and a dry place appear; and it was done so.

<sup>10</sup> And God called the dry place, earth; and he called the gatherings together of waters, the seas. And God saw that it was good;

<sup>11</sup> and said, The earth bring forth green herb, and making seed, and an apple tree making fruit by his kind, whose seed be in itself, on [the] earth; and it was done so.

<sup>12</sup> And the earth brought forth green herb and making seed by his kind, and a tree making fruit, and each having seed by his kind. And God saw that it was good.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth God said, Lights be made in the firmament of heaven, and part they the day and night; and be they into signs, and times, and days, and years;

<sup>15</sup> and shine those in the firmament of heaven, and lighten they the earth; and it was done so.

<sup>16</sup> And God made two great lights, the greater light that it should be before to the day, and the lesser light that it should be before to the night; and God made stars;

<sup>18</sup> and that they should be before to the day and [to the] night, and should part light and darkness. And God saw that it was good.

<sup>21</sup> And God made of nought great whales, and each living soul and movable, which the waters have brought forth in their kinds; and God made of nought each volatile by his kind. And God saw that it was good;

<sup>22</sup> and blessed them, and said, Wax ye, and be ye multiplied, and fill ye the waters of the sea, and [the] birds be multiplied on [the] earth.

<sup>24</sup> And God said, The earth bring forth a living soul in his kind, work beasts, and reptiles, either creeping beasts, and unreasonable beasts of [the] earth, by their kinds; and it was done so.

<sup>25</sup> And God made unreasonable beasts of the earth by their kinds, and work beasts, and each creeping beast of the earth in his kind. And God saw that it was good;

<sup>26</sup> and said, Make we man to our image and likeness, and be he sovereign to the fishes of the sea, and to the volatiles of heaven, and to [the] unreasonable beasts of [the] earth, and to each creature, and to each creeping beast or each reptile, which is moved in [the] earth.

<sup>27</sup> And God made of nought a man to his image and likeness; God made of nought a man, to the image of God; God made of nought them, male and female.

<sup>28</sup> And God blessed them, and said, Increase ye, and be ye multiplied, and fill ye the earth, and make ye it subject; and be ye lords to the fishes of the sea, and to [the] volatiles of heaven, and to all living beasts that be moved on [the] earth.

<sup>29</sup> And God said, Lo! I have given to you each herb bearing seed on [the] earth, and all trees that have in themselves the seed of their kind, that they be into meat to you;

<sup>30</sup> and to all living beasts of [the] earth, and to each bird of heaven, and to all things that be moved in [the] earth, and in which is a living soul, that they have to eat; and it was done so.

<sup>31</sup> And God saw all things which he made, and they were full good. And the eventide and the morrowtide was made, the sixth day.

CHAPTER 2

<sup>2</sup> And God [ful] filled in the seventh day his work which he made; and he rested in the seventh day from all his work which he had made;

<sup>3</sup> and he blessed the seventh day, and hallowed it; for in that day God ceased of all his work which he made of nought, that he should make.

<sup>5</sup> and each little tree of [the] earth before that it sprang out in [the] earth; and he made each herb of the field before that it burgeoned. For the Lord God had not rained on the earth, and no man there was that wrought [or might work] the earth;

<sup>7</sup> Therefore the Lord God formed man of the slime of [the] earth, and breathed into his face the breathing of life; and man was made into a living soul.

<sup>9</sup> And the Lord God brought forth of the earth each tree fair in sight, and sweet to eat; also he brought forth the tree of life in the midst of paradise, and the tree of knowing of good and of evil.

<sup>10</sup> And a river went out from the place of liking or Eden to moist paradise or the garden, which river is parted from thence into four heads.

<sup>12</sup> and the gold of that land is the best, and there is found bdellium, that is, a tree of spicery, and the stone onyx;

<sup>15</sup> Therefore the Lord God took man, and set him in paradise of liking, that he should work and keep it.

- <sup>16</sup> And God commanded to him and said, Eat thou of each tree of paradise;
<sup>18</sup> And the Lord God said, It is not good that a man be alone; make we to him an helper like to himself.
<sup>19</sup> And therefore when all living beasts of [the] earth, and all the volatiles of heaven, were formed of [the] earth, the Lord God brought those [or them] to Adam, that he should see what he should call those [or them]; for all thing that Adam called of living soul, that is the name thereof.
<sup>20</sup> And Adam called by their names all living things, and all volatiles [of heavens], and all unreasonable beasts of [the] earth. Forsooth to Adam was not found an helper like him.
<sup>22</sup> And the Lord God builded the rib which he had taken from Adam into a woman, and brought her to Adam.
<sup>23</sup> And Adam said, This is now a bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh; this shall be called virago, for she is taken of man.

CHAPTER 3

- <sup>1</sup> But the serpent was feller or more sly than all living beasts of [the] earth, which the Lord God had made. The which serpent said to the woman, Why commanded God to you, that ye should not eat of each tree of paradise?
<sup>2</sup> To whom the woman answered, We eat of the fruit of trees that be in paradise;
<sup>3</sup> soothly God commanded to us, that we should not eat of the fruit of the tree, which is in the midst of paradise, and that we should not touch it, lest peradventure we die.
<sup>5</sup> for why God knoweth that in what-ever day ye shall eat thereof, your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as Gods, knowing good and evil.
<sup>6</sup> Therefore the woman saw that the tree was good, and sweet to eat, and fair to the eyes, and delightable in beholding; and she took of the fruit thereof, and ate, and gave to her husband, and he ate.
<sup>7</sup> And the eyes of both were opened; and when they knew that they were naked, they sewed [together] the leaves of a fig tree, and made breeches to themselves.
<sup>8</sup> And when they heard the voice of the Lord God going in paradise at the wind after midday, Adam and his wife hid them from the face of the Lord God in [the] midst of the trees of paradise.
<sup>9</sup> And the Lord God called Adam, and said to him, Where art thou?
<sup>10</sup> And Adam said, I heard thy voice in paradise, and I dreaded, for I was naked, and I hid me.
<sup>11</sup> To whom the Lord said, Who showed to thee that thou were naked, no but for thou hast eaten of the tree of which I commanded to thee that thou shouldest not eat?
<sup>12</sup> And Adam said, The woman which thou gavest for fellowship to me, gave me of the tree, and I ate.
<sup>13</sup> And the Lord said to the woman, Why didest thou this thing? The which answered, The serpent deceived me, and I ate.

<sup>14</sup> And the Lord God said to the serpent, For thou didest this, thou shalt be cursed among all [the] living things, and unreasonable beasts of [the] earth; thou shalt go on thy breast, and thou shalt eat earth in all the days of thy life.

<sup>15</sup> I shall set [or put] enmities betwixt thee and the woman, and betwixt thy seed and her seed; she shall break thine head, and thou shalt set ambushes to her heel.

<sup>16</sup> Also God said to the woman, I shall multiply thy wretchednesses and thy conceivings; in sorrow thou shalt bear thy children; and thou shalt be under power of thine husband, and he shall be lord of thee.

<sup>17</sup> Soothly God said to Adam, For thou heardest the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, of which I commanded to thee that thou shouldest not eat, the earth shall be cursed in thy work, that is, for thy sin; in travails thou shalt eat thereof in all the days of thy life;

<sup>19</sup> in [the] sweat of thy cheer, [or face], thou shalt eat thy bread, till thou turn again into the earth of which thou art taken; for thou art dust, and thou shalt turn again into dust.

<sup>22</sup> and said, Lo! Adam is made as one of us, and knoweth good and evil; now therefore see ye, lest peradventure he put [out] his hand, and take [also] of the tree of life, and eat, and live without end.

<sup>23</sup> And the Lord God sent him out of paradise of liking or the garden of Eden, that he should work the earth, of which he was taken.

<sup>24</sup> And God casted out Adam, and setted before paradise of liking cherubim, that is, gave it unto the keeping of angels, and a sword of flame turning about to keep charge of the way of the tree of life.

CHAPTER 4

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Adam knew Eve his wife, which conceived, and childed Cain, and said, I have gotten a man by God.

<sup>4</sup> and Abel offered of the first engendered of his flock, and of the fatness of those [or them]. And the Lord beheld to Abel and to the gifts of him;

<sup>7</sup> Whether not if thou shalt do well, thou shalt receive well; but if thou doest evil, thy sin shall be present anon in the gates? but the desire thereof, that is, of sin, shall be under thee, and thou shalt be lord thereof.

<sup>8</sup> And Cain said to Abel, his brother, Go we out. And when they were in the field, Cain rose against his brother Abel, and killed him.

<sup>9</sup> And the Lord said to Cain, Where is Abel thy brother? Which answered, I know not; whether I am the keeper of my brother?

* CHAPTER 4:3 Not the first fruits, or the best, or it would have been so stated.

<sup>10</sup> And God said to Cain, What hast thou done? the voice of the blood of thy brother crieth to me from [the] earth.

<sup>12</sup> When thou shalt work the earth, it shall not give his fruits to thee; thou shalt be unstable of dwelling, and fleeing about on [the] earth, in all the days of thy life.

<sup>13</sup> And Cain said to the Lord, My wickedness is more than that I deserve forgiveness;

<sup>14</sup> lo! today thou castest me out from the face of the earth; and I shall be hid from thy face, and I shall be unstable of dwelling, and fleeing about in earth; therefore each man that shall find me shall slay me.

<sup>15</sup> And the Lord said to him, It shall not be done so, but each man that shall slay Cain shall be punished sevenfold. And the Lord set a sign in Cain, that each man that should find him should not slay him.

<sup>23</sup> And Lamech said to his wives, Adah and Zillah, Ye wives of Lamech, hear my voice, and hearken to my words; for I have slain a man by my wounding, and a young waxing man by my violent beating;

<sup>25</sup> Also yet Adam knew his wife, and she childed a son, and called his name Seth†, and said, God hath put [or set] to me another seed for Abel, whom Cain killed.

<sup>26</sup> But also a son was born to Seth, which son he called Enos; this began to call inwardly the name of the Lord.

CHAPTER 5

<sup>2</sup> God formed them male and female, and blessed them, and called the name of them Adam, in the day in which they were formed.

<sup>17</sup> And all the days of Mahalaleel were made eight hundred [and] ninety and five years, and he was dead.

<sup>27</sup> And all the days of Methuselah were made nine hundred and nine and sixty years, and he was dead.

<sup>29</sup> and [he] called his name Noah*, and said, This man shall comfort us of the works and travails of our hands, in the land which the Lord cursed.

<sup>31</sup> And all the days of Lamech were made seven hundred [and] seventy and seven years, and he was dead.

CHAPTER 6

<sup>2</sup> the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair, and took wives to them of all which they had chosen.

<sup>3</sup> And God said, My spirit shall not dwell in man without end, for he is flesh; and the days of him shall be an hundred and twenty years.

* CHAPTER 5:29 This name sounds like the Hebrew for 'rest' or 'relief'.

<sup>4</sup> Soothly giants were on the earth in those days, forsooth after that the sons of God entered [in] to the daughters of men, and those daughters begat; these were mighty of the world and famous men.

<sup>5</sup> Soothly God saw that much malice of men was in [the] earth, and that all the thought of their heart was attentive, either given, to evil in all time,

<sup>6</sup> and it repented him that he had made man in earth; and God was wary before against time to coming [or to come], and was touched with sorrow of heart within;

<sup>7</sup> and said, I shall do away man, whom I made of nought, from the face of the earth; from man till to living things, from creeping beast till to the birds of heaven; for it repenteth me that I made them.

<sup>12</sup> And when God saw, that the earth was corrupt, for each flesh, or man, had corrupted his way on [the] earth,

<sup>13</sup> he said to Noah, The end of all flesh is come before me; the earth is filled with wickedness of the face of them, and I shall destroy them with the earth.

<sup>15</sup> And so thou shalt make it. The length of the ship shall be of three hundred cubits, the breadth shall be of fifty cubits, and the highness thereof shall be of thirty cubits.

<sup>17</sup> Lo! I shall bring waters of deluge, or great flood, on the earth, and I shall slay each flesh in which is the spirit of life under heaven, and all things that be in [the] earth, shall be wasted.

<sup>18</sup> And I shall set my covenant of peace with thee; and thou shalt enter into the ship, [thou], and thy sons, and thy wife, and the wives of thy sons shall enter with thee.

<sup>19</sup> And of all living beasts of all flesh, thou shalt bring into the ship twain [or two] and twain, of male kind and female, that they live with thee;

<sup>20</sup> of birds by their kind, and of work beasts in their kind, and of each creeping beast of [the] earth, by their kind; twain [or two] and twain of all shall enter with thee, that they may live.

<sup>21</sup> Therefore thou shalt take with thee of all meats that may be eaten, and thou shalt bear together at thee, and those shall be as well to thee as to the beasts into meat.

CHAPTER 7

<sup>1</sup> Also the Lord said to Noah, Enter thou and all thine house into the ship, for I saw thee alone were just before me in this generation.

<sup>2</sup> Of all clean living beasts, thou shalt take by seven and by seven, male and female; forsooth of unclean living beasts, thou shalt take by twain and by twain [or two and two], male and female;

<sup>3</sup> and also of [the] volatiles [or fowls] of heaven, thou shalt take, by seven and by seven, male and female, that their seed be saved on the face of all earth.

* CHAPTER 6:14 Throughout Genesis, whenever the "Later Version" refers to Noah's 'ship', the "Early Version" refers to Noah's 'ark'.

<sup>4</sup> For yet and after seven days, I shall rain on [the] earth forty days and forty nights, and I shall do away all substance which I made, from the face of [the] earth.

<sup>8</sup> And of living beasts clean and unclean, and of [the] birds of heaven, and of each beast which is moved on [the] earth,

<sup>9</sup> by twain and by twain [or two and two], male and female entered to Noah into the ship, as the Lord commanded to Noah.

<sup>11</sup> In the six hundredth year of the life of Noah, in the second month, in the seventeenth day of the month, all the wells of the great sea were broken, and the windows of heaven were opened,

<sup>13</sup> In the end of that day Noah entered, and Shem, and Ham, and Japheth, his sons, and his wife, and the [three] wives of his sons, entered with them into the ship.

<sup>14</sup> They entered, and each beast by his kind, and all work beasts in their kind, and each beast which is moved on [the] earth in his kind, and each volatile by his kind; all birds and all volatiles [or fowls],

<sup>15</sup> entered to Noah into the ship, by twain and by twain [or two and two] of each flesh in which the spirit of life was.

<sup>16</sup> And those that entered, entered male and female of each flesh, as God commanded to him. And the Lord enclosed him from withoutforth.

<sup>17</sup> And the great flood was made forty days and forty nights on [the] earth, and the waters were multiplied, and raised the ship on high from the earth.

<sup>19</sup> And the waters had mastery greatly on [the] earth, and all [the] high hills under all of heaven were covered;

<sup>21</sup> And each flesh was wasted that moved on [the] earth, of birds, of living beasts, of unreasonable beasts, and of all reptiles or all creeping beasts that creep on [the] earth.

<sup>23</sup> And God did away all the substance that was on [the] earth, from man till to beast, as well a creeping beast, as the birds of heaven; and those [or they] were done away from [the] earth. Forsooth Noah dwelled alone, and they that were with him in the ship.

CHAPTER 8

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth the Lord had mind of Noah, and of all living beasts, and of all work beasts, that were with him in the ship; and [he] brought a wind on the earth. And [the] waters were decreased, or assuaged, <sup>2</sup> and the wells of the sea were closed, and the windows of heaven were closed, and rains of heaven were ceased.

<sup>3</sup> And [the] waters turned again from off the earth, and went again, and began to be decreased, or assuaged, after an hundred and fifty days.

<sup>4</sup> And the ship rested in the seventh month, in the seven and twentieth day of the month, on the hills [or mounts] of Armenia.

<sup>5</sup> And soothly the waters went and decreased till to the tenth month, for in the tenth month, in the first day of the month, the tops of [the] hills appeared.

<sup>6</sup> And when forty days had passed, Noah opened the window of the ship which he had made, <sup>7</sup> and sent out a crow, which went out, and turned not again till the waters were dried on [the] earth.

<sup>9</sup> and when the culver found not where her foot should rest, she turned again to him into the ship, for the waters were on all [the] earth; and Noah held forth his hand, and brought the culver taken into the ship.

<sup>11</sup> and she came to him at eventide, and bare in her mouth a branch of an olive tree with green leaves. There-fore Noah understood that the waters had ceased or abated on earth;

<sup>12</sup> and nevertheless he abode seven other days, and sent out a culver, which turned not again to him.

<sup>13</sup> Therefore in the six hundred and one year of the life of Noah, in the first month, in the first day of the month, [the] waters were decreased on earth; and Noah opened the roof of the ship, and beheld, and saw that the face of the earth was dried.

<sup>14</sup> In the second month, in the seven and twentieth day of the month, the earth was made dry.

<sup>17</sup> and lead out with thee all living beasts that be with thee of each flesh, as well in volatiles, as in unreason-able beasts, and all reptiles or all creeping beasts that creep on [the] earth; and enter ye on the earth, increase ye, and be ye multiplied on earth.

<sup>19</sup> but also all living beasts, and work beasts, and birds, and reptiles that creep on [the] earth, by their kind, went out of the ship.

<sup>21</sup> And the Lord savoured the odour of sweetness, and said to him, I shall no more curse the earth for men, for the wit and thought of man's heart be ready, either prone, into evil from young waxing age; therefore I shall no more smite each living soul, as I did;

<sup>22</sup> in all the days of [the] earth, seed and ripe corn, cold and heat, summer and winter, night and day, shall not rest.

CHAPTER 9

<sup>2</sup> and your dread and trembling be on all [the] unreasonable beasts of the earth, and on all [the] birds of heaven, with all things that be moved in earth; all fishes of the sea be given to your hand.

<sup>3</sup> And all thing which is moved and liveth shall be to you into meat; I have given to you all things, as I gave the green worts before,

<sup>10</sup> and to each living soul which is with you, as well in birds as in work beasts and small beasts of [the] earth, and to all things that went out of the ship, and to all unreasonable beasts of [the] earth.

<sup>12</sup> And God said, This is the sign of bond of peace, which I give between me and you, and to each living soul which is with you, into everlasting generations.

<sup>13</sup> I shall set my bow in the clouds, and it shall be a sign of bond of peace between me and [the] earth;

<sup>15</sup> and I shall have mind of my bond of peace which I made with you, and with each soul living that nourisheth flesh; and the waters of the great flood shall no more be to do away all flesh.

<sup>16</sup> And my bow shall be in the clouds, and I shall see it, and I shall have mind of the everlasting bond of peace, which is made between God and man, and each soul living of all flesh which is on [the] earth.

<sup>17</sup> And God said to Noah, This shall be a sign of [the] bond of peace, which I made between me and each flesh on earth.

<sup>19</sup> These three were the sons of Noah, and all the kind of men was sown of them on all [the] earth.

<sup>21</sup> and one day he drank wine, and was drunken; and he was naked, and lay in his tabernacle.

<sup>22</sup> And when Ham, the father of Canaan, had seen this thing, that is, that the shameful members of his father were made naked, he told his two brethren withoutforth.

<sup>26</sup> And Noah said, Blessed be the Lord God of Shem, and Canaan be the servant of Shem;

CHAPTER 10

<sup>9</sup> and he was a strong hunter, or oppressor, of men before the Lord; of him a proverb went out, As Nimrod, a strong hunter before the Lord.

<sup>19</sup> And the terms of Canaan were made to men coming from Sidon to Gerar, till to Gaza, till thou enter into Sodom, and Gomorrah, and Admah, and Zeboiim, till to Lasha.

<sup>21</sup> Also of Shem were born the fathers of all the sons of Eber, and Japheth was the more, or elder, brother of Shem[or Shem was the more or elder brother of Japheth].

* CHAPTER 9:24 Most modern translations and Bible dictionaries refer to Ham as Noah's youngest son, though he is second in all the lists in the Bible. The KJV, like the "Wycliffe Bible" (both versions), uses 'younger' in this verse.

<sup>25</sup> And two sons were born to Eber, the name to the one son was Peleg, for the land was parted in his days; and the name of his brother was Joktan.

CHAPTER 11

<sup>3</sup> And one said to his neighbour, Come ye, and make we tilestones, and bake we those [or them] with fire; and they had tile for stones, and pitch, either strong glue, for mortar;

<sup>4</sup> and they said, Come ye, and make we to us a city and a tower, whose highness stretch till to heaven; and make we solemn our name, before that we be parted into all lands.

<sup>6</sup> And he said, Lo! the people is one, and one language is to all, and they have begun to make this; neither they shall cease of their thoughts, till they [ful] fill those [or them] in work;

<sup>7</sup> therefore come ye, go we down, and shame [or confound] we there the tongue of them, that each man hear not the voice of his neighbour.

<sup>9</sup> And therefore the name thereof was called Babel, for the language of all [the] earth was confounded there; and from thence the Lord scattered them on the face of all countries.

<sup>31</sup> And so Terah took Abram, his son, and Lot, the son of Haran, his son, and Sarai, his daughter-in-law, the wife of Abram, his son, and led them out of Ur of Chaldees, that they should go into the land of Canaan; and they came unto Haran, and dwelled there.

<sup>32</sup> And the days of Terah were made two hundred years and five, and he was dead in Haran.

CHAPTER 12

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth the Lord said to Abram, Go thou out of thy land, and of thy kindred, and of the house of thy father, and come thou into the land which I shall show to thee;

<sup>2</sup> and I shall make thee into a great folk, and I shall bless thee, and I shall magnify thy name, and thou shalt be blessed;

<sup>3</sup> I shall bless them that bless thee, and I shall curse them that curse thee; and all kindreds of [the] earth shall be blessed in thee.

<sup>4</sup> And so Abram went out, as the Lord commanded him, and Lot went with him. Abram was five and seventy years when he went out of Haran.

<sup>5</sup> And he took Sarai, his wife, and Lot, the son of his brother, and all the substance which they had in possession, and the men which they had begotten in Haran; and they went out that they should go into the land of Canaan. And when they came into it, <sup>6</sup> Abram passed through the land till to the place of Shechem, and till to the noble valley. Forsooth Canaanite was then in the land.

<sup>7</sup> Soothly the Lord appeared to Abram, and said to him, I shall give this land to thy seed. And Abram built there an altar to the Lord, that appeared to him.

<sup>8</sup> And from thence he passed forth to the hill [or the mount of] Bethel, that was against the east, and setted there his tabernacle, having Bethel from the west, and Hai from the east. And he builded also there an altar to the Lord, and inwardly called his name.

* CHAPTER 11:26 God would later change Abram's name to Abraham.

<sup>10</sup> Soothly hunger was made in the land; and Abram went down into Egypt, to be a pilgrim there, for hunger had the mastery in the land.

<sup>11</sup> And when he was nigh to enter into Egypt, he said to Sarai, his wife, I know that thou art a fair woman,

<sup>12</sup> and that when Egyptians shall see thee, they shall say, It is his wife, and they shall slay me, and keep thee.

<sup>13</sup> Therefore, I beseech thee, say that thou art my sister, that it be well to me for thee, and that my life live for the love of thee.

<sup>14</sup> And so when Abram had entered into Egypt, Egyptians saw the woman, that she was full fair;

<sup>18</sup> And Pharaoh called Abram, and said to him, What is it that thou hast done to me? why showedest thou not to me that she was thy wife?

<sup>19</sup> for what cause saidest thou, that she was thy sister, that I should take her into wife to me? Now therefore lo! thy wife; take thou her, and go.

<sup>20</sup> And Pharaoh commanded to men on Abram, and they led forth him, and his wife, and all things that he had.

CHAPTER 13

<sup>3</sup> And he turned again by the way in which he came from the south into Bethel, till to the place, in which before he had set a tabernacle, betwixt Bethel and Hai,

<sup>5</sup> But also flocks of sheep, and droves of oxen, and tabernacles were to Lot, that was with Abram;

<sup>6</sup> and the land might not take them, that they should dwell together, for the cattle of them was much, and they might not dwell in common.

<sup>7</sup> Wherefore also strife was made betwixt the keepers of [the] flocks of Abram and of Lot. Forsooth Canaanites and Perizzites dwelled in that land in that time.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore Abram said to Lot, I beseech thee, that no strife be betwixt me and thee, and betwixt my shepherds and thy shepherds; for we be brethren.

<sup>10</sup> And so Lot raised [up] his eyes, and saw about all the country of Jordan, which was all-moisted, before that the Lord destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, as paradise of the Lord, and as Egypt, as men come into Zoar.

<sup>14</sup> And the Lord said to Abram, after that Lot was parted from him, Raise [up] thine eyes forthright, and see from the place in which thou art now, to the north and south, to the east and west;

<sup>16</sup> And I shall make thy seed as the dust of the earth; if any man may number the dust of the earth, also he shall be able to number thy seed.

<sup>18</sup> Therefore Abram, moving his tabernacle, came and dwelled beside the valley of Mamre, which is in Hebron; and he builded there an altar to the Lord.

CHAPTER 14

<sup>5</sup> Therefore Chedorlaomer came in the fourteenth year, and [the] kings that were with him, and they smited Rephaims in Ashteroth Karnaim, and Zuzims with them, and Emims in Shaveh Kiriathaim,

<sup>7</sup> And they turned again, and came till to the well of Mishpat; that is Kadesh. And they smited all the country of men of Amalek, and Amorites, that dwelled in Hazazontamar.

<sup>8</sup> And the king of Sodom, and the king of Gomorrah, and the king of Admah, and the king of Zeboiim, also and the king of Bela, which is Zoar, went out, and [they] dressed battle array against them in the valley of wood,

<sup>12</sup> also and they took away Lot and his chattel [or substance], the son of the brother of Abram, which Lot dwelled in Sodom.

<sup>14</sup> And when Abram had heard this thing, that is, Lot, the son of his brother, was taken, he numbered his born servants made ready, three hundred and eighteen, and pursued them till to Dan.

<sup>16</sup> And he brought again all the chattel [or substance], and Lot, the son of his brother, with his chattel [or substance], also women, and the people.

<sup>17</sup> Soothly the king of Sodom went out into the meeting of him, after that he turned again from [the] slaying of Chedorlaomer, and of the kings that were with him, in the valley of Shaveh, which is the valley of the king.

<sup>19</sup> and he blessed Abram, and said, Blessed be Abram of [the] high God, that made heaven and earth of nought,

<sup>23</sup> that from the thread of [the] woof till to the lanyard of the hose, I shall not take anything of all things that be thine, lest thou say, I [have] made Abram rich;

CHAPTER 15

<sup>1</sup> And so when these things were done, the word of the Lord was made to Abram by a vision, and said, Abram, do not thou dread, I am thy defender, and thy meed is full great.

<sup>2</sup> And Abram said, Lord God, what shalt thou give to me? I shall go without free children, and this Damascus, son of Eliezer, the procurator of mine house, shall be mine heir.

<sup>4</sup> And anon the word of the Lord was made to him, and said, This shall not be thine heir, but thou shalt have him heir, that shall go out of thy womb.

<sup>5</sup> And the Lord led out Abram, and said to him, Behold thou heaven, and number the stars, if thou mayest. And the Lord said to Abram, So thy seed shall be.

<sup>7</sup> And God said to him, I am the Lord, that led thee out of Ur of Chaldees, that I should give this land to thee, and thou shouldest have it in possession.

<sup>9</sup> And the Lord answered, and said, Take thou to me a cow of three years, and a goat of three years, and a ram of three years, and a turtledove, and a culver.

<sup>10</sup> Which took all these things, and parted those [or them] by the midst [or the middle], and setted [or put] ever either part each against other; but he parted not the birds.

<sup>13</sup> And it was said to him, Know thou a before-knowing, that thy seed shall be [a] pilgrim four hundred years in a land not his own, and they shall make them subject to servage, and they shall torment them;

<sup>17</sup> Therefore when the sun was gone down, a dark mist was made, and a furnace smoking appeared, and a lamp of fire, and passed through those partings.

<sup>18</sup> In that day the Lord made a covenant of peace with Abram, and said, I shall give to thy seed this land, from the river of Egypt till to the great river Euphrates;

CHAPTER 16

<sup>2</sup> and Sarai said to her husband, Lo! the Lord hath closed me, that I should not bear child; enter thou [in] to my servantess, if in hap I shall take children, namely of her. And when he assented to her praying,

<sup>5</sup> And Sarai said to Abram, Thou doest wickedly against me; I gave my servantess into thy bosom, which seeth that she [hath] conceived, and despiseth me; the Lord deem betwixt me and thee.

<sup>9</sup> And the angel of the Lord said to her, Turn thou again to thy lady, and be thou meeked under her hands.

<sup>10</sup> And again he said, I multiplying shall multiply thy seed, and it shall not be numbered for multitude.

<sup>11</sup> And afterward he said, Lo! thou hast conceived, and thou shalt bear a son, and thou shalt call his name Ishmael, for the Lord hath heard thy torment;

<sup>12</sup> this shall be a wild man; his hand shall be against all men, and the hands of all men shall be against him; and he shall set his tabernacles even against all his brethren.

<sup>13</sup> Forsooth Hagar called the name of the Lord that spake to her, Thou God that sawest me; for she said, Forsooth here I saw the hinder things of him that saw me.

CHAPTER 17

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth after that Abram began to be of ninety years and nine, the Lord appeared to him, and said to him, I am Almighty God; go thou before me, and be thou perfect;

<sup>4</sup> I am, and my covenant of peace is with thee, and thou shalt be the father of many folks;

<sup>5</sup> and thy name shall no more be called Abram, but thou shalt be called Abraham, for I have made thee [the] father of many folks;

<sup>6</sup> and I shall make thee to wax full greatly, and I shall set thee in folks, and kings shall go out of thee;

<sup>7</sup> and I shall make my covenant between me and thee, and between thy seed after thee, in their generations, by everlasting bond of peace, that I be thy God, and of thy seed after thee;

<sup>8</sup> and I shall give to thee, and to thy seed after thee, the land of thy pilgrimage, all the land of Canaan, into everlasting possession, and I shall be the God of them.

<sup>10</sup> This is my covenant, which ye shall keep, betwixt me and you, and thy seed after thee; each male kind of you shall be circumcised,

<sup>11</sup> and ye shall circumcise the flesh of your man's rod, that it be into a sign of bond of peace betwixt me and you.

<sup>12</sup> A young child of eight days shall be circumcised in you, all male kind in your generations, as well a born servant [of your household], as a servant bought, shall be circumcised,

<sup>16</sup> and I shall bless her, and of her I shall give to thee a son, whom I shall bless, and he shall be into nations, and kings of peoples shall be born of him.

<sup>19</sup> And the Lord said to Abraham, Sarah, thy wife, shall bear a son to thee, and thou shalt call his name Isaac, and I shall make my covenant with him into everlasting bond of peace, and to his seed after him;

<sup>20</sup> also on Ishmael I have heard thee, lo! I shall bless him, and I shall increase him, and I shall multiply him greatly; he shall engender twelve dukes, and I shall make him into a great folk.

<sup>23</sup> Forsooth Abraham took Ishmael, his son, and all the born servants of his house, and all which he had bought, all the males of all men of his house, and circumcised the flesh of their rods, anon in that day, as the Lord commanded to him.

CHAPTER 18

<sup>2</sup> And when Abraham had raised up his eyes, three men appeared to him, and stood nigh [to] him. And when he had seen them, he ran from the door of his tabernacle into the meeting of them, and he worshipped on [the] earth,

<sup>5</sup> and I shall set before you a morsel of bread, and your heart be comforted; afterward ye shall pass [forth]; for therefore be ye bowed aside to your servant. Which said, Do thou as thou hast spoken.

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth he ran to the drove of beasts, and took thereof a calf most tender and best, and gave to a servant, which hasted, and seethed the calf;

<sup>8</sup> and he took butter, and milk, and the calf which he had sodden, and set before them; forsooth Abraham stood beside them under the tree. And when they had eaten,

<sup>10</sup> To whom the Lord said, I shall turn again, and I shall come to thee in this time, if I live; and Sarah, thy wife, shall have a son. When this was heard, Sarah laughed behind the door of the tabernacle.

<sup>12</sup> And she laughed, saying privily, After that I waxed eld [or old], and my lord is eld [or old], shall I give diligence [or busyness] to lust?

<sup>14</sup> whether anything is hard to God? By the promise I shall turn again to thee in this same time, if I live; and Sarah shall have a son.

<sup>15</sup> Sarah was afeared for dread, and denied, saying, I laughed not. Forsooth the Lord said, It is not so, but thou laughedest.

<sup>18</sup> since he shall be into a great folk and most strong, and all nations of [the] earth shall be blessed in him?

<sup>19</sup> For I know that Abraham shall command his children, and his house after him, that they keep the way of the Lord, and that they do rightfulness [or rightwiseness] and doom, that the Lord bring for Abraham all things which he spake to Abraham.

<sup>20</sup> And so the Lord said, The cry of men of Sodom and of men of Gomorrah is multiplied, and their sin is egregious greatly;

<sup>21</sup> I shall come down, and see whether they have [ful] filled in work the cry that came to me, that I know whether it is not so.

<sup>24</sup> if fifty just [or rightwise] men be in the city, shall they perish altogether, and shalt thou not spare that place for fifty just [or rightwise] men, if they be therein?

<sup>25</sup> Far be it from thee that thou do this thing, and slay the just [or rightwise] with the wicked, and that a just [or rightwise] man be made as a wicked man; this is not thine that deemest all [the] earth; thou shalt not make this doom.

<sup>26</sup> And the Lord said to him, If I shall find in Sodom fifty just [or rightwise] men in the midst of the city, I shall forgive to all the place for them.

<sup>27</sup> Abraham answered and said, For I began once, I shall speak to my Lord, since I am dust and ashes;

<sup>28</sup> what if less than fifty just [or rightwise] men by five be, shalt thou do away all the city for five and forty? And the Lord said, I shall not do away, if I shall find five and forty there.

<sup>29</sup> And again Abraham said to him, But if forty be there, what shalt thou do? The Lord said, I shall not smite for forty.

<sup>30</sup> Abraham said, Lord, I beseech, take thou not into indignation, if I speak; what if thirty be found there? The Lord answered, I shall not do, if I shall find thirty there.

<sup>31</sup> Abraham said, For I began once, I shall speak to my Lord; what if twenty be found there? The Lord said, I shall not slay for twenty.

<sup>32</sup> Abraham said, Lord, I beseech, be thou not wroth, if I speak yet once more; what if ten be found there? The Lord said, I shall not do away for ten.

<sup>33</sup> The Lord went forth, after that he [had] ceased to speak to Abraham, and Abraham turned again into his place.

CHAPTER 19

<sup>1</sup> And twain angels came to Sodom in the eventide, while Lot sat in the gates of the city. And when he had seen them, he rose, and went to meet them, and worshipped or honoured low to the earth,

<sup>2</sup> and said, My lords, I beseech, bow ye [down] into the house of your servant, and dwell ye there; wash ye your feet, and in the morrowtide ye shall go into your way. Which said, Nay, but we shall dwell in the street.

<sup>3</sup> He constrained them greatly, that they should turn in to him. And when they entered into his house, he made a feast, and baked therf bread, and they ate.

<sup>5</sup> and they called Lot, and said to him, Where be the men that entered to thee tonight? bring them out hither; that we know them, that is, by lechery against kind.

<sup>8</sup> I have two daughters, that knew not yet a man; I shall lead out them to you, and mis-use ye them as it pleaseth you, so that ye do none evil to these men, for they entered under the shadow of my roof.

<sup>9</sup> And they said, Go thou from hence. And again they said, Thou enteredest [in] hither as a comeling; whether that thou shalt deem us? therefore we shall torment thee more than these. And they did violently to Lot full greatly. Then it was nigh that they would break the doors;

<sup>11</sup> And they smote with blindness they that were withoutforth, from the least till to the most; so that they might not find the door.

<sup>12</sup> Forsooth they said to Lot, Hast thou here any man of thine, husband of thy daughter, or sons, or daughters; if so, lead thou out of this city all men that be thine,

<sup>14</sup> And Lot went out, and spake to the husbands to be of his daughters, that should take his daughters, and said, Rise ye, and go ye out of this place; for the Lord shall do away this city. And he was seen to them to speak as playing.

<sup>15</sup> And when the morrowtide was, the angels constrained Lot, and said, Rise thou, and take thy wife, and thy two daughters, which thou hast, lest also thou perish altogether in the sin of the city.

<sup>16</sup> While he dissembled, they took his hand, and the hand of his wife, and of his two daughters; for the Lord spared him. And they led out him, and set *[or put]*him without the city.

<sup>17</sup> There they spake to him, and said, Save thou thy life; do not thou behold behind thy back, neither stand thou in all the country about, but make thee safe in the hills; lest also thou perish altogether.

<sup>19</sup> for thy servant hath found grace before thee, and thou hast magnified thy grace and mercy, which thou hast done to me, that thou shouldest save my life; I may not be saved in the hills, lest peradventure evil overtake me, and I die;

<sup>20</sup> a little city is here beside, to which I may flee, and I shall be safe therein; whether it is not such a little city? and my soul shall live therein.

<sup>21</sup> And he said to Lot, Lo! also in this I have received thy prayers, that I destroy not the city, for which thou hast spoken;

<sup>22</sup> haste thee, and be thou saved there, for I may not do anything till thou enter [in] thither. Therefore the name of that city was called Zoar.

<sup>25</sup> and destroyed these cities, and all the country about; he destroyed all the dwellers of those cities, and all green things of [the] earth.

<sup>28</sup> beheld Sodom and Gomorrah, and all the land of that country; and he saw a dead spark going up from the earth, as the smoke of a furnace.

<sup>29</sup> For when God destroyed the cities of that country, he had mind of Abraham, and delivered Lot from [the] destroying of the cities in which he dwelled.

<sup>30</sup> And Lot went up from Zoar, and dwelled in the hills, and his two daughters with him, for he dreaded to dwell in Zoar; and he dwelled in a den, he and his two daughters with him.

<sup>31</sup> And the more daughter said to the less, Our father is eld [or old], and no man is left on earth that may enter [in] to us, by the custom of all earth;

<sup>32</sup> come thou, make we him drunken of wine, and sleep we with him, that we may keep the seed of our father.

<sup>33</sup> And so they gave to their father to drink wine in that night, and the more, or the elder, daughter entered, and slept with her father; and he feeled not, neither when the daughter lay down, neither when she [a] rose.

<sup>34</sup> And the tother day the more daughter said to the less, or the younger, Lo! I slept yesterday with my father; give we to him to drink wine also in this night; and thou sleep with him, that we save the seed of our father.

<sup>35</sup> And they gave to their father also in that night to drink wine, and the less daughter entered, and slept with him; and soothly he feeled not then when she lay down, neither when she [a] rose.

<sup>37</sup> And the more daughter childed a son, and called his name Moab; he is the father of men of Moab unto this present day.

<sup>38</sup> And the less daughter childed a son, and called his name Benammi, that is, The son of my people; he is the father of men of Ammon till to [this] day.

CHAPTER 20

<sup>3</sup> Soothly God came to Abimelech by a sweven in the night, and said to him, Lo! thou shalt die, for the woman which thou hast taken, for she hath an husband.

<sup>5</sup> Whether he said not to me, She is my sister, and she said, He is my brother? In the simpleness of mine heart, and in the cleanness of mine hands, I did this.

<sup>6</sup> And the Lord said to him, And I know that thou didest by simple heart, and therefore I kept thee, lest thou didest sin against me, and I suffered not that thou touchedest her;

<sup>7</sup> now therefore yield thou the wife to her husband, for he is a prophet; and he shall pray for thee, and thou shalt live; soothly if thou wilt not yield her, know thou that thou shalt die by death, thou, and all things that be thine.

<sup>8</sup> And at once Abimelech rose by night, and called all his servants, and spake all these words in the ears of them; and all men dreaded greatly.

<sup>9</sup> Soothly Abimelech called also Abraham, and said to him, What hast thou done to us? what sinned we against thee, that thou hast brought in on me and on my realm such a great sin? thou hast done to us which things thou oughtest not to do.

<sup>11</sup> Abraham answered, I thought within me, and said, In hap the dread of God is not in this place; and they shall slay me for my wife;

<sup>12</sup> in other manner forsooth and she is my sister verily, the daughter of my father, and not the daughter of my mother; and I wedded her into wife;

<sup>13</sup> soothly after that God led me out of the house of my father, I said to her, Thou shalt do this mercy with me in each place to which we shall enter; thou shalt say, that I am thy brother.

<sup>16</sup> Forsooth Abimelech said to Sarah, Lo! I gave a thousand pieces of silver to thy brother; this shall be to thee into a covering of eyes, to all men that be with thee; and whither ever thou goest, have thou mind that thou art taken.

<sup>7</sup> And again she said, Who should hear, and believe to Abraham, that Sarah should give sucking to a son, whom she childed to him, when he is now an eld [or old] man?

<sup>12</sup> and God said to him, Be it not seen sharp to thee on the child, and on thine handmaid; all things which Sarah saith to thee, hear thou her voice, for in Isaac seed shall be called to thee;

<sup>14</sup> And so Abraham rose early, and took bread, and a bottle of water, and put it on Hagar's shoulder, and he betook to her the child*, and let go her; and when she had gone, she went out of the way in the wilderness of Beersheba.

<sup>15</sup> And when the water in the bottle was ended, she cast away the child under a tree that was there;

<sup>16</sup> and she went away, and she sat even against, as far as a bow may cast; for she said, I shall not see the child dying; and she sat against, and raised [up] her voice, and wept.

<sup>19</sup> And God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water, and she went, and filled the bottle, and she gave drink to the child;

<sup>22</sup> In the same time, Abimelech, and Phicol, prince of his host, said to Abraham, God is with thee in all things that thou doest;

<sup>23</sup> therefore swear thou by God that thou harm not me, and mine heirs, and my kindred; but by the mercy which I did to thee, do thou to me, and to the land in which thou livedest as a comeling.

<sup>26</sup> And Abimelech answered, I wist not who did this thing, but also thou showedest not to me, and I heard not except today.

<sup>30</sup> And he said, Thou shalt take of mine hand seven ewe lambs, that those [or they] be into witnessing to me, for I digged this well.

<sup>32</sup> and they made bond of peace for the well of an oath. Forsooth Abimelech rose, and Phicol, the prince of his chivalry, and they turned again into the land of Palestines.

CHAPTER 22

<sup>1</sup> And after that these things were done, God assayed Abraham, and said to him, Abraham! Abraham! He answered, I am present.

<sup>2</sup> God said to him, Take thine one begotten son, whom thou lovest, Isaac; and go into the land of vision, and offer thou him there into burnt sacrifice on one of the hills which I shall show to thee.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore Abraham rose by night, and saddled his ass, and led with him two young men, and Isaac his son; and when he had hewn trees into burnt sacrifice, he went to the place which God had commanded to him.

<sup>5</sup> and he said to his young men, Abide ye here with the ass, I and the child* shall go thither; and after that we have worshipped, we shall turn again to you.

<sup>6</sup> And he took the wood of burnt sacrifice, and laid it on Isaac his son; forsooth he bare fire, and a sword in his hands. And when they twain [or two] went together, <sup>7</sup> Isaac said to his father, My father! And he answered, What wilt thou, son? He said, Lo! fire and wood, where is the beast of burnt sacrifice?

<sup>8</sup> Abraham said, My son, God shall purvey to him the beast of burnt sacrifice. Therefore they went together, <sup>9</sup> and came to the place which God had showed to him; in which place Abraham builded an altar, and dressed [the] wood above; and when he had bound altogether Isaac, his son, he laid Isaac on the altar, upon the heap of wood.

<sup>12</sup> And the angel said to him, Hold thou not forth thine hand on the child, neither do thou anything of harm to him; now I know that thou darest God, and sparedest not thine one begotten son for me.

* CHAPTER 22:5 According to Jewish tradition, Isaac was probably 25 years old at this time (Gehman/Josephus).

<sup>14</sup> And he called the name of that place The Lord seeth; wherefore it is said, till to this day, The Lord shall see in the hill.

<sup>16</sup> and said, The Lord saith, I have sworn by myself, for thou hast done this thing, and hast not spared thine one begotten son for me,

<sup>17</sup> I shall bless thee, and I shall multiply thy seed as the stars of heaven, and as the gravel, either sand, which is in the brink of the sea; thy seed shall wield the gates of his enemies;

<sup>20</sup> And so when these things were done, it was told to Abraham that also Milcah had borne sons to Nahor his brother;

<sup>2</sup> and died in the city of Arba, which is Hebron, in the land of Canaan; and Abraham came to bewail and bewEEP her.

<sup>3</sup> And when he had risen from the office of the dead body, he spake to the sons of Heth, and said,

<sup>6</sup> Lord, hear thou us; thou art the prince of God with us; bury thou thy dead body in our chosen sepulchres, and no man shall be able to forbid thee, that not thou bury thy dead body in the sepulchre of him.

<sup>8</sup> And he said to them, If it pleaseth your soul that I bury my dead body, hear ye me, and pray ye for me to Ephron, the son of Zohar, <sup>9</sup> that he give to me the double cave, which he hath in the uttermost part of his field; for sufficient money give he it to me before you into possession of [a] sepulchre.

<sup>10</sup> Forsooth Ephron dwelled in the midst of the sons of Heth. And Ephron answered to Abraham, while all men heard that entered by the gate of that city, and said,

<sup>11</sup> My lord, it shall not be done so, but more hearken thou to that that I say; I give to thee the field, and the cave which is therein, while the sons of my people be present; bury thou thy dead body.

<sup>13</sup> and he spake to Ephron, while his people stood about, I beseech, that thou hear me; I shall give money for the field, receive thou it, and so I shall bury my dead body in the field.

<sup>15</sup> My lord, hear thou me; the land which thou askest for is worth four hundred shekels of silver, that is the price betwixt me and thee; but how much is this? bury thou thy dead body.

<sup>16</sup> And when Abraham had heard this, he numbered out the money which Ephron asked for, while the sons of Heth heard, four hundred shekels of silver, and of proved common money.

<sup>17</sup> And the field that was sometime of Ephron, in which field was a double den, beholding to Mamre, as well that field, as the den, and all the trees thereof, in all the terms thereof by compass,

<sup>20</sup> And the field, and the den that was therein, was confirmed of the sons of Heth to Abraham, into possession of a sepulchre.

CHAPTER 24

<sup>2</sup> And he said to the elder servant of his house, that was sovereign on all things that he had, Put thou thine hand under mine hip,

<sup>3</sup> that I conjure or adjure thee by the Lord God of heaven and of earth, that thou take not a wife to my son of the daughters of Canaan, among which I dwell;

<sup>4</sup> but that thou go to my land and kindred, and thereof take a wife to my son Isaac.

<sup>5</sup> The servant answered, If the woman will not come with me into this land, whether I owe to lead again thy son to the place, from which thou wentest out?

<sup>7</sup> the Lord God of heaven that took me from the house of my father, and from the land of my birth, which spake to me, and swore, and said, I shall give this land to thy seed, he shall send his angel before thee, and thou shalt take from thence a wife to my son;

<sup>10</sup> And he took ten camels of the flock of his lord, and went forth, and bare with him of all the goods of his lord; and he went forth, and came to Mesopotamia, to the city of Nahor.

<sup>11</sup> And when he had made the camels to rest without the city, beside a pit or well of water, in the eventide, in that time in which women be wont to go out to draw water,

<sup>14</sup> therefore the damsel to which I shall say, Bow down thy water pot that I drink, and [she] shall answer, Drink thou, but also I shall give drink to thy camels, that it is which thou hast made ready to thy servant Isaac; and by this I shall understand that thou hast done mercy to my lord Abraham.

<sup>15</sup> And he had not yet [full]-filled the words within himself, and lo! Rebecca, the daughter of Bethuel, son of Milcah, wife of Nahor, brother of Abraham, went out, having a water pot in her shoulder;

<sup>19</sup> And when he had drunk, she said, But also I shall draw water to thy camels, till all have drunk.

<sup>22</sup> Therefore after that the camels had drunk, the man brought forth golden earrings, weighing two shekels, and as many bands of the arm, in the weight of ten shekels.

<sup>23</sup> And he said to her, Whose daughter art thou? show thou to me, is [there] any place in the house of thy father to dwell in?

<sup>27</sup> and said, Blessed be the Lord God of my lord Abraham, which took not away his mercy and truth from my lord, and led me by the right way, into the house of the brother of my lord.

<sup>28</sup> And so the damsel ran, and told in the house of her mother all things which she had heard.

<sup>30</sup> And when he had seen the earrings, and bands of the arm in the hands of his sister, and had heard all the words of her, telling, The man spake to me these things, he came to the man that stood beside the camels, and nigh the well of water,

<sup>31</sup> and said to him, Enter thou, the blessed of the Lord; why standest thou withoutforth? I have made ready the house, and a place to thy camels.

<sup>32</sup> And he brought him into the inn, and unsaddled the camels, and gave provender, and hay, and water to wash the feet of the camels, and of men that came with him.

<sup>33</sup> And bread was set forth in his sight, the which said, I shall not eat till I speak my words. He answered to the man, Speak thou.

<sup>35</sup> and the Lord hath blessed my lord greatly, and he is made great; and God gave to him sheep, and oxen, silver, and gold, servants, and handmaids, and camels, and asses.

<sup>36</sup> And Sarah, my lord's wife, childed a son to my lord in his eld age, and Abraham, my lord, hath given all things that he had to that son.

<sup>37</sup> And my lord charged me greatly, and said, Thou shalt not take to my son a wife of the daughters of Canaan, in whose land I dwell, <sup>38</sup> but thou shalt go to the house of my father, and of my kindred thou shalt take a wife to my son.

<sup>40</sup> He said, The Lord, in whose sight I go, shall send his angel with thee, and shall dress thy way; and thou shalt take a wife to my son of my kindred, and of my father's house.

<sup>42</sup> Therefore I came today to the well of water, and said, Lord God of my lord Abraham, if thou hast dressed my way in which I go now,

<sup>44</sup> and she say to me, And thou drink, and I shall draw water to thy camels, that is the woman which the Lord hath made ready to the son of my lord.

<sup>45</sup> While I turned in thought these things with me, Rebecca appeared, coming with a pot which she bare in her shoulder; and she went down to the well, and drew water. And I said to her, Give thou a little to me to drink;

<sup>46</sup> and she hasted, and did down the pot off the shoulder, and said to me, And thou drink, and I shall give drink to thy camels; I drank, and she watered the camels.

<sup>47</sup> And I asked her, and said, Whose daughter art thou? Which answered, I am the daughter of Bethuel, the son of Nahor, whom Milcah childed to him. And so I hanged earrings to adorn her face, and I put bands of the arm in her hands, <sup>48</sup> and low-like I worshipped the Lord, and I blessed the Lord God of my lord Abraham, which God led me by the right way, that I should take the daughter of the brother of my lord to his son.

<sup>52</sup> And when the servant of Abraham had heard this, he felled down, and worshipped the Lord in earth.

<sup>53</sup> And when vessels of silver, and of gold, and clothes were brought forth, he gave those to Rebecca for a gift, and he gave gifts to her brethren, and mother.

<sup>54</sup> And when a feast was made, they ate and drank together, and dwelled there. Forsooth the servant rose early, and said, Deliver ye me, that I go to my lord.

<sup>56</sup> The servant said, Do not ye hold me, for the Lord hath dressed my way; deliver ye me, that I go to my lord.

<sup>58</sup> And when she was called, and came, they asked her, Wilt thou go with this man? And she said, I shall go.

<sup>61</sup> Therefore Rebecca and her damsels ascended [or went up] on the camels, and pursued [or followed] the man, which turned again hastily to his lord.

<sup>62</sup> In that time Isaac walked by the way that leadeth to the pit or well, whose name is of him that liveth and seeth; for he dwelled in the south land.

<sup>63</sup> And he went out to think in the field, for the day was bowed [down] then; and when he had raised [up] his eyes, he saw camels coming from afar.

<sup>65</sup> and said to the servant, Who is that man that cometh by the field into the meeting of us? And the servant said to her, It is my lord. And she took soon a mantle, and covered herself.

<sup>8</sup> and he failed, and died in [a] good eld age, and of great age, and full of days, and he was gathered to his people.

<sup>16</sup> These were the sons of Ishmael, and these were the names by castles, and towns of them, [the] twelve princes of their lineages.

<sup>17</sup> And the years of [the] life of Ishmael were made an hundred and seven and thirty years, and he failed, and died, and was put to his people.

<sup>22</sup> But the little children were hurtled together in her womb; and she said, If it was so to coming [or to come] to me, what need was it to conceive? And she went to ask counsel of the Lord, <sup>23</sup> which answered, and said, Two folks be in thy womb, and two peoples shall be separated from thy womb, and one people shall overturn a people, and the more shall serve the less.

<sup>26</sup> Anon the other went out, and held with his hand the heel of his brother; and therefore he called him Jacob*. Isaac was sixty years eld, when the little children were born.

<sup>27</sup> And when they were waxen, Esau was a man knowing of hunting, and a man an earth-tiller; forsooth Jacob was a simple man, and dwelled in tabernacles.

<sup>30</sup> he said to Jacob, Give thou to me of this red seething, for I am full weary; for which cause his name was called Edom or Red.

<sup>34</sup> And so when he had taken bread and pottage, Esau ate and drank, and went forth, and charged or cared little that he had sold the rights of the first begotten child.

CHAPTER 26

<sup>2</sup> And the Lord appeared to him, and said, Go not down into Egypt, but rest thou in the land which I shall say to thee,

<sup>3</sup> and be thou a pilgrim therein; and I shall be with thee, and I shall bless thee; for I shall give all these countries to thee, and to thy seed, and I shall [ful] fill the oath which I promised to Abraham, thy father.

<sup>4</sup> And I shall multiply thy seed as the stars of heaven, and I shall give all these countries to thine heirs, and all folks of the earth shall be blessed in thy seed, <sup>5</sup> for Abraham obeyed to my voice, and kept my behests, and my commandments, and my ceremonies, and my laws.

<sup>7</sup> And when he was asked of [the] men of that place of his wife, he answered, She is my sister; for he dreaded to acknowledge that she was fellowshipped to him in matrimony, and he guessed lest peradventure they would slay him for the fairness of her.

<sup>8</sup> And when full many days were passed, and he dwelled there, Abimelech, king of Palestines, beheld by a window, and saw him playing with Rebecca, his wife.

<sup>9</sup> And when Isaac was called, the king said, It is open, that she is thy wife; why saidest thou, that she was thy sister? Isaac answered, For I dreaded, lest I should die for her.

<sup>10</sup> And Abimelech said, Why hast thou deceived us? Some man of the people might do lechery with thy wife, and thou haddest brought in grievous sin on us.

* CHAPTER 25:26 The name sounds like the Hebrew for 'He who takes by the heel, or supplants'.

<sup>13</sup> And the man was made rich, and he went profiting and increasing, till he was made full great.

<sup>14</sup> Also he had possessions of sheep and of great beasts, and full much of menials. For this thing Palestines had envy to him,

<sup>15</sup> and they stopped in that time and filled with earth all the pits or wells which the servants of Abraham his father had digged,

<sup>18</sup> And he digged again other wells, which the servants of Abraham his father had digged, and which the Philistines had stopped sometime, when Abraham was dead; and he called those pits by the same names, by which his father had called before.

<sup>20</sup> But also strife of [the] shepherds of Gerar was there against the shepherds of Isaac, and they said, The water is ours; wherefore of that strife that befelled, Isaac called the name of that well False Challenge, or Esek, or Quarrel.

<sup>22</sup> And he went forth from thence, and digged another pit, for which they strived not, [and] therefore he called the name of that well Breadth, either Largeness; and said, Now God hath alarged us, and hath made us to increase on [the] earth.

<sup>24</sup> where the Lord appeared to him in that night; and said, I am [the] God of Abraham, thy father; do not thou dread, for I am with thee, and I shall bless thee, and I shall multiply thy seed for my servant Abraham.

<sup>25</sup> And so Isaac builded there an altar to the Lord; and when the name of the Lord was inwardly called, he stretched forth a tabernacle; and he commanded his servants that they should dig pits.

<sup>28</sup> Which answered, We saw that God is with thee, and therefore we said now, An oath be betwixt us, and make we a covenant of peace, <sup>29</sup> that thou do not any [thing of] evil to us, as we touched nothing of thine, neither did that that hurted thee, but with peace we let go thee increased by the blessings of the Lord.

<sup>32</sup> Lo! forsooth in that day the servants of Isaac came, telling to him of the pit which they had digged, and said, We have found water.

CHAPTER 27

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Isaac waxed eld [or old], and his eyes dimmed, and he might not see. And he called Esau, his more or older son, and said to him, My son! Which answered, I am present.

<sup>2</sup> To whom the father said, Thou seest that I have waxed eld, and I know not the day of my death*.

<sup>4</sup> make me a stew thereof, as thou knowest that I will or desire, and bring it to me that I eat, that my soul bless thee before that I die.

<sup>6</sup> she said to her son Jacob, I heard thy father speaking with Esau, thy brother, and saying to him,

<sup>7</sup> Bring thou to me of thine hunting, and make thou meats, that I eat, and that I bless thee before the Lord before that I die.

<sup>9</sup> and go to the flock, and bring to me twain [or two] of the best kids, that I make meats of those to thy father, which he shall eat gladly;

<sup>10</sup> and that when thou hast brought in those meats, and he hath eaten, he bless thee before that he die.

<sup>12</sup> if my father shall touch or draw me to him, and feel me, I dread lest he guess that I would scorn him, and he bring in cursing on me for blessing.

<sup>13</sup> To whom his mother said, My son, this cursing be in me; only hear thou my voice, and go, and bring that that I said.

<sup>14</sup> He went, and brought it, and gave it to his mother. She made ready meats, as she knew that his father would have,

<sup>18</sup> And when these were brought in, he said, My father! And he answered, I am here; who art thou, my son?

<sup>19</sup> And Jacob said, I am Esau, thy first begotten son. I have done to thee as thou commandedest to me; rise thou up, and sit, and eat of my venison, that thy soul bless me.

<sup>20</sup> Again Isaac said to his son, My son, how mightest thou find this venison so soon? Which answered, It was God's will, that this thing that I would, should come soon to me.

<sup>21</sup> And Isaac said, My son, come thou hither, that I touch thee, and that I prove whether thou be my son Esau, or nay.

* CHAPTER 26:34 She is also known as Oholibamah or Aholibamah. † CHAPTER 26:34 She is also known as Adah. * CHAPTER 27:2 Isaac would still be alive more than 20 years after this event(!).

<sup>22</sup> Jacob nighed to his father; and when Isaac had feelled him, he said, Soothly the voice is the voice of Jacob, but the hands be the hands of Esau.

<sup>25</sup> And Isaac said, My son, bring thou to me meats of thine hunting, that my soul bless thee. And when Isaac had eaten these meats brought, Jacob brought also wine to Isaac, and when this was drunken,

<sup>27</sup> Jacob nighed, and kissed him; and anon as Isaac feelled the odour of his clothes, he blessed him, and said, Lo! the odour of my son as the odour of a plenteous field which the Lord hath blessed.

<sup>28</sup> God give to thee of the dew of heaven, and of the fatness of [the] earth, abundance [or plenty] of wheat, and of wine, and of oil;

<sup>29</sup> and peoples serve thee, and lineages worship thee; be thou lord of thy brethren, and the sons of thy mother be bowed before thee; be he cursed that curseth thee, and he that blesseth thee, be he [full-]filled with blessings.

<sup>31</sup> and brought in meats sodden of the hunting to the father, and said, My father, rise thou, and eat of the hunting of thy son, that thy soul bless me.

<sup>33</sup> Isaac dreaded with a great aston-ishing; and he wondered more than it may be believed, and said, Who therefore is he which a while ago brought to me venison taken, and I ate of all things before that thou camest; and I blessed him? and he shall be blessed.

<sup>34</sup> When the words of the father were heard, Esau roared with a great cry, and was astonished, and said, My father, bless thou also me.

<sup>36</sup> And Esau added, Justly his name is called Jacob, for lo! he [hath] supplanted me another time; before he took away my first begotten things, and now the second time, he [hath] ravished privily my blessing. And again he said to the father, Whether thou hast not reserved a blessing also to me?

<sup>37</sup> Isaac answered, I have made him thy lord, and I have made subject all his brethren to his servage; I have stablished him in wheat, and wine, and oil; and so, my son, what shall I do to thee after these things?

<sup>38</sup> To whom Esau said, Father, whether thou hast only one blessing? I beseech thee, that also thou bless me. And when Esau wept with great yelling,

<sup>40</sup> thou shalt live by sword, and thou shalt serve thy brother; and time shall come when thou shalt shake away, and unbind his yoke from [off] thy nolls.

<sup>41</sup> Therefore Esau hated evermore Jacob for the blessing by which the father had blessed him; and Esau said in his heart, The days of mourning of my father shall come, and I shall slay Jacob, my brother.

<sup>42</sup> These things were told to Rebecca, and she sent, and called her son Jacob, and said to him, Lo! Esau, thy brother, menaceth [or threateneth] to slay thee;

<sup>45</sup> and till he forget those things which thou hast done against him. Afterward I shall send, and I shall bring thee from thence hither. Why shall I be made sonless of ever either son in one day?

<sup>46</sup> And Rebecca said to Isaac, It annoyeth or vexeth me of my life for the daughters of Heth; if Jacob take a wife of the kindred of this land, I will not live.

CHAPTER 28

<sup>1</sup> And so Isaac called Jacob, and blessed him, and commanded to him, and said, Do not thou take a wife of the kin of Canaan;

<sup>4</sup> and God give to thee the blessing of Abraham, and to thy seed after thee, that thou wield the land of thy pilgrimage, which he promised to thy grand-sire.

<sup>5</sup> And when Isaac had let go Jacob, he went forth, and came into Mesopotamia of Syria, to Laban, the son of Bethuel of Syria, the brother of Rebecca, his mother.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth Esau saw that his father had blessed Jacob, and had sent him into Mesopotamia of Syria, that he should wed a wife of thence, and that after the blessing he commanded to Jacob, and said, Thou shalt not take a wife of the daughters of Canaan;

<sup>11</sup> And when he had come to some place, and would rest therein after the going down of the sun, he took of the stones that lay there, and he put under his head, and slept in the same place.

<sup>12</sup> And he saw in [his] sleep a ladder standing on the earth, and the top thereof touching heaven; and he saw God's angels ascending or going up and going down thereby,

<sup>13</sup> and the Lord nighed to the ladder, saying to him, I am the Lord God of Abraham, thy father, and God of Isaac; I shall give to thee and to thy seed the land in which thou sleepest.

<sup>14</sup> And thy seed shall be as the dust of [the] earth, thou shalt be alarged to the east, and west, and to the north, and south; and all the lineages of [the] earth shall be blessed in thee and in thy seed.

<sup>15</sup> And I shall be thy keeper, whither ever thou shalt go; and I shall lead thee again into this land, and I shall not leave thee, no but I shall fulfill all [the] things which I have said.

<sup>17</sup> And he said dreading, How fearedful, or worshipful, is this place! Here is none other thing, no but the house of God, and the gate of heaven.

* CHAPTER 28:9 Mahalath is also called Bashemath, but she is a different person than Esau's 2nd wife, who was also called Bashemath(!).

<sup>20</sup> Also Jacob avowed a vow, and said, If God is with me, and keepeth me in the way in which I go, and giveth to me loaves to eat, and clothes to be clothed with,

<sup>21</sup> and I turn again in prosperity to the house of my father, the Lord shall be into God to me.

<sup>22</sup> And this stone, which I raised into a title, shall be called the house of God; and I shall offer tithes to thee of all things which thou shalt give to me.

CHAPTER 29

<sup>2</sup> and he saw a pit or well in the field, and three flocks of sheep resting beside it, for why sheep were watered thereof, and the mouth thereof was closed with a great stone.

<sup>3</sup> And the custom was that when all the sheep were gathered together, they should turn away the stone, and when the flocks were watered, they should put it again on the mouth of the pit.

<sup>5</sup> And he asked them and said, Whether ye know Laban, the son of Nahor? They said, We know him.

<sup>7</sup> And Jacob said, Yet much of the day is to come, and it is not time that the flocks be led again to the folds; soothly give ye drink to the sheep, and so lead ye them again to meat or feeding.

<sup>8</sup> Which answered, We may not till all the sheep be gathered together, and till we remove the stone from the mouth of the pit, to water the flocks.

<sup>10</sup> And when Jacob saw her, and knew her to be the daughter of his mother's brother, and the sheep to be of Laban his uncle, he removed the stone with which the pit was closed; and when the flock was watered,

<sup>12</sup> And Jacob showed to her that he was the brother of her father, and the son of Rebecca; and she hasted, and told to her father.

<sup>13</sup> And when he had heard, that Jacob, the son of his sister, came, he ran to meet him, and he embraced Jacob, and kissed him, and led him into his house. Forsooth when the causes of the journey were heard,

<sup>14</sup> Laban answered, Thou art my bone and my flesh. And after that the days of a month were filled,

<sup>21</sup> And at last he said to Laban, Give thou my wife to me, for the time is fulfilled that I enter [in] to her.

<sup>25</sup> And when Jacob had entered [in] to her by custom, when the morrow-tide was made, he saw Leah, and he said to his wife's father, What is it that thou wouldest do? whether I served not thee for Rachel? why hast thou deceived me?

<sup>27</sup> fulfill thou the week of days of this wedding, and I shall give to thee also this Rachel, for the work in which thou shalt serve me by other seven years.

<sup>32</sup> And Leah childed a son conceived, and she called his name Reuben, and said, The Lord hath seen my meek-ness; now mine husband shall love me.

<sup>33</sup> And again she conceived, and childed a son, and said, For the Lord saw that I was despised, he gave also this son to me; and she called his name Simeon.

<sup>34</sup> And she conceived the third time, and childed another son, and she said also, Now mine husband shall be coupled to me, for I have childed three sons to him; and therefore she called his name Levi.

<sup>35</sup> The fourth time she conceived, and childed a son, and said, Now I shall acknowledge to the Lord; and therefore she called his name Judah; and ceased to child.

CHAPTER 30

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Rachel saw, that she was unfruitful, and she had envy to her sister, and said to her husband, Give thou free children to me, else I shall die.

<sup>2</sup> To whom Jacob was wroth, and answered, Whether I am for God, which have deprived thee from the fruit of thy womb?

<sup>3</sup> And she said, I have an handmaid Bilhah; enter thou [in] to her that she child on my knees, and that I have sons of her.

<sup>6</sup> And Rachel said, The Lord hath deemed to me, and hath heard my prayer, and gave a son to me; and therefore she called his name Dan.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth Reuben went out into the field in the time of wheat harvest, and found mandrakes, which he brought to Leah, his mother. And Rachel said, Give thou to me a part of the mandrakes of thy son.

<sup>15</sup> Leah answered, Whether it seemeth little to thee, that thou hast ravished my husband from me, no but thou take also the mandrakes of my son? Rachel said, The husband sleep with thee in this night for the mandrakes of thy son.

<sup>16</sup> And when Jacob came again from the field at the eventide, Leah went out into his meeting, and said, Thou shalt enter [in] to me, for I have hired thee with hire for the mandrakes of my son. He slept with her in that night;

<sup>20</sup> and said, The Lord hath made me rich with a good dower; also in this time mine husband shall be with me, for I have engendered six sons to him; and therefore she called his name Zebulun.

<sup>25</sup> Soothly when Joseph was born, Jacob said to his wife's father, Deliver thou me, that I turn again to my country, and to my land.

<sup>26</sup> Give thou to me my wives, and my free children, for which I have served thee, that I go; forsooth thou knowest the service by which I have served thee.

<sup>30</sup> thou haddest little before that I came to thee, and now thou art made rich, and the Lord [hath] blessed thee at mine entering; therefore it is just that I purvey sometime also for mine house.

<sup>31</sup> And Laban said, What shall I give to thee? And Jacob said, I will or desire nothing, that is, of thy gift, but if thou doest that that I ask, again I shall feed and keep thy sheep.

<sup>32</sup> Go about all thy flocks, and separate thou all diversely-coloured sheep, and of spotted fleeces, and whatever thing shall be of dun hue, and spotted, and diverse of colour, as well in sheep as in goats; that shall be my meed.

<sup>33</sup> And my rightfulness [or rightwise-ness] shall answer to me tomorrow, when the time of covenant shall come before thee; and all that be not diverse, and spotted, and dunned, as well in sheep as in goats, be found at me thou shalt reprove me of theft.

<sup>35</sup> And Laban separated in that day [the] goats, and sheep, goat bucks, and rams, diverse and spotted. Soothly he betook all the flock of one colour, that is, of white, and of black fleece, into the hands of his sons;

<sup>37</sup> Therefore Jacob took green rods of poplars, and of almonds, and of planes, and in part he did away the rind of them; and when the rinds were drawn away, either shaved, whiteness appeared in these that were made bare; soothly those that were whole dwelled green, and by this manner the colour was made diverse.

<sup>39</sup> they should have the rods before their eyes, and they should conceive in [the] sight of the rods. And it was done that in that heat of riding, or engendering, the sheep should behold those rods, and that they should bring forth spotted beasts, and diverse, and besprinkled with diverse colour.

<sup>40</sup> And Jacob separated the flock, and put the rods in the [water] troughs, before the eyes of the rams. Soothly all the white and [the] black were Laban's; soothly all the others were Jacob's; for the flocks were separated betwixt themselves.

<sup>41</sup> Therefore when the sheep were ridden in the first time, Jacob put the rods in the water troughs before the eyes of rams, and of ewe sheep, that they should conceive in the sight of the rods.

<sup>42</sup> Forsooth when the late mixing, or engendering, and the last conceivings were, Jacob put not those rods; and those that were late engendered, were made Laban's, and those that were of the first time engendered, were Jacob's.

CHAPTER 31

<sup>1</sup> After that, Jacob heard the words of the sons of Laban, that said, Jacob hath taken away all things that were our father's, and of his chattel Jacob is made rich, and noble.

<sup>2</sup> Also Jacob perceived the face of Laban, that it was not against him as yesterday, and the third day ago,

<sup>5</sup> and he said to them, I see the face of your father, that it is not against me as yesterday, and the third day ago; but God of my father was with me.

<sup>7</sup> but and your father hath deceived me, and changed my meed ten times; and nevertheless God suffered not him to annoy me.

<sup>8</sup> If he said any time, Diversely-coloured sheep shall be thy meed, all the sheep brought forth diversely-coloured lambs; forsooth when he said, on the contrary, Thou shalt take all the white for thy meed, all the flocks brought forth white beasts;

<sup>10</sup> For after that the time of conceiving of sheep came, I raised [up] mine eyes, and saw in sleep males diverse, and spotty, and of diverse colours, going up on females.

<sup>11</sup> And the angel of the Lord said to me in sleep, Jacob! and I answered, I am ready.

<sup>12</sup> Which said, Raise [up] thine eyes, and see all [the] males that be diverse, [and] besprinkled, and spotty, going [up] on [the] females; for I have seen all things which Laban hath done to thee;

<sup>13</sup> I am God of Bethel, where thou anointedest a stone, and madest a vow to me. Now therefore rise thou, and go out of this land, and turn again into the land of thy birth.

<sup>16</sup> But God took away the riches of our father, and gave those [or them] to us, and to our sons; wherefore do thou all things which God hath commanded to thee.

<sup>21</sup> and when he had gone, as well he as all things that were of his right, and when he had passed [over] the water, and he went against the hill of Gilead,

<sup>25</sup> And then Jacob had stretched forth the tabernacle in the hill; and when Laban had pursued Jacob with his brethren, Laban set a tent in the same hill of Gilead;

<sup>26</sup> and he said to Jacob, Why hast thou done so, that the while I knew not, thou wouldest drive away my daughters as captives, either taken prisoners, by sword?

<sup>27</sup> Why wouldest thou flee the while I knew not, neither wouldest show to me, that I should pursue [or follow] thee with joy, and songs, and tympan, and harps?

<sup>29</sup> And now soothly mine hand may yield evil to thee, but the God of thy father said to me yesterday, Beware that thou speak not any hard thing with Jacob.

<sup>30</sup> Suppose, if thou covetedest to go to thy kinsmen, and the house of thy father was in desire to thee, why hast thou stolen my gods?

<sup>32</sup> soothly that thou reprovest me of theft, at whomever thou findest thy gods, be he slain before our brethren; seek thou, whatever thing of thine thou findest at me, and take it away. Jacob said these things, and knew not that Rachel had stolen the idols.

<sup>33</sup> And so Laban entered into the tabernacles of Jacob, and of Leah, and of ever either menial, and he found not; and when Laban had entered into the tent of Rachel,

<sup>35</sup> And she said to Laban, seeking throughout all the tent, and finding nothing, My lord, be not wroth that I may not rise before thee, for it befelled now to me by the custom of women; so the busyness of the seeker was scorned.

<sup>36</sup> And Jacob swelled, and said with strife, For what cause of me, and for what sin of me, hast thou come so fiercely after me,

<sup>41</sup> so I served thee by twenty years in thine house, fourteen years for thy daughters, and six years for thy flocks; and thou changedest my meed ten times.

<sup>42</sup> But if [the] God of my father Abraham, and the dread of Isaac had not helped me, peradventure now thou haddest left me naked; the Lord hath beheld my tormenting and the travail of mine hands, and reproveth thee yesterday.

<sup>43</sup> Laban answered to Jacob, The daughters, and the sons, and the flocks, and all things which thou seest, be mine; what may I do to my sons, and to the sons of my sons?

<sup>48</sup> And Laban said, This heap shall be witness betwixt me and thee today, and therefore the name thereof was called Galeed, that is, The heap of witness.

<sup>50</sup> if thou shalt torment my daughters, and if thou shalt bring in other wives on them, none is witness of our word, except God, which is present, and beholdeth.

<sup>51</sup> And again Laban said to Jacob, Lo! this heap, and the stone, or the pillar, which I have raised betwixt me and thee,

<sup>52</sup> shall be witnesses; soothly this heap, and the stone be into witnessing, forsooth if I shall pass it, and go to thee, either thou shalt pass it, and think to do evil to me.

<sup>53</sup> God of Abraham, and God of Nahor, [the] God of the father of them, deem betwixt us. Therefore Jacob swore by the dread of his father Isaac;

<sup>54</sup> and when slain sacrifices were offered in the hill, Jacob called his brethren to eat bread, and when they had eaten, they dwelled there.

CHAPTER 32

<sup>2</sup> And when he had seen them, he said, These be the castles of God; and he called the name of that place Mahanaim.

<sup>4</sup> and he commanded to them, and said, Thus speak ye to my lord Esau, Thy brother Jacob saith these things, I have been a pilgrim at Laban, and I was till into this present day;

<sup>5</sup> I have oxen, and asses, and sheep, and menservants, and handmaids, and I send now a message to my lord, that I find grace in thy sight.

<sup>6</sup> And the messengers turned again to Jacob, and said, We came to Esau, thy brother, and lo! he hasteth him into thy coming, with four hundred men.

<sup>7</sup> Jacob dreaded greatly, and he was afeared, and he parted the people that was with him, and he parted the flocks, and sheep, and oxen, and camels, into two companies;

<sup>8</sup> and he said, If Esau shall come to one company, and shall smite it, the other company which is left unsmitten, shall be saved.

<sup>9</sup> And Jacob said, O! God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac, O! Lord, that saidest to me, Turn thou again into thy land, and to the place of thy birth, and I shall do well to thee,

<sup>10</sup> I am less than all thy merciful doings, and than thy truth which thou hast [ful] filled to thy servant; with my staff I passed over this Jordan, and now I go again with two companies;

<sup>11</sup> deliver thou me from the hand of my brother Esau, for I dread him greatly, lest he come and smite or slay the mothers with the sons [or with the children].

<sup>12</sup> Thou spakest that thou shouldest do well to me, and wouldest alarge my seed as [the] gravel of the sea, that may not be numbered for muchliness.

<sup>13</sup> And when Jacob had slept there in that night, he separated of those things which he had as gifts to Esau, his brother,

<sup>17</sup> And he commanded to the former or first, and said, If thou shalt meet my brother Esau, and he shall ask thee, whose man thou art, or whither thou goest, or whose be these things which thou followest,

<sup>19</sup> In like manner, he gave command-ments to the second, and to the third, and to all that pursued [or followed] the flocks; and said, Speak ye by the same words to Esau, when ye find him,

<sup>20</sup> and ye shall add, Also Jacob himself thy servant pursueth [or followeth] our way. For Jacob said, I shall please Esau with gifts that go before, and afterward I shall see him; in hap he shall be merciful to me.

<sup>26</sup> And he said to Jacob, Let go thou me, for the morrowtide goeth up now. Jacob answered, I shall not let go thee, no but thou bless me.

<sup>28</sup> And the man said, Thy name shall no more be called Jacob, but Israel; for if thou were strong against God, how much more shalt thou have power against men.

<sup>29</sup> Jacob asked him, Say thou to me by what name thou art called? He answered, Why askest thou my name, which is wonderful? And he blessed Jacob in the same place.

<sup>30</sup> And Jacob called the name of that place Penuel, and said, I saw the Lord face to face, and my life is made safe.

CHAPTER 33

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Jacob raised up his eyes, and saw Esau coming, and four hundred men with him; and he parted the sons of Leah, and of Rachel, and of both the servantesses.

<sup>5</sup> And when Esau's eyes were raised up, he saw the women, and the little children of them, and said, What will these mean to themselves? and whether they pertain to thee? Jacob answered, They be the little children, which God hath given to me, thy servant.

<sup>8</sup> And Esau said, What be these companies, which I met? And Jacob answered, That I should find grace before my lord.

<sup>10</sup> And Jacob said, I beseech thee, do not thou so, but if I have found grace in thine eyes, take thou a little gift of mine hands; for I saw so thy face as if I had seen the cheer of God; be thou merciful to me,

<sup>11</sup> and receive the blessing which I have brought to thee, and which blessing God giving all things gave to me. Scarcely desiring it, while the brother compelled, he received,

<sup>13</sup> And Jacob said, My lord, thou knowest that I have little children tender, and sheep, and kine with calves with me, and if I shall make them for to travail more in going, all the flocks shall die in one day;

<sup>14</sup> my lord go before his servant, and I shall pursue [or follow] little and little his steps, as I see that my little children be able, till I come to my lord, into Seir.

<sup>15</sup> Esau answered, I pray thee, that of the people which is with me, dwell they namely fellows of thy way. Jacob said, It is no need; I have need to this one thing only, that I find grace in thy sight, my lord.

<sup>17</sup> And Jacob came into Succoth, where when he had builded an house, and had set tents, he called the name of that place Succoth, that is, taber-nacles.

<sup>18</sup> And Jacob passed into Shalem, a city of Shechem, which is in the land of Canaan, after that he turned again from Mesopotamia of Syria, and he dwelled beside the city.

CHAPTER 34

<sup>5</sup> And when Jacob had heard this thing, while his sons were absent, and occupied in the feeding or the pasturing of [the] sheep, he was still, till they came again.

<sup>7</sup> lo! his sons came from the field. And when this thing that befelled was heard, they were wroth greatly; for he had wrought a foul thing in Israel, and he had done a thing unleaveful in the defouling of the daughter of Jacob.

<sup>8</sup> And so Hamor spake to them, The soul of my son Shechem hath cleaved to your daughter; give ye her a wife to him,

<sup>11</sup> But also Shechem said to the father and brethren of her, Find I grace before you, and whatever things ye ordain I shall give;

<sup>12</sup> increase ye the dower, and ask ye for gifts, and I shall give willfully that that ye ask; only give ye this damsel a wife to me.

<sup>13</sup> The sons of Jacob answered in guile to Shechem and to Hamor, his father, and they were made fierce for the defouling of the maidenhood of their sister,

<sup>14</sup> We may not do this that ye ask, neither we may give our sister to a man uncircumcised, which thing is unleaveful and abominable with us.

<sup>15</sup> But in this we shall be able to be bound in peace, if ye will be like us, and each of male kind be circumcised in you;

<sup>16</sup> then we shall give and take together our daughters and yours; and we shall dwell with you, and we shall be one people.

<sup>19</sup> and the young waxing man delayed not, that not he fulfilled anon that that was asked; for he loved the damsel greatly, and he was the most noble in all the house of his father.

<sup>21</sup> These men be peaceable, and will dwell with us; make they merchandise in the land, and till they it, which is large and broad, and hath need to tillers; we shall take their daughters to wives, and we shall give our daughters to them.

<sup>23</sup> both their substance, and sheep, and all things which they wield, shall be ours; only assent we in this, that we dwell together, and make one people.

<sup>25</sup> And lo! in the third day, when the sorrow of [the] wounds was most grievous, two sons of Jacob, Simeon and Levi, [the] brethren of Dinah, took swords, and entered into the city boldly; and when all [the] males were slain,

<sup>28</sup> And they wasted the sheep of those men, and droves of oxen, and asses, and all things that were in the houses and fields,

<sup>29</sup> and led away as prisoners the little children, and [the] wives of those men. And when these things were done hardily,

<sup>30</sup> Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, Ye have troubled me, and have made me hateful to Canaanites and Perizzites, [the] dwellers of this land; we be few, [and] they shall be gathered together against me, and shall slay me, and I shall be done away, and mine house.

CHAPTER 35

<sup>1</sup> In the meantime the Lord spake to Jacob, Rise thou, and go up to Bethel, and dwell there; and make thou an altar to the Lord, that appeared to thee when thou fleddest Esau, thy brother.

<sup>2</sup> Soothly Jacob said, when all his house was called together, Cast ye away alien gods, that be in the midst of you, and be ye cleansed, and change ye your clothes;

<sup>3</sup> rise ye, and go we up into Bethel, that we make there an altar to the Lord, which heard me in the day of my tribulation, and was fellow of my way.

<sup>4</sup> Therefore they gave to Jacob all the alien gods which they had, and [the] earrings, that were in their ears; and Jacob delved them under a terebinth tree, which is behind the city of Shechem.

<sup>5</sup> And when they went forth, dread assailed all men by compass of the city, and they were not hardy to pursue them going away.

<sup>7</sup> And he builded there an altar to the Lord, and called the name of that place The house of God, for God appeared there to him, when he fled his brother.

<sup>8</sup> Deborah, the nurse of Rebecca, died in the same time, and she was buried at the root[s] of Bethel, under an oak, and the name of the place was called The Oak of Weeping.

<sup>10</sup> and said, Thou shalt no more be called Jacob, but Israel shall be thy name. And God called him Israel,

<sup>11</sup> and said to him, I am God Almighty; increase thou, and be thou multiplied, folks and peoples of nations shall be of thee, kings shall go out of thy loins;

<sup>16</sup> Soothly Jacob went out from thence, and he came in the beginning of summer to the land that leadeth to Ephratah; in which land when Rachel travailed in child bearing,

<sup>17</sup> she began to be in peril for the hardness of childbearing; and the mid-wife said to her, Do not thou dread, for thou shalt have also this son.

<sup>18</sup> Forsooth while the soul passed from her for sorrow, and death nighed then, she called the name of her son Benoni, that is, the son of my sorrow; forsooth his father called him Benjamin, that is, the son of the right side.

<sup>22</sup> And while he dwelled in that country, Reuben went, and slept with Bilhah, the secondary wife of his father, which thing was not hid from him. Forsooth the sons of Jacob were twelve;

<sup>26</sup> and the sons of Zilpah, [the] handmaid of Leah, were Gad, and Asher. These were the sons of Jacob, that were born to him in Mesopotamia of Syria.

<sup>29</sup> and he was wasted in age, and died, and he was put to his people, and was eld [or old], and full of days; and Esau and Jacob his sons buried him.

<sup>5</sup> Oholibamah childed Jeush, and Jaalam, and Korah. These were the sons of Esau, that were born to him in the land of Canaan.

<sup>6</sup> Soothly Esau took his wives, and his sons, and daughters, and each soul of his house, and his cattle, and sheep, and all things which he had in the land of Canaan, and went into another country, and departed from his brother Jacob;

<sup>14</sup> And these were the sons of Oholibamah, the daughter of Anah, son of Zibeon, Esau's wife, which she childed to him; Jeush, and Jaalam, and Korah.

* CHAPTER 36:2 Each of Esau's three wives were known by two names: Adah, also known as Bashemath; Judith, also known as Oholibamah or Aholibamah; and another Bashemath, also known as Mahalath.

<sup>17</sup> Also these were the sons of Reuel, Esau's son; duke Nahath, duke Zerah, duke Shammah, duke Mizzah; forsooth these dukes were of Reuel, in the land of Edom. These were the sons of Bashemath, Esau's wife.

<sup>35</sup> And when he was dead, Hadad, the son of Bedad, that smote Midian in the land of Moab, and the name of his city was Avith, reigned for him.

<sup>39</sup> And when he was dead, Hadar reigned for him, and the name of the city of Hadar was Pau, and the name of his wife was Mehetabel, the daughter of Matred, the daughter of Mezahab.

<sup>2</sup> and these were the generations of him. Joseph when he was of sixteen years, yet a child, kept a flock with his brethren, and he was with the sons of Bilhah and Zilpah, the wives of his father; and he accused his brethren at the father of the worst sin.

<sup>3</sup> Forsooth Israel loved Joseph above all his sons, for he had begotten him in his eld age; and he made to Joseph a coat of many colours.

<sup>4</sup> Forsooth his brethren saw that he was loved of the father more than all they, and they hated him, and might not speak anything peaceably to him.

<sup>7</sup> I guessed that we bound together sheaves, or handfuls, [in the field], and that as mine handful rose up, and stood upright, and that your handfuls stood about, and worshipped or honoured mine handful.

<sup>8</sup> His brethren answered, Whether thou shalt be our king, either we shall be made subject to thy lordship? Therefore this cause of dreams and words ministered the nourishing of envy, and of hatred.

<sup>9</sup> Also Joseph saw another sweven, which he told to his brethren, and said, I saw a dream that as the sun, and the moon, and the eleven stars worshipped me.

<sup>10</sup> And when he had told this dream to his father, and his brethren, his father blamed him, and said, What will this dream mean to itself that thou hast seen? Whether I, and thy mother, and thy brethren, shall worship thee on earth?

<sup>13</sup> Israel said to Joseph, Thy brethren keep sheep in Shechem; come thou, I shall send thee to them. And when Joseph answered, I am ready,

<sup>14</sup> Israel said, Go thou, and see whether all things be welsome with thy brethren, and the sheep; and then tell thou to me what is done. And so he was sent from the valley of Hebron, and came into Shechem;

<sup>17</sup> And the man said to him, They went away from this place; forsooth I heard them saying, Go we into Dothan. And Joseph went after his brethren, and found them in Dothan.

<sup>20</sup> come ye, slay we him, and put we him into an eld [or old] cistern, and we shall say, A wild beast full wicked hath devoured him; and then it shall appear what his dreams profit to him.

<sup>21</sup> Soothly Reuben heard this, and enforced or endeavoured to deliver him from their hands, and said, Slay we not the life of him,

<sup>22</sup> neither shed we out his blood, but cast ye him into an eld [or old] cistern, which is in the wilderness, and keep ye your hands guiltless. Forsooth he said this, willing to deliver him from their hands, and to yield him to his father.

<sup>25</sup> And they sat to eat bread; and they saw that Ishmaelite way-goers came from Gilead, and that their camels bare sweet smelling spiceries, and resin, and stacte, into Egypt.

<sup>27</sup> It is better that he be sold to Ishmaelites, and our hands be not defouled, for he is our brother and our flesh. His brethren assented to these words;

<sup>28</sup> and when [the] merchants of Midian passed thereofth, they drew Joseph out of the cistern, and sold him to Ishmaelites, for twenty pieces of silver; which led him into Egypt.

<sup>32</sup> and they sent men that bare it to their father, and said, We have found this coat; see thou, whether it is the coat of thy son, or nay.

<sup>33</sup> And when their father had known it, he said, It is the coat of my son; a wild beast full wicked hath eaten him; a beast hath devoured Joseph.

<sup>35</sup> Soothly when his free children were gathered together, that they should appease the sorrow of their father, he would not take comfort; but said, I shall go down into hell, and shall bewail my son. And while Jacob continued in weeping,

CHAPTER 38

<sup>2</sup> and he saw there a daughter of a man of Canaan, Shuah by name. And when he had taken her to wife, he entered [in] to her,

<sup>5</sup> And she childed the third son, whom she called Shelah, and when he was born, she ceased to bear child more.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore Judah said to Onan, his son, Enter thou [in] to the wife of thy brother, and be thou fellowshipped to her, that thou raise seed to thy brother.

<sup>9</sup> And he knew that sons should not be born to him; and he entered [in] to the wife of his brother, and shedded his seed into the earth, lest the free children should be born by the name of the dead brother;

<sup>11</sup> Wherefore Judah said to Tamar, his son's wife, Be thou a widow in the house of thy father, till Shelah my son waxed; for he dreaded lest also he should die as his brethren. And she went, and dwelled in the house of her father.

<sup>12</sup> Forsooth when many years were passed, the daughter of Shuah, Judah's wife, died; and when comfort was taken after mourning, Judah went up to the shearers of his sheep; he and Hirah of Adullam, that was[the] keeper of the flock, went up into Timnath.

<sup>14</sup> And she did away the clothes of widowhood, and she took a rochet cloth or veil with many wrinkles, and when the clothing was changed, she sat in the way-lot that leadeth to Timnath; for Shelah had waxed, and she had not taken him into husband.

<sup>16</sup> And Judah entered to her, and said, Suffer me that I lie with thee; for he knew not that she was the wife of his son. And when she answered, What shalt thou give to me, that thou lie with me?

<sup>17</sup> he said, I shall send to thee a kid of the flocks. And again when she said, I shall suffer that that thou wilt, if thou shalt give to me a wed, till thou send that that thou promisest.

<sup>18</sup> Judah said, What wilt thou that be given to thee for a wed? She answered, Thy ring, and thy band of the arm, and the staff which thou holdest in thine hand. Therefore the woman conceived at one lying-by,

<sup>19</sup> and she rose, and went [away]; and when the cloth or veil was put away which she had taken, she was clothed in the clothes of widowhood.

<sup>20</sup> Forsooth Judah sent a kid by his shepherd of Adullam, that he should receive the wed which he had given to the woman; and when he had not found her,

<sup>21</sup> he asked men of that place, Where is the woman that sat in the way-lot? And when all men answered, A whore was not in this place;

<sup>22</sup> he turned again to Judah, and said to him, I found not her, but also the men of that place said to me, that a whore sat never there.

<sup>23</sup> Judah said, Have she those things to herself, that we be not despised, certainly she may not reprove us of a leasing; I sent the kid which I promised, and thou foundest not her.

<sup>24</sup> Lo! soothly after three months they told to Judah, and said, Tamar, thy son's wife, hath done fornication, and her womb seemeth to wax great. Judah said, Bring her forth, that she be burnt.

<sup>25</sup> And when she was led to her pain, she sent to her husband's father, and said, I have conceived of the man, whose these things be; know thou whose is the ring, and the band of the arm, and the staff?

<sup>26</sup> And when the gifts were known, Judah said, She is more just [or rightwise] than I, for I gave not her to Shelah, my son; nevertheless Judah knew her no more fleshly.

<sup>29</sup> Soothly while he withdrew the hand, the tother went out, and the woman said, Why, was the skin in which the child lay in the womb parted for thee? And for this cause she called his name Perez.

CHAPTER 39

<sup>2</sup> And the Lord was with him, and he was a man doing with prosperity in all things. And Joseph dwelled in the house of his lord, <sup>3</sup> which knew full well that the Lord was with Joseph, and that all things which he did, were dressed of the Lord in his hand.

<sup>4</sup> And Joseph found grace before his lord, and he served him, of whom Joseph was made sovereign of all things, and he governed the house betaken to him, and all things that were betaken to him.

<sup>5</sup> And the Lord blessed the Egyptian's house for Joseph, and multiplied all his chattel [or substance], as well in houses, as in fields;

<sup>8</sup> which assented not to the unleave-ful work, and said to her, Lo! while all things be betaken to me, my lord wot not what he hath in his house,

<sup>9</sup> neither anything is, which is not in my power, either which he hath not betaken to me, except thee, which art his wife; how therefore may I do this evil, and do sin against my lord?

<sup>10</sup> They spake such words by all days or by long time, and the woman was dis-easeful to the young man, and he forsook the adultery.

<sup>14</sup> she called to her the men of her house, and said to them, Lo! my lord hath brought in an Hebrew man, that he should scorn us; he entered to me to do lechery with me, and when I cried,

<sup>21</sup> Forsooth the Lord was with Joseph, and had mercy on him, and gave grace to him, in the sight of the prince of the prison,

<sup>22</sup> which betook in the hand of Joseph all the prisoners that were holden in keeping, and whatever thing was done, it was done under Joseph, <sup>23</sup> neither the prince knew anything, for all things were betaken to Joseph; for the Lord was with him, and dressed all his works.

CHAPTER 40

<sup>4</sup> And the keeper of the prison betook them to Joseph, which also served, or kept, them. Somewhat of time passed, and they were holden in keeping,

<sup>8</sup> Which answered, We each saw a dream, and there is no man that expoundeth it to us. And Joseph said to them, Whether the expounding is not of God? Tell ye to me what ye have seen.

<sup>10</sup> in which were three scions, waxed little and little into burgeonings, and that after the flowers, the grapes waxed ripe,

<sup>11</sup> and the cup of Pharaoh was in mine hand; therefore I took the grapes, and pressed them out into the cup that I held, and I gave drink to Pharaoh.

<sup>13</sup> after which Pharaoh shall have mind of thy service, and he shall restore thee into the first degree, and thou shalt give to him the cup, by thine office, as thou were wont to do before.

<sup>14</sup> Only have thou mind of me, when it is well to thee, and thou shalt do mercy with me, that thou make suggestion to Pharaoh, that he lead me out of this prison;

<sup>16</sup> The master baker saw that Joseph had declared prudently the dream, and he said, And I saw a dream, that I had three baskets of meal on mine head, <sup>17</sup> and I guessed that I bare in one basket, that was highest, all meats or baked foods that be made for Pharaoh by the craft of bakers, and that birds ate thereof.

<sup>20</sup> From thence the third day was the day of the birth of Pharaoh, which made a great feast to his servants, and he had mind among the meats or during the meal, of the master butler, and of the prince of bakers;

<sup>3</sup> and another seven, foul and lean, came out of the river, and were fed in that brink of the water, in green places;

<sup>8</sup> and when the morrowtide was made, he was afeared by inward dread, and he sent to all the expounders of Egypt, and to all the wise men; and when they were called, he told the dream, and none was that expounded it.

<sup>12</sup> An Hebrew child, servant of the same duke of knights, was there, to whom we told the dreams, and heard whatever thing the befalling of [the] thing proved afterward;

<sup>14</sup> Anon at the behest of the king, they polled Joseph, led him out of the prison, and when his clothing was changed, they brought him to the king.

<sup>15</sup> To whom the king said, I saw dreams, and none [there] is that expoundeth those things that I saw; I have heard that thou expoundest such things most prudently.

<sup>26</sup> Seven fair kine, and seven full ears of corn, be seven years of plenty, and the same things comprehend the strength of the dream;

<sup>27</sup> and [the] seven kine, thin and lean, that went up after the fair kine, and the seven thin ears of corn, and smitten with [a] burning wind, be seven years of hunger to coming [or to come],

<sup>30</sup> and seven other years of so great barrenness shall pursue [or follow] those, that all the abundance before shall be given to forgetting; for hunger shall waste all the land,

<sup>32</sup> Forsooth this that thou sawest the second time in a dream pertaining to the same thing, is a showing of firm-ness, that is, a confirming of the first, for the word of God shall be done, and it shall be [ful] filled full swiftly.

<sup>36</sup> and be it made ready to the hunger to coming [or to come] of the seven years that shall oppress Egypt, and the land be not wasted by poverty.

<sup>39</sup> Therefore Pharaoh said to Joseph, For God hath showed to thee all things which thou hast spoken, whether I may find a wiser man than thou, and like to thee?

<sup>43</sup> and Pharaoh made Joseph to go upon his second chariot, while a beadle cried, that all men should kneel before him, and should know that he was sovereign of all the land of Egypt.

<sup>45</sup> And Pharaoh turned the name of Joseph, and called him by the Egyptian language, The Saviour of the World*, or Zaphnathpaaneah; and he gave to Joseph a wife, Asenath, the daughter of Potipherah, a priest of Heliopolis, that is, The City of the Sun. And so Joseph went out to the land of Egypt.

<sup>47</sup> And the plenty of [the] seven years came, and [the] ripe corns were bound into handfuls or sheaves,

<sup>49</sup> and so great abundance was of wheat, that it was made even to the gravel, or the sand, of the sea, and the plenty passed measure.

<sup>50</sup> Soothly two sons were born to Joseph before that the hunger came, which Asenath, the daughter of Potipherah, a priest of Heliopolis, childed to him.

<sup>51</sup> And Joseph called the name of the first begotten son, Manasseh, and said, God hath made me to forget all my travails, and the house of my father;

<sup>52</sup> and he called the name of the second son Ephraim, and said, God hath made me to increase in the land of my poverty.

<sup>53</sup> Therefore when seven years of plenty that were in Egypt were passed,

<sup>54</sup> [the] seven years of poverty began to come, which Joseph before-said, and hunger had the mastery in all the world; also hunger was in all the land of Egypt;

<sup>55</sup> and when that land hungered, the people cried to Pharaoh, and asked for meats; to whom he answered, Go ye to Joseph, and do ye whatever thing he saith to you.

* CHAPTER 41:45 In Hebrew, it is 'showing privates', as Jerome and Lira here say, (or it is 'The one showing secrets', or revealing mysteries, as Jerome and Nicholas of Lira say here).

CHAPTER 42

<sup>2</sup> I [have] heard that wheat is sold in Egypt; go ye down, and buy ye necessities to us, that we may live, and be not wasted by neediness.

<sup>5</sup> Soothly they entered into the land of Egypt, with other men that went thither to buy corn; forsooth hunger was in the land of Canaan.

<sup>6</sup> And Joseph was the prince of Egypt, and at his will wheats were sold to [the] peoples. And when his brethren had worshipped or honoured him, <sup>7</sup> and he had known them, he spake harder to them, as to aliens, and asked them, From whence came ye? Which answered, From the land of Canaan, that we buy necessities to our lifelode.

<sup>9</sup> and he bethought on the dreams which he saw sometime. And he said to them, Ye be spyers [or spies], ye came to see the feeblor things of the land.

<sup>13</sup> And they said, We thy servants be twelve brethren, the sons of one man in the land of Canaan; the youngest is with our father, another is not alive.

<sup>15</sup> right now I shall take experience or very knowing of you; by the health of Pharaoh ye shall not go from hence, till your least brother come hither;

<sup>16</sup> send ye one of you, that he bring him, forsooth ye shall be in bonds till those things that ye said be proved, whether those [or they] be false or true; else, by the health of Pharaoh, ye be spies.

<sup>18</sup> soothly in the third day, when they were led out of prison, Joseph said, Do ye that that I said, and ye shall live, for I dread God;

<sup>19</sup> if ye be peaceable, one brother of you be bound in prison; forsooth the rest go ye, and bear the wheat, which ye have bought, into your houses,

<sup>20</sup> and bring ye your youngest brother to me, that I may prove your words, and ye die not. They did as he said,

<sup>21</sup> and they spake together, Worthily we suffer these things, for we sinned against our brother; and we saw the anguish of his soul, while he prayed us, and we heard him not; therefore this tribulation cometh on us.

<sup>22</sup> Of which one, Reuben, said, Whether I said not to you, Do not ye sin against the child, and ye heard not me? lo! his blood is sought.

<sup>24</sup> And he turned away himself a little, and wept; and he turned again, and spake to them. And he took Simeon, and bound him, while they were present;

<sup>25</sup> and he commanded the servants, that they should fill their sacks with wheat, and that they should put all their money in their bags, and over this give to them meats in the way; which did so.

<sup>27</sup> and when the sack of one of them was opened that he should give meat to the work beast in the inn, he beheld the money in the mouth of the bag,

<sup>28</sup> and he said to his brethren, My money is yielded to me, lo! it is had in the bag; and they were astonied, and troubled, and said together, What thing is this that God hath done to us?

<sup>29</sup> And they came to Jacob, their father, in the land of Canaan, and told to him all things that befell to them, and said,

<sup>30</sup> The lord of the land spake hard to us, and guessed that we were spyers [or spies] of the province;

<sup>33</sup> And he said to us, Thus I shall prove that ye be peaceable; leave ye one brother of you with me, and take ye meats needful to your houses, and go ye,

<sup>34</sup> and bring ye to me your youngest brother, that I know that ye be not spyers [or spies], and that ye may receive this brother which is holden in bonds, and that from thenceforth ye have license to buy what things ye will.

<sup>35</sup> While these things were said, when they all poured out the wheats, they found the money bound in the mouths of their sacks. And when they altogether were afeared,

<sup>36</sup> their father Jacob said, Ye have made me to be without children; Joseph is not alive, Simeon is holden in bonds, ye shall take away from me Benjamin; all these evils have fallen in on me.

<sup>37</sup> To whom Reuben answered, Slay thou my two sons, if I shall not bring him again to thee; take thou him in mine hand, and I shall restore him to thee.

<sup>2</sup> and when the meats were wasted or consumed, which they [had] brought from Egypt, Jacob said to his sons, Turn ye again, and buy ye a little of meats to us.

<sup>3</sup> Judah answered, That man announced to us, under witnessing of an oath, and said, Ye shall not see my face, if ye shall not bring with you your least brother;

<sup>5</sup> else if thou wilt not, we shall not go down; for as we said oft, the man announced to us, and said, Ye shall not see my face without your least brother.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth Israel said to them, Ye did this into my wretchedness, that ye showed to him, that ye had also another brother.

<sup>7</sup> And they answered, The man asked us by order our generation, if our father lived, if we had another brother; and we answered pursuingly to him, by that that he asked; whether we might know that he would say, Bring ye your brother with you?

<sup>8</sup> And Judah said to his father, Send the child with me*, that we go, and may live, lest we die, and thou, and our little children;

<sup>9</sup> I shall take the child, require thou him again of mine hand; if I shall not bring him again, and betake him to thee, I shall be guilty of sin against thee in all time;

<sup>11</sup> Therefore Israel, their father, said to them, If it is need so to be, do ye that that ye will; take ye of the best fruits of the land in your vessels, and bear ye gifts to the man, a little of gum, and of honey, and of storax, that is, a precious gum, and of myrrh, that is, a bitter gum, and of terebinth, that is, best resins, and of almonds;

<sup>14</sup> forsooth my God Almighty make him peaceable or pleasable, or queme-ful, to you, and send he again your brother, whom he holdeth in bonds, and also this Benjamin; forsooth I shall be now as made bare without sons.

<sup>16</sup> And when he had seen them and Benjamin together, he commanded the dispenser of his house, and said, Lead these men into the house, and slay some beasts, and make a feast; for they shall eat with me today.

<sup>17</sup> He did as it was commanded or as it was bidden to him, and he led the men into the house;

<sup>18</sup> and there they were afeared, and they said together, We be brought in for the money which we bare again before in our sacks, that he put challenge against us, and make subject by violence to servage both us and our asses.

<sup>20</sup> Lord, we pray, that thou hear us; we came down now before that we should buy meats;

<sup>21</sup> when those were bought, and we headed home, when we came to the inn, we opened our bags, and we found the money in the mouths of our sacks, which money we have brought again now in the same weight;

<sup>22</sup> but also we have brought other silver, that we can buy those things that be needful to us; it is not in our knowing who put the money in our purses.

<sup>23</sup> And he answered, Peace be to you, do not ye dread; your God, and [the] God of your father, gave to you treasures in your bags; for I have the money proved, which ye gave to me. And he led out Simeon to them;

<sup>26</sup> Therefore Joseph entered into his house, and they offered gifts to him, and held them in their hands, and worshipped low to the earth.

<sup>27</sup> And he greeted them again meekly; and he asked them, and said, Whether your father, the eld [or old] man, is safe, of whom ye said to me? liveth he yet?

<sup>28</sup> Which answered, He is whole, thy servant our father liveth yet; and they were bowed, and worshipped him.

* CHAPTER 43:8 Benjamin would have been over 30 years old at this time.

<sup>29</sup> Forsooth Joseph raised [up] his eyes, and saw Benjamin, his brother of the same womb, and he said, Is this your youngest brother, of whom ye said to me? And again Joseph said, My son, God have mercy on thee.

<sup>32</sup> Which were set forth to Joseph by himself, and to his brethren by themselves, and to the Egyptians that ate together by themselves; for it is unleaveful to Egyptians to eat with Hebrews, and they guess such a feast unholy.

<sup>33</sup> Therefore they sat before him, the first begotten by right of the first begotten, and so on down to the youngest by his age; and they wondered greatly,

<sup>34</sup> when the parts were taken which they had received of him, and the more part came to Benjamin, so that it passed the others in five parts; and they drank, and were [ful] filled with him.

CHAPTER 44

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Joseph commanded the dispenser of his house, and said, Fill thou their sacks with wheat, as much as they may take, and put thou the money of each in the height [or the top] of the sack;

<sup>2</sup> forsooth put thou in the sack's mouth of the youngest my silver cup, and the price of the wheat which he gave; and it was done so.

<sup>4</sup> And now they had gone out of the city, and had gone forth a little; then Joseph said, when the dispenser of his house was called, Rise thou, pursue the men, and say thou when they be taken, Why have ye yielded evil for good?

<sup>5</sup> The cup, which ye have stolen, is that in which my lord drinketh, and in which he is wont to divine; ye have done a full wicked thing.

<sup>8</sup> We brought again to thee from the land of Canaan the money that we found in the height [or the top] of our sacks, and how is it pursuing [or following] that we have stolen from thy lord's house gold or silver?

<sup>10</sup> Which said to them, Be it done by your sentence; at whom it is found, be he my servant; forsooth ye shall be guiltless.

<sup>14</sup> And Judah entered with his brethren to Joseph; for Joseph had not gone yet from the place; and all they fell together on the earth before him.

<sup>15</sup> To whom he said, Why would ye do so? whether ye wot not, that none is like me in the knowing of divining?

<sup>16</sup> To whom Judah said, What shall we answer to my lord, or what shall we speak, either what may we justly against-say? God hath found the wickedness of thy servants; lo! all we be the servants of my lord, both we and he at whom the cup is found.

<sup>17</sup> Joseph answered, Far be it from me, that I do so; he be my servant that stole the cup; forsooth go ye free to your father.

<sup>18</sup> Soothly Judah nighed near, and said trustily, My lord, I pray thee, thy servant speak a word in thine ears, and be thou not wroth to thy servant; for after Pharaoh thou art my lord.

<sup>20</sup> And we answered to my lord, An eld [or old] father is to us, and a little child that was born in his eld age, whose brother of the same womb is dead, and his mother hath him alone; forsooth his father loveth him tenderly.

<sup>24</sup> Therefore when we had gone up to thy servant, our father, we told to him all things which my lord spake to us;

<sup>26</sup> to whom we said, We may not go; only if our least brother shall go down with us, we shall go forth together; else, if he is absent, we dare not see the lord's face.

<sup>29</sup> if ye take also this son, and anything befall to him in the way, ye shall lead forth mine hoar hairs with mourning to hells [or to hell].

<sup>30</sup> Therefore if I enter again to thy servant, our father, and the child fail to be with us, since his life hangeth of the life of the child, <sup>31</sup> and he see that the child is not with us, he shall die, and thy servants shall lead forth his hoar hairs with sorrow to hells [or to hell].

<sup>32</sup> Be I properly thy servant, which received this child on my faith, and I promised, and said, If I shall not bring again him to thee, I shall be guilty of sin against my father in all time;

<sup>34</sup> for I may not go again to my father, if the child be absent, lest I stand a witness of the wretchedness that shall oppress my father.

CHAPTER 45

<sup>3</sup> And he said to his brethren, I am Joseph; liveth my father yet? His brethren might not answer, and were aghast with full much dread.

<sup>4</sup> To whom Joseph said meekly, Cometh nigh to me. And when they had nighed nigh, he said, I am Joseph your brother, whom ye sold into Egypt;

<sup>5</sup> do not ye dread, neither seem it to be hard to you, that ye sold me into these countries; for God hath sent me before you into Egypt for your health.

<sup>6</sup> For it is two years that hunger began to be in the land, yet five more years shall pursue, in which men shall not be able to ear, neither reap;

<sup>7</sup> and God before-sent me, that ye be kept alive on earth, and may have meats to live.

<sup>8</sup> I was sent hither not by your counsel, but by God's will, which hath made me as the father of Pharaoh, and lord of all his house, and prince in all the land of Egypt.

<sup>9</sup> Haste ye, and goeth up to my father, and ye shall say to him, Thy son Joseph sendeth these things to thee; God hath made me lord of all the land of Egypt; come down here to me, and tarry not,

<sup>10</sup> and dwell in the land of Goshen; and thou shalt be beside me, thou, and thy sons, and the sons of thy sons, thy sheep, and thy great beasts, and all things which thou wieldest,

<sup>11</sup> and there I shall feed thee; for yet five years of hunger be left, lest both thou perish, and thine house, and all things which thou wieldest.

<sup>12</sup> Lo! your eyes, and the eyes of my brother Benjamin see, that my mouth speaketh to you;

<sup>13</sup> tell ye to my father all my glory, and all things which ye saw in Egypt; haste ye, and bring ye him to me.

<sup>14</sup> And when he had embraced, and felled into the neck of Benjamin, his brother, he wept, the while also Benjamin wept in like manner on the neck of Joseph.

<sup>16</sup> And it was heard, and published by famous word in the king's hall, The brethren of Joseph be come. And Pharaoh joyed, and all his household;

<sup>17</sup> and Pharaoh said to Joseph, that he should command his brethren, and say to them, Charge ye your beasts, and go ye into the land of Canaan,

<sup>18</sup> and take ye from thence your father, and your kindred, and come ye back to me; and I shall give you all the goods of Egypt, that ye eat the marrow of the land.

<sup>19</sup> Command thou also, that they take wains of the land of Egypt to the carriage of their little children, and wives, and say thou, Take ye your father, and haste ye in coming soon,

<sup>21</sup> The sons of Israel did as it was commanded to them; to which Joseph gave wains, by the behest of Pharaoh, and meats in the way;

<sup>22</sup> and he commanded two stoles to be brought forth to each; forsooth he gave to Benjamin three hundred pieces of silver, with five of the best stoles;

<sup>23</sup> and he sent to his father so much of silver, and of clothes, and he added to them ten male asses, that should bear of the riches of Egypt, and so many female asses, bearing wheat and loaves in the way.

<sup>26</sup> and they told to him, and said, Joseph, thy son, liveth, and he is lord in all the land of Egypt. And when this was heard, Jacob waked as of a grievous sleep; nevertheless he believed not to them.

<sup>27</sup> They told on the contrary to him all the order of the thing; and when Jacob had seen the wains, and all things which Joseph had sent, his spirit lived again,
<sup>28</sup> and he said, It sufficeth to me, if Joseph my son liveth yet; I shall go and see him before that I die.

CHAPTER 46

<sup>1</sup> And Israel went forth with all things that he had, and he came to the well of oath or Beersheba; and when sacrifices were slain there to [the] God of his father Isaac,
<sup>2</sup> he heard God by a vision in that night calling to him, and saying to him, Jacob! Jacob! To whom he answered, Lo! I am present.

<sup>3</sup> God said to him, I am the full strong God of thy father; do not thou dread, go down into Egypt, for I shall make thee there into a great folk;

<sup>12</sup> The sons of Judah; Er, and Onan, and Shelah, and Perez, and Zarah. Forsooth Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan; and the sons of Perez were born, Hezron, and Hamul.

<sup>20</sup> And two sons were born to Joseph in the land of Egypt, Manasseh and Ephraim, which Asenath, [the] daughter of Potipherah, priest of Heliopolis, childed to him.

<sup>27</sup> Forsooth the sons of Joseph, that were born to him in the land of Egypt, were two men. All the souls of the house of Jacob, that entered into Egypt, were seventy.

<sup>28</sup> Forsooth Jacob sent Judah before him to Joseph, that he should tell to him, and he meet with them in Goshen. And when Jacob had come thither,

<sup>31</sup> And Joseph spake to his brethren, and to all his father's household, I shall go up, and tell to Pharaoh, and I shall say to him, My brethren, and the household of my father, that were in the land of Canaan, be come to me, <sup>32</sup> and they be men keepers of sheep, and have busyness of flocks to be fed; they brought with them their sheep, and great beasts, and all things which they might have.

<sup>34</sup> ye shall answer, We be thy servants, men shepherds, from our childhood till into this present time, both we and our fathers. Soothly ye shall say these things, that ye may dwell in the land of Goshen, for Egyptians loathe all keepers of sheep.

CHAPTER 47

<sup>1</sup> Therefore Joseph entered, and told to Pharaoh, and said, My father and brethren, the sheep and the great beasts of them, and all things that they wield, have come from the land of Canaan; and lo! they stand in the land of Goshen.

<sup>3</sup> whom he asked, What work have ye? They answered, We thy servants be keepers of sheep, both we and our fathers;

<sup>4</sup> we came into thy land to be pilgrims, that is, to dwell for a time, for no grass is to the flocks of thy servants; for hunger waxeth grievous in the land of Canaan, and we ask that thou command us thy servants to be in the land of Goshen.

<sup>6</sup> the land of Egypt is in thy sight; make thou them to dwell in the best place, and give thou to them the land of Goshen; that if thou knowest that witting men be in them, ordain them masters of my beasts.

<sup>9</sup> And he answered, The days of [the] pilgrimage of my life be few and evil, of an hundred and thirty years, and those [or they] have not come to the days of my fathers, in which they were pilgrims.

<sup>15</sup> And when price failed to the buyers, all Egypt came to Joseph, and said, Give thou loaves to us; why shall we die before thee, while money faileth?

<sup>16</sup> To whom he answered, Bring ye your beasts, and I shall give you meats for those [or them], if ye have not price.

<sup>17</sup> And when they had brought those, he gave them meats for horses, and sheep, and oxen, and asses; and he sustained them in that year for the exchange of beasts.

<sup>18</sup> And they came in the second year, and said to him, We cover not from our lord, that the while money faileth, also our beasts failed altogether, neither it is hid from thee, that without bodies and land, we have nothing;

<sup>19</sup> why therefore shall we die, while thou seest this? both we and our land shall be thine; buy thou us into the king's servage, and give thou us seeds to sow, lest while the tiller perisheth, the land be turned into wilderness.

<sup>22</sup> except the land of priests, that was given of the king to them, to which priests also meats were given of the common barns, and therefore they were not compelled to sell their possessions.

<sup>23</sup> Therefore Joseph said to the peoples, Lo! as ye see, Pharaoh wieldeth both you and your land; now take ye seeds, and sow ye fields, <sup>24</sup> that ye may have fruits; ye shall give the fifth part to the king; I suffer to you the four residue parts into seed, and into meats, to you, and to your free children.

<sup>26</sup> From that time till to this present day, in all the land of Egypt, the fifth part is paid to the kings, and it is made as into a law, without the land of priests, that was free from this condition.

<sup>28</sup> And he lived therein sixteen [or seventeen] years; and all the days of his life were made an hundred and seven and forty years.

<sup>29</sup> And when he saw the day of his death [to] nigh, he called his son Joseph to his bed, and said to him, If I have found grace in thy sight, put thine hand under mine hip, and swear that thou shalt do mercy and truth to me, that thou bury not me in Egypt;

<sup>30</sup> but I shall sleep with my fathers, and take thou away me from this land, and bury me in the sepulchre of my greater. To whom Joseph answered, I shall do that that thou commandest.

<sup>31</sup> And Israel said, Therefore swear thou to me; and when Joseph swore, Israel turned to the head of the bed, and worshipped God.

CHAPTER 48

<sup>1</sup> And so when these things were done, it was told to Joseph, that his father was sick. And he took his two sons, Manasseh and Ephraim, and he disposed him to go.

<sup>2</sup> And it was said to the eld [or old] man, Lo! thy son Joseph cometh to thee; which was comforted, and sat up in the bed.

<sup>3</sup> And when Joseph entered to him, he said, Almighty God appeared to me in Luz, which is in the land of Canaan, and blessed me,

<sup>4</sup> and said, I shall increase thee, and multiply thee, and I shall make thee into companies of peoples, and I shall give to thee this land, and to thy seed after thee, into everlasting possession.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore thy two sons, that be born to thee in the land of Egypt, before that I came hither to thee, shall be mine; Ephraim and Manasseh, as Reuben and Simeon, shall be areckoned to me;

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth when I came from Mesopotamia, Rachel was dead to me in the land of Canaan, in that way; and it was the beginning of summer; and before that I entered into Ephratah, and I buried her beside the way of Ephratah, which by another name is called Bethlehem.

<sup>9</sup> He answered, They be my sons, which God gave me in this place. Jacob said, Bring them to me, that I bless them.

<sup>10</sup> For the eyes of Israel dimmed for great eld age, and he might not see clearly; and he kissed and embraced those children joined to him,

<sup>15</sup> and blessed his son Joseph*, and said, God, in whose sight my fathers Abraham and Isaac went; God that feedeth me from my young waxing age till into this present day;

<sup>16</sup> the angel that delivered me from all evils, bless these children, and my name be called on them, and the names of my fathers, Abraham and Isaac; and wax they in multitude on earth.

<sup>17</sup> Forsooth Joseph saw that his father had set [or put] his right hand on the head of Ephraim, and he took that heavily, and he enforced or endeavoured him to raise his father's hand, and take it from the head of Ephraim, and to bear it over upon the head of Manasseh.

<sup>18</sup> And Joseph said to his father, Father, it accordeth not so; for this is the first begotten; set [or put] thy right hand on his head.

<sup>19</sup> Which forsook to do so, and said, I know, my son, I know; and soothly this child shall be into peoples, and he shall be multiplied; but his younger brother shall be more than he, and his seed shall increase into a multitude of folks.

<sup>20</sup> And he blessed them in that time, and said, Israel shall be blessed in thee, and it shall be said, God do to thee as to Ephraim and as to Manasseh. And he set Ephraim before Manasseh;

<sup>21</sup> and Jacob said to Joseph, his son, Lo! I die, and God shall be with you, and shall lead you again to the land of your fathers;

CHAPTER 49

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Jacob called his sons, and said to them, Be ye gathered together, that I tell what things shall come to you in the last days;

* CHAPTER 48:15 In blessing Ephraim and Manasseh, Jacob was in fact blessing Joseph. (Good News Bible)

<sup>3</sup> Reuben, my first begotten son, thou art my strength, and the beginning of my sorrow; thou oughtest to be the former in gifts, the more in lordship;

<sup>6</sup> my soul come not into the counsel of them, and my glory be not in the congregation of them; for in their strong vengeance, they killed a man, and in their [own] will, they under-mined the wall;

<sup>7</sup> cursed be the strong vengeance of them, for it is obstinate, and the indignation of them, for it is hard; I shall part them in Jacob, and I shall scatter them in Israel.

<sup>9</sup> Judah, the whelp of a lion; my son, thou hast gone up to the prey; thou restedest, and hast lain as a lion, and as a lioness, who shall raise him?

<sup>15</sup> saw rest, that it was good, and saw the land, that it was best, and he underset his shoulder to bear, and he was made serving to tributes*.

<sup>17</sup> Dan be made a serpent in the way, and a cerastes, that is, an horned adder, in the path, and bite he the feet of an horse, that the rider of him fall backward;

<sup>24</sup> His bow sat in the Strong, that is, the Lord, and the bonds of his arms and his hands were unbound by the hand of the mighty God of Jacob; of him a shepherd went out, the stone of Israel.

<sup>26</sup> the blessings of thy father be comforted, that is, be better than the blessings of his fathers, till the desire of everlasting hills came; blessings be made on the head of Joseph, and in the noll of Nazarite, that is, holy, among his brethren.

<sup>28</sup> All these were in [the] twelve kindreds of Israel; their father spake these things to them, and he blessed them all by proper blessings, * CHAPTER 49:15 Either to rent, (Or to pay rent or taxes), as it is in Hebrew.

<sup>29</sup> and he commanded to them, and said, I am soon to be gathered to my people; bury ye me with my fathers in the double den, that is in the land of Ephron the Hittite,

<sup>33</sup> And when the behests were ended, by which he taught his sons, he gathered together his feet on the bed, and died, and he was put to his people.

CHAPTER 50

<sup>3</sup> While they fulfilled his behests, forty days passed, for this was the custom of dead bodies that were anointed; and Egypt bewept him seventy days.

<sup>4</sup> And when the time of wailing was fulfilled, Joseph spake to the meine of Pharaoh, If I have found grace in your sight, speak ye in the ears of Pharaoh;

<sup>5</sup> for my father charged me [with an oath], and said, Lo! I die; thou shalt bury me in my sepulchre which I digged to me in the land of Canaan; therefore I shall go up that I bury my father, and I shall turn again.

<sup>7</sup> And when Joseph went up, all the elder men of the household of Pharaoh went with him, and all the greater men in birth of the land of Egypt;

<sup>10</sup> And they came to the cornfloor of Atad, which is set over Jordan, where they made the service of the dead body, with great wailing and strong, and filled seven days.

<sup>11</sup> And when the dwellers of the land of Canaan had seen this, they said, This is a time of great wailing to the Egyptians; therefore they called the name of that place The wailing of Egypt.

<sup>15</sup> And when their father was dead, the brethren of Joseph dreaded, and spake together, Lest peradventure he be mindful of the wrong which he suffered, and yield to us all the evil, that we did.

<sup>16</sup> And they sent to him, and said, Thy father commanded to us, before that he died,

<sup>17</sup> that we should say to thee these things by his words; I beseech thee, that thou forget the wickedness of thy brethren, and the sin, and [the] malice that they haunted against thee; also we pray thee, that thou forgive this wickedness which we did to thy father, the servant of God. When these things were heard, Joseph wept.

<sup>18</sup> And his brethren came to him, and worshipped low to the earth, and said, We be thy servants.

<sup>20</sup> Ye thought evil of me, and God turned it into good, that he should enhance me, as ye see in this present time, and that he should make safe many peoples;

<sup>23</sup> and he saw the sons of Ephraim till to the third generation; also the sons of Machir, the son of Manasseh, were borne in the knees of Joseph.

<sup>24</sup> When these things were done, Joseph spake to his brethren, After my death God shall visit you, and he shall make you to go up from this land to the land which he swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

<sup>25</sup> And when Joseph had charged them with an oath, and had said, God shall visit you, bear ye out with you my bones from this place;

<sup>26</sup> he died, when an hundred and ten years of his life were filled; and he was anointed with sweet smelling spiceries, and he was kept in a bier in Egypt.

EXODUS

<sup>5</sup> Therefore all the souls of them that went out of the hip of Jacob were seventy and five. Forsooth Joseph was in Egypt;

<sup>7</sup> the sons of Israel* increased, and were multiplied as burgeoning, and they were made strong greatly, and filled the land.

<sup>10</sup> come ye, wisely oppress we it, lest peradventure it be multiplied; and lest, if battle riseth against us, it be added to our enemies, and go out of the land, when we be overcome.

<sup>11</sup> And so he made masters of works sovereigns to them, that they should torment them with charges. And they made [the] cities of tabernacles, either of treasures, as it is in Hebrew, to Pharaoh, Pithom, and Raamses.

<sup>14</sup> and they brought their life to bitterness, by hard works of clay and of tilestone, and by all servage, by which they were oppressed in the works of [the] earth.

<sup>16</sup> and he commanded to them, When ye shall do the office of midwives to [the] Hebrew women, and the time of child-bearing shall come, if it is a knave child, slay ye him; if it is a woman child, keep ye it.

<sup>18</sup> To the which called to him, the king said, What is this thing that ye would do, that ye would keep the knave children?

<sup>19</sup> The which answered, Hebrew women be not as the women of Egypt, for they have knowing of the craft of midwifing, and childed before that we come to them.

* CHAPTER 1:7 The phrase 'sons of Israel' at times refers to the twelve sons of Jacob (whose name God changed to 'Israel'), at times to only the Israelite men, and other times to all of the people of Israel, the twelve tribes of Israel, 'the Israelites'.

CHAPTER 2

<sup>3</sup> And when she might not cover [him], then she took a basket of sedge, and balmed it with tar and pitch, and put the young child within, and put him forth in a place of spires of the brink of the flood,

<sup>5</sup> Lo! forsooth the daughter of Pharaoh came down to be washed in the flood, and her damsels walked by the brink of the flood. And when she had seen a basket in the place of spires, she sent one of her servantesses,

<sup>6</sup> and she opened the basket brought to her, and she saw a little child weeping therein. And she had mercy on the child, and said, It is of the young children of Hebrews.

<sup>7</sup> To whom the child's sister said, Wilt thou that I go, and call to thee an Hebrew woman, that may nourish the young child?

<sup>9</sup> To whom Pharaoh's daughter spake, and said, Take thou this child, and nourish it to me; and I shall give to thee thy meed. The woman took, and nourished the child,

<sup>12</sup> And when he had beholden hither and thither, and had seen, that no man was present, he killed the Egyptian, and hid him in the sand.

<sup>13</sup> And he went out in another day, and saw twain [or two] Hebrew men chiding, and he said to him that did [the] wrong, Why smitest thou thy brother?

<sup>14</sup> Which answered, Who ordained thee prince, or judge, [or prince and doomsman] [up] on us? Whether thou wilt slay me, as thou killedest yesterday the Egyptian? Moses dreaded, and said, How is this word made open?

<sup>16</sup> Forsooth seven daughters were to the priest of Midian, that came to draw water; and when the troughs were filled, they coveted to water their father's flocks.

<sup>18</sup> And when they had turned again to Jethro, their father, he said to them, Why came ye swifter than ye were wont?

<sup>22</sup> And she childed a son to him, whom he called Gershom‡, and said, I was a comeling in an alien land. Forsooth she childed another son, whom he called Eliezer§, and said, For [the] God of my father is mine helper, and he delivered me from the hand of Pharaoh.

<sup>23</sup> Forsooth after much time the king of Egypt died, and the sons of Israel inwardly wailed for [the] works, and they cried [out], and the cry of them for their works went up to God.

<sup>24</sup> And he heard the wailing of them, and he had mind of the bond of peace, which he had made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob;

CHAPTER 3

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Moses kept the sheep of Jethro, his wife's father, priest of Midian; and when he had driven the flock to the inner parts of the desert, he came to Horeb, the hill of God.

<sup>2</sup> Forsooth the Lord appeared to him there in a flame of fire from the middle of a bush, and Moses saw that the bush burnt, and it was not burnt up.

<sup>4</sup> Soothly the Lord saw that Moses went to see, and he called him from the midst of the bush, and said, Moses! Moses! Which answered, I am present.

<sup>5</sup> And the Lord said, Nigh thou not hither, but unbind thou the shoes of thy feet, for the place in which thou standest is holy land.

<sup>6</sup> And the Lord said, I am God of thy fathers, God of Abraham, God of Isaac, and God of Jacob. Moses hid his face, for he durst not look against God.

<sup>7</sup> To whom the Lord said, I saw the affliction of my people in Egypt, and I heard the cry thereof, for the hardness of them that be sovereigns of the works. And I knew the sorrow of the people,

<sup>8</sup> and I came down to deliver them from the hands of Egyptians, and lead out of that land into a good land and broad, into a land that floweth with milk and honey, to the places of Canaanites, and of Hittites, of Amorites, and of Perizzites, and of Hivites, and of Jebusites.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore the cry of the sons of Israel came to me, and I saw the torment of them, by which they be oppressed of the Egyptians.

<sup>11</sup> And Moses said to him, Who am I, that I go to Pharaoh, and lead out the sons of Israel from Egypt?

<sup>12</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, I shall be with thee, and thou shalt have this sign, that I have sent thee; when thou hast led out my people from Egypt, thou shalt offer to God on this hill.

<sup>13</sup> Moses said to God, Lo! I shall go to the sons of Israel, and I shall say to them, [The] God of your fathers sent me to you; if they shall say to me, What is his name, what shall I say to them?

<sup>14</sup> The Lord said to Moses, I am that I am. The Lord said, Thus thou shalt say to the sons of Israel, He that is, sent me to you.

<sup>15</sup> And again God said to Moses, Thou shalt say these things to the sons of Israel, The Lord God of your fathers, God of Abraham, and God of Isaac, and God of Jacob, sent me to you; this name is to me without end, and this is my memorial in generation and into generation.

<sup>16</sup> Go thou, gather thou the elder men, that is, judges, of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, The Lord God of your fathers appeared to me, God of Abraham, and God of Isaac, and God of Jacob, and he said, I visiting have visited you, and I have seen all things that befelled to you in Egypt;

<sup>17</sup> and I said, that I should lead out you from the affliction of Egypt, into the land of Canaanites, and of Hittites, and of Amorites, and of Perizzites, and of Hivites, and of Jebusites, to the land flowing with milk and honey.

<sup>18</sup> And they shall hear thy voice; and thou shalt enter, and the elder men of Israel, to the king of Egypt, and thou shalt say to him, The Lord God of Hebrews hath called us; we shall go the way of three days into wilderness, that we offer to our Lord God.

<sup>20</sup> for I shall hold forth mine hand, and I shall smite Egypt in all my marvels which I shall do in the midst of them; after these things he shall deliver you.

<sup>22</sup> but a woman shall ask of her neighbouress, and of her that she is harboured with, silveren vessels, and golden, and clothes, and ye shall put those [or them] upon your sons and daughters, and ye shall make naked Egypt.

CHAPTER 4

<sup>1</sup> Moses answered, and said, The commons shall not believe to me, neither they shall hear my voice; but they shall say, The Lord appeared not to thee.

<sup>2</sup> Therefore the Lord said to him, What is that that thou holdest in thine hand? Moses answered, A rod, that is, a shepherd's staff.

<sup>3</sup> And the Lord said, Cast it forth into the earth; and he cast it forth, and it was turned into a serpent, so that Moses fled.

<sup>4</sup> And the Lord said, Hold forth thine hand, and take the tail thereof; he stretched forth his hand, and held it, and it was turned again into a rod.

<sup>5</sup> And the Lord said, That they believe, that the Lord God of thy fathers appeared to thee, God of Abraham, God of Isaac, and God of Jacob.

<sup>6</sup> And the Lord said again to Moses, Put thine hand into thy bosom; and when he had put it into his bosom, he brought forth it leprous, at the likeness of snow.

<sup>7</sup> The Lord said, Again draw thine hand into thy bosom; Moses again drew in his hand, and brought it forth again, and it was like to the tother flesh.

<sup>8</sup> The Lord said, If they shall not believe to thee, neither shall hear the word of the former sign, either miracle, they shall believe to the word of the sign pursuing [or that followeth];

<sup>9</sup> that if they believe not to these two signs, neither hear thy voice, take thou water of the flood, and shedded out it [or pour it out] [up] on the dry land, and whatever thing thou shalt draw up of the flood, it shall be turned into blood.

<sup>10</sup> Moses said, Lord, I beseech, I am not eloquent, that is, a fair speaker, from yesterday and the third day ago; and since thou hast spoken to thy servant, I am of more hindered, and of slower tongue.

<sup>14</sup> And the Lord was wroth against Moses, and said, I know, that Aaron, thy brother, of the lineage of Levi, is eloquent, that is, a fair speaker; lo! he shall go out into thy coming, and he shall see thee, and he shall be glad in heart.

<sup>15</sup> Speak thou to him, and put thou my words in his mouth, and I shall be in thy mouth, and in his mouth; and I shall show to you what ye ought to do.

<sup>16</sup> He shall speak for thee to the people, and he shall be thy mouth; forsooth thou shalt be to him in these things, that pertain to God.

<sup>18</sup> Moses went, and turned again to Jethro, his wife's father, and said to him, I shall go, and turn again to my brethren into Egypt, that I see, whether they live yet. To whom Jethro said, Go thou in peace.

<sup>19</sup> Therefore the Lord said to Moses in Midian, Go thou, and turn again into Egypt; for all they be dead that sought thy life.

<sup>20</sup> Moses took his wife, and his sons, and set them on an ass, and he turned again into Egypt, and he bare the rod of God in his hand.

<sup>21</sup> And the Lord said to him turning again into Egypt, See, that thou do all the wonders, which I have put in thine hand, before Pharaoh; I shall make hard his heart, and he shall not deliver the people;

<sup>23</sup> I said to thee, Deliver thou my son, that he serve me, and thou wouldest not deliver him; lo! I shall slay thy first begotten son.

<sup>25</sup> Zipporah took anon a most sharp stone, and circumcised the rod of her son; and she touched Moses' feet, and said, Thou art an husband of bloods to me.

<sup>26</sup> And he let go him, after that she had said, Thou art an husband of bloods to me, for [the] circumcision.

<sup>27</sup> Forsooth the Lord said to Aaron, Go thou into the coming of Moses into desert; which went against Moses into the hill of God, and kissed him.

<sup>28</sup> And Moses told to Aaron all the words of the Lord, for which he had sent Moses; and he told him about the miracles, which the Lord had commanded.

<sup>30</sup> And Aaron spake all the words, which the Lord had said to Moses, and he did the signs before the people;

<sup>31</sup> and the people believed; and they heard, that the Lord had visited the sons of Israel, and that he had beheld the torment of them; and they worshipped lowly, or meekly, the Lord.

CHAPTER 5

<sup>1</sup> After these things Moses and Aaron entered, and said to Pharaoh, The Lord God of Israel saith these things, Deliver thou my people, that it make sacrifice to me in desert,.

<sup>2</sup> And Pharaoh answered, Who is the Lord, that I hear his voice, and deliver Israel? I know not the Lord, and I shall not deliver Israel.

<sup>3</sup> They said, [The] God of Hebrews called us, that we go the way of three days into wilderness, and that we make sacrifice to our Lord God, lest peradventure pestilence, or sword, befall to us.

<sup>5</sup> And Pharaoh said, The people of the land is much; ye see that the company hath increased; how much more shall it increase, if ye shall give to them rest from works.

<sup>8</sup> and ye shall set on them the measure of tilestones, which they made before, neither ye shall abate anything; for they be idle, and therefore they cry, and say, Go we, and make we sacrifice to our God;

<sup>10</sup> Therefore the masters of the works and the rent gatherers went out to the people, and said, Thus saith Pharaoh, I give not to you straw;

<sup>13</sup> And the masters of the works were busy, and said, Fulfill ye your work each day, as ye were wont to do, when the straw was given to you.

<sup>14</sup> And they, that were masters of the works of the sons of Israel, were beaten of the rent gatherers of Pharaoh, that said, Why fulfilled ye not the measure of tilestones, as ye did before, neither yesterday, neither today?

<sup>15</sup> And the sovereigns [or masters] of the children of Israel came, and cried to Pharaoh, and said, Why doest thou so against thy servants?

<sup>21</sup> and they said to them, The Lord see, and deem, for ye have made our odour, or fame, stink before Pharaoh, and his servants, that is, ye have made us abominable and hateful; and ye have given to him a sword, that he should slay us.

<sup>23</sup> For since I entered to Pharaoh, that I should speak in thy name, thou hast tormented thy people, and hast not delivered them.

CHAPTER 6

<sup>1</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Now thou shalt see, what things I shall do to Pharaoh; for by [a] strong hand he shall deliver them, that is, the sons of Israel, and in [a] mighty hand he shall cast them out of his land.

<sup>2</sup> And the Lord spake to Moses, and said, I am the Lord,

<sup>3</sup> that appeared to Abraham, and to Isaac, and to Jacob, I am Almighty God; and I showed not to them my great name Adonai, that is, Tetragrammaton.

<sup>4</sup> and I made [a] covenant with them, that I should give to them the land of Canaan, the land of their pilgrimage, in which they were comelings.

<sup>6</sup> Therefore say thou to the sons of Israel, I am the Lord, that shall lead you out of the prison of the Egyptians; and I shall deliver you from servage; and I shall again-buy you in an arm straight out, and in great dooms;

<sup>7</sup> and I shall take you to me into a people, and I shall be your God; and ye shall know, for I am your Lord God, which have led you out of the prison of Egyptians,

<sup>8</sup> and have led you into the land, on which I raised [up] mine hand, that I should give it to Abraham, and to Isaac, and to Jacob; and I shall give to you that land to be had in possession; I [am] the Lord.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore Moses told all things to the sons of Israel, which assented not to him for the anguish of spirit, and for the full hard work by which they were troubled.

<sup>12</sup> Moses answered before the Lord, Lo! the children of Israel hear not me; and how shall Pharaoh hear, mostly since I am uncircumcised in lips?

<sup>13</sup> And the Lord spake to Moses and to Aaron, and he gave behests to the sons of Israel, and to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, that they should lead out the sons of Israel from the land of Egypt.

<sup>26</sup> This is Aaron and Moses, to which the Lord commanded, that they should lead out of the land of Egypt the sons of Israel by their companies;

<sup>29</sup> And the Lord spake to Moses, and said, I am the Lord; speak thou to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, all things which I speak to thee.

<sup>30</sup> And Moses said before the Lord, Lo! I am uncircumcised in lips; how shall Pharaoh hear me?

CHAPTER 7

<sup>2</sup> Thou shalt speak to Aaron all things which I command to thee, and he shall speak to Pharaoh, that he deliver the sons of Israel from his land.

<sup>4</sup> and he shall not hear you; and I shall send mine hand on Egypt, and I shall lead out mine host, and my people, the sons of Israel, from the land of Egypt by most dooms;

<sup>5</sup> and [the] Egyptians shall know, that I am the Lord, which have held forth mine hand on Egypt, and have led out of the midst of them the sons of Israel.

<sup>10</sup> And so Moses and Aaron entered to Pharaoh, and did as the Lord commanded; and Aaron took the rod, and cast forth it before Pharaoh and his servants, the which rod was turned into a serpent.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth the Lord said to Moses, The heart of Pharaoh is made grievous, he will not deliver the people;

<sup>15</sup> go thou to him early; lo! he shall go out to the waters, and thou shalt stand in the coming of him on the brink of the flood; and thou shalt take in thine hand the rod, that was turned into a dragon,

<sup>16</sup> and thou shalt say to him, The Lord God of Hebrews sent me to thee, and said, Deliver thou my people, that it make sacrifice to me in desert; and till to this present time thou wouldest not hear.

<sup>17</sup> Therefore the Lord saith these things, In this thou shalt know, that I am the Lord; lo! I shall smite with the rod, that is in mine hand, the water of the flood, and it shall be turned into blood;

<sup>18</sup> and the fishes that be in the flood shall die; and the waters shall wax rotten, and the Egyptians drinking the water of the flood shall be tormented.

<sup>19</sup> Also the Lord said to Moses, Say thou to Aaron, Take thy rod, and hold forth thine hand on the waters of Egypt, and on the floods of them, and on the streams of them, and on the marshes, and on all the lakes of waters, that those [or they] be turned into blood; and blood be in all the land of Egypt, as well in vessels of wood, as of stone.

<sup>20</sup> And Moses and Aaron did so, as the Lord commanded; and Aaron raised the rod, and smote the water of the flood before Pharaoh and his servants, which water was turned into blood;

<sup>21</sup> and [the] fishes, that were in the flood, died; and the flood was rotten, and [the] Egyptians might not drink the water of the flood; and blood was in all the land of Egypt.

<sup>22</sup> And the witches of [the] Egyptians did in like manner by their enchant-ments; and the heart of Pharaoh was made hard, and he heard not them, as the Lord commanded.

CHAPTER 8

<sup>1</sup> Also the Lord said to Moses, Enter thou to Pharaoh, and thou shalt say to him, The Lord saith these things, Deliver thou my people, that it make sacrifice to me;

<sup>3</sup> and the flood shall boil out paddocks [or frogs], that shall go up, and enter into thine house, and into the closet of thy bed, and on thy bed, and into the houses of thy servants, and into thy people, and into thine ovens, and into the remnants of thy meats;

<sup>5</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Say thou to Aaron, Hold forth thine hand on the floods, and on the streams, and on the marshes; and bring out paddocks on the land of Egypt.

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth and the witches did in like manner by their enchantments; and they brought forth paddocks [or frogs] on the land of Egypt.

<sup>8</sup> Forsooth Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron, and said to them, Pray ye the Lord, that he do away the paddocks [or frogs] from me, and from my people; and I shall deliver the people, that it make sacrifice to the Lord.

<sup>9</sup> And Moses said to Pharaoh, Ordain thou a time to me, when I shall pray for thee, and for thy servants, and for thy people, that the paddocks be driven away from thee, and from thine houses, and from thy servants, and from thy people; and [they] dwell only in the flood.

<sup>10</sup> And he answered, Tomorrow. And Moses said, I shall do by thy word, that thou know, that none is as our Lord God;

<sup>12</sup> And Moses and Aaron went out from Pharaoh. And Moses cried to the Lord, for the promise of paddocks [or frogs], which he had said to Pharaoh.

<sup>13</sup> And the Lord did by the word of Moses; and the paddocks [or frogs] were dead from [the] houses, and from [the] towns, and from [the] fields;

<sup>14</sup> and they gathered them [together] into great heaps [without number], and the land was rotten, or corrupted with stink, [or the earth stank].

<sup>16</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Speak thou to Aaron, Hold forth thy rod, and smite the dust of the earth, and little flies, or gnats, be in all the land of Egypt.

<sup>17</sup> And they did so; and Aaron held forth the hand, and held the rod, and smote the dust of [the] earth; and gnats were made in men, and in work beasts; all the dust of the earth was turned into gnats by all the land of Egypt.

<sup>18</sup> And the witches did in like manner by their enchantments, that they should bring forth gnats, and they might not; and gnats were as well in men as in work beasts.

<sup>19</sup> And the witches said to Pharaoh, This is the finger of God. And the heart of Pharaoh was made hard, and he heard not them, as the Lord commanded.

<sup>20</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Rise thou early, and stand before Pharaoh, for he shall go out to the waters; and thou shalt say to him, The Lord saith these things, Deliver thou my people, that it make sacrifice to me;

<sup>21</sup> that if thou wilt not deliver the people, lo! I shall send into thee, and into thy servants, and into thy people, and into thine houses, all the kinds of flies; and the houses of the Egyptians shall be full-filled with flies of diverse kinds, and all the land in which they shall be.

<sup>22</sup> And in that day I shall make wonderful the land of Goshen, in which my people is, that flies be not there; and that thou know that I am the Lord in the midst of [the] earth;

<sup>24</sup> And the Lord did so. And a most grievous fly, that is, a multitude of flies, came into the house of Pharaoh, and into the houses of his servants, and into all the land of Egypt; and the land was corrupted of such flies.

<sup>26</sup> And Moses said, It may not be [done] so, for why shall we offer to the Lord our God the abominations of Egyptians; that if we shall slay before the Egyptians those things which they worship, they shall throw us down with stones.

<sup>28</sup> And Pharaoh said, I shall deliver you, that ye make sacrifice to the Lord your God in desert; nevertheless go ye not further; pray ye for me.

<sup>29</sup> And Moses said, I shall go out from thee, and I shall pray the Lord; and the fly, that is, the multitude of flies, shall go away from Pharaoh, and from his servants, and his people, tomorrow; nevertheless do not thou more deceive me, that thou deliver not the people to make sacrifice to the Lord.

<sup>32</sup> And the heart of Pharaoh was made hard, so that he delivered not the people, soothly neither in this time.

CHAPTER 9

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth the Lord said to Moses, Enter thou to Pharaoh, and speak thou to him, The Lord God of Hebrews saith these things, Deliver thou my people, that it make sacrifice to me;

<sup>4</sup> and the Lord shall make a marvellous thing betwixt the possessions of Israel and the possessions of the Egyptians, that utterly nothing perish of these things that pertain to the sons of Israel.

<sup>6</sup> Therefore the Lord made this word in the tother day, and all the living beasts of the Egyptians were dead; forsooth utterly nothing perished of the beasts of the sons of Israel.

<sup>7</sup> And Pharaoh sent to see, neither anything was dead of these things which Israel wielded; and the heart of Pharaoh was made full grievous, and he delivered not the people.

<sup>8</sup> And the Lord said to Moses and Aaron, Take ye your hands full of ashes of a chimney, and Moses sprinkle it into heaven before Pharaoh;

<sup>9</sup> and be there dust on all the land of Egypt; for why botches shall be in men, and in work beasts, and swelling bladders shall be in all the land of Egypt.

<sup>10</sup> And they took ashes of a chimney, and they stood before Pharaoh; and Moses sprinkled it into heaven; and wounds of swelling bladders were made in men, and in work beasts;

<sup>11</sup> and the witches might not stand before Moses, for the wounds, or sores, that were in them, and in all the land of Egypt.

<sup>12</sup> And the Lord made hard the heart of Pharaoh, and he heard not them, as the Lord spake to Moses.

<sup>13</sup> Also the Lord said to Moses, Rise thou early, and stand before Pharaoh, and thou shalt say to him, The Lord God of Hebrews saith these things, Deliver thou my people, that it make sacrifice to me;

<sup>14</sup> for in this time I shall send all my vengeance on thine heart, and on thy servants, and on thy people, that thou know, that none is like me in all [the] earth.

<sup>15</sup> For now I shall hold forth mine hand, and I shall smite thee and thy people with pestilence, and thou shalt perish from the earth;

<sup>16</sup> forsooth therefore I have set thee, that I show my strength in thee, and that my name be told in each land.

<sup>22</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Hold forth thine hand into heaven, that hail be made in all the land of Egypt, on men, and on work beasts, and on each herb of the field in the land of Egypt.

<sup>23</sup> And Moses held forth the rod into heaven; and the Lord gave thunders, and hail, and lightnings running about on the land; and the Lord rained hail on the land of Egypt;

<sup>24</sup> and hail and fire meddled [or mingled] together were borne forth; and it was of so much greatness, how great appeared never before in all the land of Egypt, since that people was made.

<sup>25</sup> And the hail smote in all the land of Egypt all things that were in the fields, from man till to work beast; and the hail smote all the herb of the field, and brake all the flax of the country;

<sup>27</sup> And Pharaoh sent, and called Moses and Aaron, and said to them, I have sinned also now; the Lord is just [or rightwise], and I and my people be wicked;

<sup>28</sup> pray ye the Lord, that the thunders and hail of God cease, and I shall deliver you, and dwell ye no more here.

<sup>29</sup> Moses said, When I shall go out of the city, I shall hold forth mine hands to the Lord, and [the] lightnings and thunders shall cease, and hail shall not be, that thou know, that the earth is the Lord's;

<sup>33</sup> And Moses went out from Pharaoh, and from the city, and held forth his hands to the Lord, and thunders and hail ceased, and [the] rain dropped no more on the earth.

<sup>34</sup> Soothly Pharaoh saw that the rain had ceased, and the hail, and thunders, and he increased sin; and the heart of him, and of his servants, was made grievous, <sup>35</sup> and his heart was made hard greatly; neither he let go the sons of Israel, as the Lord commanded by the hand of Moses.

CHAPTER 10

<sup>1</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Enter thou to Pharaoh, for I have made hard the heart of him, and of his servants, that I do these signs of me in him;

<sup>2</sup> and that thou tell in the ears of thy son, and of thy son's sons, how oft I all-brake the Egyptians, and did signs in them; and that ye know that I am the Lord.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore Moses and Aaron entered to Pharaoh, and said to him, The Lord God of Hebrews saith these things, How long wilt thou not be made subject to me? Deliver thou my people, that it make sacrifice to me;

<sup>4</sup> else soothly if thou against-standest, and wilt not deliver it, lo! I shall bring in tomorrow a locust, that is, a multitude of locusts, into thy coasts,

<sup>6</sup> and they shall full-fill thine houses, and the houses of thy servants, and of all the Egyptians, how great thy fathers and thy grand-sires saw not, since they were born on earth, till into this present day. And Moses turned away himself, and went out from Pharaoh.

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth the servants of Pharaoh said to him, How long shall we suffer this offense? Deliver the men, that they make sacrifice to their Lord God; seest thou not that Egypt hath perished?

<sup>8</sup> And they again called Moses and Aaron to Pharaoh, and he said to them, Go ye, and make ye sacrifice to your Lord God; which be they, that shall go?

<sup>9</sup> Moses said, We shall go with our little children and elders, and with sons, and daughters, with sheep, and great beasts; for it is the solemnity of our Lord God.

<sup>10</sup> And Pharaoh answered, So the Lord be with you*; how therefore shall I deliver you, and your little children? to whom is it doubtful, that ye think not the worst things?

<sup>11</sup> It shall not be done so; but go ye men only, and make ye sacrifice to the Lord; for also ye asked this. And anon they were cast out from the sight of Pharaoh.

* CHAPTER 10:10 He said this in scorn, understanding the contrary.

<sup>13</sup> And Moses held forth the rod on the land of Egypt, and the Lord brought in a burning wind all that day and night; and when the morrowtide was made, the burning wind raised [up] locusts,

<sup>14</sup> which ascended [or went up] on all the land of Egypt, and sat in all the coasts of Egyptians; and the locusts were unnumberable, and such were not before that time, neither shall come afterward.

<sup>15</sup> And those [or they] covered all the face of the earth, and wasted all things; therefore the herb of the earth was devoured, and whatever of apples was in trees, which the hail had left, it was devoured; and utterly no green thing was left in trees, and in herbs of the earth, in all Egypt.

<sup>21</sup> Forsooth the Lord said to Moses, Hold forth thine hand into heaven, and darkness/es be on the land of Egypt, so thick that they may be groped.

<sup>23</sup> and in three days no man saw his brother, neither moved himself from that place in which he was. Wherever the children of Israel dwelled, light was.

<sup>24</sup> And Pharaoh called Moses and Aaron, and said to them, Go ye, make ye sacrifice to the Lord; only your sheep and your great beasts dwell still; your little children go with you.

<sup>25</sup> And Moses said, Also thou shalt give to us offerings and burnt sacrifices, which we shall offer to our Lord God;

<sup>26</sup> all the flocks shall go with us, for a claw shall not dwell of those things, that be needful into the worshipping of our Lord God, mostly since we know not what oweth to be offered, till we come to that place.

<sup>28</sup> And Pharaoh said to Moses, Go away from me, and beware that thou see no more my face; in whatever day thou shalt appear to me, thou shalt die.

CHAPTER 11

<sup>8</sup> And all these thy servants shall come down to me, and they shall pray me, and shall say, Go out thou, and all the people which is subject to thee; after these things we shall go out. And Moses full wroth went out from Pharaoh.

<sup>9</sup> Forsooth the Lord said to Moses, Pharaoh shall not hear you, that many signs be made in the land of Egypt.

<sup>10</sup> Soothly Moses and Aaron made all the signs and wonders, that be here written, before Pharaoh; and the Lord made hard the heart of Pharaoh, neither he delivered the sons of Israel from his land.

CHAPTER 12

<sup>3</sup> Speak ye to all the company of the sons of Israel, and say ye to them, In the tenth day of this month, each man take a lamb by his meines and houses;

<sup>4</sup> but if the number is less, that it may not suffice to eat the lamb, he shall take it with his neighbour, which is joined to his house, by the number of souls, that may suffice to the eating of the lamb.

<sup>5</sup> Forsooth the lamb shall be a male of one year, without wem; by which custom ye shall take also a kid, if a lamb may not be had in good manner;

<sup>6</sup> and ye shall keep him till to the fourteenth day of this month; and all the multitude of the sons of Israel shall offer him at eventide.

<sup>7</sup> And they shall take of his blood, and they shall put it on ever either doorpost, and in the lintels, or higher thresholds, of the houses, in which they shall eat him;

<sup>12</sup> And I shall pass through the land of Egypt in that night, and I shall smite all the first engendered or the first begotten things in the land of Egypt, from man till to beast; and I the Lord shall make dooms in all the gods of Egypt.

<sup>13</sup> Forsooth [the] blood shall be to you into sign, in the houses in which ye shall be; and I shall see the blood, and I shall pass over you; neither a wound destroying shall be in you, when I shall smite the land of Egypt.

<sup>16</sup> The first day shall be holy and solemn, and the seventh day shall be worshipful by the same hallowing; ye shall not do any work in those days, except these things that pertain to meat;

<sup>17</sup> and ye shall keep therf bread. For in that same day I shall lead out of the land of Egypt your host; and ye shall keep this day in your generations by everlasting custom.

<sup>19</sup> In seven days nothing dighted with sourdough shall be found in your houses; if any eateth anything dighted with sourdough, his soul shall perish from the company of Israel, as well of comelings, that be heathen men converted to the faith of Jews, as of them that be born in the land.

<sup>21</sup> Forsooth Moses called all the elder men of the sons of Israel, and said to them, Go ye, and take ye a beast by your meines, and offer ye pask;

<sup>23</sup> For the Lord shall pass [forth] smiting the Egyptians; and when he shall see the blood in the lintel, and in ever either doorpost, he shall pass over the door of the house; and he shall not suffer the smiter to enter into your houses, and to hurt you.

<sup>27</sup> ye shall say to them, It is the sacrifice of the passing of the Lord, when he passed over the houses of the sons of Israel in Egypt, and smote the Egyptians, and delivered our houses. And the people was bowed, and worshipped.

<sup>29</sup> Forsooth it was done in the midst of the night, the Lord smote all the first begotten things in the land of Egypt, from the first begotten of Pharaoh, that sat in the throne of him, till to the first begotten of a captive woman, that was in prison, and all the first engendered of beasts.

<sup>30</sup> And Pharaoh rose in the night, and all his servants, and all Egypt; and a great cry was made in Egypt; for none house was, in which a dead man lay not.

<sup>31</sup> And when Moses and Aaron were called in the night, Pharaoh said, Rise ye, and go ye out from my people, both ye and the sons of Israel; go ye, offer ye to the Lord, as ye say;

<sup>35</sup> And the sons of Israel did as the Lord commanded to Moses; and they asked of the Egyptians silver vessels and golden, and full much clothing.

<sup>38</sup> but also the common people of males and of females unnumberable went up with them; sheep, and oxen, and full many beasts of diverse kind also.

<sup>39</sup> And they baked meal, which sprinkled altogether a while ago they took from Egypt, and made therf loaves baken under ashes; for the loaves might not be dighted with sourdough, for [the] Egyptians compelled them to go out, and suffered not them to make any tarrying, neither it was leisure to make any stew.

<sup>41</sup> and when those years were fulfilled, all the host of the Lord went out of the land of Egypt in the same day.

<sup>42</sup> This night is worthy to be kept in the worshipping of the Lord, when he led them out of the land of Egypt; all the sons of Israel ought to keep this night in their generations.

<sup>48</sup> that if any pilgrim will pass into your faith and worshipping, and make [the] pask of the Lord, each male kind of him shall be circumcised before the solemnity, and then he shall make it lawfully, and he shall be together with them as a man born of the land; forsooth if any man is not circum-cised, he shall not eat thereof.

CHAPTER 13

<sup>2</sup> Hallow thou to me each first begotten thing that openeth the womb among the sons of Israel, as well of men as of beasts, for why all be mine.

<sup>3</sup> And Moses said to the people, Have ye mind of this day, in which ye went out of Egypt, and of the house of servage, for in [a] strong hand the Lord led you out of this place, that ye eat no bread dighted with sourdough.

<sup>5</sup> and when the Lord hath led thee into the land of Canaanites, and of Hittites, and of Amorites, and of Hivites, and of Jebusites, which land he swore to thy fathers, that he should give to thee, a land flowing with milk and honey, thou shalt hallow this custom of holy things in this month.

<sup>8</sup> And thou shalt tell to thy son in that day, and shalt say, This it is that the Lord did to me, when I went out of Egypt.

<sup>9</sup> And it shall be as a sign in thine hand, and as a memorial before thine eyes, and that the law of the Lord be ever[more] in thy mouth; for in a strong hand the Lord led thee out of Egypt, and of the house of servage.

<sup>11</sup> And when the Lord hath brought thee into the land of Canaanites, as he swore to thee, and to thy fathers, and hath given it to thee,

<sup>12</sup> thou shalt separate to the Lord all male thing that openeth the womb, and that that is first in thy beasts; whatever thing thou hast of male kind, thou shalt hallow it to the Lord.

<sup>14</sup> And when thy son shall ask thee tomorrow, and say, What is this? thou shalt answer to him, In a strong hand the Lord led us out of the land of Egypt, of the house of servage;

<sup>15</sup> for when Pharaoh was made hard in heart, and would not deliver us, the Lord slew all the first begotten thing in the land of Egypt, from the first begotten of man, till to the first engendered of beasts; therefore I offer to the Lord all thing of male kind that openeth the womb, and I again-buy all the first begotten things of my sons.

<sup>16</sup> Therefore it shall be as a sign in thine hand, and as a thing hanged for mind before thine eyes, for in a strong hand the Lord led us out of Egypt.

<sup>17</sup> Therefore when Pharaoh had sent out the people, God led not them out by the way of the land of Philistines, which is nigh; and areckoning lest peradventure it would repent the people, if he had seen battles rise against him, and the people would turn again into Egypt;

<sup>18</sup> but God led the people about by the way of desert, which way is beside the Red Sea. And the sons of Israel were armed, and went up from the land of Egypt.

<sup>19</sup> And Moses took the bones of Joseph with him, for he had charged the sons of Israel, and had said, God shall visit you, and bear ye out from hence my bones with you.

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel; turn they again, and set they tents even against Pihahiroth, which is betwixt Migdol and the sea, against Baalzephon; and in the sight thereof ye shall set tents on the sea.

<sup>4</sup> And I shall make hard his heart, and he shall pursue you, and I shall be glorified in Pharaoh, and in all his host; and the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord; and they did so.

<sup>5</sup> And it was told to the king of the Egyptians, that the people had fled; and the heart of Pharaoh and of his servants was changed on the people, and they said, What would we do, that we let go Israel, that it should not serve us?

<sup>8</sup> And the Lord made hard the heart of Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and he pursued the sons of Israel; and they were gone out in an high hand.

<sup>9</sup> And when the Egyptians pursued the steps of the sons of Israel before-going, they found them in tents on the sea; all the chivalry, and [the] chariots of Pharaoh, and all the host were in Pihahiroth, against Baalzephon.

<sup>10</sup> And when Pharaoh had nighed, the sons of Israel raised [up] their eyes, and they saw the Egyptians behind them, and they dreaded greatly; and they cried to the Lord,

<sup>11</sup> and said to Moses, In hap sepulchres were not in Egypt, therefore thou hast taken us away, that we shall die in wilderness? what wouldest thou do this, that thou leddest us out of Egypt?

<sup>12</sup> Whether this is not the word that we spake to thee in Egypt, saying, Go away from us, that we serve the Egyptians? for it is much better to serve them, than to die in wilderness.

<sup>15</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, What criest thou to me? Speak thou to the sons of Israel, that they go forth;

<sup>16</sup> forsooth raise thou thy rod, and stretch forth thine hand on the sea, and part thou it, that the sons of Israel go in the midst of the sea, by dry place.

<sup>17</sup> Forsooth I shall make hard the hearts of [the] Egyptians, that they pursue you, and I shall be glorified in Pharaoh, and in all the host of him, and in the chariots of him, and in the knights of him;

<sup>18</sup> and [the] Egyptians shall know that I am the Lord God, when I shall be glorified in Pharaoh, and in the chariots, and in the knights of him.

<sup>19</sup> And the angel of the Lord, that went before the castles or tents of Israel, took himself, and went behind them; and the pillar of cloud went together with him, and left the former things after the back,

<sup>20</sup> and stood betwixt the castles [or the tents] of Egyptians and the castles [or the tents] of Israel; and the cloud was dark toward the Egyptians, and it was lightening the night toward Israel, so that in all the time of the night, they might not [come] nigh together to themselves.

<sup>21</sup> And when Moses had stretched forth his hand on the sea, the Lord took away the sea, the while a great wind and a burning blew in all the night, and turned the sea into dryness; and the water was parted.

<sup>24</sup> And the watch of the morrowtide came then, and lo! the Lord beheld on the castles [or the tents] of the Egyptians, by a pillar of fire, and of cloud, and killed the host of them;

<sup>25</sup> and he destroyed the wheels of [the] chariots, and those [or they] were borne into the depth. Therefore the Egyptians said, Flee we Israel; for the Lord fighteth for them against us.

<sup>26</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Hold forth thine hand on the sea, that the waters turn again to [the] Egyptians, on the chariots, and on the knights of them.

<sup>27</sup> And when Moses had held forth his hand against the sea, it turned again first in the morrowtide to the former place; and when the Egyptians fled, the waters came against them, and the Lord wrapped them in the midst of the flood.

<sup>30</sup> And in that day the Lord delivered Israel from the hand of [the] Egyptians, and they saw the Egyptians dead on the brink of the sea, <sup>31</sup> and they saw the great hand, or power; or might, which the Lord had used against the Egyptians; and the people dreaded the Lord, and they believed to the Lord, and to Moses his servant.

CHAPTER 15

<sup>1</sup> Then Moses sang, and the sons of Israel, this song to the Lord; and they said, Sing we to the Lord, for he is magnified gloriously; he hath cast down the horse and the horseman into the sea.

<sup>2</sup> My strength and my praising is the Lord; and he is made to me into health. This is my God, and I shall glorify him; the God of my father, and I shall enhance or exalt him.

<sup>9</sup> The enemy said, I shall pursue, and I shall overtake; I shall part spoils, my soul, that is, my will, shall be fulfilled. I shall draw out my sword; mine hand shall slay them.

<sup>21</sup> to which she sang before, and said, Sing we to the Lord, for he is magnified gloriously; he hath cast down into the sea the horse and the rider of him.

<sup>22</sup> Forsooth Moses took Israel from the Red Sea, and they went out into the desert of Shur; and they went three days by the wilderness, and they found not water.

<sup>23</sup> And they came into Marah, and they might not drink the waters of Marah, for they were bitter; wherefore he putted a covenantable name to the place, and called it Marah, that is, bitterness.

<sup>25</sup> And Moses cried to the Lord, which showed to him a tree; and when he had put that tree into the waters, those [or they] were turned into sweetness. There the Lord ordained commandments and dooms to the people, and there he assayed the people,

<sup>26</sup> and said, If thou shalt hear the voice of thy Lord God, and shalt do that that is rightful before him, and shalt obey to his commandments, and shalt keep all his behests, I shall not bring in on thee all the sickness, which I have put in Egypt, for I am thy Lord Saviour.

CHAPTER 16

<sup>1</sup> And they went forth from Elim, and all the multitude of the sons of Israel came into the desert of Sin, which is betwixt Elim and Sinai, in the fifteenth day of the second month, after that they went out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>3</sup> And the sons of Israel said to them, We would that we had been dead by the hand of the Lord in the land of Egypt, when we sat on the flesh pots, and ate loaves in plenty; why led ye us into this desert, that ye should slay all the multitude with hunger?

<sup>4</sup> Forsooth the Lord said to Moses, Lo! I shall rain to you loaves from heaven; the people go out, that it gather those things that suffice by each day; that I assay the people, whether it go in my law, or not.

<sup>5</sup> Soothly in the sixth day, make they ready that that they shall bear in, and be it double over that they were wont to gather by each day.

<sup>6</sup> And Moses and Aaron said to all the sons of Israel, At eventide ye shall know that the Lord [hath] led you out of the land of Egypt;

<sup>7</sup> and in the morrowtide ye shall see the glory of the Lord; for I heard your grutching against the Lord; soothly what be we, for ye grutch against us?

<sup>8</sup> And Moses said, The Lord shall give to you at eventide flesh to eat, and loaves in the morrowtide in plenty, for he [hath] heard your grutchings, by which ye grutched against him; for why, what be we? your grutching is not against us, but against the Lord.

<sup>9</sup> And Moses said to Aaron, Say thou to all the congregation of the sons of Israel, Nigh ye before the Lord, for he [hath] heard your grutching.

<sup>10</sup> And when Aaron spake to all the company of the sons of Israel, they beheld to the wilderness, and lo! the glory of the Lord appeared in a cloud.

<sup>12</sup> I heard the grutchings of the sons of Israel; speak thou to them, At eventide ye shall eat flesh, and in the morrowtide ye shall be filled with loaves, and ye shall know that I am the Lord your God.

<sup>13</sup> Therefore eventide was made, and curlews went up, and covered the castles [or the tents]; and in the morrowtide dew came before the face of the castles [or the tents].

<sup>14</sup> And when it had covered the earth, a little thing, and as pounded with a pestle, in the likeness of an hoarfrost on the earth, appeared in the wilderness.

<sup>15</sup> And when the sons of Israel had seen that, they said together, Man na? which signifieth, What is this? for they wist not what it was. To whom Moses said, This is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat.

<sup>18</sup> and they meted [or measured it] at the measure of omer; neither he that gathered more had more, neither he that made ready less found less, but all gathered by that that they might eat.

<sup>22</sup> Soothly in the sixth day they gathered double meats, that is, two omers each man. Forsooth all the princes of the multitude came, and told to Moses,

<sup>23</sup> which said to them, This it is that the Lord spake, The rest of the sabbath is hallowed to the Lord; do ye what-ever thing shall be wrought tomorrow, and seethe ye those things that shall be sodden; soothly whatever thing is residue, or left over, keep ye it till into the morrow.

<sup>29</sup> See ye that the Lord gave to you the sabbath, and for that he hath given to you in the sixth day double meats; each man dwell at himself, no man go out of his place in the seventh day.

<sup>31</sup> And the house of Israel called the name thereof manna, which was white, as the seed of coriander, and the taste thereof was as of flour with honey.

<sup>32</sup> Forsooth Moses said, This is the word which the Lord commanded, Fill thou an omer thereof, and be it kept into generations to coming [or to come] afterward, that they know the bread with which I fed you in wilder-ness, when ye were led out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>33</sup> And Moses said to Aaron, Take thou a vessel, and put therein manna, as much as an omer may take, and put it before the Lord, to be kept into your generations,

<sup>35</sup> Forsooth the sons of Israel ate manna forty years, till they came into the land habitable, that is, able to be inhabited; they were fed with this meat, till they touched the coasts of the land of Canaan.

CHAPTER 17

<sup>2</sup> Which people chided against Moses, and said, Give water to us, that we drink. To whom Moses answered, What chide ye against me, and why tempt ye the Lord?

<sup>3</sup> Therefore the people thirsted there for the scarceness of water, and they grutched against Moses, and said, Why madest thou us to go out of Egypt, to slay us, and our free children, and our beasts, for thirst?

<sup>4</sup> Forsooth Moses cried to the Lord, and said, What shall I do to this people? yet a little, and it shall stone me.

<sup>6</sup> lo! I shall stand there before thee, above the stone of Horeb, and thou shalt smite the stone, and water shall go out thereof, that the people drink. Moses did so before the elder men of Israel;

<sup>7</sup> and he called the name of that place Temptation, for the chiding of the sons of Israel, and for they tempted the Lord, and said, Whether the Lord is in us, or nay?

<sup>9</sup> And Moses said to Joshua, Choose thou men, and go out, and fight tomorrow against the men of Amalek; lo! I shall stand in the top of the hill, and I shall have the rod of God in mine hand.

<sup>12</sup> Soothly Moses' hands were made heavy, therefore they took a stone, and put under him, on which stone he sat. Forsooth Aaron and Hur sustained his hands, on ever either side; and it was done, that his hands were not made weary, till to the going down of the sun.

<sup>16</sup> and he said, For it is the hand of the Lord alone, and the battle of God shall be against Amalek, from generation into generation.

CHAPTER 18

<sup>1</sup> And when Jethro, the priest of Midian, the ally, either father of the wife of Moses, had heard all things which God had done to Moses, and to Israel his people, for the Lord had led Israel out of the land of Egypt,

<sup>3</sup> and his two sons, of which one was called Gershom, for the father at his birth said, I was a comeling in an alien land,

<sup>4</sup> forsooth the tother was called Eliezer, for Moses at his birth said, God of my father is mine helper, and he delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore Jethro, ally of Moses, came, and the sons of Moses and his wife came to Moses, into desert, where Jethro set tents beside the hill of God;

<sup>7</sup> And Moses went out into the coming of his ally, and worshipped or honoured, and kissed him, and they greeted themselves together with peaceable words. And when Jethro had entered into the tabernacle, <sup>8</sup> Moses told to him all things which God had done to Pharaoh, and to the Egyptians, for Israel, and he told to him all the travail that befell to them in the way, of which the Lord had delivered them.

<sup>9</sup> And Jethro was glad on all the goods which the Lord had done to Israel, for he [had] delivered Israel from the hand of [the] Egyptians.

<sup>10</sup> And Jethro said, Blessed be the Lord, that delivered you from the hands of the Egyptians, and from the hand of Pharaoh, the which Lord delivered his people from the hand or power of Egypt;

<sup>13</sup> Forsooth in the tother day, Moses sat that he should deem the people, which stood nigh to Moses, from the morrowtide till to the eventide.

<sup>14</sup> And when his ally had seen this, that is, all things which he did in the people, he said, What is this that thou doest in the people? why sittest thou alone, and all the people abideth thee from the morrowtide till to eventide?

<sup>16</sup> and when any strife befalleth to them, they come to me, that I deem betwixt them, and show the command-ments of God, and his laws.

<sup>19</sup> But hear thou my words, and my counsels, and the Lord shall be with thee; be thou to the people in these things that pertain to God, that thou tell the things that be said to the people;

<sup>20</sup> and show to the people the ceremonies, and [the] customs of worshipping, and the way by which they owe to go, and the work which they owe to do.

<sup>21</sup> Forsooth purvey thou of all the people wise men, and dreading God, in which is truth, and which hate avarice; and ordain thou of them tribunes [or rulers upon thousands], and centurions [or rulers upon hundreds], and quinquagenaries [or rulers upon fifty], and deans [or rulers upon ten], <sup>22</sup> which shall deem the people in all time; soothly whatever thing is greater, tell they to thee, and deem they only [the] lesser things, and be it easier to thee, when the burden is parted into other men.

<sup>23</sup> If thou shalt do this, thou shalt fulfill the commandment of God, and thou shalt be able to bear his com-mandments; and all this people shall turn again with peace to their places.

<sup>25</sup> And when noble men of all Israel were chosen, Moses ordained them princes of the people, tribunes [or rulers upon thousands], and centurions [or rulers upon hundreds], and quin-quagenaries [or rulers upon fifty], and deans [or rulers upon ten],

CHAPTER 19

<sup>2</sup> for they went forth from Rephidim, and came till into the desert of Sinai, and they setted tents in the same place; and there Israel setted tents, even against the hill.

<sup>3</sup> Forsooth Moses went up into the hill to God; and the Lord called him from the mount, and said, Thou shalt say these things to the house of Jacob, and thou shalt tell to the sons of Israel,

<sup>5</sup> Therefore if ye shall hear my voice, and shall keep my covenant, ye shall be to me into a specialty of all peoples, that is, a thing loved excellently; for all the earth is mine;

<sup>6</sup> and ye shall be to me into a realm of priesthood, and an holy folk; these be the words which thou shalt speak to the sons of Israel.

<sup>7</sup> Moses came, and when the greater men in birth of the people were called together, he expounded all the words which the Lord commanded him.

<sup>8</sup> And all the people answered together, We shall do all [the] things which the Lord hath spoken. And when Moses had told the words of the people to the Lord,

<sup>9</sup> the Lord said to him, Right now I shall come to thee in the darkness of a cloud, that the people hear me speaking to thee, and believe to thee without end. Therefore Moses told the words of the people to the Lord,

<sup>10</sup> which said to Moses, Go thou to the people, and make them holy today and tomorrow, and wash they their clothes,

<sup>11</sup> and be they ready into the third day; for in the third day the Lord shall come down before all the people on the hill of Sinai.

<sup>12</sup> And thou shalt set terms to the people, by compass; and thou shalt say to them, Be ye ware, that ye go not up into the hill, neither touch ye the ends thereof; each man that shall touch the hill, shall die by death.

<sup>13</sup> Hands shall not touch him, but he shall be oppressed with stones, or he shall be pierced with darts; whether it shall be a beast, or a man, it shall not live; when a clarion shall begin to sound, then go they up into the hill.

<sup>16</sup> And now the third day was come, and the morrowtide was clear; and, lo! thunders began to be heard, and lightnings to shine, and a most thick cloud to cover the mountain; and the sounding of a clarion made noise full greatly, and the people dreaded, that was in the tents.

<sup>18</sup> Forsooth all the hill of Sinai smoked, for the Lord had come down thereon in fire; and the smoke thereof went up as of a furnace, and all the hill was fearful;

<sup>19</sup> and the sound of a clarion increased little and little, and it was holden forth longer. Moses spake, and the Lord answered him,

<sup>20</sup> and the Lord came down on the hill of Sinai, in that top of the hill, and he called Moses to the top thereof. And when he had gone up thither,

<sup>21</sup> the Lord said to him, Go thou down, and witness thou to the people, lest peradventure it will pass [over] the terms to see the Lord, and [a] full great multitude thereof perish;

<sup>23</sup> And Moses said to the Lord, The common people may not go up into the hill of Sinai; for thou hast witnessed, and hast commanded, saying, Set thou terms about the hill, and hallow it.

<sup>24</sup> To whom the Lord said, Go thou down, and thou shalt go up, and bring Aaron with thee; forsooth the priests and the people pass not over the terms, neither go they up to the Lord, lest peradventure he slay them.

<sup>5</sup> thou shalt not bow down to them, neither worship them; for I am thy Lord God, a strongly jealous lover; I visit the wickedness of fathers in children into the third and fourth generation of them that hated me,

<sup>10</sup> forsooth in the seventh day is the sabbath of thy Lord God; thou shalt not do any work on that day, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy manservant, and thine handmaid, thy work beast, and the comeling that is within thy gates;

<sup>11</sup> for in six days God made heaven and earth, the sea, and all things that be in those [or them], and rested in the seventh day; therefore the Lord blessed the sabbath day, and hallowed it.

<sup>18</sup> Forsooth all the people heard voices, that is, the thunder, and saw lamps, that is, shining lights, and the sound of a clarion, and the hill smoking; and they were afeared, and shaken with inward dread, and stood afar,

<sup>19</sup> and said to Moses, Speak thou to us, and we shall hear; the Lord speak not to us, lest peradventure we die.

<sup>20</sup> And Moses said to the people, Do not ye dread, for God came to prove you, and that his dread should be in you, and that ye should not do sin.

<sup>22</sup> And the Lord said furthermore to Moses, Thou shalt say these things to the sons of Israel, Ye saw that from heaven I have spoken to you;

<sup>24</sup> Ye shall make an altar of earth to me, and ye shall offer thereon your burnt sacrifices, and peaceable sacrifices, your sheep, and oxen; in each place in which the mind of my name shall be, I shall come to thee, and I shall bless thee.

<sup>25</sup> That if thou shalt make an altar of stone to me, thou shalt not build it of stones hewn; for if thou shalt raise thy knife thereupon, or other instrument wherewith blood may be shed out, it shall be polluted.

<sup>5</sup> And if the servant saith, I love my lord, and my wife, and children, I will not go out free;

<sup>6</sup> his lord shall bring him to [the] gods, that is, judges; and he shall be set to the door, and to the doorposts; and his lord shall pierce his ear with an awl, and he shall be servant to him till into the world.

<sup>8</sup> if she displeaseth in the eyes of her lord, to whom she was betaken, he shall deliver her; soothly he shall not have power to sell her to an alien people, if he forsaketh her.

<sup>10</sup> and if he take with this handmaid another woman, or wife, to his son, he shall purvey to the first damsel, or handmaid, weddings, and clothes, and he shall not deny her the price of her chastity, that is, the hour of yielding debt.

<sup>18</sup> If men chide, and the tother smite his neighbour with a stone, or with the fist, and he is not dead, but lieth in the bed,

<sup>19</sup> if he riseth, and goeth forth on his staff, he that smote shall be innocent; so nevertheless that he restore to him for his travails, and his costs in leeches.

<sup>21</sup> Soothly if the servant liveth over this beating one day, or twain [or two], the smiter shall not be subject to the pain of death, for the servant is his master's chattel.

<sup>22</sup> If men chide, and a man smiteth a woman with child, and soothly he maketh the child dead-born, but the woman liveth over that smiting, he shall be subject to the harm, as much as the woman's husband asketh, and as the judges deem.

<sup>29</sup> That if the ox was an horn-putter from yesterday and the third day ago, and men warned his lord, neither the lord enclosed him, and he slayeth a man, or a woman, both the ox shall be thrown adown with stones, and they shall slay his lord;

<sup>35</sup> If one man's ox woundeth the ox of another man, and he is dead, they shall sell the quick ox, and they shall part [or divide] the price; soothly they shall part betwixt them the carcass of the dead ox.

<sup>36</sup> Forsooth if the lord knew, that his ox was a horn-putter from yesterday and the third day ago, and kept not him in, he shall yield ox for ox, and he shall take the whole dead carcass.

CHAPTER 22

<sup>2</sup> And if a night thief breaking into an house, either undermining, is found, and he taken is dead by a wound, or hurt, the smiter shall not be guilty of his blood, or death;

<sup>3</sup> that if he did this when the sun was risen, he did manslaying, and he shall die. If a thief have not that, that he shall yield for [the] theft, he shall be sold;

<sup>5</sup> If a man harmeth a field, or a vinery [or vineyard], and suffereth his beast, that it waste other men's things, he shall restore for the value of [the] harm, the best things what-ever he hath in his field, either in his vinery [or vineyard].

<sup>6</sup> If fire goeth out, and findeth, or burneth, ears of corn, and catcheth heaps of corn, or corns standing in fields, he that kindled the fire shall yield the harm.

<sup>7</sup> If a man betaketh into keeping money to a friend, or a vessel, and it is taken away by theft from him that received it, if the thief is found, he shall restore the double.

<sup>8</sup> If the thief is hid, or unknown, the lord of the house that received that good shall be brought to the gods, that is, to judges, and he shall swear, that he held not forth his hand into his neighbour's thing, to defraud;

<sup>9</sup> as well in ox, as in ass, and in sheep, and in clothes; and in what-ever thing may bring in harm, the cause of ever either shall come to the judges, and if they deem him guilty, he shall restore the double to his neighbour.

<sup>10</sup> If any man betaketh to his neighbour ox, ass, sheep, and all work beast to keeping, and it is dead, or is made feeble, or is taken of enemies, and no man seeth this,

<sup>13</sup> if it is eaten of a beast, he shall bring to the lord that that is slain, and he shall not restore it otherwise.

<sup>15</sup> that if the lord is in presence, he shall not restore it, mostly if it came hired, that is, if to hire he took it, for meed of his work.

<sup>24</sup> and my great vengeance shall have indignation on you, and I shall smite you with sword, and your wives shall be widows, and your sons shall be fatherless.

<sup>26</sup> If thou takest of thy neighbour a cloth to wed or a cloak for a pledge, thou shalt yield it to him before the going down of the sun;

<sup>27</sup> for that alone is the clothing of his flesh, with which he is covered, neither he hath another, in which he shall sleep; if he crieth to me, I shall hear him; for I am merciful.

<sup>30</sup> also of [thine] oxen, and of sheep, thou shalt do in like manner; seven days be he with his mother, in the eighth day thou shalt yield him to me.

CHAPTER 23

<sup>5</sup> If thou seest that the ass of him that hateth thee lieth under a burden, thou shalt not pass by, but thou shalt raise up it with him.

<sup>12</sup> Six days thou shalt work, and in the seventh day thou shalt cease, that thine ox, and thine ass rest, and the son of thine handmaid, and the comeling be refreshed.

<sup>13</sup> Keep ye all things, which I [have] said to you; and ye shall not swear by the name of alien gods, neither it shall be heard of your mouth.

<sup>15</sup> Thou shalt keep the solemnity of therf loaves; seven days thou shalt eat therf bread, as I commanded to thee, in the time of [the] month of new things, when thou wentest out of Egypt; thou shalt not appear void in my sight.

* CHAPTER 23:16 Also known as the Feast of the Harvest, the Feast of Weeks and the Feast of the First Fruits.

† CHAPTER 23:16 Also known as the Feast of Tabernacles, the Feast of Booths, the Feast of Shelters, and the Feast of Ingathering.

<sup>20</sup> Lo! I send mine angel, that shall go before thee, and shall keep thee in the way, and shall lead thee to the place which I have made ready to thee.

<sup>21</sup> Take thou heed to him, and hear thou his voice, neither guess thou him to be despised, or despisable; for he shall not forgive, when thou sinnest, and my name is in him.

<sup>22</sup> For if thou hearest his voice, and doest all things which I speak, I shall be enemy to thine enemies, and I shall torment them, that torment thee;

<sup>27</sup> I shall send my dread into thy before-going, and I shall slay all the people, to which thou shalt enter, and I shall turn the backs of all thine enemies before thee;

<sup>31</sup> Forsooth and I shall set thy terms from the Red Sea till to the sea of Palestines, and from the desert till to the flood. I shall give into your hands the dwellers of the land, and I shall cast them out from your sight;

CHAPTER 24

<sup>1</sup> Also he said to Moses, Go thou up to the Lord, thou, and Aaron, and Nadab, and Abihu, and [the] seventy elder men of Israel; and ye shall worship afar,

<sup>3</sup> Therefore Moses came, and told to the people all the words and the dooms of the Lord; and all the people answered with one voice, We shall do all the words of the Lord which he hath spoken.

<sup>4</sup> Forsooth Moses wrote all the words of the Lord; and he rose early, and builded an altar to the Lord at the roots of the hill, and he builded twelve titles, or stones, by twelve lineages of Israel.

<sup>7</sup> And he took the book of the bond of peace, and read [it], while the people heard; the which said, We shall do all things that the Lord spake, and we shall be obedient.

<sup>8</sup> Forsooth Moses took the blood, and sprinkled it on the people, and said, This is the blood of the bond of peace, which the Lord covenanted with you on all these words.

<sup>9</sup> And Moses, and Aaron, and Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elder men of Israel went up, <sup>10</sup> and saw [the] God of Israel; under his feet, they saw as the work of a sapphire stone, and as heaven when it is clear.

<sup>11</sup> And he sent not his hand on the lords of the sons of Israel, that had gone far away; and they saw God, and ate and drank.

<sup>12</sup> Forsooth the Lord said to Moses, Come thou up to me into the hill, and be thou there, and I shall give to thee tables of stone, and the law, and commandments, which I have written, that thou teach them.

<sup>14</sup> and said to the elder men, Abide ye here, till we turn again to you; ye have Aaron and Hur with you, if anything of question be made, ye shall tell [it] to them.

<sup>16</sup> and the glory of the Lord dwelled upon Sinai, and covered it with a cloud six days; forsooth in the seventh day, the Lord called him from the midst of the cloud;

CHAPTER 25

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, that they take to me the first fruits; of each man that offereth willfully, ye shall take those [things].

<sup>6</sup> and oil to lights to be ordained, sweet smelling spiceries into ointment, and incense of good odour,

<sup>10</sup> And thus ye shall make it; join together an ark, or a coffer, of the wood of shittim, whose length shall have two cubits and an half, the breadth shall have one cubit and an half, the height in like manner one cubit and an half.

<sup>12</sup> and four golden rings, which thou shalt set by [the] four corners of the ark; two rings be in [the] one side, and two rings in the other side.

<sup>14</sup> and thou shalt bring in by the rings that be in the sides of the ark, that it be borne in them,

<sup>17</sup> And thou shalt make a propiti-atory* of cleanest gold; that is, a table covering the ark, [or a place of purchasing mercy]; the length thereof shall hold two cubits and an half, [and] the breadth shall hold one cubit and an half.

<sup>18</sup> Also thou shalt make on ever either side of God's answering place, two cherubims [or cherubim] of gold, and beaten out with an hammer;

<sup>21</sup> with which the ark of the Lord shall be covered, in which ark thou shalt put the witnessing [or the testimony], that is, the tables of the law, that I shall give to thee.

<sup>22</sup> From thence I shall command, and I shall speak to thee above the propitiatory, that is, from the midst of [the] two cherubims [or cherubim], that shall be on the ark of witnessing, all things which I shall command by thee to the sons of Israel.

<sup>23</sup> Also thou shalt make a board of the wood of shittim, having two cubits of length, and one cubit of broadness, and one cubit and an half in height.

<sup>33</sup> Three cups as in the manner of a nut by each rod, and [the] little roundels [or balls] together, and a lily, and in like manner three cups at the likeness of a nut in the tother rod, and little roundels together, and a lily; this shall be the work of six rods, that shall be brought forth [out] of the candlestick shaft.

<sup>35</sup> and the little roundels [or balls] shall be under two rods by three places, the which rods altogether be made six, coming forth of one shaft;

* CHAPTER 25:17 Also known as 'God's answering place' and 'the mercy seat'.

CHAPTER 26

<sup>5</sup> One curtain shall have fifty eye-lets in ever either part, so set in, that one eyelet come against another eyelet, and that the one curtain may be shaped to the tother.

<sup>8</sup> the length of one say shall have thirty cubits, and the breadth shall have four cubits; even measure shall be of all the says.

<sup>9</sup> Of which thou shalt join five by themselves, and thou shalt couple six to themselves together, so that thou double the sixth say in the front of the roof.

<sup>10</sup> And thou shalt make fifty eyelets in the hem of [the] one say, that it may be joined to the tother; and fifty eyelets in the hem of the tother say, that it be coupled with the tother;

<sup>19</sup> to the which boards thou shalt set forty silveren bases, that two bases be set [or put] under each board, by two corners.

<sup>23</sup> and again thou shalt make twain [or two] other boards, that shall be raised, or set up, in the corners on the back half of the tabernacle;

<sup>24</sup> and the boards shall be joined to themselves from beneath till to above, and one joining shall withhold [or hold] all the boards. And like joining shall be kept to the two boards, that shall be set [or put] in the corners,

<sup>33</sup> Forsooth the veil shall be set in by the rings, within which veil thou shalt set [or put] the ark of witnessing, whereby the saintuary, and the saintuary of saintuaries, shall be separated.

<sup>34</sup> And thou shalt set [or put] the propitiatory, that is, a golden table covering the ark of God, on the ark of [the] witnessing, into the holy of holy things;

<sup>35</sup> and thou shalt set a board without the veil, and against the board thou shalt set the candlestick in the south side of the tabernacle; for the board shall stand in the north side.

CHAPTER 27

<sup>1</sup> Also thou shalt make an altar of the wood of shittim, which shall have five cubits in length, and so many in breadth, that is, square, and three cubits in height.

<sup>7</sup> and thou shalt lead in the bars by the rings, and they shall be on ever either side of the altar, to bear.

<sup>14</sup> in which the curtains of fifteen cubits shall be assigned to one side, and three pillars, and so many bases;

<sup>15</sup> and in the other side shall be curtains holding fifteen cubits, and three pillars, and so many bases.

<sup>18</sup> The great porch shall occupy an hundred cubits in length, fifty in breadth; the height of the curtains shall be of five cubits; and it shall be made of bis folded again; and it shall have brazen bases.

<sup>20</sup> Command thou also to the sons of Israel, that they bring to thee the cleanest oil of olive trees, and pounded with a pestle, that a lantern burn ever~~[more]~~

<sup>21</sup> in the tabernacle of witnessing without the veil, which is hanged in the tabernacle of witnessing; and Aaron and his sons shall set it, that it shine before the Lord from eventide till the morrowtide; it shall be everlasting worshipping by their successions, or after-comings, of the sons of Israel.

CHAPTER 28

<sup>1</sup> Also apply [or present] thou to thee, or bring to thy presence, Aaron, thy brother, with his sons, from the midst of the sons of Israel, that Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar, be set in priesthood to me.

<sup>3</sup> And thou shalt speak to all [the] wise men in heart, which I have filled with the spirit of prudence, that they make clothes to Aaron, in which he shall be hallowed, and shall minister to me.

<sup>4</sup> Forsooth these shall be the clothes, which they shall make; they shall make a rational, that is, an ouch or brooch upon the breast, in which doom and truth, or Urim and Thum-mim shall be written, and a cloth on the shoulders [or cape], a coat, and a strait linen cloth, a mitre, and a girdle; holy clothes to Aaron, thy brother, and to his sons, that they be set in priesthood to me.

<sup>6</sup> forsooth they shall make the cloth on the shoulders [or cape] of gold, and of jacinth, and of purple, and of red silk twice-dyed, and of bis folded again, by embroidery work [or needle-work] of diverse colours.

<sup>8</sup> That weaving, and all [the] diversity of the work shall be of gold, and of jacinth, and of purple, and of red silk twice-dyed, and of bis folded again.

<sup>15</sup> Also thou shalt make the rational of doom by work of diverse colours, after the weaving of the cloth on the shoulders [or cape], of gold, jacinth, and purple, of red silk twice-dyed, and of bis folded again.

<sup>20</sup> and in the fourth order shall be crystallite, onyx, and beryl; these [or they] shall be enclosed in gold, by their orders,

<sup>25</sup> and thou shalt couple the ends of the chains to the two hooks in ever either side of the cloth on the shoulders [or cape], that beholdeth the rational.

<sup>26</sup> And thou shalt make two golden rings, which thou shalt set in the high-ness of the rational, and in the hems of the cloth on the shoulders [or cape], that be even against, and behold the latter things thereof.

<sup>27</sup> Also and thou shalt make twain [or two] other golden rings, that shall be set in ever either side of the cloth on the shoulders [or cape] beneath, that beholdeth against the face of the lower joining, that it may be set covenantly with the cloth on the shoulders [or cape].

<sup>28</sup> And the rational be bound by his rings with the rings of the cloth on the shoulders [or cape], with a lace of jacinth, that the joining made may craftily dwell, and that the rational and the cloth on the shoulders [or cape] may not be separated each from other.

<sup>30</sup> Forsooth thou shalt set in the rational of doom, teaching and truth or Urim and Thummim, which shall be in the breast of Aaron, when he entereth before the Lord; and he shall bear the doom of the sons of Israel in his breast in the sight of the Lord ever[more].

<sup>35</sup> And Aaron shall be clothed with that coat, or alb, in the office of his service, that the sound be heard, when he entereth into the saintuary, and goeth out, in the sight of the Lord; and that he die not.

<sup>36</sup> And thou shalt make a plate of purest gold, in which thou shalt engrave by the work of an engraver, The Holy to the Lord, that is, the name of the Lord, Tetragrammaton.

<sup>37</sup> And thou shalt bind that plate with a lace of jacinth, and it shall be on the mitre, and it shall nigh [to] the forehead of the bishop.

<sup>38</sup> And Aaron shall bear the wicked-nesses of those things that the sons of Israel shall offer, and hallow in all their gifts to God, and in their free gifts to men; and the plate shall ever[more] be in Aaron's forehead, that the Lord be pleased to them.

<sup>41</sup> And thou shalt clothe Aaron, thy brother, with all these things, and his sons with him. And thou shalt anoint them, and make sacred the hands of them all; and thou shalt hallow them, that they be set in priesthood to me.

<sup>43</sup> And Aaron and his sons shall use those breeches, when they shall enter into the tabernacle of witnessing, or when they nigh to the altar, that they minister in the saintuary, lest they be guilty of wickedness, and die; it shall be a lawful thing everlasting to Aaron, and to his seed after him.

CHAPTER 29

<sup>1</sup> But also thou shalt do this, that they be made sacred to me in priest-hood; take thou a calf of the drove, and two rams without wem,

<sup>12</sup> And thou shalt take the blood of the calf, and thou shalt put it with thy finger upon the corners of the altar. Forsooth thou shalt shed [or pour] the other blood that is left beside the fundament or base of the altar.

<sup>13</sup> And thou shalt take all the fatness that covereth the entrails, and the caul of the maw, and the two kidneys, and the fatness that is on them; and thou shalt offer them as incense upon the altar.

<sup>22</sup> thou shalt take the inner fatness of the ram, and the tail, and the fatness that covereth the entrails, and the caul of the maw, and the two kidneys, and the fatness that is on them; and thou shalt take the right shoulder, for it is the ram of consecration;

<sup>26</sup> Also thou shalt take the breast of the ram, by which Aaron was hallowed, and thou shalt hallow it, raised [up] before the Lord; and it shall turn into thy part.

<sup>27</sup> And thou shalt hallow also the breast made sacred, and the shoulder which thou separatedest from the ram, by which Aaron was hallowed, and his sons;

<sup>28</sup> and they shall turn into the part of Aaron, and of his sons, by everlasting right, of the sons of Israel; for they be the first things, and the beginning/s of the peaceable sacrifices of them, which they offer to the Lord.

<sup>29</sup> Forsooth the sons of Aaron shall have after him the holy clothes, which Aaron shall use, that they be anointed therein, and that their hands be made sacred.

<sup>30</sup> That of his sons, that shall be made bishop for him, shall use that cloth seven days, and which son shall enter into the tabernacle of witnessing, that he minister in the saintuary.

<sup>33</sup> that it be a pleasing sacrifice, and that the hands of the offerers be hallowed. An alien shall not eat of these things, for they be holy.

<sup>36</sup> and thou shalt offer a calf for sin by each day to cleanse; and thou shalt cleanse the altar, when thou hast offered the sacrifice of cleansing, and thou shalt anoint the altar into [the] hallowing of it.

<sup>40</sup> thou shalt do in one lamb the tenth part of flour sprinkled with oil, pounded, that shall have a measure, the fourth part of hin, that is, of two pounds, and wine of the same measure, to make the flowing sacrifice.

<sup>41</sup> Soothly thou shalt offer the tother lamb at eventide, by the custom of the offering of the morrowtide, and by those things, which we said, into the odour of sweetness;

<sup>42</sup> it is a sacrifice to the Lord by everlasting offering into your generations, at the door of the tabernacle of witnessing before the Lord, where I shall ordain that I speak to thee;

<sup>43</sup> and there I shall command to the sons of Israel; and the altar shall be hallowed in my glory.

<sup>44</sup> And I shall hallow also the tabernacle of witnessing with the altar, and Aaron and his sons, that they be set in priesthood to me.

<sup>45</sup> And I shall dwell in the midst of the sons of Israel, and I shall be God to them;

<sup>46</sup> and they shall know, that I am their Lord God, which led them out of the land of Egypt, that I should dwell among them; for I am their Lord God.

CHAPTER 30

<sup>2</sup> and the altar shall have a cubit of length, and another cubit of breadth, that is four-cornered, and two cubits in height; and the corners [or horns] shall come forth of the altar.

<sup>3</sup> And thou shalt clothe it with cleanest gold, as well the roof thereof, that is, the higher part, as the walls, and [the] corners by compass thereof; and thou shalt make to the altar a little golden crown by compass,

<sup>10</sup> And Aaron shall pray on the horns thereof once by the year, in the blood which is offered for sin, and he shall please the Lord thereon in your generations; it shall be the holy of holy things to the Lord.

<sup>12</sup> When thou shalt take the sum of the sons of Israel, all by themselves shall give by the number price for their souls to the Lord, and vengeance shall not be in them, when they be numbered.

<sup>16</sup> And thou shalt betake into the uses of the tabernacle of witnessing the money taken, which is gathered of the sons of Israel, that it be a mind of them before the Lord, and he shall be merciful to their souls.

<sup>18</sup> Also thou shalt make a great vessel of brass with his fundament to wash in, and thou shalt set it betwixt the tabernacle of witnessing and the altar; and when water is put therein,

- <sup>19</sup> Aaron and his sons shall wash therein their hands and their feet,
<sup>20</sup> when they shall enter into the tabernacle of witnessing, and when they shall nigh to the altar, that they offer therein incense to the Lord, lest peradventure they die;
<sup>23</sup> Take to thee sweet smelling spiceries, of the first and chosen myrrh, five hundred shekels; and of canel the half, that is, two hundred and fifty shekels; [and] in like manner of calamus, that is, a sweet smelling tree, small and full of knots, two hundred and fifty shekels;
<sup>24</sup> also of cassia five hundred shekels, in the weight of [the] saintuary; the oil of olives trees, the measure of hin;
<sup>29</sup> And thou shalt hallow all things, and they shall be the holy of holy things; he that shall touch those [or them], shall be hallowed beforehand.
<sup>32</sup> The flesh of a man shall not be anointed thereof, and by the making thereof ye shall not make another such oil, for it is hallowed, and it shall be holy to you.
<sup>35</sup> And thou shalt make incense, made by the craft of an ointment maker, meddled [or mingled]together diligently, and pure, and most worthy of hallowing.
<sup>36</sup> And when thou hast pounded all these things into smallest powder, thou shalt put thereof before the tabernacle of witnessing, in which place I shall appear to thee; the made incense shall be to you the holy of holy things.

CHAPTER 31

- <sup>1</sup> And the Lord spake to Moses, saying,
<sup>3</sup> and I have filled him with the spirit of God, with wisdom, and understanding, and knowing in all work,

<sup>6</sup> And I have given to him a fellow, Aholiab, the son of Ahisamach, of the kindred of Dan; and I have put in their hearts the wisdom of each learned man, that they make all things which I have commanded to thee;

<sup>7</sup> the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace, and the ark of witnessing, and the propitiatory, or the table, that is thereon, and all the vessels of the tabernacle;

<sup>13</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, See ye that ye keep my sabbath, for it is a sign betwixt me and you in your generations; that ye know, that I am the Lord, which hallow[eth] you.

<sup>14</sup> Keep ye my sabbath, for it is holy to you; he that defouleth it, shall die by death; the soul of him, that doeth work in the sabbath, shall perish from the midst of his people.

<sup>17</sup> betwixt me and the sons of Israel, and it is a sign everlasting; for in six days God made heaven and earth, and in the seventh day he ceased of work.

<sup>18</sup> And when he had [ful] filled to speak to Moses, the Lord gave to Moses, in the hill of Sinai, two stone tables of witnessing, written with the finger of God.

CHAPTER 32

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth the people saw, that Moses made tarrying to come down from the hill, and it was gathered together against Aaron, and said, Rise thou, and make gods to us, that shall go before us, for we wot not what is befallen to this man Moses, that led us out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>2</sup> And Aaron said to them, Take ye the golden earrings from the ears of your wives, of your sons, and of your daughters, and bring ye them to me.

<sup>4</sup> and when he had taken those, he formed them by work of melting, and he made of them a molten calf. And they said, Israel, these be thy gods, that led thee out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>5</sup> And when Aaron had seen this thing, he builded an altar before the calf, and he cried by the voice of a crier, and said, Tomorrow is the solemnity of the Lord.

<sup>6</sup> And they rose early, and offered burnt sacrifices, and peaceable sacri-fices; and the people sat to eat and to drink, and they rose up to play, or to scorn, for idolatry is scorning of God.

<sup>7</sup> And the Lord spake to Moses, and said, Go thou, go down, thy people hath sinned, whom thou leddest out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>8</sup> They have gone away soon from the way that thou showedest them, and they have made to them a molten calf, and have worshipped it, and they have offered sacrifices to it, and said, Israel, these be thy gods, that led thee out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>11</sup> Forsooth Moses prayed the Lord his God, and said, Lord, why is thy vengeance wroth against thy people, whom thou hast led out of the land of Egypt in great strength, and in a strong hand?

<sup>12</sup> I beseech, that [the] Egyptians say not, He led them out fellily or slyly, to slay in the hills, and to do them away from [the] earth; thine ire cease, and be thou quemeful on the wicked-ness of thy people.

<sup>13</sup> Have thou mind of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Israel, thy servants, to which thou hast sworn by thyself, and saidest, I shall multiply your seed as the stars of heaven, and I shall give to your seed all the land of which I spake, and ye shall wield it ever[more].

<sup>16</sup> and made by the work of God; and the writing of God was engraved in the tables.

<sup>19</sup> And when Moses had nighed to the tents, he saw the calf, and dances; and he was wroth greatly, and he threw out of his hands the tables, and he brake them at the roots of the hill.

<sup>20</sup> And he took the calf, which they had made, and he burnt it, and brake it till to powder, which he sprinkled into the water, and gave thereof drink to the sons of Israel.

<sup>21</sup> And Moses said to Aaron, What did this people to thee, that thou hast brought in on them the greatest sin?

<sup>23</sup> they said to me, Make thou gods to us, that shall go before us, for we wot not, what hath befallen to this Moses, that led us out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>24</sup> To whom I said, Who of you hath gold? They took, and gave to me, and I casted it forth into the fire, and this calf went out.

<sup>25</sup> Therefore Moses saw the people, that it was made bare; for Aaron had spoiled it for the shame of the filthhood of making of the idol, and he had made the people naked among enemies.

<sup>26</sup> And Moses stood in the gate of the tents, and said, If any man is of the Lord, be he joined to me; and all the sons of Levi were gathered to him.

<sup>29</sup> And Moses said, Ye have hallowed your hands today to the Lord, each man in his son, and [his] brother, that blessing be given to you.

<sup>30</sup> Soothly when the tother day was made, Moses spake to the people, Ye have sinned the most sin; I shall go up to the Lord, if in any manner I shall be able to beseech him for your felony.

<sup>31</sup> And he turned again to the Lord, and said, Lord, I beseech thee, this people hath sinned a great sin, and they have made golden gods to them;

<sup>34</sup> forsooth go thou, and lead this people, whither I spake to thee; mine angel shall go before thee; forsooth in the day of vengeance I shall visit also this sin of them.

CHAPTER 33

<sup>1</sup> And the Lord spake to Moses, and said, Go, and go up from this place, thou, and thy people, that thou hast led out of the land of Egypt, into the land, which I have sworn to Abraham, and to Isaac, and to Jacob, saying, I shall give it to thy seed.

<sup>3</sup> and that thou enter into the land flowing with milk and honey; for I will not go up with thee, for thou art a people of hard noll, lest per-adventure I lose thee in the way.

<sup>5</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Speak thou to the sons of Israel, Thou art a people of hard noll; at once I shall go up in the midst of thee, and I shall do away thee; right now put thou away thine adorning, that is, crowns which they made in receiving of the law, that I know, what I shall do to thee.

<sup>7</sup> And Moses took the tabernacle, and set it far without the tents, and he called the name thereof the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace. And all the people that had any question, went out to the tabernacle of the bond of peace, without the tents.

<sup>8</sup> And when Moses went out to the tabernacle, all the people rose, and each man stood in the door of his tent, and they beheld after Moses, till he entered into the tent.

<sup>11</sup> Forsooth the Lord spake to Moses face to face, that is openly, as a man is wont to speak with his friend; and when Moses turned again into his tabernacle, Joshua, his servant, the son of Nun, a young man, went not out of the tabernacle.

<sup>12</sup> Forsooth Moses said to the Lord, Thou commandest, that I lead out this people, and thou hast not showed to me, whom thou shalt send with me, namely since thou saidest, I knew thee by name, and thou hast found grace before me.

<sup>15</sup> And Moses said, If thou thyself shalt not go before us, lead thou not us out of this place;

<sup>16</sup> for in what thing may we know, I and thy people, that we have found grace in thy sight, if thou shalt not go with us, that we be glorified of all peoples that dwell on [the] earth?

<sup>17</sup> Forsooth the Lord said to Moses, I shall do also this word, that thou hast spoken; for thou hast found grace before me, and I know thyself by name.

<sup>19</sup> God answered, I shall show all my goodness to thee, and I shall call in the name of the Lord before thee, and I shall do mercy to whom I will, and I shall be merciful, either goodly, on whom it pleaseth me.

<sup>22</sup> and when my glory shall pass by, I shall set [or put] thee in the hole of the stone, and I shall cover thee with my right hand, till that I pass by;

CHAPTER 34

<sup>1</sup> And afterward God said, Hew to thee two tables of stone at the like-ness of the former; and I shall write on those tables those words, which the tables, that thou brakest, had.

<sup>4</sup> Therefore Moses hewed two tables of stone, which manner the tables were before, and he rose by night, and went up into the hill of Sinai, as the Lord commanded to him; and he bare with him the tables.

<sup>6</sup> and when the Lord passed before him, he said, Lordshipper, Lord God, merciful, and pious, patient, and of much mercy doing, and soothfast, <sup>7</sup> which keepest covenant and mercy into thousands, which doest away wickedness, and trespasses, and sins, and no man by himself is innocent with thee, which yieldest the wicked-ness of fathers to their sons, and to the sons of their sons, into the third and the fourth generation.

<sup>9</sup> and said, Lord, if I have found grace in thy sight, I beseech thee, that thou go with us, for the people is of hard noll; and that thou do away our wickednesses and sins, and wield us.

<sup>10</sup> The Lord answered, I shall make covenant, and in sight of all men I shall make signs, that were never seen on [the] earth, neither in any folks, that this people, in whose midst thou art, see the fearedful work of the Lord, that I shall make.

<sup>15</sup> make thou not covenant with the men of those countries, lest when they have done fornication, that is, idolatry, with their gods, and have worshipped the simulacra of them, any man call thee, that thou eat of the things offered to an idol.

<sup>18</sup> Thou shalt keep the solemnity of therf loaves; seven days thou shalt eat therf loaves, as I commanded to thee, in the time of the month of new fruits; for in the month of ver or spring time thou wentest out of Egypt.

<sup>22</sup> Thou shalt make to thee the solemnity of weeks, in the first things of fruits of thy ripe corn of wheat, and the solemnity when all things be gathered into barns, when the time of the year cometh again*.

<sup>27</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Write thou these words, by which I smote a bond of peace, both with thee and with Israel.

<sup>28</sup> Therefore Moses was there with the Lord by forty days and forty nights, and he ate not bread, and drank not water; and he wrote in [the] tables the ten words of the bond of peace.

<sup>29</sup> And when Moses came down from the hill of Sinai, he held in his hands two tables of witnessing, and he wist not that his face was horned with wonderful shining beams, of the fellowship of God's word.

<sup>31</sup> and they were called of him, and they turned again, as well Aaron as the princes of the synagogue; and after that Moses spake,

<sup>32</sup> they came to him, yea all the sons of Israel; to which he commanded all things, which he had heard of the Lord in the hill of Sinai.

<sup>34</sup> and he entered to the Lord, and spake with him, and he did away that veil, till he went out; and then he spake to the sons of Israel all things that were commanded to him;

<sup>35</sup> which saw that the face of Moses going out was horned, but again he covered his face, if any time he spake to them.

CHAPTER 35

<sup>1</sup> Therefore when all the company of the sons of Israel was gathered, Moses said to them, These things it be, which the Lord commanded to be done.

<sup>2</sup> Six days ye shall do work, the seventh day shall be holy to you, the sabbath and the rest of the Lord; he that doeth work in the sabbath shall be slain.

<sup>4</sup> And Moses said to all the company of the sons of Israel, This is the word which the Lord commanded, and said,

<sup>5</sup> Separate ye at you the first fruits to the Lord; each willful man and of ready will offer them to the Lord, gold, and silver, and brass,

<sup>8</sup> and oil to the lights to be ordained, and spices so that the ointment be made, and the incense most sweet,

<sup>21</sup> and offered with most ready soul and devout the first things to the Lord, to make the work of the tabernacle of witnessing, whatever was needful to the adorning, and to the holy clothes.

<sup>28</sup> and sweet smelling spiceries [or spices], and oil to the lights to be ordained, and to make ready the ointment, and to make the incense of the sweetest odour.

<sup>29</sup> All men and women offered gifts with devout souls, that the works should be made, which the Lord commanded by the hand of Moses; all the sons of Israel hallowed will-fully things to the Lord.

<sup>30</sup> And Moses said to the sons of Israel, Lo! the Lord hath called Bezaleel by name, the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the lineage of Judah;

<sup>31</sup> and the Lord hath filled him with the spirit of God, of wisdom, and of understanding, and of knowing, and with all doctrine,

<sup>35</sup> the Lord [hath] taught both with wisdom, that they make the works of a carpenter, of a stainer, and of an embroiderer, of jacinth, and of purple, and of red silk twice-dyed, and of bis, and that they make all things, and find all new things.

CHAPTER 36

<sup>1</sup> Therefore Bezaleel, and Aholiab, and each wise man, to whom the Lord gave wisdom and understanding, that they know how to work craftily, made things that were needful into the uses of the saintuary, and which the Lord commanded to be made.

<sup>2</sup> And when Moses had called them, and each learned man, to whom the Lord had given wisdom and knowing, and the which proffered themselves by their own free will to make the work,

<sup>8</sup> And all the wise men in heart, to fulfill the work of the tabernacle, made ten curtains of his folded again, and of jacinth, and purple, and of red silk twice-dyed, by diverse work, and by craft of many colours.

<sup>10</sup> And he joined five curtains one to another; and he coupled other five to themselves together;

<sup>12</sup> that the eyelets shall come together against themselves, and they shall be joined together;

<sup>17</sup> And he made fifty eyelets in the hem of one say, and fifty in the hem of the tother say, that those [or they] should be joined to themselves together;

<sup>18</sup> and he made fifty buckles of brass by which the roof was fastened together, that one covering were made of all the says.

<sup>22</sup> Two indentings [or rabbetings] were by each board, that the one should be joined to the tother; so he made in all the boards of the tabernacle.

<sup>24</sup> with forty bases of silver; two bases were set under one board on ever either side of the corners, where the indentings [or rabbetings] of the sides were ended in the corners.

<sup>29</sup> which were joined from beneath till to above, and were borne into one joining altogether; so he made on ever either part by the corners,

<sup>30</sup> that they were eight boards altogether, and they had sixteen bases of silver, that is, two bases under each board.

<sup>34</sup> Forsooth he overgilded the walls made of the boards, and he melted out their silveren bases, and he made their golden rings, by which the bars might be brought in, and he covered those same bars with golden plates.

CHAPTER 37

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Bezaleel made also an ark of the wood of shittim, having two cubits and an half in length, and a cubit and an half in breadth; forsooth the height was of one cubit and an half;

<sup>3</sup> and he melted out four golden rings, to be set by the four corners thereof, two rings in one side, and two rings in the other side.

<sup>4</sup> And he made bars of the wood of shittim, or acacia wood, the which he covered with gold,

<sup>5</sup> and which bars he put into the rings that were in the sides of the ark, to bear it.

<sup>6</sup> He made also a propitiatory, that is, God's answering place, of purest gold, of two cubits and an half in length, and one cubit and an half in breadth.

<sup>7</sup> Also he made two cherubims [or cherubim] of gold, beaten out with an hammer, which he set on ever either side of the propitiatory,

<sup>10</sup> He made also a board of the wood of shittim, in the length of two cubits, and in the breadth of one cubit, which board had a cubit and an half in height.

<sup>12</sup> and he made to that brink a golden crown, raised betwixt of four fingers; and on the same crown he made another golden crown.

<sup>16</sup> And he made[the] vessels to diverse uses of the board, vessels of vinegar, vials, and little cups, and censers of pure gold, in which the flowing sacrifices shall be offered.

<sup>19</sup> three cups in the manner of a nut by each rod, and little roundels [or balls] together, and lilies; and three cups at the likeness of a nut in the tother rod, and little roundels together, and lilies; forsooth the work of six shafts that came forth of the stock of the candlestick, was even.

<sup>20</sup> Soothly in that stock were four cups, in the manner of a nut, and little roundels [or balls] and lilies were by all the cups;

<sup>21</sup> and [the] little roundels were under the two shafts by three places, which altogether be made six shafts coming forth of one stock;

<sup>25</sup> He made also the altar of incense, of the wood of shittim, having a cubit by square, that is, on each side one cubit, and two cubits in height, of whose corners came forth horns.

<sup>26</sup> And he covered it with cleanest gold, and the griddle, and walls, and the horns; and he made to it a little golden crown by compass,

<sup>27</sup> and two golden rings under the crown, by each side, that [the] bars be put into those [or them], and the altar may be borne.

<sup>29</sup> He made also oil to the ointment of hallowing, and [the] incense of sweet smelling spiceries [or spices], most clean, by the work of apothecary.

CHAPTER 38

<sup>1</sup> He made also the altar of burnt sacrifice of the wood of shittim, of five cubits by square, and of three cubits in height;

<sup>7</sup> And he led them into the rings that stood forth in the sides of the altar. Forsooth that altar was not massive or solid, but hollow of the building of the boards, and void within.

<sup>15</sup> and in the other side, for he made the entering of the tabernacle betwixt ever either, were curtains evenly of fifteen cubits, three pillars, and so many bases.

<sup>17</sup> The bases of the pillars were of brass; forsooth the hooks of those pillars, and the holdings of those, were of silver; but also he covered with silver the heads of the pillars of the great entry.

<sup>18</sup> And in the entering thereof he made a curtain, by embroidery work, of jacinth, purple, vermillion, either red cloth, and of bis folded again, which curtain had twenty cubits in length, and the height was of five cubits, by the measure which all the curtains of the great entry had.

<sup>19</sup> Forsooth the pillars in the entering were four, with brazen bases, and the hooks of pillars, and the holdings of those, were of silver;

<sup>23</sup> while Aholiab, the son of Ahisa-mach, of the lineage of Dan, was joined fellow to him, and he himself was a noble craftsman of wood, and a tapicer, that is, a weaver of diverse colours, and an embroiderer of jacinth, purple, vermillion, and bis.

<sup>24</sup> All the gold that was spende in the work of the saintuary, and that was offered in gifts, was of nine and twenty talents, and of seven hundred and thirty shekels, at the measure of the saintuary.

<sup>26</sup> half a shekel by each head of all that passed to be numbered, from twenty years and above, of six hundred thousand and three thousand, and five hundred and fifty men.

<sup>27</sup> Furthermore there were an hundred talents of silver, of which the bases of the saintuary were melted out alto-gether, and the bases of the entering, where the veil hangeth; an hundred bases were made of an hundred talents, for to each base was ordained a talent.

<sup>30</sup> Of which the bases in the entering of the tabernacle of witnessing were melted out, and the brazen altar, with his griddle, and all the vessels that pertain to the use thereof,

CHAPTER 39

<sup>2</sup> Therefore he made the cloth on the shoulders [or cape] of gold, jacinth, and purple, and of red silk twice-dyed, and of bis folded again, by work of embroidery;

<sup>3</sup> also he cut thin golden plates, and made thin into threads, that those [or they] may be folded again, with the warp of the former colours;

<sup>4</sup> and he made twain [or two] hems coupled to themselves together, in ever either side of the ends;

<sup>6</sup> And he made ready two onyx stones, bound and enclosed in gold, and engraved by the craft of a worker in gems with the names of the sons of Israel;

<sup>7</sup> six names in one stone, and six in the tother stone, by the order of their birth. And he set those stones in the sides of the cloth on the shoulders [or cape], into a memorial of the sons of Israel, as the Lord commanded to Moses.

<sup>8</sup> He made also the rational, by work of embroidery, by the work of the cloth on the shoulders [or cape], of gold, jacinth, purple, and red silk twice-dyed, and of bis folded again;

<sup>18</sup> on which rings [the] two golden chains hanged, which they setted in the hooks, that stood forth in the corners of the cloth on the shoulders [or cape].

<sup>20</sup> were knitted together, and fastened to the girdle,

<sup>21</sup> and coupled full strongly with the rings, which rings a lace of jacinth joined together, lest they were loosened, and slackened, and were moved each from other; as the Lord commanded to Moses.

<sup>30</sup> They made also a plate of holy worshipping, of purest gold, and they wrote therein by the craft of an engraver in gems, The Holy of the Lord.

<sup>32</sup> Therefore all the work of the tabernacle, and the covering of the witnessing, was performed; and the sons of Israel did all things which the Lord commanded to Moses.

<sup>38</sup> the golden altar, and the ointment, and [the] incense of sweet smelling spices [or spices]; and the curtain in the entering of the tabernacle;

<sup>40</sup> the curtains of the great entry, and the pillars with their bases; the curtain in the entering of the great porch, and the cords, and the stakes thereof. Nothing of the vessels failed, that was commanded to be made into [the] service of the tabernacle, and into the roof of the bond of peace.

CHAPTER 40

<sup>2</sup> In the first month, in the first day of the month, thou shalt raise the tabernacle of witnessing.

<sup>20</sup> He put also the witnessing, that is, the tables of the law, in the ark, and he set the bars within, and God's answering place above.

<sup>21</sup> And when he had brought the ark into the tabernacle, he hanged a veil before it, that he should fulfill the commandment of the Lord.

<sup>29</sup> and the altar of burnt sacrifice in the porch of the witnessing, and he offered there burnt sacrifice, and sacrifices, as the Lord commanded.

LEVITICUS

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, A man of you, that offereth to the Lord a sacrifice of beasts, that is, of oxen and of sheep, and offereth slain sacrifices,

<sup>8</sup> and they shall ordain above that wood those things that be cut, that is, the head, and all things that cleave to the maw,

<sup>9</sup> when the entrails and the feet be washed with water; and the priest shall burn those [or them] on the altar, into burnt sacrifice, and to sweet odour to the Lord.

<sup>11</sup> and he shall offer that at the side of the altar that beholdeth to the north, before the Lord. Soothly the sons of Aaron shall pour the blood thereof on the altar by compass,

<sup>12</sup> and they shall part the members, the head, and all things that cleave to the maw, and they shall put them on the wood, under which the fire shall be set [or put];

<sup>13</sup> soothly they shall wash in water the entrails and [the] feet; and the priest shall burn all things offered on the altar, into burnt sacrifice, and sweetest odour to the Lord.

<sup>15</sup> the priest shall offer it at the altar; and when the head is writhed to the neck, and the place of the wound is broken, he shall make the blood run down on the brink of the altar.

<sup>17</sup> and the priest shall break the wings thereof, and he shall not carve it, neither part it with iron; and he shall burn it on the altar, when fire is put under the wood; it is a burnt sacrifice, and an offering of sweetest odour to the Lord.

CHAPTER 2

<sup>1</sup> When a soul, that is, a poor man, offereth an offering of sacrifice to the Lord, [tried] flour of wheat shall be his offering. And he shall pour oil thereon, and he shall put incense,

<sup>2</sup> and he shall bear it to the sons of Aaron, [the] priest, of the which sons one of them shall take an handful of tried wheat flour, and of oil, and all the incense; and he shall put these as a memorial on the altar, into the sweetest odour to the Lord.

<sup>8</sup> the which wheat flour thou shalt offer to the Lord, and thou shalt betake it in the hands of the priest. And when he hath offered it,

<sup>11</sup> Each offering which is offered to the Lord, shall be without sourdough, neither anything of sourdough, and of honey, shall be burnt in the sacrifice of the Lord.

<sup>12</sup> Ye shall offer only the first fruits of those [or them], and gifts; soothly those [or they] shall not be put on the altar, into odour of sweetness.

<sup>13</sup> Whatever thing of sacrifice thou shalt offer, thou shalt make it savory with salt, neither thou shalt take away the salt of the bond of peace of thy God from thy sacrifice; in each offering thou shalt offer salt.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth if thou offerest a gift of the first things of thy fruits to the Lord, of ears of corn yet green, thou shalt scorch, or singe, them in fire, and thou shalt break them in the manner of bruised corn; and so thou shalt offer thy first fruits to the Lord,

<sup>15</sup> and thou shalt pour oil there-upon, and thou shalt put incense, for it is the offering of the Lord.

CHAPTER 3

<sup>4</sup> they shall offer[the] two kidneys with the fatness by which the guts called ileum be covered, and the caul of the liver, with the little reins.

<sup>5</sup> And they shall burn those [or them] on the altar, into burnt sacrifice, when fire is put under the wood, into offering of the sweetest odour to the Lord.

<sup>8</sup> he shall set his hand upon the head of his sacrifice, that shall be offered in the porch of the tabernacle of witnessing; and the sons of Aaron shall pour the blood thereof by environ of the altar.

<sup>9</sup> And they shall offer of the sacrifice of peaceable things a sacrifice to the Lord, the inner fatness, and all the tail with the reins, and the fatness that covereth the womb, and all the entrails,

<sup>11</sup> And the priest shall burn them upon the altar, into the feeding, or nourishing, of the fire, and of the offering to the Lord.

<sup>13</sup> he shall set his hand on the head thereof, and he shall offer it in the entry of the tabernacle of witnessing; and the sons of Aaron shall pour the blood thereof by compass of the altar.

<sup>14</sup> And they shall take thereof, into the feeding, or nourishing, of the Lord's fire, the fatness that covereth the womb, and that covereth all the entrails, <sup>15</sup> and the two little reins with the caul that is on those [or them] beside the ileum, and the fatness of the maw, with the entrails that cleave to the little reins.

<sup>16</sup> And the priest shall burn those [or them] on the altar, into the feeding, or nourishing, of the fire, and of sweetest odour; all the fatness shall be the Lord's,

<sup>17</sup> by everlasting right in generations, and in all your dwelling places, neither in any manner ye shall eat blood, neither fatness.

CHAPTER 4

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, When a soul, that is, a man, hath done sin by ignorance, and hath done anything of all the commandments of the Lord, which he commanded that those [or they] shall not be done, thou shalt follow these ordinances;

<sup>3</sup> if a priest that is anointed, hath done sin, making the people to trespass, he shall offer for his sin a calf without wem to the Lord.

<sup>4</sup> And he shall bring it to the door of the tabernacle of witnessing, before the Lord, and he shall put his hand on the head thereof, and he shall offer it to the Lord.

<sup>7</sup> And he shall put of the same blood on the corners of the altar of incense most acceptable to the Lord, which altar is in the tabernacle of witnessing; soothly he shall pour all the tother blood into the fundament of the altar of burnt sacrifice in the entering of the tabernacle.

<sup>8</sup> And he shall offer for his sin the inner fatness of the calf, as well it that covereth the entrails, as all things that be within,

<sup>11</sup> Soothly the priest shall bear out of the tents, the skin, and all the flesh, with the head, and the feet, and [the] entrails, and the dung,

<sup>12</sup> and the body that is left, into a clean place, where [the] ashes be wont to be poured out; and he shall burn those things upon the heap of wood, the which shall be burnt in the place of ashes poured out.

<sup>13</sup> That if all the company of the sons of Israel knoweth not, and doeth by unknowing that that is against the commandment of the Lord,

<sup>14</sup> and afterward understandeth his sin, he shall offer a calf for that sin, and he shall bring the calf to the door of the tabernacle.

<sup>15</sup> And the elder men of the people shall set [or put] hands on the head thereof before the Lord; and when the calf is offered in the sight of the Lord,

<sup>20</sup> and he shall do also of this calf, as he did before of the tother; and when the priest shall pray for them, the Lord shall be merciful.

<sup>21</sup> Forsooth he shall bear out [of the tents] that calf, and he shall burn it, as he did also the former calf, for it is for the sin of the multitude.

<sup>24</sup> and he shall set his hand on the head thereof. And when he hath offered it in the place, where [the] burnt sacrifice is wont to be slain, before the Lord, for it is for sin;

<sup>26</sup> Soothly the priest shall burn the inner fatness above the altar, as it is wont to be done in the sacrifice of peaceable things, and the priest shall pray for him, and for his sin, and it shall be forgiven to him.

<sup>27</sup> That if a soul, that is, a singular man, of the people of the land sinneth by ignorance, that he do anything of these [things] that be forbidden in the law of the Lord, and trespasseth,

<sup>29</sup> and he shall set his hand upon the head of the sacrifice which is for [the] sin, and he shall offer it in the place of [the] burnt sacrifice.

<sup>31</sup> Soothly he shall take away all the inner fatness, as it is wont to be done away of the sacrifices of peaceable things, and he shall burn it on the altar, into odour of sweetness to the Lord; and the priest shall pray for him, and it shall be forgiven to him.

<sup>35</sup> And he shall do away all the inner fatness, as the inner fatness of the ram, that is offered for peaceable things, is wont to be done away, and the priest shall burn it upon the altar of incense of the Lord; and the priest shall pray for him, and for his sin, and it shall be forgiven to him.

CHAPTER 5

<sup>1</sup> If a soul, that is, man, sinneth, and heareth the voice of an oath, and is witness, that is, required to bear witnessing of a thing that he knoweth, for either he saw, either is witting, if he showeth not, but hideth the truth, he shall bear his sin.

<sup>2</sup> A person that toucheth any unclean thing, or which is slain of a beast, either is dead by itself, either toucheth any other creeping beast, and forgetteth his uncleanness, he is guilty, and trespasseth.

<sup>3</sup> And if he toucheth anything of the uncleanness of man, by all the uncleanness by which he is wont to be defouled, and he forgetteth it, and knoweth this afterward, he shall be subject to that trespass.

<sup>4</sup> A soul that sweareth, and bringeth forth with his lips, that he should do either evil, or well, and doeth it not, and confirmeth the same thing with an oath, either with a word, and forgetteth what he swore, or said, and afterward understandeth his trespass,

<sup>7</sup> But if he may not offer a beast, offer he two turtles, either two culver birds to the Lord, one for [the] sin, and the tother into burnt sacrifice.

<sup>8</sup> And he shall give those [or them] to the priest, which shall offer the first for [the] sin, and shall fold again the head thereof to the wings, so that it cleave to the neck, and be not broken utterly.

<sup>9</sup> And the priest shall sprinkle the wall of the altar, of the blood thereof; soothly whatever is residue, he shall make to drop down at the fundament of the altar, for it is for sin.

<sup>10</sup> Soothly he shall burn the tother bird into burnt sacrifice, as it is wont to be done; and the priest shall pray for him, and for his sin, and it shall be forgiven to him.

<sup>11</sup> That if his hand for poverty may not offer two turtles, either two culver birds, he shall offer for his sin the tenth part of ephah of tried wheat flour; he shall not put oil into it, neither he shall put anything of incense, for it is for sin.

<sup>12</sup> And he shall give it to the priest, which priest shall take up an handful thereof, and shall burn it on the altar, into mind of him that offered it,

<sup>15</sup> If a soul, that is, a man, breaketh [the] ceremonies by error, and sin in these things that be hallowed to the Lord, he shall offer for his trespass a ram without wem of the flocks, that may be bought for two shekels, at the weight of the saintuary.

<sup>16</sup> And he shall restore that harm that he did, and he shall put the fifth part thereof above, and he shall give it to the priest, which priest shall pray for him, and offer the ram, and it shall be forgiven to him.

<sup>17</sup> A soul, that is, a man, that sinneth by ignorance, and doeth one of these things that be forbidden in the law of the Lord, and is guilty of [the] sin, and understandeth his wickedness,

<sup>18</sup> he shall offer to the priest, a ram without wem of the flocks, by the measure and estimation, or value, of the sin; and the priest shall pray for him, for he did unwittingly, and it shall be forgiven to him,

CHAPTER 6

<sup>2</sup> A soul, that is, a man, that sinneth, and despiseth the Lord, and denieth to his neighbour a thing betaken to his keeping, that was betaken to his faith, either taketh masterfully a thing by violence, either maketh false challenge,

<sup>3</sup> either findeth a thing lost, and denieth it furthermore, and forsweareth, and doeth any other thing of many, in which things men be wont to do sin,

<sup>6</sup> Soothly for his sin he shall offer a ram unwemmed of the flock, and he shall give that ram to the priest, by the value and the measure of the trespass;

<sup>7</sup> and the priest shall pray for him before the Lord, and it shall be forgiven to him, for all things which he sinned in doing.

<sup>9</sup> Command thou to Aaron, and to his sons, This is the law of burnt sacrifice; it shall be burnt in the altar all night till the morrow; fire that is given from heaven shall be of the same altar.

<sup>10</sup> The priest shall be clothed with a coat, and with linen breeches; and he shall take away the ashes, which the fire devouring hath burnt out, and he shall put those beside the altar;

<sup>11</sup> and he shall be spoiled of the former clothes, and he shall be clothed with other, and he shall bear those ashes out of the tents, and in a most clean place he shall make them to be wasted, or quenched, till to a dead spark.

<sup>15</sup> The priest shall take an handful of tried wheat flour, which is sprinkled with oil, and all the incense which is put on the flour, and he shall burn it on the altar, into mind of sweetest odour of the Lord.

<sup>20</sup> This is the offering of Aaron, and of his sons, which they owe to offer to the Lord, in the day of his anointing; they shall offer the tenth part of ephah of [tried]wheat flour, into everlasting sacrifice, the half thereof in the morrowtide, and the half thereof in the eventide;

<sup>25</sup> Speak thou to Aaron and to his sons, This is the law of sacrifice for sin; it shall be offered before the Lord, in the place where burnt sacrifice is offered; it is holy of holy things.

CHAPTER 7

<sup>7</sup> As a sacrifice is offered for sin, so and for trespass, one law shall be of ever either sacrifice; it shall pertain to the priest, that offereth it.

<sup>9</sup> And each sacrifice of [tried]wheat flour, that is baked in an oven, and whatever is made ready in a griddle, either in a frying pan, it shall be that priest's, of whom it is offered,

<sup>12</sup> If the offering is for the doing of thankings, they shall offer loaves without sourdough sprinkled with oil, and thin therf cakes, that be anointed with oil; and they shall offer[tried]wheat flour baked, and little round loaves, sprinkled altogether with the meddling [or mingling] of oil.

<sup>14</sup> of all one loaf shall be offered to the Lord for the first fruits, and it shall be the priest's that shall pour the blood of the sacrifice,

<sup>16</sup> If a man offereth a sacrifice by a vow, either by free will, it shall be eaten in like manner in the same day; but also if anything dwelleth into the morrow, it is leaveful to eat it;

<sup>18</sup> If any man eateth in the third day of the flesh of [the] sacrifice of peaceable things, his offering shall be made void, neither it shall profit to the offerer; but rather, whatever soul defouleth himself with such meat, he shall be guilty of breaking of the law.

<sup>24</sup> ye shall have into diverse uses the inner fatness of a carcass dead by itself, and of that beast which is taken, or slain, of a ravenous beast.

<sup>29</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, He that offereth a sacrifice of peaceable things to the Lord, offer he together also a sacrifice, that is, the flowing offerings thereof.

<sup>30</sup> He shall hold in his hands the inner fatness of the sacrifice, and the breast; and when he hath hallowed both these offered to the Lord, he shall take them to the priest,

<sup>34</sup> For I have taken from the sons of Israel the breast of raising, and the shoulder of separating, of their peace-able sacrifices, and I have given those to Aaron the priest and to his sons, by everlasting law, of all the people of Israel.

<sup>35</sup> This is the anointing of Aaron, and of his sons, that is, the offering in the day of their anointing, in the ceremonies of the Lord, in the day wherein Moses offered them, that they should be set in priesthood,

<sup>37</sup> This is the law of burnt sacrifice, and of sacrifice for sin, and for trespass, and for hallowing, and for the sacrifices of peaceable things;

<sup>38</sup> which law the Lord ordained to Moses in the hill of Sinai, when he commanded to the sons of Israel that they should offer their offerings to the Lord, in the desert of Sinai.

CHAPTER 8

<sup>2</sup> Take thou Aaron with his sons, their clothes, and the oil of anointing, a calf for sin, and two rams, a basket with therf loaves;

<sup>9</sup> And Moses covered Aaron's head with a mitre, and upon the mitre, about the front, he put the golden plate, made sacred in the hallowing, as the Lord commanded to him.

<sup>10</sup> And he took also the oil of anointing, with which he anointed the tabernacle with all his appurtenance; and when he had hallowed,

<sup>14</sup> He offered also a calf for sin; and when Aaron and his sons had put their hands on the head of that calf,

<sup>20</sup> And he cutted that ram into gobbets, and he burnt with fire the head thereof, and the members, and the inner fatness,

<sup>21</sup> when the entrails and the feet were washed before; and he burnt all the ram together upon the altar, for it was the burnt sacrifice of sweetest odour to the Lord, as the Lord commanded to him.

<sup>26</sup> Forsooth he took of the pannier of therf loaves, that was before the Lord, loaves without sourdough, and a cake sprinkled with oil, and he putted [or put] loaves first sodden in water, and afterward fried in oil, on the inner fatness, and the right shoulder;

<sup>27</sup> and he betook all these things together to Aaron, and to his sons. And after that they [had] raised those [or them] before the Lord,

<sup>28</sup> again he took them of their hands, and burnt them upon the altar of burnt sacrifice, for it was the offering of hallowing, into the odour of sweetness of sacrifice, into his part to the Lord.

<sup>30</sup> And he took the ointment, and the blood that was in the altar, and he sprinkled them upon Aaron, and on his clothes, and upon his sons, and on their clothes. And when Moses had hallowed them in their clothing,

<sup>31</sup> he commanded to them, and said, Seethe ye the flesh before the tabernacle gates, and there eat ye it; also eat ye the loaves of hallowing, that be put in the basket, as God commanded to me, and said, Aaron and his sons shall eat those loaves;

<sup>33</sup> Also ye shall not go out of the door of the tabernacle in seven days, till to the day in which the time of your hallowing shall be fulfilled; for the hallowing is ended in seven days,

<sup>35</sup> Ye shall dwell day and night in the tabernacle, and ye shall keep the keepings of the Lord, that ye die not; for so it is commanded to me.

CHAPTER 9

<sup>2</sup> and he said to Aaron, Take thou of the drove a calf for sin, and a ram for burnt sacrifice, ever either without wem, and offer thou them before the Lord.

<sup>3</sup> And thou shalt speak to the sons of Israel, Take ye a buck of goats for sin, and a calf, and a lamb, of one year, and without wem, into burnt sacrifice,

<sup>7</sup> And Moses said to Aaron, Nigh thou to the altar, and offer thou for thy sin; offer thou burnt sacrifice, and pray for thee, and for the people; and when thou hast slain the sacrifice of the people, pray thou for them, as the Lord commanded.

<sup>10</sup> and he burnt upon the altar the inner fatness, and the little reins, and the caul of the maw, as the Lord commanded to Moses.

<sup>12</sup> And he offered the beast of burnt sacrifice, and his sons brought to him the blood thereof, which he shedded [or poured] by compass of the altar;

<sup>13</sup> they offered also that sacrifice cut into gobbets, with the head, and all the members; and he burnt by fire all these things upon the altar,

<sup>15</sup> And he offered and killed a buck of goats, for the sin of the people; and when the altar was cleansed, he made burnt sacrifice,

<sup>18</sup> He offered also an ox, and a ram, [the] peaceable sacrifices of the people; and his sons offered to him the blood, the which he poured by compass of the altar.

<sup>22</sup> And he stretched forth his hands to the people, and blessed it; and so when the sacrifices for sin, and [the] burnt sacrifices, and [the] peaceable sacrifices, were fulfilled, Aaron came down from the place of sacrificing.

<sup>24</sup> and the glory of the Lord appeared to all the multitude. And lo! fire went out from the Lord, and devoured the burnt sacrifice, and the inner fatnesses that were upon the altar; and when the companies had seen this thing, they praised the Lord, and felled on their faces.

CHAPTER 10

<sup>3</sup> And Moses said to Aaron, This thing it is that the Lord spake, I shall be hallowed in them that nigh to me, and I shall be glorified in the sight of all the people; which thing Aaron heard, and was still.

<sup>4</sup> Soothly when Moses had called Mishael and Elzaphan, the sons of Uzziel, the brother of Aaron's father, he said to them, Go ye, and take away your brethren from the sight of [the] saintuary, and bear ye them out of the tents.

<sup>5</sup> And anon they went, and took them, as they lay clothed with linen coats, and casted them out, as it was commanded to them.

<sup>6</sup> And Moses spake to Aaron, and to Eleazar and Ithamar, the sons of Aaron, Do not ye make naked your heads, and do not ye rend your clothes, lest peradventure ye die, and indignation of God rise upon all the company; your brethren and all the house of Israel bewail the burning which the Lord hath raised up.

<sup>9</sup> Thou and thy sons shall not drink wine, and all thing that may make drunken, when ye shall enter into the tabernacle of witnessing, lest ye die; for it is everlasting behest into your generations,

<sup>10</sup> [and] that ye have knowing to make doom betwixt holy thing and unholy, betwixt polluted thing and clean;

<sup>11</sup> and that ye teach the sons of Israel all my lawful things, which the Lord spake to them by the hand of Moses.

<sup>13</sup> Soothly ye shall eat in the holy place that that is given to thee, and to thy sons, of the offerings of the Lord, as it is commanded to me.

<sup>14</sup> Also thou, and thy sons, and thy daughters with thee, shall eat in the cleanest place the breast which is offered, and the shoulder which is separated; for those be kept to thee, and to thy free sons, of the healthful sacrifices of the sons of Israel;

<sup>15</sup> for they raised before the Lord the shoulder and the breast, and the inner fatnesses that be burnt in the altar; and pertain they to thee, and to thy sons, by everlasting law, as the Lord commanded.

<sup>16</sup> Among these things when Moses sought the goat buck that was offered for sin, he found it burnt, and he was wroth against Eleazar and Ithamar, Aaron's sons, that were left alive. And he said,

<sup>17</sup> Why ate not ye the sacrifice for sin in the holy place, the which sacrifice is holy of holy things, and it is given to you, that ye bear the wickedness of the multitude, and pray for it in the sight of the Lord;

<sup>18</sup> mostly since of the blood thereof is not borne in within [the] holy things, and ye ought to eat it in the saintuary, as it is commanded to me?

<sup>19</sup> And Aaron answered, Sacrifice for sin, and burnt sacrifice is offered today before the Lord; soothly this thing that thou seest, befelled to me; how might I eat it, either please God in ceremonies, with sorrowful soul?

CHAPTER 11

<sup>2</sup> Say ye to the sons of Israel, Keep ye all things which I wrote to you, that I be your God. These be the beasts, which ye shall eat, of all the living beasts of earth;

<sup>8</sup> Ye shall not eat the flesh of these beasts, neither ye shall touch their dead bodies, for those [or they] be unclean to you.

<sup>9</sup> Also these things be that be engendered in waters, and [it] is leaveful to eat; ye shall eat all things that have fins and scales, as well in the sea, as in [the] fresh floods, and standing waters;

<sup>10</sup> soothly whatever thing of them that be moved and live in waters, hath not fins and scales, shall be abominable, and loathsome to you;

<sup>22</sup> as is a bruchus, that is, the fruit of locusts before it hath wings, in his kind, and accatus, that is, the fruit of locusts when it beginneth to have wings, and ophimachus, [that is, a foul enemy to serpents], and a locust, all by their kind.

<sup>25</sup> and if it is need, that he bear any dead thing of these [or them], he shall wash his clothes, and he shall be unclean till to the going down of the sun.

<sup>27</sup> That that goeth on hands, of all beasts that go on four feet, shall be unclean; he that toucheth their bodies dead by themselves, shall be defouled till to eventide;

<sup>28</sup> and he, that beareth such dead bodies, shall wash his clothes, and he shall be unclean till to eventide; for all these things be unclean to you.

<sup>29</sup> Also these things shall be areckoned among defouled things, of these things that be moved on earth; a weasel, and a mouse, and a crocodile, each after his kind;

<sup>32</sup> and that thing shall be defouled, on which anything of their bodies dead by themselves falleth, as well a vessel of wood, and a cloth, as skins, or pilches, either hair-shirts; and in whatever thing work is made, it shall be dipped in water, and those things shall be defouled till to eventide, and so afterward they shall be cleansed.

<sup>34</sup> Each meat, that ye shall eat, shall be unclean, if water of such a vessel is poured out thereon; and each flowing thing, that is drunken of such a vessel, shall be unclean;

<sup>35</sup> and whatever thing of such dead bodies by themselves shall fall upon, it shall be unclean, whether furnaces, or kettles standing upon three feet, they shall be destroyed, and shall be unclean.

<sup>38</sup> soothly if any man sheddeth [or pour] out [the] seed with water, and afterward the water is touched with dead bodies by themselves, it shall be defouled anon.

<sup>39</sup> If a beast is dead, which it is leaveful to you to eat, he that toucheth the dead body thereof shall be unclean till to eventide;

<sup>44</sup> for I am your Lord God; be ye holy, for I am holy. Defoul ye not your souls in each creeping thing that is moved upon earth;

<sup>45</sup> for I am the Lord, that led you out of the land of Egypt, that I should be to you into God; ye shall be holy, for I am holy.

<sup>46</sup> This is the law of living beasts, and of fowls, and of each living thing that is moved in water, and creepeth in earth;

CHAPTER 12

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, If a woman, when she hath received seed, childeth a knave child, she shall be unclean by seven days, by the days of her separating of corruptible blood, that runneth from her by months;

<sup>5</sup> Soothly if she childeth a female, she shall be unclean two weeks, by the custom of [the] flowing of unclean blood, and threescore and six days she shall dwell in the blood of her cleansing.

<sup>6</sup> And when the days of her cleansing, for a son, or for a daughter, be fulfilled, she shall bring a lamb of one year into burnt sacrifice, and a culver bird, either a turtle, for sin, to the door of the tabernacle of witnessing; and she shall give to the priest,

<sup>7</sup> which shall offer those before the Lord, and shall pray for her; and so she shall be cleansed from the flowing of her blood. This is the law of a woman that childeth male, or female.

<sup>8</sup> That if her hand find not, neither she may offer a lamb, she shall take two turtles, either two culver birds, one into burnt sacrifice, and the tother for sin; and the priest shall pray for her; and so she shall be cleansed.

<sup>3</sup> and when he seeth the leprosy, or meselry, in the skin, and the hair changed into white colour, and that the species of leprosy is lower than the other skin and the flesh, it is a wound [or a plague] of leprosy, and he shall be separated at the doom of the priest.

<sup>5</sup> and the priest shall behold him in the seventh day, and soothly if the leprosy wax not further, neither passeth the former terms in the flesh, again the priest shall enclose him again seven other days;

<sup>6</sup> and he shall behold him in the seventh day; if the leprosy is then dark, and waxeth not in the flesh, the priest shall cleanse him, that is, shall deem him to be clean, for it is a scab; and the man shall wash his clothes, and he shall be clean.

<sup>7</sup> That if the leprosy waxeth again, after that he is seen of the priest, and is yielded to cleanness, he shall be brought again to the priest,

<sup>9</sup> If the wound [or the plague] of leprosy is in a man, he shall be brought to the priest,

<sup>10</sup> and he shall see the man; and when white colour is in the flesh, and it changeth the sight, or former colour, of [the] hairs, and that flesh appeareth quick, or waxing,

<sup>11</sup> it shall be deemed the eldest [or most old] leprosy, and grown to the skin; therefore the priest shall defoul him, that is, deem him to be foul, and the priest shall not enclose him again, for it is of open uncleanness.

<sup>20</sup> and when the priest seeth the place of the leprosy lower than the other flesh, and the hairs turned into whiteness, the priest shall defoul him, that is, deem him foul; for the wound [or the plague] of leprosy is bred [or sprung] in the botch.

<sup>25</sup> and lo! if it is turned into white-ness, and the place thereof is lower than the tother skin, the priest shall defoul the man, for a wound [or the plague] of leprosy is bred [or sprung] in the sign of wound.

<sup>28</sup> else if the whiteness standeth in his place, and is not clear enough, it is a wound, or soreness, of burning, and therefore the man shall be cleansed, for it is a sign of burning.

<sup>30</sup> the priest shall see them; and if the place is lower than the tother flesh, and the hair is white, and is subtler, either smaller, than it is wont, the priest shall defoul them, for it is leprosy of the head, and of the beard.

<sup>31</sup> Else if he seeth the place of the wem, or the sore, even with the nigh flesh, and the hair black, the priest shall enclose them seven days,

<sup>32</sup> and he shall see them in the seventh day; if the wem waxeth not, and the hair is of his colour, and the place of wound is even with the tother flesh,

<sup>37</sup> Soothly if the spot standeth still, and the hairs be black, know then the priest that the man is healed, and trustily pronounce he the man clean.

<sup>51</sup> And again he shall behold it in the seventh day, and if he perceiveth, that the leprosy therein hath waxed, it shall be deemed[a] continual leprosy; he shall deem that cloth defouled, and all thing in which it is found;

<sup>54</sup> he shall command, and they shall wash that thing wherein the leprosy is, and he shall enclose it again seven other days;

<sup>55</sup> and when he seeth the former like-ness not changed again, nevertheless that neither the leprosy hath waxed, he shall deem that thing unclean, and he shall burn it in fire, for the leprosy is shed [or spread] in the over-part of that cloth, either through/out/it all.

<sup>56</sup> Else if the place of [the] leprosy is darker, after that the cloth is washed, he shall break away that dark place, and he shall part it from the whole.

<sup>57</sup> That if fleeing leprosy and unstead-fast appeareth furthermore in these places, that were unwemmed before, it oweth to be burnt in fire;

CHAPTER 14

<sup>4</sup> he shall command to the man that is cleansed, that he offer for himself two quick sparrows, which is leaveful to eat, and cedar wood, and vermilion, that is, a red thread, and hyssop.

<sup>7</sup> with which he shall sprinkle seven times him that shall be cleansed, that he be purged rightfully; and he shall deliver the quick sparrow, that it fly [away] into the field.

<sup>8</sup> And when the man hath washed his clothes, he shall shave all the hairs of his body, and he shall be washed in water, and he shall be cleansed, and he shall enter into the tents; so only that he dwell without his tabernacle by seven days;

<sup>9</sup> and that in the seventh day, he shave the hairs of the head, and his beard, and his brows, and the hairs of all his body. And when his clothes and his body be washed again,

<sup>10</sup> in the eighth day he shall take two lambs without wem, and a sheep of one year without wem, and three dimes, or three tenth parts, of [tried]wheat flour, into sacrifice, which be sprinkled with oil, and by itself a sextary, or a pint, of oil.

<sup>11</sup> And when the priest that purgeth the man, hath set him and all his things before the Lord, in the door of the tabernacle of witnessing,

<sup>12</sup> he shall take a lamb, and shall offer it for trespass, and shall offer the pint of oil; and when all things be offered before the Lord,

<sup>13</sup> he shall offer the lamb, where the sacrifice for sin and the burnt sacrifice is wont to be offered, that is, in the holy place; for as for sin, so and for trespass, the offering pertaineth to the priest; it is holy of holy things.

<sup>21</sup> That if he is poor, and his hand may not find those things that be said, he shall take for his trespass a lamb to [the] offering, that the priest pray for him, and the tenth part of [tried]wheat flour sprinkled altogether with oil, into sacrifice, and a pint of oil,

<sup>34</sup> When ye have entered into the land of Canaan, which I shall give to you into possession, if the wound of leprosy is in the houses,

<sup>35</sup> he shall go, whose the house is, and shall tell to the priest, and shall say, It seemeth to me, that as it were a wound of leprosy is in mine house.

<sup>36</sup> And the priest shall command, that they bear out of the house all things, before that he enter into it, that he may see whether it be leprosy, lest all things that be in the house be made unclean; and the priest shall enter afterward, that he see the leprosy of the house.

<sup>39</sup> And he shall turn again in the seventh day, and shall see it; [and] if he findeth that the leprosy hath increased,

<sup>40</sup> he shall command that the stones be cast out, in which the leprosy is, and that those stones be cast out of the city into an unclean place.

<sup>41</sup> Soothly he shall command that that house be razed within by compass, and that the dust of the razing be sprinkled without the city, in an unclean place,

<sup>44</sup> the priest entereth, and seeth the leprosy turned again, and the walls sprinkled with spots, the leprosy is then steadfastly dwelling, and the house is unclean;

<sup>48</sup> That if the priest entereth, and seeth that the leprosy increased not in the house, after that it was daubed the second time, the priest shall cleanse it; for health is yielded [again]thereto.

<sup>51</sup> the priest shall take the cedar wood, and hyssop, and the red thread, and the quick sparrow, and he shall dip, or wet, all these things in the blood of the sparrow offered, or slain, and in the quick waters; and he shall sprinkle the house seven times;

<sup>52</sup> and he shall cleanse it as well in the blood of the sparrow, as in the living waters, and in the quick sparrow, and in the cedar wood, and in the hyssop, and red thread.

<sup>53</sup> And when he hath let go the sparrow to fly away into the field freely, he shall pray for the house, and it shall be cleansed rightfully.

<sup>55</sup> [and] of leprosy of clothes, and of houses,

<sup>56</sup> [and] of the sign of wound, and of little whelks breaking out, [and] of spot shining, and in colours changed into diverse spots,

<sup>2</sup> Speak ye to the sons of Israel, and say ye to them, A man that suffereth the running out of seed, shall be unclean;

<sup>3</sup> and then he shall be deemed to be subject to this vice, when by all moments foul humour, either moisture, cleaveth to his flesh, and groweth altogether.

<sup>6</sup> If a man sitteth where he sat, also that man shall wash his clothes, and he shall be washed in water, and shall be unclean till to eventide.

<sup>8</sup> If such a man casteth out spittle upon him that is clean, he shall wash his clothes, and he shall be washed in water, and shall be unclean till to eventide.

<sup>13</sup> If he that suffereth such a passion, is healed, he shall number seven days after his cleansing, and when his clothes and all his body be washed in living waters, he shall be clean.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth in the eighth day he shall take two turtles, or two culver birds, and he shall come in the sight of the Lord at the door of the tabernacle of witnessing, and shall give those [or them] to the priest;

<sup>15</sup> and the priest shall make, or offer, one of them for the man's sin, and the tother into burnt sacrifice; and the priest shall pray for him before the Lord, that he be cleansed from the flowing out of his seed.

<sup>17</sup> He shall wash in water the cloth and skin, or pilch, that he hath used that time, and it shall be unclean till to eventide.

<sup>19</sup> A woman that suffereth the flowing out of blood, when the month cometh again, she shall be separated by seven days; each man that toucheth her shall be unclean till to eventide,

<sup>24</sup> If a man is coupled fleshly with her in the time of blood that cometh, or runneth, from her by months, he shall be unclean by seven days, and each bed in which he sleepeth shall be unclean.

<sup>25</sup> A woman that suffereth in many days the flowing out of blood, not in the time of [the] months, either which woman ceaseth not to flow out blood after the blood of [the] months, shall be unclean as long as she shall be subject to this passion, as if she is in the time of [the] months.

<sup>30</sup> and the priest shall offer one for her sin, and the tother into burnt sacrifice; and the priest shall pray for her before the Lord, and for the flowing out of her uncleanness.

<sup>31</sup> Therefore ye shall teach the sons of Israel, that they eschew unclean-nesses, and that they die not for their filths, when they defoul my tabernacle that is among them.

<sup>33</sup> and also of the woman that is separated in the time of months, either that floweth out in continual blood, and of the man that sleepeth with her.

CHAPTER 16

<sup>1</sup> And the Lord spake to Moses, after the death of the two sons of Aaron, when they offered alien fire, and were slain,

<sup>2</sup> and commanded to him and said, Speak thou to Aaron, thy brother, that he enter not in all time into the saintuary, which is within the veil before the propitiatory, with which the ark is covered, that he die not; for I shall appear in a cloud on God's answering place;

<sup>10</sup> soothly whose lot goeth out into the goat that shall be sent out, he shall set him quick before the Lord, that he send prayers on him, and send him out into wilderness.

<sup>11</sup> When these things be done rightfully, he shall offer the calf, and he shall pray for himself, and for his house, and shall offer the calf.

<sup>12</sup> And when he hath taken a censer, which he hath *[full-]*filled of the coals of the altar, and he hath taken in [his] hand the sweet smelling spicery [or spices] made into incense, he shall enter over the veil into the holy things;

<sup>13</sup> that when sweet smelling spiceries [or spices] be put on the fire, the cloud and vapour of those [or them] cover God's answering place, that is, the propitiatory, which is on the witnessing, that is, on the ark with the tables of law, and he die not.

<sup>15</sup> And when Aaron hath slain the goat buck, offered for [the] sin of the people, he shall bring in the blood thereof within the veil, as it is commanded of the calf's blood, that he sprinkle it even against God's answering place,

<sup>16</sup> and he shall cleanse the saintuary from [the] uncleanness of the sons of Israel, and from their trespassings, and [from] all their sins. By this custom he shall do in the tabernacle of witnessing, which is set among them, in the midst of [the] filths of the habitation of them.

<sup>17</sup> No man be in the tabernacle, when the bishop shall enter into the saintuary, that he pray for himself, and for his house, and for all the company of Israel, till he go out of the tabernacle.

<sup>18</sup> Soothly when he hath gone out to the altar which is before the Lord, pray he for himself, and shed [or pour] he on the horns thereof, by compass, the blood that is taken of the calf, and of the goat buck;

<sup>19</sup> and sprinkle he it seven times with his finger, and cleanse he, and hallow he the altar from [the] unclean-nesses of the sons of Israel.

<sup>20</sup> After that he hath cleansed the saintuary, and the tabernacle, and the altar, then offer he the living goat buck;

<sup>21</sup> and when his ever either hand is put upon the head thereof, acknowledge the priest all the wickednesses of the sons of Israel, and all their trespasses and sins, which sins the priest shall wish, or will, over to the goat's head, and he shall send the goat out into desert by a man made ready thereto,.

<sup>23</sup> Aaron shall turn again into the tabernacle of witnessing; and when the clothes be put off, in which he was clothed before, when he entered into the saintuary of God, and those clothes be left there,

<sup>24</sup> he shall wash his flesh in the holy place, and he shall be clothed in his own clothes, and after that he hath gone out, and hath offered the burnt sacrifice of himself, and of the people, he shall pray as well for himself, as for the people;

<sup>26</sup> Soothly he that let go the goat buck able to be sent out, shall wash his clothes and his body with water, and so he shall enter into the tents.

<sup>27</sup> Forsooth they shall bear out of the tents the calf and the goat buck, that were offered for sin, and whose blood was brought into the saintuary, that the cleansing were fulfilled; and they shall burn in fire as well the skins, as the flesh, and [the] dung of those beasts.

<sup>28</sup> And whoever burneth those [or them], he shall wash his clothes and flesh in water, and so he shall enter into the tents.

<sup>29</sup> And this shall be to you a lawful thing everlasting; in the seventh month, in the tenth day of the month, ye shall torment your souls, and ye shall not do any work, neither a man born in the land, neither a comeling that is a pilgrim among you.

<sup>31</sup> for it is the sabbath of resting, and ye shall torment your souls by ever-lasting religion.

<sup>32</sup> Soothly the priest shall cleanse, the which is anointed, and whose hands be hallowed, that he be set in priesthood for his father; and he shall be clothed in a linen stole, and in holy clothes,

<sup>33</sup> and he shall cleanse the saintuary, and the tabernacle of witnessing, and the altar, and the priests, and all the people.

<sup>34</sup> And this shall be to you a lawful thing everlasting, that ye pray for the sons of Israel, and for all their sins, once in the year. Therefore Aaron did, as the Lord commanded to Moses.

CHAPTER 17

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to Aaron, and to his sons, and to all the sons of Israel, and say thou to them, This is the word which the Lord commanded, and said,

<sup>3</sup> Each man of the house of Israel shall be guilty of blood, or great sin, if he slayeth an ox, or a sheep, either a goat, in the tents, either out of the tents,

<sup>4</sup> and offereth not an offering to the Lord at the door of the tabernacle of witnessing; as if he shedded man's blood, so he shall perish from the midst of his people.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore the sons of Israel owe to offer their sacrifices to the priest, which they slay in the field, that those [or they] be hallowed to the Lord, before the door of the tabernacle of witnessing, and that they offer those peaceable sacrifices to the Lord.

<sup>6</sup> And the priest shall pour out the blood upon the altar of the Lord, at the door of the tabernacle of witnessing; and he shall burn the inner fatness into odour of sweetness to the Lord.

<sup>7</sup> And they shall no more offer their sacrifices to fiends, with which they did fornication, that is, idolatry; it shall be a lawful thing everlasting to them, and to their after-comers.

<sup>8</sup> And thou shalt say to them, A man of the house of Israel, and of the comelings that be pilgrims among you, that offereth a burnt sacrifice, either a slain sacrifice,

<sup>9</sup> and bringeth it not to the door of the tabernacle of witnessing, that it be offered to the Lord, he shall perish from his people.

<sup>10</sup> If any man of the sons of Israel, and of the comelings that be pilgrims among you, eateth any blood, I shall set fast my face against his soul, and I shall lose him from his people;

<sup>11</sup> for the life of flesh is in the blood, and I gave that blood to you, that ye cleanse therewith upon mine altar for your souls, and that the blood be sprinkled for [the] sin of the soul.

<sup>12</sup> Therefore I said to the sons of Israel, Each living man of you shall not eat blood, neither any of the comelings that be pilgrims among you.

<sup>14</sup> for the life of [all] flesh is in blood. Wherefore I said to the sons of Israel, Ye shall not eat the blood of any flesh, for the life of flesh is in the blood, and whoever eateth blood, shall perish.

<sup>15</sup> A man that eateth a thing dead by itself, either taken of a beast, as well of men born in the land, as of comelings, he shall wash his clothes, and himself in water; and he shall be defouled, till to eventide; and by this order, he shall be made clean;

CHAPTER 18

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, I am your Lord God;

<sup>5</sup> Keep ye my laws and dooms, which a man shall do, and he shall live in those [or them]; I am your Lord God.

<sup>17</sup> Thou shalt not show the filthhood of a woman, and of her daughter; thou shalt not take the daughter of her son, and the daughter of her daughter, that thou show her shame; they be the flesh of her, and such lechery is incest, that is, lechery of them that be kin.

<sup>21</sup> Thou shalt not give of thy seed, that it be offered to the idol Moloch, neither thou shalt defoul the name of thy God; I am the Lord.

<sup>26</sup> Keep ye my lawful things, and my dooms, that ye do not any of all these abominations, as well a man born in the land, as a comeling that is a pilgrim with you.

<sup>30</sup> Keep ye my behests; do not ye do those things, which they that were before you did, and be ye not defouled in those [or them]; I am your Lord God.

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to all the company of the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, Be ye holy, for I am holy, your Lord God.

<sup>10</sup> neither in thy vineyard thou shalt gather the raisins and the grains falling down, but thou shalt leave them to be gathered of poor men and of pilgrims; I am your Lord God.

<sup>18</sup> Thou shalt not seek vengeance, neither thou shalt be mindful of the wrong of thy citizens; thou shalt love thy friend as thyself; I am the Lord.

<sup>19</sup> Keep ye my laws. Thou shalt not make thy beasts to engender with the beasts of another kind. Thou shalt not sow a field with diverse seed. Thou shalt not be clothed in a cloth which is woven of two things.

<sup>20</sup> If a man sleepeth with a woman by fleshly knowing of seed, which woman is an handmaid, or bond, yea, a noble woman of kin, and nevertheless is not again-bought by price, neither rewarded with freedom, she shall be beaten [or both shall be scourged], and they shall not die, for she was not free.

<sup>22</sup> and the priest shall pray for him, and for his trespass, before the Lord; and the Lord shall be merciful to him, and the sin shall be forgiven.

<sup>28</sup> and on dead men ye shall not cut your flesh, neither ye shall make to you any figures, either marks in your flesh; I am the Lord.

<sup>31</sup> Bow ye not to astronomers or astrologers, neither ask ye anything of false diviners, that ye be defouled by them; I am your Lord God.

<sup>34</sup> but be he among you as a man born in the land; and ye shall love him as yourself, for also ye were comelings in the land of Egypt; I am your Lord God.

<sup>36</sup> the balance be just [or right], and the weights be even, the bushel be just [or right], and the pint be even; I am your Lord God, that led you out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>37</sup> Keep ye all my behests, and all my dooms, and do ye them; I am the Lord.

CHAPTER 20

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou these things to the sons of Israel, If any man of the sons of Israel, and of the comelings that dwell in Israel, giveth of his seed to the idol Moloch, die he by death; the people of the land shall stone him.

<sup>3</sup> And I shall set fast my face against him, and I shall cut away him from the midst of my people, for he gave of his seed to Moloch, and defouled my saintuary, and defouled mine holy name.

<sup>4</sup> That if the people of the land is negligent, and little chargeth or careth for my behest, and suffereth the man that gave of his seed to Moloch, neither will slay him,

<sup>5</sup> I shall set my face on that man, and on his kindred, and I shall cut him down, and all that consented to him, that they should do fornication, that is, idolatry, with Moloch, from the midst of their people.

<sup>6</sup> If a man boweth to astronomers, and to false diviners, and doeth fornication with them, I shall set my face against him, and I shall slay him from the midst of his people.

<sup>8</sup> Keep ye my behests, and do ye those [or them], for I am the Lord that halloweth you.

<sup>22</sup> Keep ye my laws and my dooms, and do ye those [or them], lest the land, into which ye shall enter and dwell in, cast out vilely also you.

<sup>23</sup> Do not ye go in the lawful things, that is, in worshipping and in the manner of living of them, of the nations, which I shall cast out before you, for they did all these things, and I had abomination of them.

<sup>24</sup> Forsooth I spake to you, Wield ye their land, that I shall give to you into heritage, that land flowing with milk and honey; I am your Lord God, that parted you from other peoples.

<sup>25</sup> Therefore also ye part a clean beast from an unclean, and a clean bird from an unclean, lest ye defoul your souls in beasts, and in birds, and in all things that be moved in earth, and which things I showed to you to be defouled.

<sup>26</sup> Ye shall be holy to me, for I the Lord am holy, and I separated you from other peoples, that ye shall be mine.

CHAPTER 21

<sup>1</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Speak thou to [the] priests, the sons of Aaron, and thou shalt say to them, A priest be not defouled in the dead men of his citizens,

<sup>6</sup> they shall be holy to their God, and they shall not defoul his name; for they offer incense of the Lord, and the loaves of their God, and therefore they shall be holy.

<sup>8</sup> and offereth the loaves of setting forth; therefore be he holy, for I am the holy Lord that halloweth you.

<sup>10</sup> The bishop, that is the most priest among his brethren, upon whose head the oil of anointing is poured, and whose hands be made sacred in priesthood, and he is clothed in holy clothes, shall not discover his head, he shall not tear his clothes,

<sup>12</sup> neither he shall go out of [the] holy places, lest he defoul the saintuary of the Lord, for the oil of holy anointing of his God is on him; I am the Lord.

<sup>15</sup> meddle [or mingle] he not the generation of his kin to the common people of his folk, for I am the Lord, that halloweth him.

<sup>17</sup> Speak thou to Aaron; a man of thy seed, by meines, that hath a wem, that is, a notable foulness, shall not offer bread to his God,

<sup>18</sup> neither shall nigh to his service; if he is blind; if he is crooked; if he is either of little, either of great, or wrong nose;

<sup>20</sup> if he hath a botch, or a bulge, on his back; either if he is bleary-eyed; if he hath white colour, or a pearl, in his eye, that hindereth his sight; if he hath continual scab; if he hath a dry scab in his body; either if he be bruised in privy members.

<sup>23</sup> so only that he enter not within the veil; he shall not nigh to the altar, for he hath a wem, and he shall not defoul my saintuary; I am the Lord, that hallow them.

<sup>24</sup> Therefore Moses spake to Aaron, and to his sons, and to all Israel, all things that were commanded to him.

CHAPTER 22

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to Aaron and to his sons, that they beware of these things of the sons of Israel, which things be hallowed, or offered; and that they defoul not the name of the things hallowed to me, which they offer; I am the Lord.

<sup>3</sup> Say thou to them, and to the after-comers of them, Each man of your kindred, that nigheth to those things that be hallowed, and which things the sons of Israel offered to the Lord, in whom is uncleanness, he shall perish before the Lord; I am the Lord.

<sup>4</sup> A man of the seed of Aaron that is leprous, either suffereth flowing out of seed, shall not eat of these things, that be hallowed to me, till he be healed. He that toucheth any unclean thing on a dead body, and from whom the seed as of lechery goeth out,

<sup>6</sup> he shall be unclean till to eventide, and he shall not eat these things that be hallowed to me; but when he hath washed his flesh in water,

<sup>8</sup> He shall not eat a thing dead by itself, and taken of a beast, neither he shall be defouled in those things; I am the Lord.

<sup>9</sup> They shall keep my behests, that they be not subject to sin, and die in the saintuary, when they have defouled it; I am the Lord that hallow you.

<sup>12</sup> If the priest's daughter is wedded to any man of the people, she shall not eat of these things that be hallowed, and of the first fruits;

<sup>13</sup> soothly if she is a widow, either forsaken, and turneth again without free children to her father's house, she shall be sustained by the meats of her father, as a damsel was wont; each alien hath not power to eat of those things.

<sup>14</sup> He that eateth by ignorance of hallowed things, shall add to the fifth part with that that he ate, and he shall give it to the priest in the saintuary,

<sup>15</sup> and they shall not defoul the hallowed things of the sons of Israel, which they offer to the Lord,

<sup>18</sup> Speak thou to Aaron, and to his sons, and to all the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, A man of the house of Israel, and of the comelings that dwell with them, that offereth his offering to the Lord, and either payeth avows [or vows], either offereth by his free will, whatever thing he offereth into burnt sacrifice of the Lord,

<sup>19</sup> that it be offered by you, it shall be a male without wem, of oxen, and of sheep, and of goats;

<sup>20</sup> if it hath a wem, ye shall not offer it, neither it shall be acceptable.

<sup>21</sup> A man that offereth a sacrifice of peaceable things to the Lord, and either payeth avows [or vows], either offereth by free will, as well of oxen as of sheep, he shall offer a beast without wem, that it be acceptable; no wem shall be therein.

<sup>22</sup> If it is blind, if it is broken, if it hath a wound or a scar, if it hath welks, either scab, either dry scab, ye shall not offer those beasts to the Lord, neither ye shall burn of those beasts upon the altar of the Lord.

<sup>25</sup> Of the hand of an alien ye shall not offer loaves to your God, and whatever other thing he will give, for all things be corrupt and defouled; ye shall not receive those [or them].

<sup>27</sup> When an ox, sheep, and goat be brought forth of the mother's womb, in seven days those [or they] shall be under the teat of their mother; soothly in the eighth day, and from thenceforth, those [or they] may be offered to the Lord,

<sup>32</sup> Defoul ye not mine holy name, that I be hallowed in the midst of the sons of Israel; I am the Lord, that hallow you,

<sup>33</sup> and led you out of the land of Egypt, that I should be to you into God; I am the Lord.

CHAPTER 23

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, These be the fairs, that is, holidays or holy days, of the Lord, which ye shall call holy.

<sup>3</sup> Six days ye shall do work, the seventh day shall be called holy, for it is the rest of the sabbath; ye shall not do any work therein; it is the sabbath of the Lord in all your dwelling places.

<sup>8</sup> but ye shall offer sacrifice in fire to the Lord seven days; soothly the seventh day shall be more solemn and holier, and ye shall not do any servile work therein.

<sup>10</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, When ye have entered into the land which I shall give to you, and have reaped [the] corn, ye shall bear handfuls of ears of corn, the first fruits of your ripe corn, to the priest;

<sup>11</sup> and the priest shall raise up a bundle before the Lord, that it be acceptable for you, in the tother day of the sabbath, that is, of pask; and the priest shall hallow that bundle;

<sup>14</sup> Ye shall not eat a loaf, neither cake, nor pottage of the corn, till to the day in which ye shall offer thereof to your God; it is a behest everlasting in your generations, and [in] all your dwelling places.

<sup>16</sup> till to the tother day of filling of the seventh week, that is, fifty days; and so ye shall offer [a] new sacrifice to the Lord,

<sup>20</sup> And when the priest hath raised those [or them], with the loaves of the first fruits, before the Lord, those [or they] shall fall into the priest's use.

<sup>21</sup> And ye shall call this day most solemn, and most holy; ye shall not do therein any servile work; it shall be a lawful thing everlasting in all your dwellings, and generations.

<sup>22</sup> Forsooth after that ye have reaped the corn of your land, ye shall not cut it till to the ground, neither ye shall gather the ears of corn that abide, but ye shall leave those [or them] to poor men and pilgrims; I am the Lord your God.

<sup>24</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, In the seventh month, in the first day of the month, shall be [a] sabbath, a memorial to you, sounding with trumps, and it shall be called holy;

<sup>25</sup> ye shall not do any servile work therein, and ye shall offer burnt sacrifice to the Lord.

<sup>27</sup> In the tenth day of this seventh month, the day of cleansings [or purging] shall be most solemn, and it shall be called holy; and ye shall torment your souls to God, and ye shall offer burnt sacrifice to the Lord;

<sup>28</sup> ye shall not do any work in the time of this day, for it is the day of cleansing, that your Lord God be merciful to you.

<sup>30</sup> and I shall do away from his people that man that doeth anything of work in that day;

<sup>31</sup> therefore ye shall not do anything of work in that day; it shall be a lawful thing everlasting to you in all your generations and dwellings;

<sup>32</sup> it is the sabbath of resting. Ye shall therein torment your souls from the ninth day of the month; from the eventide till to eventide ye shall hallow your sabbaths.

<sup>34</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, From the fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be the fairs of tabernacles*, in seven days to the Lord;

<sup>36</sup> and seven days ye shall offer burnt sacrifices to the Lord, and the eighth day shall be most solemn and most holy; and ye shall offer burnt sacrifice to the Lord, for it is the day of company, and of gathering; ye shall not do any servile work therein.

<sup>37</sup> These be the fairs of the Lord, which ye shall call most solemn and most holy; and in them ye shall offer offerings to the Lord, burnt sacrifices, and flowing offerings, by the custom of each day, <sup>38</sup> besides the sabbaths of the Lord, and your gifts, and that that ye offer by avows, either that that ye give by free will to the Lord.

* CHAPTER 23:34 Also known as the Feast, or the Festival, of Tabernacles, Booths, Shelters, or Ingathering.

<sup>39</sup> Therefore from the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye have gathered all the fruits of your land, ye shall hallow the fairs of the Lord seven days; in the first day and the eighth day shall be sabbath, that is, rest.

<sup>40</sup> And ye shall take to you in the first day fruits of the fairest tree, and [the] branches of palm trees, and the branches of a thick-boughed tree, and sallows of the running stream, and ye shall be glad before your Lord God;

<sup>43</sup> that your after-comers learn, that I made the sons of Israel to dwell in tabernacles, when I led them out of the land of Egypt; I am your Lord God.

CHAPTER 24

<sup>2</sup> Command thou to the sons of Israel, that they bring to thee oil of olives, most pure oil, and bright, to the lanterns to be ordained continually,

<sup>5</sup> Also thou shalt take [tried] wheat flour, and thou shalt bake thereof twelve loaves, which shall have each by themselves two tenth parts,

<sup>7</sup> and thou shalt set [or put] clearest incense upon those loaves, that the loaves be into mind of [the] offering of the Lord;

<sup>8</sup> by each sabbath those [or they] shall be changed before the Lord, and shall be taken of the sons of Israel by everlasting bond of peace;

<sup>9</sup> and they shall be Aaron's and his sons', that they eat those [or them] in the holy place, for it is holy of holy things, of the sacrifices of the Lord, by everlasting law.

<sup>10</sup> Lo! forsooth the son of a woman of Israel, whom she childed of an Egyptian, went out among the sons of Israel, and he chided in the tents with a man of Israel,

<sup>11</sup> and when he had blasphemed the name of the Lord, and had cursed the Lord, he was brought to Moses; soothly his mother was called Shelomith, the daughter of Dibri, of the lineage of Dan;

<sup>14</sup> Lead out the blasphemer without the tents, and all men that heard him, set [or put] they their hands upon his head, and all the people stone him.

<sup>16</sup> and he that blasphemeth the name of the Lord, die he by death; all the multitude of the people shall oppress him with stones; whether he that blasphemed the name of the Lord is a citizen, or a pilgrim, die he by death.

<sup>19</sup> If a man giveth a wem to any of his citizens, as he did, so be it done to him;

<sup>23</sup> And Moses spake to the sons of Israel, and they brought forth out of the tents him that blasphemed, and oppressed him with stones. And the sons of Israel did, as the Lord commanded to Moses.

CHAPTER 25

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, When ye have entered into the land which I shall give to you, the earth keep the sabbath of the Lord;

<sup>4</sup> forsooth in the seventh year shall be the sabbath of the earth, of [the] resting of the Lord; thou shalt not sow the field, and thou shalt not cut the vineyard,

<sup>5</sup> thou shalt not reap those things which the earth bringeth forth freely, and thou shalt not gather the grapes of thy first fruits, as vintage; for it is the year of resting of the land;

<sup>6</sup> but those fruits shall be to you into meat, to thee, and to thy servant, and to thine handmaid, and to thine hired man, and to the comeling that is a pilgrim with thee;

<sup>8</sup> Also thou shalt number to thee seven weeks of years, that is, seven times seven, which altogether make nine and forty years;

<sup>9</sup> and thou shalt sound with a clarion in the seventh month, in the tenth day of the month, in the time of propitiation, that is, mercy, in all your land.

<sup>10</sup> And thou shalt hallow the fiftieth year, and thou shalt call it remission, or forgiveness, to all the dwellers of thy land; for that year is [the] jubilee, that is, the joyful year; a man shall turn again to his possession, and each man shall go again to his first meine,

<sup>15</sup> but by the number of the years of [the] jubilee thou shalt buy of him, and by the reckoning of fruits, he shall sell to thee.

<sup>16</sup> By as much as more years dwell after the jubilee, by so much also the price shall increase, and by as much as thou numberest less of time, by so much and the buying shall cost less; for he shall sell to thee the time of fruits.

<sup>18</sup> Do ye my behests, and keep ye my dooms, and fulfill ye those, that ye may dwell in this land without any dread,

<sup>21</sup> I shall give my blessing to you in the sixth year, and it shall make [the] fruits of three years;

<sup>23</sup> Also the land shall not be sold into without end, for it is mine, and ye be my comelings, and [my] tenants;

<sup>24</sup> wherefore all the country of your possession shall be sold under the condition of again-buying.

<sup>28</sup> That if his hand findeth not, that he yield the price, the buyer shall have that that he bought, till to the year of jubilee; for in that year each selling shall go again to the lord, and to the first wielder.

<sup>29</sup> He that selleth his house, within the walls of a city, shall have license to again-buy, till one year be *[full-/]*filled;

<sup>30</sup> if he again-buyeth not, and the circle of the year is passed, the buyer shall wield it, and his heirs into without end, and it shall not be able to be again-bought, yea, in the jubilee.

<sup>31</sup> Forsooth if the house is in a town that hath not walls, it shall be sold by the law of [the] fields; soothly if it is not again-bought in the jubilee, it shall turn again to the lord thereof.

<sup>33</sup> if those [or they] be not again-bought, those [or they] shall turn again in the jubilee to the lords; for the houses of the cities of deacons [or Levites] be for possessions among the sons of Israel;

<sup>35</sup> If thy brother is made poor, and feeble in power, and thou receivest him as a comeling, and a pilgrim, and he liveth with thee,

<sup>37</sup> Thou shalt not give to him thy money to usury, and thou shalt not ask over that that thou lendest, increases of fruits;

<sup>38</sup> I am your Lord God, that led you out of the land of Egypt, that I should give to you the land of Canaan, and that I should be your God.

<sup>40</sup> but he shall be as an hired man and a tenant; till to the year of jubilee he shall work with thee,

<sup>41</sup> and afterward he shall go out with his free children, and he shall turn again to his kindred, and to the possession of his fathers.

<sup>42</sup> For they be my servants, and I led them out of the land of Egypt; they shall not be sold by the condition of servants;

<sup>44</sup> A servant and handmaid be to you of [the] nations that be in your compass, and of [the] comelings the which be pilgrims with you,

<sup>45</sup> either they that be born of comelings in your land; ye shall have these servants, and by right of heritage ye shall leave them to your after-comers, and ye shall wield them without end;

<sup>47</sup> If the hand of a comeling or of a pilgrim waxeth strong at you, and thy brother is made poor, and selleth himself to that comeling, either to any of his kin,

<sup>48</sup> he may be again-bought after the selling; he that will of his brethren, again-buy him;

<sup>49</sup> both his father's brother, and the son of his father's brother, and his kins-man, and his ally. Else if also he shall be able, he shall again-buy himself,

<sup>50</sup> while the years be reckoned only from the time of his selling till into the year of jubilee; and while the money, for which he was sold, is reckoned by the number of years, and while the hire of an hired man is reckoned.

<sup>51</sup> If more years be that dwell till to the jubilee, by these years he shall yield also the price;

<sup>52</sup> if few years be, he shall set reckoning with him by the number of these years; and he shall yield to the buyer that that is left of [the] years,

<sup>55</sup> for the sons of Israel be my servants, which I led out of the land of Egypt. I am your Lord God;

CHAPTER 26

<sup>1</sup> ye shall not make to you an idol, and a graven image, neither ye shall raise up titles, that is, altars for idolatry, neither ye shall set [or put] a noble stone in your land, that ye worship [or honour] it; for I am your Lord God.

<sup>5</sup> the threshing of ripe corns shall take the vintage, and the vintage shall occupy the seed time, and ye shall eat your bread in fullness, and ye shall dwell in your land without dread.

<sup>6</sup> I shall give peace in your coasts; ye shall sleep, and none shall be that shall make you afeared; I shall do away evil beasts from you, and a sword shall not pass by your terms.

<sup>9</sup> I shall behold you, and I shall make you to increase; ye shall be multiplied; and I shall make steadfast my covenant with you;

<sup>11</sup> I shall set my tabernacle in the midst of you, and my soul shall not cast you away;

<sup>12</sup> I shall go among you, and I shall be your God, and ye shall be a people to me.

<sup>13</sup> I am your Lord God, that led you out of the land of Egyptians, that ye should not serve them, and I have broken the chains off your nolls, that ye should go upright.

- <sup>14</sup> That if ye hear not me, neither do all my behests,
<sup>15</sup> and if ye forsake my laws, and despise my dooms, that ye do not those things that be ordained of me, and that ye bring follily my covenant to nought,
<sup>16</sup> also I shall do these things to you; I shall visit you swiftly in neediness, and in burning, which shall torment your eyes, and waste your lives; in vain ye shall sow seed, that shall be devoured of enemies;
<sup>17</sup> I shall set my face against you, and ye shall fall before your enemies, and ye shall be subjects [or be subject] to them that hate you; ye shall flee, while no man pursueth you.
<sup>18</sup> But if neither so ye obey to me, I shall increase your chastising sevenfold for your sins;
<sup>20</sup> your travail shall be wasted in vain, neither the earth shall bring forth fruit, neither [the] trees shall give apples.
<sup>21</sup> If ye go contrary to me, neither will hear me, I shall increase your wounds, either vengeances, till into sevenfold for your sins;
<sup>22</sup> I shall send out into you cruel beasts of the field, that shall waste you, and your beasts, and shall bring all things to fewness, and your ways shall be forsaken.
<sup>23</sup> That if neither so ye will receive doctrine, either chastising, but go contrary to me,
<sup>24</sup> also I shall go adversary against you, and I shall smite you seven times for your sins;
<sup>25</sup> and I shall bring in on you the sword, avenger of my bond of peace; and when ye flee into [your] cities, I shall send pestilence in[to] the midst of you, and ye shall be betaken in the hands of [your] enemies,
<sup>26</sup> after that I have broken the staff of your bread, so that ten women shall bake their loaves in one oven, and yield, or deliver, those loaves at weight; and ye shall eat, and ye shall not be fulfilled.
<sup>28</sup> and I shall go against you in contrary strong vengeance, and I shall chastise you by seven vengeances for your sins,
<sup>30</sup> I shall destroy your high things, and I shall break your simulacra; ye shall fall betwixt the fallings of your idols, and my soul shall have you abominable,
<sup>31</sup> in so much that I shall turn your cities into wilderness, and make your saintuaries forsaken, neither I shall receive more the sweetest odour;
<sup>33</sup> forsooth I shall scatter you into folks, or into heathen men, and I shall draw out of the sheath the sword after you, and your land shall be forsaken, and your cities shall be cast down.
<sup>34</sup> Then his sabbaths shall please the earth, in all the days of his wilderness; when ye be in the land of enemies, it shall keep sabbath,
<sup>35</sup> and it shall rest in the sabbaths of his wilderness, for it rested not in your sabbaths, when ye dwelled therein.
<sup>36</sup> And I shall give dread in their hearts, that shall abide of you, in the countries of your enemies; the sound of a leaf flying shall make them afeared, and so they shall flee it as a sword; they shall fall, while none pursueth,

<sup>39</sup> That if some of these Jews dwell, they shall fail in their wickednesses, in the land of their enemies; and they shall be tormented for the sins of their fathers, and for their own sins,

<sup>40</sup> till they acknowledge their wicked-nesses, and have mind of their evils, by which they trespassed against me, and went contrary to me.

<sup>41</sup> Therefore and I shall go against them, and I shall bring them into the land of their enemies, till the uncircumcised soul of them be ashamed; then they shall pray for their wicked-ness,

<sup>42</sup> and I shall have mind of my bond of peace, that I covenanted with Jacob, Isaac, and with Abraham; also I shall be mindful of the land,

<sup>43</sup> which, when it is left of them, shall please to itself in his sabbaths, and shall suffer wilderness for them; forsooth they shall pray for their sins, for they casted away my dooms, and despised my laws;

<sup>44</sup> nevertheless, yea, when they were in the land of enemies, I casted not them away utterly, neither I despised them, so that they were wasted, and that I made void my covenant with them; for I am the Lord God of them.

<sup>45</sup> And I shall have mind of my former bond of peace, when I led them out of the land of Egypt, in the sight of heathen men, that I should be their God; I am the Lord God.

<sup>46</sup> These be the behests, and dooms, and laws, which the Lord gave betwixt himself and the sons of Israel, in the hill [or mount] of Sinai, by the hand of Moses.

CHAPTER 27

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, A man that maketh a vow, and promiseth his soul to God, he shall give the price under value, either appraising thereof.

<sup>7</sup> a male of sixty years and over shall give fifteen shekels, a woman shall give ten shekels.

<sup>8</sup> If it is a poor man, and [he] may not yield the value, he shall stand before the priest, and as much as the priest appraiseth, and seeth that the poor man may yield, so much he shall give.

<sup>9</sup> Soothly if any man avoweth a beast, that may be offered to the Lord, it shall be holy,

<sup>10</sup> and it shall not be able to be changed, that is, neither a better for a worse, neither an evil for a good; and if he changeth it, both that, that is changed, and that, for which it is changed, shall be hallowed to the Lord.

<sup>13</sup> which price, if he that offereth will not give, he shall add the fifth part over the value.

<sup>15</sup> soothly if he that avowed will again-buy it, he shall give the fifth part of the value above, and he shall have the house.

<sup>16</sup> That if a man avoweth the field of his possession, and halloweth it to the Lord, the price shall be deemed by the measure of [the] seed; if the field is sown with thirty bushels of barley, it shall be sold for fifty shekels of silver.

<sup>17</sup> If he avoweth the field anon from the year of [the] beginning of the jubilee, as much as it may be worth, by so much it shall be appraised;

<sup>19</sup> That if he that avowed will again-buy the field, he shall add the fifth part of the money that is appraised, and he shall wield it;

<sup>20</sup> but if he will not again-buy it, but it is sold to any other man, he that avowed it shall never be able to again-buy it;

<sup>22</sup> If the field is bought, and is not of the possession of greater men, that is, of ancestors, and it is hallowed to the Lord,

<sup>23</sup> the priest shall determine the price by the number of years till to the jubilee, and he that avowed the field shall give the price thereof to the Lord;

<sup>27</sup> That if the beast is unclean that is avowed, he that offered it shall again-buy it after the value that it is appraised, and he shall add to the fifth part of the price; if he will not again-buy it, it shall be sold to another man, for as much as it is appraised.

<sup>28</sup> All thing that is hallowed to the Lord, whether it is man, or beast, whether field of his heritage, it shall not be sold, neither it shall be able to be again-bought; whatever thing is hallowed once, it shall be holy of holy things to the Lord,

<sup>32</sup> of all the tithes of sheep, and of oxen, and of goats, that pass under the shepherd's rod, whatever thing cometh to the tenth part, it shall be hallowed to the Lord;

<sup>33</sup> it shall not be chosen, neither good, neither evil; neither it shall be changed for another; if any man changeth it, both that, that is changed, and that, for which it is changed, shall be hallowed to the Lord, and it shall not be again-bought.

<sup>34</sup> These be the commandments which the Lord commanded to Moses, and to the sons of Israel, in the hill [or mount] of Sinai.

NUMBERS

<sup>1</sup> And the Lord spake to Moses in the desert of Sinai, in the tabernacle of the bond of peace*, in the first day of the second month, in the tother year of their going out of Egypt, and said,

<sup>2</sup> Take ye the sum or the number of all the congregation of the sons of Israel, by their kindreds, and meines, and all their names each by them-selves, whatever thing of male kind,

<sup>18</sup> And they gathered in the first day of the second month, and they told [or numbered] them by kindreds, and houses, and meines, and heads, and names of each by themselves, from the twentieth year and above,

<sup>20</sup> And of Reuben, the first begotten of Israel, were numbered, in the desert of Sinai, [or Of Reuben, the first begotten of Israel], by their generations, and meines, and houses, and by the names of all the heads, all thing that is of male kind, from twenty years and above, of men going forth to battle,

* CHAPTER 1:1 In Numbers, the Tabernacle is called 'the tabernacle of the bond of peace', that is, 'the Tabernacle of the Covenant'; in the rest of the Old Testament of the "Wycliffe Bible", it is usually referred to as 'the tabernacle of witnessing'.

<sup>35</sup> two and thirty thousand and two hundred.

† CHAPTER 1:47 Often in the Old Testament of the "Wycliffe Bible", where the "Later Version" has 'deacon' or 'deacons', the "Early Version" has 'Levite' or 'Levites'.

<sup>50</sup> but thou shalt ordain them upon the tabernacle of witnessing, and upon all the vessels thereof, and upon what-ever thing pertaineth to [the] ceremonies, either sacrifices. They shall bear the tabernacle, and all the appurtenances thereof, and they shall be in the service of it, and they shall set [their] tents by compass of the tabernacle.

<sup>51</sup> When men shall go forth, or be removed, the deacons shall take down the tabernacle; when the tents shall be set, they shall set it up. Whoever of strangers nigheth, he shall be slain.

CHAPTER 2

<sup>1</sup> And the Lord spake to Moses and to Aaron, and said,

<sup>9</sup> All that were numbered in the tents of Judah, were an hundred thousand and fourscore thousand and six thousand and four hundred; and they shall go out first by their companies.

<sup>15</sup> and all the host of his fighters, that were numbered, five and forty thousand and six hundred and fifty.

<sup>16</sup> All that were numbered of the tents of Reuben, an hundred thousand and fifty thousand and one thousand and four hundred and fifty; they shall go forth in the second place by their companies.

<sup>17</sup> Soothly the tabernacle of witnessing shall be raised up by the offices of deacons [or Levites], and by their companies; as it shall be raised up by them, so it shall be taken down by them; all they shall go forth by their places and orders.

<sup>21</sup> all the host of his fighters, that were numbered, were two and thirty thousand and two hundred.

<sup>23</sup> and all the host of his fighters, that were numbered, were five and thirty thousand and four hundred.

<sup>24</sup> All men that were numbered in the tents of Ephraim were an hundred thousand and eight thousand and one hundred; they shall go forth in the third place by their companies.

<sup>26</sup> all the host of his fighters, that were numbered, were two and sixty thousand and seven hundred.

<sup>28</sup> and all the host of his fighters, that were numbered, were one and forty thousand and five hundred.

<sup>31</sup> All that were numbered in the tents of Dan were an hundred thousand and seven and fifty thousand and six hundred; they shall go forth the last.

<sup>32</sup> This is the number of the sons of Israel, by the houses of their kindreds, and by companies of the host parted, six hundred thousand and three thousand five hundred and fifty.

<sup>33</sup> Soothly the deacons were not numbered among the sons of Israel; for God commanded so to Moses.

<sup>34</sup> And the sons of Israel did by all things which the Lord commanded; they setted tents by their companies, and they went forth by the meines, and houses of their fathers.

CHAPTER 3

<sup>1</sup> These be the generations of Aaron and of Moses, in the day in which the Lord spake to Moses, in the hill [or mount] of Sinai.

<sup>3</sup> these be the names of Aaron's sons, priests, that were anointed, and whose hands were [ful] filled and hallowed, that they should be set in priesthood.

<sup>4</sup> Nadab and Abihu [died], when they offered alien fire in the sight of the Lord, in the desert of Sinai, and were dead without free children; and Eleazar and Ithamar were set in priesthood before Aaron their father.

<sup>8</sup> and that they keep the vessels of the tabernacle, and serve in the service of it.

<sup>12</sup> I have taken the Levites of the sons of Israel for each first engendered thing that openeth the womb in the sons of Israel; and the Levites shall be mine,

<sup>13</sup> for each first engendered thing is mine; since the time I smote the first engendered thing in the land of Egypt, I have hallowed to me whatever thing is born first in Israel; from man unto beast they be mine; I am the Lord.

<sup>25</sup> And they shall have the keepings in the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace, the tabernacle itself, and the covering thereof, the tent that is drawn before the gates of the covering of the witnessing of the bond of peace;

<sup>26</sup> and the curtains of the great entry, also the tent that is hanged in the entering of the great entry of the tabernacle, and whatever thing per-taineth to the use of the altar, the cords of the tabernacle, and to all the service thereof.

<sup>27</sup> The kindred of Kohath shall have the peoples of Amram, and of Izhar, and of Hebron, and of Uzziel; these be the meines of Kohathites,

<sup>31</sup> And they shall keep the ark, and the table, and the candlestick, the altars, and the vessels of the saintuary in which it is served, and the veil, and all such manner appurtenance.

<sup>36</sup> And under the keeping of them shall be the tables of the tabernacle, and the bars, and the pillars, and their foundations, and all things that pertain to such adorning,

of the saintuary, in the midst of the sons of Israel; what-ever alien nigheth thereto, he shall die.

<sup>40</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Number thou the first begotten of male kind of the sons of Israel, from one month and above; and thou shalt have the sum or the number of them;

<sup>41</sup> and thou shalt take the Levites to me for all the first begotten of the sons of Israel; I am the Lord; and thou shalt take their beasts for all the first begotten of the sons of Israel.

<sup>45</sup> Take thou the Levites for the first begotten of the sons of Israel, and take the beasts of the Levites for the beasts of them, and the Levites shall be mine; I am the Lord.

CHAPTER 4

<sup>1</sup> And the Lord spake to Moses and to Aaron, and said,

<sup>4</sup> This is the religion of the sons of Kohath; Aaron and his sons shall enter into the tabernacle of the bond of peace, and into the holy of holy things,

<sup>5</sup> when the tents shall be moved; and they shall do down the veil that hangeth before the gates, and they shall wrap in it the ark of witnessing;

<sup>7</sup> Also they shall wrap the table of proposition, either of setting forth, in a mantle of jacinth, and they shall put therewith the censers, and mortars or spoons of gold, little cups, and great cups to shed [or pour] flowing [or liquor] sacrifices; loaves shall ever-[more] be in the table.

<sup>14</sup> And they shall put with it all the vessels which they use in the service thereof, that is, the resets or receptacles of fire, the tongs, and fleshhooks, and other hooks, and the censers, or the pans of coals; they shall cover all the vessels of the altar altogether in a veil of jacinthine skins, and they shall lead in the bearing staves.

<sup>15</sup> And when Aaron and his sons have wrapped the saintuary, and all [the] vessels thereof, in the moving of tents, then the sons of Kohath shall enter, that they bear the things wrapped, and touch not the vessels of the saintuary, lest they die. These be the burdens of the sons of Kohath in the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace,

<sup>16</sup> on which Eleazar, the son of Aaron, the priest, shall be; to whose care the oil pertaineth to ordain lanterns, and the incense which is made by craft, and the sacrifice which is offered ever<sup>[more]</sup>, that is, in each day, and the oil of anointing, and whatever thing pertaineth to the adorning of the tabernacle, and of all vessels that be in the saintuary.

<sup>18</sup> Do not ye lose the people of Kohath from the midst of the Levites;

<sup>19</sup> but do ye this thing to them, that they live, and die not, if they touch the holy of holy things. Aaron and his sons shall enter, and they shall dispose the works of all the sons of Kohath, and they shall part what who oweth to bear.

<sup>20</sup> Other men see not by any curiosity those things that be in the saintuary, before that those [or they] be wrapped; else they shall die.

<sup>25</sup> that they bear the curtains of the tabernacle, and the roof, or covering, of the bond of peace, another covering, and the veil of jacinth that shall be above all things, and the tent that hangeth in the entry of the tabernacle of the bond of peace;

<sup>27</sup> When Aaron commandeth and his sons, the sons of Gershon shall bear all things that pertain to the altar, the cords, and the vessels, or instruments, of their service; and all they shall know, to what charge they owe to be bound.

<sup>30</sup> from thirty years and above unto fifty years, all that enter to the office of their service, and to the adorning of the bond of peace of witnessing.

<sup>32</sup> also the pillars of the great entry by compass, with their foundations, and their stakes, and their cords; and they shall take all the instruments and the appurtenance of the tabernacle, by number, and so they shall bear them.

<sup>33</sup> This is the office of the meine of Merarites, and the service in the tabernacle of the bond of peace; and they shall be under the hand of Ithamar, the son of Aaron, the priest.

<sup>35</sup> from thirty years and above unto the fiftieth year, all that enter to the service of the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace;

<sup>43</sup> from thirty years and above unto fifty years, all that enter to fulfill the customs, or the services, of the tabernacle of the bond of peace;

<sup>46</sup> All that were numbered of the Levites, and which Moses and Aaron and the princes of Israel made to be numbered, by the kindreds, and houses of their fathers,

CHAPTER 5

<sup>2</sup> Command thou to the sons of Israel, that they cast out of the tents each leprous man, and that floweth out the seed, and that is defouled upon a dead body;

<sup>3</sup> cast ye out of the tents, as well a male as a female, lest they defoul those [or them], when they dwell with you.

<sup>4</sup> And the sons of Israel did so; and they putted them out of the tents, as the Lord spake to Moses.

<sup>6</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, When a man either a woman hath done any of all the sins that be wont to fall to men, and have broken by negligence the behest of the Lord, and have trespassed,

<sup>8</sup> But if none there is that shall receive that, they shall give it to the Lord, and it shall be the priest's part, besides the ram that is offered for cleansing, that it be a quemeful sacrifice.

<sup>12</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, If a man's wife hath erred, and hath despised her husband,

<sup>13</sup> and hath slept with another man, and the husband may not take, either prove this, but the adultery is hid, and may not be proved by witnesses, for she is not found in lechery;

<sup>15</sup> the man shall bring her to the priest, and he shall offer an offering for her, the tenth part of a measure called a saton of barley meal; he shall not pour oil thereupon, neither he shall put incense thereto, for it is the sacrifice of jealousy, and an offering inquiring adultery.

<sup>18</sup> And when the woman standeth in the sight of the Lord, the priest shall uncover her head, and he shall put upon her hands the sacrifice of remembering, and the offering of jealousy. Soothly he shall hold the most bitter waters, in which he hath gathered together curses with cursing.

<sup>19</sup> And he shall conjure or adjure her, and say, If an alien man slept not with thee, and if thou art not defouled in forsaking the bed of thine husband, these bitter waters shall not harm thee, into which I have gathered together curses;

<sup>20</sup> else if thou bowedest away from thine husband, and art defouled, and hast lain with another man,

<sup>26</sup> so only that he take before an handful of that sacrifice that is offered, and burn it upon the altar, and so give drink to the woman the most bitter waters.

<sup>27</sup> And when she hath drunk those waters, if she is defouled, and is guilty of adultery, for her husband is despised of her, the waters of cursing shall pass through her, and while her womb is swollen, her hip shall wax rotten, and the woman shall be into cursing and into ensample to all the people.

<sup>30</sup> and the husband is stirred with the spirit of jealousy, and bringeth her into the sight of the Lord, and the priest doeth to her by all things that be written,

CHAPTER 6

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, When a man either a woman maketh a vow, that they be hallowed, and they will hallow themselves to the Lord,

<sup>3</sup> they shall abstain from wine, and from all thing that may make drunken; they shall not drink vinegar of wine, and of anything able to make drunken, and whatever thing is pressed out of the grape; they shall not eat fresh grapes and dry,

<sup>4</sup> all [the] days in which they be hallowed by a vow to the Lord; they shall not eat whatever thing may be of the vinery [or vine], from the rind till to the little grains that be in the midst of the grape.

<sup>7</sup> and soothly he shall not be defouled upon the dead body of his father and of his mother, of brother and of sister, for the hallowing of his God is upon his head;

<sup>9</sup> But if any man is dead suddenly before him, the head of his hallowing shall be defouled, which he shall shave anon in the same day of his cleansing, and again in the seventh day;

<sup>10</sup> forsooth in the eighth day he shall offer two turtles, either two culver birds, to the priest, in the entering of the bond of peace of witnessing.

<sup>11</sup> And the priest shall make, or offer, one for sin, and the tother into burnt sacrifice; and the priest shall pray for him, for he sinned upon a dead body, and he shall hallow his head in that day.

<sup>12</sup> And he shall hallow to the Lord the days of his separating, and he shall offer a lamb of one year for his sin, so nevertheless that the former days be made void, for his hallowing is defouled.

<sup>13</sup> This is the law of hallowing. When the days shall be fulfilled, which he deemed to fulfill by a vow, the priest shall bring him to the door of the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace,

<sup>14</sup> and he shall offer his offering to the Lord, a lamb of one year without wem, into burnt sacrifice, and a sheep of one year without wem, for sin, and a ram without wem, a peaceable sacrifice;

<sup>15</sup> also a basket of therf loaves, that be sprinkled altogether with oil, and cakes sodden in water, and after anointed with oil, without sourdough, and [the] flowing sacrifices of all these by themselves;

<sup>16</sup> which the priest shall offer before the Lord, and he shall make, or offer these, as well for sin as into burnt sacrifice.

<sup>17</sup> Soothly he shall offer the ram a peaceable sacrifice to the Lord, and he shall offer therewith a basket of therf loaves, and flowing [or liquor] sacrifices, that be due by custom.

<sup>18</sup> Then the Nazarite, or he that is hallowed, shall be shaved from the hair of his hallowing, before the door of the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace; and the priest shall take his hairs, and he shall put them upon the fire, which is put under the sacrifice of peaceable things.

<sup>19</sup> And he shall take the shoulder sodden of the ram, and one therf cake from the basket, and one [thin] therf cake first sodden in water and after-ward fried in oil, and he shall betake them into the hands of the Nazarite, after that his head is shaved.

<sup>20</sup> And the priest shall raise in the sight of the Lord the things taken again of him. And those things hallowed shall be the priest's part, as the breast which is commanded to be separated, and the hip. After these things the Nazarite may drink wine.

<sup>21</sup> This is the law of the Nazarite, when he hath avowed his offering to the Lord, in the time of his consecration, or hallowing, besides these things which his hand findeth. By this that he [hath] avowed in soul, or in will, so he shall do, to the perfection of his hallowing.

CHAPTER 7

<sup>1</sup> And it was done in the day in which Moses fulfilled, or ended, the tabernacle, and areared it, and anointed it, and hallowed it with all the vessels, or instruments, thereof, and the altar he hallowed in like manner, and the vessels thereof.

<sup>2</sup> And the princes of Israel, and the heads of meines, that were, by all lineages, the sovereigns of them that were numbered,

<sup>5</sup> Take thou of them, that they serve in the service of the tabernacle, and betake thou those things to the deacons, by the order of their service.

<sup>6</sup> And so when Moses had taken the wains, and the oxen, he betook them to the deacons [or Levites].

<sup>8</sup> He gave four other wains and eight oxen to the sons of Merari, by their offices and religion, under the hand of Ithamar, the son of Aaron, the priest.

<sup>11</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, All the dukes by themselves offer they gifts, by all days by themselves, into the hallowing of the altar.

<sup>12</sup> Nahshon, the son of Amminadab, prince of the lineage of Judah, offered his offering in the first day; and there were in that offering

<sup>17</sup> And he offered in the sacrifice of peaceable things, twain [or two] oxen, five rams, five goat bucks, five lambs of one year. This is the offering of Nahshon, the son of Amminadab.

<sup>29</sup> And in the sacrifice of peaceable things he offered twain [or two] oxen, five rams, five goat bucks, five lambs of one year. This is the offering of Eliab, the son of Helon.

<sup>35</sup> And into [the] sacrifice of peace-able things he offered twain [or two] oxen, five rams, five goat bucks, five lambs of one year. This was the offering of Elizur, the son of Shedeur.

* CHAPTER 7:13 In Hebrew it is, a basin of silver. † CHAPTER 7:14 In Hebrew it is, a spoon of ten golden shekels.

<sup>41</sup> And into [the] sacrifice of peaceable things he offered twain [or two] oxen, five rams, five goat bucks, five lambs of one year. This was the offering of Shelumiel, the son of Zurishaddai.

<sup>47</sup> And into sacrifice of peaceable things he offered two oxen, five rams, five goat bucks, five lambs of one year. This was the offering of Eliasaph, the son of Deuel.

<sup>83</sup> And into sacrifice of peaceable things he offered twain [or two] oxen, five rams, five goat bucks, five lambs of one year. This was the offering of Ahira, the son of Enan.

<sup>85</sup> so that one vessel to prove incense and such things had an hundred and thirty shekels of silver, and one basin had seventy shekels, that is, in com-mon, two thousand and four hundred shekels of all the vessels of silver, by the weight of [the] sanctuary;

<sup>88</sup> the sacrifices of peaceable things, four and twenty oxen, sixty rams, sixty goat bucks, sixty lambs of one year. These things were offered in the hallowing of the altar, when it was anointed.

<sup>89</sup> And when Moses entered into the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace, to ask counsel of God's answering place, he heard the voice of God speaking to him from the propitiatory, which was on the ark of witnessing, betwixt [the] two cherubims, from whence also God spake to Moses.

CHAPTER 8

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to Aaron, and thou shalt say to him, When thou hast set the seven lanterns, the candlestick be raised in the south part; therefore command thou this, that the lanterns behold even against the north to the board of [the] loaves of setting forth, those lanterns shall shine against that part that the candlestick beholdeth to.

<sup>3</sup> And Aaron did so, and he putted the lanterns upon the candlestick, as the Lord commanded to Moses.

<sup>4</sup> Soothly this was the making of the candlestick; it was of gold beaten out with hammers, as well the middle stalk, as all the things that came forth on ever either side of the rods; by the sample which the Lord showed to Moses, so he wrought the candlestick.

<sup>7</sup> Be they sprinkled with water of cleansing, or of purification, and shave they all the hairs of their flesh. And when they have washed their clothes and be cleansed,

<sup>8</sup> take they an ox of the droves, and the flowing [or liquor] sacrifice thereof, [tried] flour sprinkled altogether with oil; forsooth thou shalt take another ox of the drove for sin;

<sup>11</sup> and Aaron shall offer the Levites in the sight of the Lord, a gift of the sons of Israel, that they serve in the service of him.

<sup>12</sup> Also the Levites shall set their hands upon the heads of the oxen, of which oxen thou shalt make, or ordain, one for sin, and the tother into burnt sacrifice of the Lord, that thou pray for them.

<sup>15</sup> And afterward enter they into the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace, that they serve me; and so thou shalt cleanse and hallow them, into an offering of the Lord,

<sup>16</sup> for by free gift they be given to me of the sons of Israel. I have taken them for the first begotten things that open each womb in Israel;

<sup>17</sup> for all the first begotten things of the sons of Israel be mine, as well of men as of beasts, from the day in which I smote each first engendered thing in the land of Egypt, I [have] hallowed them to me.

<sup>19</sup> and I gave them by free gift to Aaron and to his sons, from the midst of the people, that they serve me for Israel, in the tabernacle of the bond of peace, and that they pray for them, lest vengeance be in the people, if they be hardy to nigh to the saintuary.

<sup>20</sup> And Moses and Aaron, and all the multitude of the sons of Israel, did upon the Levites those things that the Lord commanded to Moses.

<sup>22</sup> and should enter to their offices into the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace, before Aaron and his sons; as the Lord commanded to Moses of the Levites, so it was done.

<sup>24</sup> This is the law of [the] Levites; from five and twenty years and above they shall enter, for to minister in the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace;

<sup>26</sup> And they shall be the ministers of their brethren in the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace, that they keep those things that be betaken to them; soothly they shall not do those works, as they did before; thus thou shalt dispose [the] Levites in their keepings.

CHAPTER 9

<sup>1</sup> And the Lord spake to Moses, in the desert of Sinai, in the second year after they went out of the land of Egypt, in the first month, and said,

<sup>5</sup> which made pask in his time, in the fourteen day of the month, at eventide, in the hill [or mount] of Sinai; by all things that the Lord commanded to Moses, the sons of Israel did.

<sup>6</sup> Lo! forsooth some men unclean on the soul of man, that might not make pask in that day, nighed to Moses and to Aaron,

<sup>7</sup> and said to them, We be unclean on the soul of man; why be we defrauded, that we may not offer an offering to the Lord in his time, among the sons of Israel?

<sup>8</sup> To which Moses answered, Stand ye aside, or abideth, that I take counsel, what the Lord commandeth of you.

<sup>10</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, A man of your folk that is unclean upon a soul, either is in the way far *off**, make he pask to the Lord

<sup>13</sup> Forsooth if any man is clean, and is not in the way, and nevertheless made not [the] pask, that man shall be des-royed from his peoples, for he offered not sacrifice to the Lord in his time set, or covenable; he shall bear his sin.

<sup>14</sup> Also if a pilgrim and a comeling is with you, make he pask to the Lord, by the ceremonies and the justifyings thereof; the same behest shall be with you, as well to a comeling as to a man born in the land.

<sup>17</sup> And when the cloud that covered the tabernacle was taken away, then the sons of Israel went forth; and in the place where the cloud stood, there they setted tents.

<sup>18</sup> At the commandment of the Lord they went forth, and at his commandment they setted the tabernacle. In all the days in which the cloud stood upon the tabernacle, they dwelled in the same place.

<sup>19</sup> And if it befelled that it dwelled much time upon the tabernacle, the sons of Israel were in the watches of the Lord, and they went not forth,

---

and if, after a day and a night, the cloud had gone away, they scattered, either did down, the tents.

<sup>22</sup> Whether in two months, either in one month, either in longer time, the cloud had been upon the tabernacle, the sons of Israel dwelled in the same place, and went not forth; but anon as it had gone away, they moved the tents.

<sup>23</sup> By the word of the Lord they setted their tents, and by his word they went forth; and they were in the watches of the Lord, by his command-ment, by the hand of Moses.

CHAPTER 10

<sup>9</sup> If ye shall go out of your land to battle against the enemies that fight against you, ye shall cry with trumps sounding, and the bethinking of you shall be before your Lord God, that ye be delivered from the hands of your enemies.

<sup>10</sup> If any time ye shall have a feast, and holidays, and calends, that is, the first day of the month, ye shall sing in trumps upon the burnt sacrifices, and <sup>[the]</sup> peaceable sacrifices, that those <sup>[or they]</sup> be to you into remembering of your God; I am your Lord God.

<sup>13</sup> And the sons of Judah by their companies, of which the prince was Nahshon, the son of Amminadab,

<sup>29</sup> And Moses said to Hobab, the son of Raguel, of Midian, his ally, either father of his wife, We go forth to the place which the Lord shall give to us; come thou with us, that we do well to thee, for the Lord [hath] promised good things to Israel.

<sup>30</sup> To whom he answered, I shall not go with thee, but I shall turn again into my land, in which I was born.

<sup>31</sup> And Moses said, Do not thou forsake us, for thou knowest in which places we owe to set tents, and thou shalt be our leader;

<sup>32</sup> and when thou shalt come with us, whatever thing shall be best of the riches that the Lord shall give to us, we shall give to thee.

<sup>33</sup> And therefore they went forth from the hill [or mount] of the Lord the way of three days; and the ark of the bond of peace of the Lord went before them, by those three days, and purveyed the places of their tents.

<sup>34</sup> And the cloud of the Lord was upon, or over, them by day, when they went forth.

<sup>35</sup> And when the ark was raised, Moses said, Rise thou, Lord, and thine enemies be scattered, and they that hate thee, flee from thy face;

<sup>36</sup> forsooth when the ark was put down, he said, Lord, turn again to the multitude of the host of Israel.

CHAPTER 11

<sup>1</sup> In the meantime grutching of the people, as of men sorrowing for travail, rose against the Lord. And when Moses had heard this thing, he was wroth; and the fire of the Lord was kindled upon them, and devoured the last part of the tents.

<sup>2</sup> And when the people had cried to Moses, Moses prayed [to] the Lord, and the fire was quenched.

<sup>4</sup> And the common people of men and women, that had gone up with them, burnt with desire of flesh, and they sat, and wept, with the sons of Israel joined together with them, and said, Who shall give us flesh to eat?

<sup>5</sup> We think upon the fish that we ate in Egypt freely; gourds, and melons, and leeks, and onions, and garlic come into our minds;

<sup>6</sup> our soul is dry; our eyes behold none other thing than manna.

<sup>8</sup> And the people went about, and gathered it, and brake it with a quernstone, either pounded it in a mortar, and seethed it in a pot; and made thereof little cakes of the savour as of bread made with oil.

<sup>9</sup> And when [the] dew came down in the night upon the tents, also manna came down together therewith.

<sup>10</sup> Then Moses heard the people weeping by meines, and each of them by the doors of their tents; and the strong vengeance of the Lord was wroth greatly, but also the grutching was seen unsufferable to Moses.

<sup>11</sup> And he said to the Lord, Why hast thou tormented thy servant? why find I not grace before thee? and why hast thou put the burden of all this people onto me?

<sup>12</sup> whether I have conceived all this multitude, either have begotten it, that thou say to me, Bear thou them in thy bosom, as a nurse is wont to bear a little young child, and bear thou this people into the land for the which thou swore to their fathers?

<sup>13</sup> whereof be meats to me, that I feed so great a multitude? They weep before me, and say, Give us flesh, that we eat;

<sup>14</sup> I may not alone sustain all this people, for it is grievous to me.

<sup>15</sup> If in other manner it seemeth to thee, I beseech thee, that thou slay me, and that I find grace in thine eyes, that I be not punished, or travailed, with so great evils.

<sup>16</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Gather thou to me seventy men of the elder men of Israel, whom thou knowest to be elder men, and masters of the people; and thou shalt lead them to the door of the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace, and thou shalt make them to stand there with thee,

<sup>17</sup> that I come down, and speak to thee; and I shall take away of thy spirit, and I shall give to them, that they sustain with thee the burden of the people, and not thou alone be grieved.

<sup>18</sup> And thou shalt say to the people, Be ye hallowed; tomorrow ye shall eat flesh; for I heard you say, Who shall give us the meats of flesh? it was well to us in Egypt; that the Lord give you flesh,

<sup>19</sup> and ye eat not only one day, either twain [or two], either five, either ten, soothly neither twenty days,

<sup>20</sup> but till to a month of days, till it go out by your nostrils, and turn into loathing; for by your grutching ye have put away the Lord, which is in the midst of you, and ye wept before him, and said, Why went we out of Egypt?

<sup>21</sup> And Moses said to the Lord, Six hundred thousand of footmen be of this people, and thou sayest, I shall give them to eat flesh an whole month.

<sup>22</sup> Whether the multitude of sheep and of oxen shall be able to be slain, that it may suffice this people to meat, either whether all the fishes of the sea shall be gathered together, that those [ful] fill them?

<sup>23</sup> To whom the Lord answered, Whether the Lord's hand is unmighty? right now thou shalt see, whether my word shall be fulfilled in work.

<sup>24</sup> Therefore Moses came, and told the people the words of the Lord; and he gathered seventy men of the elders of Israel, which he made stand about the tabernacle.

<sup>25</sup> And the Lord came down by a cloud, and spake to Moses, and took away of the spirit that was in Moses, and gave to the seventy men; and when the spirit had rested in them, they prophesied, and moreover they ceased not.

<sup>26</sup> Forsooth two men dwelled still in the tents, of which men one was called Eldad, and the tother Medad, on which the spirit rested; for also they were described, or ordained, or chosen, and they went not out to the tabernacle. And when they prophesied in the tents,

<sup>29</sup> And Moses said, What, hast thou envy for me? who giveth, whether not God, that all the people prophesy, and that God give his spirit to them?

<sup>31</sup> Forsooth a wind went forth from the Lord, and it took curlews, and brought them over the sea, and he left them in the tents, in journey, as much as may be performed in one day, by each part of the tents by compass; and they flew in the air by two cubits in height above the earth.

<sup>32</sup> Therefore the people rose in all that day, and that night, and into the tother day, and gathered a multitude of curlews; he that gathered little, gathered ten cors; and they dried those curlews by compass of the tents.

<sup>34</sup> And that place was called The Sepulchres of Covetousness, or Lust, for there they buried the people that desired flesh.

CHAPTER 12

<sup>2</sup> and they said, Whether God spake his will only by Moses? whether he spake not also to us in like manner? And when the Lord had heard this, he was wroth greatly;

<sup>4</sup> And suddenly the Lord spake to Moses and to Aaron and to Marie, Go out ye three alone to the tabernacle of the bond of peace. And when they were gone in,

<sup>5</sup> the Lord came down in a pillar of cloud, and he stood in the entering of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Marie. And when they had gone forth, <sup>6</sup> he said to them, Hear ye my words; if any among you is a prophet of the Lord, I shall appear to him in revelation, either I shall speak to him by a dream.

<sup>7</sup> And he said, And my servant Moses is not such, the which is most faithful in all mine house;

<sup>8</sup> for I speak to him mouth to mouth, and he seeth God openly, and not by dark speeches, either dark likenesses, and figures. Why therefore dreaded ye not to backbite my servant Moses?

<sup>10</sup> And the cloud went away, that was on the tabernacle, and lo! Marie appeared shining with leprosy, white as snow. And when Aaron beheld her, and saw her besprinkled with leprosy,

<sup>11</sup> he said to Moses, My lord, I beseech thee, put thou not this sin upon us, which we did follily, <sup>12</sup> that this woman be not made as dead, and as a dead-born thing that is cast out of the mother's womb; lo! now the half of her flesh is devoured, or over-covered, with leprosy.

<sup>14</sup> To whom the Lord answered, If her father had spit into her face, whether she ought not to be full-filled with shame, namely seven days? Therefore be she separated out of the tents by seven days, and afterward she shall be called again.

<sup>15</sup> And so Marie was excluded or put out of the tents by seven days; and the people was not moved from that place, till Marie was called again.

CHAPTER 13

<sup>17</sup> Therefore Moses sent them to behold the land of Canaan, and said to them, Go ye up by the south coast; and when ye come [in] to the hills,

<sup>20</sup> whether the land is fat, either barren, whether it is full of woods, either without trees. Be ye comforted, and bring ye to us of the fruits of that land. Soothly then the time was, when [the] grapes first ripe might be eaten.

<sup>21</sup> And when they had gone up, they espied the land, from the desert of Zin till to Rehob, as men enter to Hamath.

<sup>22</sup> And they went up to the south coast, and came into Hebron, where Ahiman, and Sheshai, and Talmai, the sons of Anak, were; for Hebron was made seven years before Tanis, the city of Egypt.

<sup>23</sup> And they went to the strand or stream of [the] cluster, and they cutted down a scion with his grapes, which two men bare with a bearing staff; also they took of [the] pomegranates, and of the figs of that place,

<sup>26</sup> they came to Moses and Aaron, and to all the company of the sons of Israel, into the desert of Paran, which is in Kadesh. And the spyers spake to them, and showed the fruits of the land to all the multitude,

<sup>27</sup> and they told, and said, We came to the land, to which thou sentest us, which land truly floweth with milk and honey, as it may be known by these fruits;

<sup>30</sup> Among these things, or sayings, Caleb peaced the grutching of the people, that was made against Moses, and said, Go we up, and wield we the land, for we be able to get it.

<sup>31</sup> Soothly the other spyers, that were with him, said, We be not able to go up to this people, for it is stronger than we.

<sup>32</sup> And they spake evil of the land which they had beheld, to the sons of Israel, and said, The land that we compassed devoureth his dwellers; the people that we beheld is of large stature;

<sup>33</sup> there we saw some wonders against kind, of the sons of Anak, of the kind of giants, to which we were com-parisoned, and were seen as locusts.

CHAPTER 14

<sup>2</sup> and all the sons of Israel grutched against Moses and Aaron, and said, We would that we had been dead in Egypt, either that we were dead in this wilderness; we would that we perished,

<sup>3</sup> and that the Lord lead us not into this land, lest we fall by sword, and our wives and our free children be led, or taken, prisoners; whether it is not better to us to turn again into Egypt?

<sup>4</sup> And they said one to another, Ordain we a duke, or a leader, to us, and turn we again into Egypt.

<sup>5</sup> And when this was heard, Moses and Aaron fell down low to the earth, before all the multitude of the sons of Israel.

<sup>7</sup> and they spake thus to all the multitude of the sons of Israel, The land which we compassed is full good;

<sup>8</sup> if the Lord is merciful to us, he shall lead us into it, and he shall give us the land flowing with milk and honey.

<sup>9</sup> Do not ye rebel against the Lord, neither dread ye the people of this land, for we be able to devour them so as bread; all their help hath passed away from them, the Lord is with us, do not ye dread.

<sup>10</sup> And when all the multitude cried, and would have oppressed them with stones, the glory of the Lord appeared upon the roof of the bond of peace, while all the sons of Israel saw.

<sup>11</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, How long shall this people backbite me, or mis-deem me? How long shall they not believe to me, in all the signs which I have done before them?

<sup>12</sup> Therefore I shall smite them with pestilence, and I shall waste them; soothly I shall make thee prince upon a greater folk, and stronger than is this.

<sup>14</sup> and the dwellers of this land, which heard that thou, Lord, art in this people, and art seen face to face, and that thy cloud defendeth them, and that thou goest before them in a pillar of cloud by day, and in a pillar of fire by night,

<sup>16</sup> He might not bring this people into the land for which he swore to give to them, therefore he killed them in wilderness;

<sup>18</sup> [The] Lord is patient, and of much mercy, doing away wickedness and trespasses, and leaving no man unguilty, which visiteth the sins of fathers into sons into the third and fourth generation,

<sup>19</sup> I beseech thee, forgive thou the sin of this thy people, after the greatness of thy mercy, as thou were merciful to them going out of Egypt till to this place.

<sup>21</sup> And as soothly I live; and the glory of the Lord shall be filled in all [the] earth;

<sup>22</sup> nevertheless all [the] men that saw my majesty, and my signs, which I did in Egypt and in the wilderness, and [have] tempted me now by ten times, and obeyed not to my voice,

<sup>24</sup> I shall lead my servant Caleb, that was full of another spirit and followed me, into this land, which he compassed, and his seed shall wield it.

<sup>28</sup> Therefore say thou to them, I live, saith the Lord; as ye spake while I heard, so I shall do to you;

<sup>29</sup> your carrions, or dead bodies, shall lie in this wilderness. All ye that be numbered, from twenty years and above, and have grutched against me,

<sup>30</sup> shall not enter into the land, upon which I have raised mine hand, that I should make you to dwell there, except Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua, the son of Nun.

<sup>31</sup> Forsooth I shall lead in your little children, of which ye said that they should be preys, either ravens, to enemies, that they see the land which displeased you.

<sup>33</sup> your sons shall be walkers-about in the desert by forty years, and they shall bear your fornication, till the carrions of their fathers be wasted in desert,

<sup>34</sup> by the number of forty days, in which ye beheld the land; a year shall be reckoned for a day, and by forty years ye shall receive your wickedness, or be punished for your grutching, and ye shall know my vengeance.

<sup>35</sup> For as I spake, so I shall do to all this worst multitude, that rose together against me; it shall fail, and shall die in this wilderness.

<sup>36</sup> Therefore all the men which Moses had sent to see the land, and which turned again, and made all the multitude to grutch against him, and depraved the land,

<sup>39</sup> And Moses spake all these words to all the sons of Israel, and the people mourned greatly.

<sup>40</sup> And, lo! they rose in the morrow-tide first, and they went up into the top of the hill, and said, We be ready to go up to the place, of which the Lord spake, for we have sinned.

<sup>41</sup> To whom Moses said, Why over-pass ye the word of the Lord, that shall not befall to you into prosperity?

* CHAPTER 14:37 That is, suddenly and horribly, by the sentence of the Lord, to the dread of other men.

<sup>43</sup> Amalek and Canaanites be before you, by the sword of which ye shall fall, for ye would not assent to the Lord, neither the Lord shall be with you.

<sup>44</sup> And they were made dark, that is, blinded in their sin, and went up into the top of the hill; forsooth the ark of the testament of the Lord and Moses went not away from the tents.

<sup>45</sup> And Amalek came down, and Canaanites, that dwelled in the hill, and he smote the children of Israel, and he cutted them down, and pursued them to Hormah.

CHAPTER 15

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, When ye have entered into the land of your habitation, which I shall give to you,

<sup>3</sup> and ye shall make an offering to the Lord into burnt sacrifice, either a peaceable sacrifice, and ye pay avows, either offer gifts by free will, either in your solemnities ye burn odour of sweetness to the Lord, of oxen, either of sheep;

<sup>6</sup> By each lamb and ram shall be the sacrifice of [tried] flour, of two tenth parts, which shall be sprinkled alto-gether with oil, of the third part of hin;

<sup>10</sup> and thou shalt give wine to [the] flowing sacrifice to be poured, of the same measure, into offering of the sweetest odour to the Lord.

<sup>18</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, When ye come into the land which I shall give to you,

<sup>22</sup> That if by ignorance ye pass by any of those things which the Lord spake to Moses,

<sup>24</sup> and the multitude hath forgotten to do this, it shall offer a calf of the drove, burnt sacrifice into sweetest odour to the Lord, and the sacrifices thereof, and flowing offerings, as the ceremonies thereof ask; and it shall offer a buck of goats for sin.

<sup>25</sup> And the priest shall pray for all the multitude of the sons of Israel, and it shall be forgiven to them, for they sinned not willfully. And nevertheless they shall offer incense to the Lord for themselves, and for their sin, and their error;

<sup>26</sup> and it shall be forgiven to all the people of the sons of Israel, and to the comelings that be pilgrims among them, for it is the sin of all the multitude by ignorance.

<sup>28</sup> and the priest shall pray for that soul, for it sinned unwittingly before the Lord; and the priest shall get forgiveness to it, and the sin shall be forgiven to it.

<sup>29</sup> As well to men born in the land, as to comelings, one law shall be of all that sin unwittingly.

<sup>30</sup> Forsooth a man that doeth any sin by pride, shall perish from the people, whether he be a citizen, either a pilgrim, for he was rebel against the Lord;

<sup>32</sup> Soothly it was done, when the sons of Israel were in wilderness, and they had found a man gathering wood in the sabbath day,

<sup>38</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, that they make to them hems by four corners of their mantles, and fasten they in them laces of jacinth;

<sup>39</sup> and when they see those, have they mind of all the commandments of the Lord, lest they pursue [or follow] their [own] thoughts and their eyes, doing fornication by diverse things.

<sup>40</sup> but more be they mindful of the behests of the Lord, and do they those [or them], and be they holy to their God.

<sup>41</sup> I am your Lord God, which led you out of the land of Egypt, that I should be your God.

CHAPTER 16

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Korah, the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, and Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, and On, the son of Peleth, of the sons of Reuben,

<sup>2</sup> rose against Moses, and others of the sons of Israel, two hundred men and fifty, princes of the synagogue, and which were called by their names in the time of counsel.

<sup>3</sup> And when these stood against Moses and Aaron, they said, Suffice it to you, for all the multitude is of holy men, and the Lord is in them; why be ye raised up presumptuously on the people of the Lord?

<sup>5</sup> And he spake to Korah, and to all the multitude; he said, Early the Lord shall make known which men pertain to him, and he shall apply, or draw, to him holy men; and they which he hath chosen, shall nigh to him.

<sup>9</sup> Whether it is little to you, that God of Israel [hath] separated you from all the people, and hath joined you to himself, that ye should serve him in the service of the tabernacle, and that ye should stand before the multitude of the people, and serve him?

<sup>10</sup> Made he therefore thee, and all thy brethren the sons of Levi, to nigh to himself, that ye challenge to you also priesthood,

<sup>13</sup> Whether is it little to thee, that thou leddest us out of the land that flowed with milk and honey, to slay us in the desert, no but also thou be lord of us?

<sup>14</sup> Verily * thou hast brought us into the land that floweth with streams of milk and honey, and [thou] hast given to us possession of fields, and of vineyards; whether also thou wilt put out our eyes? We come not to thee.

<sup>15</sup> And Moses was wroth greatly, and said to the Lord, Behold thou not the sacrifices of them; thou knowest that I took never of them a little ass, neither I tormented any of them.

<sup>22</sup> The which fell down low upon their faces, and said, Most strong God of the spirits of all flesh, whether thy wrath shall be fierce against all men, for one man sinneth?

<sup>25</sup> And Moses rose, and went to Dathan and Abiram; and while the elder men of Israel followed him, <sup>26</sup> he said to the company, Go ye away from the tabernacles of the wicked men, and do not ye touch those things that pertain to them, lest ye be wrapped in the sins of them.

<sup>28</sup> And Moses said, In this ye shall know that the Lord sent me, that I should do all things which ye see, and that I brought them not forth of mine own heart.

<sup>29</sup> If they perish by customable death of men, and wound, either pestilence, visit them, by which also other men be wont to be visited, the Lord sent not me;

<sup>30</sup> but if the Lord doeth a new thing, that the earth open his mouth, and swallow them, and all things that pertain to them, and they go down quick into hell, ye shall know that they blasphemed the Lord.

* CHAPTER 16:14 They said this in scorn, to signify that Moses deceived the people by false promises.

<sup>32</sup> and the earth opened his mouth, and devoured them, with their tabernacles, and all their chattel;

<sup>34</sup> And soothly all Israel that stood about, fled from the cry of men perishing, and said, Lest peradventure the earth swallow also us.

<sup>35</sup> But also fire went out from the Lord, and killed twain [or two] hundred and fifty men that offered incense.

<sup>37</sup> Command thou to Eleazar, the son of Aaron, [the] priest, that he take, or gather up, the censers that lie in the burning, and that he scatter the fire hither and thither; for those censers be hallowed

<sup>38</sup> in the deaths of sinners; and that he bring forth those censers into plates, and nail them to the altar, for incense is offered in those [or them] to the Lord, and those be hallowed, that the sons of Israel see them for a sign and a memorial.

<sup>39</sup> Therefore Eleazar, the priest, took the brazen censers, in which they, which the burning had devoured had offered, and he beat out those censers into plates, and nailed them to the altar;

<sup>40</sup> that the sons of Israel should have those censers with them afterward, by which they should remember this great vengeance of God, lest any alien, and which is not of the seed of Aaron, nigh to offer incense to the Lord; lest he suffer, as Korah suffered, and all his multitude, while the Lord spake to Moses.

<sup>41</sup> Forsooth all the multitude of the sons of Israel grutched in the day pursuing [or following] against Moses and Aaron, and said, Ye have slain the people of the Lord.

<sup>42</sup> And when dissension arose, and the noise increased, Moses and Aaron fled to the tabernacle of the bond of peace; and after that they entered into it, a cloud covered the tabernacle, and the glory of the Lord appeared.

<sup>45</sup> Go ye away from the midst of this multitude, also now I shall do away them. And when they lay in the earth,

<sup>46</sup> Moses said to Aaron, Take thy censer, and when the fire is taken up from the altar, cast thou incense above, and go thou forth soon to the people, that thou pray for them; for now wrath is gone out from the Lord, and the vengeance is fierce.

<sup>47</sup> And when Aaron had done this, and had run to the midst of the multitude, which the burning wasted then, he offered incense;

<sup>48</sup> and he stood betwixt the dead men and the living, and he prayed for the people, and the vengeance ceased.

CHAPTER 17

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and take thou rods, by their kindreds, by each kindred one rod, take thou of all the princes of the lineages twelve rods; and thou shalt write the name of each lineage upon his rod;

<sup>5</sup> the rod of him shall burgeon, whom I shall choose of them to the office of priesthood; and I shall thereby refrain, or quench, from me the complainings, or grutchings, of the sons of Israel, by which they grutch against you.

<sup>6</sup> And Moses spake to the sons of Israel; and all the princes gave to him rods, by all their lineages; and the rods were twelve, without the rod of Aaron.

<sup>8</sup> he went again in the day pursuing [or following], and found that the rod of Aaron, in the house of Levi, had burgeoned; and when [the] knops were great, the blossoms had broken out, which were alarged in leaves, and were formed into almonds.

<sup>10</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Bear thou again the rod of Aaron into the tabernacle of witnessing, that it be kept there into a token of the rebel sons of Israel, and that their complainings, or grutchings, cease from me, lest they die.

<sup>12</sup> Soothly the sons of Israel said to Moses, Lo! we be wasted, all we have perished;

CHAPTER 18

<sup>1</sup> And the Lord said to Aaron, Thou, and thy sons, and the house of thy father with thee, shall bear the wickedness of the saintuary; and thou and thy sons together shall suffer the sins of your priesthood.

<sup>2</sup> But also take thou with thee thy brethren of the lineage of Levi, and the sceptre, or power, of thy father; and be they ready, that they minister to thee. Forsooth thou and thy sons shall minister in the tabernacle of witnessing;

<sup>3</sup> and the deacons [or Levites] shall wake at thy commandments, and at all the works of the tabernacle; so only that they nigh not to the vessels of the saintuary, and to the altar, lest both they die, and ye, and perish together.

<sup>4</sup> Soothly be they with thee, and wake they in the keepings of the tabernacle, and in all the ceremonies thereof. An alien shall not be meddled [or mingled] with you.

<sup>6</sup> Lo! I have given to you your brethren, the deacons [or Levites], from the midst of the sons of Israel, and I have given you them a free gift of the Lord, that they serve in the services of the tabernacle.

<sup>7</sup> Soothly thou and thy sons, keep your priesthood; and all things that pertain to the adorning of the altar, and be within the veil, shall be ministered by [the] priests; if any stranger nigheth thereto, he shall be slain.

<sup>8</sup> The Lord spake to Aaron, Lo! I have given to thee the keeping of my first fruits; I have given to thee, and to thy sons, all things that be hallowed of the sons of Israel, for [the] priest's office everlasting lawful things.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore thou shalt take these things of those things that be hallowed, and be offered to the Lord; each offering, and sacrifice, and whatever thing is yielded to me for sin and for trespass, and cometh into holy of holy things, shall be thine and thy sons.

<sup>11</sup> Soothly I have given to thee, and to thy sons and thy daughters, by everlasting right, the first fruits which the sons of Israel avow and offer; he that is clean in thine house, shall eat those things.

<sup>12</sup> I have given to thee all the mar-row, or the best, of oil, and of wine, and of wheat, whatever thing of the first fruits they shall offer to the Lord.

<sup>13</sup> All the beginnings of fruits which the earth bringeth forth, and be brought to the Lord, shall fall into thine uses; he that is clean in thine house, shall eat of those [or them].

<sup>15</sup> Whatever thing cometh first forth of the womb of all flesh, which they offer to the Lord, whether it is of men, either of beasts, it shall be of thy right; so only that thou take price for the first begotten child of man, and that thou make each beast that is unclean to be bought again;

<sup>17</sup> Forsooth thou shalt not make the first engendered of an ox, and of sheep, and of goat, to be again-bought, for those [or they] be hallowed to the Lord; only thou shalt pour the blood of those [or them] upon the altar, and thou shalt burn the inner fatness into sweetest odour to the Lord.

<sup>19</sup> I have given to thee, and to thy sons and thy daughters, by everlasting right, all the first fruits of the sanctuary, which the sons of Israel offer to the Lord; it is everlasting covenant of salt before the Lord, to thee, and to thy sons.

<sup>20</sup> And the Lord said to Aaron, Ye shall not wield anything of heritage in the land of Israel, neither ye shall have part among them; I am thy part and thine heritage, in the midst of the sons of Israel.

<sup>21</sup> Soothly, I gave to the sons of Levi all the tithes of Israel into possession, for the service by which they serve me in the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace;

<sup>24</sup> They shall wield none other thing, and they shall be satisfied with the offering of tithes, which I separated into [the] uses and necessities of them.

<sup>26</sup> Command thou, and announce to the deacons [or Levites], When ye have taken tithes of the sons of Israel, which I gave to you, offer ye the first fruits of those [or them] to the Lord, that is, the tenth part of the tenth,

<sup>27</sup> that it be areckoned to you into [the] offering of the first fruits, as well of the cornfloors, as of the presses;

<sup>30</sup> And thou shalt say to them, If ye offer to the Lord all the [more] clean and better things of tithes, it shall be areckoned to you, as if ye gave the first fruits of the cornfloor, and of the press.

<sup>31</sup> And ye shall eat those tithes in all your places, as well ye as your meines, for it is the price for the service, for which ye serve in the tabernacle of witnessing.

<sup>32</sup> And ye shall not do sin on this thing, and reserve [the] noble things and [the] fat to you, lest ye defoul the offerings of the sons of Israel, and ye die.

CHAPTER 19

<sup>1</sup> And the Lord spake to Moses and to Aaron, and said,

<sup>2</sup> This is the religion of sacrifice, which the Lord ordained. Command thou to the sons of Israel, that they bring to thee a red cow of whole colour, in which is no wem, neither she hath borne yoke.

<sup>5</sup> And he shall burn that cow, while all men see; and he shall give as well the skin, and the flesh thereof, as the blood, and the dung, to [the] burning.

<sup>7</sup> And then at the last, when the priest's clothes and his body be washed, he shall enter into the tents, and he shall be defouled, or unclean, till to eventide.

<sup>9</sup> Soothly a clean man shall gather the ashes of the cow, and he shall pour them out without the tents, in a place most clean, that those ashes be to the multitude of the sons of Israel into keeping, and into water of sprinkling; for that cow is burnt for sin.

<sup>10</sup> And when he that bare out the ashes of the cow, hath washed his clothes, he shall be unclean till to eventide. And the sons of Israel, and the comelings that dwell among them, shall have, or hold, this holy by ever-lasting law.

<sup>12</sup> shall be sprinkled of this water in the third [day], and in the seventh day; and so he shall be cleansed. If he is not sprinkled in the third day, he shall not be able to be cleansed in the seventh day.

<sup>13</sup> Each that toucheth the dead body by itself of man's soul, and is not sprinkled with this meddling [or mingling], defouleth the tabernacle of the Lord, and he shall perish from Israel; for he is not sprinkled with the water of cleansing, he shall be unclean, and his filth shall dwell upon him.

<sup>14</sup> This is the law of a man that dieth in the tabernacle; all that enter into his tent, and all the vessels that be there, shall be defouled by seven days.

<sup>16</sup> If any man toucheth the dead body of a man slain in the field, either dead by himself, either a bone of him, either his sepulchre, he shall be unclean by seven days.

<sup>17</sup> And they shall take of the ashes of the burning, and of the sin, that is, of the cow offered for sin, and they shall put quick waters into a vessel, upon those ashes;

<sup>18</sup> in which when a clean man hath dipped hyssop, he shall sprinkle there-with the tent, and all the appurtenance of the household, and the men also defouled with such defouling.

<sup>19</sup> And in this manner a clean man shall cleanse an unclean thing, in the third and in the seventh day; and he shall be cleansed in the seventh day. And he shall wash himself, and his clothes, and he shall be unclean till to eventide.

<sup>21</sup> This behest shall be a lawful thing everlasting. Also he that shall sprinkle the waters shall wash his clothes; each man that toucheth the waters of cleansing, shall be unclean till to eventide.

<sup>22</sup> Whatever thing an unclean man toucheth, he shall make unclean; and a soul that toucheth any of these things defouled so, shall be unclean till to eventide.

CHAPTER 20

<sup>1</sup> And the sons of Israel and all the multitude came into the desert of Zin, in the first month. And the people dwelled in Kadesh; and Marie was dead there, and buried in the same place.

<sup>3</sup> and they were turned into dissension, that is, rebely and striving, and said, We would that we had perished among our brethren before the Lord.

<sup>4</sup> Why have ye led out the church of the Lord into wilderness, that both we and our beasts die?

<sup>5</sup> Why have ye made us to go up from Egypt, and have brought us into this worst place, which may not be sown, which neither bringeth forth fig trees, nor vines, neither pomegranates; furthermore and it hath not water to drink?

<sup>6</sup> And when the multitude was left, Moses and Aaron entered into the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace, and they fell down low upon the earth, and they cried to God, and said, Lord God, hear the cry of this people, and open to them thy treasure, a well of quick water, that when they be filled, the grutching of them cease. And the glory of the Lord appeared upon them;

<sup>8</sup> Take the rod of Aaron, and gather together the people, thou, and Aaron thy brother; and speak ye to the stone before them, and it shall give out waters. And when thou hast led water out of the stone, all the multitude shall drink, and their beasts thereof.

<sup>10</sup> when the multitude was gathered before the stone; and he said to them, Hear ye, rebel/s/, and unbelievful; whether we may bring out of this stone water to you?

<sup>11</sup> And when Moses had raised his hand, and had smitten the flint twice with the rod, most large waters went out, so that the people drank, and their beasts.

<sup>12</sup> And the Lord said to Moses and to Aaron, For ye believed not to me, that ye should hallow me before the sons of Israel, ye shall not lead these peoples into the land which I shall give to them.

<sup>14</sup> In the meantime Moses sent messengers from Kadesh to the king of Edom, the which said, Israel thy brother, sendeth these things to thee. Thou knowest all the travail that hath taken us,

<sup>15</sup> how our fathers went down into Egypt, and we dwelled there much time, and Egyptians tormented us, and our fathers;

<sup>16</sup> and how we cried to the Lord, and he heard us, and sent an angel that [hath] led us out of Egypt. And lo! we be set in the city of Kadesh, that is in thine uttermost coasts, <sup>17</sup> and we beseech thee that it be leaveful to us to pass through thy land; we shall not go by thy fields, neither by thy vineries [or vines], neither we shall drink waters of thy pits or wells; but we shall go in the common way, and we shall not bow to the right side, neither to the left side, till we pass thy terms.

<sup>19</sup> And the sons of Israel said, We shall go by the way commonly used, and if we and our beasts drink thy waters, we shall give that that is just; no hardness shall be in the price, only pass we in haste.

<sup>20</sup> And he answered, Ye shall not pass by me. And anon he went out against Israel, with a multitude with-out number, and [with a] strong hand or with strong power,

<sup>24</sup> Aaron go to his people; for he shall not enter into the land which I gave to the sons of Israel, for he was unbelievful to my word, at the waters of Against-saying.

CHAPTER 21

<sup>1</sup> And when [the] Canaanite, the king of Arad, that dwelled at the south, had heard this, that is, that Israel came by the way of [the] spyers, he fought against them; and Canaanite was the overcomer, and he led away prey the men of Israel.

<sup>2</sup> And Israel bound himself by a vow to the Lord, and said, If thou shalt betake this people in mine hand, I shall do away their cities.

<sup>3</sup> And the Lord heard the prayers of Israel, and betook to them the Canaanites; and Israel killed him, and destroyed his cities; and Israel called the name of that place Hormah, that is, cursing.

<sup>4</sup> Soothly Israel went forth from the hill of Hor, by the way that leadeth to the Red Sea, that they would compass the land of Edom; and it began to annoy the people, of the way and [of the] travail.

<sup>5</sup> And the people spake against the Lord, and Moses, and said, Why leddest thou us out of Egypt, that we should die in wilderness? bread faileth, waters be not; our soul loatheth now on this meat most light.

<sup>7</sup> they came to Moses, and said, We have sinned, for we spake against the Lord, and thee; pray thou, that he take away from us the serpents. And Moses prayed for the people;

<sup>8</sup> and the Lord said to him, Make thou a [brazen] serpent, and set thou it in a perch; he that is smitten and beholdeth it, shall live.

<sup>14</sup> Wherefore it is said in the book of battles of the Lord, As he did in the Red Sea, so he shall do in the strands of Arnon;

<sup>15</sup> the hard rocks of the strands were bowed down, that they shall rest in Ar, or abide there, and should lie in the coasts of Moabites.

<sup>17</sup> Then Israel sang this song, The water of the pit, ascend or go up; they sang together,

<sup>18</sup> The pit which the princes digged, and the dukes of the multitude made ready, in the giver of the law, and in their staves. And they went forth from the wilderness to Mattanah,

<sup>22</sup> I beseech thee, that it be leaveful to me to pass through thy land; we shall not bow into thy fields, and vineries [or vines]; we shall not drink waters of thy pits; we shall go in the king's way, till we pass by thy terms.

<sup>23</sup> Which would not grant that Israel should pass through his coasts, but rather, when his host was gathered, he went out against Israel, into desert. And he came into Jahaz, and fought against Israel;

<sup>24</sup> of whom he was smitten in the sharpness of sword, and his land was wielded of Israel from Arnon unto Jabbok, and Ammon's sons, or his host; for the coasts of Ammonites were holden with strong help, or power.

<sup>27</sup> Therefore it is said in proverb, Come ye into Heshbon, be it builded, and made, the city of Sihon;

<sup>29</sup> Moab, woe to thee! thou, people of Chemosh, hast perished; it gave the sons thereof into flight, and the daughters into captivity to Sihon, king of Amorites;

<sup>33</sup> And they turned themselves, and went up by the way of Bashan. And Og, the king of Bashan, with all his people, came against them, to fight in Edrei.

<sup>34</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Dread thou not him, for I have betaken him, and all his land, and all his people, in thine hand; and thou shalt do to him as thou didest to Sihon, king of Amorites, the dweller of Heshbon.

CHAPTER 22

<sup>4</sup> And he said to the greater men in birth of Midian, So this people shall do away all men that dwell in our coasts, as an ox is wont to do away an herb till to the roots. Forsooth he, that is, Balak, was king in that time in Moab.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore he sent messengers to Balaam, the son of Beor, a false diviner, that dwelled on, or nigh, the flood of the land of the sons of Amaw, that they should call him, and should say, Lo! a people went out of Egypt, which people covered the face of the earth, and sitteth against me.

<sup>6</sup> Therefore come thou, and curse this people, that is stronger than I, if in any manner I may smite and drive him out of my land; for I know, that he is blessed whom thou blessest, and he is cursed whom thou hast cursed.

<sup>7</sup> The elder men of Moab and the elder men of Midian went forth, having in their hands the price of false divining; and when they had come to Balaam, and had told to him all the words of Balak, <sup>8</sup> he answered, Dwell ye here tonight, and I shall answer to Balak whatever thing the Lord shall say to me. And the princes of Moab dwelled at Balaam.

<sup>9</sup> God came, and said to him, What will or desire these men with thee?

<sup>11</sup> Lo! a people that is gone out of Egypt hath covered the face of the earth; come thou, and curse them, if in any manner I may fight with them, and drive them away.

<sup>12</sup> And God said to Balaam, Do not thou go with them, neither curse thou the people, for it is blessed.

<sup>13</sup> And Balaam rose early, and said to the princes, Go ye into your land, for God hath forbade me to come with you.

<sup>16</sup> which said, when they had come to Balaam, Balak, the son of Zippor, saith thus, Tarry thou not to come to me,

<sup>18</sup> Balaam answered, Though Balak shall give to me his house full of silver and of gold, I shall not be able to change the word of my God, that I speak either more or less.

<sup>19</sup> I beseech you, that ye dwell here also in this night, that I may know what the Lord shall answer again to me.

<sup>20</sup> Therefore the Lord came to Balaam in that night, and said to him, If these men come to call thee, rise thou, and go with them, so only that thou do that that I shall command to thee.

<sup>22</sup> And God was wroth with Balaam. And the angel of the Lord stood in the way against Balaam, that sat upon the she-ass, and had two servants with him.

<sup>23</sup> The she-ass saw the angel standing in the way, with sword drawn, and the ass turned herself from the way, and went by the field. And when Balaam beat her, and would lead her again to the path,

<sup>25</sup> And the female ass saw the angel, and she went herself nigh to the wall, and she hurtled the foot of the sitter upon her; and he beat again her.

<sup>27</sup> And when the she-ass saw the angel standing, she felled down under the feet of the sitter upon her, the which was wroth full greatly, and he beat her sides with a staff.

<sup>28</sup> And the Lord opened the mouth of the she-ass, and she spake, What have I done to thee? why smitest thou me, lo! now the third time?

<sup>29</sup> Balaam answered, For thou hast dis-served, and hast scorned me; I would that I had a sword to slay thee.

<sup>30</sup> And the she-ass said, Whether I am not thy beast upon which thou were wont to ride ever[more] till into this present day? say thou, what like thing to this I did ever to thee? And Balaam said, Never thus thou servedest me.

<sup>31</sup> Anon the Lord opened the eyes of Balaam, and he saw the angel standing in the way, holding a drawn sword in his hand; and Balaam worshipped him lowly into the earth.

<sup>32</sup> To whom the angel said, Why hast thou thrice beaten thine she-ass? I came to be adversary to thee, for thy way is wayward, and contrary to me;

<sup>33</sup> and if the she-ass had not bowed away from the way, and given place to the against-stander, I had slain thee, and the ass should have lived.

<sup>34</sup> Balaam said, I have sinned, not witting that thou stoodest against me; and now, if it displeaseth thee that I go, I shall turn again.

<sup>35</sup> The angel said, Go thou with these men, but beware, that thou speak not [any] other thing than I shall command to thee. Therefore Balaam went with the princes.

<sup>36</sup> And when Balak heard that Balaam was nigh, he went out into the coming of him, in Ar, the city of Moabites, which is set in the last coast of Arnon.

<sup>37</sup> And Balak said to Balaam, I sent messengers to call thee; why camest thou not anon to me? whether for I may not yield meed to thy coming?

<sup>38</sup> To whom Balaam answered, Lo! I am present, whether I shall be able to speak other thing than that, that God shall put in my mouth?

<sup>40</sup> And when Balak had slain sheep, and oxen, he sent gifts to Balaam and the princes that were with him.

<sup>41</sup> Forsooth when the morrowtide was made, Balak led Balaam to the high places of Baal, and he beheld the last part of the people, that is, all the host till to the last part.

CHAPTER 23

<sup>2</sup> And when Balak had done by the word of Balaam, they putted a calf and a ram together on the altar.

<sup>3</sup> And Balaam said to Balak, Stand thou a little while beside thy burnt sacrifice, while I go, if in hap the Lord meet me; and I shall tell thee what-ever thing he shall command. And when he had gone [away] swiftly, <sup>4</sup> God came to him; and Balaam spake to him, and said, I have raised up seven altars, and I have put a calf and a ram above each of them.

<sup>7</sup> And when his parable was taken, he said, Balak, the king of Moabites, brought me from Aram, from the hills of the east; and he said, Come thou, and curse Jacob; haste thou, and curse Israel.

<sup>8</sup> How shall I curse, whom God hath cursed not? by what reason shall I loathe, whom God loatheth not?

<sup>9</sup> From the highest flints I shall see him, and from the little hills I shall behold him; the people shall dwell alone, and it shall not be reckoned among heathen men.

<sup>10</sup> Who may number the dust, that is, the kindred, of Jacob, and who may know the number of the generation of Israel? My life die in the death of just [or rightwise] men, and my last things be made like them!

<sup>11</sup> And Balak said to Balaam, What is this that thou doest? I called thee, that thou shouldest curse mine enemies, and on the contrary, thou blessest them.

<sup>12</sup> To whom Balaam answered, Whether I may speak other thing, no but that that the Lord commandeth?

<sup>13</sup> Therefore Balak said to Balaam, Come with me into another place, from whence thou mayest see a part of Israel, and thou mayest not see all; from thence curse thou him.

<sup>14</sup> And when he had led Balaam into an high place, on the top of the hill of Pisgah, he builded there seven altars to Balaam, and when calves and rams were put above them,

<sup>16</sup> And when the Lord had met with Balaam, and had put a word in his mouth, he said, Turn again to Balak, and thou shalt say these things to him.

<sup>17</sup> He turned again, and found Balak standing beside his burnt sacrifice, and the princes of Moabites with him. To whom Balak said, What hath spoken the Lord?

<sup>19</sup> God is not a man, that he lie, neither he is as the son of a man, that he be changed; therefore he hath said, and shall he not do it? he hath spoken, and shall he not fulfill it?

<sup>20</sup> I am brought hither by the Lord to bless; I may not forbid, or hinder, blessing.

<sup>23</sup> false divining by chittering of birds is not in Jacob, neither false divining is in Israel. In his times, when, where, and how God will, it shall be said to Jacob and to Israel, What the Lord hath wrought!

<sup>26</sup> And Balaam said, Whether I said not to thee, that whatever thing God commanded to me, I would do that?

<sup>27</sup> And Balak said to him, Come, and I shall lead thee to another place, if in hap it pleaseth God that from thence thou curse him.

CHAPTER 24

<sup>1</sup> And when Balaam saw that it pleased the Lord that he should bless Israel, he went not as he had gone before, that he should seek false divining by chattering of birds, but he dressed his face against the desert,

<sup>2</sup> and he raised up his eyes, and he saw Israel dwelling in tents by his lineages. And when the Spirit of God fell upon him,

<sup>3</sup> and when the parable was taken, he said, Balaam, the son of Beor, said, a man, whose eye is stopped, said,

<sup>4</sup> the hearer of God's words said, which beheld the revelation of Almighty God, which falleth down, and his eyes be opened so,

<sup>8</sup> God led him out of Egypt, whose strength is like an unicorn; the sons of Israel shall waste, or devour, heathen men, their enemies; and they shall break the bones of them, and pierce with arrows.

<sup>9</sup> He rested, and slept as a lion, and as a lioness, whom no man shall dare raise. He that blesseth thee, shall be blessed; and he that curseth, shall be areckoned into cursing.

<sup>10</sup> And Balak was wroth against Balaam, and he said, when his hands were wrung together, I called thee to curse mine enemies, whom, on the contrary, thou hast blessed thrice.

<sup>12</sup> Balaam answered to Balak, Whether I said not to thy messengers, which thou sentest to me,

<sup>13</sup> Though Balak shall give to me his house full of silver and of gold, I shall not be able to pass [over] the word of my Lord God, that I bring forth of mine heart anything, either of good or of evil, but whatever thing the Lord shall say, I shall speak that?

<sup>14</sup> Nevertheless I shall go to my people, and I shall give counsel to thee, what thy people shall do in the last time to this people.

<sup>15</sup> Therefore when a parable was taken, he said again, Balaam, the son of Beor said, a man, whose eye is stopped, said,

<sup>16</sup> the hearer of God's words said, which knoweth the doctrine of the Highest, and seeth the revelation of Almighty God, which falleth down, and hath open eyes,

<sup>17</sup> I shall see him, but not now; I shall behold him, but not nigh; a star shall be born of Jacob, and a rod shall rise of Israel; and he shall smite the dukes of Moab, and he shall waste all the sons of Seth;

<sup>21</sup> Also he saw Kenites, and when a parable was taken, he said, Soothly thy dwelling place is strong, but if thou shalt set thy nest in a stone,

<sup>23</sup> And when a parable was taken, or showed to him, he said again, Alas! who shall live, when the Lord shall do these things?

<sup>25</sup> And Balaam rose, and turned again into his place; and Balak went again by the way in which he came.

CHAPTER 25

<sup>4</sup> and said to Moses, Take thou all the princes of the people, and hang them against the sun in gibbets, that my strong vengeance be turned away from Israel.

<sup>7</sup> And when Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron, the priest, had seen this unshamefast doing, he rose from the midst of the multitude; and when he had taken a sword,

<sup>8</sup> he entered after the man of Israel into the whorehouse, and stuck through both together, that is, the man and the woman, in the places of engendering. And the vengeance ceased from the sons of Israel,

<sup>11</sup> Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, son of Aaron, priest, hath turned away my wrath from the sons of Israel; for he was moved against them by my fervent love, that, I myself not do away the sons of Israel in my great ferventness of vengeance.

<sup>12</sup> Therefore speak thou to him, Lo! I give to him the peace of my covenant, <sup>13</sup> and it shall be an everlasting covenant of priesthood, as well to himself as to his seed; for he loved fervently for his God, and he hath cleansed the great trespass of the sons of Israel.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth the name of the man of Israel, that was slain with the woman of Midian, was Zimri, the son of Salu, duke, of the kindred and lineage of Simeon.

<sup>18</sup> for also they have done enemy-like against you, and deceived you by treasons, by the idol of Peor, and by their sister Cozbi, daughter of the duke of Midian, which daughter was slain in the day of vengeance, for the sacrilege of Peor.

CHAPTER 26

<sup>5</sup> Reuben, the first begotten of Israel; the son of him was Hanoch, of whom came the meine of Hanochites; and Pallu, of whom came the meine of Palluites;

<sup>9</sup> the sons of him were Nemuel, and Dathan, and Abiram. These were Dathan and Abiram, [the] princes of the people, that rose against Moses and Aaron, in the rebely of Korah, when they rebelled against the Lord;

<sup>10</sup> and the earth opened his mouth, and devoured Korah, and full many men died, when the fire burnt two hundred men and fifty; and a great miracle was done,

<sup>14</sup> These were the meines of Simeon, of which all the number was two and twenty thousand and two hundred.

<sup>20</sup> And the sons of Judah were these by their kindreds; Shelah, of whom came the meine of Shelanites; Perez, of him the meine of Perezites; Zerah, of him the meine of Zarhites.

<sup>33</sup> Soothly Hephher was the father of Zelophehad, that had not sons, but only daughters; of which these were the names; Mahlah, and Noah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Tirzah.

<sup>34</sup> These were the meines of Manasseh, and the number of them was two and fifty thousand and seven hundred.

<sup>37</sup> These were the kindreds of the sons of Ephraim, of which the number was two and thirty thousand and five hundred. These were the sons of Joseph, by their meines.

<sup>50</sup> These were the kindreds of the sons of Naphtali by their meines, of which the number was five and forty thousand and four hundred.

<sup>53</sup> The land shall be parted to these, by the number of names into their possessions;

<sup>54</sup> thou shalt give the greater part to [the] more men, and the less part to [the] fewer men; possession shall be given to all by themselves, as they be numbered now;

<sup>59</sup> which had a wife, Jochebed, the daughter of Levi, which daughter was born to him in Egypt. This Jochebed engendered to her husband Amram, sons, Aaron and Moses, and Marie, the sister of them.

<sup>62</sup> And all that were numbered of this lineage were three and twenty thousand of male kind, from a month and above, which were not numbered among the sons of Israel, neither possession was given to them with other men.

<sup>65</sup> for the Lord before-said, that all should die in the wilderness; and none of them dwelled alive, but Caleb, Jephunneh's son, and Joshua, the son of Nun.

CHAPTER 27

<sup>1</sup> Soothly the daughters of Zelophe-had, the son of Hephher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, that was the son of Joseph, nighed; of which daughters these be the names; Mahlah, and Noah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Tirzah.

<sup>2</sup> And they stood before Moses, and Eleazar, the priest, and before all the princes of the people, at the door of the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace; and said,

<sup>3</sup> Our father was dead in the desert, neither he was in the rebely that was raised against the Lord under Korah, but he was dead in his sin; he had no male sons [or he had not male children].

<sup>8</sup> Forsooth thou shalt speak these things to the sons of Israel, When a man is dead without son, the heritage shall go to his daughter;

<sup>9</sup> if he hath no daughter, he shall have his heirs his brethren;

<sup>11</sup> soothly if he have no brethren of his father, the heritage shall be given to them that be next to him. And this shall be holy by everlasting law to the sons of Israel, as the Lord commanded to Moses.

<sup>12</sup> Also the Lord said to Moses, Go up into this hill of Abarim, and behold thou from thence the land, which I shall give to the sons of Israel.

<sup>16</sup> The Lord God of the spirits of all flesh, purvey a man, that he be on this multitude, <sup>17</sup> and that may go out, and enter in before them, and lead them out, and lead them in, lest the people of the Lord be as sheep without shepherd.

<sup>18</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Take thou Joshua, the son of Nun, a man in whom the spirit of God is, and put thine hand upon him;

<sup>21</sup> If anything shall be worthy to be done for this man, Joshua, Eleazar, the priest, shall counsel the Lord; he shall go out, and shall go in, at the word of Eleazar; he, and all the sons of Israel with him, and the tother multitude.

<sup>22</sup> Moses did as the Lord commanded, and when he had taken Joshua, he set him before Eleazar, the priest; and before all the multitude of the people;

CHAPTER 28

<sup>1</sup> Also the Lord said to Moses,

<sup>8</sup> And ye shall offer in like manner the tother lamb at eventide, by all the custom of the morrow sacrifice, and of the moist [or liquor] sacrifices thereof, an offering of sweetest odour to the Lord.

<sup>13</sup> and the tenth part of the tenth of [tried] flour sprinkled altogether with oil, in the sacrifice, by each lamb; it is burnt sacrifice of sweetest odour, and of incense to the Lord.

<sup>14</sup> Soothly the moist [or liquor] sacrifices of wine, that shall be poured by all the slain sacrifices, shall be these; the half part of a hin by each calf, the third part by a ram, the fourth part by a lamb; this shall be the burnt sacrifices by each month, that come one after another while the year turneth about.

<sup>20</sup> and the sacrifices of each by itself of [tried] flour, which be sprinkled altogether with oil, three tenth parts by each calf, and two tenth parts by a ram,

<sup>24</sup> So ye shall do by each day of [the] seven days, into the nourishing of fire, and into the sweetest odour to the Lord, that shall rise of the burnt sacrifice, and of the moist [or liquor] sacrifices of each offering.

<sup>25</sup> Also the seventh day shall be most solemn and holy to you; ye shall not do any servile work therein.

<sup>26</sup> Also the day of the first fruits, when ye shall offer new fruits to the Lord, when the weeks shall be fulfilled, shall be worshipful and holy; ye shall not do any servile work therein.

<sup>28</sup> and in the sacrifices of those [or them] ye shall offer three tenth parts of tried flour sprinkled altogether with oil, by each calf, two tenth parts by the rams,

CHAPTER 29

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth the first day of the seventh month shall be holy, and worshipful to you; ye shall not do any servile work therein, for it is the day of sounding, and of trumps.

<sup>3</sup> and in the sacrifice of those [or them] ye shall offer three tenth parts of tried flour sprinkled altogether with oil, by each calf, two tenth parts by a ram,

<sup>7</sup> Also the tenth day of this seventh month shall be holy and worshipful to you, and ye shall torment your souls; ye shall not do any servile work therein.

<sup>12</sup> Forsooth in the fifteenth day of the seventh month, that shall be holy and worshipful to you, ye shall not do any servile work [in it], but ye shall hallow the solemnity to the Lord by seven days;

<sup>14</sup> And in the moist [or liquor] sacrifices of those [or them]ye shall offer three tenth parts of tried flour sprinkled altogether with oil, by each calf, that be altogether thirteen calves, and ye shall offer two tenth parts to two rams together, that is, one tenth part to one ram,

<sup>17</sup> In the tother day ye shall offer twelve calves of the drove, two rams, fourteen lambs of one year, without wem.

<sup>26</sup> In the fifth day, ye shall offer nine calves, two rams, fourteen lambs of one year, without wem.

<sup>35</sup> In the eighth day, which is most solemn, ye shall not do any servile work,

<sup>36</sup> and ye shall offer burnt sacrifice, into sweetest odour to the Lord, one calf, one ram, seven lambs of one year, without wem.

<sup>38</sup> And ye shall offer a buck of goats for sin, without [the] everlasting burnt sacrifice, and the sacrifice, and [the] moist [or liquor] offering thereof.

<sup>39</sup> Ye shall offer these things to the Lord, in your solemnities, without your avows [or beside the vows], and your willful offerings, in the burnt sacrifice, in sacrifice, in the moist [or liquor] offering, and in peaceable sacrifices.

CHAPTER 30

<sup>2</sup> If any of men maketh a vow to the Lord, either bindeth himself by an oath, he shall not make void, or false, his word, but he shall fulfill all thing that he promised.

<sup>3</sup> If a woman that is in the house of her father, and is yet in the age of a young damsel, avoweth anything, either bindeth herself by an oath,

<sup>4</sup> her father knoweth the avow [or vow], that she promised, and the oath, by which she bound her soul, and he is still, she shall be guilty of that oath, if she break it; whatever thing she promised, and swore, she shall fulfill in work.

<sup>5</sup> Forsooth if her father against-said, anon as he heard, both [the] vows, and her oaths shall be void, and she shall not be holden bound to the promise, for her father against-said it.

<sup>7</sup> in what day her husband heareth this, and against-saith it not, she shall be guilty, or bound, to that vow; she shall yield, whatever thing she promised.

<sup>8</sup> But if the husband heareth it, and anon against-saith, and maketh void all her promises, and words by which she bound her soul, the Lord shall be merciful to her.

<sup>11</sup> if her husband heareth it, and is still, and against-saith not her promise, she shall yield, whatever thing she promised.

<sup>12</sup> Soothly if the husband against-said anon, she shall not be holden guilty of the promise, for her husband against-said it anon, and the Lord shall be merciful to her.

<sup>13</sup> If she avoweth, and bindeth herself by an oath, that she torment her soul by fasting, either by abstinence of other things, it shall be in the doom of her husband, that she do that, either do it not.

<sup>14</sup> That if the husband heareth it, and he is still, and delayeth the sentence in*[to]* the tother day, she shall yield whatever thing she avowed and promised, for he was still, anon as he heard.

<sup>16</sup> These be the laws, which the Lord ordained to Moses, betwixt the husband and the wife, betwixt the father and the daughter, which is yet in the age of a young damsel, or that yet dwelleth in her father's house unmarried.

CHAPTER 31

<sup>6</sup> which Moses sent forth with Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the priest. And Moses betook to them [the] holy vessels, and trumps to make sound.

<sup>8</sup> and the kings of them, Evi, and Rekem, and Zur, and Hur, and Reba, five princes of the folk of them. Also Israel killed with sword Balaam, the son of Beor.

<sup>11</sup> And they took prey, and all things which they had taken, as well of men as of beasts,

<sup>12</sup> and they brought to Moses, and to Eleazar, the priest, and to all the multitude of the sons of Israel. Soothly they bare other useable things to their tents, standing in the field places of Moab, beside Jordan, against Jericho.

<sup>13</sup> [And] Moses and Eleazar, the priest, and all the princes of the synagogue, went out into the coming of them, without the tents.

<sup>14</sup> And Moses was wroth to the princes of the host, to the tribunes, and the centurions, [or leaders of thousands, and governors of hundreds], that came from the battle;

<sup>16</sup> whether it be not these that deceived the sons of Israel, at the suggestion of Balaam, and made you to do trespass against the Lord, upon the sin of Peor, wherefore also the people was slain?

<sup>17</sup> And therefore slay ye all the men, whatever is of male kind, and the little children; and strangle ye the women that have known men fleshly;

<sup>19</sup> and dwell ye without the tents seven days. He that slayeth a man, or toucheth a slain man, shall be cleansed in the third [day], and the seventh day;

<sup>20</sup> and of all the prey, whether it is cloth, or vessel, and anything made ready to things pertaining to use, of the skins and hairs of goats, and wood, it shall be cleansed.

<sup>23</sup> and all thing that may pass by flame, shall be purged by fire; soothly whatever thing may not suffer fire, shall be hallowed with the water of cleansing.

<sup>26</sup> Take ye the sum or the number of those things that be taken, from man till to beast, thou, and Eleazar, [the] priest, and all the princes of the common people.

<sup>28</sup> And thou shalt separate a part to the Lord, of them that have fought, and were in battle, one soul of five hundred, as well of men, as of oxen, and of asses, and of sheep.

<sup>29</sup> And thou shalt give that part to Eleazar, the priest, for those [or they] be the first fruits of the Lord.

<sup>30</sup> Also of the half part of the sons of Israel, thou shalt take the fiftieth head of men, and of oxen, and of asses, and of sheep, and of all living beasts; and thou shalt give those [or them] to the deacons [or Levites], that wake in the keepings of the tabernacle of the Lord.

<sup>32</sup> Forsooth the prey which the host had taken, was six hundred and five and seventy thousand of sheep,

<sup>36</sup> And the half part was given to them that were in the battle, of sheep three hundred seven and thirty thousand, and five hundred;

<sup>42</sup> of the half part of the sons of Israel, which he parted to them that were in battle.

<sup>43</sup> And of the half part that befelled to the tother multitude, that is, of three hundred seven and thirty thousand sheep and five hundred,

<sup>44</sup> and of six and thirty thousand oxen,

<sup>45</sup> and of thirty thousand asses and five hundred,

<sup>47</sup> Moses took the fiftieth head, and he gave them to the deacons [or Levites], that wake or watch in the tabernacle of the Lord, as the Lord commanded.

<sup>48</sup> And when the princes of the host, and the tribunes [or the leaders of thousands], and the centurions [or rulers of hundreds] had nighed to Moses,

<sup>49</sup> they said, We thy servants have told or totalled the number of fighters, which we had under our hand, or power, and soothly not one failed;

<sup>50</sup> for which cause we offer, or bring, to thee free gifts of the Lord, all by ourselves, that that we might find of gold in the prey, girdles for the women's middles, and bies of the arms, and rings, and ornaments of the arm nigh the hand, and bies of the necks of women, that thou pray the Lord for us.

CHAPTER 32

<sup>1</sup> Soothly the sons of Reuben and of Gad had many beasts, and cattle without number was to them, in work beasts. And when they had seen Jazer and Gilead, to be covenable lands to beasts to be fed,

<sup>2</sup> they came to Moses, and to Eleazar, the priest, and to the princes of the multitude, and said,

<sup>4</sup> the land which the Lord smote in the sight of the sons of Israel, is of most plenteous country to the pasture of beasts; and we thy servants have full many beasts;

<sup>5</sup> and we pray thee, if we have found grace before thee, that thou give to us thy servants that country into possession, and make not us to pass [over] Jordan.

<sup>7</sup> Why mis-turn ye the thoughts of the sons of Israel, that they dare not pass into the place, which the Lord shall give to them?

<sup>9</sup> and when they came to the valley of Cluster, when all the country was compassed, they turned into fear the heart of the sons of Israel, that they entered not into the coasts, which the Lord had given to them.

<sup>11</sup> These men that went up from Egypt, from twenty years of age and above, shall not see the land which I promised under an oath to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and [they] would not pursue me,

<sup>13</sup> And the Lord was wroth against Israel, and led him about the desert by forty years, till all the generation was wasted, that had done evil in the sight of the Lord.

<sup>14</sup> And Moses said, Lo! ye the increasings, and nourished children, of sinful men, have risen for your fathers, that ye should increase the strong vengeance of the Lord against Israel.

<sup>15</sup> That if ye will not pursue [or follow] the Lord, in the wilderness he shall forsake the people, and ye shall be [the] cause of the death of all men.

<sup>16</sup> And they went nigh, and said, We shall make sheepfolds, and stables of beasts, and we shall make strengthened cities to our little children.

<sup>17</sup> Forsooth we ourselves shall be armed to defense, and shall be girded with arms to assailing, and shall go to battle before the sons of Israel, till we bring them into their places; our little children, and whatever thing we may have, shall be in strengthened cities, for the treasons of the dwellers.

<sup>19</sup> and we shall not ask anything over Jordan, for we have now our possession in the east coast thereof.

<sup>20</sup> To whom Moses said, If ye do that, that ye promise, be ye made ready, and go ye to battle before the Lord;

<sup>22</sup> and all the land be made subject to him; then ye shall be made guilt-less with God, and with Israel, and ye shall wield the countries, which ye will or desire, before the Lord.

<sup>23</sup> But if ye do not that, that ye say, it is no doubt to any man, that not ye sin against God; and know ye, that your sin shall take you.

<sup>24</sup> Therefore build ye cities to your little children, and folds, and stables to your sheep, and to beasts; and [ful] fill ye that, that ye have promised.

<sup>25</sup> And the sons of Gad and of Reuben said to Moses, We be thy servants; we shall do that, that our lord commandeth.

<sup>28</sup> Therefore Moses commanded to Eleazar, the priest, and to Joshua, the son of Nun, and to the princes of the meines, by the lineages of Israel,

<sup>29</sup> and he said to them, If the sons of Gad, and the sons of Reuben, go all armed with you [over Jordan], to battle before the Lord, and the land be made subject to you, give ye to them Gilead into possession;

<sup>30</sup> but if they will not pass with you into the land of Canaan, take they then places to dwell among you.

<sup>31</sup> And the sons of Gad and the sons of Reuben answered, As the Lord hath spoken to his servants, so we shall do;

<sup>32</sup> we shall go armed before the Lord, into the land of Canaan, and we acknowledge, that we have taken now possession over Jordan.

<sup>33</sup> And so Moses gave to the sons of Gad, and of Reuben, and to half the lineage of Manasseh, the son of Joseph, the realm of Sihon, king of Amorites, and the realm of Og, king of Bashan, and their lands, with their cities, by compass.

<sup>38</sup> and Nebo, and Baalmeon, when the names were turned, and they builded Shibmah; and they putted names to the cities, which they had builded.

CHAPTER 33

<sup>3</sup> Therefore the sons of Israel went forth in an high hand from Rameses, in the first month, in the fifteenth day of the first month, in the tother day of pask, that is, in the morrow of the offering of the lamb of pask, while all [the] Egyptians saw,

<sup>8</sup> And they went forth from Piha-hiroth, and they passed through the midst of the sea into wilderness, and they went three days by the desert of Etham, and setted tents in Marah.

<sup>38</sup> And Aaron, the priest, ascended [or went up] into the hill of Hor, for the Lord commanded, and there he was dead, in the fortieth year of the going out of the sons of Israel from Egypt, in the fifth month, in the first day of the month;

<sup>40</sup> And the Canaanite, the king of Arad, that dwelled at the south, in the land of Canaan, heard that the sons of Israel came thither.

- <sup>41</sup> And they went forth from the hill of Hor, and setted tents in Zalmonah;
<sup>50</sup> where the Lord spake to Moses,
<sup>51</sup> Command thou to the sons of Israel, and say thou to them, When ye have passed over Jordan, and have entered into the land of Canaan,
<sup>52</sup> destroy ye all the dwellers of that country; break ye the titles, that is, altars, and drive ye to powder the images, and destroy ye all high things,
<sup>54</sup> which ye shall part to you by lot; to more men in number ye shall give larger land, and to fewer men in number straiter, or less, land, as the lot falleth to all men, so [the] heritage shall be given; the possession shall be parted to lineages and meines.
<sup>55</sup> But if ye will not slay the dwellers of the land, they, that abide, shall be to you as nails in the eyes, and as spears in the sides; and they shall be adversaries to you in the land of your habitation;
<sup>56</sup> and whatever thing I thought to do to them, I shall do to you.

CHAPTER 34

- <sup>1</sup> And the Lord spake to Moses, and said,
<sup>2</sup> Command thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, When ye have entered into the land of Canaan, and it befall into possession to you by lot, it shall be ended by these ends.
<sup>4</sup> the which terms shall compass the south coast by the going up of the hill Scorpion, so that those terms pass into Zin, and come to the south, unto Kadeshbarnea; from whence the terms shall go forth to the town, Addar by name, and they shall stretch forth unto Azmon;
<sup>10</sup> From thence they shall mete the coasts against the east coast, from the town Enan to Shepham;

<sup>12</sup> and those terms shall stretch forth till to Jordan, and at the last those shall be closed with the saltiest sea. Ye shall have this land by his coasts in compass.

<sup>13</sup> And Moses commanded to the sons of Israel, and said, This shall be the land which ye shall wield by lot, and which the Lord commanded to be given to the nine lineages, and to the half lineage;

<sup>14</sup> for the lineage of the sons of Reuben, by their meines, and the lineage of the sons of Gad, by their kindred and number, and half the lineage of Manasseh,

CHAPTER 35

<sup>2</sup> Command thou to the sons of Israel, that they give to the deacons [or Levites], of their possessions, cities to dwell in, and the suburbs of those [or them] by compass,

<sup>4</sup> which suburbs shall be stretched forth from the walls of the cities withoutforth by compass, in the space of a thousand paces;

<sup>5</sup> against the east coast shall be two thousand cubits, and against the south in like manner shall be two thousand cubits, and at the sea that beholdeth to the west shall be the same measure, and the north coast shall be ended by even term. And the cities shall be in the midst, and the suburbs withoutforth.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth of those cities which ye shall give to [the] deacons [or Levites], six shall be separated into [the] helps of fugitives, either of fleeing men, that he that shedded blood, flee to those;

<sup>7</sup> and besides these six cities, ye shall give to the deacons another two and forty cities, that is, altogether eight and forty, with their suburbs.

<sup>8</sup> And those cities that shall be given of the possession of the sons of Israel, more cities shall be taken away from them that have more, and fewer from them that have less; all the sons of Israel by themselves shall give by the measure of their heritage, cities to the deacons [or Levites].

<sup>10</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and thou shalt say to them, When ye have passed [over] Jordan, in[to] the land of Canaan,

<sup>12</sup> In which cities when the fleer hath fled, the kinsman of him that is slain, shall not be able to slay him, till he stand in the sight of the multitude, and the cause of him be deemed.

<sup>15</sup> as well to the sons of Israel as to comelings, and pilgrims; that he flee to those cities, that shedded blood not willfully.

<sup>21</sup> either when he was enemy to him, smite him with his hand, and he is dead, the smiter shall be guilty of manslaying. The kinsman of him that is slain, anon as he findeth him, that is, the slayer, shall slay him.

<sup>24</sup> and this is proved, the people hearing, and the question of the blood, or death, is discussed betwixt the smiter and the kinsman of him that is slain,

<sup>25</sup> the innocent shall be delivered from the hand of the avenger, and by sentence of judges he shall be led again into the city, to which he fled, and he shall dwell there, till the great priest die, which is anointed with [holy] oil.

<sup>26</sup> If the slayer is found without or outside the coasts of the cities that be assigned to exiled men,

<sup>27</sup> and he is slain of him that is avenger [of the blood], he that slayeth him shall be without guilt;

<sup>28</sup> for the exiled man ought to sit or abide in the city till to the death of the bishop; forsooth after that that bishop is dead, the manslayer shall turn again into his land.

<sup>33</sup> lest ye defoul the land of your habitation, which is defouled by the blood of innocent men; and it may not be cleansed in other manner, no but by the blood of him, that shedded the blood of another man.

<sup>34</sup> And so your possession shall be cleansed, for I shall dwell with you; for I am the Lord, that dwell among the sons of Israel.

CHAPTER 36

<sup>1</sup> Soothly and the princes of the meines of Gilead, the son of Machir, son of Manasseh, of the generation of the sons of Joseph, nighed, and spake to Moses before the princes of Israel,

<sup>2</sup> and said, The Lord commanded to thee our lord, that thou shouldest part the land by lot to the sons of Israel, and that thou shouldest give to the daughters of Zelophehad, our brother, the possession due to their father.

<sup>3</sup> And if men of another lineage shall take to wives these daughters, their possession shall pursue [or follow]them, and it shall be translated or brought over to another lineage, and so it shall be decreased from our heritage;

<sup>4</sup> and so it shall be done, that when the jubilee, that is, the fiftieth year of remission, cometh, the parting of lots be confounded, or fail, and that the possession of other men pass to other men.

<sup>5</sup> Moses answered to the sons of Israel, and said, for the Lord com-manded, The lineage of the sons of Joseph hath spoken rightfully,

<sup>6</sup> and this law is announced of the Lord on the daughters of Zelophehad; be they wedded to which men they will, only to the men of their lineage;

<sup>9</sup> and [the] lineages be not meddled [or mingled] to themselves, but dwell so, as those be parted of the Lord.

<sup>12</sup> of the meine of Manasseh, that was the son of Joseph; and the possession that was given to them, dwelled in the lineage, and in the meine, of their father.

DEUTERONOMY

<sup>3</sup> In the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, in the first day of the month, Moses spake to the sons of Israel all things which the Lord commanded to him that he should say to them,

<sup>4</sup> after that he had smitten, or killed, Sihon, the king of Amorites, that dwelled in Heshbon, and Og, the king of Bashan, that dwelled in Ashtaroth, and in Edrei,

<sup>5</sup> over Jordan, in the land of Moab. And Moses began to declare the law, and to say,

<sup>6</sup> Our Lord God spake to us in Horeb, and said, It sufficeth to you that ye have dwelled in this hill;

<sup>7</sup> turn ye again, and come ye to the hill of Amorites, and to other places that be next to it; and to the places of fields, and of hills, and to [the] lower places against the south, and beside the brink of the sea, to the land of Canaanites, and of Lebanon, till to the great flood Euphrates.

<sup>8</sup> Lo, he saith, I have given to you that land; enter ye, and have it in possession, on which the Lord swore to your fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, that he should give that land to them, and to their seed after them.

<sup>9</sup> And I said to you in that time, I may not alone sustain you,

<sup>10</sup> for your Lord God hath multiplied you, and ye be full many today, as the stars of heaven;

<sup>12</sup> I may not alone sustain, or bear, your causes, and your burdens, and strives;

<sup>13</sup> give ye of you men wise, and witting, whose conversation is proved in your lineages, that I set [or put] them princes to you.

<sup>15</sup> And I took of your lineages men wise, and noble; and I ordained them to be your princes, your tribunes, and centurions, and quinquagenaries, and deans, which shall teach you all things.

<sup>16</sup> And I commanded to them, and said, Hear ye the people, and deem ye that that is just, whether he be a citizen, or a pilgrim.

<sup>17</sup> No difference shall be in doom of persons; ye shall hear so a little man, that is, poor, as a great man, neither ye shall take heed to the person of any man, for it is the doom of God. That if anything seemeth hard to you, tell ye that to me, and I shall hear it.

<sup>19</sup> Forsooth we went forth from Horeb, and passed by a fearedful desert, and greatest wilderness, which ye saw, by the way of the hill of Amorites, as our Lord God commanded to us. And when we had come into Kadeshbarnea,

<sup>20</sup> I said to you, Ye be come to the hill of Amorites, which your Lord God shall give to you;

<sup>21</sup> see thou, Israel, the land that the Lord God shall give to thee; go thou up, and wield it, as our Lord God spake to thy fathers; dread thou not, neither in thine heart be thou anything aghast.

<sup>22</sup> And all ye nighed to me, and ye said, Send we men, that shall behold the land, and shall tell us by what way we owe to go up thither, and to which cities we owe to go.

<sup>24</sup> And when they had gone forth, and had gone up into the hilly places, they came unto the valley of Cluster; and when they had beheld the land,

<sup>25</sup> they took of the fruits thereof, to show the plenty of it, and they brought those fruits to us, and said, The land is good that our Lord God shall give to us.

<sup>26</sup> And ye would not go up thither, but ye were unbelievelful to the word of our Lord God.

<sup>27</sup> And ye grutched in your taber-nacles, and ye said, The Lord hateth us, and therefore he led us out of the land of Egypt, that he should betake us in the hand of Amorites, and do away us.

<sup>28</sup> Whither shall we ascend [or go up]? the messengers made afeared our heart, and said, A greatest multitude is, and larger in stature than we; the cities be great, and walled till to heaven; we saw there the sons of Anakim, that is, giants.

<sup>33</sup> that went before you in the way, and measured the place in which ye ought to set your tents, and he showed in the night the way to you by fire, and in the day by a pillar of cloud.

<sup>34</sup> And when the Lord had heard the voice of your words, he was wroth, and swore, and said,

<sup>36</sup> except Caleb, the son of Jephun-neh; forsooth he shall see it, and I shall give to him the land upon which he hath trodden, and to his sons, for he pursued [or followed] the Lord.

<sup>37</sup> Neither the Lord's indignation against the people is to be marvelled, since the Lord was wroth also to me for you, and said, Neither thou shalt enter thither,

<sup>38</sup> but Joshua, the son of Nun, thy servant, he shall enter into that land for thee; excite, and strengthen thou him, and he shall part the land by lot to Israel.

<sup>39</sup> Your little children, of which ye said, that they should be led prisoners, and the sons that know not today the diversity of good and of evil, they shall enter thither; and I shall give to them the land, and they shall wield it.

<sup>41</sup> And ye answered to me, We have sinned to the Lord; we shall go up, and we shall fight, as our Lord God commanded. And when ye were arrayed with arms, and went into the hill, <sup>42</sup> the Lord said to me, Say thou to them, Do not ye go up, neither fight ye, for I am not with you, lest ye fall before your enemies.

<sup>43</sup> I spake this to you, and ye heard me not; but ye were adversaries to the commandment of the Lord, and swelling with pride, went up into the hill.

<sup>44</sup> Therefore Amorites went out, that dwelled in the hills, and he came against you, and pursued you, as bees be wont to pursue, and he killed you down from Seir unto Hormah.

<sup>45</sup> And when ye turned again, and wept before the Lord, he heard not you, neither would assent to your voice;

CHAPTER 2

<sup>1</sup> And we went forth from thence, and came into the wilderness that leadeth to the Red Sea, as the Lord said to me; and we compassed the hill of Seir in long time.

<sup>4</sup> And command thou to the people, and say, Ye shall pass by the terms of your brethren, the sons of Esau, that dwell in Seir, and they shall dread you. Therefore see ye diligently,

<sup>5</sup> that ye be not moved against them; for I shall not give to you of their land as much as the step of one foot may tread, for I have given the hill of Seir into the possession of Esau.

<sup>7</sup> Thy Lord God hath blessed thee in all the works of thine hands; he hath known thy way, how thou hast passed through this most wilderness, by forty years; and thy Lord God dwelled with thee, and nothing failed to thee.

<sup>8</sup> And when we had passed by our brethren, the sons of Esau, that dwelled in Seir, by the way of the field of Elath, and of Eziongaber, we came to the way that leadeth into the desert of Moab.

<sup>9</sup> And the Lord said to me, Fight thou not against Moabites, neither begin thou battle against them; for I shall not give to thee anything of their land, for I have given Ar into possession to the sons of Lot.

<sup>11</sup> that they were believed to be as giants, of the generation of Anakim, and they were like the sons of Anakim; forsooth Moabites call them Emim.

<sup>12</sup> Soothly Horims dwelled before in Seir, and when they were put out, and were done away, the sons of Esau dwelled there, as Israel did in the land of his possession, which the Lord gave to him.

<sup>13</sup> Therefore we rose up, that we should pass over the strand [or stream] of Zered, and we came to it.

<sup>14</sup> Soothly the time in which we went from Kadeshbarnea till to the passing over of the strand [or stream] of Zered, was of eight and thirty years, till all the generation of fighting men was wasted from their tents, as the Lord had sworn;

<sup>19</sup> and thou shalt nigh into the coasts of the sons of Ammon; be thou ware that thou fight not against them, nor be moved to battle; for I shall not give to thee of the land of the sons of Ammon, for I have given it to the sons of Lot into possession.

<sup>21</sup> a much people, and great, and of noble length, as Anakim, which the Lord did away from the face of them, and made them to dwell for those giants,

<sup>22</sup> as he did to the sons of Esau, that dwelled in Seir, and did away Horims, and gave to them the land of Horims, which the sons of Esau wield till into present time.

<sup>23</sup> Also men of Cappadocia putted out Avims, that dwelled in Hazerim, till to Gaza; which went out from Cappadocia, and did away Avims, and dwelled there for them.

<sup>24</sup> Rise ye, and pass ye over the strand [or the stream] of Arnon; lo! I have betaken in thine hand Sihon, king of Heshbon, of Amorites; and his land begin thou to wield, and smite thou battle against him.

<sup>25</sup> Today I shall begin to send thy dread, and thy fear into the peoples that dwell under all heaven, that when thy name is heard, they dread, and tremble, by the manner of women travailing of child, and be holden with sorrow.

<sup>28</sup> Sell thou us meats for price, that we eat; give thou us water for money, and so we shall drink. Only it is that we ask of thee that thou grant passage to us,

<sup>29</sup> as the sons of Esau did, that dwell in Seir, and the Moabites, that dwell in Ar, till we come to Jordan, and pass over to the land which our Lord God shall give to us.

<sup>30</sup> And Sihon, king of Heshbon, would not give passage to us; for thy Lord God made hard his spirit, and made firm in evil the heart of him, that he should be betaken into thine hands, as thou seest now.

<sup>31</sup> And the Lord said to me, Lo, I have begun to betake to thee Sihon, and his land; begin thou to wield it.

<sup>34</sup> And we took in that time all the cities, when the dwellers of those cities, men, and women, and children, were slain; we left not in them any-thing,

<sup>36</sup> From Aroer, which is on the brink of the strand [or the stream] of Arnon, from the town which is set in the valley, unto Gilead, no town was, nor city, that escaped our hands. Our Lord God betook all to us;

<sup>37</sup> except the land of the sons of Ammon, to which land we nighed not, and all things that lie to the strand [or the stream] of Jabbok, and except the cities of the mountains, and all the places from which our Lord God forbade us.

CHAPTER 3

<sup>1</sup> And so we turned, and went up by the way of Bashan; and Og, the king of Bashan, went out against us with his people, to fight in Edrei.

<sup>2</sup> And the Lord said to me, Dread thou not him, for he is betaken into thine hand, with all his people, and his land; and thou shalt do to him, as thou didest to Sihon, king of Amorites, that dwelled in Heshbon.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore our Lord God betook in our hands also Og, the king of Bashan, and all his people; and we have smitten him unto death, <sup>4</sup> and we wasted all his cities in one time; no town there was of his that escaped us; we destroyed sixty cities, all the country of Argob, of the realm of Og in Bashan.

<sup>6</sup> And we did away those men, as we did to Sihon, king of Heshbon; and we destroyed each city of that land, and the men, and the women, and little children;

<sup>8</sup> And we took in that time the land from the hand of the two kings of Amorites, that were beyond Jordan, from the strand [or stream] of Arnon unto the hill of Hermon,

<sup>10</sup> And we took all the cities that were set in the plain, and all the land of Gilead, and of Bashan, unto Salchah and Edrei, cities of the realm of Og, in Bashan.

<sup>12</sup> And we wielded in that time the land, from Aroer, which is on the brink of the strand [or stream] of Arnon, unto the half part of the hill of Gilead; and I gave his cities to Reuben and to Gad.

<sup>13</sup> And I gave the tother part of Gilead, and all Bashan, of the realm of Og, to the half lineage of Manasseh, and all the country of Argob. All Bashan was called the land of giants.

<sup>14</sup> Jair, the son of Manasseh, wielded all the country of Argob, unto the land of Geshuri and of Maachathi; and he called by his name Bashanhavothjair, that is, the towns of Jair, till into this present day.

<sup>16</sup> and to the lineages of Reuben and of Gad I gave the land of Gilead, till to the strand [or stream] of Arnon, the middle of the strand, and of the ends till to the strand of Jabbok, which is the term of the sons of Ammon.

<sup>17</sup> And I gave to them the plain of the wilderness, unto Jordan, and the terms of Chinnereth unto the sea of desert, the which is the most salty sea, at the roots of the hill of Pisgah, against the east.

<sup>18</sup> And I commanded to you in that time, and said, Your Lord God giveth to you this land into heritage; all ye strong men,

<sup>19</sup> without wives, and little children, and beasts, be ye made ready, and go ye before your brethren, the sons of Israel. For I know that ye have many beasts, and those shall dwell in the cities that I have given to you,

<sup>20</sup> till the Lord give rest to your brethren, as he hath given to you, and till they also wield the land which the Lord shall give to them beyond Jordan; then each man shall turn again into his possession that I have given to you.

<sup>21</sup> Also I commanded to Joshua in that time, and said, Thine eyes have seen what things your Lord God did to these two kings; so he shall do to all the realms, to which thou shalt go;

<sup>24</sup> Lord God, thou hast begun to show to me thy servant thy greatness, and thy full strong hand, for none other God there is, either in heaven, either in earth, that may do thy works, and may be comparisoned to thy strength.

<sup>26</sup> And the Lord was wroth to me for you, neither he heard me, but he said to me, It sufficeth to thee; speak thou no more of this thing to me.

<sup>27</sup> Go thou up into the highness of Pisgah, and cast about thine eyes to the west, and north, and south, and east, and behold, for thou shalt not pass over this Jordan.

<sup>28</sup> Command thou to Joshua, and strengthen thou him, and comfort him; for he shall go before this people, and he shall part to them the land, which thou shalt see.

CHAPTER 4

<sup>1</sup> And now, thou Israel, hear the behests and dooms which I teach thee, that thou do those [or them], and live, and that thou enter and wield the land which the Lord God of your fathers shall give to you.

<sup>2</sup> Ye shall not add to the word which I speak to you, neither ye shall take away from it; keep ye the commandments of your Lord God, which I command to you.

<sup>3</sup> Your eyes saw all things which the Lord did against Baalpeor; how he all-brake all the worshippers of him from the midst of you.

<sup>5</sup> Ye know that I taught you the behests and the rightwisenesses, as my Lord God commanded to me; so ye shall do them in the land that ye shall wield,

<sup>8</sup> For what other folk is so noble, that it hath ceremonies, and just [or rightwise] dooms, and all the law, which I shall set forth today before your eyes?

<sup>9</sup> Therefore keep thyself, and thy soul busily; forget thou not the words which thine eyes have seen, and fall they not down from thine heart, in all the days of thy life. Thou shalt teach those [or them] to thy sons, and thy sons' sons.

<sup>10</sup> Tell thou to them the day in which thou stoodest before thy Lord God in Horeb, when the Lord spake to me, and said, Gather thou the people to me, that it hear my words, and that it learn for to dread me in all time in which it liveth in earth, and teach his sons.

<sup>13</sup> And he showed to you his covenant, which he commanded that ye should do, and [the] ten words, which he wrote in two tables of stone.

<sup>14</sup> And he commanded to me in that time, that I should teach you ceremonies and dooms, which ye owe to do in the land which ye shall wield.

<sup>16</sup> lest peradventure ye be deceived, and make to you a graven likeness, either an image of male, either female;

<sup>19</sup> lest peradventure, when thine eyes be raised up to heaven, thou see the sun, and the moon, and all the stars of heaven, and thou be deceived by error, and worship those things, and honour them, the which things thy Lord God made of nought, into the service of all folks that be under heaven.

<sup>20</sup> Forsooth the Lord took you, and led you out of the iron furnace, or strong tribulation, of Egypt, that he should have a people of heritage, as it is in [the] present day.

<sup>21</sup> And the Lord was wroth against me for your words, and swore that I should not pass over Jordan, and that I should not enter into the best land, which he shall give to you.

<sup>23</sup> Be ye ware, lest any time thou forget the covenant of thy Lord God, which he made with thee, and lest thou make to thee a graven likeness of those things which the Lord hath forbidden thee to make.

<sup>25</sup> If ye beget sons, and sons of sons, and ye dwell in the land, and ye be deceived, and make to you any likeness, or image, and do evil before your Lord God, that ye stir him to great wrath,

<sup>26</sup> I call witness today heaven and earth, that ye shall perish soon from the land, that ye shall wield, when ye have passed over Jordan; ye shall not live long time therein, but the Lord shall do away you,

<sup>27</sup> and he shall scatter you abroad among all heathen men, and ye shall dwell few among the nations, to which the Lord shall lead you.

<sup>28</sup> And there ye shall serve to gods, that be made by men's hands, to tree and to stone, that neither see, neither hear, neither eat, neither smell.

<sup>29</sup> And when thou hast sought there thy Lord God, thou shalt find him; if nevertheless thou seekest him with all thy heart, and with all the tribulation of thy soul.

<sup>30</sup> After that all things have found thee, that be before-said, soothly in the last time, thou shalt turn again to thy Lord God, and thou shalt hear his voice.

<sup>31</sup> For thy Lord God is a merciful God; he shall not forsake thee, neither he shall do thee away utterly, neither he shall forget the covenant, in which he swore to thy fathers.

<sup>32</sup> Ask thou of [the] eld [or old] days, or times, that were before thee, from the day in which thy Lord God made of nought man upon earth, ask thou from the one end of heaven unto the tother end thereof, that is, take heed to all things that ever were done, if such a thing was done any time,

<sup>33</sup> either if it was ever known, that a people heard the voice of God speaking from the midst of the fire, as thou hast heard and seen;

<sup>34</sup> either if that God went in, and took to himself a folk from the midst of nations, by temptations, miracles, and great wonders, by battle, and strong hand, and arm stretched forth, and horrible sights, by all things which your Lord God did for you in Egypt, in sight of thine eyes;

<sup>36</sup> From heaven he made thee to hear his voice, that he should teach thee; and in [the] earth he showed to thee his full great fire, and thou heardest his words from [the] midst of the fire;

<sup>37</sup> for he loved thy fathers, and chose their seed after them. And he led thee out of Egypt, and went before thee in his great strength,

<sup>38</sup> that he should do away the greatest nations, and stronger than thou, in thine entering, and that he should lead thee in, and should give to thee their land into possession, as thou seest in present day.

<sup>39</sup> Therefore know thou today, and think in thine heart, that the Lord himself is God in heaven above, and in earth beneath, and none other is.

<sup>40</sup> Keep thou his behests, and his commandments, which I command to thee, that it be well to thee, and to thy sons after thee, and that thou dwell much time upon the land, which thy Lord God shall give to thee.

<sup>42</sup> that he flee to those [or them], that slayeth his neighbour not willfully, and was not enemy before one and the tother day, and that he may flee to some of these cities;

<sup>45</sup> and these be the witnessings, and ceremonies, and the dooms, which he spake to the sons of Israel, when they went out of Egypt,

<sup>46</sup> beyond Jordan, in the valley against the temple of Bethpeor, in the land of Sihon, king of Amorites, that dwelled in Heshbon, whom Moses killed. And the sons of Israel went out of Egypt,

CHAPTER 5

<sup>1</sup> And Moses called all Israel, and said to him, Hear, thou Israel, the ceremonies and dooms, which I speak today in your ears; learn ye them, and fulfilleth in deed.

<sup>5</sup> I was reconciler and a mediator betwixt God and you in that time, that I should tell to you his words, for ye dreaded the fire, and ye went not up into the hill. And he said,

<sup>8</sup> Thou shalt not make to thee a graven image, neither a likeness of all things that be in heaven above, and that be in earth beneath, and that be in waters under earth;

<sup>9</sup> thou shalt not praise them, nor worship them; for I am thy Lord God, a jealous God; and I yield the wickedness of fathers into the sons, into the third and the fourth generation to them that hate me,

<sup>10</sup> and I do mercy into many thousands to them that love me, and keep my behests.

<sup>11</sup> Thou shalt not mistake the name of thy Lord God in vain, for he shall not be unpunished, that taketh the name of God in a vain thing.

<sup>14</sup> the seventh day is the day of sabbath, that is, the rest of thy Lord God. Thou shalt not do therein anything of work; thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, thy servant, and thine handmaid, and thine ox, and thine ass, and all thy work beasts, and the pilgrim that is within thy gates; that thy servant rest and thine hand-maid, as also thou.

<sup>15</sup> Have mind, that also thyself servedest in Egypt, and thy Lord God led thee out from thence, in a strong hand, and in an arm stretched forth; therefore he commanded to thee, that thou shouldest keep the sabbath day.

<sup>16</sup> Honour thy father and thy mother, as thy Lord God commanded to thee, that thou live in long time, and that it be well to thee, in the land which thy Lord God shall give to thee.

<sup>22</sup> The Lord spake these words to all your multitude, in the hill, from the midst of the fire, and of the cloud, and of the mist, with great voice, and he added to nothing more; and he wrote those words in two tables of stone, which he gave to me.

<sup>23</sup> And after that ye heard the voice from the midst of the darkneses, and ye saw the hill burn, all ye princes of the lineages, and the greater men in birth, nighed to me,

<sup>24</sup> and ye said, Lo! our Lord God hath showed to us his majesty and greatness; we heard his voice from [the] midst of the fire, and we have proved today that a man liveth, God speaking with man.

<sup>25</sup> Why therefore shall we die, and shall this greatest fire devour us? For if we hear more the voice of our Lord God, we shall die.

<sup>26</sup> What is each man, that he hear the voice of God living, that speaketh from [the] midst of the fire, as we have heard, and that he may live?

<sup>27</sup> Rather nigh thou, and hear thou all things which our Lord God shall say to thee; and thou shalt speak to us, and we shall hear, and do those words.

<sup>28</sup> And when the Lord had heard this, he said to me, I have heard the voice of the words of this people, which they have spoken to thee; they have spoken well all things.

<sup>29</sup> Who shall give that they have such soul, that they dread me, and keep all my commandments in all time, that it be well to them, and to the sons of them, without end?

<sup>31</sup> Soothly stand thou here with me, and I shall speak to thee all [the] commandments, and ceremonies, and dooms, which thou shalt teach them, that they do those [or them] in the land which I shall give to them into possession.

<sup>33</sup> but ye shall go by the way which your Lord God commanded, that ye live, and that it be well to you, and that your days be lengthened in the land of your possession.

CHAPTER 6

<sup>1</sup> These be the commandments, ceremonies, and dooms, which your Lord God commanded that I should teach you, and that ye do them in the land to which ye pass over to wield;

<sup>2</sup> that thou dread thy Lord God, and keep all his commandments, and behests, which I command to thee, and to thy sons, and to the sons of thy sons, in all the days of thy life, that thy days be lengthened.

<sup>3</sup> Thou Israel, hear, and keep, that thou do those things which the Lord commanded to thee, and that it be well to thee, and thou be multiplied more, as the Lord God of thy fathers hath promised, to give to thee a land flowing with milk and honey.

<sup>5</sup> Thou shalt love thy Lord God of all thine heart, and of all thy soul, and of all thy strength.

<sup>7</sup> and thou shalt tell those [or them] to thy sons, and thou shalt think upon them, sitting in thine house, and going in the way, lying down, and rising.

<sup>8</sup> And thou shalt bind those [or them] as a sign in thine hand; and those [or they] shall be, and shall be moved before thine eyes;

<sup>10</sup> And when thy Lord God hath brought thee into the land, for which he swore to thy fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and he hath given to thee great cities, and best, which thou buildedest not,

<sup>11</sup> houses full of all riches, which thou madest not, and cisterns, which thou diggedest not, vineyards, and olive places, which thou plantedest not, and when thou hast eaten, and art full-filled,

<sup>14</sup> Ye shall not go after alien gods, of all heathen men that be in your compass or be about you;

<sup>15</sup> for God is a fervent lover, thy Lord God is in the midst of thee, lest any time the strong vengeance or the fierceness of thy Lord God be wroth against thee, and do away thee from the face of the earth.

<sup>18</sup> and do thou that that is pleasing and good in the sight of the Lord, that it be well to thee, and that thou enter, and wield the best land, of which the Lord swore to thy fathers,

<sup>20</sup> And when thy son shall ask thee tomorrow, that is, in time to coming, and shall say, What will or mean these witnessings, and ceremonies, and dooms to themselves, which our Lord God commanded to us?

<sup>21</sup> thou shalt say to him, We were Pharaoh's servants in Egypt, and the Lord led us out of Egypt, in a strong hand;

<sup>22</sup> and he did miracles, and great wonders, and worst, that is, most painful vengeance, in Egypt, against Pharaoh, and all his house, in our sight.

<sup>23</sup> And he led us out thereof, that he should give to us led in, the land of which he swore to our fathers.

<sup>24</sup> And the Lord commanded to us, that we do all these lawful things, and dread our Lord God, that it be well to us, in all the days of our life, as it is today.

<sup>25</sup> And he shall be merciful to us, if we shall do and keep all his behests, before our Lord God, as he commanded to us.

CHAPTER 7

<sup>1</sup> When thy Lord God hath led thee into the land, into which thou shalt enter to wield, and hath done away many folks before thee, Hittites, and Girgashites, and Amorites, Canaanites, and Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites; seven folks, of much greater number than thou art, and stronger than thou;

<sup>2</sup> and when thy Lord God hath betaken them to thee, thou shalt smite them unto death, thou shalt not make with them a bond of peace, neither thou shalt have mercy upon them,

<sup>4</sup> for she shall deceive thy son, that he pursue [or follow] not me, that he serve more alien gods; and then the fierce vengeance of the Lord shall be wroth, and shall do away thee soon.

<sup>6</sup> For thou art an holy people to thy Lord God; thy Lord God chose thee, that thou be a special people to him, of all peoples that be on earth.

<sup>7</sup> Not for ye overcame in number all folks, the Lord is joined to you, and chose you, since ye be fewer than all peoples;

<sup>8</sup> but for the Lord loved you, and kept the oath which he swore to your fathers; and he led you out in [a] strong hand, and again-bought you from the house of servage, from the house of Pharaoh, king of Egypt.

<sup>9</sup> And thou shalt know, that thy Lord God himself is a strong God, and faithful, and keepeth covenant and mercy to them that love him, and to them that keep his commandments, into a thousand generations;

<sup>10</sup> and he yieldeth anon to them that hate him, so that he destroy them, and defer, or tarry, no longer; restoring, or yielding, anon to them that that they deserve.

<sup>12</sup> If after that thou hearest these dooms, thou keepest, and doest them, thy Lord God shall keep to thee covenant, and mercy, which he swore to thy fathers.

<sup>13</sup> And he shall love thee, and multiply thee, and he shall bless the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy land, thy wheat, and thy vintage, thine oil, and thy droves of beasts, and the flocks of thy sheep, on the land for which he swore to thy fathers, that he should give it to thee.

<sup>15</sup> The Lord shall do away from thee all ache; and he shall not bring to thee the full evil sicknesses of Egypt, that thou hast known, but to all thine enemies these sicknesses shall come.

<sup>18</sup> do not thou dread, but have thou mind, what things thy Lord God did to Pharaoh, and all the Egyptians;

<sup>19</sup> he did to them the greatest vengeance, which thine eyes saw, and miracles, and great wonders, and the strong hand, and an arm stretched out, that thy Lord God should lead thee out thence; so he shall do to all peoples which thou darest.

<sup>20</sup> Furthermore and thy Lord God shall send venomous flies into them, till he do away, and destroy all men, that fled thee, and they shall not be able to be hid.

<sup>25</sup> Thou shalt burn in fire their graven images; thou shalt not covet the silver and gold, of which those images be made, neither thou shalt take of those [or them] anything to thee, lest thou offend therefore, for it is the abom-ination of thy Lord God.

<sup>26</sup> Neither thou shalt bring anything of the idol into thine house, lest thou be made cursed, as also that idol is; thou shalt loathe it as filth, and thou shalt have it as defouling, and as filths of abomination, for it is cursed.

CHAPTER 8

<sup>1</sup> Be thou ware diligently, that thou do each commandment which I command to thee today, that ye may live, and be multiplied, and that ye enter, and wield the land, for which the Lord swore to your fathers.

<sup>2</sup> And thou shalt have mind of all the way, by which thy Lord God led thee by forty years, in desert, that he should torment thee, and should assay thee; and that those things that were treated in thy soul should be known, whether thou wouldest keep his commandments, either nay.

<sup>3</sup> And he tormented thee with neediness, and he gave to thee meat, manna to eat, which thou knewest not, and thy fathers knew not, that he should show to thee, that a man liveth not in bread alone, but in each word that cometh out of the Lord's mouth.

<sup>5</sup> that thou think in thine heart, for as a man teacheth his son, so thy Lord God hath taught thee,

<sup>7</sup> For thy Lord God shall lead thee into a good land, into the land of rivers, and of standing waters or ponds, and of wells, in whose fields and mountains the depths of floods break out;

<sup>8</sup> into the land of wheat, of barley, and of vines, in which land fig trees, and pomegranates, and olives come forth; into the land of oil, and honey;

<sup>9</sup> where thou shalt eat thy bread without neediness, and thou shalt use the plenty of all things; of which land the stones be iron, and metals of tin be digged of the hills thereof;

<sup>11</sup> Therefore keep thou, and beware, lest any time thou forget thy Lord God, and despise his commandments, and dooms, and ceremonies, which I command to thee today;

<sup>13</sup> and hast droves of oxen, and flocks of sheep, and plenty of silver, and of gold, and of all things,

<sup>14</sup> thine heart be then raised, and thou think not upon thy Lord God, that led thee out of the land of Egypt, and from the house of servage,

<sup>15</sup> and he was thy leader in the great wilderness and fearful, in which wilder-ness was a serpent burning with blast, and a scorpion, and dipsas, that is, an adder; that

maketh them whom he stingeth to die for thirst, and utterly no waters were in the desert, the which Lord brought out streams of the hardest stone,

<sup>16</sup> and he fed thee with manna in the wilderness, which manna thy fathers knew not. And after that the Lord had tormented thee, and proved thee, at the last he had mercy on thee,

<sup>17</sup> lest thou wouldest say in thine heart, My strength, and the might of mine hand, hath given all these things to me.

<sup>18</sup> But think thou upon thy Lord God, that he hath given strengths to thee, that he should fulfill his covenant, of which he swore to thy fathers, as this present day sheweth.

<sup>19</sup> Forsooth if thou forgettest thy Lord God, and pursuest [or followest] alien gods, and worshippest them in heart, and honourest [them]withoutforth, lo! now I before-say to thee, that thou shalt perish utterly;

<sup>20</sup> as [the] heathen men perished, which the Lord did away in thine entering, so also ye shall perish, if ye shall be unobedient to the voice of your Lord God.

CHAPTER 9

<sup>1</sup> Hear thou, Israel; thou shalt pass over Jordan today, that thou wield the most nations, and stronger than thou; great cities, and walled till to heaven;

<sup>2</sup> a great people, and high; the sons of Anakim, which thyself hast seen, and heard, which no man may against-stand in the contrary part.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore thou shalt know today that thy Lord God himself shall pass over before thee; he is a fire devour-ing and wasting, that shall all-break them, and he shall do them away, and destroy them before thy face swiftly, as he spake to thee.

<sup>4</sup> Say thou not in thine heart, when thy Lord God hath done them away in thy sight, For my rightwiseness the Lord hath brought me in hither, that I should wield the land; since these nations be done away for their wicked-nesses.

<sup>5</sup> For not for thy rightwiseness, and for the equity of thine heart thou shalt enter, that thou wield their land; but for they did wickedly, they were done away, when thou enteredest, and that the Lord should [ful] fill his word which he promised under an oath to thy fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

<sup>7</sup> Have thou mind, and forget not, how in the wilderness thou stirredest thy Lord God to great wrath; from that day in which thou wentest out of Egypt till to this place, thou hast striven ever[more] against the Lord.

<sup>8</sup> For why also in Horeb, thou stirredest him, and he was wroth, and would have done thee away,

<sup>9</sup> and when I went up into the hill, that I should take two tables of stone, the tables of covenant which the Lord made with you, and I abode in the hill forty days and forty nights, and I ate not bread, and I drank not water.

<sup>10</sup> And the Lord gave to me two tables of stone, ever either written with God's finger, and containing all the words which he spake to you in the hill, from the midst of the fire, when the company of people was gathered together.

<sup>11</sup> And when forty days and so many nights had passed, the Lord gave to me two tables of stone, tables of the bond of peace;

<sup>12</sup> and he said to me, Rise thou, and go down from hence soon, for thy people, that thou hast led out of Egypt, have forsaken swiftly the way that thou showedest to them, and they have made to them[selves] a molten calf.

<sup>13</sup> And again the Lord said to me, I see that this people is of an hard noll;

<sup>14</sup> suffer thou me, that I all-break him, and do away his name from under heaven; and I shall ordain thee on a folk which is greater and stronger than this folk.

<sup>15</sup> And when I came down from the hill burning, and I held with either hand the two tables of the bond of peace,

<sup>16</sup> and I saw, that ye had sinned to your Lord God, and had made to you a molten calf, and that ye had forsaken swiftly the way of God that he had showed to you,

<sup>17</sup> then I threw down the tables from mine hands, and I brake those tables in your sight.

<sup>18</sup> And I felled down before the Lord as before, in forty days and forty nights, and I ate not bread, and drank not water, for all your sins which ye did against the Lord, and stirred him to great wrath;

<sup>19</sup> for I dreaded the indignation and the wrath of the Lord, by which he was stirred against you, and would do you away. And the Lord heard me also in this time praying for you.

<sup>20</sup> Also the Lord was wroth greatly against Aaron, and would have all-broken him, and I prayed in like manner for him.

<sup>21</sup> Forsooth I took your sin which ye made, that is, the calf, and burnt it in fire, and I all-brake it into gobbets, and I made it utterly into dust, and I cast it forth into the strand [or stream], that came down from the hill.

<sup>23</sup> and when I sent you from Kadesh-barnea, and said, Go ye up, and wield ye the land which I have given to you, and ye despised the com-mandment of your Lord God, and ye believed not to him, neither ye would hear his voice;

<sup>25</sup> And I lay before the Lord forty days and forty nights, in which I besought him meekly, that he should not do away you, as he menaced [or threatened].

<sup>26</sup> And I prayed him, and said, Lord God, destroy not thy people, and thine heritage, which thou again-boughtest in thy greatness, which thou leddest out of Egypt in strong hand.

<sup>27</sup> Have thou mind of thy servants, of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; behold thou not the hardness of this people, and the wickedness, and the sin thereof,

<sup>28</sup> lest peradventure the dwellers of the land, out of which thou leddest us, say, The Lord might not bring them into the land which he promised to them, and he hated them; therefore he led them out that he should slay them in wilderness;

<sup>29</sup> and Lord, they be thy people, and thine heritage, which thou leddest out in thy great strength, and in thine arm stretched forth.

CHAPTER 10

<sup>1</sup> In that time the Lord said to me, Hew thou two tables of stone to thee, as the former were; and go thou up to me into the hill. And thou shalt make an ark, either a coffer, of wood,

<sup>2</sup> and I shall write in the tables, the words that were in these tables which thou brakest before; and thou shalt put those tables into the ark.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore I made an ark of the wood of shittim, and when I had hewn the two tables of stone, at the likeness of the former tables, I went up into the hill, and I had the tables in mine hands.

<sup>4</sup> And he wrote in the tables, by that that he had written before, the ten words, which the Lord spake to you in the hill, from the midst of the fire, when the people was gathered, and the Lord gave the tables to me.

<sup>5</sup> And I turned again from the hill, and came down, and I put the tables into the ark that I had made, which tables be there hitherto, as the Lord commanded to me.

<sup>6</sup> And the sons of Israel moved their tents from Beeroth of the sons of Jaakan into Mosera, where Aaron was dead, and buried, for whom his son Eleazar was set in priesthood.

<sup>7</sup> From thence they came into Gudgodah; from which place they went forth, and setted tents in Jot-bathah, in the land of waters and of strands [or streams].

<sup>8</sup> In that time I separated the lineage of Levi, that it should bear the ark of the bond of peace of the Lord, and it should stand before him in service, and should bless in his name, into this present day.

<sup>10</sup> And I stood in the hill as I did before, forty days and forty nights, and the Lord heard me also in this time, and he would not lose thee.

<sup>11</sup> And he said to me, Go thou, and go before this people, that it enter, and wield the land which I swore to their fathers, that I should give to them.

<sup>12</sup> And now, Israel, what asketh thy Lord God of thee, but that thou dread thy Lord, and go in his ways, and that thou love him, and serve thy Lord God in all thine heart, and in all thy soul;

<sup>13</sup> and that thou keep the command-ments of thy Lord God, and the ceremonies of him, which I command to thee today, that it be well to thee.

<sup>15</sup> and nevertheless the Lord was joined to thy fathers, and he loved them, and he chose their seed after them, and you of all folks, as it is proved today.

<sup>17</sup> For your Lord God himself is God of gods, and Lord of lords, a great God, and mighty, and fearful, which taketh not a person, neither gifts, but justly he deemeth rich and poor.

<sup>18</sup> He maketh doom to the father-less, and motherless, and to the widow; he loveth a pilgrim, and giveth to him lifelode and clothing.

CHAPTER 11

<sup>1</sup> Therefore love thy Lord God, and keep thou his commandments, and ceremonies, and dooms, and his behests, in all time.

<sup>4</sup> and to all the host of the Egyptians, and to their horses, and cars [or chariots]; how the waters of the Red Sea covered them, when they pursued you, and the Lord did away them till into present day;

<sup>6</sup> and to Dathan and Abiram, the sons of Eliab, that was the son of Reuben, which the earth swallowed, when his mouth was opened, with their households, and tabernacles, and all the chattel that they had, in the midst of Israel.

<sup>8</sup> that ye keep all his behests which I command today to you, and that ye may enter, and wield the land,

<sup>9</sup> to which ye shall enter, and ye live therein much time; which land, flowing with milk and honey, the Lord promised under an oath to your fathers and their seed.

<sup>10</sup> For the land, to which thou shalt enter to wield, is not as the land of Egypt, out of which thou wentest, where when the seed is sown in the manner of gardens, moist waters be led thereto;

<sup>13</sup> Therefore if ye shall obey to my behests which I command today to you, that ye love your Lord God, and serve him in all your heart, and in all your soul;

<sup>17</sup> and the Lord therefore be wroth, and close heaven, and rain come not down, neither the earth give his fruit, and ye perish swiftly from the full good land that the Lord shall give to you.

<sup>18</sup> Put ye these my words in your hearts and in your souls, and hang ye them up for a token, or a sign, in your hands, and set ye them betwixt your eyes.

<sup>19</sup> Teach ye your sons, that they think upon those words, when thou sittest in thine house, and goest in the way, and liest down, and risest up.

<sup>21</sup> that the days of thee and of thy sons be multiplied in the land which the Lord swore to thy fathers, that he should give to them, as long as heaven is above earth.

<sup>22</sup> For if ye keep the behests which I command to you, and do those [or them], that ye love your Lord God, and go in all his ways, and cleave to him,

<sup>25</sup> None shall stand against you; your Lord God shall give your outward dread and your inward dread upon each land that ye shall tread, as he spake to you.

<sup>28</sup> cursing, if ye hear not the behests of your Lord God, but go away from the way which I show now to you, and go after alien gods, which ye know not.

<sup>29</sup> Soothly when thy Lord God hath brought thee into the land, to which to inhabit thou goest, thou shalt set blessing upon the hill Gerizim, cursing upon the hill Ebal,

<sup>30</sup> which hills be beyond Jordan, after the way that goeth to the going down of the sun, in the land of Canaanites, that dwell in the field places against Gilgal, which is beside the valley going and entering far.

<sup>31</sup> For ye shall pass over Jordan, that ye wield the land which your Lord God shall give to you, and that ye have and wield that land.

CHAPTER 12

<sup>1</sup> These be the behests and dooms, which ye owe to do, in the land which the Lord God of thy fathers shall give to thee, that thou wield it, in all days in which thou shalt go upon [the] earth.

<sup>5</sup> but ye shall come to the place which your Lord God choose of all your lineages, that he put his name there, and dwell therein;

<sup>6</sup> and ye shall come thither, and offer in that place your burnt sacrifices, and slain sacrifices, the tithes, and first fruits of your hands, and avows [or vows], and gifts, and the first engendered things of your oxen, and of sheep.

<sup>7</sup> And ye and your houses shall eat there in the sight of your Lord God; and ye shall be glad in all things to which ye put the hand, in which your Lord God hath blessed you.

<sup>8</sup> Ye shall not do there those things which we do here today, each man that that seemeth rightful [or right] to himself.

<sup>9</sup> For unto the time that is now, ye came not to rest, and to [the] pos-session, which the Lord God shall give to you.

<sup>10</sup> Ye shall pass over Jordan, and ye shall dwell in the land which your Lord God shall give to you, that ye rest from all enemies about, and that ye dwell without any dread.

<sup>11</sup> In the place which your Lord God choose that his name be therein. Thither ye shall bear all things, which I command to you, burnt sacrifices, and sacrifices, and the tithes, and the first fruits of your hands, and whatever is the best thing in gifts, which ye avow to the Lord.

<sup>12</sup> There ye shall eat before your Lord God, ye, and your sons, and daughters, your menservants, and womenservants, and the deacons [or Levites], that dwell in your cities; for they have none other part and possession among you.

<sup>15</sup> For if thou wilt eat, and the eating of flesh delighteth thee, slay thou, and eat, by the blessing of thy Lord God, that he hath given to thee in thy cities, whether it is unclean, that is, spotted, either wemmed, and feeble, either clean, and without wem, that is, whole in each member, which is leaveful to be offered, thou shalt eat those, as a capret, and an hart;

<sup>17</sup> Thou shalt not be able to eat in thy cities the tithes of thy wheat, thy wine, and of thine oil, nor the first engendered things of thy droves, and of thy sheep, and all things which thou hast avowed, and wilt offer by free will, and the first fruits of thine hands;

<sup>18</sup> but thou shalt eat those things before thy Lord God, in the place which thy Lord God choose, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, thy manservant, and thy womanservant, and the deacon [or Levite] that dwelleth in thy cities; and thou shalt be glad, and thou shalt be fulfilled before thy Lord God in all things to which thou holdest forth thine hand.

<sup>19</sup> Be thou ware lest thou forsake the deacon [or the Levite] in all time, in which thou livest in earth.

<sup>21</sup> forsooth if the place is far, which thy Lord God choose, that his name be there, thou shalt slay of thine oxen, and sheep, which thou hast, as the Lord commanded to thee; and thou shalt eat in thy cities as it pleaseth thee.

<sup>22</sup> As a capret and an hart is eaten, so thou shalt eat those [or them]; both a clean man and an unclean shall eat thereof in common.

<sup>25</sup> that it be well to thee, and to thy sons after thee, when thou hast done that, that pleaseth in the sight of the Lord.

<sup>26</sup> Soothly thou shalt take that that thou hast avowed, and hallowed to the Lord, and thou shalt come to the place which the Lord choose;

<sup>27</sup> and thou shalt offer there thine offerings, and flesh, and blood, upon the altar of thy Lord God; thou shalt pour in the altar the blood of the sacrifices; but thou shalt eat the flesh.

<sup>28</sup> Keep thou and hear all things which I command to thee, that it be well to thee, and to thy sons after thee, without end, when thou hast done that, that is good and pleasing in the sight of thy Lord God.

<sup>29</sup> When thy Lord God hath destroyed before thy face [the] folks, to which thou shalt enter and wield, and when thou hast wielded those folks, and hast dwelled in their land, <sup>30</sup> be thou ware lest thou pursue [or follow] them, after that they be destroyed, when thou enterest, and thou seek their ceremonies, and say, As these folks worshipped their gods, so and I shall worship.

CHAPTER 13

<sup>2</sup> and this thing that he said befalleth, and he saith to thee, Go we, and pursue [or follow] we alien gods, which thou knowest not, and serve we them,

<sup>3</sup> thou shalt not hear the words of that prophet, either of that dreamer; for your Lord God assayeth you, that he know openly whether ye love him, either nay, in all your heart, and in all your soul.

<sup>5</sup> And that prophet, either feigner of dreams, shall be slain; for he spake that he should turn you away from your Lord God, that led you out of the land of Egypt, and again-bought you from the house of servage, that he make thee to err from the way that thy Lord God commanded to thee; and in killing of him thou shalt do away evil from the midst of thee.

<sup>6</sup> If thy brother, the son of thy mother, either thy son, either thy daughter, either the wife which is in thy bosom, either thy friend, whom thou lovest as thy soul, will counsel thee, and saith privily, Go we and serve alien gods, which thou knowest not, and thy fathers know not,

<sup>8</sup> assent thou not to him, neither hear thou him, neither thine eye spare him, that thou have mercy of him, and hide him,

<sup>10</sup> He shall be oppressed with stones, and shall be slain; for he would draw thee away from thy Lord God, that led thee out of the land of Egypt, from the house of servage,

<sup>13</sup> The sons of Belial went out from the midst of thee, and turned away the dwellers of the city, and said, Go we, and serve alien gods, which ye knew not,

<sup>14</sup> inquire thou busily, and when the truth of the thing is beholden diligently, if thou findest that this thing is certain, that is said, and that this abomination is done indeed,

<sup>15</sup> anon thou shalt smite the dwellers of that city with the sharpness of sword, and thou shalt destroy that city, and all things that be therein, unto the beasts.

<sup>16</sup> Also whatever thing of appurtenance of household is found there, thou shalt gather it together in [the] midst of the streets thereof, and thou shalt burn it with that city, so that thou waste all things before thy Lord God, and it be a burial everlasting; it shall no more be builded.

<sup>17</sup> And nothing of that cursing shall dwell in thine hand, that the Lord be turned away from the wrath of his strong vengeance, and have mercy upon thee, and multiply thee, as he swore to thy fathers.

<sup>18</sup> When thou hast heard the voice of thy Lord God, thou shalt keep all his behests which I command to thee today, that thou do that thing that is pleasing in the sight of thy Lord God.

CHAPTER 14

<sup>1</sup> Be ye the sons of your Lord God; ye shall not cut yourselves, neither ye shall make baldness, upon a dead man,

<sup>2</sup> for thou art an holy people to thy Lord God, and he chose thee that thou be to him into a special people, of all the folks that be upon earth.

<sup>7</sup> And ye shall not eat these beasts, of them that chew the cud, and part not the claw; a camel, an hare, and a coney; for these chew the cud, and part not the claw, they shall be unclean to you;

<sup>8</sup> also a swine, for it parteth the claw, and cheweth not the cud, shall be unclean; ye shall not eat the flesh of them, and ye shall not touch their dead bodies.

<sup>14</sup> and all thing of ravens' kind,

<sup>23</sup> and thou shalt eat in the sight of thy Lord God, in the place which he choose, that his name be called therein; thou shalt offer the tithe of thy wheat, of wine, and oil, and the first engendered things of thy droves, and of thy sheep, that thou learn to dread thy Lord God in all time.

<sup>24</sup> But when the way is longer, and the place that thy Lord God choose is far, and he hath blessed, or increased, thee, and thou mayest not bring all these things to that place,

<sup>25</sup> thou shalt sell all these things, and shalt turn them into price, and thou shalt bear them in thine hand, and thou shalt go to the place which thy Lord God choose;

<sup>26</sup> and thou shalt buy of the same money whatever thing pleaseth to thee, either of droves, either of sheep; also thou shalt buy wine, and cider, and all things that thy soul desireth; and thou shalt eat before thy Lord God, and thou shalt make feast, thou, and thine house,

<sup>27</sup> and the deacon [or Levite] that is within thy gates; be thou ware lest thou forsake him, for he hath not other part in thy possession.

<sup>28</sup> In the third year thou shalt separate another tithe of all things that grow to thee in that year, and thou shalt keep it within thy gates.

<sup>29</sup> And the deacon [or Levite] shall come, that hath none other part nor possession with thee, and the pilgrim, and the fatherless, either motherless child, and the widow, that be within thy gates, and they shall eat, and be fulfilled, that thy Lord God bless thee, in all the works of thine hands which thou shalt do.

<sup>2</sup> that shall be fulfilled by this order. To whom anything is owed, of his friend, either neighbour, and brother, he shall not be able to ask it, for it is the year of remission, or forgiveness, of the Lord.

<sup>3</sup> Thou shalt ask it of a pilgrim, that is, a stranger; or he that is not of the faith of Jews, and of a comeling; thou hast no power to ask it of a citizen and of a neighbour;

<sup>4</sup> and utterly a needy man and a beggar shall not be among you, that thy Lord God bless thee, in the land which he shall give to thee into possession.

<sup>5</sup> If nevertheless thou shalt hear the voice of thy Lord God, and shalt keep all things which he commanded, and which I command today to thee,

<sup>9</sup> Be thou ware lest peradventure [a] wicked thought creep privily to thee, and thou say in thine heart, The seventh year of remission, nigheth; and thou turn away thine eyes from thy poor brother, and thou wilt not give to him the loan that he asketh; lest he cry against thee to the Lord, and it be made to thee into sin.

<sup>10</sup> But thou shalt give to him, and thou shalt not do anything falsely in relieving his needs, that thy Lord God bless thee in all time, and in all things to which thou shalt put to thine hand.

<sup>11</sup> Poor men shall not fail in the land of thy dwelling; therefore I command to thee, that thou open thy hand to thy brother needy poor, that live with thee in the land.

<sup>13</sup> And thou shalt not suffer him go away from thee void, to whom thou hast given freedom;

<sup>14</sup> but thou shalt give him lifelode in the way, of thy flocks, and of thy cornfloor, and of thy presser [or wine press], in which thy Lord God hath blessed thee.

<sup>15</sup> Have thou mind that also thou servedest in the land of Egypt, and thy Lord God delivered thee, and therefore I command now to thee.

<sup>16</sup> But if he say, I will not go out, for he loveth thee, and thine house, and he feeleth that it is well to him with thee,

<sup>17</sup> thou shalt take an awl, and thou shalt pierce his ear in the door of thine house, and he shall serve thee till into the world; also thou shalt do in like manner to an handmaid.

<sup>18</sup> Thou shalt not turn away from them thine eyes, when thou shalt deliver them free, for by the hire of an hired man they served thee by six years; that thy Lord God bless thee, in all the works which thou doest.

<sup>19</sup> Of the first engendered things that be born in thy droves, and in thy sheep, whatever is of male kind, thou shalt hallow to thy Lord God. Thou shalt not work with the first engend-ered thing of oxen, and thou shalt not shear the first engendered things of sheep.

<sup>20</sup> Thou shalt eat those [or them] by all years in the sight of thy Lord God, thou, and thine house, in the place which the Lord choose.

<sup>21</sup> And if it have a wem, either is crooked, either blind, either is foul, either feeble in any part, it shall not be offered to thy Lord God;

<sup>22</sup> but thou shalt eat it within the gates of thy city, both a clean man and an unclean shall eat of those [or them] in like manner, as of a capret, and of an hart.

<sup>23</sup> Only thou shalt keep this, that thou eat not the blood of those [or them], but shed [or pour] it out as water into the earth.

CHAPTER 16

<sup>1</sup> Keep thou the month of new fruits, and of the beginning of summer, that thou make pask to thy Lord God; for in this month thy Lord God led thee out of Egypt in the night.

<sup>2</sup> And thou shalt offer pask to thy Lord God, of sheep, and of oxen, in the place which thy Lord God choose, that his name dwell there.

<sup>3</sup> Thou shalt not eat therein bread dighted with sourdough; in seven days thou shalt eat bread of affliction, with-out sourdough, for suddenly, either hastily, thou wentest out of Egypt, that thou have mind of the day of thy going out of Egypt, in all the days of thy life.

<sup>6</sup> but in the place which thy Lord God choose, that his name dwell there; thou shalt offer pask in the eventide, at the going down of the sun, when thou wentest out of Egypt.

<sup>10</sup> and thou shalt hallow the feast days of weeks to thy Lord God, a willful offering of thine hand, which thou shalt offer by the blessing of thy Lord God.

<sup>11</sup> And thou shalt eat before thy Lord God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy servant, and thine handmaid, and the deacon or Levite that is within thy gates, and the comeling, and the fatherless, either motherless child, and the widow, that dwell with you, in the place which thy Lord God choose, that his name dwell there.

<sup>12</sup> And thou shalt have mind for thou were servant in Egypt, and thou shalt keep and do those things that be commanded.

<sup>13</sup> And thou shalt hallow the solemnity of tabernacles by seven days, when thou hast gathered thy fruits of thy cornfloor, and of the presser [or wine press].

<sup>14</sup> And thou shalt eat in thy feast, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy manservant, and thine hand-maid, also the deacon [or Levite], and the comeling, and the fatherless, either motherless child, and the widow, that be within thy gates.

<sup>15</sup> By seven days thou shalt hallow feasts to thy Lord God, in the place which the Lord choose; and thy Lord God shall bless thee, in all thy fruits, and in all the work of thine hands, and thou shalt be in gladness.

<sup>16</sup> In three times by the year all thy male kind shall appear in the sight of thy Lord, in the place which he choose, in the solemnity of therf loaves, and in the solemnity of weeks, and in the solemnity of tabernacles. A man shall not appear void before the Lord;

<sup>17</sup> but each man shall offer after that that he hath, by the blessing of his Lord God, that he gave to him.

<sup>19</sup> and bow they not into the other part for favour; either gift. Thou shalt not take a person, neither gifts, for why gifts blind the eyes of wise men, and change the words of just [or rightwise] men.

CHAPTER 17

<sup>3</sup> that they go and serve alien gods, and worship them, the sun, and the moon, and all the knighthood of heaven, which things I commanded not;

<sup>4</sup> and this is told to thee, and thou hearest it, and inquirest diligently, and thou findest that it is sooth, and that abomination is done in Israel;

<sup>5</sup> thou shalt lead out the man and the woman, that did that most cursed thing, to the gates of thy city, and they shall be oppressed with stones.

<sup>6</sup> He that shall be slain, shall perish in the mouth of twain [or two], either of three witnesses; no man be slain, for one man saith witnessing against him.

<sup>7</sup> The hand of the witnesses shall first slay him, and at the last the hand of the other people shall be put to, for to throw him down with stones, that thou do away evil from the midst of thee.

<sup>8</sup> If thou perceivest, that hard and doubtful doom is with thee, betwixt blood and blood, cause and cause, leprosy and not leprosy, and thou seest that the words of [the] judges within thy gates be diverse in their deeming; rise thou, and go up to the place that thy Lord God hath chosen;

<sup>9</sup> and thou shalt come to the priests of the kin of Levi, and to the judge that is in that time, and thou shalt ask of them, which shall show to thee the truth of [the] doom.

<sup>10</sup> And thou shalt do, whatever thing they say, that be sovereigns in the place which the Lord choose, and teach thee by the law of the Lord;

<sup>12</sup> For that man shall die, that is proud, and will not obey to the behest of the priest, that ministereth in that time to thy Lord God, and to the sentence of the judge, and thou shalt do away evil from the midst of Israel;

<sup>14</sup> When thou hast entered into the land, which thy Lord God shall give to thee, and wielded it, and dwellest therein, and sayest, I shall ordain a king on me, as all nations by compass have;

<sup>16</sup> And when the king is ordained, he shall not multiply horses to him, neither he shall lead again the people into Egypt, neither he shall be raised into pride, or tyranny, by the number of knights, mostly since the Lord commanded to you, that ye turn no more again by the same way.

<sup>17</sup> The king shall not have many wives, that draw his mind to lusts, neither he shall have great weights of silver and of gold.

<sup>18</sup> Forsooth after that he hath set in the throne of his realm, he shall write to himself, that is, shall make to be written, the deuteronomy, that is, declaration, of this law in a book, and he shall take exemplar of priests of the kin of Levi;

<sup>19</sup> and he shall have it with him, and he shall read it in all the days of his life, that he learn to dread his Lord God, and to keep his words and his ceremonies, that be commanded in the law;

CHAPTER 18

<sup>1</sup> Priests and deacons [or Levites], and all men that be of the same lineage, shall have no part and heritage with the tother people of Israel, for they shall eat the sacrifices of the Lord, and the offerings of him;

<sup>3</sup> This shall be the doom of priests, that is, the thing justly given, either granted, of the people, and of them that offer sacrifices; whether they offer an ox, either a sheep, they shall give to the priest the shoulder, and the paunch,

<sup>4</sup> the first fruits of wheat, and of wine, and of oil, and a part of wools of the shearing of sheep.

<sup>5</sup> For thy Lord God hath chosen him of all thy lineages, that he stand and minister to the name of the Lord, he and his sons, without end.

<sup>6</sup> If a deacon [or Levite] goeth out of one of thy cities of all Israel, in which he dwelleth, and will come and desireth the place which the Lord choose,

<sup>8</sup> He shall take the same part of meats, that also other deacons shall take; besides that that is due to him in his city, by succession, either heritage, of father.

<sup>9</sup> When thou hast entered into the land which thy Lord God shall give to thee, be thou ware lest thou wilt pursue [or follow] the abominations of those folks;

<sup>10</sup> none be found in thee that cleanseth his son, either his daughter, and leadeth by the fire, either that asketh questions of diviners that divine about the altars, and that taketh heed to dreams, and chattering of birds; neither any witch be,

<sup>11</sup> neither any enchanter or tregetour, that is, he who deceiveth men's eyes so that a thing seem that which it is not; neither a man take counsel of them that have a fiend speaking within them, neither of false diviners, neither seek of dead men the truth.

<sup>16</sup> as thou askedest of thy Lord God in Horeb, when the company was gathered together, and thou saidest, I shall no more hear the voice of my Lord God, and I shall no more see this greatest fire, lest I die.

<sup>17</sup> And the Lord said to me, They have spoken well all things.

<sup>18</sup> I shall raise to them a prophet, like thee, of the midst of their brethren, and I shall put my words in his mouth, and he shall speak to them all things, which I shall command to him.

<sup>19</sup> And I shall be avenger of him, that will not hear his words, which he shall speak in my name.

<sup>20</sup> Soothly a prophet shall be slain, which is depraved with pride, and will speak in my name those things, which I commanded not to him, that he should say, either by the name of alien gods.

<sup>21</sup> That if thou answerest by privy thought, How may I understand the word, which the Lord spake not?

<sup>22</sup> thou shalt have this sign, or token, if that that that prophet saith before in the name of the Lord, cometh not, the Lord spake it not, but he feigned it through pride of his soul, and there-fore thou shalt not dread him.

CHAPTER 19

<sup>3</sup> Thou shalt make ready diligently the way, and thou shalt part evenly into three parts all the provinces of thy land, that he that is exiled for manslaying, have nigh hand whither he may escape.

<sup>4</sup> This shall be the law of a man-slayer fleeing, whose life shall be kept. If a man smiteth unwittingly his neighbour, and which is proved to have not had any hatred against him yesterday, and the third day ago,

<sup>5</sup> but to have gone simply with him into the wood to hew down trees, and in the felling down of trees the ax flieth from his hand, and the iron slideth from the helve, and smiteth, and slayeth his friend; this man shall flee to one of the foresaid cities, and shall live;

<sup>6</sup> lest peradventure the next kinsman of him, whose blood is shed out, be pricked with sorrow, and pursue, and take him, if the way is longer, and slay his life, that is not guilty of death; for it is showed that he had not any hatred before against him that is slain.

<sup>8</sup> Forsooth when thy Lord God hath alarged thy terms, as he swore to thy fathers, and hath given to thee all the land which he promised to them;

<sup>9</sup> if nevertheless thou keepest his commandments, and doest those things which I command to thee today, that thou love thy Lord God, and go in his ways in all time, thou shalt add to thee three other cities, and thou shalt double the number of the foresaid cities,

<sup>10</sup> that guiltless blood be not shed out in the midst of the land which thy Lord God shall give to thee to have in possession, lest thou be guilty of blood.

<sup>11</sup> Forsooth if any man hateth his neighbour, and setteth ambushes to his life, and riseth up against him privily, and smiteth him, and he is dead, and the manslayer fleeth to one of the foresaid cities,

<sup>12</sup> the elder men of that city shall send, and take him from the place of refuge; and they shall betake him into the hand of the next kinsman of him, whose blood is shed out, and he shall die,

<sup>13</sup> and thou shalt not have mercy upon him; and thou shalt do away guilty blood from Israel, that it be well to thee.

<sup>14</sup> Thou shalt not take, and turn over, the terms of thy neighbour, which the former men set in thy possession, which thy Lord God shall give to thee in the land, which land thou shalt take to be wielded.

<sup>19</sup> they shall yield to him, as he thought to have done to his brother; and thou shalt do away evil from the midst of thee,

<sup>20</sup> that other men hear, and have dread, and be no more hardy to do such things. Thou shalt not have mercy on him, <sup>21</sup> but thou shalt ask life for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

CHAPTER 20

<sup>1</sup> If thou goest out to battle against thine enemies, and thou seest a multitude of knights, and of chariots, and a greater multitude of the adversary's host than thou hast, thou shalt not dread them; for thy Lord God is with thee, that led thee out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>4</sup> for your Lord God is in the midst of you, and he shall fight for you against your adversaries, that he deliver you from peril.

<sup>5</sup> But the leaders shall cry by all the companies, while the host shall hear, Who is the man that hath builded a new house, and hath hallowed not it? go he and turn again into his house, lest peradventure he die in battle, and another man hallow it.

<sup>6</sup> Who is the man that planted a vinery [or vine], and hath not yet made it to be common, and of which it is leaveful to all men to eat? go he, and turn again into his house, lest peradventure he die in battle, and another man be set in his office.

<sup>7</sup> Who is the man that hath espoused a wife, and hath not taken her by fleshly knowing? go he, and turn again into his house, lest peradventure he die in battle, and another man take her.

<sup>8</sup> When these things be said, the leaders of the host shall add to other things, and they shall speak to the people, and say, Who is a fearful man, and of dreadful heart? go he, and turn again into his house, lest he make his brethren's hearts to dread, as he is aghast by dread.

<sup>9</sup> And when the dukes of the host be still, and have made end of speaking, each chieftain of thy host shall make ready his companies to battle.

<sup>11</sup> If the city receiveth thy peace, and openeth to thee the gates, all the people that is therein shall be saved, and it shall serve thee under tribute.

<sup>13</sup> And when thy Lord God hath betaken it in thine hands, thou shalt smite by the sharpness of sword all thing of male kind that is therein,

<sup>14</sup> without women, and young chil-dren, beasts, and other things that be in the city. Thou shalt part all the prey to the host, and thou shalt eat of the spoils of thine enemies, which spoils thy Lord God hath given to thee.

<sup>16</sup> But of these cities that shall be given to thee, thou shalt not suffer any to live, but thou shalt slay by the sharpness of sword;

<sup>17</sup> that is to say, Hittites, and Amorites, and Canaanites, and Perizzites, and Hivites, and Jebusites, as thy Lord God hath commanded to thee;

<sup>18</sup> lest peradventure they teach you to do all the abominations, which they have wrought to their gods, and ye do sin against your Lord God.

<sup>19</sup> When thou hast besieged a city by long time, and thou hast compassed it with strongholds that thou overcome it, thou shalt not cut down the trees, of which men may eat/of which fruit may be eaten, neither thou shalt waste the country about with axes; for it is a tree, and not a man, neither it may increase the number of fighters against thee.

<sup>20</sup> And if any of them be not apple trees, but be wild, and able into other uses, cut them down, and make of them engines, till thou take the city that fighteth against thee.

CHAPTER 21

<sup>3</sup> and which city they see to be nearer that carrion, than another, the elder men of that city shall take of [the] drove a cow calf, that hath not drawn yoke, neither hath cut the earth with a ploughshare;

<sup>4</sup> and they shall lead that cow calf to a sharp stony valley, that was never eared, nor received seed; and in that valley they shall cut the head off the cow calf.

<sup>5</sup> And the priests, the sons of Levi, shall nigh, which thy Lord God chose, that they minister to him, and bless in his name, and all the cause shall hang at their word; and whatever thing is clean either unclean, be it deemed by them.

<sup>6</sup> And the greater men in birth of that city shall come to the slain man, and they shall wash their hands on the cow calf, that was slain in the valley;

<sup>8</sup> Lord, be merciful to thy people Israel, whom thou hast again-bought, and areckon thou not innocent blood in the midst of thy people Israel. And the guilt of blood shall be done away from them.

<sup>9</sup> Forsooth thou shalt be alien, or unguilty, from the blood of the innocent which is shed, when thou hast done that that the Lord commanded.

<sup>15</sup> If a man hath two wives, one loved, and another hateful, and he begetteth of her free children, and the son of the odious wife is the first begotten,

<sup>16</sup> and the father will part his chattel [or substance] betwixt his sons, he shall not be able to make the son of the loved wife his first begotten son, and set [or put] him before the son of the hateful wife,

<sup>17</sup> but he shall know the son of the hateful wife to be his first begotten son, and he shall give to that son all things double of those things that he hath; for this son is the beginning of his free children, and the first engendered things be due to him.

<sup>18</sup> If a man beget a son rebel, and a froward, that heareth not the behest of his father and mother, and he is chastised, and despiseth to obey to them,

<sup>19</sup> they shall take him, and lead him to the elder men of that city, and to the gate of doom;

<sup>20</sup> and they shall say to them, This our son is overthwart, and rebel; he despiseth to hear our behests, or admonishings, he giveth attention to gluttonies, and to lechery, and to feasts.

<sup>21</sup> The people of the city shall oppress him with stones, and he shall die, that ye do away evil from the midst of you, and that all Israel hear it, and dread.

<sup>22</sup> When a man doeth a sin which is worthy to be punished by death, and he is deemed to death, and is hanged in a gibbet,

<sup>23</sup> his carrion shall not dwell in the tree, but it shall be buried in the same day; for he that hangeth in the tree or in the cross is cursed of God, and thou shalt not defoul thy land which thy Lord God gave thee into possession.

CHAPTER 22

<sup>2</sup> And if thy brother is not nigh, neither thou knowest him, thou shalt lead those beasts into thine house, and those [or they] shall be with thee, as long as thy brother seeketh them, and till he receive them.

<sup>4</sup> If thou seest that the ass, either the ox, of thy brother hath fallen in the way, thou shalt not despise, but thou shalt raise with him.

<sup>6</sup> If thou goest in the way, and findest a bird's nest in a tree, either in the earth, and findest the mother sitting on the birds, either [the] eggs, thou shalt not hold the mother with the children,

<sup>7</sup> but thou shalt suffer the mother[to] go, and shalt hold the sons taken, that it be well to thee, and that thou live in long time.

<sup>8</sup> When thou buildest a new house, thou shalt make a wall of the roof by compass, lest blood be shed out in thine house, and thou be guilty, if another man slideth, and falleth into a ditch.

<sup>9</sup> Thou shalt not sow thy vinery [or vineyard] with another seed, lest both the seed which thou hast sown, and those things that come forth of the vinery [or vineyard], that is, the fruit of the vinery, be defouled* together.

<sup>14</sup> and seeketh occasions by which he may leave her, and he putteth against her the worst name, and saith, I have taken this wife, and I have entered to her, and I found not her a virgin;

<sup>19</sup> and furthermore they shall con-demn him in an hundred shekels of silver, which he shall give to the father of the damsel, for he defamed her by the worst name that may be upon a virgin of Israel; and he shall have her to wife, and he shall not be able to forsake her, in all his lifetime.

<sup>21</sup> they shall cast her out of her father's gates; and men of that city shall oppress her with stones, and she shall die, for she did [an] unleaveful thing in Israel, that she did lechery in her father's house; and so thou shalt do away evil from the midst of thee.

<sup>24</sup> thou shalt lead ever either to the gate of that city, and they shall be killed with stones; the damsel shall be stoned, for she cried not, when she was in the city; the man shall be stoned, for he defouled his neighbour's wife; and thus thou shalt do away evil from the midst of thee.

<sup>27</sup> she was alone in the field, she cried, and none was present, that should deliver her.

<sup>28</sup> If a man findeth a damsel virgin [or a woman maiden], that hath no spouse, and taketh, and doeth lechery with her, and the thing cometh to the doom,

<sup>29</sup> he that slept with her shall give to the father of the damsel fifty shekels of silver, and he shall have her to wife, for he made her low; he shall not be able to forsake her, in all the days of his life.

* CHAPTER 22:9 The Hebrew word here signifieth both 'defouling' and 'hallowing'.

CHAPTER 23

<sup>1</sup> A gelding when his stones be broken, either cut away, and his rod cut off, he shall not enter into the church of the Lord.

<sup>4</sup> for they would not come to you with bread and water in the way, when ye went out of Egypt; and for they hired against thee Balaam, the son of Beor, of Mesopotamia of Syria, that he should curse thee;

<sup>5</sup> and thy Lord God would not hear Balaam, and God turned his curse into thy blessing, for he loved thee.

<sup>7</sup> Thou shalt not loathe a man of Idumea, for he is thy brother, neither of a man of Egypt, for thou were a comeling in the land of him.

<sup>8</sup> They that be born of them, shall enter in the third generation into the church of the Lord.

<sup>10</sup> If a man is among you, that is defouled in his night sleep, he shall go out of your tents; and he shall not turn again

<sup>14</sup> For thy Lord God goeth in midst of the tents, that he deliver thee, and betake thine enemies to thee, that thy tents be holy, and nothing of filth appear in them, lest for uncleanness he forsake thee.

<sup>16</sup> he shall dwell with thee in the place that pleaseth him, and he shall abide in one of thy cities; and make thou not him sorry, or heavy.

<sup>20</sup> but to an alien. For thou shalt lend to thy brother without usury that that he needeth, that thy Lord God bless thee in all thy work in the land to which thou shalt enter to wield.

<sup>21</sup> When thou makest a vow to thy Lord God, thou shalt not tarry to yield it, for thy Lord God shall ask that of thee; and if thou tarriest, it shall be reckoned to thee into sin.

<sup>23</sup> Forsooth thou shalt keep, and do that that went out once of thy lips, as thou promisedest to thy Lord God, and hast spoken with thine own will and thy mouth.

CHAPTER 24

<sup>3</sup> and he also hateth her, and giveth to her a little book of forsaking, and delivereth her from his house, either certainly he is dead,

<sup>4</sup> the former husband shall not be able to receive her again into wife, for she is defouled, and made abominable before the Lord; lest thou make thy land to do sin, which thy Lord God hath given thee to wield.

<sup>7</sup> If a man is taken, that is, convicted in doom, busily ambushing to steal his brother of the sons of Israel, and when he hath sold him, taketh price, he shall be slain; and thus thou shalt do away evil from the midst of thee.

<sup>8</sup> Keep thou diligently, lest thou run into the sickness of leprosy, but thou shalt do whatever things that the priests of the kin of Levi teach thee, by that that I commanded to them, and fulfill thou it diligently.

<sup>9</sup> Have ye mind what things your Lord God did to Marie, in the way, when ye went out of Egypt.

<sup>10</sup> When thou shalt ask of thy neighbour anything that he oweth to thee, thou shalt not enter into his house, that thou take away from him a wed;

<sup>13</sup> but anon thou shalt yield his wed to him before the going down of the sun, that he sleep in his cloth, and bless thee, and thou have rightwise-ness before thy Lord God.

<sup>15</sup> but in the same day thou shalt yield to him the price of his travail, before the going down of the sun, for he is poor, and sustaineth thereof his life; lest he cry against thee to the Lord, and it be reckoned to thee into sin.

<sup>16</sup> The fathers shall not be slain for the sons, neither the sons for the fathers, but each man shall die for his own sin.

<sup>18</sup> Have thou mind, that thou servedest in Egypt, and thy Lord God delivered thee from thence; therefore I command to thee that thou do this thing.

<sup>19</sup> When thou reapest corn in thy field, and forgettest, and leavest a reap, thou shalt not turn again to take it, but thou shalt suffer that a comeling, and a fatherless, either motherless child, and a widow take it away, that thy Lord God bless thee in all the work of thine hands.

<sup>22</sup> Have thou mind, that also thou servedest in Egypt, and therefore I command to thee, that thou do this thing.

CHAPTER 25

<sup>1</sup> If a cause is betwixt any men, and they ask judges, they shall give the victory of rightwiseness to him, whom they perceive to be just [or rightwise], and they shall condemn him of wicked-ness, whom they perceive to be wicked.

<sup>2</sup> And if they see him that hath sinned, worthy of beatings, they shall cast him down, and they shall make him to be beaten before them; and the manner of the beatings shall be for the measure of the sin,

<sup>7</sup> And if he will not take the wife of his brother, which is due to him by law, the woman shall go to the gate of the city; and she shall ask the greater men in birth, and she shall say to them, My husband's brother will not raise the seed of his brother in Israel, neither he will take me into marriage.

<sup>8</sup> And anon they shall make him to be called, and they shall ask him. If he answer, and say, I will not take her to wife;

<sup>9</sup> the woman shall go to him before the elder men of Israel, and she shall take his shoe off from his foot, and she shall spit into his face, and she shall say to them, Thus it shall be done to the man, that buildeth not his brother's house;

<sup>11</sup> If two men have strife betwixt themselves, and one beginneth to strive against another, and the wife of the one man will deliver her husband from the hand of the stronger man, and she putteth forth her hand, and holdeth him by his privy members,

<sup>15</sup> Thou shalt have a just weight and true, and an even bushel and true shall be to thee, that thou live in much time on the land which thy Lord God shall give to thee.

<sup>18</sup> how he came to thee, and killed the last men of thine host, that sat behind weary, when thou were dis-eased with hunger and travail, and he dreaded not God.

<sup>19</sup> Therefore when thy Lord God hath given rest to thee, and hath made subject to thee all nations about, in the land that he promised to thee, thou shalt do away Amalek's name from under heaven; be thou ware lest thou forget this.

CHAPTER 26

<sup>2</sup> thou shalt take the first fruits of all thy fruits, and thou shalt put them in a basket; and thou shalt go to the place which thy Lord God choose, that his name be inwardly called there.

<sup>3</sup> And thou shalt go to the priest, that shall be in those days, and thou shalt say to him, I acknowledge today before thy Lord God, that I have entered into the land, which he swore to our fathers, that he should give it to us.

<sup>4</sup> And the priest shall take the basket of thine hand, and he shall set [or put] it before the altar of thy Lord God.

<sup>5</sup> And thou shalt say in the sight of thy Lord God, Syrian pursued my father, that went down into Egypt, and was a pilgrim there in fewest number; and he increased into a great folk, and strong, and of multitude without number.

<sup>7</sup> And we cried to the Lord God of our fathers, which heard us, and he beheld our meekness, and our travail, and our anguish;

<sup>8</sup> and he led us out of Egypt in a mighty hand, and in an arm stretched out, in great dread, and in miracles, and in great wonders,

<sup>10</sup> And therefore I offer now to thee the first fruits of the fruits of the land which, the Lord, gave to me. And thou shalt leave them in the sight of thy Lord God. And when thy Lord God is worshipped, <sup>11</sup> thou shalt eat in all the goods which thy Lord God gave to thee, and to thine house, thou, and the deacon [or Levite], and the comeling that is with thee.

<sup>12</sup> When thou hast fulfilled the tithe of all thy fruits, in the third year of thy tithes, thou shalt give to the deacon [or Levite], and to the comeling, and to the fatherless, either the motherless child, and to the widow, that they eat within thy gates, and be full-filled.

<sup>13</sup> And thou shalt speak in the sight of thy Lord God, and say, I have taken away that that is hallowed of mine house, and I gave it to the deacon [or Levite], and to the comeling, and to the fatherless, either motherless child, and to the widow, as thou command-est to me; I passed not by thy commandments, I forgot not thy behest or thy bidding.

<sup>14</sup> I ate not of those things in my mourning, neither I separated them in any uncleanness, neither I spend of those [or them] anything in burying of a dead body. I obeyed to the voice of my Lord God, and I did all things as thou commandedest to me.

<sup>15</sup> Behold thou from thy saintuary, from the high dwelling place of heaven, and bless thou thy people Israel, and the land which thou hast given to us, as thou hast sworn to our fathers, the land flowing with milk and honey.

<sup>16</sup> Today Israel, thy Lord God commanded to thee, that thou do these behests and dooms, that thou keep and fulfill them of all thine heart, and of all thy soul.

<sup>17</sup> Thou hast chosen the Lord today, that he be God to thee, and that thou go in his ways, and that thou keep his ceremonies, and his behests, and his dooms, and obey to his commandment or his bidding.

<sup>18</sup> Lo! the Lord hath chosen thee today, that thou be a special people to him, as he hath spoken to thee, and that thou keep all his commandments;

<sup>19</sup> and he shall make thee higher than all folks, which he made into his praising, and name, and glory; that thou be an holy people to thy Lord God, as he hath spoken to thee.

CHAPTER 27

<sup>1</sup> And Moses commanded, and the elder men, to the people of Israel, and said, Keep ye each commandment which I command to you today.

<sup>2</sup> And when ye have passed over Jordan, into the land which thy Lord God shall give to thee, thou shalt raise great stones, and thou shalt make them plane with chalk,

<sup>3</sup> that thou may write in them all the words of this law, when Jordan is passed over, that thou enter into the land which thy Lord God shall give to thee, the land flowing with milk and honey, as he promised to thy fathers.

<sup>9</sup> And Moses and the priests of the kindred of Levi said to all Israel, Israel, take heed thou, and hear; today thou art made the people of thy Lord God;

<sup>12</sup> These men shall stand upon the hill of Gerizim to bless the Lord, when Jordan they have over-passed; Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Joseph, and Benjamin.

<sup>15</sup> Cursed is the man that maketh a graven image and molten, abomination of the Lord, the work of the hands of craftsmen, and shall set it in a privy place; and all the people shall answer, and say, Amen!

<sup>16</sup> He is cursed that honoureth not, or despiseth, his father and mother; and all the people shall say, Amen!

<sup>26</sup> Cursed is he that abideth not in the words of this law, neither fulfilleth them in work; and all the people shall say, Amen!

CHAPTER 28

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth if thou hearest the voice of thy Lord God, that thou do and keep all his commandments, which I command to thee today, thy Lord God shall make thee higher than all folks that live in earth.

<sup>4</sup> blessed shall be the fruit of thy womb, and the fruit of thy land, and the fruit of thy beasts, the flocks of thy great beasts, and the folds of thy sheep;

<sup>8</sup> The Lord shall send out blessings upon thy cellars, and upon all the works of thine hands; and he shall bless thee in the land which thou hast taken.

<sup>9</sup> The Lord shall raise thee to him-self into an holy people, as he swore to thee, if thou keepest the behests of thy Lord God, and goest in his ways.

<sup>10</sup> And all the peoples of other lands shall see, that the name of the Lord is inwardly called upon thee, and they shall dread thee.

<sup>11</sup> The Lord shall make thee to be plenteous in all goods, in the fruit of thy womb, and in the fruit of thy beasts, in the fruit of thy land, which the Lord swore to thy fathers, that he would give to thee.

<sup>12</sup> The Lord shall open his best treasure, heaven, that he give rain to thy land in his time; and he shall bless all the works of thine hands; and thou shalt lend to many folks, and of no man thou shalt take borrowing.

<sup>13</sup> The Lord God shall set thee into the head, and not into the tail, and ever[more] thou shalt be above, and not beneath; if nevertheless thou hearest the commandments of thy Lord God, which I command to thee today, and keepest, and doest them,

<sup>15</sup> That if thou wilt not hear the voice of thy Lord God, that thou keep and do all his behests, and ceremonies, which I command to thee today, all these cursings shall come upon thee, and shall take thee.

<sup>26</sup> and thy dead body be it into meat to all birds of heaven, and to beasts of the earth, and none be that may drive them away.

<sup>27</sup> The Lord smite thee with the botch of Egypt, and the Lord smite the part of body whereby ordures, or turds, be voided out; also the Lord smite thee with scab, and itching, so that thou mayest not be cured.

<sup>29</sup> and grope thou in midday, as a blind man is wont to grope in dark-nesses; and dress he not thy ways; in all time suffer thou false challenge, and be thou oppressed by violence, neither have thou any that shall deliver thee.

<sup>35</sup> The Lord smite thee with the worst botch in the knees, and in the hinder parts of the leg; and thou may not be healed from the sole of thy foot till to thy top or unto the noll.

<sup>36</sup> And the Lord shall lead thee, and thy king, whom thou shalt ordain on thee, into a folk which thou knowest not, thou, and thy fathers; and thou shalt serve there to alien gods, to tree, and to stone.

<sup>43</sup> A comeling, that dwelleth with thee in the land, shall go up upon thee, and he shall be the higher; forsooth thou shalt go down, and shalt be the lower.

<sup>44</sup> He shall lend to thee, and thou shalt not lend to him; he shall be into the head, and thou shalt be into the tail.

<sup>45</sup> And all these cursings shall come upon thee, and shall pursue thee, and take thee, till thou perish; for thou heardest not the voice of thy Lord God, neither kepest his commandments and ceremonies, which he commanded to thee.

<sup>48</sup> Thou shalt serve thine enemy, whom God shall send to thee, in hunger, and thirst, and in nakedness, and in poverty of all things; and he shall put an iron yoke on thy noll, till he all-break thee.

<sup>51</sup> And it shall devour the fruit of thy beasts, and the fruits of thy land, till thou perishest, and this folk shall not leave to thee wheat, wine, and oil, nor droves of oxen, and flocks of sheep, till he lose thee,

<sup>52</sup> and all-break [thee] in all thy cities, and till thy firm and high walls be destroyed, in which thou haddest trust in all thy land. Thou shalt be besieged within thy gates in all thy land, which thy Lord God shall give to thee.

<sup>53</sup> And thou shalt eat the fruit of thy womb, and the flesh of thy sons, and of thy daughters, which thy Lord God shall give to thee, in the anguish, and in the destroying, by which thine enemies shall oppress thee.

<sup>55</sup> lest he give to them of the flesh of his sons which he shall eat; for he hath none other thing in [the] besieging, and poverty, by which thine enemies shall waste thee within all thy gates.

<sup>56</sup> A tender woman and delicate, that might not go upon the earth, neither set a step of [the] foot, for her most softness and tenderness, shall have envy to her husband that lieth in her bosom, on the flesh of her son, and daughter,

<sup>57</sup> and on the filth of [the] skins, wherein the child is wrapped in the mother's womb, that go out of the midst of her hip bones, or loins, and on [the] free children that be born in the same hour. They shall eat those children privily, for the scarcity of all things in besieging and destroying, by which thine enemy shall oppress thee within thy gates.

<sup>58</sup> No but thou shalt keep and do all the words of this law, that be written in this volume, either book, and shalt dread his glorious name and fearful, that is, thy Lord God,

<sup>60</sup> And he shall turn into thee all the torments of Egypt, which thou dread-est, and those [or they] shall cleave to thee.

<sup>61</sup> Furthermore the Lord shall bring upon thee also all the sorrows and wounds, that be not written in the book of this law, till he all-break thee.

<sup>62</sup> And ye shall dwell few in number, that were before as the stars of heaven for multitude, for thou heardest not the voice of thy Lord God.

<sup>63</sup> And as the Lord was glad before upon you, and did well to you, and multiplied you; so he shall be glad to lose [or scatter] you, and to destroy you, that ye be taken away from the land, to which thou shalt enter to wield.

<sup>64</sup> The Lord shall scatter thee into all peoples, from [the] highness of the earth unto the coasts thereof; and thou shalt serve there to alien gods, which thou knowest not, and thy fathers knew not, to trees and stones.

<sup>65</sup> Also thou shalt not rest in those folks, neither rest shall be to the step of thy foot. For the Lord shall give to thee there a fearful heart, and eyes failing, and a soul wasted with privy sorrow.

<sup>67</sup> In the morrowtide thou shalt say, Who shall give the eventide to me? and in the eventide thou shalt say, Who shall give the morrowtide to me? for the dread of thine heart, by which thou shalt be made afeared, and for those things which thou shalt see with thine eyes.

<sup>68</sup> The Lord shall lead thee again by ships into Egypt, by the way of which he said to thee, Thou shouldest no more see it. There thou shalt be sold to thine enemies, into menservants and womenservants; and none shall be that shall deliver thee.

CHAPTER 29

<sup>1</sup> These be the words of the bond of peace, which the Lord commanded to Moses, that he should make with the sons of Israel in the land of Moab, besides the bond of peace, which he covenanted with them in Horeb.

<sup>2</sup> And Moses called all Israel, and said to them, Ye have seen all things which the Lord did before you in the land of Egypt, to Pharaoh, and to all his servants, and to all his land;

<sup>3</sup> the great temptations which thine eyes have seen, those signs, and the great wonders.

<sup>4</sup> And the Lord gave not to you an heart understanding, and eyes seeing, and ears that may hear, till into this present day.

<sup>5</sup> He led you by forty years through desert; your clothes were not broken, neither the shoes of your feet were wasted by eldness;

<sup>7</sup> And ye came to this place; and Sihon, the king of Heshbon went out, and Og, the king of Bashan, and they came to us to battle. And we smote them, <sup>8</sup> and we took away their land, and we gave it to possession, to Reuben, and to Gad, and to the half lineage of Manasseh.

<sup>10</sup> All ye stand today before your Lord God, your princes, and lineages, and the greater men in birth, and your teachers or doctors, all the people of Israel,

<sup>11</sup> your free children, and your wives, and the comelings that dwell with thee in the tents, besides the hewers of wood, *and besides they [or them]* that bear water;

<sup>12</sup> that thou go into the bond of peace of thy Lord God, and in the oath which thy Lord God smiteth with thee,

<sup>13</sup> that he raise thee up into a people to himself, and that he be thy Lord God, as he spake to thee, and as he swore to thy fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

<sup>14</sup> And not to you alone I make this bond of peace, and confirm these oaths, <sup>15</sup> but to all men, present and absent.

<sup>16</sup> For ye know how we dwelled in the land of Egypt, and how we passed by the midst of nations; which ye passed,

<sup>18</sup> Lest peradventure among you be man either woman, mine either lineage, whose heart is turned away today from your Lord God, that he go, and serve the gods of those folks; and a root burgeoning gall and bitter-ness be among you;

<sup>19</sup> and when he hath heard the words of this oath, he bless himself in his heart, and say, Peace shall be to me, and I shall go in the shrewdness of mine heart; and lest the drunken take the thirsty,

<sup>20</sup> and the Lord forgive not to him, but then full greatly his strong vengeance be fierce, and his fervour burst out against that man, and all the curses that be written in this book rest upon him; and the Lord do away his name from under heaven,

<sup>21</sup> and waste him into perdition from all the lineages of Israel, by the curses that be contained in the book of this law, and of the bond of peace.

<sup>22</sup> And the generation pursuing [or following] shall see, and the sons that shall be born afterward, and pilgrims that shall come from [a] far, seeing the vengeance of that land, and the sick-nesses by which the Lord tormented that land,

<sup>23</sup> burning that land with brimstone, and heat of the sun, so that it be no more sown, neither bring forth any green thing, into ensample of [the] destroying of Sodom, and Gomorrah, of Admah, and of Zeboiim, which the Lord destroyed in his wrath, and strong vengeance.

<sup>25</sup> and they shall answer, For they forsook the covenant of the Lord, which he covenanted with their fathers, when he led them out of the land of Egypt,

<sup>26</sup> and they served alien gods, and worshipped them, which they knew not, and to which they were not given;

<sup>27</sup> therefore the strong vengeance of the Lord was wroth against this land, that he brought in upon it all the curses that be written in this book;

<sup>28</sup> and he casted them out of their land, in wrath and strong vengeance, and in full great indignation; and he casted forth them into an alien land, as it is proved today.

<sup>29</sup> Diverse things be hid, or privy, of our Lord God, that is, in his before-knowing, which things be showed to us, and to our sons without end, that we do all the words of this law.

CHAPTER 30

<sup>1</sup> Therefore when all these come upon thee, blessing either cursing, which I have set forth in thy sight, and if thou art led by repentance of thine heart among all folks, into which thy Lord God hath scattered thee,

<sup>2</sup> and if thou turnest again to him, and obeyest to his behests, as I have commanded to thee today, with thy sons, in all thine heart, and in all thy soul,

<sup>5</sup> and he shall take thee, and bring thee into the land which thy fathers wielded; and thou shalt hold it, and he shall bless thee, and shall make thee to be of more number than thy fathers were.

<sup>6</sup> Thy Lord God shall circumcise thine heart, and the heart of thy seed, that thou love thy Lord God in all thine heart, and in all thy soul, and thou mayest live.

<sup>8</sup> Soothly thou shalt turn again, and thou shalt hear the voice of thy Lord God, and shalt do all the behests which I command to thee today;

<sup>9</sup> and thy Lord God shall make thee to be plenteous, in all the works of thine hands, in the children of thy womb, and in the fruit of thy beasts, and in abundance of thy land, and in largeness of all things. For the Lord shall turn again, that he have joy upon thee in all goods, as he joyed in thy fathers;

<sup>10</sup> if nevertheless thou hearest the voice of thy Lord God, and keepest his behests and his ceremonies, that be written in this law, and if thou turn again to thy Lord God in all thine heart, and in all thy soul.

<sup>12</sup> neither it is set in heaven, that thou say, Who of us may ascend or go up to heaven, that he bring it to us, and we hear it, and fulfill it in work?

<sup>13</sup> neither it is set beyond the sea, that thou complain, and say, Who of us may pass over the sea, and bring it hither to us, that we may hear, and do that that is commanded to us?

<sup>16</sup> that thou love thy Lord God, and go in his ways, and keep his behests, and his ceremonies, and his dooms; and that thou live, and he multiply thee, and bless thee in the land to which thou shalt enter to wield.

<sup>17</sup> But if thine heart is turned away, and thou wilt not hear, and thou art deceived by error, and worshippest alien gods, and servest them,

<sup>18</sup> I before-say to thee today, that thou shalt perish, and thou shalt dwell little time in the land, to which thou shalt enter to wield, when thou shalt pass over the Jordan.

<sup>19</sup> I call today heaven and earth to witness, that is, angels and men, that I have set forth to you life and death, good and evil, blessing and cursing; therefore choose thou life, that both thou live and thy seed, <sup>20</sup> and that thou love thy Lord God, and obey to his voice, and cleave to him, for he is thy life, and the length of thy days; that thou dwell in the land, for which the Lord swore to thy fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, that he should give it to them.

CHAPTER 31

<sup>2</sup> and said to them, I am today of an hundred and twenty years, I may no further go out and go in, mostly since also the Lord said to me, Thou shalt not pass over this Jordan.

<sup>4</sup> And the Lord shall do to them as he did to Sihon, and to Og, the kings of Amorites, and to their land; and he shall do them away.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore when the Lord hath betaken to you also them, ye shall do in like manner to them, as I have commanded to you.

<sup>7</sup> And Moses called Joshua, and said to him before all the multitude of the sons of Israel, Be thou comforted, and be thou strong; for thou shalt lead this people into the land that the Lord swore that he shall give to their fathers; and thou shalt part it by lot.

<sup>8</sup> And the Lord himself, which is your leader, shall be with thee, he shall not leave [thee], neither forsake thee; do not thou dread outwardly, neither dread thou in heart.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore Moses wrote this law, and betook it to the priests, the sons of Levi, that bare the ark of the bond of peace of the Lord, and to all the elder men of Israel.

<sup>10</sup> And Moses commanded to them, and said, After seven years, in the year of remission, in the solemnity of tabernacles,

<sup>11</sup> when all men of Israel shall come together, that they appear in the sight of their Lord God, in the place which the Lord choose, thou shalt read the words of this law before all Israel, while they hear,

<sup>12</sup> and while all the people is gathered together, as well to men, as to women, to little children, and to comelings that be within thy gates; that they hear, and learn, and dread your Lord God, and keep and [ful] fill all the words of this law;

<sup>13</sup> also that the sons of them, that now know not, may hear, and that they dread their Lord God in all days in which they live in the land to which ye shall go to get, when Jordan is passed over.

<sup>14</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Lo! the days of thy death be nigh; call thou Joshua, and stand ye in the tabernacle of witnessing, that I command to him. Therefore Moses and Joshua went, and they stood in the tabernacle of witnessing;

<sup>16</sup> And the Lord said to Moses, Lo! thou shalt sleep with thy fathers, and this people shall rise up, and it shall do fornication, or idolatry, going after alien gods in the land, into which it shall enter; that it dwell therein; there it shall forsake me, and shall make void the bond of peace, which I covenanted with it.

<sup>17</sup> And my strong vengeance shall be wroth against that people in that day, and I shall forsake it, and I shall hide my face from it, and it shall be into devouring; all evils and tormentings shall find it, so that it say in that day, Verily for the Lord is not with me, these evils have found me.

<sup>18</sup> Soothly I shall hide my face, and cover it in that day, for all the evils which this people hath done, for it hath pursued [or followed] alien gods.

<sup>19</sup> Now therefore write ye to you this song, and teach ye the sons of Israel, that they hold it in mind, and sing it in mouth; and that this song be to me for a witnessing among the sons of Israel.

<sup>20</sup> For I shall lead him into the land, for which I swore to his fathers, flowing with milk and honey; and when they have eaten, and be full-filled, and be made fat, they shall turn to alien gods, and they shall serve them; and they shall backbite me, and shall make void my covenant.

thy seed. For I know the thoughts thereof today, what things it shall do, before that I bring it into the land which I promised to it.

<sup>23</sup> And the Lord commanded to Joshua, the son of Nun, and said, Be thou comforted, and be thou strong; for thou shalt lead the sons of Israel into the land which I promised, and I shall be with thee.

<sup>24</sup> Therefore after that Moses had written the words of this law in a book, and fulfilled them,

<sup>25</sup> he commanded to the Levites that bare the ark of the bond of peace of the Lord, and said,

<sup>26</sup> Take ye this book, and put ye it in the side of the ark of the bond of peace of your Lord God, that it be there against thee into witnessing.

<sup>27</sup> For I know thy striving, and thy most hard noll; yet while I lived and entered with you, ye did ever[more] strivingly against the Lord; how much more when I shall be dead.

<sup>28</sup> Gather ye to me all the greater men in birth, and teachers [or doctors], by your lineages, and I shall speak to them, hearing these words, and I shall call against them heaven and earth.

<sup>29</sup> For I know, that after my death, ye shall do wickedly, and shall bow away soon from the way which I commanded to you; and evils shall come to you in the last times, when ye have done evil in the sight of the Lord, that ye stir him to wrath by the works of your hands.

<sup>30</sup> Therefore while all the company of the sons of Israel heard, Moses spake the words of this song, and he fulfilled it unto the end.

CHAPTER 32

<sup>1</sup> Ye heavens, hear what things I shall speak; the earth hear the words of my mouth.

<sup>4</sup> The works of God be perfect, and all his ways be dooms; God is faith-ful, and without any wickedness; he is just [or rightwise] and rightful.

<sup>6</sup> Whether thou yieldest these things to the Lord, thou fond [or foolish] people and unwise? Whether he is not thy father, that wielded thee, and made, and formed thee of nought?

<sup>7</sup> Have thou mind of eld [or old] days, think thou all generations; ask thy father, and he shall tell to thee, ask thy greater men, and they shall say to thee.

<sup>10</sup> The Lord found him in a desert land, in the place of horror, either hideousness, and of waste wilderness; the Lord led him about, and taught him, and he kept him as the apple of his eye.

<sup>13</sup> The Lord ordained him on an high land, that he should eat the fruits of fields, that he should suck honey of a stone, and oil of the hardest rock;

<sup>14</sup> butter of the drove, and milk of sheep, with the fatness of lambs, and of rams, of the sons of Bashan; and that he should eat kids with [the] marrow, or tried flour, of wheat, and he should drink the clearest blood, or wine, of the grape.

<sup>15</sup> The beloved people was made fat, and kicked against; made fat without-forth, made fat within, and alarged; he forsook God his maker, and went away from God his health or his saviour.

<sup>17</sup> They offered to fiends, or devils, and not to God, to gods which they knew not, new gods, and freshly came up by their findings, which their fathers worshipped not.

<sup>20</sup> And the Lord said, I shall hide my face from them, and I shall behold their last things; for this is a wayward generation, and unfaithful sons they be.

<sup>21</sup> They have stirred me to wrath in worshipping him that was not God, and they have moved me to vengeance in their vain idols; and I shall stir them in him, that is not a people, and I shall stir them to ire in a fond [or foolish] folk.

<sup>25</sup> Sword withoutforth, and dread within, shall waste them; a young man and a virgin together, a sucking child with an eld [or old] man.

<sup>26</sup> And I said, Where be they now? I shall make the mind or memory of them to cease of all men.

<sup>27</sup> But I delayed, or tarried, for the wrath of enemies, lest peradventure their enemies should be proud, and say, Our high hand, and not the Lord's, did all these things.

<sup>30</sup> How pursued one man of enemies a thousand of Jews, and two men drove away ten thousand? Whether not therefore for their God had sold them, forsaking them, and the Lord had enclosed them altogether in their enemies' hands?

<sup>35</sup> Vengeance is mine, and I shall yield to them in time, that the foot of them slide; the day of perdition is nigh, and the times hasten to be present.

<sup>36</sup> The Lord shall deem his people, and he shall do mercy in his servants; the people shall see that the hand of fighters is sick, or feeble, and also men enclosed failed, and the remnant people, or left, be wasted.

<sup>38</sup> Of whose sacrifices they ate the fatnesses, and they drank the wine of flowing sacrifices, rise they and help you, and defend they you in need.

<sup>39</sup> See, or understand, ye, that I am God alone, and none other God is except me; I shall slay, and I shall make to live; I shall smite, and I shall make whole; and none is that may deliver from mine hand.

<sup>40</sup> And I shall raise up mine hand to heaven, and I shall say, I live without end.

<sup>41</sup> If I shall whet my sword as lightning, and mine hand shall take doom, I shall yield vengeance to mine enemies, and I shall requite to them that hate me.

<sup>44</sup> Therefore Moses came, and spake all the words of this song in the ears of the people; both he and Joshua, the son of Nun.

<sup>46</sup> and said to them, Put ye your hearts into all the words which I witness to you today, that ye command to your sons, to keep, and to do those [or them], and to fulfill all things that be written in the book of this law;

<sup>47</sup> for not in vain these things be commanded to you, but that all men should live in doing those things; which if ye shall do, then ye shall abide, and shall continue long time in the land, to which ye shall enter to wield, when Jordan ye have over-passed.

<sup>49</sup> Go thou up into this hill Abarim, that is, passing, into the hill of Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, against Jericho; and see thou the land of Canaan, which I shall give to the sons of Israel to hold,

CHAPTER 33

<sup>2</sup> and said, The Lord came from Sinai, and he rose to us from Seir; he appeared from the hill of Paran, and thousands of saints with him; a law of fire in his right hand.

<sup>7</sup> This is the blessing of Judah; Lord, hear thou the voice of Judah, and bring in him to his people; his hands shall fight for him, and the helper of him, shall be against his adversaries.

<sup>8</sup> Also he said to Levi, Thy perfection and thy teaching is of an holy man, whom thou hast proved in temptation, and hast deemed at the waters of Against-saying;

<sup>9</sup> which Levi said to his father and to his mother, I know not you, and to his brethren, I know not them; and knew not his sons. These kept thy speech, and these kept thy covenant;

<sup>12</sup> And he said to Benjamin, The most loved of the Lord shall dwell trustily in him; he shall dwell all day as in a chamber, and he shall rest betwixt the shoulders of the Lord.

<sup>13</sup> Also he said to Joseph, His land is of the Lord's blessing; of the apples of heaven, and of the dew, and of water lying beneath;

<sup>16</sup> and of the fruits of the land, and of the fullness thereof. The blessing of him that appeared in the bush come upon the head of Joseph, and upon the foretop, that is, the crown of the head, of the Nazarite, or holy one, among his brethren.

<sup>17</sup> As the first engendered of a bull is the fairness of him; the horns of an unicorn be the horns of him; in those [or them] he shall winnow folks, till to the terms of [the] earth. These be the multitudes of Ephraim, and these be the thousands of Manasseh.

<sup>19</sup> They shall call peoples to the hill, [and] there they shall offer sacrifices of rightfulness [or rightwiseness]; which shall suck the flowing of the sea as milk, and hid treasures of gravel.

<sup>20</sup> And he said to Gad, Gad is blessed in broadness; he rested as a lion, and he took from his adversary the arm and the noll or head.

<sup>21</sup> And he saw his princehood, that he was kept a teacher in his part; the which was with princes of the people, and he did the rightfulnesses [or rightwisenesses] of the Lord, and his doom with Israel.

<sup>23</sup> And he said to Naphtali, Naphtali shall use abundance, and he shall be full with blessings of the Lord; and he shall wield the sea* and the south.

<sup>24</sup> Also he said to Asher, Asher, be blessed in sons, and please he his brethren; dip he his foot in oil.

<sup>26</sup> None other god is as the God of the most rightful [or the most right God]; the rider of heaven is thine helper; clouds run about by the glory of him.

<sup>29</sup> Blessed art thou, Israel; thou people that art saved in the Lord, who is like thee? The shield of thine help and the sword of thy glory is thy God; thine enemies shall deny thee, and thou shalt tread their necks.

CHAPTER 34

<sup>1</sup> Therefore Moses went up from the field places of Moab upon the hill of Nebo, into the top of Pisgah, against Jericho. And the Lord showed to him all the land of Gilead, till to Dan,

<sup>2</sup> and all Naphtali, and the land of Ephraim and of Manasseh, and all the land of Judah, unto the last, or furtherest, sea;

<sup>4</sup> And the Lord said to him, This is the land for which I swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; and I said, I shall give it to thy seed; thou hast seen it with thine eyes, and thou shalt not pass over to it.

<sup>8</sup> And the sons of Israel bewept him thirty days in the field places of Moab; and the days of wailing of men bemoaning Moses were fulfilled.

<sup>9</sup> Soothly Joshua, the son of Nun, was full-filled with the spirit of wisdom, for Moses had put his hands upon him; and the sons of Israel obeyed to Joshua, and did as the Lord commanded to Moses.

<sup>11</sup> in all the miracles, and great wonders, which the Lord sent, or did, by him, that he should do in the land of Egypt to Pharaoh, and to all his servants, and to all his land,

JOSHUA

<sup>1</sup> And it was done after the death of Moses, the servant of the Lord, that the Lord spake to Joshua, the son of Nun, the servant of Moses, and said to him,

<sup>2</sup> Moses, my servant is dead; rise thou, and pass [over] this Jordan, thou, and all the people with thee, into the land which I shall give to the sons of Israel.

<sup>3</sup> I shall give to you each place which the step of your foot shall tread, as I spake to Moses,

<sup>5</sup> None shall be able to against-stand you in all the days of thy life; as I was with Moses, so I shall be with thee; I shall not leave, neither I shall forsake thee.

<sup>6</sup> Be thou comforted, and be thou strong; for thou shalt part by lot to this people the land, for which I swore to thy fathers, that I should give it to them.

<sup>7</sup> Therefore be thou comforted, and be thou full strong, that thou keep and do all the law, which Moses, my servant, commanded to thee; bow thou not from it to the right side, either to the left side, that thou understand all things which thou doest.

<sup>8</sup> The book of this law depart not from thy mouth, but thou shalt think therein in days and nights, that thou keep and do all things that be written therein; then thou shalt dress thy way, and thou shalt understand it.

<sup>9</sup> Lo! I command to thee; be thou comforted, and be thou strong; do not thou dread, nor be thou afeared; for thy Lord God is with thee in all things, to which thou goest.

<sup>11</sup> Pass ye through the midst of the castles [or tents], and command ye to the people, and say ye, Make ye ready meats to you; for after the third day ye shall pass [over] Jordan, and ye shall enter to wield the land, which your Lord God shall give to you.

<sup>13</sup> Have ye mind of the word which Moses, the servant of the Lord, commanded to you, and said, Your Lord God hath given to you rest, and all the land;

<sup>14</sup> your wives, and your sons, and your beasts shall dwell in the land that Moses gave to you beyond Jordan; but pass ye over armed, all strong in hand, before your brethren; and fight ye for them,

<sup>15</sup> till the Lord give rest to your brethren, as he gave also to you, and till also they wield the land which your Lord God shall give to them; and so turn ye again into the land of your possession, and ye shall dwell in that land which Moses, [the] servant of the Lord, gave to you over Jordan, against the rising of the sun.

<sup>16</sup> And they answered to Joshua, and said, We shall do all things which thou commandest to us, and we shall go, whither ever thou sendest us;

<sup>17</sup> as we obeyed in all things to Moses, so we shall obey also to thee; only thy Lord God be with thee, as he was with Moses.

<sup>18</sup> Die he that against-saith thy word, and obeyeth not to all thy biddings, which thou commandest to him; only be thou comforted, and do thou manly.

* CHAPTER 1:12 The tribe of Manasseh divided in two after the defeat of Sihon and Og; one half settled on the east side of the Jordan River, and the other half on the west side.

CHAPTER 2

<sup>1</sup> Therefore Joshua, the son of Nun, sent from Shittim two men, spyers [or spies] in huddles, and said to them, Go ye, and behold ye the land, and the city of Jericho. Which went, and entered into the house of a woman whore, Rahab by name, and rested at her.

<sup>2</sup> And it was told, and said to the king of Jericho, Lo! men of the sons of Israel have entered hither by night, to espy the land.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore the king of Jericho sent to Rahab the whore, and said, Bring out the men, that came to thee, and that entered into thine house; for they be spyers [or spies], and they came to behold all the land.

<sup>4</sup> And the woman took the men, and hid them, and said, I acknowledge, that they came to me, but I wist not of whence they were;

<sup>5</sup> and when the gate was closed in darkneses, and they went out together, I know not whither they went; pursue ye them soon, and ye shall overtake them.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth she had made the men to go up into the solar of her house, and she covered them with stubble, or sheaves, of flax, that was there.

<sup>7</sup> And they, that were sent, pursued [or followed] after them by the way that leadeth to the fords of Jordan; and when they were gone out, anon the gate was closed.

<sup>8</sup> [And] They that were hid, slept not yet, and lo! the woman went up to them,

<sup>9</sup> and said, I know that the Lord hath betaken to you this land; for your fearedfulness is fallen into us, and all the dwellers of the land be abashed.

<sup>10</sup> We have heard, that the Lord hath dried up the waters of the Red Sea at your entering, when ye went out of Egypt; and what things ye did to the two kings of Amorites, that were beyond Jordan, to Sihon and Og, which ye killed;

<sup>11</sup> and we heard these things, and we dreaded, and our heart was sick, and spirit dwelled not in us at your entering; for the Lord your God himself is God in heaven above, and in earth beneath.

<sup>12</sup> Now therefore swear ye to me by the Lord God, that as I did mercy with you, so and ye do with the house of my father; and give ye to me a very sign, <sup>13</sup> that ye save my father, and my mother, and my brethren, and [my] sisters, and all things that be theirs, and deliver our lives from death.

<sup>14</sup> Which answered to her, Our life be for you into death, if nevertheless thou betrayest not us; and when the Lord hath betaken to us the land, we shall do mercy and truth with thee.

<sup>16</sup> And she said to them, Go ye up to the hilly places [or mountains], lest peradventure the men turning again meet you; and be ye hid there three days, till they come again; and so ye shall go by your way.

<sup>17</sup> Which said to her, We shall be guiltless of this oath, by which thou hast charged us,

<sup>18</sup> if, when we enter into the land, this red cord is not a sign, and thou bindest it not in the window, by which thou lettest us down; and thou gatherest not into thine house thy father, and mother, and brethren, and all thy kindred;

<sup>19</sup> the blood of him shall be on his head, that goeth out at the door of thine house, and we shall be guiltless; forsooth the blood of all men that be in the house with thee, shall turn into our head, if any man toucheth them.

<sup>20</sup> That if thou wilt betray us, and bring forth into the midst this word, we shall be clean of this oath, by which thou hast charged us.

<sup>21</sup> And she answered, As ye have spoken, so be it done. And she let them go, that they should go forth, and she hanged the red cord in her window.

<sup>22</sup> And they went forth, and came into the hilly places [or mountains], and dwelled there three days, till they turned again that pursued them; for they sought them by each way, and found not them.

<sup>23</sup> And when the seekers entered into the city again, the spyers [or spies] turned again, and came down from the hill; and when they had passed [over] Jordan, they came to Joshua, the son of Nun; and they told to him all things that befelled to them,

<sup>24</sup> and said, The Lord hath betaken all the land into our hands, and all the dwellers thereof be cast down by dread.

CHAPTER 3

<sup>1</sup> Therefore Joshua rose by night, and moved thence the tents; and they went out of Shittim, and came to Jordan, he and all the sons of Israel, and dwelled there three days.

<sup>3</sup> and began to cry, When ye see the ark of [the] bond of peace of your Lord God, and the priests of the generation of Levi bearing it, also then rise ye, and follow the before-goers;

<sup>4</sup> and a space of two thousand cubits be betwixt you and the ark, that ye may see [a] far, and know by which way ye shall enter, for ye have not gone before by it; and be ye ware, that ye nigh not to the ark.

<sup>5</sup> And Joshua said to the people, Be ye hallowed, for tomorrow the Lord shall make marvels among you.

<sup>6</sup> And Joshua said to the priests, Take ye the ark of the bond of peace of the Lord, and go ye before the people. The which fulfilled the behests of Joshua, and they took the ark, and went before the people.

<sup>7</sup> And the Lord said to Joshua, Today I shall begin to enhance thee before all Israel, that they know, that as I was with Moses, so I am also with thee.

<sup>9</sup> And Joshua said to the sons of Israel, Nigh ye hither, and hear ye the word of your Lord God.

<sup>10</sup> And again he said, In this ye shall know that the Lord God living is in the midst of you; and he shall destroy in your sight Canaanites, Hittites, Hivites, and Perizzites, and Girgashites, and Jebusites, and Amorites.

<sup>13</sup> And when the priests, that bear the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord God of all earth, have set the steps of their feet in the waters of Jordan, the waters that be lower shall run down, and shall fail; soothly the waters that come from above shall stand together in one gathering, or a certain place.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore the people went out of their tabernacles for to pass over the Jordan; and the priests that bare the ark of [the] bond of peace went before the people.

<sup>16</sup> the waters went down, and stood in one place, and waxed great at the likeness of an hill, and appeared far from the city that was called Adam, till to the place of

Zaretan; soothly the waters that were lower went down into the sea of wilderness, which is now called the Dead Sea, till the waters failed utterly. Forsooth the people went through the Jordan;

<sup>17</sup> and the priests, that bare the ark of the bond of peace of the Lord, stood girded on the dry earth in the midst of the Jordan, and all the people passed [over] through the dry trough.

CHAPTER 4

<sup>3</sup> and command thou to them, that they take from the midst of the trough of Jordan, where the feet of [the] priests stood, twelve hardest stones; the which thou shalt set in [the] place of the tents, where ye shall set tents in this night.

<sup>5</sup> and he said to them, Go ye before the ark of your Lord God to the midst of Jordan, and bear ye from thence in your shoulders each man one stone, by the number of the sons of Israel,

<sup>6</sup> that it be a sign betwixt you. And when your sons shall ask you tomorrow, that is, in time to coming, and shall say, What will these stones be meaning?

<sup>7</sup> ye shall answer to them, The waters of Jordan failed before the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord, when the ark passed over the Jordan; therefore these stones be set into mind of the sons of Israel, till into without end.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore the sons of Israel did as Joshua commanded to them, and bare from the midst of the trough of Jordan twelve stones, as the Lord commanded to him, by the number of the sons of Israel, unto the place in which they setted tents; and there they putted those stones.

<sup>9</sup> Also Joshua putted other twelve stones in the midst of the trough of Jordan, where the priests stood, that bare the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord; and those stones be there unto this present day.

<sup>10</sup> Forsooth the priests, that bare the ark, stood in the midst of Jordan, till all things were [ful] filled, which the Lord commanded, that Joshua should speak to the people, as Moses had said to him. And the people hasted, and passed over Jordan.

<sup>11</sup> And when all men had passed [over], also the ark of the Lord passed [over], and the priests went before the people.

<sup>12</sup> Also the sons of Reuben, and of Gad, and half the lineage of Manasseh, went armed before the sons of Israel, as Moses commanded to them.

<sup>18</sup> And when they had gone up, bearing the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord, and had begun to tread on the dry earth, the waters turned again into their trough, and flowed again, as they were wont before.

<sup>21</sup> And he said to the sons of Israel, When your sons shall ask tomorrow their fathers, and shall say to them, What will these stones be meaning?

<sup>23</sup> for our Lord God dried the waters thereof in our sight, till that we over-passed it, as he did before in the Red Sea, which he dried while we passed [over],

<sup>24</sup> that all the peoples of earth learn, or know, the full strong might of the Lord, and that ye dread your Lord God in all time.

CHAPTER 5

<sup>1</sup> Therefore after that all the kings of Amorites heard, that dwelled over Jordan at the west coast, and all the kings of Canaan, that wielded the nigh places of the great sea, that the Lord had dried the flowings of Jordan before the sons of Israel, till they passed over, the heart of them failed, and the spirit dwelled not in them, dreading the entering of the sons of Israel.

<sup>2</sup> In that time the Lord said to Joshua, Make to thee knives of stone, and circumcise thou the sons of Israel the second time.

<sup>4</sup> And this is the cause of the second circumcision; all the people of male kind, that went out of Egypt, all the men fighters of them, were dead in desert by the full long compasses of way,

<sup>5</sup> the which all were circumcised. But the other people that was born in desert by forty years, in the way of the full broad wilderness, was un-circumcised,

<sup>6</sup> till they were wasted, that heard not the voice of the Lord, and to which he swore before, that he should show to them the land flowing with milk and honey.

<sup>7</sup> The sons of them came afterward into the place of [the] fathers, and they were circumcised of Joshua; which, as they were born, were in prepuce, neither any man had circumcised them in the way.

<sup>8</sup> And after that they all were circumcised, they dwelled in the same place of their tents, till they were healed.

<sup>9</sup> And the Lord said to Joshua, Today I have taken away from you the shame of Egypt. And the name of the place was called Gilgal*, unto this present day.

<sup>10</sup> And the sons of Israel dwelled in Gilgal, and made pask in the fourteenth day of the month at eventide, in the field places of Jericho;

<sup>12</sup> And manna failed after that they ate of the fruits of the land; and the sons of Israel used no more that meat, but they ate of the fruits of present year of the land of Canaan.

<sup>13</sup> And when Joshua was in the field of the city of Jericho, he raised up his eyes, and saw a man standing against him, and holding a drawn sword; and Joshua went out to him, and said, Art thou with us, either our adversary?

<sup>14</sup> To whom he answered, Nay, but I am prince of the host of the Lord, and now I come. Joshua felled low to the earth, and worshipped, and said, What speaketh my Lord to his servant?

<sup>15</sup> He said, Unlace thy shoes from thy feet, for the place, in which thou standest, is holy. And Joshua did, as it was commanded to him.

CHAPTER 6

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Jericho was enclosed and warded, for the dread of the sons of Israel, and no man durst enter, either go out.

<sup>4</sup> And in the seventh day, the priests shall take seven clarions, which be used in the jubilee; and they shall go before the ark of [the] bond of peace; and seven times ye shall compass the city, and the priests shall trump with the clarions.

<sup>5</sup> And when the voice of the trump shall sound longer, and more by whiles, and shall sound in your ears, all the people shall cry together with greatest cry; and the walls of the city shall fall all-down, and all men shall enter by the place, against which they stand.

<sup>6</sup> Therefore Joshua, the son of Nun, called the priests, and said to them, Take ye the ark of the bond of peace, and seven other priests take they seven clarions of the jubilee years, and go they before the ark of the Lord.

<sup>7</sup> Also Joshua said to the people, Go ye, and compass ye the city, and go ye armed before the ark of the Lord.

<sup>8</sup> And when Joshua had ended these words, and the seven priests trumped with seven trumps before the ark of the bond of peace of the Lord,

<sup>9</sup> and all the people armed went before, and the tother common people of fighters pursued [or followed] the ark, and all things sounded with the trumps.

<sup>10</sup> And Joshua commanded to the people, and said, Ye shall not cry, neither your voice shall be heard, neither any word shall go out of your mouth, till the day come, in which I shall say to you, Cry ye, and make ye noise.

<sup>13</sup> and seven of the priests took seven clarions, which were used in the jubilee, and the priests went before the ark of the Lord, and trumped; and the people went armed before them. And the tother common people pursued [or followed] the ark, and sounded with trumps.

<sup>14</sup> And they compassed the city in the second day once, and turned again into the tents; so they did six days.

<sup>15</sup> And in the seventh day they rose early, and compassed the city, as it was ordained, seven times.

<sup>16</sup> And when in the seventh compass, the priests sounded with clarions, Joshua said to all Israel, Cry ye, for the Lord hath betaken the city to us;

<sup>17</sup> and this city be cursed, either destroyed, and all things that be therein be hallowed to the Lord. Rahab the whore alone live, with all the men that be with her in the house; for she hid the messengers which we sent.

<sup>18</sup> And be ye ware, lest ye touch anything of these [things] that be forbidden to you, and ye be guilty of trespassing; and all the tents of Israel be under sin, and be troubled.

<sup>19</sup> For whatever thing is of gold, and of silver, and of brazen vessels, and of iron, be it hallowed to the Lord, and be it kept in his treasuries.

<sup>20</sup> Then while all the people cried, and the trumps sounded, after that the sound sounded in the ears of the multitude, the walls felled down anon; and each man went up by the place that was against him. And they took the city,

<sup>21</sup> and they killed all things that were therein, from man unto woman, from a young child unto an eld [or old] man; also they killed by sharp-ness of sword, oxen, sheep, and asses.

<sup>22</sup> Forsooth Joshua said to [the] two men, that were sent spyers, Enter ye into the house of the woman whore, and bring ye forth her, and all things that be hers, as ye made steadfast to her by an oath.

<sup>23</sup> And the young men entered in, and they led out Rahab, and her father, and mother, and all her brethren, and all the appurtenance of her, and kindred; and they made them to dwell without the tents of Israel.

<sup>24</sup> And the men of Israel burnt the city, and all things that were found therein, except [the] gold, and silver, and brazen vessels, and iron, which they hallowed into the treasury of the Lord.

<sup>25</sup> Soothly Joshua made Rahab the whore to live, and her father's house, and all things that she had; and they dwelled in the midst of Israel, unto this present day; for she hid the messengers, which Joshua sent to espy Jericho.

<sup>26</sup> In that time Joshua prayed heartily, and said, Cursed before the Lord be the man, that raiseth up and buildeth the city of Jericho! Lay he the founda-ments thereof in his first engendered son, and put he the gates thereof in the last of his free children.

CHAPTER 7

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth the sons of Israel brake the commandment, and mis-took of the cursed thing; for Achan, the son of Carmi, the son of Zabdi, [the] son of Zerah, of the lineage of Judah, took something of the cursed thing; and the Lord was wroth against the sons of Israel.

<sup>2</sup> And when Joshua sent men from Jericho against Ai, which is beside Bethaven, at the east coast of the city of Bethel, he said to them, Go ye up, and espy the land. Which [ful] filled the commandments, and espied Ai;

<sup>3</sup> and they turned again, and said to him, All the people go not up thither, but two either three thousand of men go, and do away the city; why shall all the people be travailed in vain against full few enemies?

<sup>4</sup> Therefore three thousand of fighters ascended or went up, which turned the backs anon, and were smitten of the men of Ai;

<sup>5</sup> and six and thirty men of them were slain; and the adversaries pursued them from the gate unto Shebarim; and they felled down fleeing by low places. And the heart of the people dreaded much, and it was made unsteadfast at the likeness of water.

<sup>6</sup> And Joshua rent his clothes, and he fell down low to the earth before the ark of the Lord, unto the eventide, as well he, as all the elder men of Israel; and they casted powder on their heads.

<sup>7</sup> And Joshua said, Alas! alas! Lord God, what wouldest thou lead this people over the flood Jordan, that thou shouldest betake us in the hand of Amorites, and should lose us? I would, that as we began, we had dwelled beyond Jordan.

<sup>9</sup> Canaanites, and all the dwellers of the land shall hear this, and they shall be gathered together, and shall compass us, and they shall do away our name from [the] earth; and what shalt thou do to thy great name?

<sup>11</sup> Israel hath sinned, and hath broken my covenant; they have taken of the cursed thing, and they have stolen of it, and lied, and hid among their vessels.

<sup>12</sup> And therefore Israel may not stand before his enemies, and he shall flee them, for it is defouled with cursing; I shall no more be with you, till that ye destroy him that is guilty of this trespass.

<sup>13</sup> Rise thou, hallow the people, and say thou to them, Be ye hallowed against tomorrow; for the Lord God of Israel saith these things, O thou Israel! cursing is in the midst of thee; thou shalt not be able to stand before thine enemies, till he that is defouled by this trespass, be done away from thee.

<sup>14</sup> And ye shall come early, all men by your lineages; and whatever lineage the lot shall find, it shall come by his meines; and the meine shall come by houses, and the house shall come by men.

<sup>15</sup> And whoever shall be taken with this trespass, he shall be burnt with fire with all his chattel [or substance], for he brake the covenant of the Lord, and did unleaveful thing in Israel.

<sup>17</sup> and when that lineage was brought forth by his meines, the meine of Zerah was found. And Joshua brought forth it by men, either houses, and found Zabdi;

<sup>18</sup> whose house he parted into all men by themselves; and he found Achan, the son of Carmi, [the] son of Zabdi, [the] son of Zerah, of the lineage of Judah.

<sup>19</sup> And Joshua said to Achan, My son, give thou glory to the Lord God of Israel, and acknowledge thou, and show to me what thou hast done; hide thou it not.

<sup>20</sup> And Achan answered to Joshua, and said to him, Verily, I have sinned before the Lord God of Israel, and I have done thus and thus;

<sup>21</sup> for among the spoils I saw a red mantle full good, and two hundred shekels of silver, and a golden rule of fifty shekels; and I coveted those, and took away, and I hid those in the earth, against the midst of my tabernacle; and I covered the silver with the earth delved.

<sup>23</sup> and they took these things away from the tent, and they brought them to Joshua, and to all the sons of Israel; and they casted them forth before the Lord.

<sup>24</sup> Then Joshua took Achan, the son of Zerah, and the silver, and the mantle, and the golden rule, and his sons, and daughters, his oxen, asses, and sheep, and the tabernacle itself, and all the appurtenance of his house-hold; and all Israel with Joshua; and they led them to the valley of Achor;

<sup>25</sup> where Joshua said, For thou hast troubled us, the Lord shall full out trouble thee in this day. And all Israel stoned him; and all things that were his, were wasted by fire.

<sup>26</sup> And they gathered upon him a great heap of stones, the which abide there still into this day. And the strong vengeance of the Lord was turned away from Israel; and the name of that place is called the valley of Achor unto this day.

CHAPTER 8

<sup>1</sup> And the Lord said to Joshua, Neither dread thou, nor be thou afeared; take with thee all the multitude of fighting men, and rise thou, and go up into the city of Ai; lo, I have betaken into thine hand the king thereof, and the people, and the city, and the land.

<sup>2</sup> And thou shalt do to the city of Ai, and to the king thereof, as thou didest to Jericho, and the king thereof; soothly ye shall take to you the prey, and all [the] living beasts, set [or put] thou ambushes, either ambushments, to the city behind it.

<sup>3</sup> And Joshua rose, and all the host of fighting men with him, for to go up into Ai; and by night he sent thirty chosen thousand of strong men;

<sup>4</sup> and he commanded to them, and said, Set [or Put] ye ambushments behind the city, and go ye not further; and all ye shall be ready;

<sup>5</sup> forsooth I, and the tother multitude which is with me, shall come on the contrary side against the city; and when they shall go out against us, as we did before, we shall flee, and turn the backs,

<sup>6</sup> till they pursue us, and be drawn away further from the city; for they shall guess, that we shall flee them as we did before. Then while we shall flee, and while they pursue,

<sup>8</sup> And when ye have taken it, burn ye it; do ye all things, as I have commanded to you.

<sup>9</sup> And Joshua let them go, and they went to the place of [the] ambushments, and sat betwixt Bethel and Ai, at the west coast of the city of Ai. Forsooth Joshua dwelled in that night in the midst of the people.

<sup>10</sup> And he rose early, and numbered his fellows, and he went up with the elder men in the front of the host, and was compassed with the help of fighters.

<sup>11</sup> And when they had come, and had gone up against the city, they stood at the north coast of the city, betwixt the which city and them a valley was in the midst.

<sup>12</sup> And Joshua had chosen five thousand men, and he had set them in [the] ambushments betwixt Bethel and Ai, in the west part of the same city.

<sup>13</sup> And all the tother host dressed the battle array to the north, so [that] the last men of the multitude reached to the west coast of the city. Then Joshua went in that night, and stood in the midst of [the] valley;

<sup>14</sup> and when the king of Ai had seen this, he hasted early, and went out with all the host of the city, and he dressed battle array against the desert; and he wist not that ambushments were hid behind his back.

<sup>16</sup> and the men cried together, and with gladness stirred themselves together, and they pursued the men of Israel. And when they had gone away from the city,

<sup>18</sup> the Lord said to Joshua, Raise up the shield [or the sword] that is in thine hand, against the city of Ai; for I shall give it to thee. And when Joshua had raised up his banner or the shield [or the sword] against the city of Ai, <sup>19</sup> the ambushments, that were hid, rose up anon; and they went to the city, and took [it], and burnt it.

<sup>20</sup> Forsooth the men of the city, that pursued Joshua, beheld, and saw the smoke of the city ascend [or go up] till to heaven; and they might no more flee hither and thither; mostly since they that had feigned flight, and went to wilderness, withstood strongest against the pursuers.

<sup>21</sup> And Joshua saw, and all Israel, that the city was taken, and that the smoke of the city went up; and he turned again, and killed the men of Ai.

<sup>22</sup> And also those men that had taken and burnt the city, went out of the city against their enemies, and they began to smite the middle men of their enemies; and when their adversaries were slain behind and before, so that no man of so great [a] multitude was saved,

<sup>24</sup> Therefore, when all the men were slain, that pursued Israel fleeing to desert, and had fallen by sword in the same place, the sons of Israel turned again, and destroyed the city of Ai.

<sup>26</sup> For Joshua withdrew not his hand, which he had dressed on high holding up his banner or the shield [or the sword], till that all the dwellers of Ai were slain.

<sup>27</sup> And the sons of Israel parted to themselves the work beasts, and the prey of the city, as the Lord com-manded to Joshua;

<sup>29</sup> And he hanged the king thereof in a gibbet, till to the eventide, and the going down of the sun. And Joshua commanded, and they putted down his dead body from the cross; and they casted forth him in that entering of the city, and gathered on him a great heap of stones, which heap dwelleth till into present day.

<sup>31</sup> as Moses, the servant of the Lord, commanded to the sons of Israel, and it is written in the book of Moses' law, an altar of stones unpolished, that iron hath not touched. And he offered thereon burnt sacrifices to the Lord, and he offered also peaceable sacrifices;

<sup>32</sup> and he wrote on the stones the Deuteronomy of Moses' law, not all the book, but the ten behests only, which he had declared before the sons of Israel.

<sup>33</sup> And all the people, and the greater men in birth, and dukes, and judges, stood on either side of the ark, in the sight of priests and deacons [or Levites], that bare the ark of the bond of peace of the Lord; as a comeling, so and a man born in the land; the half part of them stood beside the hill Gerizim, and the half part of them stood beside the hill Ebal, as Moses, the servant of the Lord, commanded. And Joshua first blessed the people of Israel.

<sup>34</sup> And after these things he read all the words of blessing and of cursing, and all things that were written in the book of law.

CHAPTER 9

<sup>1</sup> And when these things were heard, all the kings beyond Jordan, that dwelt in hilly places, and in plain places, in coasts of the sea, and in the brink of the great sea, and they that dwelt beside Lebanon, Hittite, and Amorite, Canaanite, and Perizzite, Hivite, and Jebusite,

<sup>3</sup> And they that dwelt in Gibeon, heard all the things that Joshua had done to Jericho, and to Ai;

<sup>4</sup> and they thought fellily or slyly, and took to themselves meats, and putted eld [or old] sackcloths on asses, and wine bottles broken, and sewed or patched,

<sup>5</sup> and full eld [or old] shoes, the which were sewed together with old patches, to show their oldness; and these men were clothed with full old clothes; also the loaves, which they bare for lifelode in the way, were hard and broken into gobbets.

<sup>6</sup> And they went to Joshua, that dwelled then in tents in Gilgal; and they said to him, and to all Israel together, We [have] come from a far land, and we covet to make peace with you.

<sup>7</sup> And the men of Israel answered to them, and said, Lest peradventure ye dwell in the land, which is due to us by heritage, and we may not make bond of peace with you.

<sup>8</sup> And they said to Joshua, We be thy servants. To whom Joshua said, What men be ye, and from whence came ye?

<sup>9</sup> They answered, Thy servants came from a full far land in the name of thy Lord God; for we have heard the fame of his power, and all things which he did in Egypt,

<sup>10</sup> and to the two kings of Amorites beyond Jordan; to Sihon king of Heshbon, and to Og king of Bashan, that were in Ashtaroth.

<sup>11</sup> And the elder men and all the dwellers of our land said to us, Take ye meats in your hands, for the full long way; and go ye to them, and say ye, We be your servants; make ye bond of peace with us.

<sup>12</sup> And we took hot loaves, when we went out of our houses to come to you; now they be made dry and broken, for great eldness;

<sup>13</sup> we filled new bottles of wine; now they be broken and unsewed; the clothes and shoes, with which we be clothed, and which we have on our feet, be broken and well-nigh wasted, from the length of long way.

<sup>15</sup> And Joshua made peace with them. And when the bond of peace was made, he promised, that they should not be slain; and the princes of the multitude swore to them.

<sup>16</sup> And after three days of the bond of peace made, the men of Israel heard, that those men dwelled in nigh place, and that they should be soon among those men.

<sup>17</sup> And the sons of Israel moved their tents, and came in the third day into the cities of them, of which cities these be the names; Gibeon, and Chephirah, and Beeroth, and Kiriathjearim.

<sup>18</sup> And Israel destroyed not them, for the princes of the multitude had sworn to them in the name of the Lord God of Israel. Therefore all the common people grutched against the princes of Israel;

<sup>19</sup> and the princes answered to them, We swore to them in the name of the Lord God of Israel, and therefore we may not touch them;

<sup>20</sup> but we shall do this thing to them; be they kept that they live, lest the ire of the Lord be stirred against us, if we forswear us to them;

<sup>21</sup> but so live they, that they hew trees, and bear waters, into the uses of all the multitude. And while they spake these things,

<sup>22</sup> Joshua called Gibeonites, and said to them, Why would ye deceive us by fraud, that ye said, We dwell full far from you, since ye be in the midst of us?

<sup>23</sup> Therefore ye shall be under cursing, and none shall fail of your generation, hewing trees and bearing waters, into the house of my God.

<sup>24</sup> Which answered, It was told to us thy servants, that thy Lord God promised to Moses, his servant, that he should betake to you all the land, and should lose all the dwellers thereof; therefore we dreaded greatly, and purveyed to our lives, and we were compelled by your dread, and we took this counsel.

<sup>26</sup> Therefore Joshua did, as he said, and delivered them from the hands of the sons of Israel, that they should not be slain.

<sup>27</sup> And in that day Joshua deemed them to be into the service of all the people, and of the altar of the Lord, and to hew trees, and to bear waters, till into present time, in the place which the Lord had chosen.

CHAPTER 10

<sup>1</sup> And when Adonizedek, king of Jerusalem, had heard these things, that is, that Joshua had taken Ai, and had destroyed it; for as Joshua had done to Jericho and to the king thereof, so he did to Ai and to the king thereof; and that men of Gibeon had fled to Israel, and were bound in peace with them,

<sup>2</sup> Adonizedek dreaded greatly; for Gibeon was a great city, and one of the king's cities, and greater than the city of Ai, and all the fighters thereof were most strong.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore Adonizedek, king of Jerusalem, sent to Hoham, king of Hebron, and to Piram, king of Jarmuth, and to Japhia, king of Lachish, and to Debir, king of Eglon, and said, <sup>4</sup> Ascend ye [or Go ye up] to me, and help me, that we fight against Gibeon, for it was yielded to Joshua, and to the sons of Israel.

<sup>6</sup> Soothly the dwellers of the city of Gibeon sent to Joshua, that dwelled then in tents at Gilgal, and said to him, Withdraw not thine hands from the help of thy servants; go up soon, and deliver us, and [bring] help; for all the kings of Amorites, that dwelled in the hilly places, came together against us.

<sup>8</sup> And the Lord said to Joshua, Dread thou not them, for I have given them into thine hands; and none of them shall be able to against-stand thee.

<sup>10</sup> and the Lord troubled them from the face of Israel, and all-brake with great vengeance in Gibeon. And Joshua pursued them by the way of the ascending [or going up] of Bethhoron, and smote till to Azekah and Makkedah.

<sup>11</sup> And when they fled the sons of Israel, and were in the going down of Bethhoron, the Lord sent great stones upon them from heaven, till they came to Azekah; and many more were dead by the hailstones, than they which the sons of Israel killed with sword.

<sup>12</sup> Then Joshua spake to the Lord, in the day in which he betook Amorites in the sight of the sons of Israel; and Joshua said before the people, Sun, be thou not moved against Gibeon, and the moon, against the valley of Ajalon.

<sup>13</sup> And the sun and the moon stood, unto the time the folk of God had avenged themselves of their enemies. Whether this is not written in the book of just [or rightwise] men? And so the sun stood in the midst of heaven, and it hastened not to go down in the space of a day;

<sup>17</sup> And it was told to Joshua, that the five kings were found hid in the den of the city of Makkedah.

<sup>18</sup> And Joshua commanded to fellows, and said, Wallow ye great stones to the mouth of the den, and put ye witting men, that shall keep the enclosed kings;

<sup>19</sup> soothly do not ye stand, but pursue ye the enemies, and slay ye all the last of fleers; and suffer ye not them to enter into the strongholds of their cities, the which enemies your Lord God hath betaken in your hands.

<sup>20</sup> Then when the adversaries were beaten with great vengeance, and were almost wasted unto the death, they that might flee Israel, entered into the strengthened cities.

<sup>21</sup> And all the host turned again whole, and in whole number to Joshua, into Makkedah, where the tents were then; and no man was hardy to grutch against the sons of Israel.

<sup>22</sup> And Joshua commanded, and said, Open ye the mouth of the den, and bring forth to me the five kings that be hid therein.

<sup>23</sup> And the servants did, as it was commanded to them; and they brought forth to Joshua the five kings from the den; the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, and the king of Eglon.

<sup>24</sup> And when they were led out to Joshua, he called all the men of Israel, and said to the princes of the host, that were with him, Go ye, and set [or putteth] your feet on the necks of these kings. And when they had gone, and treaded the necks of the kings subject to their feet,

<sup>25</sup> again Joshua said to Israel, Do not ye dread, neither be ye afeared, be ye comforted, and be ye strong; for so the Lord shall do to all your enemies, against which ye shall fight.

<sup>26</sup> And Joshua smote those kings, and killed them, and he hanged them on five trees; and they were hanged unto the eventide.

<sup>27</sup> And when the sun went down, he commanded to fellows, that they should put them down from the gibbets; and when they were put down, they casted forth them into the den, in which they were hid; and they putted great stones on the mouth thereof, which stones dwell till to [the] present time.

<sup>30</sup> which city the Lord betook, with the king thereof, in the hand of Israel; and men of Israel smote that city by the sharpness of sword, and all the dwellers thereof, and they left not therein anything of value, or relics; and they did to the king of Libnah as they had done to the king of Jericho.

<sup>32</sup> And the Lord betook Lachish in the hand of the sons of Israel; and Joshua took Lachish in the second day, and smote by the sharpness of sword, and each man, that was therein, as he had done to Libnah.

<sup>35</sup> and he smote by the sharpness of sword all men that were therein, by all things that he had done to Lachish.

<sup>37</sup> and he took, and smote it by the sharpness of sword; and the king thereof, and all the cities of that country, and all men that dwelled therein; he left not any things of value, or relics, therein; as he had done to Eglon so he did also to Hebron, and wasted by sword all things that were therein.

<sup>39</sup> and he smote by sharpness of sword the king thereof, and all the towns about it; and he left not any things of value, or relics, therein; as he had done to Hebron, and to Libnah, and to their kings, so he did to Debir, and to the king thereof.

<sup>40</sup> And so Joshua smote all the land of the hills [or all the mountain land], and of the south, and of the field, and Ashdod, with their kings; he left not therein any relics, but he killed all thing that might breath, as the Lord God of Israel commanded to him;

CHAPTER 11

<sup>2</sup> forsooth to the kings of the north, that dwelled in the hilly places [or mountains], and in the plain against the south of Chinneroth, and in the field places, and countries of Dor, beside the sea,

<sup>3</sup> and to Canaanite from the east and west, and to Amorite, and Hittite, and Perizzite, and Jebusite in the mountains, and to Hivite, that dwelled at the roots of the hill of Hermon, in the land of Mizpeh.

<sup>6</sup> And the Lord said to Joshua, Dread thou not them, for tomorrow, in this same hour, I shall betake all these men to be wounded in the sight of Israel; thou shalt hock the horses of them, and thou shalt burn the chariots by fire.

<sup>8</sup> And the Lord betook them into the hands of Israel; which smited them, and pursued till to Great Sidon, and the waters of Misrephothmaim, and to the field of Mizpeh, which is at the east part thereof.

<sup>10</sup> And he turned again anon, and took Hazor, and smote by sword the king thereof; for Hazor held by eld [or old] time the princehood among all these realms.

<sup>11</sup> And he smote all persons that dwelled there, he left not any relics therein, but he wasted all things till to death; also he destroyed that city by burning.

<sup>12</sup> And he took all cities by compass, and the kings of them, and smote, and did away, as Moses, the servant of the Lord, commanded to him,

<sup>13</sup> without [the] cities that were set in the great hills, and in [the] little hills [or hillocks]; and Israel burnt the other cities; flame wasted only one city, Hazor, the strongest.

<sup>14</sup> And the sons of Israel parted to themselves all the prey, and the work beasts of these cities, when all the men of them were slain.

<sup>15</sup> As the Lord commanded to his servant Moses, so Moses commanded to Joshua, and Joshua fulfilled all things; neither soothly he passed over one word of all the behests, that the Lord commanded to Moses.

<sup>16</sup> And so Joshua took all the land of the hills, and of the south, [and] the land of Goshen, and the plain, and the west coast, and the hill of Israel, and the field places thereof;

<sup>19</sup> there was no city, which betook not itself to the sons of Israel, except Hivites that dwelled in Gibeon; he took all men by battle.

<sup>20</sup> For it was the sentence of the Lord, that the hearts of them should be made hard, and that they should fight against Israel, and should fall, and [they] should not deserve any mercy, and should perish, as the Lord commanded, to Moses.

<sup>21</sup> Joshua came in that time, and killed Anakim, that is, giants, from the hilly places of Hebron, and of Debir, and of Anab, and from all the hill of Judah, and of Israel, and did away their cities.

<sup>23</sup> Then Joshua took all the land, as the Lord spake to Moses, and he gave it into possession to the sons of Israel, by their parts and lineages; and the land rested from battles.

CHAPTER 12

<sup>2</sup> Sihon, the king of Amorites, that dwelled in Heshbon, was lord from Aroer, which is set on the brink of the strand [or stream] of Arnon, and of the middle part in the valley, and of half Gilead, till to the strand [or stream] of Jabbok, which is the term of the sons of Ammon;

<sup>3</sup> and from the wilderness unto the sea of Chinneroth, against the east, and unto the sea of desert, which is the saltiest sea, at the east coast, in the way that leadeth to Bethjeshimoth, and from the south part that lieth under Ashdoth, unto Pisgah.

<sup>5</sup> and he was lord in the hill of Hermon, and in Salcah, and in all Bashan, till to the terms of Geshurites and Maachathites, and of the half part of Gilead, and to the term of Sihon, king of Heshbon.

<sup>6</sup> Moses, the servant of the Lord, and the sons of Israel, smited them; and Moses gave the land of them into possession to Reubenites, and to Gadites, and to half the lineage of Manasseh.

<sup>7</sup> These be the kings of the land, which Joshua and the sons of Israel smited beyond Jordan, at the west coast, from Baalgad in the field of Lebanon, till to the hill whose part ascendeth [or goeth up] into Seir; and Joshua gave it into possession to the lineages of Israel, to each his own part,

<sup>8</sup> as well in hilly places, as in plain and field places; in Ashtoreth, and in [the] wilderness, and in the south, was Hittites, and Amorites, Canaanites, and Perizzites, Hivites, and Jebusites.

- <sup>10</sup> the king of Jerusalem, one; the king of Hebron, one;
- <sup>11</sup> the king of Jarmuth, one; the king of Lachish, one;
- <sup>12</sup> the king of Eglon, one; the king of Gezer, one;
- <sup>13</sup> the king of Debir, one; the king of Geder, one;
- <sup>14</sup> the king of Hormah, one; the king of Arad, one;
- <sup>15</sup> the king of Libnah, one; the king of Adullam, one;
- <sup>16</sup> the king of Makkedah, one; the king of Bethel, one;
- <sup>17</sup> the king of Tappuah, one; the king of Hephher, one;
- <sup>18</sup> the king of Aphek, one; the king of Lasharon, one;
- <sup>19</sup> the king of Madon, one; the king of Hazor, one;
- <sup>20</sup> the king of Shimronmeron, one; the king of Achshaph, one;
- <sup>21</sup> the king of Taanach, one; the king of Megiddo, one;
- <sup>22</sup> the king of Kedesh, one; the king of Jokneam of Carmel, one;
- <sup>23</sup> the king of Dor and of the province of Dor, one; the king of folks of Gilgal, one;
- <sup>24</sup> the king of Tirzah, one; all the kings, one and thirty.

CHAPTER 13

<sup>1</sup> Joshua was eld [or old] and of great age; and the Lord said to him, Thou hast waxed eld, and art of long time; and the most large land is left, that is not yet parted by lot;

<sup>3</sup> from the troubled flood that moisteth Egypt, till to the terms of Ekron against the north; the land of Canaan, which is parted into five little kings of Philistines, of Gaza, and of Ashdod, of Ashkelon, of Gath, and of Ekron. Forsooth at the south be Avites,

<sup>6</sup> of all men that dwelled in the hill, from the Lebanon till to the waters of Misrephothmaim, and all men of Sidon; I am, that shall do away them from the face of the sons of Israel; therefore come it into the part of heritage of Israel, as I commanded to thee.

<sup>8</sup> with which lineage Reuben, and Gad, wielded the land, which land Moses, the servant of the Lord, gave to them beyond the flowings of Jordan, at the east coast;

<sup>9</sup> from Aroer, that is set in the brink of the strand [or stream] of Arnon, in [the] midst of the valley, and all the field places of Medeba, unto Dibon,

<sup>11</sup> and of Gilead, and to the terms of Geshurites, and of Maachathites, and all the hill of Hermon, and all Bashan, till to Salcah;

<sup>12</sup> all the realm of Og in Bashan, that reigned in Ashtaroth, and in Edrei; he was of the relics of Rephaim, that is, of giants; and Moses smote them, and did away them.

<sup>13</sup> And the sons of Israel would not destroy Geshurites, and Maachathites; and they dwelled in the midst of Israel, till into [the] present day.

<sup>14</sup> Soothly he gave not possession to the lineage of Levi, but [the] sacrifices, and [the] slain sacrifices of the Lord God of Israel; that is his heritage, as God spake to him.

<sup>16</sup> and their term was from Aroer, that is in the brink of the strand [or stream] of Arnon, and in the middle valley of the same strand [or stream], all the plain also that leadeth to Medeba,

<sup>17</sup> and to Heshbon, and all the towns of them, that be in the field places; and Dibon, and Bamothbaal, and the city of Bethbaalmeon,

<sup>27</sup> and in the valley he gave to them Betharam, and Bethnimrah, and Succoth, and Zaphon, that was the tother part of the realm of Sihon, the king of Heshbon; and the end of that term is Jordan, unto the last part of the sea of Chinnereth over Jordan, at the east coast.

<sup>29</sup> Moses gave also possession to the half lineage of Manasseh, and to his sons, by their kindreds, of which possession this is the beginning;

<sup>30</sup> he gave Mahanaim, and all Bashan, and all the realms of Og, king of Bashan, and all the towns of Jair, that be in Bashan, sixty cities;

<sup>33</sup> Forsooth Moses gave no possession to the lineage of Levi; for the Lord God himself of Israel is the pos-session of the kindred of Levi, as the Lord said to him.

CHAPTER 14

<sup>1</sup> This is the possession that the sons of Israel wielded in the land of Canaan, which land Eleazar the priest, and Joshua, the son of Nun, and the princes of the meines of the lineages of Israel gave to them,

<sup>3</sup> For Moses had given to the two lineages and to the half lineage possession over Jordan; without the Levites, that took nothing of the land among their brethren;

<sup>4</sup> but the sons of Joseph were parted into two lineages, of Manasseh, and of Ephraim, and were heirs into the place of them. And the Levites took none other part in the land, no but cities to dwell in, and the suburbs of those [or them] to their work beasts and their sheep to be fed in.

<sup>5</sup> As the Lord commanded to Moses, so the sons of Israel did, and they parted the land.

<sup>6</sup> And so the sons of Judah went to Joshua in Gilgal; and Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, of Kenaz, spake to him, Thou knowest, what the Lord spake to Moses, the man of God, of me and of thee in Kadeshbarnea.

<sup>7</sup> I was of forty years, when Moses, the servant of the Lord, sent me from Kadeshbarnea, that I should behold the land, and I told to him that, that seemed sooth to me.

<sup>8</sup> And my brethren, that went up with me, discomforted the heart of the people, and nevertheless I pursued [or followed] my Lord God.

<sup>9</sup> And Moses swore in that day, and said, The land, that thy foot hath trodden, shall be thy possession, and of thy sons without end; for thou pursuedest [or hast followed] thy Lord God.

<sup>10</sup> Soothly the Lord granted life to me, as he promised, till into present day. Forty years and five be, since the Lord spake this word to Moses, when Israel went through wilderness. Today I am of fourscore years and five,

<sup>11</sup> and I am as mighty, as I was mighty in that time, when I was sent to espy; the strength of that time dwelleth stably in me till to this day, as well to fight, as to go.

<sup>12</sup> Therefore give thou to me this hill, which the Lord promised to me, while also thou heardest, in which hill be Anakim, and great cities, and strengthened; if in hap the Lord is with me, and I may do them away, as he promised to me.

<sup>14</sup> And from that time Hebron was of Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, of Kenaz, unto this present day; for he pursued [or followed] the Lord God of Israel.

<sup>15</sup> The name of Hebron was called before Kiriatharba. Arba, the greatest, was set there in the land of Anakim; and the land ceased from battles.

CHAPTER 15

<sup>1</sup> Then this was the part of the sons of Judah, by their kindreds; from the term of Edom till to the desert of Zin against the south, and till to the last part of the south coast,

<sup>3</sup> And it goeth out against the ascending [or going up] of Scorpion, and passeth into Zin; and it ascendeth [or went up] into Kadeshbarnea, and cometh into Hebron, and it ascendeth to Adar, and compasseth Karkaa;

<sup>4</sup> and from thence it passeth into Azmon, and cometh to the strand [or stream] of Egypt; and the terms thereof shall be the great sea; this shall be the end of the south coast.

<sup>5</sup> And from the east the beginning shall be the saltiest sea, unto the last parts of Jordan, and those parts that behold the north, from the arm of the sea unto the same flood of Jordan.

<sup>6</sup> And the term ascendeth into Bethhogla, and passeth from the north into Betharabah; and it ascendeth to the stone of Bohan, [the] son of Reuben,

<sup>7</sup> and it goeth unto the terms of Debir, from the valley of Achor against the north; and it beholdeth Gilgal, which is on the contrary part of the ascending [or going up] of Adummim, from the south part of the strand [or stream]; and it passeth the waters, that be called the well of the sun; and the outgoings thereof shall be to the well of Rogel.

<sup>8</sup> And it goeth up by the valley of the son of Hinnom, by the side of Jebusites, at the south; this is Jerusalem; and from thence it up-raiseth itself to the top of the hill,

<sup>9</sup> and it passeth forth from the top of the hill to the well of the water of Nephtoah, and it cometh unto the towns of the hill of Ephron; and it is bowed into Baalah, that is Kiriath-jearim, that is, the city of woods;

<sup>10</sup> and it compasseth from Baalah against the west, unto the hill of Seir, and it passeth by the side of the hill of Jearim to the north in Chesalon, and it goeth down into Bethshemesh; and it passeth forth into Timnah,

<sup>11</sup> and it cometh against the parts of the north by the side of Ekron; and it is bowed to Shicron, and it passeth the hill of Baalah; and it cometh into Jabneel,

<sup>13</sup> And Joshua gave to Caleb, the son of Jephunneh, part in the midst of the sons of Judah, as the Lord commanded to him, this part called Kiriatharba, of the father of Anak; that is Hebron.

<sup>15</sup> And Caleb went up from thence, and he came to the dwellers of Debir, that was called before Kiriathsepher, that is, the city of letters.

<sup>18</sup> And when she went together, her husband counselled her, that she should ask of her father a field; and she sighed, as she sat upon the ass; and Caleb said to her, What hast thou in thy mind?

<sup>19</sup> And she answered, Give thou a blessing to me; thou hast given to me the south land and dry; join thou also thereto a moist land. And Caleb gave to her the moist land, above and beneath.

<sup>47</sup> Ashdod with his towns and villages; Gaza with his towns and villages, till to the strand [or stream] of Egypt; and the great sea is the term thereof;
<sup>55</sup> Maon, and Carmel, and Ziph, and Juttah,
<sup>56</sup> Jezreel, and Jokdeam, and Zanoah,
<sup>62</sup> Nibshan, and the city of Salt, and Engedi; six cities, and their towns; the cities were altogether an hundred and fifteen.

CHAPTER 16

<sup>3</sup> and it goeth down to the west, beside the term of Japhleti, unto the terms of the lower Bethhoron, and of Gezer; and the countries thereof be ended with the great sea,
<sup>5</sup> And the term of the sons of Ephraim, by their meines, and the possession of them was made against the east, Atarothaddar till to the higher Bethhoron.
<sup>6</sup> And the coasts go out into the sea; for Michmethah beholdeth the north, and it compasseth the terms against the east in Taanathshiloh, and it passeth from the strand [or stream] of Janohah;
<sup>7</sup> and it goeth down from Janohah into Atarothaddar, and into Naarath, and it cometh into Jericho; and it goeth out to Jordan
<sup>8</sup> from Tappuah, and passeth against the sea into the valley of the place of reeds; and the goings out thereof be unto the saltiest sea. This is the possession [of the lineage] of the sons of Ephraim, by their meines;

<sup>9</sup> and the cities and the towns of those [or them] be separated to the sons of Ephraim, in the midst of the possession of the sons of Manasseh.

<sup>10</sup> And the sons of Ephraim killed not Canaanites, that dwelled in Gezer; and Canaanites dwelled tributary in the midst of Ephraim till to this day.

CHAPTER 17

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth lot felled to the lineage of Manasseh, for he is the first engendered son of Joseph; lot felled to Machir, the first engendered son of Manasseh, to the father of Gilead, that was a warrior, and he had [the] possession Gilead and Bashan.

<sup>2</sup> And lot felled to the others of the sons of Manasseh, by their meines; to the sons of Abiezer, and to the sons of Helek, and to the sons of Asriel, and to the sons of Shechem, and to the sons of Hephher, and to the sons of Shemida; these be the sons of Manasseh, the son of Joseph, the male children, by their meines.

<sup>3</sup> But to Zelophehad, the son of Hephher, son of Gilead, son of Machir, son of Manasseh, there were not sons, but daughters alone; of which these be the names, Mahlah, and Noah, and Hoglah, and Milcah, and Tirzah.

<sup>4</sup> And they came in the sight of Eleazar, [the] priest, and of Joshua, [the] son of Nun, and of the princes, and said, The Lord commanded by the hand of Moses, that possession should be given to us in the midst of our brethren. And Joshua gave to them possession, by the commandment of the Lord, in the midst of the brethren of their father.

<sup>9</sup> And the term of the valley of the place of reeds goeth down in the south of the strand [or stream] of the cities of Ephraim, that be in the midst of the cities of Manasseh. The term of Manasseh is from the north of the strand [or stream], and the going out thereof goeth to the sea;

<sup>10</sup> so that the possession of Ephraim is from the south, and the possession of Manasseh is from the north, and the sea closeth ever either; and those possessions be joined to themselves in the lineage of Asher from the north, and in the lineage of Issachar from the east.

<sup>11</sup> And the heritage of Manasseh was in Issachar and in Asher, Bethshean, and the towns thereof, and Ibleam, with his towns, and the dwellers of Dor, with their cities, and the dwellers of Endor, with their towns, and also the dwellers of Taanach, with their towns, and the dwellers of Megiddo, with their towns, and the third part of the city Naphath*.

<sup>13</sup> And after that the sons of Israel had waxed strong, they made subject Canaanites, and they made them tributaries to themselves, and they killed them not.

* CHAPTER 17:11 The Hebrew meaning of this phrase, 'and the third part of the city Naphath', is unclear; other possibilities include: 'even the three countries, or regions', 'even the three heights', and 'and the third is Naphath, that is, the hills of Dor'.

<sup>14</sup> And the sons of Joseph spake to Joshua, and said, Why hast thou given to me land into possession of one lot and [one] part, since I am of so great multitude, and the Lord hath blessed me, that is, hath alarged me in children?

<sup>15</sup> To whom Joshua said, If thou art a much people, go thou up into the wood, and cut down to thee spaces in the land of Perizzites, and of Rephaim, for the possession of the hill of Ephraim is strait to thee.

<sup>16</sup> To whom the sons of Joseph answered, We may not ascend [or go up] to the hilly places, since Canaanites, that dwell in the land of the field, use iron chariots; in which land Bethshean, with his towns, and Jezreel, wielding the middle valley, be set.

<sup>17</sup> And Joshua said to the house of Joseph, and of Ephraim, and of Manasseh, Thou art [a] much people, and of great strength; thou shalt not have one lot, <sup>18</sup> but thou shalt pass to the hill, and thou shalt cut down to thee trees; and thou shalt cleanse spaces to dwell in. And thou shalt be able to go forth further, when thou hast destroyed Canaanites, whom thou sayest to have iron chariots, and to be most strong.

CHAPTER 18

<sup>1</sup> And all the sons of Israel were gathered in Shiloh, and there they setted fast [or pitched] the tabernacle of witnessing; and the land was subject to them.

<sup>3</sup> To the which Joshua said, How long fade ye, or wallow through sloth, and enter not to wield the land, which the Lord God of your fathers hath given to you?

<sup>4</sup> Choose ye of each lineage three men, that I send them, and they go, and compass the land; and that they describe the land by the number of each multitude, and bring to me that, that ye have described.

<sup>6</sup> describe ye the middle land betwixt them into seven parts; and then ye shall come to me, that I send lot to you here before your Lord God;

<sup>7</sup> for the part of Levites is not among you, but the priesthood of the Lord, this is the heritage of them. For Gad, and Reuben, and the half lineage of Manasseh, have taken now their possession beyond Jordan, at the east coast, which Moses, the servant of the Lord, gave to them.

<sup>8</sup> And when the men had risen up to go, to describe the land, Joshua commanded to them, and said, Compass ye the land, and describe it, and turn again to me, that I send lot to you here in Shiloh, before your Lord God.

<sup>9</sup> And so they went forth, and compassed that land, and parted it into seven parts, writing it in a book; and they turned again to Joshua, into the tents in Shiloh.

<sup>10</sup> And Joshua sent lots before the Lord God in Shiloh, and he parted the land to the sons of Israel, into seven parts.

<sup>11</sup> And the first lot of the sons of Benjamin, by their meines, went up, that they should wield the land betwixt the sons of Judah and the sons of Joseph.

<sup>12</sup> And the term of them was against the north from Jordan, and it passed by the side of Jericho at the north coast; and it ascended from thence against the west to the hilly places, and it came to the wilderness of Bethaven;

<sup>13</sup> and it passed beside Luz to the south; that is Bethel; and it goeth down into Atarothaddar, into the hill which is at the south of Lower Bethharon; which is called also Kiriathjearim, the city of the sons of Judah; this is the great coast against the sea, at the west.

<sup>14</sup> and it is bowed, and it compasseth against the sea, at the south of the hill that beholdeth Bethharon against the north; and the outgoings thereof be into Kiriathbaal,

<sup>16</sup> and it goeth down into the part of the hill that beholdeth the valley of the sons of Hinnom, and it is against the north coast, in the last part of the valley of Rephaim; and Ge Hinnom, that is, the valley of Hinnom, goeth down by the side of Jebusites, at the south, and cometh to the well of Rogel,

<sup>17</sup> and it passeth to the north, and it goeth out to Enshemesh, that is, the well of the sun, and it passeth unto the little hills that be against the ascending or going up of Adummim; and it goeth down to Even Bohan, that is, the stone of Bohan, the son of Reuben,

<sup>18</sup> and passed by the side of the north to the field places; and it goeth down into the plain,

<sup>19</sup> and it passeth forth against the north to Bethhoglah; and the outgoings thereof be against the arm of the saltiest sea, from the north, and the end of Jordan is at the south coast,

CHAPTER 19

<sup>8</sup> all the towns by compass of these cities, unto Baalathbeer Ramath, against the south coast, were seventeen cities. This is the heritage of the sons of Simeon, by their meines,

<sup>9</sup> in the possession and part of the sons of Judah, for it was more; and therefore the sons of Simeon had possession in the midst of the heritage thereof.

<sup>10</sup> And the third lot of the sons of Zebulun felled, by their meines; and the term of possession of the sons of Zebulun was made unto Sarid;

<sup>11</sup> and it goeth up from the sea, and from Maralah; and it cometh into Dabbasheth, unto the strand [or stream] that is against Jokneam;

* CHAPTER 19:6 In verse 2, the Hebrew text adds, 'and Sheba', making fourteen cities.

<sup>12</sup> and it turneth again from Sarid, against the east, into the coasts of Chislothtabor; and it goeth out to Daberath; and it goeth up against Japhia;

<sup>14</sup> and it compasseth to the north, and to Hannathon; and the goings out thereof be the valley of Jiphthahel,

<sup>29</sup> and it turneth again into Ramah, unto the strongest city Tyre, and unto Hosah; and the outgoings thereof shall be into the sea, from the part of Achzib,

<sup>33</sup> and the term began from Heleph, and Allon, and Zaanannim, and Adami, which is Nekeb, and Jabneel, till to Lakum; and the outgoings of them till to Jordan;

<sup>47</sup> And the sons of Dan went up, and fought against Leshem; and they took it, and they smote it by the sharpness of sword, and they had it in possession, and dwelled therein; and they called the name thereof Leshem Dan, by the name of Dan, their father.

<sup>49</sup> And when they had fulfilled to part the land by lot to all men by their lineages, the sons of Israel gave possession to Joshua, the son of Nun, in the midst of them,

<sup>50</sup> by the commandment of the Lord, the city which he asked, Timnathserah, in the hill of Ephraim; and he builded the city, and dwelled therein.

<sup>51</sup> These be the possessions which Eleazar, the priest, and Joshua, the son of Nun, and the princes of the meines, and of the lineages of the sons of Israel, parted by lot in Shiloh, before the Lord, at the door of the tabernacle of witnessing; and they parted the land.

CHAPTER 20

<sup>2</sup> Speak thou to the sons of Israel, and say thou to them, Separate ye the cities of fugitives, either of men exiled for unwilling shedding of blood, of which cities I spake to you by the hand of Moses,

<sup>3</sup> that whoever slayeth unwittingly a man, flee to those cities; that when he hath fled to one of those cities, he may escape the ire [or wrath] of the neighbour, which is avenger of blood.

<sup>4</sup> And he shall stand before the gates of the city, and he shall speak to the elder men of that city those things that shall prove him innocent; and so they shall receive him, and they shall give to him a place to dwell in.

<sup>5</sup> And when the avenger of blood pursueth him, they of that city shall not betake him into the hands of the avenger; for unwittingly he killed his neighbour, and he is not proved his enemy before the second day either the third day.

<sup>6</sup> And he shall dwell in that city, till he stand before the doom, and yield, or show, the cause of his deed. And he that killed a man, dwell in that city, till the great priest die, which is in that time; then the manslayer shall turn again, and he shall enter into his city, and house, from which he fled.

<sup>8</sup> And beyond Jordan, against the east coast of Jericho, they ordained Bezer, that is set in the field wilderness of the lineage of Reuben, and Ramoth in Gilead, of the lineage of Gad, and Golan in Bashan, of the lineage of Manasseh.

<sup>9</sup> These cities were ordained to all the sons of Israel, and to the comelings that dwell among them, that he that killed unwittingly a man, should flee to those cities; and he should not die in the hand of the neighbour, coveting to avenge the blood shed out, till he stood before the people, to declare his cause.

CHAPTER 21

<sup>1</sup> And the princes of the meines of Levi nighed to Eleazar, the priest, and to Joshua, the son of Nun, and to the dukes of the kindreds, by all the lineages of the sons of Israel;

<sup>2</sup> and they spake to them in Shiloh, a city of the land of Canaan, and they said, The Lord commanded by the hand of Moses, that cities should be given to us to dwell in, and the suburbs of those [or them] for our work beasts to be fed in.

<sup>4</sup> And the lot went out into the meine of Kohath, of the sons of Aaron, the priest, of the lineages of Judah, and of Simeon, and of Benjamin, thirteen cities;

<sup>5</sup> and to the others of the sons of Kohath, that is, to the deacons [or Levites] that were left, of the lineages of Ephraim, and of Dan, and of the half lineage of Manasseh, ten cities.

<sup>6</sup> And lot went out to the sons of Gershon, that they should take of the lineages of Issachar, and of Asher, and of Naphtali, and of the half lineage of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteen cities in number;

<sup>8</sup> And the sons of Israel gave to the deacons [or Levites] cities, and their suburbs, as the Lord commanded by the hand of Moses; and all gave by lot.

<sup>10</sup> to the sons of Aaron, by the meines of Kohath, of the kin of Levi, of the which cities these be the names; for the first lot went out to them;

<sup>41</sup> And so all the cities of Levites, in the midst of [the] possession of the sons of Israel, were eight and forty, with their suburbs;

<sup>42</sup> and all cities were parted by meines.

<sup>43</sup> And the Lord gave to Israel all the land that he swore himself to give to their fathers, and they had it in possession, and dwelled therein.

<sup>44</sup> And peace was given of the Lord into all nations about; and none of [the] enemies were hardy to withstand the sons of Israel, but all men were driven into their lordship.

<sup>45</sup> Forsooth neither one word, that he promised himself to give to Israel, was void, but all his words were fulfilled in works.

CHAPTER 22

<sup>1</sup> In the same time Joshua called the men of Reuben, and the men of Gad, and half the lineage of Manasseh,

<sup>2</sup> and said to them, Ye have done all things which Moses, the servant of the Lord, commanded to you, also ye [have] obeyed to me in all things;

<sup>4</sup> Therefore for your Lord God hath given rest and peace to your brethren, as he promised, turn ye again, and go ye into your tabernacles, and into the land of your possession, which land Moses, the servant of the Lord, gave to you beyond Jordan;

<sup>5</sup> so only that ye keep busily, and [ful] fill in work the commandment and [the] law, which law Moses, the servant of the Lord, commanded to you; that ye love your Lord God, and go in all his ways, and keep his behests, and cleave to him, and serve him in all your heart, and in all your soul.

<sup>8</sup> he said to them, With much cattle and riches turn ye again to your seats; with silver and gold, and brass, and iron, and with much clothing; part ye the prey of [the] enemies with your brethren.

<sup>9</sup> And the sons of Reuben, and the sons of Gad, and the half lineage of Manasseh turned again, and went from the sons of Israel from Shiloh, which is set in the land of Canaan, that they should enter into Gilead, the land of their possession, which they got by [the] commandment of the Lord in the hand of Moses.

<sup>11</sup> And when the sons of Israel had heard this, and certain messengers had told to them, that the sons of Reuben, and of Gad, and the half lineage of Manasseh, had builded an altar in the land of Canaan, on the heaps of Jordan, against the sons of Israel,

<sup>13</sup> And in the meantime, they sent to them into the land of Gilead, Phinehas, the priest, the son of Eleazar,

<sup>15</sup> The which came to the sons of Reuben, and of Gad, and to the half lineage of Manasseh, into the land of Gilead, and they said to them,

<sup>16</sup> All the people of the Lord sendeth to you, these things; What is this trespassing? Why have ye forsaken the Lord God of Israel, and have builded a cursed altar, and have gone away from the worshipping of him?

<sup>17</sup> Whether the sin of Peor is little to you, of which we be not clean till to this day, and many of the people felled down?

<sup>18</sup> And today ye have forsaken the Lord, and tomorrow, that is, in time to coming, the ire [or wrath] of him shall be fierce against all Israel.

<sup>19</sup> That if ye guess that the land of your possession is unclean, pass ye to the land, in which the tabernacle of the Lord is, and dwell ye among us, only that ye go not away from the Lord, and from our fellowship, by an altar builded beside the altar of our Lord God.

<sup>20</sup> Whether not Achan, the son of Zerah, trespassed the commandment of the Lord, and his ire felled on all the people of Israel? And he was one man; and we would that he alone had perished in his trespass.

<sup>23</sup> if we builded this altar for intent of trespassing, that is, of idolatry, the Lord keep not us, but punish he us in this present time; and if we did by that mind, that we should put thereon burnt sacrifice[s], and sacrifice, and peaceable sacrifices, he seek, and deem;

<sup>24</sup> and not more, rather; we did it with this thinking and treating, that we should say thus, Your sons here-after shall say to our sons, What is to you and to the Lord God of Israel? or; What claim ye to be of his people?

<sup>25</sup> O! ye sons of Reuben, and ye sons of Gad, the Lord hath set a term, the flood Jordan, betwixt us and you; and therefore ye have no part in the Lord; and by this occasion your sons shall turn away our sons from the dread of the Lord.

<sup>26</sup> Therefore we guessed better, and we said, Build we an altar to us, not into burnt sacrifices, neither to sacrifices to be offered,

<sup>27</sup> but into witnessing betwixt us and you, and betwixt our children and your generation, that we serve the Lord, and that it be of our right to offer burnt sacrifices, and sacrifices, and peaceable sacrifices; and that your sons say not tomorrow to our sons, No part in the Lord is to you.

<sup>28</sup> And if your sons will say this, our sons shall answer them, Lo! the altar of the Lord, which our fathers made, not into burnt sacrifices, neither into slain sacrifices, but into our and your witnessing everlasting.

<sup>29</sup> Far be this trespass from us, that we go away from the Lord, and forsake his steps, by an altar builded to burnt sacrifices, and slain sacrifices, and sacrifices of praising to be offered thereon, besides the altar of the Lord our God, that is builded before his tabernacle.

<sup>30</sup> And when these things were heard, Phinehas, [the] priest, and [the] princes of the message of Israel, that were with him, were pleased; and they received gladly the words of the sons of Reuben, and of Gad, and of the half lineage of Manasseh.

<sup>31</sup> And Phinehas, the priest, the son of Eleazar, said to them, Now we know, that the Lord is with you; for ye be alien, or guiltless, from this trespassing, and ye have delivered the sons of Israel from the hand, or punishing, of the Lord.

<sup>32</sup> And Phinehas turned again with the princes from the sons of Reuben and of Gad, from the land of Gilead to the coast of Canaan, to the sons of Israel; and he told these things to them.

<sup>33</sup> And the word pleased to all men hearing it; and the sons of Israel praised God, and said, that they would no more ascend [or go up] against them, and fight, and do away the land of their possession.

<sup>34</sup> And the sons of Reuben and the sons of Gad called the altar, which they had builded, Our Witnessing that the Lord Himself is God.

CHAPTER 23

<sup>1</sup> And when much time was passed after that the Lord had given peace to Israel, and when all nations about were subjected; and when Joshua was now of long life, and of full eld [or old] age,

<sup>2</sup> Joshua called all Israel, and the greater men in birth, and the princes, and dukes, and masters, and he said to them, I have elded, and I am of full great age;

<sup>5</sup> your Lord God shall destroy them, and he shall take them away from your face; and ye shall wield their land, as he promised to you.

<sup>7</sup> lest after that ye have entered to the heathen men, that shall be among you, ye swear in the name of their gods, and serve those gods, and worship them.

<sup>9</sup> and then the Lord God shall do away in your sight great folks, and strongest; and none shall be able to against-stand you.

<sup>12</sup> That if ye will cleave to the errors of these folks that dwell among you, and will meddle [or mingle] marriages with them, and couple friendships,

<sup>13</sup> know ye right now, that the Lord your God shall not do away them before your face, but they shall be to you into a ditch, and into a snare, and into hurting of your side, and into stakes in your eyes, till your Lord God take away you, and destroy you from this best land, which he gave to you.

<sup>14</sup> Lo! I enter today into the way of all earth, for soon I shall die, as each man shall; and ye shall know with all soul, that of all [the] words which the Lord promised himself to give to you, not one passed by in vain.

<sup>15</sup> Therefore as he [ful] filled in work that, that he promised, and all things befelled by prosperity, so he shall bring on you whatever thing of evils he menaced [or threatened], till he take away you, and destroy [you] from this best land, which he gave to you.

<sup>16</sup> For ye brake the covenant of your Lord God, which he made with you, and served alien gods, and worship-ped them, soon and swiftly the strong vengeance of the Lord shall rise onto you; and ye shall be taken away from this best land, which he gave to you.

CHAPTER 24

<sup>1</sup> And Joshua gathered all the lineages of Israel into Shechem; and he called the greater men in birth, and the princes, and judges, and masters; and they stood in the sight of the Lord.

<sup>2</sup> And Joshua spake thus to the people, The Lord God of Israel saith these things, Your fathers dwelled at the beginning beyond the flood Euphrates, Terah, the father of Abraham and Nachor, and they served alien gods.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore I took your father Abraham from the coasts of Mesopotamia, and I brought him into the land of Canaan; and I multiplied his seed, and I gave Isaac to him;

<sup>4</sup> and again, I gave to Isaac, Jacob, and Esau; of which I gave to Esau the hill of Seir, to have in possession; and Jacob and his sons went down into Egypt.

<sup>5</sup> And I sent Moses and Aaron, and I smote Egypt with many signs and wonders, and I led you

<sup>7</sup> And the sons of Israel cried to the Lord, and he put darkneses betwixt you and [the] Egyptians; and he brought the sea on them, and covered them. Your eyes have seen all things, which I did in Egypt. And ye dwelled in wilderness much time.

<sup>8</sup> And I brought you into the land of Amorites, that dwelled beyond Jordan; and when they fought against you, I betook them into your hands, and ye had their land in possession, and ye killed them.

<sup>9</sup> And Balak, the son of Zippor, the king of Moab, rose, and fought against Israel; and he sent, and called Balaam, the son of Beor, that he should curse you.

<sup>10</sup> And I would not hear him, but on the contrary by Balaam I blessed you, and I delivered you from the hands of Balak.

<sup>11</sup> And ye passed [over] Jordan, and came to Jericho; and men of that city fought against you, Amorites, and Perizzites, and Canaanites, Hittites, and Girgashites, and Hivites, and Jebusites; and I betook them into your hands.

<sup>12</sup> And I sent flies with venomous tongues before you, and I casted them out of their places; I killed [the] two kings of Amorites, not in thy sword, nor in thy bow.

<sup>13</sup> And I gave to you the land in which ye travailed not, and cities which ye builded not, that ye should dwell in those, and vineries, and places of olive trees, which ye planted not.

<sup>14</sup> Now therefore dread ye the Lord, and serve ye him with perfect heart and most true; and do ye away the gods, to which your fathers served in Mesopotamia, and in Egypt; and serve ye the Lord.

<sup>15</sup> But if it seemeth evil to you, that ye serve the Lord, choosing is given to you; choose ye to you today that, that pleaseth, whom ye owe most to serve; whether to gods, which your fathers served in Mesopotamia, whether to the gods of Amorites, in whose land ye dwell; forsooth I, and mine house, shall serve the Lord.

<sup>16</sup> And all the people answered, and said, Far be it from us that we forsake the Lord, and serve alien gods.

<sup>17</sup> Our Lord God himself led us and our fathers out of the land of Egypt, from the house of servage, and did great signs in our sight; and he kept us in all the way, by which we went, and in all peoples, by which we passed;

<sup>18</sup> and he casted out all folks, Amorites, the dwellers of the land, into which we entered. Therefore we shall serve the Lord, for he is our Lord God.

<sup>19</sup> And Joshua said to the people, Ye may not serve the Lord; for God is holy, and a strong fervent lover, and he forgiveth not your trespasses and sins.

<sup>20</sup> If ye forsake the Lord, and serve alien gods, the Lord shall turn himself from you, and he shall torment, and destroy you, after that he hath given good things to you.

<sup>21</sup> And the people said to Joshua, It shall not be so, as thou speakest, but we shall serve the Lord.

<sup>22</sup> And Joshua said to the people, Ye be witnesses, that ye have chosen the Lord to you, that ye serve him. And they answered, We be witnesses.

<sup>23</sup> Therefore, he said, now do ye away alien gods from the midst of you, and bow ye your hearts to the Lord God of Israel.

<sup>24</sup> And the people said to Joshua, We shall serve the Lord our God, and we shall be obedient to his behests.

<sup>26</sup> And he wrote all these words in the book of God's law. And he took a great stone, and putted it under an oak, that was in the saintuary of the Lord.

<sup>27</sup> And he said to all the people, Lo! this stone shall be to you into witnessing, that ye [have] heard all the words of the Lord, which he spake to you, lest peradventure ye would deny afterward, and lie to your Lord God.

<sup>31</sup> And Israel served the Lord in all the days of Joshua, and of the elder men, that lived long time after Joshua, and which elder men knew all the works of the Lord, which he had done in Israel.

<sup>32</sup> Also the bones of Joseph, the which the sons of Israel bare from Egypt, they buried in Shechem, in a part of the field, the which field Jacob bought of the sons of Hamor, the father of Shechem, for an hundred young sheep; and that field was into possession of the sons of Joseph.

<sup>33</sup> Also Eleazar, the son of Aaron, the priest, died; and Phinehas and his sons buried him in Gibeah, which was given to him in the hill of Ephraim.

JUDGES

<sup>3</sup> And Judah said to Simeon, his brother, Go thou up with me in my lot, and fight thou against Canaanites, that I go with thee in thy lot. And Simeon went with him;

<sup>7</sup> And Adonibezek said, Seventy kings, when the ends of their hands and of their feet were cut away, gathered remnants of meats under my board; as I have done, so God hath yielded to me. And they brought him into Jerusalem, and there he died.

<sup>8</sup> Then the sons of Judah fought against Jerusalem, and they took it, and they smote it by the sharpness of sword, and they betook all the city to burning.

<sup>10</sup> And Judah went against Canaanites, that dwelled in Hebron, whose name was by eld [or old] time Kiriatharba; and Judah killed Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmai.

<sup>11</sup> And from thence he went forth, and he came to the dwellers of Debir, whose eld [or old] name was Kiriath-sepher, that is, the city of letters.

<sup>12</sup> And Caleb said, I shall give Achsah, my daughter, wife to him that shall smite Kiriathsepher, and shall waste it.

<sup>14</sup> And her husband stirred her, going in the way, that she should ask of her father a field; and when she had sighed, sitting on the ass, Caleb said to her, What hast thou?

<sup>15</sup> And she answered, Give thou [a] blessing to me, for thou hast given a dry land to me; give thou to me also a moist land with waters. And Caleb gave to her the moist land above, and the moist land beneath.

<sup>16</sup> Forsooth the sons of Kenite, the father of Moses' wife, went up from the city of Palms with the sons of Judah, into the desert of his lot, which desert is at the south of Arad; and [they] dwelled with him.

<sup>17</sup> And Judah went with Simeon, his brother; and they smote altogether Canaanites, that dwelled in Zephath, and they killed him; and the name of that city was called Hormah, that is, cursing, either perfect destroying, for that city was destroyed utterly.

<sup>19</sup> And the Lord was with Judah, and he had in possession the hilly places; and he might not do away the dwellers of the valley, for they were plenteous in iron chariots, full of weapons, sharp as scythes.

<sup>20</sup> And the sons of Israel gave Hebron to Caleb, as Moses had said, and Caleb did away from it three sons of Anak.

<sup>21</sup> But the sons of Benjamin did not away Jebusites, the dwellers of Jerusalem; and Jebusites dwelled with the sons of Benjamin in Jerusalem unto this present day.

- <sup>23</sup> For when they besieged the city, that was called Luz before, <sup>24</sup> they saw a man going out of the city, and they said to him, Show thou to us the entering of the city, and we shall do mercy with thee.
<sup>25</sup> And when he had showed to them, they smote the city by sharpness of sword; and they delivered that man and all his kindred.
<sup>26</sup> And when he was delivered, he went into the land of Hittites, and builded there a city, and called it Luz; which is called so till into this present day.
<sup>27</sup> Also Manasseh did not away Beth-shean and Taanach with their towns, and the dwellers of Dor, and Ibleam, and Megiddo, with their towns; and Canaanites began to dwell with them.
<sup>28</sup> Soothly after that Israel was comforted, he made them tributaries, either to pay tribute, and would not do away them.
<sup>30</sup> Zebulun did not away the dwellers of Kitron, and of Nahalol; but Canaanites dwelled in the midst of him, and was made tributary to him.
<sup>31</sup> Also Asher did not away the dwellers of Accho, and of Sidon, of Ahlab, and of Achzib, and of Helbah, and of Aphik, and of Rehob;
<sup>33</sup> Naphtali did not away the dwellers of Bethshemesh, and of Bethanath; and he dwelled among Canaanites, the dwellers of the land; and Bethshe-mesh and Bethanath were tributaries to him.
<sup>34</sup> And Amorites held strait the sons of Dan in the hill, and he gave not place to them to go down to [the] plainer places;
<sup>35</sup> and he dwelled in the hill of Heres, which is interpreted, Witnessing, in Aijalon, and in Shaalbim. And the hand of the house of Joseph was made heavy, and he was made tributary to him.
<sup>36</sup> And the term of Amorites was from the ascending or going up of Scorpion, and from the stone, and [the] higher places.

CHAPTER 2

- <sup>1</sup> And the angel of the Lord went up from Gilgal to the place of Weepers, and said, I led you out of Egypt, and I brought you into the land, for which I swore to your fathers, and promised, that I should not make void my covenant with you into without end;
<sup>2</sup> so only that ye should not smite bond of peace with the dwellers of this land, and that ye destroy their altars; and you would not hear my voice. Why did ye these things?
<sup>3</sup> Wherefore I would not do them away from your face, that ye have them enemies, and that their gods be to you into falling.
<sup>4</sup> And when the angel of the Lord spake these words to all the sons of Israel, they raised [up] their voice, and wept;
<sup>5</sup> and the name of the place was called, the place of Weepers, either of tears; and they offered there sacrifices to the Lord.
<sup>7</sup> And they served the Lord in all the days of Joshua, and of the elder men that lived after him long time, and knew all the great works of the Lord, which he had done with Israel.

<sup>10</sup> And all that generation was gathered to their fathers; and other men of Israel rose up, that knew not the Lord, and the works which he had done with Israel.

<sup>12</sup> and forsook the Lord God of their fathers, that led them out of the land of Egypt; and they pursued [or followed] alien gods, the gods of peoples, that dwelled in the compass of them, and worshipped those gods, and they stirred the Lord to great wrath,

<sup>14</sup> And the Lord was wroth against Israel, and he betook them into the hands of ravishers, the which took them, and sold them to enemies, that dwelled by compass; and they might not against-stand their adversaries;

<sup>15</sup> but whither ever they would go, the hand of the Lord was on them, that is, to torment them, as he spake and swore to them; and they were tormented greatly.

<sup>17</sup> but they would not hear them, and they did fornication, that is, idolatry, with alien gods, and worshipped them. Soon they forsook the way, by which their fathers entered; and they heard the commandments of the Lord, and did all things contrary.

<sup>18</sup> And when the Lord raised up judges in their days, he was bowed by mercy, and he heard the wailings of them that were tormented, and he delivered them from the slaying of their destroyers.

<sup>19</sup> Soothly after that the judge was dead, they turned again, and did many things greater in evil than their fathers did; and they pursue [or following] alien gods, and served them, and worshipped them; they left not their own findings, and the hardest way by which they were wont to go.

<sup>20</sup> And the strong vengeance of the Lord was wroth against Israel, and he said, For this people hath made void my covenant which I covenanted with their fathers, and have despised to hear my voice;

CHAPTER 3

<sup>5</sup> And so the sons of Israel dwelled in the midst of Canaanites, of Hittites, and of Amorites, and of Perizzites, and of Hivites, and of Jebusites,

<sup>7</sup> And the sons of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord, and forgot their Lord God, and served Baalim, and Asheroth.

<sup>8</sup> And the Lord was wroth against Israel, and he betook them into the hands of Chushanrishathaim, king of Mesopotamia, and they served him eight years.

<sup>9</sup> And they cried to the Lord, and he raised to them a saviour, and delivered them, that is, Othniel, the son of Kenaz, and the younger brother of Caleb.

<sup>10</sup> And the spirit of the Lord was in him, and he deemed Israel. And he went out to battle, and the Lord betook into his hand Chushanrishathaim, king of Syria; and Othniel oppressed him.

<sup>12</sup> Forsooth the sons of Israel added to do evil in the sight of the Lord; and he comforted against them Eglon, the king of Moab, for they did evil in the sight of the Lord.

<sup>13</sup> And the Lord coupled to him the sons of Ammon and Amalek; and he went, and smote Israel, and had in possession the city of Palms.

<sup>15</sup> And afterward they cried to the Lord; and he raised to them a saviour, Ehud by name, the son of Gera, son of Benjamin, the which Ehud used ever either hand for the right hand. And the sons of Israel sent by him gifts, that is, tribute, to Eglon, king of Moab;

<sup>18</sup> And when he had given gifts to the king, he pursued [or followed] forth after his fellows that came with him;

<sup>19</sup> and he turned again from Gilgal, where the graven idols were, and he said to the king, O king, I have a privy word to thee. And the king commanded silence. And when all men were gone out, that were about him,

<sup>20</sup> Ehud entered to him; and the king sat alone in a summer parlour. And Ehud said, I have the word of God to thee. The which rose anon from his throne.

<sup>22</sup> that the pommel, either hilt, pursued [or followed] the iron in the wound, and was holden strait in the thickest fatness within; and Ehud drew not out the sword, but so as he had smitten Eglon, he left it in his body; and anon by the privates of mankind, the turds of the womb burst out.

<sup>24</sup> Ehud went out by a porch. And the king's servants entered, not into the parlour; but into the porch, and they saw the doors of the parlour closed, and they said, In hap he purgeth the womb in the summer parlour.

<sup>25</sup> And they abode so long, till they were ashamed; and they saw that no man opened the door, and they took the key, and they opened, and they found their lord lying dead on the earth.

<sup>26</sup> And while they were troubled, Ehud fled out, and passed the place of the graven idols, from whence he turned again; and he came into Seirath.

<sup>27</sup> And anon he sounded with a clarion in the hill of Ephraim; and the sons of Israel came down with him, and he went in the front.

<sup>28</sup> Which said to them, Follow ye me, for the Lord hath betaken our enemies, Moabites, into our hands. And they came down after him, and occupied the fords of Jordan, that led over into Moab. And they suffered not any man to pass [over],

<sup>30</sup> And Moab was made low in that day under the hand of Israel, and the land rested eighty years.

<sup>31</sup> After him was Shamgar, the son of Anath, that smote of Philistines six hundred men with a goad of ox; and he also defended Israel.

CHAPTER 4

<sup>2</sup> And the Lord betook them into the hands of Jabin, king of Canaan, that reigned in Hazor; and he had a duke of his host, Sisera by name; and he dwelled in Harosheth of heathen men.

<sup>3</sup> And the sons of Israel cried to the Lord; for Jabin had nine hundred iron chariots, full of weapons, sharp as scythes, and twenty years he oppressed Israel greatly.

<sup>4</sup> And Deborah was a prophetess, the wife of Lapidoth, the which Deborah deemed the people of Israel in that time;

<sup>5</sup> and she sat under a palm tree, that was called by her name, betwixt Ramah and Bethel, in the hill of Ephraim; and the sons of Israel went up to her at each doom.

<sup>6</sup> And she sent, and called Barak, the son of Abinoam, of Kedesh of Naphtali, and she said to him, The Lord God of Israel commanded to thee, Go thou, and lead an host into the hill of Tabor; and thou shalt take with thee ten thousand of fighters of the sons of Naphtali and of the sons of Zebulun.

<sup>7</sup> And I shall bring to thee, in the place of the strand [or stream] of Kishon, Sisera, the prince of Jabin's host, and his chariots, and all the multitude; and I shall betake them in thine hand.

<sup>8</sup> And Barak said to her, If thou comest with me, I shall go; if thou wilt not come with me, I shall not go.

<sup>9</sup> And she said to him, Soothly I shall go with thee; but in this time the victory shall not be areckoned to thee; for Sisera shall be betaken into the hand of a woman. And so Deborah rose, and went with Barak into Kedesh.

<sup>10</sup> And when Zebulun and Naphtali were called, Barak ascended [or went up] with ten thousand of fighters, and had Deborah in his fellowship.

<sup>11</sup> Forsooth Heber of Kenites had parted some time from other Kenites his brethren, [the] sons of Hobab, the father of Moses' wife; and he had set forth tabernacles till to the valley, which is called Zaanaim, and was beside Kedesh.

<sup>12</sup> And it was told to Sisera, that Barak, the son of Abinoam, had gone up into the hill of Tabor.

<sup>14</sup> And Deborah said to Barak, Rise thou up, for this is the day, in which the Lord hath betaken Sisera into thine hands; lo! the Lord is thy leader. And so Barak came down from the hill of Tabor, and ten thousand of fighters with him.

<sup>15</sup> And the Lord made afeared Sisera, and all his chariots, and all the multitude, by the sharpness of sword, at the sight of Barak, in so much that Sisera leaped down off the chariot, and fled on foot.

<sup>16</sup> And Barak pursued the chariots fleeing, and the host, till to Harosheth of heathen men; and all the multitude of [the] enemies felled down till to death.

<sup>17</sup> And Sisera fled, and came to the tent of Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite; for peace was betwixt Jabin, king of Hazor, and betwixt the house of Heber the Kenite.

<sup>18</sup> Therefore Jael went out into the coming of Sisera, and said to him, My lord, enter thou to me, enter thou to me; dread thou not. And he entered into her tabernacle, and he was covered of her with a mantle.

<sup>19</sup> And he said to her, I beseech thee, give me a little water, for I thirst greatly. And she opened a bottle of milk, and gave to him to drink, and covered him.

<sup>21</sup> And so Jael, the wife of Heber, took a nail of the tabernacle, and she took also an hammer; and she entered privily, and with silence she put the nail upon the temple of his head, and she fastened the nail smitten with the hammer into his brain, unto the earth; and he slept, and died together; and he failed life, and was dead.

<sup>22</sup> And lo! Barak pursued [or followed] Sisera, and came; and Jael went out into his coming, and said to him, Come, and I shall show to thee the man whom thou seekest. And when he had entered to her, he saw Sisera lying dead, and a nail fastened into his temples.

CHAPTER 5

<sup>3</sup> Ye kings, hear; ye princes, perceive with ears; I am, I am the woman, that shall sing to the Lord; I shall sing to the Lord God of Israel.

<sup>6</sup> In the days of Shamgar, the son of Anath, in the days of Jael, [the] paths rested, and they that entered by those [or them], went [away] by paths out of the way.

<sup>9</sup> Mine heart loveth the princes of Israel; ye that offered you to peril by your own will, bless ye the Lord;

<sup>11</sup> Where the chariots were hurled down altogether, and the host of [the] enemies was strangled, there the Lord's rightwiseness be told out, and his mercy among the strong men of Israel; then the Lord's people came down to the gates, and got the principhood.

<sup>14</sup> He did away them into Amalek, and after him from Benjamin into thy peoples, thou Amalek. Princes of Machir and of Zebulun went down, that led the host to fight.

<sup>15</sup> The dukes of Issachar were with Deborah, and pursued [or followed] the steps of Barak, that gave himself to peril, as into a ditch head-long, and into hell. While Reuben was parted against himself; the strife of great hearted men was found.

<sup>21</sup> The strand [or stream] of Kishon drew their dead bodies, the strand [or stream] of Kedumim, the strand [or stream] of Kishon. My soul, tread thou strong men.

<sup>23</sup> Curse ye the land of Meroz, said the angel of the Lord, curse ye the dwellers of him, for they came not to the help of the Lord, into the help of the strongest of him.

<sup>30</sup> In hap now he parteth spoils, and the fairest of women is chosen to him; clothes of diverse colours be given to Sisera into prey, and diverse array of household is gathered to adorn necks.

<sup>31</sup> Lord, all thine enemies perish so; soothly, they that love thee, shine so, as the sun shineth in his strength. And the land rested forty years.

CHAPTER 6

<sup>2</sup> And Israel was oppressed of them greatly; and Israel made ditches, and dens to themselves in hills, and most strong places to fight against Midian.

<sup>3</sup> And when Israel had sown, Midian ascended [or went up], and Amalek, and others of the nations of the east;

<sup>4</sup> and they setted their tents beside the sons of Israel, and they wasted all things that were in herbs, either green corn, unto the entering of Gaza, and utterly they left not in Israel anything pertaining to life, not sheep, not oxen, not asses.

<sup>6</sup> And Israel was made low greatly in the sight of Midian. And Israel cried to the Lord,

<sup>8</sup> and he sent to them a man, a prophet, and he spake to them, The Lord God of Israel saith these things, I made you to go up from Egypt, and I led you out of the house of servage,

<sup>9</sup> and I delivered you from the hand of Egyptians, and of all [the] enemies that tormented you; and I casted them out at your entering, and I gave to you the land of them;

<sup>10</sup> and I said, I am the Lord your God; dread ye not the gods of Amorites, in whose land ye dwell; and ye would not hear my voice.

<sup>11</sup> And an angel of the Lord came, and sat under an oak, that was in Ophrah, and it pertained to Joash, the father of the meine of Abiezrites. And when Gideon, the son of Joash, threshed, and purged wheat in a presser, that he should flee Midian,

<sup>13</sup> And Gideon said to him, My lord, I beseech, if the Lord is with us, why then have all these evils taken us? Where be the marvels of him, which our fathers told, and said, The Lord hath led us out of Egypt? For now he hath forsaken us, and hath betaken us into the hand of Midian.

<sup>14</sup> And the Lord beheld to him, and said, Go thou in this strength of thee, and thou shalt deliver Israel from the hand of Midian; know thou, that I have sent thee.

<sup>15</sup> And Gideon answered, and said, My lord, I beseech, in what thing shall I deliver Israel? Lo! my meine is the lowest in Manasseh, and I am the least in the house of my father.

<sup>16</sup> And the Lord said to him, I shall be with thee, and thou shalt smite Midian as one man.

<sup>17</sup> And Gideon said, If I have found grace before thee, give to me a sign, that thou, that speakest to me, art sent of God's part;

<sup>18</sup> go thou not away from hence, till I turn again to thee, and bring sacrifice, and offer to thee. Which answered, I shall abide thy coming.

<sup>19</sup> And so Gideon went in, and seethed a kid, and took therf loaves of a bushel of meal, and the flesh in a pannier; and he put the broth of the flesh in a pot, and he bare all these things under the oak, and offered those to him.

<sup>20</sup> To whom the angel of the Lord said, Take thou the flesh, and the therf loaves, and put them on that stone, and pour the broth above. And when he had done so,

<sup>21</sup> the angel of the Lord held forth the end of the staff, which he held in the hand, and he touched the fleshes, and the therf loaves; and fire ascend-ed [or went up] from the stone, and wasted the fleshes, and [the] therf loaves. And the angel of the Lord vanished from his eyes.

<sup>22</sup> And Gideon saw that he was an angel of the Lord, and he said, Lord God, alas to me, for I saw the angel of the Lord face to face.

<sup>24</sup> Then Gideon builded there an altar to the Lord, and he called it the Peace of the Lord, unto this present day. And when he was yet in Ophrah, which is of the meine of Abiezrites,

<sup>25</sup> the Lord said to him in that night, Take thou thy father's bull, and another bull of seven years, and thou shalt destroy the altar of Baal, that is thy father's, and cut thou down the wood, which is about the altar;

<sup>26</sup> and thou shalt build an altar to thy Lord God in the highness of this stone, on which thou puttedest sacrifice before; and thou shalt take the second bull, and thou shalt offer burnt sacrifice on the heap of trees, which thou cuttedest down of the wood.

<sup>27</sup> Therefore Gideon took ten men of his servants, and did as the Lord commanded to him. And Gideon dreaded the house of his father, and the men of that city, and he would not do by day, but he fulfilled all things by night.

<sup>28</sup> And when men of that city had risen early, they saw the altar of Baal destroyed, and the wood cut down, and the tother bull put on the altar, that was builded.

<sup>29</sup> And they said together, Who hath done this? And when they inquired the doer of the deed, it was said, Gideon, the son of Joash, did all these things.

<sup>30</sup> And they said to Joash, Bring forth thy son hither, that he die, for he hath destroyed the altar of Baal, and hath cut down the wood about it.

<sup>31</sup> To whom Joash answered, Whether ye be the avengers of Baal, that ye fight for him? he that is adversary of him, die he, before the morrow light come; if he is God, avenge he himself of him that hath cast down his altar.

<sup>32</sup> From that day Gideon was called Jerubbaal, for-thy that Joash had said, Baal take vengeance of him that hath cast down his altar.

<sup>33</sup> Therefore all Midian, and Amalek, and the peoples of the east were gathered together, and they passed over Jordan, and setted tents in the valley of Jezreel.

<sup>34</sup> Forsooth the spirit of the Lord clothed, or full-filled, Gideon; and he sounded with a clarion, and called together the house of Abiezer, that it should follow him.

<sup>35</sup> And he sent messengers into all Manasseh, and he pursued [or followed] Gideon; and he sent other messengers into Asher, and to Zebulun, and to Naphtali, and they came to him.

<sup>36</sup> And Gideon said to the Lord, If thou makest safe Israel by mine hand, as thou hast spoken, <sup>37</sup> I shall put this fleece of wool in the cornfloor; if the dew is in the fleece alone, and dryness is in all the earth, I shall know, that thou shalt deliver Israel by mine hand, as thou hast spoken.

<sup>38</sup> And it was done so. And he rose by night, and when the fleece was wrung out, he filled a basin with dew;

<sup>39</sup> and he said again to the Lord, Thy strong vengeance be not wroth against me, if I assay yet once, and seek a sign in the fleece; I pray, that the fleece alone be dry, and that all the earth be moist with dew.

<sup>40</sup> And the Lord did in that night, as Gideon asked; and dryness was in the fleece alone, and dew was in all the earth.

CHAPTER 7

<sup>1</sup> Then Jerubbaal, which also is Gideon, rose by night, and all the people with him, and came to the well which is called Harod. And the tents of Midian were in the valley, at the north coast of the high hill.

<sup>2</sup> And the Lord said to Gideon, Much people is with thee, and Midian shall not be betaken into the hands thereof, lest Israel have glory against me, and say, I am delivered by my strengths.

<sup>3</sup> Speak thou to the people, and preach thou, while all men hear, He that is fearedful, and dreadful, turn again. And they went away from the hill of Gilead, and two and twenty thousand of men turned again from the people; and only ten thousand dwelled.

<sup>4</sup> And the Lord said to Gideon, Yet the people is much; lead thou them to the waters, and there I shall prove them, and he go with thee, of whom I shall say, that he go; and turn he again, whom I shall forbid to go.

<sup>5</sup> And when the people had gone down to the waters, the Lord said to Gideon, Thou shalt separate them by themselves that lap waters with hand and tongue, as dogs be wont to lap; and those, that drink with knees bowed, shall be in the tother part.

<sup>6</sup> And so the number of them, that lapped waters, by the hand casting to the mouth, was three hundred men; and all the tother multitude drank kneeling.

<sup>7</sup> And the Lord said to Gideon, In three hundred men, that lapped waters, I shall deliver you, and I shall betake Midian in thine hand; and all the tother multitude turn again into their place.

<sup>8</sup> And [so] when they had taken meats and trumps for the number of them, he commanded all the tother multitude to go to their tabernacles; and Gideon, with three hundred men, gave himself to [the] battle. And the tents of Midian were beneath in the valley.

<sup>11</sup> And when thou shalt hear what they speak, then thine hands shall be comforted, and thou shalt go down securer to the tents of [the] enemies. Therefore he went down, and Phurah, his servant, into the part of [the] tents, where the watches of armed men were.

<sup>12</sup> And Midian, and Amalek, and all the peoples of the east lay spread abroad in the valley, as the multitude of locusts; and the camels were unnumberable, as gravel that lieth in the brink of the sea.

<sup>13</sup> And when Gideon had come down, a man told a dream to his neighbour, and he told by this manner that, that he had seen, I saw a dream, and it seemed to me, that as a barley loaf, baken under ashes, was wallowed, and it came down into the tents of Midian; and when it had come to a tabernacle, it smote it, and destroyed it, and made it even utterly to the earth.

<sup>14</sup> That man answered, to whom he spake, This is none other thing, no but the sword of Gideon, [the] son of Joash, a man of Israel; for the Lord God hath betaken Midian, and all [the] tents thereof, into the hands of Gideon.

<sup>15</sup> And when Gideon had heard the dream, and the interpreting thereof, he worshipped the Lord, and turned again to the tents of Israel, and said, Rise ye; for the Lord hath betaken into our hands the tents of Midian.

<sup>16</sup> And he parted the three hundred men into three parts, and he gave them trumps in their hands, and empty pots, and lamps, that is, burning brands, either torches, that might not lightly be quenched, in the midst of the pots.

<sup>17</sup> And he said to them, Do ye this thing which ye see me do; I shall enter into a part of the tents, and pursue [or follow] ye that, that I do.

<sup>18</sup> When the trump in my hand shall sound, sound ye also all about the tents, and cry ye together, To the Lord, and to Gideon.

<sup>19</sup> And Gideon entered, and the three hundred men that were with him, into a part of the tents, when the watches of midnight began; and when the keepers were raised, they began to sound with trumps, and to beat together the pots among themselves.

<sup>21</sup> and they stood all in their place, about the tents of their enemies. And so all the tents were troubled; and they cried [out], and yelled, and fled;

<sup>22</sup> and nevertheless the three hundred men continued, sounding with trumps. And the Lord sent [in] sword in all the tents, and they killed themselves by death each other; and they fled till to Bethshittah, in Zererath, and by the side, from Abelmeholah into Tabbath.

<sup>23</sup> And men of Israel cried together, of Naphtali, and of Asher, and of all Manasseh, and they pursued Midian; and the Lord gave victory to the people of Israel in that day.

<sup>24</sup> And Gideon sent messengers into all the hill country of Ephraim, and said, Come ye down against the coming of Midian, and occupy ye the waters till to Bethbarah and Jordan. And all Ephraim cried, and before-occupied the waters of the Jordan until Bethbarah.

<sup>25</sup> And Ephraim killed two chief men of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb; he killed Oreb in the stone of Oreb, and Zeeb in the presser of Zeeb; and Ephraim pursued Midian, and they bare the heads of Oreb and of Zeeb to Gideon, over the floods of Jordan.

CHAPTER 8

<sup>1</sup> And the men of Ephraim said to Gideon, What is this thing, that thou wouldest do, that thou callest not us, when thou wentest to battle against Midian? And they chided with him strongly, and well-nigh they did to him violence.

<sup>3</sup> And the Lord hath betaken into your hands the princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb. What such thing might I have done, what manner thing ye have done? And when he had spoken this thing, the spirit of them rested, by which they swelled against him.

<sup>4</sup> And when Gideon had come to Jordan, he passed it with three hundred men, that were with him; and for weariness they might not pursue them that fled.

<sup>5</sup> And he said to the men of Succoth, I beseech, give ye loaves to the people, that is with me; for they failed greatly, that we may then pursue Zebah and Zalmunna, kings of Midian.

<sup>6</sup> And the princes of Succoth answered in scorn, In hap the palms of the hands of Zebah and of Zalmunna be in thine hands, and therefore thou askest, that we give loaves to thine host.

<sup>7</sup> To whom Gideon said, Therefore, when the Lord shall betake Zebah and Zalmunna into mine hands, and when I shall turn again overcomer in peace, I shall rend your flesh with thorns and briars of the desert.

<sup>8</sup> And Gideon went up from thence, and came into Penuel; and he spake like things to men of that place, to whom also they answered, as the men of Succoth had answered.

<sup>9</sup> And so he said to them, When I shall turn again overcomer in peace, I shall destroy this tower.

<sup>11</sup> And Gideon ascended or went up by the way of them that dwelled in tabernacles at the east coast of Nobah and of Jogbehah, and smote the tents of [the] enemies, that were secure, and supposed not anything of adversity.

<sup>14</sup> and he took a young man of the men of Succoth; and he asked him the names of the princes, and of the elder men of Succoth; and he described seven and seventy men in number.

<sup>15</sup> And he came to Succoth, and said to them, Lo, Zebah and Zalmunna! of which ye upbraided me, and said, In hap the hands of Zebah and of Zalmunna be in thine hands, and therefore thou askest, that we give loaves to men, that be weary and failed.

<sup>18</sup> And he said to Zebah and Zalmunna, What manner men were they, that ye killed in Tabor? Which answered, They were like thee, and one of them was as the son of a king.

<sup>19</sup> To whom Gideon said, They were my brethren, the sons of my mother; the Lord liveth, if ye had saved them, I would not slay you.

<sup>20</sup> And he said to Jether, his first begotten son, Rise thou, and slay them. And Jether drew not his sword; for he dreaded, for he was yet a child.

<sup>21</sup> And Zebah and Zalmunna said, Rise thou, and fall on us; for thou art by the age and strength of [a] man. Gideon rose, and killed Zebah and Zalmunna, and took the ornaments, and bells, with which the necks of kings' camels be wont to be made fair.

<sup>22</sup> And all the men of Israel said to Gideon, Be thou lord of us, thou, and thy son, and the son of thy son; for thou deliveredest us from the hand of Midian.

<sup>23</sup> To whom he said, I shall not be lord of you, neither my son shall be lord on you, but the Lord shall be lord on you.

<sup>24</sup> And Gideon said to them, I ask one asking of you, give ye to me the earrings of your prey; for Ishmaelites were wont to have golden earrings.

<sup>26</sup> and the weight of the earrings that he asked was a thousand and seven hundred shekels of gold, without [the] ornaments, and brooches, and clothes of purple, which the kings of Midian were wont to use, and besides [the] golden bies of camels.

<sup>27</sup> And Gideon made thereof ephod, that is, a priest's cloth, and he put it in his city Ophrah; and all Israel did fornication, that is, idolatry, therein; and it was made to Gideon, and to all his house, into falling.

<sup>28</sup> But Midian was made low before the sons of Israel, and they might no more raise up their nolls; and the land rested forty years, in which Gideon was sovereign.

<sup>29</sup> And so Jerubbaal, the son of Joash, went, and dwelled in his house;

<sup>32</sup> And Gideon, the son of Joash, died in [a] good eld [age], and was buried in the sepulchre of Joash, his father, in Ophrah, of the meine of Abiezrites.

<sup>33</sup> And after that Gideon was dead, the sons of Israel turned away, and they did fornication, that is, idolatry, with Baalim; and they smote bond of peace with Baalberith, that he should be to them into God,

<sup>34</sup> neither Israel had mind of their Lord God, that had delivered them from the hand of all their enemies by compass or about;

<sup>35</sup> neither they did mercy to the meine of Jerubbaal, that is, Gideon, after all the good things that he did to Israel.

CHAPTER 9

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Abimelech, the son of Jerubbaal, went into Shechem to the brethren of his mother; and he spake to them, and to all the kindred of the house of his mother, and said,

<sup>2</sup> Speak ye to all the men of Shechem, What is better to you, that seventy men, all the sons of Jerubbaal, be lords of you, whether that one man be lord to you? and also behold, that I am your bone, and your flesh.

<sup>3</sup> And the brethren of his mother spake of him all these words to all the men of Shechem; and they bowed their hearts after Abimelech, and said, He is our brother.

<sup>4</sup> And they gave to him seventy plates or pieces of silver of the temple of Baalberith; and he hired to him thereof men poor and having no certain dwelling, and they pursued [or followed] him.

<sup>6</sup> And all the men of Shechem, and all the meines of the city of Millo, were gathered together, and they went, and made Abimelech king, beside the oak that stood in Shechem.

<sup>7</sup> And when this thing was told to Jotham, he went, and stood in the top of the hill Gerizim, and cried with voice raised [up], and said, Ye men of Shechem, hear me, so that God hear you.

<sup>9</sup> Which answered, Whether I may forsake my fatness, which both Gods and men use, and come, that I be advanced among trees?

<sup>10</sup> And the trees said to the fig tree, Come thou, and take the realm on us. Which answered to them,

<sup>14</sup> And all the trees said to the rhamn, or the thiefe-thorn, Come thou, and be lord on us.

<sup>15</sup> Which answered to them, If ye make me verily king to you, come, and rest ye under my shadow; and, if ye will not, fire go out of the rhamn, and devour the cedars of Lebanon.

<sup>16</sup> Now therefore, if rightfully [or rightly] and without sin ye have made Abimelech king on you, and if ye have done well with Jerubbaal, and with his house, and if ye have yielded while to the beneficences [or benefits] of him,

<sup>17</sup> that fought for you, and gave his life for perils, that he should deliver you from the hand of Midian;

<sup>18</sup> and ye have risen now against the house of my father, and have slain his sons, seventy men, on one stone, and have made Abimelech, [the] son of his handmaid, king on the dwellers of Shechem, for he is your brother;

<sup>19</sup> therefore if ye have done right-fully [or rightly], and without sin with Jerubbaal and his house, today be ye glad in Abimelech, and be he glad in you;

<sup>20</sup> but if ye have done waywardly, fire go out from Abimelech, and waste the dwellers of Shechem, and the city of Millo; and fire go out from the men of Shechem, and from the city of Millo, and devour Abimelech.

<sup>21</sup> And when Jotham had said these things, he fled, and went into Beer, and dwelled there, for dread of Abimelech, his brother.

<sup>24</sup> and to areckon the felony of [the] slaying of the seventy sons of Jerub-baal, and the shedding out of their blood, into Abimelech their brother, and into [the] other princes of Shechem, that had helped him.

<sup>26</sup> And Gaal, the son of Ebed, came with his brethren, and passed into Shechem; at whose entering the dwellers of Shechem were raised,

<sup>27</sup> and went out into [the] fields, and wasted vineries [or vines], and trode grapes; and with companies of singers made, they entered into the temple of their God, and among meats and drinks they cursed Abimelech,

<sup>28</sup> while Gaal, the son of Ebed, cried, Who is this Abimelech? And what is Shechem, that we serve him? Whether he is not the son of Jerub-baal, and made Zebul, his servant, prince on the men of Hamor, the father of Shechem? Why therefore shall we serve him?

<sup>29</sup> Would God, some man would give this people under mine hand, and I should do away Abimelech from the midst of Shechem. And it was said to Abimelech, Gather thou the multitude of an host, and come thou.

<sup>30</sup> For when the words of Gaal, the son of Ebed, were heard, Zebul, the prince of the city was full wroth;

<sup>31</sup> and he sent privily messengers to Abimelech, and said, Lo! Gaal, the son of Ebed, is come into Shechem with his brethren, and he exciteth the city to fight against thee;

<sup>35</sup> And Gaal, the son of Ebed, went out, and stood in the entering of the gate of the city. And Abimelech, and all the host with him, rose from the place of [the] ambushments.

<sup>36</sup> And when Gaal had seen the people, he said to Zebul, Lo! a multitude cometh down from the hills. To whom Zebul answered, Thou seest the shadows of hills as the heads of men, and thou art deceived by this error.

<sup>37</sup> And again Gaal said, Lo! a people cometh down from the midst of the earth, and one company cometh by the way that beholdeth the oak.

<sup>38</sup> To whom Zebul said, Where is now thy mouth, by which thou speakest, Who is Abimelech, that we serve him? Whether this is not the people, whom thou despisedest? Go thou out, and fight against him.

<sup>40</sup> And pursued him fleeing, and constrained him to flee into the city; and full many of the part of Gaal felled down, unto the gate of the city.

<sup>42</sup> Therefore in the day pursuing [or following], the people went out into the field; and when this thing was told to Abimelech,

<sup>43</sup> he took his host, and parted it in three companies, and he set ambush-ments in the fields; and he saw that the people went out of the city, and he rose, and felled upon them with his company,

<sup>45</sup> And Abimelech fought against that city all that day, the which he took, when the dwellers thereof were slain, and that city was destroyed, so that he sprinkled abroad salt therein.

<sup>46</sup> And when they, that dwelled in the tower of Shechem, had heard this, they entered into the temple of their god Berith, where they had made [a] bond of peace with him; and of that idol the place took the name, the which place was full strong.

<sup>48</sup> and he went up into the hill of Zalmon with all his people; and with an ax taken, he cut down a bough of a tree, and he bare it, put upon his shoulder, and he said to his fellows, Do ye anon this thing, that ye see me do.

<sup>49</sup> Therefore with strife they cutted down boughs of the trees, and pursued [or followed] the duke; the which compassed the tower and burnt it up; and so it was done, that with smoke and fire a thousand men were slain, men and women together, of the dwellers of the tower of Shechem.

<sup>50</sup> And Abimelech went forth from thence, and came to the city of Thebez, which he compassed, and besieged with an host.

<sup>51</sup> And the tower was high in the midst of the city, to which men and women fled together, and all the princes of the city, while the gate was closed full strongly; and they stood on the roof of the tower by [the] turrets.

<sup>52</sup> And Abimelech came beside the tower, and fought strongly against it, and he nighed to the door, and enforced or endeavoured him to put fire under it;

<sup>53</sup> and lo! a woman casted from above a gobbet of a mill-stone, and hurtled to the head of Abimelech, and it brake his noll.

<sup>54</sup> And he called anon his squire, and said to him, Draw out thy sword, and slay me, lest peradventure it be said, that I am slain of a woman. Which performed the commandments, and killed Abimelech;

<sup>55</sup> and when Abimelech was dead, all men of Israel that were with him turned again to their places.

<sup>57</sup> Also that evil was yielded to [the] men of Shechem, that they wrought, and the curse of Jotham, the son of Jerubbaal, came upon them.

CHAPTER 10

<sup>2</sup> and he deemed Israel three and twenty years, and he died, and was buried in Shamir.

<sup>4</sup> and he had thirty sons, sitting upon thirty colts of she-asses, and they were princes of thirty cities, the which be called by their father's name, Havothjair, that is, the cities of Jair, unto this present day, in the land of Gilead.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth the sons of Israel joined new sins to eld [or old] sins, and did evil in the sight of the Lord, and served to the idols of Baalim, and to Ashtaroth, and to the gods of Syria, and of Sidon, and of Moab, and of the sons of Ammon, and of Philistines; and they left the Lord, and worshipped not him.

<sup>8</sup> And all the sons of Israel that dwelled beyond Jordan in the land of Amorites, that is, in Gilead, were tormented and oppressed greatly by eighteen years,

<sup>9</sup> in so much that the sons of Ammon, when they had passed [over] Jordan, wasted Judah, and Benjamin, and Ephraim; and Israel was tormented greatly.

<sup>10</sup> And they cried to the Lord, and said, We have sinned to thee, for we forsook our God, and served Baalim.

<sup>11</sup> To whom the Lord said, Whether not the Egyptians, and Amorites, and the sons of Ammon, and Philistines, <sup>12</sup> and Sidonians, and Amalek, and Canaan or Maonites, have oppressed you, and ye cried to me, and I delivered you from their hands?

<sup>13</sup> And nevertheless ye have forsaken me, and worshipped alien gods; there-fore I shall not add to, that I deliver you [any] more.

<sup>15</sup> And the sons of Israel said to the Lord, We have sinned; yield thou to us whatever thing pleaseth to thee; only deliver us now.

<sup>16</sup> And they said these things, and casted forth from their coasts all the idols of alien gods, and served the Lord; which had ruth, either compassion, on the wretchednesses of them.

<sup>17</sup> And so the sons of Ammon cried together, each moving other to battle against Israel, and setted tents in Gilead, and the sons of Israel were gathered against them, and setted tents in Mizpeh.

<sup>18</sup> And the princes of Gilead said each to his neighbours, He, that beginneth first of us to fight against the sons of Ammon, shall be duke of the people of Gilead.

CHAPTER 11

<sup>1</sup> And so in that time Jephthah, a man of Gilead, was a full strong man, and a fighter, the son of a woman whore, the which Jephthah was born of Gilead.

<sup>2</sup> And Gilead had a wife, of whom he had sons, which after that they increased, casted out Jephthah, and said, Thou mayest not be heir in the house of our father, for thou art born of another mother.

<sup>3</sup> And he fled his brethren, and eschewed them, and dwelled in the land of Tob; and poor men were gathered to him, and pursued him as a prince.

<sup>6</sup> and they said to him, Come thou, and be our prince, and fight against the sons of Ammon.

<sup>7</sup> To which he answered, Whether not ye it be, that hated me, and threw me out of the house of my father, and now ye have come to me, and were compelled by need?

<sup>8</sup> And the princes of Gilead said to Jephthah, Therefore for this cause we came now to thee, that thou go with us, and fight against the sons of Ammon; and that thou be the duke of all men that dwell in Gilead.

<sup>9</sup> And Jephthah said to them, Whether ye came verily, or without fraud, to me, that I fight for you against the sons of Ammon, and if the Lord shall betake them into mine hands, shall I be your prince?

<sup>10</sup> The which answered to him, The Lord himself, that heareth these things, is mediator and witness, that we shall fulfill our promises to thee.

<sup>11</sup> And so Jephthah went with the princes of Gilead, and all the people made him their prince; and Jephthah spake all his words before the Lord in Mizpeh.

<sup>12</sup> And he sent messengers to the king of the sons of Ammon, which messengers should say of his person, What is to me and to thee, for thou hast come against me to waste my land?

<sup>13</sup> To the which messengers the king answered, For Israel, when he ascended [or went up] from Egypt, took away my land, from the coasts of Arnon unto Jabbok, and to Jordan, now there-fore yield it to me again with peace.

<sup>16</sup> but when they went up from Egypt, Israel went by the wilderness unto the Red Sea, and came into Kadesh;

<sup>17</sup> and he sent messengers to the king of Edom, and said, Suffer thou me, that I go through thy land; the which king would not assent to the prayers of Israel. Also Israel sent to the king of Moab, and he despised to give Israel passage; and so Israel dwelled in Kadesh,

<sup>18</sup> and he compassed by the side the land of Edom, and the land of Moab; and he came to the east coast of the land of Moab, and setted tents beyond Arnon, neither he would enter into the terms of Moab; for Arnon is the end of the land of Moab.

<sup>19</sup> And so Israel sent messengers to Sihon, king of Amorites, that dwelled in Heshbon; and they said to him, Suffer thou, that I pass through thy land unto the river.

<sup>21</sup> And the Lord betook Sihon with all his host into the hands of Israel; and Israel smote him, and had in possession all the land of Amorites, the dwellers of that country,

<sup>23</sup> Therefore the Lord God of Israel destroyed Amorites, fighting against him for his people Israel. And wilt thou now have in possession his land?

<sup>26</sup> when Israel dwelled in Heshbon, and in [the] towns thereof, and in Aroer, and in towns thereof, and in all [the] cities beyond Jordan, by three hundred years. Why in so much time assayed ye nothing on this asking again?

<sup>27</sup> Therefore not I do sin against thee, but thou doest evil against me, and bringest in battles not just to me; the Lord, judge of this day, deem betwixt the sons of Israel and betwixt the sons of Ammon.

<sup>29</sup> Therefore the spirit of the Lord was made upon Jephthah, and he compassed Gilead, and Manasseh, Mizpeh and Gilead; and he passed from thence to the sons of Ammon,

<sup>30</sup> and he made a vow to the Lord, and said, If thou shalt betake the sons of Ammon into mine hands,

<sup>33</sup> and he smote from Aroer till that he came into Minnith, twenty cities, and unto Abel, which is set about with vineries [or vines], with full great vengeance; and the sons of Ammon were made low of the sons of Israel.

<sup>34</sup> And when Jephthah turned again into Mizpeh, his house, his one begotten daughter came to meet him with tympan, and crowds dancing; for he had not other free children.

<sup>35</sup> And when he saw her, he rent his clothes, and said, Alas! my daughter, thou hast troubled me, and thou art troubled; for I opened my mouth to the Lord, and I may do none other thing.

<sup>36</sup> To whom she answered, My father, if thou openedest thy mouth to the Lord, do to me whatever thing thou promisedest, while vengeance and victory of thine enemies be granted to thee.

<sup>37</sup> And she said to her father, Give thou to me only this thing, which I beseech; suffer thou me that in two months I compass [the] hills, and bewail my maidenhood with my fellows.

<sup>38</sup> To whom he answered, Go thou. And he suffered her in two months. And when she had gone forth with her fellows, and her play-frères, she bewept her maidenhood in the hills.

<sup>39</sup> And when two months were fulfilled, she turned again to her father, and he did to her as he avowed [or vowed]; and she knew no man fleshly. From that time a custom came in Israel, and that custom is kept,

CHAPTER 12

<sup>1</sup> And, lo! dissension rose in Ephraim; for they, that passed toward the north, said to Jephthah, Why wentest thou to battle against the sons of Ammon, and wouldest not call us, that we should go with thee. Therefore we shall burn thine house.

<sup>2</sup> To which he answered, Great strife was to me and to my people against the sons of Ammon, and I called you, that ye should give help to me, and you would not do so.

<sup>3</sup> Which thing I saw, and putted my life in mine hands; and I passed to the sons of Ammon, and the Lord betook them into mine hands; what have I deserved, that ye rise together against me into battle?

<sup>4</sup> Therefore when all the men of Gilead were called to Jephthah, he fought against Ephraim; and [the] men of Gilead smote Ephraim; for he said, Gilead is fugitive, either exiled, from Ephraim, and in the midst of Ephraim, and of Manasseh.

<sup>5</sup> And the men of Gilead occupied the fords of Jordan, by which Ephraim should turn again. And when a man, fleeing of the number of Ephraim, had come to the fords, and had said, I beseech, that ye suffer me pass; men of Gilead said to him, Whether thou art a man of Ephraim? And when he had said, I am not,

<sup>6</sup> they asked him, Say thou therefore Shibboleth, which is interpreted, an ear of corn. Which answered, Sibboleth, and he might not bring forth an ear of corn by the same letter. And anon they took and strangled him in that passing over of Jordan; and two and forty thousand men of Ephraim felled down in that time.

<sup>7</sup> And so Jephthah, a man of Gilead, deemed Israel six years; and he died, and was buried in his city Gilead.

<sup>9</sup> which daughters he sent out, and gave them to husbands, and he took wives to his sons of the same number, and he brought them into his house; and Ibzan deemed Israel seven years;

<sup>14</sup> the which Abdon had forty sons, and of them were thirty sons, going upon seventy colts of she-asses, and Abdon deemed Israel eight years;

CHAPTER 13

<sup>2</sup> Forsooth a man was of Zorah, of the kindred of Dan, Manoah by name, and he had a barren wife.

<sup>3</sup> To which wife an angel of the Lord appeared, and said to her, Thou art barren, and without free children; but thou shalt conceive, and bear a son.

<sup>5</sup> for thou shalt conceive, and bear a son, whose head a razor shall not touch; for he shall be a Nazarite, that is, holy of God, from his young age, and from the mother's womb; and he shall begin to deliver Israel from the hand of [the] Philistines.

<sup>6</sup> And when she had come to her husband, she said to him, A man of God came to me, and he had an angel's cheer, and he was full fearedful; and when I had asked him, who he was, and from whence he came, and by what name he was called, he would not say to me;

<sup>7</sup> but he answered thus, Lo! thou shalt conceive, and bear a son; be thou ware, that thou drink no wine nor cider, neither eat any unclean thing; for the child shall be a Nazarite, that is, holy of the Lord, from his young age, and from the mother's womb, till to the day of his death.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore Manoah prayed the Lord, and said, Lord, I beseech, that the man of God, whom thou sentest, come again, and teach us, what we owe to do of the child, that shall be born.

<sup>10</sup> And when she had seen the angel, she hasted, and ran to her husband, and told to him, and said, Lo! the man whom I saw before, appeared to me.

<sup>11</sup> Which rose, and pursued [or followed] his wife; and he came to the man, and said to him, Art thou he, that hast spoken to the woman? And he answered, I am.

<sup>12</sup> To whom Manoah said, When thy word shall be fulfilled, what wilt thou, that the child do, either from what thing shall he keep himself?

<sup>13</sup> And the angel of the Lord said to Manoah, Abstain he himself from all things which I spake to thy wife.

<sup>14</sup> And eat he not whatever thing cometh forth of the vine, drink he not wine, and cider; eat he not any unclean thing, and fulfill he; and keep that, that I commanded to him.

<sup>15</sup> Therefore Manoah said to the angel of the Lord, I beseech, that thou assent to my prayers, and we array to thee, that is, make ready to meat, a kid of the goats.

<sup>16</sup> To whom the angel of the Lord answered, Though thou constrain me, I shall not eat thy bread; but if thou wilt make burnt sacrifice, offer thou it to the Lord. And Manoah knew not, that it was an angel of the Lord.

<sup>17</sup> And Manoah said to him, What name is to thee, that if thy word be fulfilled, we honour thee?

<sup>19</sup> Therefore Manoah took a goat kid, and flowing sacrifices, and he put upon a stone, and he offered them to the Lord that doeth wonderful things. And he and his wife beheld.

<sup>20</sup> And when the flame of the altar ascended into heaven, the angel of the Lord ascended or went up together in the flame. And when Manoah and his wife had seen this, they felled low to the earth.

<sup>21</sup> And the angel of the Lord appeared no more to them. And anon Manoah understood, that he was the angel of the Lord.

<sup>22</sup> And he said to his wife, We shall die by death, for we have seen the Lord.

<sup>23</sup> To whom the woman answered, If the Lord would slay us, he would not have taken of our hands burnt sacrifices, and moist sacrifices, but neither he would have showed all these things to us, neither have said to us those things, that be to coming [or to come].

<sup>24</sup> And so she childed a son, and called his name Samson; and the child increased, and the Lord blessed him.

CHAPTER 14

<sup>2</sup> and he went up, and he told this to his father and mother, and said, I saw a woman in Timnath of the daughters of Philistines, and I beseech, that ye take her a wife to me.

<sup>3</sup> To whom his father and mother said, Whether there is no woman among the daughters of thy brethren, and in all my people, for thou wilt take a wife of the Philistines, that be uncircumcised? And Samson said to his father, Take thou this wife to me, for she hath pleased mine eyes.

<sup>4</sup> But his father and mother knew not, that this thing was done of the Lord; and that he sought occasions against [the] Philistines; for in that time Philistines were lords of Israel.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore Samson went down with his father and mother into Timnath; and when they had come to the vineries [or vines] of the city, a fierce and roaring whelp of a lion appeared, and ran to Samson.

<sup>6</sup> And the spirit of the Lord felled into Samson, and he rent the lion into gobbets, as if he had rent a kid, and utterly he had nothing in his hand; and he would not show this to his father and mother.

<sup>8</sup> And after some days he turned [again] to take her; and he went aside to see the lion's carrion; and lo! a swarm of bees was in the lion's mouth, and an honeycomb.

<sup>9</sup> And when Samson had taken the comb in his hands, he ate it in the way; and he came to his father and mother, and gave them part thereof, and they ate; nevertheless he would not show to them, that he had taken that honey of the lion's mouth.

<sup>10</sup> And so his father went down to the woman, and made a feast to his son Samson; for so young men were wont to do.

<sup>11</sup> Therefore when the citizens of that place had seen him, they gave to him thirty fellows, which should be with him.

<sup>12</sup> To which Samson spake, I shall put forth to you a problem, that is, a doubtful word and privy, and if ye solve it to me within seven days of the feast, I shall give to you thirty linen clothes, and coats of the same number;

<sup>13</sup> soothly if ye may not solve, ye shall give to me thirty linen clothes, and coats of the same number. Which answered to him, Set forth the problem, that we hear it.

<sup>14</sup> And he said to them, Meat went out of the eater, and sweetness went out of the strong. And by three days they might not solve the proposition, that is, the reasoning set forth.

<sup>15</sup> And when the seventh day came, they said to the wife of Samson, Gloss or flatter thine husband, and counsel him, that he show to thee what the problem signifieth. That if thou wilt not do it, we shall burn thee and the house of thy father. Whether therefore ye called us to [the] weddings, that ye should rob us?

<sup>16</sup> And she shedded tears at Samson, and complained, and said, Thou hatest me, and lovest me not, therefore thou wilt not expound to me the problem, which thou hast put forth to the sons of my people. And he answered, I would not say this thing to my father and mother, and shall I be able to show it to thee?

<sup>17</sup> Therefore by seven days of the feast she wept upon him; and at the last in the seventh day, he told it to her clearly, when she was dis-easeful to him. And anon she told it to her citizens.

<sup>18</sup> And they said to him in the seventh day before the going down of the sun, What is sweeter than honey, and what is stronger than a lion? And he said to them, If ye had not eared, or busied you, in my cow calf, that is, my wife, ye had not found my proposition.

<sup>19</sup> Therefore the spirit of the Lord felled into him; and he went down to Ashkelon, and killed there thirty men, whose clothes he took away, and he gave to them that solved the problem; and he was full wroth, and went up into his father's house.

CHAPTER 15

<sup>1</sup> But a little time after, when the days of wheat harvest nighed, Samson came, and would visit his wife, and he brought to her a goat kid; and when he would enter into her bed by custom, her father forbade him,

<sup>2</sup> and said, I guessed that thou haddest hated her, and therefore I gave her to thy friend; but she hath a sister, which is younger and fairer than she, be she [a] wife to thee for her.

<sup>3</sup> To whom Samson answered, From this day forth no blame shall be in me against [the] Philistines, for I shall do evils to you.

<sup>5</sup> which he kindled with fire, and let them go, that they should run about hither and thither; which went anon into the corns of [the] Philistines, by which kindled, both the corns borne now together, and yet standing in the stubble, were burnt, in so much that the flame wasted vineries [or vines], and places of olive trees.

<sup>6</sup> And the Philistines said, Who did this thing? To whom it was said, Samson, the husband of Timnite's daughter, for he took away Samson's wife, and gave her to another man. And the Philistines went up, and burnt both the woman and her father.

<sup>7</sup> To the which Philistines Samson said, Though ye have done this thing, nevertheless yet I shall ask and take vengeance of you, and then I shall rest.

<sup>8</sup> And he smote them with great wound, so that they wondered, and putted the hinder part of the hip on the thigh; and he went down, and dwelled in the den of the stone of Etam.

<sup>9</sup> Then the Philistines went up into the land of Judah, and they setted tents in the place, that was called afterward Lehi, that is, a cheek[bone], where their host was spread abroad.

<sup>10</sup> And men of the lineage of Judah said to them, Why have ye gone up against us? The which answered, We come that we bind Samson, and yield to him those things the which he [hath] wrought against us.

<sup>11</sup> Therefore three thousand of men of Judah went down to the den of the flint of Etam; and they said to Samson, Knowest thou not, that [the] Philistines command to us, that is, they have lordship on us? Why wouldest thou do this thing to them? To whom he said, As they did to me, so I did to them.

<sup>12</sup> They said, We come to bind thee, and to betake thee into the hands of Philistines. To whom Samson answered, Swear ye, and promise ye to me, that ye slay not me.

<sup>13</sup> And they said, We shall not slay thee, but we shall betake thee bound to them. And they bound him with two new cords, and took him from the stone of Etam.

<sup>14</sup> And when they had come to the place that is called Cheek[bone], and the Philistines crying high had run to him, the spirit of the Lord felled into him, and as sticks be wont to be wasted at the hot tasting of fire, so and the bonds, with which he was bound, were scattered and loosed.

<sup>15</sup> And when he had found a cheek-[bone], that is, the nether cheekbone, of an ass, that there lay, he took it, and killed therewith a thousand men;

<sup>16</sup> and he said, With the cheek[bone] of an ass, that is, with the nether cheek[bone] of a colt of she-asses, I have done away Philistines, and I have killed therewith a thousand men.

<sup>17</sup> And when he had high cried these words, and had fully ended them, he threw away from his hand the nether cheekbone; and he called the name of that place Ramathlehi, that is to say, the Raising up of a cheekbone.

<sup>18</sup> And he thirsted greatly, and cried to the Lord, and said, Thou, Lord, hast given into the hand of thy servant this greatest health and victory; and lo! I die for thirst, and I shall fall into the hands of uncircumcised men.

<sup>19</sup> Therefore the Lord opened a wang tooth in the cheekbone of the ass, and waters went out thereof, and when he had drunken he refreshed his spirit, and received strengths; therefore the name of that place was called the Well of the inwardly caller of the cheek-bone, unto this present day.

CHAPTER 16

<sup>2</sup> And when the Philistines had seen this, and it was published among them, that Samson had entered into the city, they encompassed him, the keepers set in the gates of the city; and the Philistines abiding there all that night privily, that in the morrowtide they should kill Samson going out.

<sup>3</sup> And Samson slept till to midnight; and he rose up to go thence, and he took both the closings, or the leaves, of the city gate, with the posts and the lock; and he bare those gates upon his shoulders, to the top of the hill that beholdeth Hebron.

<sup>5</sup> And the princes of the Philistines came to her, and said, Deceive thou him, and learn thou of him, in what thing he hath so great strength, and how we may overcome him, and torment him when he is bound; the which thing if thou doest, we shall give to thee, each man, a thousand and an hundred plates of silver.

<sup>6</sup> Then Delilah spake to Samson, I beseech thee, say thou to me, where-in is thy greatest strength, and what is that thing, with which if thou were bound, thou mayest not break?

<sup>7</sup> To whom Samson answered, If I be bound with seven cords of moist sinews not yet dry, I shall be feeble as other men.

<sup>8</sup> And the princes of [the] Philistines brought to her seven cords, as he had said; with which she bound him,

<sup>9</sup> while ambushments were hid at her; and abided in a closet the end of the thing. And she cried to him, Samson, the Philistines be upon thee! And he brake those bonds, as if a man breaketh a thread of hards, thrown with spittle, when it hath touched the heat of fire; and it was not yet known wherein his strength was.

<sup>10</sup> And Delilah said to Samson, Lo! thou hast scorned me, and thou hast spoken falsely; nevertheless now show thou to me, with what thing thou shouldest be bound.

<sup>11</sup> To whom he answered, If I be bound with new cords, that were not yet in work, I shall be feeble, and like other men.

<sup>12</sup> With the which Delilah bound him again, and she cried, Samson, the Philistines be upon thee! the while ambushments were made ready in a closet. And Samson brake his bonds as threads of webs.

<sup>13</sup> And Delilah said again to him, How long shalt thou deceive me, and speak falsely? Show thou to me, with what thing thou shalt be bound. To whom Samson answered, he said, If thou pleatest seven gobbets of hair of mine head with a strong bond, <sup>14</sup> and fastenest to the earth a nail bound about with these hairs, I shall be feeble. And when Delilah had done this, she said to him, Samson, the Philistines be upon thee! And he rose from sleep, and he drew out the nail, with the hairs and a strong bond tied thereto.

<sup>15</sup> And Delilah said to him, How sayest thou, that thou lovest me, since thine inward affection is not with me? By three times thou hast lied to me, and wouldest not say to me, wherein is thy most strength.

<sup>16</sup> And when she was dis-easeful to him, and cleaved to him continually by many days, and to him gave no space to rest, his life failed, and was made weary unto the death.

<sup>17</sup> Then he opened the truth of the thing, and said to her, Iron came never yet upon mine head, for I am a Nazarite, that is, hallowed to the Lord, from my mother's womb; if mine head be shaven, my strength shall go away from me, and I shall fail, and I shall be as other men.

<sup>18</sup> And she saw that he [had] acknowledged to her all his will, either heart; and she sent to the princes of Philistines, and commanded, Go ye up yet once more, for now he hath opened his heart to me. The which went up, the money taken with them that they promised.

<sup>19</sup> And she made him sleep upon her knees, and to lay his head in her bosom; and she called a barber, and he shaved seven gobbets of hairs of him; and she began to shove him away, and to put him from her; for anon the strength went away from him.

<sup>20</sup> And she said, Samson, the Philistines be upon thee! And he rose from sleep, and said in his soul, I shall go out, as I did before, and I shall shake me from these bonds; and he knew not, that the Lord had gone away from him.

<sup>21</sup> And when the Philistines had taken him, anon they put out his eyes, and led him bound with chains to Gaza, and they enclosed him in prison, and made him to grind.

<sup>23</sup> and [the] princes of Philistines came together to offer great sacrifices to Dagon, their god, and they made feasts and ate, saying, Our god hath betaken Samson, our enemy, into our hands.

<sup>24</sup> And the people seeing also this thing praised their god, and said the same things, Our god hath betaken our adversary into our hands, which did away our land, and killed full many men.

<sup>25</sup> And they were gladdened by making of feasts, and then when they had eaten, they commanded that Samson should be called, and play before them; the which was led out of prison, and played before them; and they made him stand betwixt two pillars.

<sup>26</sup> And Samson said to the boy that governed his steps, Suffer thou me, that I touch the pillars on which all the house standeth, that I be bowed upon those [or them], and rest a little.

<sup>27</sup> And the house was full of men and of women, and the princes of the Philistines were there, and about three thousand of men and of women, beholding from the roof, and from the solar, Samson playing.

<sup>28</sup> And he called inwardly the Lord, and said, My Lord God, have mind on me, and my God, yield thou now to me the former strength, that I avenge me of mine enemies, and that I take one vengeance for the loss of my two eyes.

<sup>30</sup> and he said, My life die with these Philistines! And when the pillars were shaken altogether strongly, the house felled upon all the princes, and upon the multitude that was there; and Samson dying killed many more, than he alive had slain before.

<sup>31</sup> And his brethren and all his kindred came down, and took his body, and they buried it betwixt Zorah and Eshtaol, in the sepulchre of Manoah, his father; and he deemed Israel twenty years.

CHAPTER 17

<sup>2</sup> And he said to his mother, Lo! I have a thousand and an hundred plates of silver, which thou separatedest to thee, and on which thou cursedest, while I heard; and those be with me. To whom she answered, Blessed be my son of the Lord.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore he yielded those [or them] to his mother; and she said to him, I hallowed and avowed this silver to the Lord, that my son receive of mine hand, and make a graven image and a molten image; and now I give it to thee.

<sup>4</sup> Therefore he yielded to his mother; and she took two hundred plates of silver, and gave those [or them] to a workman of silver, that he should make of those [or them] a graven image and molten image, that was in the house of Micah.

<sup>5</sup> And Micah also separated a little house, or an oratory, therein to God; and made ephod, and teraphim, that is, a priest's cloth, and idols; and he filled the hand of one of his sons, and he was made a priest to him.

<sup>6</sup> In those days was no king in Israel, but each man did that, that seemed rightful [or right] to himself.

<sup>7</sup> Also another young waxing man was of Bethlehem of Judah, of the kindred of Judah, and he was a deacon [or Levite], and dwelled there.

<sup>8</sup> And he went out of the city of Bethlehem, and would be a pilgrim, wherever he found profitable to him-self. And when he made journey, and had come into the hill of Ephraim, and had bowed [down] a little into the house of Micah,

<sup>9</sup> Micah asked him, From whence comest thou? Which answered, I am a deacon [or Levite] of Bethlehem of Judah, and I go, that I dwell where I may, and where I see that it is profitable to me.

<sup>10</sup> And Micah said, Dwell thou with me, and be thou to me a father and priest; and I shall give to thee by each year ten plates of silver, and a double clothing, and those things that be necessary to lifelode. [And] He assented,

<sup>13</sup> and he said, Now I know, that God shall do well to me, having a priest of the kin of Levi.

CHAPTER 18

<sup>1</sup> In those days was no king in Israel; and the lineage of Dan sought possession to itself, to dwell therein; for till to that day it had not taken heritage among other lineages.

<sup>2</sup> Therefore the sons of Dan sent five the strongest men of their generation, and meine, from Zorah and Eshtaol, that they should espy the land, and behold diligently. And they said to them, Go ye, and behold the land. And when they going forth had come into the hill country of Ephraim, and had entered into the house of Micah, they rested there.

<sup>3</sup> And they knew the voice of the young waxing deacon [or Levite]; and they rested in his place, and said to him, Who brought thee hither? What doest thou here? For what cause wouldest thou come hither?

<sup>4</sup> The which answered, Micah hath given to me these things and these, and he hath hired me for meed, that I be priest to him.

<sup>5</sup> And they prayed him, that he should counsel with the Lord, and that they might know, whether they went in the way of prosperity, and that the thing of their purpose should have effect.

<sup>7</sup> Then those five men went forth, and came to Laish; and they saw the people dwelling therein without any dread, by the custom of Sidonians, secure and restful, for no man utterly against-stood them, and they were full rich, and dwelled far from Sidon, and were parted from all men.

<sup>8</sup> And they turned again to their brethren in Zorah and Eshtaol; and they answered to brethren, asking what they had done,

<sup>9</sup> and said, Rise ye, and go we up to them of Laish, for we have seen the land full rich and plenteous; do not ye be negligent, do not ye cease, go we forth, and have we it into possession;

<sup>10</sup> no travail shall be to us; we shall enter to secure men, into a full large country; and the Lord shall betake to us a place, wherein is not poverty of anything of those things that be brought forth in [the] earth.

<sup>12</sup> And they went up, and dwelled in Kiriathjearim of Judah, the which place took from that time the name of [the] Tents of Dan, and it is behind the back of Kiriathjearim.

<sup>13</sup> From thence they passed into the hill country of Ephraim; and when they had come to the house of Micah, <sup>14</sup> the five men, that were sent before to behold the land of Laish, said to their other brethren, Know ye, that ephod, and teraphim, and a graven image or idol, and a molten image is in these houses; see ye what pleaseth you.

<sup>15</sup> And when they had bowed a little aside, they entered into the house of the young deacon, that was in the house of Micah, and they greeted him with peaceable words.

<sup>17</sup> And they, that entered into the house of the young man, enforced or endeavoured to take away the graven image, and the ephod, and teraphim, and the molten image; and the priest stood before the door, while six hundred full strong men abode not far thence.

<sup>18</sup> Therefore they that entered took the graven image, ephod, and idols, and the molten image; to whom the priest said, What do ye?

<sup>19</sup> To whom they answered, Be thou still, and put thy finger on thy mouth, and come with us, that we have thee father and priest. What is better to thee, that thou be priest in the house of one man, either in a lineage and mine of Israel?

<sup>20</sup> And when he had heard this, he assented to their words, and he took the ephod, and idols, and the graven image, and went forth with them.

<sup>21</sup> And when they went forth, and had made their little children, and their work beasts, and all thing that was precious, to go before them;

<sup>22</sup> and when they were now far from the house of Micah, [the] men that dwelled in the houses of or near Micah cried together, and pursued [or followed],

<sup>23</sup> and began to cry after the backs. Which when they had beheld, [they] said to Micah, What wilt thou to thee? why criest thou?

<sup>24</sup> Which answered, Ye have taken away my gods, which I made to me, and the priest, and what dwelleth over? and ye say, What is to thee?

<sup>25</sup> And the sons of Dan said to him, Beware, lest thou speak [any] more to us, and men stirred in soul come to thee, and thou perish with all thine house.

<sup>26</sup> And so Dan went forth in the journey begun. And Micah saw, that they were stronger than he, and [he] turned again into his house.

<sup>27</sup> Forsooth six hundred men took the priest, and the things which we before-said, and came into Laish to the people resting and secure; and they smited them by the sharpness of sword, and betook the city to burning,

<sup>28</sup> while no man utterly gave help, for they dwelled far from Sidon, and had not anything of fellowship and cause with any men. And the city was set in the countryside of Bethrehob; the which city Dan builded again, and dwelled therein;

<sup>29</sup> and the name of the city was called Dan, by the name of their father, whom Israel had begat, the which city was called Laish before.

<sup>30</sup> And Dan setted there the graven image, and Jonathan, the son of Gershom, [the] son of Moses, and Jonathan's sons, the priests, in the lineage of Dan, till into the day of their captivity.

<sup>31</sup> And the idol of Micah dwelled with them, in all [the] time that the house of God was in Shiloh.

CHAPTER 19

<sup>2</sup> And she did fornication on him, and turned again into the house of her father in Bethlehem, and she dwelled at him four months.

<sup>3</sup> And her husband pursued [or followed] her, and he would be reconciled to her, and to speak fair with her, and to lead her again with him; and he had in his company a servant, and twain [or two] asses. And she received him, and brought him into her father's house; and when his wife's father had heard this, and saw him, he ran gladly to him, and embraced the man.

<sup>5</sup> And the fourth day, the deacon [or Levite] rose by night, and would have gone forth; whom his wife's father held, and said to him, Taste thou first a little bread, and comfort thy stomach, and so thou shalt go forth.

<sup>6</sup> And they sat together, and ate, and drank. And the father of the damsel said to his daughter's husband, I beseech thee, that thou dwell here today, and that we be glad together.

<sup>7</sup> And he rose, and began to desire to go; and nevertheless, his wife's father held him again meekly, and made him to dwell with him.

<sup>8</sup> And when the morrowtide was made, the deacon [or Levite] made him ready to go his way; to whom his wife's father said again, I beseech thee, that thou take a little meat, and make thee strong till the day increase, and afterward go thou forth. Then they ate together.

<sup>9</sup> And the young man rose to go forth with his wife, and with the servant; to whom the father of his wife spake again, Behold thou, that the day is far forth gone toward the [sun] going down, and it nigheth to the eventide; dwell thou with me also today, and lead thou with me a glad day, and tomorrow thou shalt go forth, that thou go into thine house.

<sup>10</sup> The daughter's husband would not assent to his words; but he went forth anon, and came against Jebus, which by another name is called Jerusalem; and he led with him two asses charged, and his [secondary] wife.

<sup>11</sup> And now they were beside Jebus, and the day was changed into night. And the servant said to his lord, Come thou, I beseech thee, bow we [down] to the city of Jebus, and dwell we therein.

<sup>12</sup> To whom his lord answered, I shall not enter into the city of an alien folk, which is not of the sons of Israel, but I shall pass forth into Gibeah;

<sup>13</sup> and when I shall come thither, we shall dwell therein, or else in the city of Ramah.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore they passed Jebus, and took the way begun. And the sun went down to them beside Gibeah, which is in the lineage of Benjamin;

<sup>15</sup> and they turned to Gibeah, that they would dwell there. Whither when they had entered, they sat in the street of the city, and no man would receive them to harbour.

<sup>16</sup> And lo! an eld [or old] man turned again from the field, and from his work in the eventide, and appeared to them, which also himself was of the hill of Ephraim, and he dwelled a pilgrim in Gibeah. And men of that country were of the sons of Benjamin.

<sup>17</sup> And when the eld man raised up his eyes, he saw a man sitting with his fardels in the street of the city; and he said to him, From whence comest thou? and whither goest thou?

<sup>18</sup> Which answered to him, We went forth from Bethlehem of Judah, and we go to our place, which is in the side of the hill of Ephraim, from whence we went to Bethlehem; and now we go to the house of God, and no man will receive us under his roof, <sup>19</sup> and we have provender and hay into meat of our asses, and bread and wine into mine uses, and of thine handmaid, and of the servant which is with me; we have no need to anything, but to harbour.

<sup>21</sup> And he brought him into his house, and gave meat to the asses; and after that they washed their feet, he received them into feast.

<sup>22</sup> While they ate, and refreshed their bodies with meat and drink after the travail of their way, men of that city came, the sons of Belial, that is, without yoke, and they encompassed the old man's house, and began to knock on the doors; and they cried to the lord of the house, and said, Lead out the man that entered into thine house, that we misuse him.

<sup>23</sup> And the eld [or old] man went out to them, and said, Do not ye, brethren, do not ye do this evil; for the man hath entered into mine harbour; and cease ye of this folly.

<sup>24</sup> I have a daughter a virgin, and this man hath a [secondary] wife; and I shall bring out them to you, that ye make low them, and fulfill your lust; only, I beseech you, that ye work not this cursedness against kind with this man.

<sup>25</sup> They would not assent to his words; the which thing the man seeing, he led out his [secondary] wife to them, and he betook to them her to be defouled. And when they had misused her all night, they let her go in the morrowtide.

<sup>26</sup> And when the darkneses of night departed, the woman came to the door of the house, where her lord dwelled, and there she felled down.

<sup>28</sup> And he guessed her to rest, and spake to her, Rise thou, and go we. And when she answered nothing, he understood that she was dead; and he took her, and put on the ass, and turned again into his house.

<sup>29</sup> And when he entered into that house, he took a sword, and parted into twelve parts and gobbets, the dead body of the secondary wife, [with her bones], and sent into all the terms of Israel.

<sup>30</sup> And when all men had heard this, they cried, Never such a thing was done in Israel, from that day in which our fathers ascended [or went up] from Egypt, till into [the] present time; say ye sentence, and deem ye in common, what is needed to be done.

CHAPTER 20

<sup>2</sup> and all the corners or chiefs of peoples, and all the lineages of Israel, came together into the church of the people of God, four hundred thousand of footmen fighters.

<sup>3</sup> And it was not hid from the sons of Benjamin, that the sons of Israel had gone up into Mizpeh.

<sup>4</sup> And the deacon [or Levite], [the] husband of the secondary wife that was slain, was asked, how so great felony was done; and he answered, I came with my secondary wife into Gibeah of Benjamin, and I turned thither.

<sup>5</sup> And lo! [the] men of that city encompassed in the night the house, in which I dwelled, and they would slay me, and they travailed my secondary wife with unbelievful madness of lechery; and at the last she was dead.

<sup>6</sup> And I took, and cut her into gobbets, and I sent those parts of her into all the terms of your possession; for so great felony and so grievous or so great sin was never done in Israel.

<sup>8</sup> And all the people stood, and answered as by the word of one man, We shall not go hence into our tabernacles, neither any of us shall enter into his house;

<sup>10</sup> Ten men be chosen of an hundred, of all the lineages of Israel, and an hundred of a thousand, and a thousand of ten thousand, that they bear meats to the host, and that we, fighting against Gibeah of Benjamin, may yield to it for the trespass that that it deserveth.

<sup>13</sup> Betake ye the men of Gibeah, that did this wickedness, that they die, and evil be done away from Israel. Which would not hear the commandment of their brethren, the sons of Israel, <sup>14</sup> but men of all the cities, that were of the part of Benjamin, came together into Gibeah, to help them, and to fight against all the people of Israel.

<sup>15</sup> And twenty-six thousand were found of Benjamin, of men drawing out sword, besides the dwellers of Gibeah, which were seven hundred strongest men,

<sup>18</sup> Which rose, and came into the house of God, that is in Shiloh; and they counselled with God, and said, Who shall be prince in our host of the battle against the sons of Benjamin? To whom the Lord answered, Judah be your duke.

<sup>21</sup> And the sons of Benjamin went out of Gibeah, and killed of the sons of Israel in that day two and twenty thousand men.

<sup>22</sup> And again, the sons of Israel trusted in their own strength, and in number of people, and they dressed [the] battle array, in the same place in which they fought before;

<sup>23</sup> so nevertheless that they went up before to the house of God, and they wept before the Lord unto [the] night, and they counselled with him, and said, Shall I go forth more to fight against the sons of Benjamin, my brethren, either nay? To whom he answered, Ascend ye [or Goeth up] to them, and begin ye the battle.

<sup>25</sup> the sons of Benjamin brake out from the gates of Gibeah, and came to Israel; and the sons of Benjamin were wild against Israel by so fierce slaying, that they threw down eighteen thousand men of Israel drawing out sword.

<sup>26</sup> Wherefore all the sons of Israel came into the house of God, and they sat, and wept before the Lord, and they fasted in that day unto the eventide; and they offered to the Lord burnt sacrifices, and peaceable sacrifices,

<sup>27</sup> and they asked the Lord of their state. In that time, the ark of the bond of peace of God was there;

<sup>28</sup> and Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron, was sovereign of the Lord's house. Then they counselled with the Lord, and said, Shall we go out more to battle against the sons of Benjamin, our brethren, either shall we rest? To whom the Lord said, Go ye up against them, for tomorrow I shall betake Benjamin into your hands.

<sup>30</sup> and the third time, as once and twice before, they brought forth the host against Benjamin.

<sup>31</sup> But also then the sons of Benjamin brake out from the city boldly, and they pursued further the adversaries fleeing, so that they wounded of Israel, as they did in the first day, and the second, and they killed by two paths Israel turning backs; of the which paths one was straight out into Bethel, and the tother into Gibeah. And Benjamin threw down about thirty men of Israel;

<sup>32</sup> for they guessed to destroy Israel as they did before; and by craft, Israel took counsel, feigning them to flee, that they should draw Benjamin from the city, and that they as fleeing should bring forth Benjamin to the foresaid paths.

<sup>33</sup> Therefore all the sons of Israel rose of their seats, and setted battle array in the place which is called Baaltamar. And the ambushments, that were about the city, began to open themselves little and little, and to go forth from the west part of the city.

<sup>34</sup> But also other ten thousand of men of all Israel excited the dwellers of the city to battles; and the battle was made grievous against the sons of Benjamin, and they understood not, that perishing nighed to them on each part.

<sup>35</sup> And the Lord smote Benjamin in the sight of the sons of Israel, and Israel killed of them in that day five and twenty thousand and an hundred men, and all these were warriors and men drawing out sword.

<sup>36</sup> Soothly the sons of Benjamin began to flee, when they saw, that they were the lower. And the sons of Israel saw this, and gave to them place to flee, that they should come to the ambushments made ready, which they had set beside the city.

<sup>37</sup> And when these ambushments had risen up suddenly from [the] hid places, and Benjamin gave backs to the slayers, they entered into the city, and they smote it by sharpness of sword.

<sup>38</sup> Soothly the sons of Israel had given a sign to them which they had set in ambushments, that after that they had taken the city, they should kindle fire, and that by smoke ascending [or going up] on high, they should show the city taken.

<sup>39</sup> And when the sons of Israel set in that battle saw this; for the sons of Benjamin guessed them to flee, and they pursued them busilier, when thirty men of their host were slain;

<sup>40</sup> and they saw as a pillar of smoke go up from the city. And also Benjamin beholding behind, when he saw his city taken, and the flames be borne on high,

<sup>41</sup> they that feigned to flee before, turned their face to Benjamin, and more strongly withstood him. And when the sons of Benjamin had seen this thing, <sup>42</sup> they were turned into flight, and they began to go to the way of desert; while also adversaries pursued them there; but also they, that had burnt the city, came against them.

<sup>43</sup> And so it was done, that Benjamin was slain of enemies on each part, neither there was any rest of men dying; and they felled, and were cast down at the east coast of the city of Gibeah.

<sup>45</sup> And when they that left alive of Benjamin had seen this, they fled into wilderness, and they went to the stone, whose name is Rimmon. And in that flight the sons of Israel went openly after, into diverse places, and they killed of them five thousand men; and when Benjamin fled further, they pursued them, and killed also of them other two thousand men.

<sup>46</sup> And so it was done, that all that felled down of Benjamin in diverse places, were five and twenty thousand, fighters most ready to battles.

<sup>47</sup> And so six hundred men were left of all the number of Benjamin, that might escape, and flee into wilder-ness; and they sat in the stone of Rimmon four months.

<sup>48</sup> And the sons of Israel went out, and they smote with sword all the remnants of the city, from men unto work beasts; and devouring flame wasted all the cities and towns of Benjamin.

CHAPTER 21

<sup>1</sup> Also the sons of Israel had sworn in Mizpeh, and said, None of us shall give to the sons of Benjamin a wife of his daughters.

<sup>2</sup> And all came to the house of God in Shiloh, and they sat in the sight of him till to eventide, and they raised their voice, and began to weep with great yelling, <sup>3</sup> and said, Lord God of Israel, why is this evil done in thy people, that today one lineage be taken away of us?

<sup>5</sup> and said, Who of all the lineages of Israel went not up into the host of the Lord? For when they were in Mizpeh, they had bound themselves with a full great oath, that they that failed thence should be dead.

<sup>6</sup> And the sons of Israel were led by penance on their brother Benjamin, and began to say, One lineage of Israel is taken away;

<sup>7</sup> whereof shall they take wives? certainly all we have sworn in common, that we shall not give our daughters to them.

<sup>8</sup> Then they said, Who is it of all the lineages of Israel, that went not up to the Lord in Mizpeh? And lo! the dwellers of Jabesh of Gilead were found, that they were not in that host.

<sup>9</sup> Also in that time, when they were in Shiloh, none of them was found there.

<sup>10</sup> Therefore they sent ten thousand strongest men, and commanded to them, Go ye, and smite the dwellers of Jabesh of Gilead by the sharpness of sword, as well the wives as the little children of them.

<sup>11</sup> And this thing shall be to you, that ye shall keep; slay ye all of male kind, and the women that have known men fleshly; reserve ye the virgins or but keep ye the maidens.

<sup>12</sup> And four hundred virgins, that knew not the bed of man, were found of Jabesh of Gilead; and they brought them to the tents in Shiloh, into the land of Canaan.

<sup>13</sup> And Israel sent messengers to the sons of Benjamin, that were in the stone of Rimmon; and they commanded to them, that they should receive those women in peace.

<sup>14</sup> And the sons of Benjamin came in that time, and the daughters of Jabesh of Gilead were given to them to wives; for they found none other women, which they should give to them in like manner.

<sup>16</sup> And the greater men in birth said, What shall we do to the other men, that have not taken wives? All the women in the lineage of Benjamin have fallen down,

<sup>18</sup> We may not give our daughters to them, for we be bound with an oath and cursing, by which we said, Be he cursed that giveth of his daughters a wife to Benjamin.

<sup>19</sup> And they took counsel, and said, Lo! the solemnity of the Lord is in Shiloh, the year's turning about, that is set at the north coast of the city of Bethel, and at the east coast of the way that goeth from Bethel to Shechem, and at the south of the city of Lebonah.

<sup>22</sup> And when the fathers and brethren of them shall come, and begin to complain and plead against you, we shall say to them, Have ye mercy of them; for we took not from a man his wife in battle, neither ye gave to them, why ye shall be blamed in time.

<sup>23</sup> And the sons of Benjamin did as it was commanded to them, and by their number they ravished wives to them, each man one wife, of them that led dances. And they went into their possession, and builded cities, and dwelled in those [or them].

RUTH

<sup>1</sup> In the days of one judge, when judges were sovereigns in Israel, hunger was made in the land; and a man of Bethlehem of Judah went to be a pilgrim in the country of Moab, with his wife and [his] two free sons.

<sup>2</sup> He was called Elimelech, and his wife Naomi, and his two sons, the one was called Mahlon, and the tother Chilion, they were Ephrathites of Bethlehem of Judah; and they entered into the country of Moab, and they dwelled there.

<sup>5</sup> and both died, that is, Mahlon and Chilion; and so the woman was left, and was made bare of her two free sons, and her husband.

<sup>6</sup> And she rose to go with ever either wife of her sons into her country from the country of Moab; for she had heard, that the Lord had beheld his people, and had given meats to them.

<sup>7</sup> And so she went out from the place of her pilgrimage with ever either wife of her sons; and now when she was set in the way of turning again into the land of Judah,

<sup>8</sup> she said to them, Go ye back into the house of your mother; the Lord do mercy with you, as ye did with the dead men, and with me;

<sup>11</sup> To whom she answered, My daughters, turn ye again, why come ye with me? I have no more sons in my womb, that ye may hope husbands of me;

<sup>12</sup> my daughters of Moab, turn ye again, and go; for now I am made eld, and I am not able to the bond of marriage; yea, though I might conceive in this night, and bear sons,

<sup>13</sup> though ye will abide till they waxed, and [ful] fill the years of marriage, ye shall sooner be eld [or old] women than ye shall be wedded; I beseech, my daughters, mourn ye not, for your an-guish oppresseth me the more, and the hand of the Lord is gone out against me.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore, when the voice was raised, again they began to weep. And Orpah kissed her mother-in-law, and turned again, and Ruth abode with her mother-in-law.

<sup>16</sup> And Ruth answered, Be thou not against me, that I forsake thee, and go away; whither ever thou shalt go, I shall go, and where thou shalt dwell, I shall dwell together; thy people is my people, and thy God is my God;

<sup>17</sup> what land shall receive thee dying, I shall die therein also, and there I shall take place of burying; God do to me these things, and add these things, if death alone shall not part me and thee.

<sup>19</sup> And they went forth together, and came into Bethlehem; and when they entered into the city, swift fame rose with all men, and women said, This is that Naomi.

<sup>20</sup> To whom she said, Call ye not me Naomi, that is, fair, but call ye me Mara, that is, bitter; for Almighty God hath filled me greatly with bitterness.

<sup>21</sup> I went out full, and the Lord led me again void; why therefore call ye me Naomi, whom the Lord hath made low, and Almighty God hath tormented?

<sup>2</sup> And Ruth of Moab said to her mother-in-law, If thou commandest, I shall go into the field, and I shall gather ears of corn that flee the hands of reapers, wherever I shall find grace of an husbandman merciful in me. To whom she answered, Go, my daughter.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore she went, and gathered ears of corn after the backs of reapers. And it befel, that Boaz was lord of that field, that was of the kindred of Elimelech.

<sup>4</sup> And lo! Boaz came from Bethlehem. And he said to his reapers, The Lord be with you. And they answered to him, The Lord bless thee.

<sup>7</sup> and she prayed, that she should gather ears of corn leaving behind, and follow the steps of [the] reapers; and from the morrowtide till now she standeth in the field, and soothly neither at a moment she turned again home.

<sup>8</sup> And Boaz said to Ruth, Daughter, hear thou; go thou not into another field to gather, neither go away from this place, but be thou joined to my damsels,

<sup>9</sup> and follow thou where they reap; for I [have] commanded to my young men, that no man be dis-easeful to thee; but also if thou thirstest, go to the fardels, and drink waters, of which my young men drink.

<sup>10</sup> And she felled on her face, and worshipped or honoured on the earth; and she said to him, Whereof is this to me, that I should find grace before thine eyes, that thou wouldest know me, a strange woman?

<sup>11</sup> To whom Boaz answered, All things be told to me, that thou hast done to thy mother-in-law after the death of thine husband, and that thou hast forsaken thy father and thy mother, and the land that thou were born in, and thou art come to a people, that thou hast not known before.

<sup>12</sup> The Lord yield to thee for thy work, and receive thou full meed of the Lord God of Israel, to whom thou camest, and under whose wings thou fleddest.

<sup>13</sup> And she said, My lord, I have found grace before thine eyes, and thou hast comforted me, and thou hast spoken to the heart of thine handmaid, which am not like one of thine handmaids.

<sup>14</sup> And Boaz said to her, When the hour of eating is, come thou hither, and eat bread, and wet thy morsel in vinegar. Therefore she sat at the side of [the] reapers; and he dressed to her pottage, and she ate, and was filled; and she took the remnants.

<sup>15</sup> And she rose from thence to gather the ears of corn, by custom. And Boaz commanded to his young men, and said, Also if she will reap with you, forbid ye not her,

<sup>16</sup> and also cast ye forth to her handfuls of or on purpose, and suffer ye those to abide, that she gather those without shame; and no man reprove her gathering them.

<sup>17</sup> Therefore she gathered in the field till to eventide; and she beat with a rod, and shook out those things that she had gathered; and she found of barley as the measure of ephah.

<sup>18</sup> Which she bare, and turned again into the city, and showed to her mother-in-law; furthermore she brought forth, and gave to her the remnants of her meat, with which meat she was fulfilled.

<sup>19</sup> And her mother-in-law said to her, Where hast thou gathered this today, and where hast thou done this work? Blessed be he, that had mercy on thee. And Ruth told to her mother-in-law with whom she wrought; and she said that the man's name was called Boaz.

<sup>20</sup> To whom Naomi answered, Blessed be he of the Lord, for he [hath] kept also to dead men the same grace, which he gave to the quick. And again she said, He is our kinsman.

<sup>21</sup> And Ruth said, Also he commanded this thing to me, that so long I should be joined to his reapers, till all his corns were reaped.

<sup>22</sup> To whom her mother-in-law said, My daughter, it is better, that thou go out to reap with his damsels, lest in an-other field any man against-stand thee.

<sup>23</sup> And so Ruth was joined to the damsels of Boaz; and so long she reaped with them, till both the barley and the wheat were enclosed in the barns.

CHAPTER 3

<sup>1</sup> And after that Ruth had turned to her mother-in-law, she heard of her, My daughter, I shall seek rest to thee, and I shall purvey that it be well to thee.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore be thou washed, and anointed, and be thou clothed with more honest or best clothes, and go thou down into the cornfloor; the man see not thee, till he have ended to eat and to drink.

<sup>4</sup> Forsooth when he goeth to sleep, mark thou the place in which he sleepeth; and thou shalt come, and uncover the cloth, with which he is covered, from the part of the feet, and thou shalt cast thee down, and thou shalt lie there. Forsooth he shall say to thee, what thou shalt do.

<sup>6</sup> And she went down into the cornfloor; and did all things which her mother-in-law commanded to her.

<sup>7</sup> And when Boaz had eaten and drunk, and was made more glad, and had gone to sleep beside the mound of sheaves, Ruth came, and hid herself; and when the cloth was uncovered from his feet, she casted down herself.

<sup>9</sup> and he said to her, Who art thou? She answered, I am Ruth, thine handmaid; stretch forth thy cloth on thy servantess, for thou art nigh of kin.

<sup>10</sup> And he said, Daughter, thou art blessed of the Lord, and thou hast overcome the former mercy with the latter; for thou followedest not young men, poor either rich.

<sup>11</sup> Therefore, do not thou dread, but whatever thing thou shalt say to me, I shall do to thee; for all the people that dwelleth within the gates of my city know, that thou art a woman of virtue.

<sup>12</sup> And I forsake not, that I am of nigh kin, but another man is nearer kin than I;

<sup>13</sup> rest thou here this night, and when the morrowtide is made, if the man will hold thee to wife by right of nigh kin, the thing is well done; and if he will not, I shall take thee without any doubt, the Lord liveth; sleep thou till the morrowtide.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore she slept at his feet till to the going away of [the] night, and then she rose, before that men should know each other. And Boaz said to her, Be thou ware lest any man know, that thou camest hither.

<sup>15</sup> And again he said, Stretch forth thy mantle with which thou art covered, and hold thou with ever either hand. And while she stretched forth and held, he meted [or measured] six measures of barley, and putted [or put up] on her; and she bare, and entered into the city,

<sup>16</sup> and came to her mother-in-law. Which said to Ruth, What hast thou done, daughter? And Ruth told to her all things, which the man had done to her.

<sup>17</sup> And Ruth said, Lo! he gave to me six measures of barley; and he said, I will or desire not that thou turn again void to thy mother-in-law.

<sup>18</sup> And Naomi said, Abide, daughter, till we see what issue the thing shall have; for the man shall not cease, no but he [ful] fill those things which he spake.

CHAPTER 4

<sup>1</sup> Therefore Boaz went up to the gate, and sat there; and when he had seen the kinsman pass forth, of whom the word was had, Boaz said to him, Bow thou a little, and sit here; and he called him by his name. And he turned, and sat.

<sup>3</sup> Boaz spake to the kinsman, Naomi, that turned again from the country of Moab, sold, that is, is in purpose to sell, for it was not yet sold, the part of the field of our brother Elimelech,

<sup>4</sup> which thing I would that thou hear; and I would say to thee before all men sitting, and greater in birth of my people. If thou wilt have in possession the field by right of nigh kin, buy thou, and have thou in possession; soothly if it displeaseth thee, show thou this same thing to me, that I know what I shall do; for none is nigh in kin, besides thee which art the former, and besides me which am the second. And the man answered, I shall buy the field.

<sup>5</sup> To whom Boaz said, When thou hast bought the field of the hand of the woman, thou owest also to take to wife Ruth of Moab, that was the wife of the dead man, that thou raise the name of thy kinsman in his heritage.

<sup>6</sup> And he answered, I forsake the right of nigh kin; for I owe not to do away the heritage of mine own meine; use thou my privilege, the which I acknowledge me to want gladly.

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth this was the custom by eld [or old] time in Israel among kinsmen, that if a man gave his right to another man, that the granting were steadfast, the man should unlace his shoe, and give it to his kinsman; this thing was witnessing of a gift in Israel.

<sup>9</sup> And Boaz said to the greater men in birth, and to all the people, Ye be witnesses today, that I have taken in possession all things that were of Elimelech, and of Chilion, and of Mahlon, by the gift of Naomi;

<sup>10</sup> and that I have taken into wedlock Ruth of Moab, the wife of Mahlon, that I raise up the name of the dead man in his heritage; lest his name be done away from his meine, and from his brethren, and his people. Ye, he said, be witnesses of this thing.

<sup>11</sup> All the people, that was in the gate, answered, and the greater men in birth, We be witnesses; the Lord make this woman, that entereth into thine house, as Rachel and Leah, that builded the house of Israel, that she be ensample of virtue in Ephratah, and have a solemn name in Bethlehem;

<sup>12</sup> and thine house be made as the house of Perez, whom Tamar childed to Judah, of the seed which the Lord shall give to thee of this damsel.

<sup>13</sup> Then Boaz took Ruth, and he took her to wife; and he entered [in] to her, and the Lord gave to her, that she conceived, and childed a son.

<sup>14</sup> And women said to Naomi, Blessed be the Lord, which suffered not, that an heir failed to thy meine, and his name were called in Israel;

<sup>15</sup> and that thou have, that shall comfort thy soul, and nourish thine eld age. For a child is born of thy daughter-in-law, that shall love thee, and he is better to thee, than if thou haddest seven sons.

<sup>16</sup> And Naomi putted [or put] the child, whom she received, in her bosom; and she did the office of a nurse, and of a bearer-about.

<sup>17</sup> And [the] women neighbours thanked her or joyed together with her, and said, A son is born to Naomi; and they called his name Obed. This is the father of Jesse, the father of David.

1ST SAMUEL

<sup>1</sup> There was a man of Ramathaim in Zophim, of the hill of Ephraim, and his name was Elkanah, the son of Jeroham, son of Elihi, son of Tohu, son of Zuph, of Ephraim.

<sup>2</sup> And Elkanah had two wives; the name to the one was Hannah, and the name of the second was Peninnah; and sons were to Peninnah; but Hannah had none free children.

<sup>3</sup> And that man went up from his city in the days that were ordained, to worship and to offer sacrifice to the Lord of hosts in Shiloh. And [the] two sons of Eli were there, Hophni and Phinehas, priests of the Lord.

<sup>7</sup> And so Peninnah did each year, when the time came that they went up into the house of the Lord; and so she stirred Hannah. And then she wept, and took no meat.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore Elkanah, her husband, said to her, Hannah, why weepest thou, and why eatest thou not, and why is thine heart tormented? Whether I am not better to thee than be ten sons?

<sup>9</sup> Soothly Hannah rose, after that she had eaten and drunk in Shiloh. And the while Eli [the priest] was on his great seat before the doorposts of the house of the Lord,

<sup>10</sup> and when she was in bitter sorrow of soul, she prayed the Lord, and wept largely;

<sup>11</sup> and she made a vow to the Lord, and said, Lord God of hosts, if thou beholdest, and seest the torment of thy servantess, and if thou hast mind of me, and forgettest not thine handmaid, and givest a son to thy servantess, I shall give him to the Lord all the days of his life, and a razor shall not come upon his head.

<sup>15</sup> Hannah answered, and said, Nay, my lord, for I am an unhappy woman; I have not drunk wine, neither any-thing that may make drunken, but I have poured out my soul in the Lord's sight;

<sup>16</sup> guess thou not thine handmaid as one of the daughters of Belial, for of the multitude of my sorrow and of my mourning I have spoken unto this present time.

<sup>17</sup> Then Eli said to her, Go thou in peace, and God of Israel give to thee the asking that thou hast prayed him.

<sup>18</sup> And she said, I would that thine handmaid find grace in thine eyes. And the woman went into her way, and ate, and her cheeks were no more changed diversely.

<sup>19</sup> And they rised early, and worship-ped before the Lord; and they turned again, and came into their house in Ramah. And Elkanah knew Hannah, his wife; and the Lord thought on her.

<sup>20</sup> And it was done after the compass of days, Hannah conceived, and childed a son, and called his name Samuel; for she had asked him of the Lord.

<sup>22</sup> And Hannah went not up to that solemnity or feast, for she had said to her husband, I shall not go, till the young child be weaned, and till I lead him thither, and he appear before the sight of the Lord, and dwell there continually.

<sup>23</sup> And Elkanah, her husband, said to her, Do thou that that seemeth good to thee, and dwell thou still till thou have weaned him; and I beseech, that the Lord [ful] fill his word. There-fore the woman abode, and gave milk to her son, till the time she removed him from the milk.

<sup>24</sup> And she brought him with her, after that she had weaned him, with three calves, and three bushels of meal, and an amphora, either a pot, of wine; and she brought him to the house of the Lord in Shiloh. And the child was yet full young.

<sup>26</sup> And Hannah said, My lord, I beseech thee, thy soul liveth; I am the woman, that stood before thee here, and prayed the Lord;

<sup>27</sup> for this child I prayed, and the Lord gave to me mine asking which I asked of him;

<sup>28</sup> therefore and I have given him to the Lord in all [the] days, in which he is given to the Lord. And they worshipped there the Lord.

CHAPTER 2

<sup>1</sup> And Hannah worshipped, and said, Mine heart fully joyed in the Lord, and mine horn is raised in my God; my mouth is alarged on mine enemies, for I was glad in thine health.

<sup>2</sup> None is holy as the Lord is; for none other is, except thee, and none is strong as our God.

<sup>3</sup> Do not ye multiply to speak high things, and have glory therein; eld [or old] things go away from your mouth; for God is Lord of knowings, and thoughts be made ready to him.

<sup>8</sup> He raiseth a needy man from powder, and he raiseth a poor man from drit, that he sit with princes, and hold the seat of glory; for the ends of [the] earth be of the Lord, and he hath set the world on those [or them].

<sup>9</sup> He shall keep the feet of his saints, and wicked men shall be still altogether in darknesses; for a man shall not be made strong in his own strength.

<sup>10</sup> [The] Adversaries of the Lord shall dread him, and from heavens he shall thunder upon them; the Lord shall deem the ends of [the] earth, and he shall give lordship to his king, and he shall enhance the horn, that is, power, of his Christ, or his anointed.

<sup>13</sup> neither the office of priests to the people; but whoever had offered sacrifice, the child or servant of the priest came, while the fleshs were in seething, and he had a fleshhook with three teeth in his hand;

<sup>14</sup> and he sent it into the great vessel of stone, either into the cauldron, either into the pot, either into the pan; and whatever thing the fleshhook raised, the priest took that to himself; so they did to all Israel of men coming into Shiloh.

<sup>15</sup> Yea, before that they burnt the inner fatness, the priest's child came, and said to the offerer, Give thou flesh to me or Give to me the flesh, that I see the it to the priest; for I shall not take of thee sodden flesh, but raw.

<sup>16</sup> And he that offered said to him, Be first the inner fatness burnt today after the custom, and take thou then to thee how much ever thy soul desireth. The which answered, and said to him, Nay, but thou shalt give it now; for else I shall take it by violence.

<sup>19</sup> And his mother made to him a little coat, the which she brought to him in the days ordained to offer, and she went up with her husband, that he would offer a solemn offering, and his avow [or vow].

<sup>20</sup> And Eli blessed Elkanah and his wife; and said, The Lord yield to thee seed of this woman, for the gift which thou hast given to the Lord. And they went into their place again.

<sup>21</sup> Therefore the Lord visited Hannah, and she conceived, and childed three sons and two daughters. And the child Samuel was magnified at the Lord.

<sup>22</sup> And Eli was full eld [or old], and he heard all the things that his sons did in all Israel, and how they slept with women, that waited at the door of the tabernacle.

<sup>23</sup> And he said to them, Why do ye such things, the worst things, which I hear of all the people?

<sup>25</sup> If a man sinneth against a man, God may be pleased to him by prayers and sacrifices; but if a man sinneth against the Lord, who shall pray for him? And they heard not the voice of their father, for God would slay them.

<sup>27</sup> Soothly a man of God came to Eli, and said to him, The Lord saith these things, Whether I was not showed apertly to the house of thy father, when he was in Egypt, in the house of Pharaoh?

<sup>28</sup> And I chose him of all the lineages of Israel to be a priest to me, that he should go up to mine altar, and should burn incense to me, and that he should bear before me a priest's cloth; and I gave to the house of thy father all things of the sacrifices of the sons of Israel.

<sup>29</sup> Why hast thou cast away with the heel my sacrifice, and my gifts, which I [have] commanded to be offered in the temple; and thou honouredest more thy sons than me, that ye eat the principal parts of each sacrifice of Israel my people?

<sup>30</sup> Therefore the Lord God of Israel saith these things, I speaking spake, that thine house, and the house of thy father, should minister in my sight till into without end; now forsooth the Lord saith, Far be this from me; but whoever honoureth me, I shall glorify him; forsooth they that despise me, shall be unnoble.

<sup>31</sup> Lo! [the] days come, and I shall cut away thine arm, or thy power, and the arm of the house of thy father, that an eld [or old] man be not in thine house.

<sup>32</sup> And thou shalt see thine enemy in the temple, in all the prosperities of Israel; and an eld [or old] man shall not be in thine house in all days.

<sup>33</sup> Nevertheless I shall not utterly take away of thee a man from mine altar; but that thine eyes fail, and thy soul fail or thy life languish; and a great part of thine house shall die, when it shall come to man's age.

<sup>34</sup> Forsooth this shall be [the] sign, that shall come to thy two sons, Hophni and Phinehas; both they shall die in one day.

<sup>35</sup> And I shall raise to me a faithful priest, that shall do by mine heart and my soul; and I shall build to him a faithful house, and he shall go before my Christ, or mine anointed in all days.

<sup>36</sup> Forsooth it shall come, that who-ever [still] dwelleth in thine house, that he come to bow for himself, in an half-penny of silver, and a cake of bread, and say, I beseech, suffer thou me to one part of the priests' offices, that I eat a morsel of bread.

CHAPTER 3

<sup>2</sup> Therefore it was done in a day, Eli lay in his bed, and his eyes dimmed, and he might not see;

<sup>3</sup> the lantern of the Lord was not yet quenched. And Samuel slept in the temple of the Lord, where the ark of God was.

<sup>4</sup> And the Lord called Samuel; and he answered and said, Lo! I or Lo! I am ready.

<sup>5</sup> And he ran to Eli, and said to him, Lo! I; for thou calledest me. And Eli said, I called not thee; turn thou again and sleep. And he went and slept.

<sup>6</sup> And the Lord added again to call Samuel; and Samuel rose, and went to Eli, and said, Lo! I am here; for thou calledest me. And Eli answered, I called not thee, my son; turn thou again and sleep.

<sup>8</sup> And the Lord added, and called yet Samuel the third time; the which rose up and went to Eli, and said, Lo! I; for thou calledest me. Then Eli understood, that the Lord had called the child;

<sup>9</sup> and Eli said to Samuel, Go thou and sleep; and if he calleth thee afterward, thou shalt say, Speak thou, Lord, for thy servant heareth. Then Samuel went and slept in his place.

<sup>10</sup> And the Lord came, and stood, and called as he had called the second time, Samuel, Samuel. And Samuel said, Speak thou, Lord, for thy servant heareth.

<sup>11</sup> And the Lord said to Samuel, Lo! I shall make a word, that is, a thing signified by a word, in Israel, which word whoever shall hear, both his ears shall ring, that is, he shall be astonished for wonder and dread.

<sup>12</sup> In that day I shall raise up against Eli all things that I have spoken upon his house; I shall begin it, and I shall end it.

<sup>13</sup> For I before-said to him, that I should deem his house without end for the wickedness thereof; for he knew, that his sons did unworthily, and he chastised not them.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore I have sworn to the house of Eli, that the wickedness of his meine, or house, shall not be cleansed with sacrifices and gifts till into without end.

<sup>15</sup> And then Samuel slept till the morrowtide, and he opened the doors of the house of the Lord; and Samuel dreaded to show the revelation to Eli.

<sup>16</sup> Therefore Eli called Samuel, and said, Samuel, my son. And he answered and said, I am ready.

<sup>17</sup> And Eli asked him, What is the word that the Lord hath spoken to thee? I pray thee, hide it not from me; God do to thee these things, and increase these things, if thou hidest from me a word of all [the] words that be said to thee.

<sup>18</sup> And Samuel showed to him all the words, and hid not anything from him. And Eli answered, He is the Lord; do he that, that is good in his eyes.

<sup>19</sup> Forsooth Samuel increased, and the Lord was with him, and none of all his words felled into [the] earth, that is, in vain, for all was fulfilled.

<sup>20</sup> And all Israel from Dan to Beer-sheba knew, that faithful Samuel was a prophet of the Lord.

<sup>21</sup> And the Lord added to appear again in Shiloh, for the Lord was showed to Samuel in Shiloh by the word of the Lord;

CHAPTER 4

<sup>1</sup> and the word of Samuel came to all Israel. And it was done in those days Philistines came together into battle; for Israel went out against the Philistines into battle, and setted tents beside the stone of help or Ebenezer. And the Philistines came into Aphek,

<sup>2</sup> and made ready battle array against Israel. And when the battle was begun, Israel turned their backs to [the] Philistines; and as four thousand of men were slain in that battle every-where by fields; and the people of Israel turned again to their tents.

<sup>3</sup> And the greater men in birth of Israel said, Why hath the Lord smitten us today before the Philistines? Bring we to us from Shiloh the ark of the bond of peace of the Lord, and come it into the midst of us, that it save us from the hand of our enemies.

<sup>4</sup> Therefore the people sent into Shiloh, and they took from thence the ark of the bond of peace of the Lord of hosts, that sat on cherubim. And Hophni and Phinehas, the two sons of Eli, were with the ark of the bond of peace of the Lord.

<sup>5</sup> And when the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord had come into the tents, all Israel cried [out] with [a] great cry, and the earth sounded.

<sup>6</sup> And the Philistines heard the voice of their cry, and they said, And what is this voice of great cry in the tents of Hebrews? And they knew, that the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord had come into the tents of Israel.

<sup>7</sup> And the Philistines dreaded, and said, God is come into their tents; and they wailed, and said, Woe to us! for so great out-joying was not there yesterday, and the third day passed;

<sup>8</sup> woe to us! who shall keep us from the hand of these high gods? these be the gods, that smited Egypt with all vengeance in desert.

<sup>9</sup> Philistines, be ye comforted, and be ye men, serve ye not to the Hebrews, as they have served to you; be ye comforted, and fight ye against Israel.

<sup>10</sup> Then the Philistines fought, and Israel was overcome, and each man fled into his tabernacle; and a full great vengeance was made, and thirty thousand of footmen of Israel felled down.

<sup>11</sup> And the ark of God was taken; and, the two sons of Eli, Hophni and Phinehas, were dead.

<sup>13</sup> and when he was come, Eli sat upon a seat, and beheld against the way; for his heart was dreading for the ark of the Lord. And after that that man had entered, he told what had happened to the men of the city, and all the city yelled.

<sup>14</sup> And Eli heard the sound of the cry, and he said, What is the sound of this noise? And the man hasted, and came, and told to Eli.

<sup>16</sup> And the man said to Eli, I am he that came from the battle, and I am he that fled today from the battle array. To whom Eli said, My son, what is there done?

<sup>17</sup> And he that told answered, and said, Israel hath fled before the Philistines, and a great falling is made in the people of Israel; furthermore and thy two sons, Hophni and Phinehas, be dead, and the ark of God is taken.

<sup>18</sup> And when he named the ark of God, Eli felled from the seat back-ward beside the door, and was dead; for his neck was broken. For he was an eld [or old] man, and of great age; and he deemed Israel forty years.

<sup>19</sup> And his daughter-in-law, Phinehas' wife, was with child, and nigh the child bearing; and when the message was heard or when she heard by the messenger, that the ark of God was taken, and that her father-in-law was dead, and her husband, she bowed herself down, and childed; for sudden sorrows felled into her.

<sup>20</sup> And in that moment of her death, women that stood about her said to her, Dread thou not, for thou hast childed a son. And she answered not to them, neither she took heed.

<sup>21</sup> And she called the child Ichabod, that is, without glory, and said, The glory of the Lord is translated from Israel, for the ark of God is taken; and for her father-in-law and for her husband

<sup>22</sup> she said, The glory of God is translated or is taken from Israel, for the ark of God is taken.

CHAPTER 5

<sup>1</sup> And the Philistines took the ark of God, and bare it away from the stone of help into Ashdod.

<sup>3</sup> And when men of Ashdod had risen early in the tother day, lo! Dagon lay low in the earth before the ark of the Lord. And they took Dagon, and restored him in his place.

<sup>4</sup> And again they rose early in the tother day, and they found Dagon lying on his face upon the earth before the ark of the Lord. And the head of Dagon, and the two palms of his hands, were broken off, and were lying upon the threshold; and the stock alone of Dagon was left in his place.

<sup>5</sup> For this cause the priests of Dagon, and all that enter into his temple, tread not upon the threshold of Dagon in Ashdod unto this day.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth the hand of the Lord was made grievous upon [the] men of Ashdod, and he destroyed them, and he smote Ashdod and the coasts thereof in the privier part of [the] buttocks or in the more privy part of their tail ends.

<sup>7</sup> And men of Ashdod saw such a vengeance, and they said, The ark of God of Israel dwell not with us; for his hand is hard on us, and on Dagon our god.

<sup>8</sup> And they sent, and gathered all the wise men, either princes, of Philistines to them, and said, What shall we do of the ark of God of Israel? And the men of Gath answered, The ark of God of Israel be led about; and they led about the ark of God of Israel.

<sup>9</sup> And while they led it about, the hand of the Lord was made upon all the cities about, of full great slaughter; and he smote men of each city, from a little man till to the more, and the lower entrails of them waxed rotten, and came forth; and men of Gath took counsel, and they made to them-selves seats of skins, either cushions.

<sup>10</sup> Therefore they sent the ark of the Lord into Ekron. And when the ark of the Lord had come into Ekron, men of Ekron cried [out], and said, They have brought to us the ark of God of Israel, that he slay us and our people.

<sup>11</sup> Then they sent, and gathered together all the wise men, either princes, of Philistines; which said, Deliver ye the ark of God of Israel, and turn it again into his place, and slay not us with our people. For dread of death was made in all [the] cities, and the hand of the Lord was full grievous.

<sup>12</sup> And the men, that were not dead, were smitten in the privy parts of their buttocks, and the yelling of each city went up into heaven.

CHAPTER 6

<sup>2</sup> and after these things the Philistines called together [the] priests and false diviners, and said, What shall we do of the ark of God? Show ye to us, how we shall send it into his place.

<sup>3</sup> Which said, If ye send again the ark of God of Israel, do not ye deliver it void, but yield ye to him that thing, that ye owe for [the] sin; and then ye shall be healed, and ye shall know, why his hand goeth not away from you.

<sup>4</sup> And they said, What is it, that we owe to yield to him for trespass? And they answered to them, By the number of the provinces of Philistines, ye shall make five golden arses, and five golden mice; for one vengeance was to all of you, and to your wise men, either princes.

<sup>5</sup> And ye shall make the likeness of your arses, and the likeness of [the] mice that destroyed your land; and ye shall give glory to [the] God of Israel, if in hap he withdraw his hand from you, and from your gods, and from your land.

<sup>6</sup> Why make ye heavy your hearts, as Egypt and Pharaoh grieved their hearts? Whether not after that he was smitten, then he delivered God's people, and they went forth?

<sup>7</sup> Now therefore take ye, and make a new wain, and join ye therein two kine having calves, on which kine no yoke was put; and enclose ye their calves at home.

<sup>8</sup> And ye shall take the ark of the Lord, and ye shall set it in the wain; and ye shall put in a little coffer at the side of the ark the golden vessels, which ye have paid to the Lord for your trespass; and deliver ye the ark, that it go forth.

<sup>9</sup> And ye shall behold it, and soothly if it goeth up against Bethshemesh by the way of his coasts, the Lord hath then done to you this great evil; but if it go not thither, we shall know that the hand of the Lord touched not us, but this thing hath fallen to us by hap.

<sup>10</sup> Then they did in this manner; and they took two kine that gave milk to their calves, and they joined them to the wain; and they enclosed their calves at home.

<sup>11</sup> And they put the ark of God upon the wain, and the little coffer, that had the gold mice, and the likeness of their arses.

<sup>13</sup> Forsooth men of Bethshemesh reaped wheat in the valley, and they lifted up their eyes, and saw the ark, and they were joyful, when they had seen it.

<sup>14</sup> And the wain came into the field of Joshua of Bethshemesh, and stood there. And a great stone was there; and they cutted the wood of the wain, and putted the kine on that wood, as a burnt sacrifice to the Lord.

<sup>15</sup> And the deacons [or Levites] took down the ark of God, and the little coffer that was beside it, where-in the golden vessels were; and they putted those upon the great stone. And the men of Bethshemesh offered burnt sacrifices, and offered slain sacrifices in that day to the Lord.

<sup>18</sup> and the Philistines yielded golden mice by the number of cities of Philistines of [the] five provinces, from a walled city unto an unwalled town, and unto the great stone that was called Abel, on which they putted the ark of the Lord, the which stone was there unto that day in the field of Joshua of Bethshemesh.

<sup>19</sup> Forsooth the Lord smote of the men of Bethshemesh, for they had seen the ark of the Lord, and he smote of the people seventy men, and fifty thousand of the poor-all*. And the people mourned, for the Lord had smitten the people with [a] great vengeance.

<sup>20</sup> And men of Bethshemesh said, Who shall now stand in the sight of the Lord God of this holy thing, and to whom shall it go up from us?

<sup>21</sup> And they sent messengers to the dwellers of Kiriathjearim, and said, The Philistines have brought again the ark of the Lord; come ye down, and lead it again to you.

CHAPTER 7

<sup>1</sup> Therefore men of Kiriathjearim came, and led again the ark of the Lord, and brought it into the house of Abinadab in Gibeah. And they hallowed Eleazar his son, that he should keep the ark of the Lord.

<sup>2</sup> And it was done, from which day the ark of the Lord dwelled in Kiriath-jearim, that the days were multiplied; for the twentieth year was now, after that Samuel began to teach the people; and all Israel rested after the Lord.

<sup>3</sup> And Samuel spake to all the house of Israel, and said, If in all your heart ye turn again to the Lord, do ye away alien gods, Baalim, and Ashtaroth, from the midst of you; and make ye ready your hearts to the Lord, and serve ye him alone; and he shall deliver you from the hand of the Philistines.

<sup>5</sup> And Samuel said, Gather ye all Israel into Mizpah, that I pray the Lord for you.

<sup>6</sup> And they came together into Mizpeh, and drew water, and poured it out in the Lord's sight; and they fasted in that day, and said, Lord, we have sinned to thee. And Samuel deemed the sons of Israel in Mizpeh.

<sup>7</sup> And the Philistines heard that the sons of Israel were gathered together in Mizpeh; and the princes of Philistines went up to Israel. And when the sons of Israel had heard this, they dreaded of the face of Philistines.

<sup>8</sup> And they said to Samuel or And Israel cried to Samuel, Cease thou not to cry for us to our Lord God, that he save us from the hand of Philistines.

<sup>9</sup> And Samuel took one sucking lamb, and offered it whole into burnt sacrifice to the Lord. And Samuel cried to the Lord for Israel; and the Lord heard him.

<sup>10</sup> And it was done, when Samuel offered the burnt sacrifice, that the Philistines began battle against Israel. And the Lord thundered with great thunder in that day upon the Philistines, and made them afeared; and they were slain of the sons of Israel.

<sup>11</sup> And the sons of Israel went out of Mizpeh, and pursued the Philistines, and smote them unto the place that was under Bethcar.

<sup>12</sup> And Samuel took one stone, and put it betwixt Mizpeh, and Shen; and he called the name of that place The stone of help or Ebenezer. And he said, Hitherto the Lord hath helped us.

* CHAPTER 6:19 Hebrews understand thus the number of men slain here; they say that only seventy men were smitten, which were of so great reputation, that they were each comparisioned to almost one thousand of the common people.

<sup>13</sup> And the Philistines were made low, and they added no more to come into the terms of Israel. And so the hand of the Lord was made [up] on Philistines in all the days of Samuel.

<sup>14</sup> And the cities which the Philistines had taken from Israel, were yielded again to Israel, from Ekron unto Gath, and the coasts of Gath; and the Lord delivered Israel from the hand of Philistines; and peace was betwixt Israel and Amorites.

<sup>16</sup> and he went by each year, and compassed Bethel, and Gilgal, and Mizpeh, and he deemed Israel in the foresaid places.

<sup>17</sup> And he turned again into Ramah, for his house was there; and he deemed Israel there, and he builded there also an altar to the Lord.

CHAPTER 8

<sup>2</sup> And the name of his first begotten son was Joel, and the name of the second was Abiah, that were judges in Beersheba.

<sup>5</sup> And they said to him, Lo! thou hast waxed eld [or old], and thy sons go not in thy ways; ordain thou a king to us, that he deem us, as also all other nations have.

<sup>6</sup> And the word displeased in the eyes of Samuel, for they had said, Give thou to us a king, that he deem us. And Samuel prayed to the Lord.

<sup>7</sup> And the Lord said to Samuel, Hear thou the voice of the people in all things that they speak to thee; for they have not cast away thee, but me, that I reign not upon them.

<sup>8</sup> By all the works that they have done, from the day in which I led them out of Egypt unto this day, as they have forsaken me, and they have served alien gods, so they do also to thee.

<sup>10</sup> Then Samuel said all the words of the Lord to the people, that had asked of him a king;

<sup>11</sup> and he said, This shall be the right of the king, that shall command to you; he shall take your sons, and he shall set them in his chariots; and he shall make them to himself riders, and before-goers of his carts;

<sup>12</sup> and he shall ordain to him tribunes, that is, sovereigns of a thousand, and centurions, that is, sovereigns of an hundred, and earers or tillers of his fields, and reapers of his corns, and smiths of his arms, and of his chariots.

<sup>13</sup> Also he shall make your daughters to be makers of his ointments, and his fire-makers, and bakers or his makers of bread.

<sup>14</sup> And he shall take your fields, and your vineries [or vines], and the best places of olives, and he shall give those to his servants.

<sup>15</sup> But also he shall take the tenth part of your corns, and the rents of your vineries [or vines], that he give those to his chamberlains, and [to his] servants.

<sup>16</sup> And he shall take away your servants, and your handmaids, and your best young men, and your asses, and he shall set [or put] these in his work.

<sup>18</sup> And ye shall cry in that day from the face of your king, whom ye have chosen to you; and the Lord shall not hear you in that day; for ye [have] asked for a king to you.

<sup>20</sup> and we also shall be as all folks, and our king shall deem us, and he shall go out before us, and he shall fight our battles for us.

<sup>22</sup> And the Lord said to Samuel, Hear thou their voices, and ordain thou a king upon them. And Samuel said to the men of Israel, Each man go into his city.

CHAPTER 9

<sup>1</sup> And there was a man of Benjamin, that was called Kish, the son of Abiel, the son of Zeror, the son of Bechorath, the son of Aphiah, the son of a man that was called Benjamin, a strong man in bodily might.

<sup>2</sup> And to him was a son, Saul by name, chosen and goodly; and no man of the sons of Israel was better than he; from the shoulders and above, he appeared over all the people.

<sup>3</sup> And the she-asses of Kish, the father of Saul, were lost. And Kish said to Saul his son, Take with thee one of the children, and rise thou, and go seek the she-asses.

<sup>4</sup> And when they had gone forth by the hill of Ephraim, and by the land of Shalisha, and they had not found them, they passed forth also by the land of Shalim, and they were not there; but also they passed by the land of Benjamin, and yet they found them not.

<sup>5</sup> And when they had come into the land of Zuph, and had not found them, Saul said to his child that was with him, Come thou, and turn we again; lest peradventure my father hath left off caring about the female asses, and is busy for us.

<sup>6</sup> And the child said to him, Lo! a man of God is in this city, a noble man; all thing that he speaketh, cometh without doubt. Now therefore go we thither, if peradventure he show to us of our way, for which we came.

<sup>7</sup> And Saul said to his child, Lo! we shall go there; what shall we bear to the man of God? Bread hath failed in our scrips, and we have no present, that we can give to the man of God, neither any other thing.

<sup>8</sup> Again the child answered to Saul, and said, Lo! the fourth part of a stater, that is, a shekel, of silver is found in mine hand; give we it to the man of God, that he show to us our way.

<sup>9</sup> Sometime in Israel each man going to counsel with God spake thus, Come ye, and go we to the seer; for he, that is said now a prophet, was called sometime a seer.

<sup>10</sup> And Saul said to his child, Thy word is the best; come thou, go we. And they went into the city, in which the man of God was.

<sup>11</sup> And when they went up into the highness of the city, they found damsels going out to draw water, and they said to the damsels, Whether the seer is here?

<sup>12</sup> And the damsels answered, and said to them, He is here; lo! he is before thee; haste thou now, for today he came into the city; for today is sacrifice of the people in the high place.

<sup>13</sup> Ye shall enter into the city, and at once ye shall find him, before that he ascend [or go up] into the high place to eat; for the people shall not eat till he come, for he shall first bless the sacrifice, and afterward they shall eat that be called. Now therefore go ye up, for today ye shall find him.

<sup>14</sup> And they went up into the city. And when they went into the midst of the city, Samuel appeared going out against them, that he should go up into the high place.

<sup>15</sup> And the day before that Saul came, the Lord made revelation in the ear of Samuel, and said,

<sup>16</sup> In this same hour which is now, tomorrow, I shall send to thee a man of the land of Benjamin, and thou shalt anoint him duke upon my people Israel, and he shall save my people from the hands of Philistines; for I have beheld my people, forsooth their cry hath come to me.

<sup>17</sup> And when Samuel had beheld Saul, the Lord said to Samuel, Lo! the man, whom I said to thee; this man shall be lord of my people.

<sup>18</sup> And Saul nighed to Samuel in the midst of the gate, and said, I pray thee, show thou to me, where is the house of the seer?

<sup>19</sup> And Samuel answered to Saul, and said, I am the seer; go thou up before me into the high place, that thou eat with me today, and I shall deliver thee in the morrowtide, and I shall show to thee all things that be in thine heart.

<sup>20</sup> And be thou not busy of the female asses, which thou lostest the third day ago, for those [or they] be found; and whose shall be all the best things of Israel, whether not to thee, and to all the house of thy father?

<sup>21</sup> And Saul answered, and said, Whether I am not a son of Benjamin, of the least lineage of Israel, and my kindred is the last among all the meines of the lineage of Benjamin? Why therefore hast thou spoken to me this word?

<sup>22</sup> And so Samuel took Saul, and his child, and led them into the chamber of three orders of seats, or benches, and he gave to them a place in the beginning of them that were called, or bidden to the meat; for they were as thirty men.

<sup>23</sup> And Samuel said to the cook, Give thou the part which I gave to thee, and commanded, that thou shouldest keep by itself with thee.

<sup>24</sup> And the cook took up a shoulder, and he set [or put] it before Saul. And Samuel said, Lo! that, that hath been left, take before thee, and eat; for of this purpose it was kept to thee, when I called the people hither. And Saul ate with Samuel that day.

<sup>25</sup> And they came down from the high place into the city; and Samuel spake with Saul in the solar, and Saul arrayed a bed in the solar, and slept.

<sup>26</sup> And when they had risen early, and the day began to be clear, Samuel called Saul into the solar, and said, Rise thou up, that I deliver thee. And Saul rose up, and both went out, that is, he, and Samuel.

<sup>27</sup> And when they went down into the last part of the city, Samuel said to Saul, Say thou to the child, that he go before us, and pass [forth]; forsooth stand thou [still] a little, that I show to thee the word of the Lord.

CHAPTER 10

<sup>2</sup> when thou shalt go from me today, thou shalt find two men beside the sepulchre of Rachel, in the ends of Benjamin, in midday; and they shall say to thee, The female asses be found, which thou wentest to seek; and while the asses be left off caring about, thy father is now busy for you, and saith, What shall I do of my son?

<sup>3</sup> And when thou hast gone from thence, and hast passed further, and hast come to the oak of Tabor, three men, going up to God into Bethel, shall find thee there, one man bearing three kids, and another man bearing three cakes of bread, and another man bearing a gallon of wine.

<sup>4</sup> And when they have greeted thee, they shall give to thee two loaves, and thou shalt take those of their hand.

<sup>5</sup> After these things thou shalt come into the hill of the Lord, where is the standing place, that is, the forcelet, of Philistines; and when thou shalt enter into the city, there thou shalt have meeting thee a flock, or a company, of prophets, coming down from the high place, and a psaltery, and a tympan, and a pipe, and an harp before them, and them prophesying.

<sup>8</sup> And thou shalt go down before me into Gilgal; for I shall come down to thee, to offer an offering, and sacrifice peaceable sacrifices; by seven days thou shalt abide, till I come to thee, and show thee what thou shalt do.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore when Saul had turned away his shoulder to go from Samuel, God exchanged another heart to Saul, and all these signs came in that day.

<sup>10</sup> And Saul and his child came to the foresaid hill, and lo! a company of prophets were meeting with him; and the Spirit of the Lord fell at once upon Saul, and he prophesied in the midst of the prophets.

<sup>11</sup> And all men, that knew Saul yesterday and the third day ago, saw that he was with the prophets, and that he prophesied, and they said together, What thing hath befallen to the son of Kish? Whether also Saul is among [the] prophets?

<sup>12</sup> And one man answered to another, and said, And who is the father of them? Therefore it was turned into a proverb, Whether also Saul is among the prophets?

<sup>14</sup> And the brother of Saul's father said to him, and to his child, Whither went ye? And they answered, To seek [the] she-asses; and when we found them not, we came to Samuel.

<sup>15</sup> And the brother of Saul's father said to him, Show thou to me what Samuel said to thee.

<sup>16</sup> And Saul said to his uncle, Samuel showed to us, that the she-asses were found. But he showed not to his uncle of the word of the realm, that Samuel spake to him.

<sup>18</sup> and he said to the sons of Israel, The Lord God of Israel saith these things, I led Israel out of the land of Egypt, and I delivered you from the hand of Egyptians, and from the hand of all the kings that tormented you.

<sup>19</sup> And today ye have cast away your Lord God, which alone saved you from all your evils and [your] tribulations; and ye [have] said, Nay, but ordain thou a king upon us. Now therefore stand ye before the Lord by your lineages, and by meines.

<sup>21</sup> And he set together the lineage of Benjamin, and the meines thereof; and lot felled upon the meine of Matri, and it came unto Saul, the son of Kish. Therefore they sought him, and he was not found there.

<sup>23</sup> Therefore they ran, and took him from thence; and he stood in the middle of the people, and [he] was higher than all the people from the shoulder[s] and above.

<sup>24</sup> And Samuel said to all the people, Certainly ye see whom the Lord hath chosen; for none in all the people is like him. And all the people cried, and said, Live the king!

<sup>25</sup> And Samuel spake to the people the law of the realm, and he wrote it in a book, and put it up before the Lord. And Samuel delivered all the people, each man into his house;

<sup>26</sup> but also Saul went into his house in Gibeah; and a part of the host went with him, whose hearts God had touched.

<sup>27</sup> And the sons of Belial said, Whether this man may save us? And they despised him, and brought not gifts, that is, presents, to him; and he let it go as though he heard it not.

CHAPTER 11

<sup>1</sup> And it was done as after a month, Nahash of Ammon went up, and began to fight against Jabesh of Gilead. And all the men of Jabesh said to Nahash, Have thou us bound in peace, and we shall serve thee.

<sup>2</sup> And Nahash of Ammon answered to them, In this I shall smite bond of peace with you, that I put out the right eyes of all you, and that I put you to be reproof in all Israel.

<sup>3</sup> And the elder men of Jabesh said to him, Grant thou to us seven days, that we send messengers to all the coasts of Israel; and if none be that defend us, we shall go out to thee.

<sup>4</sup> Then messengers came into Gibeah of Saul, and spake these words, while the people heard; and all the people raised their voice, and wept.

<sup>5</sup> And lo! Saul came from the field, and he pursued [or following] [the] oxen; and he said, What hath the people, for it weepeth? And they told to him the words of the men of Jabesh.

<sup>6</sup> And the Spirit of the Lord fell at once into Saul, when he had heard these words, and his fierce wrath was greatly stirred.

<sup>7</sup> And he took ever either ox, and he cut them into gobbets, and he sent those into all the coasts of Israel, by the hands of messengers; and he said, Whoever goeth not out, and pursueth [or followed] not Saul and Samuel, so it shall be done to his oxen. Therefore the dread of the Lord went into the people, and they went out as one man.

<sup>8</sup> And Saul numbered them in Bezek; and three hundred thousand were there of the sons of Israel; and of the men of Judah were thirty thousand.

<sup>9</sup> And they said to the messengers that came, Thus ye shall say to the men that be in Jabesh of Gilead, Tomorrow shall be health to you, when the sun is hot. Then the messengers came, and told to the men of Jabesh; the which were glad,

<sup>10</sup> and said to Ammon, Early we shall go out to you, and ye shall do to us all that pleaseth to you*.

<sup>11</sup> And it was done, when the morrowtide came, Saul ordained the people into three parts; and he entered into the middle tents in the waking of the morrowtide, and he smote Ammon till the day was hot; forsooth the residues were scattered, so that twain together were not left in them.

<sup>12</sup> And the people said to Samuel, Who is this, that said, Saul shall not reign upon us? Give ye up the men, and we shall slay them.

<sup>13</sup> And Saul said, No man shall be slain in this day, for today the Lord hath made health in Israel.

<sup>14</sup> And Samuel said to the people, Come ye, and go we into Gilgal, and renew we there the realm.

* CHAPTER 11:10 They said this in scorn, for they knew that help shall come to them in the morrow.

<sup>15</sup> And all the people went into Gilgal, and there they made Saul king before the Lord in Gilgal; and they offered there peaceable sacrifices before the Lord. And Saul was glad there, and all the men of Israel greatly.

CHAPTER 12

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Samuel said to all Israel, Lo! I [have] heard your voice by all things which ye spake to me, and I [have] ordained a king upon you;

<sup>2</sup> and now the king goeth before you. And I have waxed eld and hoary; and my sons be with you; also I have lived before you from my young waxing age unto this day.

<sup>3</sup> And lo! I am ready; speak ye to me before the Lord, and before the christ of him or his anointed, or king; whether I have taken any man's ox, either his ass; if I have falsely challenged any man; if I have oppressed any man; if I have taken gift of any man's hand; I shall despise it today, and I shall restore to you.

<sup>5</sup> And he said to them, The Lord is witness against you, and his christ, or his anointed, or king, is witness in this day; for ye have not found any-thing in mine hand. And they said, He is witness.

<sup>6</sup> And Samuel said to the people, The Lord, that made Moses and Aaron, and that led your fathers out of the land of Egypt, is present;

<sup>7</sup> now therefore stand ye, that I strive by doom against you before the Lord, of all the mercies of the Lord, which he did with you, and with your fathers.

<sup>8</sup> How that Jacob entered into Egypt, and your fathers cried to the Lord; and the Lord sent Moses and Aaron, and led your fathers out of Egypt, and hath set them in this place.

<sup>9</sup> Which forgot their Lord God; and he betook them into the hand of Sisera, master of the chivalry of Hazor, and in the hand of Philistines, and in the hand of the king of Moab; and they fought against them.

<sup>10</sup> And after this your fathers cried to the Lord, and said, We have sinned, for we forsook the Lord, and served Baalim and Ashtaroth; now therefore deliver thou us from the hand of our enemies, and we shall serve thee.

<sup>11</sup> And the Lord sent Jerubbaal, that is Gideon, and Bedan, that is, Samson, and Barak, and Jephthah, and Samuel, and delivered you from the hand of your enemies by compass; and then ye dwelled securely.

<sup>12</sup> And ye saw, that Nahash, the king of the sons of Ammon, came against you; and ye said to me, counselling you to ask none other king than God, Nay, but a king shall command to us; when your Lord God reigned in you.

<sup>14</sup> If ye dread the Lord, and serve him, and hear his voice, and wrath not the mouth of the Lord; ye and your king, that commandeth to you, shall pursue [or following] your Lord God.

<sup>17</sup> Whether harvest of wheat is not today? I shall inwardly call the Lord, and he shall give voices, that is, thunders, and rains; and ye shall know, and see, for ye asking a king upon you, ye have done grievous evil to yourself in the sight of the Lord.

<sup>18</sup> And Samuel cried to the Lord, and the Lord gave thunders and rains in that day. And all the people dreaded greatly the Lord and Samuel;

<sup>19</sup> and all the people said to Samuel, Pray thou for thy servants to thy Lord God, that we die not; for we [have] added evil to all our sins, that we ask a king to us.

<sup>20</sup> And Samuel said to the people, Dread ye not; ye have done all this evil; nevertheless go ye not away from following the back of the Lord, but serve ye the Lord in all your heart;

<sup>21</sup> and do not ye bow after vain things, that shall not profit you, neither they shall deliver you; for those [or they] be vain things.

<sup>22</sup> And then the Lord shall not forsake his people for his great name; for the Lord hath sworn to make you a people to himself.

<sup>23</sup> And this sin be far from me against the Lord, that I cease to pray for you; and I shall teach you a rightful [or right] way and a good.

<sup>24</sup> Therefore dread ye the Lord, and serve ye him in truth, and of all your heart; for ye saw those great things, that he hath done to you;

CHAPTER 13

<sup>1</sup> Saul was a son of one year, that is, as innocent and clean of sin as a child of one year, when he began to reign; and he reigned upon Israel two and twenty years.

<sup>2</sup> And Saul chose to him three thousand men of Israel, and two thousand of them were with Saul in Michmash, in the hill of Bethel; and a thousand were with his son Jonathan in Gibeah of Benjamin; soothly he sent again the tother people each man into his tabernacle.

<sup>3</sup> And Jonathan smote the station, that is, forcelet, either stronghold, of Philistines, that was in Geba. And when Philistines had heard this, Saul sounded with a clarion in all the land, and said, Hebrews, hear.

<sup>4</sup> And all Israel heard such a fame, that Saul smote the station of Philistines; and Israel raised up himself against the Philistines; then the people cried after Saul in Gilgal.

<sup>5</sup> And the Philistines were gathered together to fight against Israel; thirty thousand of chariots, and six thousand of knights, and the tother common people, as gravel which is full much in the brink of the sea; and they went up, and setted their tents in Mich-mash, at the east coast of Bethaven.

<sup>6</sup> And when [the] men of Israel had seen, that they were set in straitness, for the people was tormented, they hid themselves in dens, and in privy places, and in stones, and in ditches, and in cisterns.

<sup>7</sup> And the men of Hebrews passed over Jordan, into the land of Gad and of Gilead. And when Saul was yet in Gilgal, all the people was afeared that pursued [or followed] him.

<sup>10</sup> And when he had ended offering the burnt sacrifice, lo! Samuel came; and Saul went out against him, to greet him.

<sup>11</sup> And Samuel said to Saul, What hast thou done? Saul answered, Lo! for I saw that the people went away from me, and thou camest not by the days of covenant; and the Philistines were gathered together in Michmash;

<sup>12</sup> I said, Now Philistines shall come down to me in Gilgal, and I have not pleased the face of the Lord; I was compelled by need, and I offered burnt sacrifice to the Lord.

<sup>13</sup> And Samuel said to Saul, Thou hast done follily, and thou hast not kept the behests of thy Lord God, which he commanded to thee; and if thou haddest not done this thing, right now the Lord had made ready thy realm upon Israel without end;

<sup>14</sup> but thy realm shall not rise further. The Lord hath sought a man to himself after his heart; and the Lord hath commanded to him, that he should be duke on his people, for thou keptest not those things which the Lord commanded.

<sup>15</sup> And Samuel rose, and went up from Gilgal into Gibeah of Benjamin; and the people that were left went up after Saul against the people that fought against them; and they came from Gilgal into Gibeah, in the hill of Benjamin. And Saul numbered the people, that were found with him, as six hundred men.

<sup>16</sup> And Saul, and Jonathan his son, and the people that was found with them, was in Gibeah of Benjamin; and the Philistines sat together in Michmash.

<sup>17</sup> And three companies went out of the Philistines' tents to take prey; one company went against the way of Ophrah, to the land of Shual;

<sup>18</sup> and another company entered by the way of Bethhoron; and the third company turned itself to the way of the term in the land of Diba; and that term nigheth to the valley of Zeboim against the desert.

<sup>19</sup> And none ironsmith was found in all the land of Israel; for the Philistines were wary, either eschewed, lest per-adventure the Hebrews made sword either spear.

<sup>21</sup> for all the edges of their shares were blunt, and of their pickaxes, and of their three-toothed forks, and of axes, unto a prick to be amended.

<sup>22</sup> And when the day of battle came, no sword nor spear was found in the hand of all the people that was with Saul and Jonathan, except Saul, and Jonathan his son.

CHAPTER 14

<sup>1</sup> And it befell in a day, that Jonathan, the son of Saul, said to his squire, a young man, Come thou, and pass we to the station of the Philistines, which is beyond that place; soothly he showed not this same thing to his father.

<sup>2</sup> And Saul dwelled in the last part of Gibeah, under a pomegranate tree, that was in the field of Gibeah; and the people as of six hundred men was with him.

<sup>3</sup> And Ahiah, the son of Ahitub, [the] brother of Ichabod, the son of Phinehas, that was engendered of Eli, the priest of the Lord in Shiloh, bare the ephod, that is, the priest's cloth; but also the people knew not whither Jonathan had gone.

<sup>4</sup> And betwixt the goings up, by which Jonathan enforced or endeavour-ed to pass to the station of Philistines, were stones standing forth on ever either side, and scars broken before, by the manner of teeth, on each side; name to the one was Bozez, and name to the tother was Seneh;

<sup>6</sup> And Jonathan said to his young squire, Come thou, pass we to the station of these uncircumcised men, if in hap the Lord do for us; for it is not hard to the Lord to save, either in many, either in few.

<sup>7</sup> And his squire said to him, Do thou all things that please thy soul; go whither thou covetest, I shall be with thee, wherever thou wilt.

<sup>8</sup> And Jonathan said, Lo! we pass to these men; and when we appear to them,

<sup>9</sup> if they speak thus to us, Dwell ye, till we come to you; stand we in our place, and go we not up to them.

<sup>10</sup> And if they say, Go ye up to us; go we up to them, for the Lord hath betaken them into our hands; this shall be a sign to us.

<sup>11</sup> Therefore ever either appeared to the station of Philistines; and the Philistines said, Lo! the Hebrews go out of [the] caves, in which they were hid.

<sup>12</sup> And men of the station spake to Jonathan and to his squire, and said, Go ye up to us, and we shall show to you a thing. And Jonathan said to his squire, Wend we up to them, pursue [or follow] thou me; for the Lord hath betaken them into the hands of Israel.

<sup>13</sup> And Jonathan went up, creeping on hands and feet, and his squire after him; and when they had seen the face of Jonathan, some felled down before Jonathan, his squire killed others, and pursued [or following] him.

<sup>14</sup> And the first wound was made, which Jonathan and his squire smote, as of twenty men, in the middle part of land, which a pair of oxen was wont to ear in the day.

<sup>15</sup> And a miracle was done in the Philistines' tents, and by their fields, but also all the people of the Philistines' station that went out to take prey, dreaded, and their tents were troubled; and it befelled as a miracle of God.

<sup>16</sup> And the espyers of Saul beheld this doing, that were in Gibeah of Benjamin, and lo! a multitude of the Philistines was cast down, and fleeing away hither and thither.

<sup>17</sup> And Saul said to the people that were with him, Seek ye, and see ye, who went away from us. And when they had sought, it was found, that Jonathan and his squire were not present.

<sup>18</sup> And Saul said to Ahiah, Bring hither the ark of the Lord; for the ark of God was there in that time with the sons of Israel.

<sup>19</sup> And when Saul spake to the priest, a great noise arose in the tents of the Philistines; and it increased little and little, and it sounded more clearly. And Saul said to the priest, Withdraw thine hand.

<sup>20</sup> Therefore Saul cried, and all the people that was with him; and they came unto the place of battle, and, lo! the sword of each man was turned to his neighbour, and a full great slaying was.

<sup>21</sup> But also the Hebrews that were with Philistines yesterday and the third day ago, and had gone up with them into their tents, turned again to be with the men of Israel, that were with Saul and Jonathan.

<sup>22</sup> Also all the men of Israel, that had hid themselves in the hill of Ephraim, heard that the Philistines had fled; and they fellowshipped them-selves with their men in [the] battle, and as ten thousand of men were with Saul.

<sup>24</sup> And men of Israel were fellow-shipped to themselves in that day; forsooth Saul swore to the people, and said, Cursed be the man that eateth bread till to eventide, till I avenge me of mine enemies. And all the people ate no bread.

<sup>27</sup> And Jonathan heard not, when his father forbade this to the people; and Jonathan held forth the end of a little rod, that he held in his hand, and he dipped it into an honeycomb; and he turned his hand to his mouth, and his eyes were lightened.

<sup>28</sup> And one of the people answered, and said, Thy father bound the people with an oath, and said, Cursed be the man that eateth bread today. And the people was faint.

<sup>29</sup> And Jonathan said, My father hath troubled the land; ye see, that mine eyes be lightened, for I tasted a little of this honey;

<sup>30</sup> how much more if the people had eaten of the prey of their enemies, that they found; whether not greater vengeance had been made in [the] Philistines?

<sup>31</sup> Therefore they smote [the] Philistines in that day from Michmash into Aijalon. And the people was made full weary;

<sup>32</sup> and the people turned to [the] prey, and took sheep and oxen, and calves; and they killed these beasts upon the earth; and the people ate the flesh with blood.

<sup>33</sup> And they told to Saul, and said, that the people eating with blood had sinned to the Lord. And Saul said, Ye have trespassed; wallow ye anon to me a great stone.

<sup>34</sup> And Saul said, Go ye forth abroad into the common people, and say ye to them, that each man bring to me his ox and his wether; and slay ye those upon this stone, and eat ye them, and ye shall not do sin to the Lord, eating them with blood. And so all the people brought each man an ox in his hand unto the night, and they killed them there.

<sup>35</sup> And Saul builded there an altar to the Lord; and then first he began to build an altar to the Lord.

<sup>36</sup> And Saul said, Fall we upon the Philistines in the night, and waste or destroy we them till the morrowtide shine; and leave we not of them a man alive. And the people said, Do thou all thing that seemeth good to thee in thine eyes. And the priest said, Nigh we hither to God.

<sup>37</sup> And Saul counselled with the Lord, and said, Whether I shall pursue the Philistines? whether thou shalt betake them into the hands of Israel? And the Lord answered not to him in that day.

<sup>38</sup> And Saul said, Bring ye hither all the corners, or the uttermost parties, or chiefs, of the people, and know ye, and see ye, by whom this sin hath fallen today.

<sup>39</sup> The Lord the saviour of Israel liveth; for if it is done by Jonathan my son, he shall die without again-drawing. At which oath no man of all the people against-said him.

<sup>40</sup> And he said to all Israel, Be ye separated into one part, and I with my son Jonathan shall be in the tother part. And the people answered to Saul, Do thou that, that seemeth good to thine eyes.

<sup>41</sup> And Saul said to the Lord God of Israel, Lord God of Israel, give thou doom, what is it, that thou answerest not today to thy servant? If this wicked-ness is in me, either in Jonathan, my son, make thou showing thereof; either if this wickedness is in thy people, give thou holiness. And Jonathan was taken, and Saul, by lot; forsooth the people went out.

<sup>42</sup> And Saul said, Send ye lot be-twixt me and Jonathan my son. And Jonathan was taken.

<sup>43</sup> And Saul said to Jonathan, Show thou to me, what thou didest. And Jonathan showed to him, and said, I tasting tasted a little of honey in the end of the rod, that was in mine hand; and lo! I die.

<sup>45</sup> And the people said to Saul, Therefore whether Jonathan shall die, that did this great health in Israel? this is unleaveful; the Lord liveth; none hair of his head shall fall into the earth; for he hath wrought with God today. Therefore the people delivered Jonathan, that he died not.

<sup>47</sup> And Saul, when his realm was stabled upon Israel, fought by compass against all his enemies, against Moab, and the sons of Ammon, and Edom, and against the kings of Zobah, and against the Philistines; and whither ever he turned him[self], he overcame.

<sup>48</sup> And when his host was gathered together, he smote Amalek; and delivered Israel from the hand of his destroyers.

<sup>49</sup> And the sons of Saul were Jonathan, and Ishui, and Melchishua; the names of his two daughters be these, the name of the first engendered daughter was Merab, and the name of the younger was Michal.

<sup>50</sup> And the name of Saul's wife was Ahinoam, the daughter of Ahimaaz; and the name of the prince of his chivalry was Abner, the son of Ner, the brother of the father of Saul.

<sup>51</sup> And Kish was the father of Saul; and Ner, the son of Abiel, was the father of Abner.

<sup>52</sup> Soothly mighty battle was against Philistines in all the days of Saul; for whomever Saul saw to be a strong man, and shapely to battle, he fellow-shipped to himself that man.

CHAPTER 15

<sup>1</sup> And Samuel said to Saul, The Lord sent me, that I should anoint thee into king on his people Israel; now therefore hear thou the voice of the Lord.

<sup>2</sup> The Lord of hosts saith these things, I have brought to mind what-ever things Amalek hath done to Israel; how Amalek against-stood Israel in the way, when Israel went up from Egypt.

<sup>4</sup> And so Saul commanded the people to be gathered together, and he numbered them as lambs, two hundred thousand of footmen, and ten thousand of men of Judah.

<sup>6</sup> And Saul said to Kenites, Go ye, depart ye, and go ye away from Amalek, lest peradventure I wrap thee in with them; for thou didest mercy with all the sons of Israel, when they went up from Egypt. And Kenites departed from the midst of Amalek.

<sup>9</sup> And Saul and the people spared Agag, and the best flocks of sheep, and of great beasts, and clothes, and rams, and all things that were fair; and they would not destroy those [or them]; but whatever thing was vile, and reprovably, they destroyed that thing.

<sup>11</sup> It repenteth me, that I made Saul king; for he hath forsaken me, and hath not fulfilled my words in work. And Samuel was sorry, and he cried to the Lord in all that night.

<sup>12</sup> And when Samuel had risen up by night to go early to Saul, it was told to Samuel, that Saul had come into Carmel, and had raised up to him a sign of victory; and that he had turned again from Amalek, and had passed forth, and had gone down into Gilgal.

<sup>13</sup> Then Samuel came to Saul, and Saul offered burnt sacrifice to the Lord of the chief things of the preys, which he had brought from Amalek. And the while Samuel came to Saul, Saul said to him, Blessed be thou of the Lord, I have [ful] filled the word of the Lord.

<sup>14</sup> And Samuel said, And what is this voice of flocks, that soundeth in mine ears, and of great beasts, which I hear?

<sup>15</sup> And Saul said, They brought those from Amalek; for the people spared the best sheep and great beasts, that those should be offered to thy Lord God; and we killed the tother beasts.

<sup>16</sup> And Samuel said to Saul, Suffer thou me, and I shall show to thee what things the Lord hath spoken to me in this night. And Saul said to Samuel, Speak thou.

<sup>17</sup> And Samuel said, Whether not, when thou were little in thine own eyes, thou were made head in the lineages of Israel, and the Lord anointed thee into king on Israel;

<sup>18</sup> and the Lord sent thee into the way, and said, Go thou, and slay the sinners of Amalek, and thou shalt fight against them till to the slaying of them.

<sup>19</sup> Why therefore heardest thou not the voice of the Lord, but thou were turned to the prey, and didest evil in the eyes of the Lord?

<sup>20</sup> And Saul said to Samuel, Yes, I heard the voice of the Lord, and I have gone in the way, by which the Lord sent me, and I have brought Agag, the king of Amalek, and I have killed Amalek.

<sup>21</sup> Forsooth the people took of the prey, sheep and oxen, the first fruits or the chief fruits of those things that be slain, that they make sacrifice to their Lord God in Gilgal.

<sup>22</sup> And Samuel said, Whether the Lord will or desireth burnt sacrifices, either slain sacrifices, and not more, rather, that men obey to the voice of the Lord? Forsooth obedience to him is better than sacrifices, and to take heed to his word is more than to offer the inner fatness of rams;

<sup>23</sup> for it is as the sin of maumetry to fight against God's behest, and it is as the wickedness of idolatry to not assent to God's behest. Therefore for that, that thou castedest away the word of the Lord, the Lord casted thee away, that thou be not king.

<sup>24</sup> And Saul said to Samuel, I have sinned, for I have broken the word of the Lord, and thy words; and I dreaded the people, and obeyed to the voice of them;

<sup>25</sup> but now, I beseech thee, bear thou my sin, and turn thou again with me, that I worship the Lord.

<sup>26</sup> And Samuel said to Saul, I shall not turn again with thee, for thou castedest away the word of the Lord, and the Lord hath cast away thee, that thou be not king upon Israel.

<sup>28</sup> And Samuel said to him, The Lord hath cut the realm of Israel from thee today, and he hath given it to thy neighbour, better than thou;

<sup>29</sup> certainly the Overcomer in Israel shall not spare them that will not obey to him, and he shall not be bowed by repentance; for he is not man, that is, changeable, that he do repentance.

<sup>30</sup> And Saul said, I have sinned; but now honour thou me before the elder men of my people, and before Israel, and turn thou again with me, that I worship thy Lord God.

<sup>32</sup> And Samuel said, Bring ye to me Agag, the king of Amalek. And Agag, most fat and trembling, was brought to him. And Agag said, Whether thus departeth bitter death?

<sup>33</sup> And Samuel said, As thy sword hath made women without free children, so thy mother shall be without free children among women. And Samuel hewed Agag into gobbets before the Lord in Gilgal.

<sup>35</sup> And Samuel saw no more Saul unto the day of his death; nevertheless Samuel bewailed Saul, for it repented the Lord, that he had ordained Saul king upon Israel.

CHAPTER 16

<sup>1</sup> And the Lord said to Samuel, How long bewailest thou Saul, since I have cast him away, that he reign not upon Israel; fill thine horn with oil, and come, that I send thee to Jesse of Bethlehem; for among his sons I have purveyed a king to me.

<sup>2</sup> And Samuel said, How shall I go? for Saul shall hear, and he shall slay me. And the Lord said, Thou shalt take a calf of the drove in thy hand, and thou shalt say, I came to make sacrifice to the Lord.

<sup>3</sup> And thou shalt call Jesse to the sacrifice, and I shall show to thee, what thou shalt do; and thou shalt anoint whomever I shall show to thee.

<sup>4</sup> Then Samuel did, as the Lord spake to him; and he came into Bethlehem, and the elder men of the city wondered, and came to him, and said, Whether thine entry be peaceable?

<sup>5</sup> And he said, It is peaceable; I came to make sacrifice to the Lord; be ye hallowed, and come ye with me, that I make sacrifice. Therefore he hallowed Jesse, and his sons, and called them to the sacrifice.

<sup>6</sup> And when they had entered, he saw Eliab, and said, in his heart, Whether before the Lord is his christ, or his anointed?

<sup>7</sup> And the Lord said to Samuel, Behold thou not his cheer, neither the highness of his stature; for I have cast him away, and I deem not by man's sight; for man seeth those things that be open, but the Lord beholdeth the heart.

<sup>8</sup> And Jesse called Abinadab, and brought him before Samuel; and he said, Neither the Lord hath chosen this.

<sup>11</sup> And Samuel said to Jesse, Whether thy sons be now filled? And Jesse answered, Yet there is another little child, and he pastureth sheep. And Samuel said to Jesse, Send ye, and bring him hither; for we shall not sit to meat, before that he come hither.

<sup>12</sup> Therefore Jesse sent, and brought him; soothly he was ruddy, and fair in sight, and of seemly face. And the Lord said, Rise thou, and anoint him; for it is he.

<sup>13</sup> Therefore Samuel took the horn of oil, and anointed him in the midst of his brethren; and the Spirit of the Lord was dressed [or full sent] into David from that day forth. And Samuel rose up, and went into Ramah.

<sup>15</sup> And the servants of Saul said to him, Lo! an evil spirit of the Lord travaileth thee;

<sup>17</sup> And Saul said to his servants, Purvey ye to me some man singing well, and bring ye him to me.

<sup>18</sup> And one of his children answered and said, Lo! I saw a son of Jesse of Bethlehem, knowing how to sing, and most strong man, and a man able to battle, and prudent in words, and a fair man; and the Lord is with him.

<sup>23</sup> Then whenever the evil spirit of the Lord travailed Saul, David took his harp, and harped with his hand, and Saul was comforted, and he had it more lightly; for the evil spirit went away from him.

CHAPTER 17

<sup>2</sup> And Saul and the men of Israel were gathered together, and came into the valley of Terebinth, and they dressed battle array to fight against [the] Philistines.

<sup>8</sup> And he stood, and cried against the companies of armed men of Israel, and said to them, Why came ye ready to battle? Whether I am not a Philistine, and ye be the servants of Saul? Choose ye a man of you, and come he down to a singular battle, that is, man-to-man;

<sup>9</sup> if he may fight with me, and slay me, we shall be your servants; forsooth if I have the mastery, and slay him, ye shall be bond, and serve us.

<sup>10</sup> And the Philistine said, I have said shame today to the companies of Israel; give ye [to me] a man, and begin he singular battle with me.

<sup>11</sup> Soothly Saul and all men of Israel heard such words of the Philistine, and they were astonied, and dreaded greatly.

<sup>12</sup> Forsooth David was the son of a man of Ephrath, of whom it is said before, of Bethlehem of Judah, to whom the name was Jesse, and he had eight sons; and in the days of Saul, Jesse was an old man, and of great age among men.

<sup>13</sup> And the three eldest sons of Jesse went after Saul into battle; and the names of his three sons, that went to battle, were Eliab, the first begotten, and the second, Abinadab, and the third, Shammah.

<sup>17</sup> And Jesse said to David his son, Take thou to thy brethren meat made of meal, the measure of ephah, and these ten loaves, and run thou into the tents to thy brethren;

<sup>18</sup> and thou shalt bare to the tribune these ten small cheeses; and thou shalt visit thy brethren, whether they do rightly, and learn thou, with which men they be ordained.

<sup>20</sup> And so David rose early, and he betook the flock to a keeper, and he went charged, as Jesse commanded to him; and he came to the place of Magal or the circle of the camp, and to the host, the which host went out to the fight, and it cried [out] in the fighting.

<sup>22</sup> Then David left the vessels, that he had brought, under the hand of a keeper at the fardels, and he ran to the place of [the] battle, and he asked, if all things were done rightly with his brethren.

<sup>23</sup> And when he spake yet to them, that bastard [man] appeared, Goliath by name, the Philistine of Gath, and he went up from the tents of the Philistines; and while he spake these same words, David heard.

<sup>25</sup> And each man of Israel said to other, Whether thou hast seen this man that hath gone up? forsooth he went up to say shame or reproof to Israel; therefore the king shall make rich with great riches the man that slayeth that Philistine; and the king shall give his daughter to that man, and shall make the house of his father without having to pay tribute in Israel.

<sup>26</sup> And David spake to the men that stood with him, and said, What shall be given to the man that slayeth this Philistine, and doeth away shame from Israel? for who is this Philistine uncircumcised, that despiseth the battle arrays of God living?

<sup>27</sup> Forsooth the people told to him the same word, and said, These things shall be given to the man that slayeth him.

<sup>28</sup> And when Eliab, his more brother or the elder brother of David, had heard this, while he spake with other men, he was wroth against David, and said, Why camest thou hither, and why hast thou left those few sheep in desert? I know thy pride, and the waywardness of thine heart; for thou camest down to see the battle.

<sup>29</sup> And David said, What have I done? Whether it is not but a word?

<sup>30</sup> And David went thence a little from him to another man; and David said the same word, and the people answered to him the word as they did before.

<sup>31</sup> And the words were heard, that David spake, and they were told before Saul. And when David was brought to Saul,

<sup>34</sup> And David said to Saul, Thy servant kept his father's flock, and when a lion came, also or either a bear, and took away a ram from the midst of the flock;

<sup>35</sup> I pursued, and killed them, and I ravished it from their mouth; and they rose against me, and I took their nether jowl, and I strangled, and killed them.

<sup>36</sup> For I thy servant killed both the lion and the bear; therefore and this Philistine uncircumcised shall be as one of them. Now I shall go, and I shall do away the shame or the reproof of the people; for who is this Philistine uncircumcised, that was hardy to curse the host of God living?

<sup>37</sup> And again David said, The Lord that delivered me from the mouth of the lion, and from the hand, that is, power, of the bear, he shall deliver me from the hand of this Philistine. And Saul said to David, Go thou, and the Lord be with thee.

<sup>39</sup> Therefore David was girded with his sword on his cloth, and began to assay if he might go armed; for he had not [the] custom. And David said to Saul, I may not go thus, for I have not the uses of it. And David put away those [things], <sup>40</sup> and he took his staff, that he had ever<sup>[more]</sup> in his hands. And he chose to him five full clear round stones, that is, hard, plain, and round, of the strand [or stream]; and he put those [or them] into his shepherd's srip, that he had with him; and he took a sling in his hand, and he went forth against the Philistine.

<sup>43</sup> And the Philistine said to David, Whether I am a dog, for thou comest to me with a staff? And the Philistine cursed David in his gods;

<sup>44</sup> and he said to David, Come thou to me, and I shall give thy flesh to the fowls of the air, and to [the] beasts of the earth.

<sup>45</sup> And David said to Goliath, Thou comest to me with a sword, and spear, and shield; but I come to thee in name of the Lord of hosts, God of the companies of Israel, to whom thou hast said reproof today.

<sup>46</sup> And the Lord shall give thee into mine hand, and I shall slay thee, and I shall take thine head from thee; and today I shall give the dead bodies of the tents of Philistines to the fowls of heavens, and to the beasts of the earth; that all the earth know, that the Lord God is in Israel,

<sup>47</sup> and that all this church know, that the Lord saveth not in sword neither in spear; for the battle is his, and he shall betake you into our hands.

<sup>49</sup> And David put his hand in his srip, and he took out a stone, and he casted it with his sling, and led [it] about, and smote the Philistine in the forehead; and the stone was fastened in his forehead, and he felled down into his face on the earth.

<sup>50</sup> And David had the mastery against the Philistine in a sling and a stone, and he killed the Philistine smitten. And when David had no sword in his hand, <sup>51</sup> he ran, and stood on the Philistine, and took his sword; and David drew out the sword of his sheath, and killed him, and cut off his head. And the Philistines saw, that the strongest of them was dead, and they fled.

<sup>52</sup> And the sons of Israel and of Judah rose up together, and cried [out], and pursued the Philistines, till the time they came into the valley, and unto the gates of Ekron. And the wounded men of the Philistines fell down in the way of Shaaraim, and unto Gath, and unto Ekron.

<sup>55</sup> Forsooth in that time in which Saul saw David going out against the Philistine, he said to Abner, [the] prince of his chivalry, Abner, of what generation is this young man? And Abner said, King, thy soul liveth, I know not.

<sup>57</sup> And when David had come again, when the Philistine was slain, Abner took David, and brought him in, having in the hand the head of the Philistine, before Saul.

<sup>58</sup> And Saul said to him, Of what generation art thou, young man? And David said, I am the son of thy servant, Jesse of Bethlehem.

CHAPTER 18

<sup>1</sup> And it was done, when David had ended to speak to Saul, the soul of Jonathan was glued together to the soul of David, that is, joined together by the glue of charity, that may not be broken, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul.

<sup>2</sup> And Saul took David in that day, and granted not to him, that he should turn again into the house of his father.

<sup>4</sup> for why Jonathan unclothed him-self from the coat that he was clothed in, and he gave it to David, and his other clothes, unto his sword and his bow, and unto his girdle.

<sup>5</sup> And David went forth to all things, to whatever things Saul sent him, and he governed himself prudently; and Saul setted him over the men of battle, and he was accepted in the eyes of all the people, and mostly in the sight of the servants of Saul.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth when David turned again, when the Philistine was slain, and bare the head of the Philistine into Jerusalem, women went out of all the cities of Israel, and sang, and led dances, against the coming of king Saul, in tympanes of gladness, and in trumps.

<sup>8</sup> And Saul was wroth greatly, and this word displeased before him; and he said, They have given ten thousand to David, and but one thousand to me; what leaveth to him, no but the realm alone?

<sup>10</sup> Soothly after the tother day, a wicked spirit of God assailed Saul, and he prophesied in the midst of his house. And David harped with his hand, as by all days before; and Saul held a spear,

<sup>13</sup> Then Saul removed David from himself, and made him chieftain upon a thousand men; and David went out and he came in before the people.

<sup>15</sup> and so Saul saw that David was full prudent or full wise, and he began to beware of David.

<sup>17</sup> And Saul said to David, Lo! mine elder daughter Merab, I shall give her for a wife to thee; only be thou a strong man, and fight thou the Lord's battles. Forsooth

Saul areckoned, and said, Mine hand be not in him, but the hand of Philistines be on him.

<sup>18</sup> And David said to Saul, Who am I, either what is my life, either the family of my father in Israel, that I be made the son-in-law of the king?

<sup>19</sup> And when the time came that Merab, the daughter of Saul, should have been given wife to David, she was given wife to Adriel the Meholathite.

<sup>21</sup> And Saul said, I shall give her to him, that it be to him into cause of stumbling, and the hand of Philistines be upon him. Therefore Saul said to David, In wedding one of my two daughters thou shalt be my son-in-law today.

<sup>22</sup> And Saul commanded to his servants, Speak ye privily to David, as if it were me unwitting, and say ye to him, Lo! thou pleasest the king, and all his servants love thee; now there-fore be thou [the] husband of the king's daughter.

<sup>23</sup> And the servants of Saul spake all these words in the ears of David. And David said, Whether it seem little to you for me to be the king's son-in-law? Forsooth I am a poor man, and a feeble.

<sup>25</sup> Soothly Saul said, Thus speak ye to David, The king hath no need to gifts for spousals, no but only to an hundred prepuces, that is, men's rods uncircumcised, of the Philistines, that vengeance be made of the king's enemies. Certainly Saul thought to betake David into the hands of Philistines.

<sup>26</sup> And when the servants of Saul had told to David the words, which Saul had said, the word pleased in the eyes of David, that he should be made the king's son-in-law. And after a few days,

<sup>27</sup> David rose up, and went into Ekron, with the men that were with him, and he killed of Philistines two hundred men; and David brought their prepuces, and he numbered those [or them] to the king, that he should be the king's son-in-law. And so Saul gave Michal, his daughter, wife to him.

<sup>30</sup> And the princes of Philistines went out to fight; but from the beginning of their going out, David bare himself more wisely than all the men of Saul; and the name of David was made full solemn.

CHAPTER 19

<sup>1</sup> Soothly Saul spake to Jonathan, his son, and to all his servants, that they should slay David;

<sup>2</sup> certainly Jonathan, the son of Saul, loved David greatly. And Jonathan showed to David, and said, Saul, my father, seeketh to slay thee; wherefore, I beseech, keep thyself tomorrow early; and thou shalt dwell privily, and thou shalt be hid.

<sup>3</sup> And I shall go out, and stand be-side my father in the field, wherever he shall be; and I shall speak of thee to my father, and whatever thing I shall see or whatever thing I shall understand of him, I shall tell thee.

<sup>4</sup> Then Jonathan spake good things of David to Saul, his father, and said to him, King, do thou not sin against thy servant David, for he hath not sinned to thee, and his works be full good to thee;

<sup>5</sup> and he putted his life in his hand, and he killed the Philistine. And the Lord made great help to all Israel; thou sawest, and were glad; why therefore sinnest thou in guiltless blood, and wilt slay David, that is without guilt?

<sup>6</sup> And when Saul had heard this, he was pleased with the speaking of Jonathan, and he swore, The Lord liveth, for David shall not be slain.

<sup>7</sup> And so Jonathan called David, and showed to him all these words. And Jonathan brought in David to Saul, and he was before him as [he was] yesterday and the third day ago.

<sup>9</sup> And the evil spirit of the Lord was made upon Saul; and he sat in his house, and held a spear; certainly David harped with his hand.

<sup>10</sup> And Saul enforced or endeavour-ed to preen, that is pierce, with the spear right through David into the wall; and David bowed [aside] from the face of Saul; and the spear without hurt of David was fixed into the wall; and David fled, and so he was saved in that night.

<sup>11</sup> Therefore Saul sent his knights in the night into the house of David, that they should keep him, and that he should be slain in the morrowtide. And when Michal, the wife of David, had told this to David, and said, If thou savest not thee in this night, thou shalt die tomorrow;

<sup>12</sup> and she let him down by a window. And David went, and fled thence, and he was saved.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth Saul sent sergeants, that should ravish [or take] David, and it was answered, that he was sick.

<sup>15</sup> And again Saul sent messengers, that they should see David, and he said, Bring ye him to me in the bed, that he be slain.

<sup>17</sup> And Saul said to Michal, Why scornedest thou me so, and deliver-edest mine enemy, that he fled? And Michal answered to Saul, For he spake to me, and said, Deliver thou me, else I shall slay thee.

<sup>18</sup> Forsooth David fled, and was saved; and he came to Samuel into Ramah, and told to him all things which Saul had done to him; and he and Samuel went, and dwelled in Naioth.

<sup>20</sup> Therefore Saul sent menslayers, that they should ravish [or take]from thence David; and when they had seen the company of prophets prophesying, and Samuel standing over them, the Spirit of the Lord was made in them, and they also began to prophesy.

<sup>21</sup> And when this was told to Saul, he sent also other messengers; soothly and they prophesied. And again Saul sent the third messengers, and they prophesied.

<sup>22</sup> And Saul was wroth with ireful-ness; and he also went into Ramah, and he came unto the great cistern which is in Sechu, and he asked, and said, In what place be Samuel and David? And it was said to him, Lo! they be in Naioth in Ramah.

<sup>23</sup> And he went thither into Naioth in Ramah; and the Spirit of the Lord was made also on him; and he went, and entered, and prophesied, till the while he came into Naioth in Ramah.

<sup>24</sup> And Saul also unclothed him of his clothes, and he prophesied with other men before Samuel, and he prophesied naked all that day and night. Wherefore a common saying went out, Whether and Saul be among [the] prophets?

CHAPTER 20

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth David fled from Naioth, which is in Ramah, and came and spake before Jonathan, What have I done? what is my wickedness, and what is my sin against thy father, for he seeketh my life?

<sup>2</sup> And Jonathan said to him, Far be it from thee, thou shalt not die, for my father shall not do anything great either little, no but he show first to me; therefore, my father kept privy from me this word only, forsooth it shall not be. And again he swore to David.

<sup>3</sup> And David said, Truly thy father knoweth, that I have found grace in thine eyes, and he shall say, Jonathan know not this, lest peradventure he be sorry; certainly the Lord liveth, and thy soul liveth, for, that I say so, I and death be parted only by one degree.

<sup>5</sup> And David said to Jonathan, Lo! calends be tomorrow, that is the feast of the new moon, and by custom I am wont to sit by the king to eat; therefore suffer thou me, that I be hid in the field till to [the] eventide of the third day.

<sup>6</sup> And if thy father beholdeth, and asketh after me, thou shalt answer to him, David prayed me, that he might go at once into Bethlehem, his city, for solemn sacrifices be now there to all [the] men of his lineage.

<sup>7</sup> If he saith, Well, peace shall be to thy servant; forsooth if he is wroth, know thou, that his malice is filled.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore do thou mercy into thy servant, for thou hast made me thy servant to make with thee bond of peace of the Lord; but if any wicked-ness is in me, slay thou me, and bring thou not in me to thy father.

<sup>9</sup> And Jonathan said, Far be this from me, for it may not be done, that I tell not to thee, if I know certainly, that the malice of my father is filled against thee.

<sup>10</sup> And David answered to Jonathan, Who shall tell me, if in case thy father answereth hard [to thee] anything of me?

<sup>11</sup> And Jonathan said to David, Come thou, and go we forth into the field. And when they both had gone into the field,

<sup>12</sup> Jonathan said to David, Thou Lord God of Israel, if I inquire the sentence of my father tomorrow, either in the next day after, and any good thing be said of thee, David, and I send not at once to thee, and make it known to thee,

<sup>13</sup> God do these things to Jonathan, and add these things. And if the malice of my father continue against thee, I shall show it to thine ear, and I shall deliver thee, that thou go in peace; and the Lord be with thee, as he was with my father.

<sup>14</sup> And if I live, do thou the mercies of the Lord to me; forsooth if I am dead,

<sup>15</sup> take thou not away thy mercy from mine house unto without end; and if I do it not, when the Lord shall draw out by the root the enemies of David, each man from the land, take he away Jonathan from his house, and seek the Lord of the hand of the enemies of David.

<sup>17</sup> And Jonathan added to swear steadfastly to David, for he loved him; for he loved so David, as his own soul.

<sup>18</sup> And Jonathan said to David, Tomorrow is the first day of the month, that is solemn, and thou shalt be sought after;

<sup>19</sup> and thy sitting shall be asked of till after the morrow. Therefore thou shalt go down hastily, and thou shalt come into a place, where thou shalt be hid in the day, when it is leaveful to work; and thou shalt sit beside the stone, that is called Ezel.

<sup>21</sup> I shall send my child, and I shall say to him, Go thou, and bring to me the arrows. If I say to the child, Lo! the arrows be on this side of thee, take thou those [or them]; then come thou to me, for peace is to thee, and nothing is of evil, the Lord liveth.

<sup>23</sup> Certainly of the word that thou and I have spoken, that is, of the bond of peace betwixt us and our heirs, the Lord be witness betwixt me and thee till into without end.

<sup>25</sup> And when the king had set on his chair by custom, which chair was beside the wall, Jonathan rose, and sat after Abner, and Abner sat at the side of Saul, and the place of David appeared void.

<sup>26</sup> And Saul spake not anything in that day; for he thought, that in hap it befelled to him, that he was not clean, neither purified.

<sup>27</sup> And when the second day after the calends had shined, again the place of David appeared void. And Saul said to Jonathan his son, Why cometh not the son of Jesse, neither yesterday, neither today, to eat?

<sup>29</sup> and he said, Suffer thou me, for solemn sacrifice is in my city; one of my brethren [hath] called me; now therefore, if I [have] found grace in thine eyes, I shall go soon, and I shall see my brethren; for this cause he cometh not to the table of the king.

<sup>30</sup> And Saul was wroth against Jonathan, and said to him, Thou son of the woman willfully ravishing a man, whether I know not, that thou lovest the son of Jesse into thy [own] confusion or shame, and into the confusion of thy shameful mother?

<sup>31</sup> For in all the days in which the son of Jesse liveth on [the] earth, thou shalt not be stablished, neither thy realm; therefore right now or anon send thou, and bring him to me, for he is the son of death.

<sup>32</sup> And Jonathan answered to Saul his father, and said, Why shall he die? what hath he done?

<sup>33</sup> And Saul took a spear, that he should smite him, and Jonathan understood, that it was determined of his father, that David should be slain.

<sup>34</sup> Then Jonathan rose from the table in full fierce wrath, and he ate not bread in the second day of calends; for he was sorry for David, for his father had shamed him.

<sup>36</sup> And Jonathan said to his child, Go thou, and bring to me the arrows that I shoot. And when the child had run forth, he shot another arrow beyond the child.

<sup>37</sup> Therefore when the child came to the place of the arrow that Jonathan had shot, Jonathan cried behind the back of the child, and said, Lo! the arrow is not there, certainly it is beyond thee.

<sup>40</sup> Then Jonathan gave his bow and arrows to the child, and said to him, Go thou, bear these into the city.

<sup>41</sup> And when the child had gone, David rose from the place that went to the south; and he felled low upon the earth, and worshipped or honour-ed the third time, and they kissed themselves together, and wept together; but David wept more.

<sup>42</sup> Then Jonathan said to David, Go thou in peace; whatever things we both have sworn in the name of the Lord, and said, The Lord be betwixt me and thee, and betwixt my seed and thy seed, till into without end, be steadfast. And David rose up, and went forth, but and Jonathan went into the city.

CHAPTER 21

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth David came into Nob to Ahimelech, the priest; and Ahimelech wondered, for David had come; and he said to David, Why art thou alone, and no man is with thee?

<sup>2</sup> And David said to Ahimelech the priest, The king hath commanded to me a word, and said, No man know this thing, for which thou art sent from me, and what manner behests I have given to thee; for I said also to my children, that they should go into that and that place;

<sup>4</sup> And the priest answered to David, and said to him, I have not lay, that is, common, loaves at hand, but only holy bread; whether the children be clean, and mostly of women?

<sup>5</sup> And David answered to the priest, and said to him, And soothly if it is done of women, we have abstained us from yesterday and the third day ago, when we went out, and the vessels, that is, bodies, of the children were clean; certainly this way is defouled, but and it shall be hallowed today in the vessels.

<sup>6</sup> Therefore the priest gave to him hallowed bread, for none other bread was there, but only loaves of setting forth, that were taken away from the face of the Lord, that hot loaves shall be set forth.

<sup>7</sup> And a man of the servants of Saul was there that day, within in the tabernacle of the Lord; and his name was Doeg of Idumea, the mightiest man of the herdsmen of Saul.

<sup>8</sup> And David said to Ahimelech, If thou hast here at hand spear, either sword, give it to me; for I took not with me my sword, neither mine arms; for why the king's word constrained me to go in haste.

<sup>9</sup> And the priest said, Lo! the sword of Goliath the Philistine, whom thou killedest in the valley of Terebinth, is wrapped in a cloth next after [the] ephod; if thou wilt take this, take it; for there is none other except that. And David said, None other is like this, give thou it to me.

<sup>10</sup> And so David rose up, and fled in that day from the face of Saul, and came to Achish, the king of Gath.

<sup>11</sup> And the servants of Achish said to him, when they had seen David, Whether this is not David, [the] king of the land? Whether they sang not to him by quires [or with dances], and said, Saul smote a thousand, and David smote ten thousand?

<sup>15</sup> whether mad men fail to us? why have ye brought in him, that he should be mad, while I am present? Deliver ye him from hence, lest he enter into mine house.

CHAPTER 22

<sup>1</sup> Therefore David went from thence, and fled into the den of Adullam; and when his brethren, and all the house of his father had heard this, they came down thither to him.

<sup>2</sup> And all men that were set in anguish, and oppressed with other men's debt, and in bitter soul, came together to him; and he was made the prince of them, and as four hundred men were with him.

<sup>3</sup> And David went forth from thence into Mizpeh, that is in Moab; and he said to the king of Moab, I pray, dwell my father and my mother with you, till I know what thing God shall do to me.

<sup>5</sup> And Gad, the prophet, said to David, Do not thou dwell in the forcelet or stronghold; go thou forth, and go into the land of Judah. And David went forth, and came into the forest of Hareth.

<sup>6</sup> And Saul heard, that David appeared, and the men that were with him. And when Saul dwelled in Gibeah, and was in a wood that is in Ramah, and he held a spear in his hand, and all his servants stood about him,

<sup>7</sup> he said to his servants that stood nigh [to] him, Ye sons of Benjamin, hear me now; whether the son of Jesse shall give to all you fields and vineries [or vines], and he shall make all you chieftains upon thousands, and [leaders] upon hundreds of men?

<sup>8</sup> For all ye have sworn, either conspired, together against me, and none is that telleth to me; mostly since also my son hath joined bond of peace with the son of Jesse; none is of you, that sorroweth for my stead or my while, neither that telleth to me, for my son hath raised my servant against me, setting treason to me, unto this day.

<sup>9</sup> Soothly Doeg of Idumea answered, that stood nigh, and was the first among the servants of Saul, and said, I saw the son of Jesse in Nob, at Ahimelech, the priest, the son of Ahitub;

<sup>10</sup> and Ahimelech counselled with the Lord for David, and gave him meats, but also he gave to David the sword of Goliath Philistine.

<sup>11</sup> Therefore the king sent to call Ahimelech, the priest, the son of Ahitub, and all the house of his father, of [the] priests that were in Nob; which all came to the king.

<sup>12</sup> And Saul said to Ahimelech, Hear me, thou son of Ahitub. Which answered, Lord, I am ready.

<sup>13</sup> And Saul said to him, Why hast thou conspired against me, thou, and the son of Jesse, and [thou] hast given loaves and a sword to him, and hast counselled with the Lord for him, that he should rise against me, and he dwelleth a traitor unto this day?

<sup>14</sup> And Ahimelech answered to the king, and said, Who among all thy servants is so faithful as David, and he is thy son-in-law, and going at thy behest, and glorious in all thine house?

<sup>15</sup> Whether I began today to counsel with the Lord for him? Far be this from me; suppose not the king such thing against his servant, in all the house of my father; for thy servant knew not anything, either little, either great, of this cause.

<sup>16</sup> And the king said, Ahimelech, thou shalt die by death, thou, and all the house of thy father.

<sup>17</sup> And the king said to men able to be sent out, that stood about him, Turn ye, and slay the priests of the Lord, for the hand of them is with David; and they knew that he fled, and they showed not to me. Soothly the servants of the king would not hold forth their hand into the priests of the Lord.

<sup>18</sup> And the king said to Doeg, Turn thou, and hurtle into the priests of the Lord. And Doeg of Idumea turned, and hurtled into the priests, and strangled in that day fourscore and five men, clothed with ephods of linen cloth [or surplices].

<sup>19</sup> Forsooth he smote Nob, the city of the priests, by the sharpness of sword, men and women, little children and those sucking, and ox, and ass, and sheep, by the sharpness of sword.

<sup>20</sup> But one son of Ahimelech, the son of Ahitub, escaped, of which son the name was Abiathar; and he fled to David,

<sup>22</sup> And David said to Abiathar, Soothly I knew in that day, that when Doeg of Idumea was there, he would tell without doubt to Saul; I am guilty of all the lives that be slain of thy father's house.

<sup>23</sup> Dwell thou with me, dread thou not; if any man seeketh thy life, he shall seek also my life, and thou shalt be kept with me.

CHAPTER 23

<sup>1</sup> And they told to David, and said, Lo! The Philistines fight against Keilah, and ravish the cornfloors.

<sup>2</sup> Therefore David counselled with the Lord, and said, Whether I shall go, and smite these Philistines? And the Lord said to David, Go forth, and thou shalt smite the Philistines, and thou shalt save Keilah.

<sup>3</sup> And men, that were with David, said to him, Lo! we be here in Judah, and have dread; how much more if we shall go into Keilah against the companies of Philistines.

<sup>4</sup> Therefore again David counselled with the Lord; the which answered, and said to David, Rise thou up, and go into Keilah; for I shall betake [the] Philistines into thine hand.

<sup>6</sup> And in that time, wherein Abiathar, [the] son of Ahimelech, fled to David into Keilah, he came down, and had with him ephod, that is, the cloth of the highest priest.

<sup>7</sup> And it was told to Saul, that David had come into Keilah; and Saul said, The Lord hath taken him into mine hands, and he is enclosed, and entered into a city, in which be gates and locks.

<sup>8</sup> And Saul commanded to all the people, that it should go down to battle into Keilah, and besiege David and his men.

<sup>9</sup> And when David perceived, that Saul made ready evil privily to him, he said to Abiathar, the priest, Bring hither [the] ephod.

<sup>10</sup> And David said, Lord God of Israel, thy servant hath heard say, that Saul disposeth to come to Keilah, that he destroy the city for me;

<sup>11</sup> if the men of Keilah shall betake me into his hands, and if Saul shall come down, as thy servant hath heard, thou Lord God of Israel, show to thy servant? And the Lord said, He shall come down.

<sup>12</sup> And David said again, Whether the men of Keilah shall betake me, and the men that be with me, into the hands of Saul? And the Lord said, They shall betake thee to Saul, if thou abidest him there.

<sup>13</sup> Therefore David rose, and his men, as six hundred; and they went out of Keilah, and wandered uncertain hither and thither. And it was told to Saul, that David had fled from Keilah, and was saved; wherefore Saul dis-sembled to go out.

<sup>14</sup> But David dwelled in the desert, in full strong places, and he dwelled in the hill of wilderness of Ziph, in a dark hill; nevertheless Saul sought him in all days, and the Lord betook not him into the hands of Saul.

<sup>15</sup> And David saw, that Saul went out, that he would seek his life. And David was in the desert of Ziph, in a wood.

<sup>16</sup> And Jonathan, the son of Saul, rose up, and went to David into the wood, and comforted his hands in God.

<sup>17</sup> And he said to David, Dread thou not; for the hand of Saul my father shall not find thee, and thou shalt reign on Israel, and I shall be the second to thee; but also Saul my father knoweth this.

<sup>19</sup> Certainly men of Ziph went up to Saul in Gibeah, and said, Lo! whether not David is hid with us in the full secure places in the thick woods, in the hill of Hachilah, that is at the right side of desert?

<sup>20</sup> Now therefore come thou down, as thy soul desired, that thou shouldest come down; forsooth it shall be our doing, that we betake him into the hands of the king.

<sup>21</sup> And Saul said, Blessed be ye of the Lord, for ye [have] sorrowed for my stead or for my while.

<sup>22</sup> Therefore, I pray you, go ye, and make ready more diligently, and do ye more curiously, either attentively, and behold ye swiftly, where his foot is, either who saw him there, where ye said; for he thinketh on me, that fellily or slyly I ambush him.

<sup>23</sup> Behold ye, and see all his hiding places, in which he is hid, and then turn ye again to me at a certain thing, that I go with you; that if he encloseth himself yea in [the] earth, I shall seek him with all the thousands of Judah.

<sup>25</sup> Therefore Saul went and his fellows to seek David, and it was told to David; and anon he went down to the stone, and lived in the desert of Maon; and when Saul had heard this, he pursued David in the desert of Maon.

<sup>26</sup> And Saul went and his men at the side of the hill on [the] one part; forsooth David and his men were in the side of the hill on the tother part; soothly David despaired, that he might not escape from the face of Saul. And so Saul and his men compassed by the manner of a crown round about David and his men, that they should take them.

<sup>27</sup> And a messenger came to Saul, and said, Haste thou, and come, for the Philistines have spread themselves on the land.

<sup>28</sup> Therefore Saul turned again, and ceased to pursue David; and went against the coming of Philistines. For this thing they called that place The Stone of Parting.

CHAPTER 24

<sup>2</sup> Therefore Saul took three thousand chosen men of all Israel, and went to seek David and his men, yea upon the most broken rocks, the which be thorough-ways [or throughways] to wild goats alone.

<sup>3</sup> And he came to the folds of sheep, that offered themselves to the way-goer. And there was a cave, into which Saul entered, that he would purge his womb; forsooth David and his men were hid in the inner part of the den.

<sup>4</sup> And the servants of David said to him, Lo! the day of which the Lord spake to thee, I shall betake to thee thine enemy, that thou do to him as it pleaseth in thine eyes. Therefore David rose up, and cutted the hem of the mantle of Saul privily.

<sup>6</sup> And David said to his men, The Lord be merciful to me, lest I do this thing to my lord, the anointed of the Lord, or that I send mine hand on him, for he is the christ or the anointed of the Lord.

<sup>7</sup> The Lord liveth, for but the Lord smite him, either his day come, that he die, either he go down into battle, and perish, the Lord be merciful to me, that I send not mine hand into the christ of the Lord; and David brake his men by such words, and suffered not them, that they rised against Saul. And Saul rose out of the den, and went in the way begun.

<sup>8</sup> And David rose up after him, and he went out of the den, and cried after the back of Saul, and said, My lord, the king! And Saul beheld behind himself; and David bowed him-self low to the earth, and worshipped him.

<sup>10</sup> Lo! today thine eyes saw, that the Lord betook thee in mine hand in the den, and I thought that I would slay thee, but mine eye spared thee; for I said, I shall not hold forth mine hand into my lord, for he is the anointed of the Lord.

<sup>11</sup> But rather, my father, see thou, and know the hem of thy mantle in mine hand; for when I cutted away the hem off thy mantle, I would not hold forth mine hand against thee; perceive thou, and see, for neither evil neither wickedness is in mine hand, neither I have sinned against thee; but thou ambushest my life, that thou do it away.

<sup>12</sup> The Lord deem betwixt me and thee, and the Lord avenge me of thee; but mine hand be not against thee,

<sup>15</sup> The Lord be judge, and the Lord deem betwixt me and thee, and see, and deem my cause, and deliver me from thine hand.

<sup>16</sup> And when David had filled, or ended, speaking such manner words to Saul, Saul said, Whether this is thy voice, my son David? And Saul raised up his voice, and wept.

<sup>17</sup> And he said to David, Thou art more just [or rightwise] than I; for thou gavest good things to me; but I have yielded evils [or evil things] to thee.

<sup>18</sup> And thou hast showed to me today, what goods [or good things] thou hast done to me, how the Lord betook me in thine hand, and thou killedest not me.

<sup>19</sup> For who, when he findeth his enemy, shall deliver him into good way? But the Lord yield to thee this while, for that, thou hast wrought today in me.

<sup>20</sup> And now, for I know, that thou shalt reign most certainly, and shalt have in thine hand the realm of Israel, <sup>21</sup> swear thou to me in the Lord, that thou do not away my seed after me, neither take away my name from the house of my father.

CHAPTER 25

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Samuel was dead; and all Israel was gathered together, and they bewailed him greatly, and buried him in his house in Ramah. And David rose up, and went down into the desert of Paran.

<sup>2</sup> And in Maon there was a man, and his possession was in Carmel; and that man was full great, and there were to him three thousand sheep, and a thousand of goats; and it befelled that his flock was shorn in Carmel.

<sup>3</sup> And the name of that man was Nabal, and the name of his wife was Abigail; and that woman was most prudent and fair; but her husband was hard and full wicked and malicious; and he was of the kin of Caleb.

<sup>5</sup> he sent ten young men, and said to them, Go ye up into Carmel, and ye shall come to Nabal, and ye shall greet him of [or in] my name peaceably;

<sup>6</sup> and ye shall say thus, Peace be to my brethren and to thee, and peace be to thine house, and peace be to all things, whatever thou hast.

<sup>7</sup> I have heard that thy shepherds, that were with us in desert, have shorn thy flocks; we were never dis-easeful to them, neither any time anything of the flock failed to them, in all the time in which they were with us in Carmel;

<sup>8</sup> ask thy children, and they shall show to thee. Now therefore thy children find grace in thine eyes; for in a good day we come to thee; whatever thing thine hand findeth, give it to thy servants, and to thy son David.

<sup>9</sup> And when the children of David had come, they spake to Nabal all these words in the name of David, and held [their] peace.

<sup>10</sup> Forsooth Nabal answered to the children of David, and said, Who is David? and who is the son of Jesse? Today servants [have] increased that flee their lords.

<sup>11</sup> Therefore shall I take my loaves, and my waters, and the flesh of beasts, which I have slain to my shearers, and shall I give to men, that I know not of whence they be?

<sup>12</sup> Therefore the children of David went again by their way; and they turned again, and came, and told to him all words which Nabal had said.

<sup>14</sup> And one of the children told to Abigail, the wife of Nabal, and said, Lo! David sent messengers from desert, that they should bless our lord, and he turned them away;

<sup>15</sup> these men were good enough, and not dis-easeful to us, and nothing of ours perished in all the time in which we were with them in desert;

<sup>16</sup> they were to us for a wall, both in night and day, in all the days in which we pastured flocks with them.

<sup>17</sup> Wherefore behold thou, and think, what thou shalt do; for malice is full-filled against thine husband, and against thine house; and he is the son of Belial, so that no man may speak sense to him.

<sup>18</sup> Therefore Abigail hasted, and took two hundred loaves, and two vessels of wine, and five wethers sodden, and seven bushels and an half of flour, and an hundred bundles of dried grapes, or raisins, and two hundred pieces of dried figs; and she put all this upon asses,

<sup>19</sup> and said to her children, Go ye before me; lo! I shall pursue [or follow] you behind your back. And she showed not this to her husband Nabal.

<sup>20</sup> Therefore when she had gone upon an ass, and came down to the foot of the hill, David and his men came down into her coming; the which she met.

<sup>21</sup> And David had just said, Verily in vain I have kept all these things that were of this Nabal in the desert, and nothing perished of all things that pertained to him, and he hath yielded to me evil for good.

<sup>22</sup> The Lord do these things, and add he these things to the enemies of David, if I shall leave undestroyed of all things that pertain to him till tomorrow, yea, even a pisser to a wall.

<sup>23</sup> And when Abigail saw David, she hasted, and went down off the ass; and she fell down before David on her face, and worshipped him on the earth.

<sup>24</sup> And she felled down to his feet, and said, My lord the king, this wicked-ness be in me; I beseech thee, speak thine handmaid in thine ears, and hear thou the words of thy servantess;

<sup>25</sup> I pray, my lord the king, set not his heart on this wicked man Nabal, for by his name he is a fool, and folly is with him; but, my lord, I thine handmaid saw not thy children, which thou sentest.

<sup>26</sup> Now therefore, my lord, the Lord liveth, and thy soul liveth, the which Lord hath forbidden thee, that thou shouldest come into blood, and the Lord saved thy life to thee; and now thine enemies, and they that seek evil to thee my lord, be they made as Nabal.

<sup>27</sup> Wherefore receive thou this blessing, or gift, which thine handmaid [hath] brought to thee, my lord, and give it to the children that pursue [or follow] thee, my lord.

<sup>28</sup> Do thou away the wickedness of thy servantess; for the Lord making shall make a faithful house to thee, my lord, for thou, my lord, fightest the battles of the Lord; therefore malice be not found in thee in all the days of thy life.

<sup>29</sup> For if a man riseth any time, and pursueth thee, and seeketh thy life, the life of my lord shall be kept as in a bundle of living trees, at thy Lord God; but the soul of thine enemies shall be hurled round about as in [the] fierceness, and [the] circle of a sling.

<sup>30</sup> Therefore when the Lord hath done to thee, my lord, all these good things, which he hath spoken of thee, and hath ordained thee duke upon Israel, <sup>31</sup> this shall not be into sighing, that is, into mourning of soul, and into remorse of conscience, and into doubt of heart to thee, my lord, that thou hast shed out guiltless blood, either that thou hast avenged thyself. And when the Lord hath done well to thee, my lord, thou shalt have mind on thine handmaid, and thou shalt do well to her.

<sup>32</sup> And David said to Abigail, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, that sent thee today into my coming,

<sup>33</sup> and blessed be thy speech; and blessed be thou, that hast forbade me, lest I went today to shed blood, and had avenged me with mine hand;

<sup>34</sup> else the Lord God of Israel liveth, which forbade me, lest I did evil to thee, if thou haddest not soon come into meeting to me, a pisser to the wall should not have been left to Nabal till to the morrow light.

<sup>35</sup> Therefore David received of her hand all things which she had brought to him; and he said to her, Go thou in peace into thine house; lo! I have heard thy voice, and I honoured thy face.

<sup>36</sup> Forsooth Abigail came to Nabal; and lo! a feast was to him in his house, as the feast of a king; and the heart of Nabal was merry, certainly he was full drunken; and she showed not to him a word, little or great, till the morrow.

<sup>37</sup> But in the morrowtide, when Nabal had voided the wine, his wife showed to him all these words; and his heart was almost dead within, and he was made as a stone.

<sup>38</sup> And when ten days had passed, the Lord smote Nabal, and he was dead.

<sup>39</sup> The which thing when David had heard, Nabal to be dead, he said, Blessed be the Lord God, that hath avenged the cause of my shame of the hand of Nabal, and hath kept his servant from evil, and the Lord hath yielded the malice of Nabal into the head of him. Therefore David sent, and spake to Abigail, that he would take her as a wife to him.

<sup>40</sup> And the children of David came to Abigail into Carmel, and spake to her, and said, David sent us to thee, that he take thee into wife to him.

<sup>41</sup> And she rose up, and worshipped low to the earth, and said, Lo! thy servantess be into an handmaid, that she wash the feet of the servants of my lord.

<sup>42</sup> And Abigail hasted, and rose, and ascended or went upon an ass; and five damsels, pursuers [or followers] of her feet, went with her, and she followed the messengers of David, and was made [a] wife to him.

CHAPTER 26

<sup>1</sup> And Ziphites came to Saul into Gibeah, and said, Lo! David is hid in the hill of Hachilah, which is even against the wilderness.

<sup>2</sup> And Saul rose up, and went down into the desert of Ziph, and with him three thousand of men of the chosen of Israel, that he should seek David in the desert of Ziph.

<sup>5</sup> And David rose up privily, and came to the place where Saul was. And when David had seen the place, wherein Saul slept, and Abner, the son of Ner, the prince of his chivalry; and Saul sleeping in the tent, and the tother common people by his compass;

<sup>6</sup> David said to Ahimelech, the Hittite, and to Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, the brother of Joab, saying, Who shall go down with me to Saul into his tents? And Abishai said, I shall go down with thee.

<sup>7</sup> Therefore David and Abishai came to the people in the night, and they found Saul lying and sleeping in the tent, and a spear set fast in the earth at his head; forsooth they found Abner and the people sleeping in his compass.

<sup>8</sup> And Abishai said to David, God hath enclosed today thine enemy into thine hands; now therefore I shall pierce him with the spear once through, and into the earth, and no need shall be the second time.

<sup>9</sup> And David said to Abishai, Slay thou not him, for who shall hold forth his hand into the christ or the anointed of the Lord, and shall be innocent?

<sup>10</sup> And David said, The Lord liveth, for no but the Lord smite him, either his day come that he die, either he go down into battle, and perish;

<sup>11</sup> the Lord be merciful to me, that I hold not forth mine hand into the christ of the Lord; now therefore take thou the spear, that is at his head, and the cup of water, and go we away.

<sup>12</sup> Then David took the spear, and the cup of water, that was at the head of Saul, and they went forth, and no man was that saw, and understood, and waked, but all men slept; for the sleep of the Lord had fallen [up] on them.

<sup>13</sup> And when David had passed [over] even against, and had stood on the top of the hill afar, and a great space was betwixt them,

<sup>14</sup> David cried to the people, and to Abner, the son of Ner, and said, Abner, whether thou wilt not answer? And Abner answered, and said, Who art thou, that criest, and dis-eapest the king?

<sup>15</sup> And David said to Abner, Whether thou art not a man, and what other man is like thee in Israel? why there-fore hast thou not kept thy lord the king? For one man of the company entered, that he should slay thy lord the king;

<sup>16</sup> this that thou hast done, is not good; the Lord liveth, for ye be sons of death, that kept not your lord, the christ of the Lord. Now therefore see thou, where is the spear of the king, and where is the cup of water, that was at his head.

<sup>17</sup> Forsooth Saul knew the voice of David, and said, Whether this voice is thine, my son David? And David said, My lord the king, it is my voice.

<sup>19</sup> Now therefore, my lord the king, I pray, hear the words of thy servant; if the Lord stirreth thee against me, the sacrifice be smelled; forsooth if [the] sons of men stir thee, they be cursed in the sight of the Lord, which have cast me out today, that I dwell not in the heritage of the Lord, and say, Go thou, serve thou alien gods.

<sup>20</sup> And now my blood be not shed out in the earth before the Lord; for the king of Israel hath gone out, that he seek a quick flea, as a partridge is pursued in hills.

<sup>21</sup> And Saul said, I have sinned; turn thou again, my son David, for I shall no more do evil to thee, for my life was precious today in thine eyes; for it seemeth, that I have done follily, and I have unknown full many things.

<sup>22</sup> And David answered and said, Lo! the spear of the king, one of the children of the king pass over hither, and take it;

<sup>23</sup> forsooth the Lord shall yield to each man after his rightfulness [or rightwiseness] and his faith; for the Lord betook thee today into mine hand, and I would not hold forth mine hand into the christ or the anointed of the Lord;

<sup>24</sup> and as thy life is magnified today in mine eyes, so my life be magnified in the eyes of the Lord, and deliver he me from all anguish.

<sup>25</sup> Therefore Saul said to David, Blessed be thou, my son David; and soothly thou doing shalt do, and thou mighty shalt be mighty. Then David went forth into his way, and Saul turned again into his place.

CHAPTER 27

<sup>1</sup> And David said in his heart, Sometime I shall fall in one day in the hand of Saul; whether it is not better, that I flee, and be saved in the land of Philistines, that Saul despair, and cease to seek me in all the ends of Israel; therefore flee we his hands.

<sup>2</sup> And David rose up, and went forth, he and six hundred men with him, to Achish, the son of Maoch, king of Gath.

<sup>4</sup> And it was told to Saul, that David fled into Gath; and he added no more that he should seek David [or he added no more for to seek him].

<sup>5</sup> Forsooth David said to Achish, If I have found grace in thine eyes, a place be given to me in one of the cities of this country, that I dwell there; for why dwelleth thy servant in the city of the king with thee?

<sup>6</sup> Therefore Achish gave him Ziklag in that day, for the which cause Ziklag was made into possession of the kings of Judah unto this day.

<sup>7</sup> And the number of days, in which David dwelled in the country of Philistines, was days, that is a year, and four months.

<sup>8</sup> And David went up, and his men, and they took preys of Geshurites, and of Gezrites, and of men of Amalek; for these towns were inhabited by eld [or old] time in the land, to men going to Shur, unto the land of Egypt.

<sup>9</sup> And David smote all the land of them, and he left not man nor woman living; and he took sheep, and oxen, and asses, and camels, and clothes, and turned again, and came to Achish.

<sup>10</sup> And Achish said to him, Into whom hurled ye today?/Against whom have ye hurled today? And David answered, Against the south of Judah, and against the south of Jerahmeel, and against the south of Kenites.

<sup>11</sup> David left not quick man and woman, neither brought into Gath, and said, Lest peradventure they speak against us. David did these things, and this was his doom, in all [the] days in which he dwelled in the country of Philistines.

<sup>12</sup> Therefore Achish believed to David, and said, Certainly he hath wrought many evils against his people Israel, therefore he shall be a servant to me for evermore.

CHAPTER 28

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth it was done in those days, the Philistines gathered together their companies, that they should be made ready against Israel to battle. And Achish said to David, Thou witting know now, for thou shalt go out with me in tents, thou and thy men.

<sup>2</sup> And David said to Achish, Now thou shalt know what things thy servant shall do. And Achish said to David, And I shall set thee keeper of mine head in all days.

<sup>3</sup> Forsooth Samuel was dead, and all Israel bewailed him, and they buried him in Ramah, his city. And Saul did away from the land witches and false diviners.

<sup>6</sup> And he counselled with the Lord; and the Lord answered not to him, neither by priests, nor by dreams, nor by prophets.

<sup>7</sup> And Saul said to his servants, Seek ye to me a woman having a fiend speaking in the womb; and I shall go to her, and I shall inquire by her. And his servants said to him, A woman having a fiend speaking in the womb is in Endor.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore Saul changed his clothing, and he was clothed with other clothes; and he went, and two men with him; and they came to the woman in the night. And he said, Divine thou to me in a fiend speaking in the womb, and raise thou up to me whom I shall say to thee.

<sup>9</sup> And the woman said to him, Lo! thou knowest how great things Saul hath done, and how he hath done away from the land witches, and false diviners; why therefore settest thou treason to my life, that I be slain?

<sup>10</sup> And Saul swore to her in the Lord, and said, The Lord liveth; for nothing of evil shall come to thee for this thing.

<sup>11</sup> And the woman said to him, Whom shall I raise up to thee? And he said, Raise thou Samuel up to me.

<sup>13</sup> And the king said to her, Do not thou dread; what hast thou seen? And the woman said to Saul, I saw gods ascending or going up from [the] earth.

<sup>14</sup> And Saul said to her, What manner form is of him? [or What manner is the form of him?] And she said, An eld [or old] man goeth up, and he is clothed with a mantle. And Saul understood that it was Samuel; and Saul bowed himself on his face to the earth, and worshipped.

<sup>15</sup> And Samuel said to Saul, Why hast thou dis-eased me, that I should be raised? And Saul said, I am constrained greatly; for the Philistines fight against me, and God hath gone away from me, and he would not hear me, neither by the hand of prophets, nor by dreams; therefore I called thee, that thou shouldest show to me what I shall do.

<sup>16</sup> And Samuel said, What askest thou me, when God hath gone away from thee, and hath passed to thine enemy?

<sup>17</sup> For the Lord shall do to thee as he spake in mine hand, and he shall cut away thy realm from thine hand, and he shall give it to David, thy neighbour;

<sup>18</sup> for thou obeyedest not the voice of the Lord, neither thou didest the fierce wrath of the Lord in Amalek. Therefore the Lord hath done to thee today that that thou sufferest;

<sup>19</sup> and the Lord shall give also Israel with thee in the hand of Philistines. Forsooth tomorrow thou and thy sons shall be with me; but also the Lord shall betake the castles [or tents] of Israel in the hand of the Philistines.

<sup>20</sup> And anon Saul fell down and was stretched forth upon the earth; for he dreaded the words of Samuel, and strength was not in him, for he had not eaten bread in all that day and all that night.

<sup>21</sup> Therefore that woman entered to Saul, and said; for he was troubled greatly; and she said to him, Lo! thine handmaid hath obeyed to thy voice, and I have put my life in mine hand, and I heard thy words, which thou spakest to me.

<sup>22</sup> And now therefore thou hear the voice of thine handmaid, and I shall set a morsel of bread before thee, and that thou eating wax strong, and mayest do thy journey.

<sup>23</sup> And he forsook it, and said, I shall not eat. But his servants and the woman compelled him; and at the last, when the voice of them was heard, he rose up from the earth, and sat on the bed.

<sup>24</sup> Soothly that woman had a fat calf in the house, and she hasted, and killed it; and she took meal, and meddled [or mingled] it together, and made therf bread;

CHAPTER 29

<sup>2</sup> And soothly the princes of the Philistines went in companies of an hundred, and in thousands; but David and his men were in the last company with Achish.

<sup>3</sup> And the princes of Philistines said to Achish, What will or desire these Hebrews to or for themselves? And Achish said to the princes of Philistines, Whether ye know not David, that was the servant of Saul, king of Israel? and he was with me many days, either years, and I found not in him anything of imagining to evil, from the day in which he fled to me unto this day.

<sup>4</sup> Certainly the princes of Philistines were wroth against Achish, and they said to him, The man turn again, and abide he in his place, in which thou hast ordained him, and come he not down with us into battle, lest he be made adversary to us, when we have begun to fight; for how may he please his lord in other manner, but in our heads?

<sup>6</sup> Therefore Achish called David, and said to him, The Lord liveth; for thou art rightful, and good in my sight, and thy going out and thy coming in is with me in [the] tents, and I have not found in thee anything of evil, from the day in which thou camest to me till to this day; but thou pleasest not the princes, or satraps.

<sup>7</sup> Therefore turn thou again, and go in peace, and offend thou not the eyes of the princes, or satraps, of the Philistines.

<sup>8</sup> And David said to Achish, And what have I done, and what hast thou found in me thy servant, from the day in which I was in thy sight till into this day, that I come not, and fight against the enemies of my lord the king?

<sup>9</sup> And Achish answered, and spake to David, I know that thou art good, and as the angel of God in my eyes; but the princes of Philistines said, He shall not go up with us into battle.

<sup>10</sup> Therefore rise thou up early, thou, and thy servants that came with thee; and when ye have risen by night, and it beginneth to be clear day, go ye forth.

<sup>11</sup> Therefore David rose up by night, he and his men, that they should go forth early, and turn again to the land of Philistines; but the Philistines went up into Jezreel.

CHAPTER 30

<sup>1</sup> And when David and his men had come into Ziklag in the third day, they learned that men of Amalek had made assault on the south part of Judah, in Ziklag; and had smitten Ziklag, and burnt it by fire.

<sup>2</sup> And they led away the women as prisoners from thence, from the least unto the most; and they had not slain any, but they led them forth with them, and went in their way.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore when David and his men had come to the city, and had found it burnt with fire, and that their wives, and their sons, and daughters were led away as prisoners,

<sup>5</sup> And also [the] two wives of David were led away as prisoners, Ahinoam of Jezreel, and Abigail, the wife of Nabal of Carmel.

<sup>6</sup> And David was full sorry; certainly all the people would have stoned David, for the soul of each man was bitter on their sons and daughters. Forsooth David was comforted in his Lord God.

<sup>7</sup> And he said to Abiathar, the priest, the son of Ahimelech, Bring thou [the] ephod to me. And Abiathar brought the ephod to David;

<sup>8</sup> and David counselled with the Lord, and said, Shall I pursue these thieves, either no? and shall I take them? And the Lord said to him, Pursue thou; for without doubt thou shalt take them, and thou shalt take away from them their prey.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore David went forth, he and six hundred men that were with him, and they came unto the strand [or stream] of Besor; and there the weary men of the host of David abode behind.

<sup>10</sup> Forsooth David pursued, he and four hundred men; for two hundred abided behind, that were weary, and might not pass [over] the strand [or stream] of Besor.

<sup>11</sup> And they found a young man of Egypt in the field, and they brought him to David; and they gave him bread, that he should eat, and water to drink;

<sup>12</sup> but also they gave to him a gobbet of a bundle of dried figs, and two clusters of dried grapes. And when he had eaten those, his spirit turned again to him, and he was comforted; for he had not eaten bread, neither had drunk water in three days and three nights.

<sup>13</sup> Then David said to him, Whose man art thou, either from whence and whither goest thou? And he said, I am a child of Egypt, the servant of a man of Amalek; but my lord forsook me, for I began to be sick the third day ago.

<sup>15</sup> And David said to him, Mayest thou lead me to this company? Which said, Swear thou to me by God, that thou shalt not slay me, and that thou shalt not betake me into the hands of my lord; and I shall lead thee to this company. And David swore to him.

<sup>16</sup> And when the child had led him thither, lo! they sat at the meat, upon the face of all the earth, eating and drinking, and as hallowing a feast day, for all the prey and spoils which they had taken of the land of Philistines, and of the land of Judah.

<sup>19</sup> neither any of them failed, from little till to great, as well of sons as of daughters, and of spoils; and what-ever things they had ravished, David led again all things;

<sup>21</sup> Forsooth David came to the two hundred men, that were weary, and abided behind, and might not follow David; and he [had] commanded them to sit at the strand [or stream] of Besor; which went out against David, and the people that was with him. Forsooth David nighed to the people, and he greeted it peaceably.

<sup>22</sup> And one man, the worst and unjust [or wicked] of the men that were with David, answered, and said, For they came not with us, we shall not give to them anything of the prey, that we have ravished, but suffice it to each man his wife and his children; and when they have taken them, go they away.

<sup>23</sup> And David said, My brethren, ye shall not do so, as ye speak, of these things, which the Lord hath given to us, and he hath kept us, and gave the thieves, that brake out against us, into our hands;

<sup>24</sup> neither any shall hear us strive on this word. For even part shall be of him that goeth down to battle, and of him that dwelleth at the fardels; and in like manner they shall part the prey.

<sup>25</sup> And this was made a constitution and a doom from that day and after-ward, and as a law in Israel till into this day.

<sup>26</sup> Then David came into Ziklag, and he sent gifts of the prey to the elder men of Judah, his neighbours, and said, Take ye blessing of the prey of [the] enemies of the Lord;

<sup>27</sup> to them that were in Bethel, and that were in Ramoth, at the south, and that were in Jattir,

<sup>28</sup> and that were in Aroer, and that were in Siphmoth, and that were in Eshtemoa,

<sup>29</sup> and that were in Rachal, and that were in the cities of Jerahmeel, and that were in the cities of Kenites,

<sup>30</sup> and that were in Hormah, and that were in Chorashan, and that were in Athach, <sup>31</sup> and that were in Hebron, and to other men, that were in these places, in which David dwelled and his men.

CHAPTER 31

<sup>3</sup> And all the weight or charge of the battle was turned against Saul; and men archers pursued him, and he was wounded greatly of the archers.

<sup>4</sup> And Saul said to his squire, Draw out thy sword, and slay me, lest per-adventure these uncircumcised men come, and slay me, and scorn me. And his squire would not, for he was afeared by full great dread; therefore Saul took his sword, and felled thereon.

<sup>5</sup> And when his squire had seen this, that Saul was dead, also he felled upon his sword, and was dead with him.

<sup>6</sup> And so Saul was dead, and his three sons, and his squire, and all his men in that day together.

<sup>7</sup> And the sons of Israel, that were beyond the valley, and beyond Jordan, saw that the men of Israel had fled, and that Saul was dead, and his sons, and they left their cities, and fled; and the Philistines came, and dwelled there.

<sup>8</sup> Forsooth in the tother day made, Philistines came, that they should despoil the slain men, and they found Saul, and his three sons, lying in the hill of Gilboa;

<sup>9</sup> and they cutted away the head of Saul, and despoiled him of his armours [or arms]; and sent into the land of Philistines by compass, that it should be told in the temple of idols, and in the peoples.

<sup>11</sup> And when the dwellers of Jabesh of Gilead had heard this, and whatever things the Philistines had done to Saul, <sup>12</sup> and all the strongest men rose, and went forth all that night, and they took down the dead body of Saul, and the dead bodies of his sons, from the wall of Bethshan; and the men of Jabesh of Gilead came, and burnt those dead bodies with fire.

2ND SAMUEL

<sup>1</sup> And it was done, after that Saul was dead, that David turned again from the slaying of Amalek, and he dwelled two days in Ziklag.

<sup>2</sup> And in the third day a man appeared, coming from the tents of Saul with a cloth rent, and his head sprinkled with dust; and as he came to David, he felled upon his face, and worshipped or honoured him.

<sup>3</sup> And David said to him, From whence comest thou? And he said to David, I fled from the tents of Israel.

<sup>4</sup> And David said to him, What is the word that is done there; show thou to me. And he said, The people of Israel hath fled from the battle, and many of the people felled, and be dead; but also Saul, and Jonathan, his son, have perished.

<sup>5</sup> And David said to the young man, that told to him, Whereof knowest thou, that Saul is dead, and Jonathan, his son?

<sup>6</sup> And the young man said, that told to him, By hap I came into the hill of Gilboa, and Saul leaned upon his spear; and chariots and horsemen nighed to him;

<sup>7</sup> and he turned behind his back, and saw me, and called. To whom when I had answered, I am present;

<sup>8</sup> he said to me, Who art thou? And I said to him, I am a man of Amalek.

<sup>9</sup> And he spake to me, Stand thou upon me, and slay me; for anguishes hold me, and yet all my life is in me.

<sup>10</sup> And I stood upon him, and I slew him; for I knew that he might not live after the falling; and I took the diadem, that was on his head, and the bie from his arm, and I have brought them hither to thee, my lord.

<sup>12</sup> and they wailed, and wept, and fasted till to eventide, on Saul, and Jonathan, his son, and on the people of the Lord, and on the house of Israel, for they had felled by sword.

<sup>13</sup> And David said to the young man, that told to him, Of whence art thou? And he answered, I am the son of a man comeling, of a man of Amalek.

<sup>14</sup> And David said to him, Why darest thou not to send thine hand, that thou shouldest slay the christ of the Lord?

<sup>15</sup> And David called one of his children or young men, and said, Go thou, and fall on him. And he smote that young man, and he was dead.

<sup>16</sup> And David said to him, Thy blood be on thine head; for thy mouth spake against thee, and said, I killed the christ or the anointed of the Lord.

<sup>18</sup> and he commanded, that they should teach the sons of Judah the bow, that is, the craft of shooting, as it is written in the Book of Just Men.

<sup>19</sup> And David said, Israel, behold thou, for these that be dead, be wounded on thine high places; the noble men of Israel be slain upon thine hills. How have fallen [the] strong men?

<sup>21</sup> Hills of Gilboa, neither dew, neither rain come upon you, neither be they the fields of first fruits; for the shield of strong men was cast away there, the shield of Saul, as if he had not been anointed with oil.

<sup>26</sup> I make sorrow upon thee, my brother Jonathan, full fair and amiable more than the love of women; as a mother loveth her only son, so I loved thee.

CHAPTER 2

<sup>1</sup> Therefore after these things David counselled with the Lord, and said, Whether I shall go up into one of the cities of Judah? And the Lord said to him, Go thou up. And David said to the Lord, Whither shall I go up? And the Lord answered to him, Into Hebron.

<sup>3</sup> But also David led the men that were with him, each man with his house; and they dwelled in the towns of Hebron.

<sup>4</sup> And the men of Judah came, and anointed there David, that he should reign upon the house of Judah. And it was told to David, that [the] men of Jabesh of Gilead had buried Saul.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore David sent messengers to the men of Jabesh of Gilead, and said to them, Blessed be ye of the Lord, that did this mercy with your lord Saul, and buried him.

<sup>6</sup> And now soothly the Lord shall yield to you mercy and truth, but also I shall yield thanking, for ye did this word.

<sup>7</sup> Your hands be comforted, and be ye the sons of strength; for though your lord Saul is dead, nevertheless the house of Judah hath anointed me king to him.

<sup>8</sup> Forsooth Abner, the son of Ner, prince of the host of Saul, took Ishbosheth, the son of Saul, and led him about by the castles [or tents], <sup>9</sup> and made him king on Gilead, and on Ashurites, and on Jezreel, and on Ephraim, and on Benjamin, and on all Israel.

<sup>10</sup> Ishbosheth, the son of Saul, was of forty years, when he began to reign upon Israel; and he reigned two years. Soothly the house alone of Judah pursued [or followed] David.

<sup>11</sup> And the number of days, by which David dwelled reigning in Hebron on the house of Judah, was of seven years and six months.

<sup>12</sup> And Abner, the son of Ner, went out, and the children or young men of Ishbosheth, the son of Saul, from the castles [or tents] in [to] Gibeon.

<sup>13</sup> And Joab, the son of Zeruiah, and the children of David, went out, and they came to them beside the cistern of Gibeon. And when they had come together into one place even against either other, these sat on one part of the cistern, and they on the tother.

<sup>15</sup> Then they rose up, and passed forth twelve in number of Benjamin, of the part of Ishbosheth, the son of Saul; and twelve of the servants of David.

---

* CHAPTER 2:14 That is, 'show their strength and nobility'; and here 'play' is set for 'slay' either 'fight'.

<sup>16</sup> And each man, when he had taken his fellow by the head, fixed his sword into the side of his adversary; and they felled down together. And the name of that place was called The Field of Men Slain Together, in Gibeon.

<sup>17</sup> And full hard battle rose in that day; and Abner and the sons of Israel were driven away of the servants of David.

<sup>18</sup> Forsooth three sons of Zeruiah were there, Joab, and Abishai, and Asahel; and Asahel was a full swift runner, as one of the caprets that dwell in woods.

<sup>22</sup> And again Abner spake to Asahel, Go thou away; do not thou pursue me, lest I be compelled to pierce thee into the earth, and I shall not be able to raise then my face to Joab, thy brother.

<sup>23</sup> And Asahel despised to hear, and would not bow away. Therefore Abner smote him with the spear turned away, that is, turned against him, in the share-bone, that is, behind the maw, in the fifth rib, under which be the members of life, and pierced [him] through, and he was dead in the same place; and all men that passed by the place, in which place Asahel felled down, and was dead, stood still.

<sup>24</sup> And while Joab and Abishai pursued Abner fleeing, the sun went down; and they came to the little hill of a water conduit, that is even against the valley, and the way of desert in Gibeon.

<sup>25</sup> And the sons of Benjamin were gathered to Abner, and they were gathered together into one company, and they stood in the height of an heap of earth.

<sup>26</sup> And Abner cried to Joab, and said, Whether thy sword shall be fierce unto slaying? Whether thou knowest not, that despair is perilous? How long sayest thou not to the people, that it cease to pursue his brethren?

<sup>29</sup> And Abner and his men went from thence by the field places of Moab in all that night, and they passed [over] Jordan; and when all Bithron was compassed, they came to the castles [or tents].

<sup>31</sup> Forsooth the servants of David smited of Benjamin, and of the men that were with Abner, three hundred men and sixty, which also were dead.

<sup>32</sup> And they took Asahel, and buried him in the sepulchre of his father in Bethlehem. And Joab, and the men that were with him, went in all that night, and in that morrowtide they came into Hebron.

CHAPTER 3

<sup>1</sup> Therefore a long strife was made betwixt the house of David and the house of Saul; and David profited and ever<sup>[more]</sup> was stronger than himself, in comparison of time passed, for his power increased ever, but the house of Saul decreased each day.

<sup>3</sup> and after him was Chileab, of Abigail, the wife of Nabal of Carmel; and the third was Absalom, the son of Maacah, the daughter of Talmai, king of Geshur;

<sup>4</sup> and the fourth was Adonijah, the son of Haggith; and the fifth was Shephatiah, the son of Abital;

<sup>6</sup> Therefore when battle was betwixt the house of Saul and the house of David, Abner, the son of Ner, governed the house of Saul.

<sup>7</sup> And to Saul was a concubine, that is, a secondary wife, Rizpah by name, the daughter of Aiah; and Abner entered [in] to her. And Ishbosheth said to Abner, Why hast thou entered [in] to the concubine of my father?

<sup>8</sup> And Abner was wroth greatly for the words of Ishbosheth, and said, Whether I am the head of a dog against Judah today, and I have done mercy on the house of Saul, thy father, and on his brethren, and neighbours, and I betook not thee into the hands of David, and thou hast sought in me that, that thou shouldest reprove for a woman today?

<sup>9</sup> God do these things to Abner, and add these things to him, no but as the Lord swore to David, so I do with him, <sup>10</sup> that the realm be translated from the house of Saul, and the throne of David be raised on Israel and on Judah, from Dan till to Beersheba.

<sup>12</sup> Therefore Abner sent messengers to David, and they said for him, Whose is the land? and that the messengers should speak thus, Make thou friend-ships with me, and mine hand shall be with thee, and I shall bring all Israel to thee.

<sup>13</sup> And David said, Best, I shall make friendships with thee; but I ask of thee one thing, and say, Thou shalt not see my face, before that thou bring Michal, the daughter of Saul, and so thou shalt come, and shalt see me.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore David sent messengers to Ishbosheth, the son of Saul, and said, Yield thou my wife Michal, whom I espoused to me for an hundred prepuces of Philistines.

<sup>16</sup> and her husband pursued [or followed] her, and wept till to Bahurim. And Abner said to him, Go thou, and turn again; and he turned again.

<sup>17</sup> Also Abner brought in a word to the elder men of Israel, and said, Both yesterday and the third day ago ye sought David, that he should reign upon you.

<sup>18</sup> Now therefore do ye; for the Lord spake to David, and said, In the hand of my servant David I shall save my people Israel from the hand of Philistines, and of all his enemies.

<sup>19</sup> And also Abner spake to Benjamin; and he went, that he should speak to David, in Hebron, all things that pleased Israel and all Benjamin.

<sup>20</sup> And he came to David, in Hebron, with twenty men. And David made a feast to Abner, and to the men that came with him.

<sup>21</sup> And Abner said to David, I shall rise up, that I gather all Israel to thee, my lord the king, and that I make bond of peace with thee, and that thou reign on all, as thy soul desireth. Therefore when David had led forth Abner, and he had gone in peace,

<sup>22</sup> anon the children of David and Joab came with a full great prey, when the thieves were slain; and Abner was not then with David, in Hebron, for David had let him go, and he went forth in peace.

<sup>23</sup> And Joab, and the hosts that were with him, came afterward; therefore it was told to Joab of tellers, Abner, the son of Ner, came to the king, and the king let him go, and he went forth in peace.

<sup>24</sup> And Joab entered to the king, and said, What hast thou done? Lo! Abner came to thee; why lettest thou him go, and he went, and departed from thee?

<sup>25</sup> Knowest thou not Abner, the son of Ner, for hereto he came to thee, that he should deceive thee, and that he should know thy going out and thine entering, and should know all things which thou doest?

<sup>27</sup> And when Abner had come again into Hebron, Joab led him asides half to the middle of the gate, that he should speak to him in guile; and he smote Abner there in the share-bone, and he was dead, into vengeance of the blood of his brother Asahel.

<sup>28</sup> That when David had heard this thing done, he said, I am clean, and my realm, with God into without end from the blood of Abner, the son of Ner;

<sup>29</sup> and come it on the head of Joab, and upon all the house of his father; and fail there not from the house of Joab a man suffering flowing of seed, and a leprous man, and a man holding a spindle, and a man falling by sword, and a man having need to bread.

<sup>31</sup> And David said to Joab, and to all the people that was with him, Rend ye your clothes, and be ye gird with sackcloths, and bewail ye before the hearses, either dirge, of Abner. Forsooth king David pursued [or followed] the bier.

<sup>33</sup> And the king bewailed, and be-mourned Abner, and said, Abner, thou diedest not as dreadful men, either cowards, be wont to die.

<sup>34</sup> Thine hands were not bound, and thy feet were not grieved with stocks, but thou hast fallen down, as men be wont to fall before the sons of wicked-ness. And all the people doubled together, and wept on him.

<sup>35</sup> And when all the multitude came to take meat with David, while the day was yet clear, David swore, and said, God do to me these things, and add these things too, if I shall taste bread, either any other thing, before the going down of the sun.

<sup>37</sup> and all the common people and all Israel knew in that day, that it was not done of the king, that Abner, the son of Ner, was slain.

<sup>38</sup> Also the king said to his servants, Whether ye know not, that the prince and the greatest hath fallen down today in Israel?

<sup>39</sup> And I am yet tender, and anointed king; and these sons of Zeruiah be hard to me; the Lord yield to him that doeth evil after his malice.

CHAPTER 4

<sup>1</sup> And Ishbosheth, the son of Saul, heard that Abner had fallen down in Hebron; and his hands were discomfort-ed, and all Israel was troubled.

<sup>2</sup> And two men, princes of companies, were to the son of Saul; name to the one was Baanah, and name to the tother was Rechab, the sons of Rimmon the Beerothite, of the sons of Benjamin; for also Beeroth is areckoned in Benjamin.

<sup>4</sup> And a son feeble in his feet was to Jonathan, the son of Saul; and he was five years eld [for old], when the messenger came from Saul and Jonathan, from Jezreel, telling that they were dead. Therefore his nurse took him, and fled; and when she hasted to flee, she felled down, and the child was made lame; and the name of the child was Mephibosheth.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore Rechab and Baanah, the sons of Rimmon of Beeroth, came, and entered in the hot day into the house of Ishbosheth, that slept upon his bed at midday; and the woman that kept the doors of the house, who had been purging wheat, now slept fast.

<sup>7</sup> Soothly when they had entered into the house, he slept on his bed in a bed-closet; and they smited and killed him; and when they had taken [off] his head, they went by the way of desert in all that night.

<sup>8</sup> And they brought the head of Ishbosheth to David, in Hebron, and they said to the king, Lo! the head of Ishbosheth, the son of Saul, thine enemy, that sought thy life; and the Lord hath given today to our lord the king vengeance of Saul, and of his seed.

<sup>9</sup> And David answered to Rechab, and Baanah, his brother, the sons of Rimmon of Beeroth, and said to them, The Lord liveth, that hath delivered my life from all anguish,;

<sup>10</sup> for I held him that told to me, and said, Saul is dead, which man guessed himself to tell prosperities, and I killed him in Ziklag, to whom it behooved me give meed for his message;

<sup>11</sup> how much more now, when wicked men have slain a guiltless man in his house upon his bed, shall I not seek his blood of your hand, and shall not I do away you from the earth?

<sup>12</sup> Therefore David commanded to his servants, and they killed them; and they cut off their hands and their feet, and hanged them over the cistern in Hebron. Forsooth they took the head of Ishbosheth, and they buried it in the sepulchre of Abner, in Hebron.

CHAPTER 5

<sup>2</sup> But also yesterday and the third day ago, when Saul was king upon us, thou leddest out, and leddest again Israel; forsooth the Lord said to thee, Thou shalt feed my people Israel, and thou shalt be duke upon Israel.

<sup>3</sup> Also and the elder men of Israel came to the king, into Hebron; and king David smote with them bond of peace in Hebron, before the Lord; and they anointed David into king upon Israel.

<sup>4</sup> David was a son of thirty years, when he began to reign, and he reigned forty years

<sup>5</sup> in Hebron; he reigned upon Judah seven years and six months; and in Jerusalem he reigned thirty and three years upon all Israel and Judah.

<sup>6</sup> And the king went, and all [the] men that were with him, into Jerusalem, to Jebusites, the dwellers of the land. And it was said of them to David, Thou shalt not enter hither, no but thou do away blind men and lame, saying, David shall not enter hither.

<sup>8</sup> For David had purposed in that day to have given meed to him, that had smitten Jebusites, and that had touched the gutters of the house roofs, and that had taken away lame men and blind, hating the life of David. Therefore it is said in common speech, A blind man and a lame shall not enter into the temple.

<sup>10</sup> And he entered profiting, and increasing; and the Lord God of hosts was with him.

<sup>12</sup> And David knew, that the Lord had confirmed him king upon Israel, and that he had enhanced his realm upon his people Israel.

<sup>13</sup> Therefore David took yet more concubines, and wives of Jerusalem, after that he came from Hebron; and also other sons and daughters were born to David.

<sup>14</sup> And these be the names of them that were born to him in Jerusalem; Shammuah, and Shobab, and Nathan, and Solomon,

<sup>17</sup> Then the Philistines heard, that they had anointed David king upon Israel, and all the Philistines went up to seek David. And when David had heard this, he went down into a stronghold.

<sup>19</sup> And David counselled with the Lord, and said, Whether I shall go up to Philistines, and whether thou shalt give them into mine hand? And the Lord said to David, Go thou up, for I shall betake the Philistines, and I shall give them into thine hand.

<sup>20</sup> Therefore David came into Baal-perazim, and smote them there, and said, The Lord hath parted mine enemies before me, as waters be parted. Therefore the name of that place was called Baalperazim, that is, The Field, either Plain, of Parting.

<sup>22</sup> And [the] Philistines added yet, that they should ascend [or go up], and they were spread abroad in the valley of Rephaim.

<sup>23</sup> And David counselled with the Lord, and said, Whether I shall go up against the Philistines, and whether thou shalt betake them into mine hands? And the Lord answered, Thou shalt not go up against them, but compass thou them behind their back, and thou shalt come to them on the contrary side of the pear trees.

<sup>24</sup> And when thou shalt hear the sound of cry going in the tops of pear trees, then thou shalt begin battle; for then the Lord shall go out before thy face, that he smite the tents of Philistines.

CHAPTER 6

<sup>2</sup> And David rose, and went, and all the people that was with him of the men of Judah, to bring the ark of God, on which the name of the Lord of hosts, sitting in cherubim on that ark, was called.

<sup>3</sup> And they putted [or put] the ark of God on a new wain, and they took it from the house of Abinadab, that was in Gibeah. And Uzzah and Ahio, the sons of Abinadab, drove the new wain.

<sup>4</sup> And when they had taken it from the house of Abinadab, that was in Gibeah, and kept the ark of God, Ahio went before the ark.

<sup>5</sup> And David and all Israel played before the Lord, in all treen instruments of melody, and in harps, and citoles, and tympanes, and trumps, and cymbals.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth after that they came to the cornfloor of Nachon, Uzzah held forth his hand to the ark of God, and held it, for the oxen kicked, and bowed it.

<sup>7</sup> And the Lord was wroth by indignation against Uzzah, and smote him on the folly; and he was dead there beside the ark of God.

<sup>8</sup> And David was sorry, for the Lord had slain Uzzah; and the name of that place was called The Smiting of Uzzah till into this day.

<sup>9</sup> And David dreaded the Lord in that day, and said, How shall the ark of the Lord enter to me?

<sup>10</sup> And he would not turn [aside] the ark of the Lord to himself into the city of David, but he turned it [aside] into the house of Obededom of Gath.

<sup>11</sup> And the ark of the Lord dwelled in the house of Obededom of Gath three months; and the Lord blessed Obededom, and all his house.

<sup>12</sup> And it was told to king David, that the Lord had blessed Obededom, and all his things, for the ark of God. And David said, I shall go, and bring the ark with blessing into mine house. Therefore David went, and brought the ark of God from the house of Obededom into the city of David with joy.

<sup>13</sup> And when they, that bare the ark of the Lord, had gone six paces, they offered an ox and a ram.

<sup>15</sup> And David, and all the house of Israel, led forth the ark of [the] testament or of [the] witnessing of the Lord in hearty song, and in sound of trump.

<sup>16</sup> And when the ark of the Lord had entered into the city of David, Michal, the daughter of Saul, beheld by a window, and she saw the king skipping or hopping and dancing before the Lord; and she despised him in her heart.

<sup>17</sup> And they brought in the ark of the Lord, and setted [or put] it in his place, in the midst of the tabernacle, which tabernacle David had made therefore or had made ready thereto; and David offered burnt sacrifices and peaceable sacrifices before the Lord.

<sup>18</sup> And when David had ended those [or them], and had offered burnt sacrifices and peaceable sacrifices, he blessed the people in the name of the Lord of hosts.

<sup>19</sup> And he gave to all the multitude of Israel, as well to man as to woman, to each a cake of bread, and one part roasted of bugle flesh, and flour of wheat fried with oil; and all the people went forth, each into his house.

<sup>20</sup> And David turned again to bless his house, and Michal, the daughter of Saul, went out into the coming of David, and said, How glorious was the king of Israel today, uncovering himself before the handmaids of his servants, and he was made naked, as if one of the knaves had been made naked?

<sup>21</sup> And David said to Michal, The Lord liveth, for I shall play, or I shall dance, before the Lord, that chose me rather than thy father, and rather than all the house of him, and commanded to me, that I should be duke on the people of the Lord of Israel; and I shall play, <sup>22</sup> and I shall be made more vile than I am yet made, and I shall be meek in mine eyes, and I shall appear more glorious with those handmaidens, of which thou hast spoken.

CHAPTER 7

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth it was done, when king David had sat in his house, and the Lord had given rest to him on each side from all his enemies,

<sup>2</sup> he said to Nathan the prophet, Seest thou not, that I dwell in an house of cedar, and the ark of God is put in the midst of skins?

<sup>3</sup> And Nathan said to the king, Go thou, and do all thing that is in thine heart, for the Lord is with thee.

<sup>4</sup> And it was done in that night, and lo! the word of the Lord, was made to Nathan, [saying],

<sup>5</sup> Go thou, and speak to my servant David, The Lord saith these things, Whether thou shalt build to me an house to dwell in?

<sup>6</sup> Soothly I have not dwelled in an house from the day in which I led the sons of Israel out of the land of Egypt till into this day; but I have gone in a tabernacle and in a tent,

<sup>7</sup> by all places, to which I passed with all the sons of Israel? Whether I speaking spake to anyone of the lineages of Israel, to whom I commanded, that he should feed my people Israel, and said, Why builded-est thou not an house of cedar to me?

<sup>8</sup> And now thou shalt say these things to my servant David, The Lord of hosts saith these things, I took thee from [the] pastures following flocks, that thou shouldest be duke on my people Israel,

<sup>9</sup> and I was with thee in all things, wherever thou hast gone, and I have killed all thine enemies from thy face, and I have made to thee a great name, by the name of great men that be in earth;

<sup>10</sup> and I shall set a place to my people Israel, and I shall plant him, and I shall dwell with him, and he shall no more be troubled, and the sons of wickedness shall not add to, that they torment him as before,

<sup>11</sup> like they did from the day in which I ordained judges upon my people Israel; and I shall give rest to thee from all thine enemies. And the Lord before-saith to thee, that he shall make an house to thee;

<sup>12</sup> and when thy days be fulfilled, and thou hast slept with thy fathers, that is, when thou hast died, I shall raise up thy seed after thee, which shall go out of thy womb, and I shall make steadfast his realm.

<sup>13</sup> He shall build an house to my name, and I shall make stable the throne of his realm till into without end;

<sup>14</sup> I shall be to him into a father; and he shall be to me into a son; and if he shall do anything wickedly, I shall chastise him in the rod of men, and in the wounds of the sons of men.

<sup>15</sup> Forsooth I shall not do away my mercy from him, as I did it away from Saul, whom I removed from my face.

<sup>16</sup> And thine house shall be faithful, and thy realm shall be till into without end before my face, and thy throne shall be steadfast continually.

<sup>18</sup> Forsooth David the king entered into the tabernacle, and he sat before the Lord, and said, Who am I, Lord God, and what is mine house, that thou hast brought me hitherto?

<sup>19</sup> But also this is seen little in thy sight, my Lord God; no but thou shouldest speak also of the house of thy servant into long time. For this is the law of Adam, Lord God;

<sup>20</sup> what therefore may David add yet, that he speak to thee? For thou, Lord God, knowest thy servant;

<sup>21</sup> thou hast done all these great things, for thy word, and by thine heart, so that thou madest those known to thy servant.

<sup>22</sup> Therefore, Lord God, thou art made great, for none is like thee, nor there is no God except thee, in all things which we have heard with our ears.

<sup>23</sup> Soothly what folk in earth is as the people of Israel, for which the Lord God went, that he should again-buy it to him into a people, and should set to himself a name, and should do to it great things, and horrible, on [the] earth, in casting out thereof the folks, and gods thereof, from the face of thy people, which thou again-boughtest to thee from Egypt?

<sup>24</sup> And thou hast confirmed to thee thy people Israel into a people ever-lasting, and thou, Lord, art made into God to them.

<sup>25</sup> Now therefore, Lord God, raise up without end the word that thou hast spoken upon thy servant, and upon his house, and do as thou hast spoken;

<sup>26</sup> and thy name be magnified or be made great till into without end, and be it said, The Lord of hosts is God upon Israel; and the house of thy servant David shall be stablished before the Lord;

<sup>27</sup> for thou, Lord of hosts, God of Israel, hast made revelation to the ear of thy servant, and saidest, I shall build an house to thee; therefore thy servant hath found by his heart, that he should pray thee by this prayer.

<sup>28</sup> Now therefore, Lord God, thou art very God, and thy words shall be true; for thou hast spoken these good things to thy servant;

<sup>29</sup> therefore begin thou, and bless the house of thy servant, that it be into without end before thee; for thou, Lord God, hast spoken these things, and through thy blessing the house of thy servant shall be blessed without end.

CHAPTER 8

<sup>2</sup> And David smote Moab, and meted them with a cord, and he made them even to the earth; forsooth he meted them by two cords, one to slay, and one to quicken. And Moab served David under tribute.

<sup>5</sup> Also Syrians of Damascus came, that it should bear help to Hadadezer, king of Zobah; and David smote of Syrians two and twenty thousand of men.

<sup>6</sup> And David setted [or put] a strong-hold in Syria of Damascus, and Syria was made serving David under tribute. And the Lord kept David in all things, to whatever things he went forth.

<sup>10</sup> And Toi sent Joram, his son, to king David, that he should greet him, and thank, and do thankings, for he had overcome Hadadezer, and had smitten him; for Toi was enemy of Hadadezer; and vessels of silver, and vessels of gold, and vessels of brass were in his hand.

<sup>11</sup> And the same vessels king David hallowed to the Lord, with the silver and gold, which he had hallowed of all heathen men, which he had made subject

<sup>12</sup> of Syria, and of Moab, and of the sons of Ammon, and of Philistines, and of Amalek, and of the spoils of Hadadezer, the son of Rehob, king of Zobah.

<sup>13</sup> Also David made to him a name, when he turned again when Syria was taken, for eighteen thousand men were slain in the valley, where salt was made, and in Helam, to three and twenty thousand*.

<sup>14</sup> And he setted keepers in Idumea, and ordained [a] stronghold, and all Idumea was made serving to David; and the Lord kept David in all things, to whatever things he went forth.

<sup>16</sup> And Joab, the son of Zeruiah, was over the host of David; and Jehosha-phat, the son of Ahilud, was recorder;

<sup>17</sup> and Zadok, the son of Ahitub, and Ahimelech, the son of Abiathar, were priests; and Seraiah was a scribe.

<sup>18</sup> But Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, was over Cherethites and Pelethites, that is, over archers and arrowblasters; and the sons of David were priests.

CHAPTER 9

<sup>2</sup> And there was a servant, Ziba by name, of the house of Saul; whom when the king had called to himself, the king said to him, Whether thou art not Ziba? And he answered, I am thy servant.

<sup>3</sup> And the king said, Whether any man liveth of the house of Saul, that I do with him the mercy of God? And Ziba said to the king, A son of Jonathan liveth, feeble in the feet.

<sup>4</sup> And the king said, Where is he? And Ziba said to the king, Lo! he is in the house of Machir, the son of Ammiel, in Lodebar.

<sup>6</sup> And when Mephibosheth, the son of Jonathan, [the] son of Saul, had come to David, he felled into his face, and worshipped. And David said, Mephibosheth! And he answered, I am present, thy servant.

<sup>7</sup> And David said to him, Dread thou not, for I doing shall do mercy to thee for Jonathan, thy father; and I shall restore to thee all the fields of Saul, thy father, and thou shalt eat bread in my table ever[more].

<sup>8</sup> Which worshipped him, and said, Who am I, thy servant, for thou hast beheld on a dead dog like me?

<sup>9</sup> Therefore the king called Ziba, the child of Saul; and said to him, I have given to the son of thy lord all things, whichever were of Saul, and all the house of him;

<sup>10</sup> therefore work thou the land to him, thou, and thy sons, and thy servants, and thou shalt bring in meats to the son of thy lord, that he be fed; but Mephibosheth, the son of thy lord, shall eat ever bread on my board. And fifteen sons and twenty servants were to Ziba.

<sup>11</sup> And Ziba said to the king, As thou, my lord the king, hast commanded to thy servant, so thy servant shall do; and Mephibosheth, as one of the sons of the king, shall eat on thy board.

* CHAPTER 8:13 See 2nd Samuel 10:16-19.

CHAPTER 10

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth it was done after these things, that Nahash, [the] king of the sons of Ammon, died; and Hanun, his son, reigned for him,.

<sup>2</sup> And David said, I shall do mercy with Hanun, the son of Nahash, as his father did mercy with me. There-fore David sent comforting to him by his servants on the death of the father. And when the servants of David had come into the land of the sons of Ammon, <sup>3</sup> the princes of the sons of Ammon said to Hanun, their lord, Guessest thou, that for the honour of thy father David hath sent comforters to thee; and not rather therefore David sent his servants to thee, that he should espy, and ensearch the city, and destroy it?

<sup>5</sup> And when this was told to David, he sent into the coming of them, for the men were shamed full vilely. And David commanded to them, Dwell ye in Jericho, till your beard waxed, and then turn ye again.

<sup>6</sup> And the sons of Ammon saw, that they had done wrong to David, and they sent, and hired with meed of Bethrehob of Syria, and of Zoba of Syria, twenty thousand of footmen, and of king Maacah, a thousand men, and of Ishtob, twelve thousand of men.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore the sons of Ammon went out, and dressed battle array before them in the entering of the gate. And Zoba, and Rehob of Syria, and Ishtob, and Maacah, were asides half in the field.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore Joab saw, that the battle was made ready against him, both even against him and behind his back; and he chose to himself of all the chosen men of Israel, and ordained battle array against Syrians.

<sup>10</sup> Forsooth he betook to Abishai, his brother, the tother part of the people, which dressed battle array against the sons of Ammon.

<sup>11</sup> And Joab said, If men of Syria have the mastery against me, thou shalt be to me into help; and if the sons of Ammon have the mastery against thee, I shall help thee;

<sup>12</sup> be thou a strong man, and fight we for our people, and for the city of our God; for the Lord shall do that, that is good in his sight.

<sup>14</sup> And the sons of Ammon saw, that [the] men of Syria had fled; and they fled also from the face of Abishai, and entered into the city; and Joab turned again from the sons of Ammon, and came into Jerusalem.

<sup>16</sup> And Hadadezer* sent, and led out [the] men of Syria that were beyond the flood, and he brought forth the host of them; and Shobach, [the] master of the chivalry of Hadadezer, was the prince of them.

* CHAPTER 10:16 Also known as Hadarezer.

<sup>17</sup> And when this was told to David, he drew together all Israel, and he passed over Jordan, and came into Helam. And [the] men of Syria dressed battle array against David, and fought against him.

<sup>18</sup> And Syrians fled from the face of Israel; and David killed of the Syrians the men in seven hundred chariots, and forty thousand of horsemen; and he smote Shobach, the prince of the chivalry, the which was dead anon.

<sup>19</sup> And all the kings, that were in help of Hadadezer, saw that they were overcome of Israel, and they made peace with Israel, and served them; and the Syrians dreaded to give help to the sons of Ammon.

CHAPTER 11

<sup>1</sup> And it was done, when the year turned again, in that time in which kings be wont to go forth to battles, David sent forth Joab, and with him his servants, and all Israel; and they destroyed the sons of Ammon, and besieged Rabbah; and David dwelled in Jerusalem.

<sup>2</sup> While these things were done, it befell, that David rose in a day from his bed after midday, and walked in the solar of the king's house; and he saw a woman washing herself even against him upon her solar; and the woman was full fair.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore the king sent, and inquired, what woman it was; and it was told to him that she was Bathsheba, the daughter of Eliam, and she was the wife of Uriah the Hittite.

<sup>4</sup> Then by messengers sent, David took her; and when she entered to him, he slept with her, and anon she was hallowed from her uncleanness*. And she turned again into her house,

<sup>6</sup> And David sent to Joab, and said, Send thou Uriah the Hittite to me; and Joab sent Uriah to David.

<sup>7</sup> And Uriah came to David; and David asked, how rightfully Joab did and the people, and how the battle was administered, or served.

<sup>8</sup> And David said to Uriah, Go into thine house, and wash thy feet. [And] Uriah went out from the house of the king, and the king's meat pursued [or followed] him.

<sup>10</sup> And it was told to David of men, saying, Uriah went not to his house. And David said to Uriah, Whether thou camest not from the way? why wentest thou not down into thine house?

<sup>11</sup> And Uriah said to David, The ark of God, [and] Israel, and Judah dwell in tents, and my lord Joab, and the servants of my lord dwell upon the face of the earth, and shall I go into mine house, to eat and drink, and sleep with my wife? By thine health, and by the health of thy soul, I shall not do this thing.

<sup>12</sup> Therefore David said to Uriah, Dwell thou here also today, and tomorrow I shall deliver thee. Uriah dwelled in Jerusalem in that day, and the tother.

<sup>13</sup> And David called him, that he should eat and drink before him, and David made drunken Uriah; and he went out in the eventide, and slept in his bed with the servants of his lord; and went not down into his house.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore when the morrowtide was made, David wrote [an] epistle to Joab, and sent by the hand of Uriah,

* CHAPTER 11:4 That is, from flux of unclean blood that should come till to the child bearing, for she conceived in that lying-by.

<sup>15</sup> and wrote in the epistle, Put ye Uriah even against the battle, where the battle is strongest, that is, where the adversaries be strongest, and forsake ye him, that he be smitten and perish.

<sup>16</sup> Therefore when Joab besieged the city, he setted [or put] Uriah in the place where he knew that strongest men were.

<sup>17</sup> And [the] men went out of the city, and fought against Joab, and they killed of the people of the servants of David, and also Uriah the Hittite was dead there.

<sup>18</sup> Therefore Joab sent, and told all the words of the battle;

<sup>19</sup> and he commanded to the mes-senger, and said, When thou hast fulfilled all the words of the battle to the king,

<sup>22</sup> Therefore the messenger went, [and came], and told to David all things which Joab had commanded to him.

<sup>23</sup> And the messenger said to David, [The] Men had the mastery against us, and they went out to us into the field; and with great fierceness we pursued them unto the gate of the city.

<sup>25</sup> And David said to the messenger, Thou shalt say these things to Joab, This thing break not thee; for the hap of battle is diverse, and sword wasteth now this man, [and] now that man; comfort thy fighters against the city, that thou destroy it, and stir or excite thou them.

<sup>27</sup> And when the mourning was passed, David sent, and brought her into his house; and she was made wife to him, and she childed a son to him. And this word or thing that David had done displeased before the Lord.

CHAPTER 12

<sup>1</sup> Therefore the Lord sent Nathan to David; and when he had come to David, he said to him, Answer thou a doom to me; two men were in one city; one man was rich, and the tother was poor.

<sup>3</sup> and the poor man had utterly nothing, except one little sheep, which he had bought, and nourished, and which had waxed at or with him, and with his sons, and ate together of his bread, and drank of his cup, and slept in his bosom; and it was as a daughter to him.

<sup>4</sup> But when a pilgrim came to this rich man, he spared to take of his own sheep and oxen, that he should make a feast to that pilgrim, that came to him; and he took the sheep of the poor man, and prepared meats to the man that came to him.

<sup>5</sup> Certainly David was full wroth with indignation against that man, and he said to Nathan, The Lord liveth, for the man that did this thing is the son of death, that is, is worthy of death, for the hideousness of the deed;

<sup>7</sup> And Nathan said to David, Thou art that man, that hast done this thing. The Lord God of Israel saith these things, I anointed thee into king on Israel, and I delivered thee from the hand of Saul, <sup>8</sup> and I gave to thee the house of thy lord, and the wives of thy lord in thy bosom, and I gave to thee the house of Israel, and of Judah; and if these things be little, I shall add to thee much greater things.

<sup>9</sup> Why therefore hast thou despised the word of the Lord, that thou didest evils in my sight? Thou hast killed by sword Uriah the Hittite, and thou hast taken his wife into wife to thee, and thou hast slain him with the sword of the sons of Ammon.

<sup>10</sup> Wherefore a sword shall not go away from thine house till into with-out end; for thou hast despised me, and hast taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite, that she should be thy wife.

<sup>11</sup> Therefore the Lord saith these things, Lo! I shall raise upon thee the evil of thine house, and I shall take thy wives in thine eyes or thy sight, and I shall give them to thy neigh-bour, and he shall sleep with thy wives in the eyes of this sun.

<sup>13</sup> And David said to Nathan, I have sinned to the Lord. And Nathan said to David, Also the Lord hath turned away thy sin; thou shalt not die.

<sup>14</sup> Nevertheless for thou hast made [the] enemies to blaspheme the name of the Lord, for this word the child that is born to thee shall die by death.

<sup>17</sup> And the elder men of his house came, and constrained him, that he should rise up from the earth; and he would not, neither he ate meat with them.

<sup>18</sup> And it befelled in the seventh day, that the young child died; and the servants of David dreaded to tell to him, that the little child was dead; for they said, Lo! while the little child lived yet, we spake to him, and he heard not our voice; how much more, if we say the child is dead, he shall torment himself?

<sup>19</sup> Therefore when David had heard his servants speaking privily, either muttering, he understood that the young child was dead; and he said to his servants, Whether the child is dead? Which answered to him, He is dead.

<sup>20</sup> Therefore David rose up from the earth, and was washed, and anointed; and when he had changed his clothes, he entered into the house of the Lord, and worshipped, and came into his house; and he asked, that they should set bread to him, and he ate.

<sup>21</sup> And his servants said to him, What is the word that thou hast done? Thou hast fasted, and wept for the young child, while he lived yet; but when the child was dead, thou risedest or hast risen up, and atest bread?

<sup>22</sup> And David said, I fasted and wept for the young child, when he lived yet; for I said, Who knoweth, if per-adventure the Lord give him to me, and the young child live?

<sup>23</sup> But now for he is dead, why fast I? whether I shall be able to again-call him more? I shall go more to him, but he shall not turn again to me.

<sup>28</sup> Now therefore gather thou the tother part of the people, and besiege thou the city, and take thou it, lest when the city is wasted of me, the victory be areckoned to my name.

<sup>29</sup> Therefore David gathered together all the people, and he went forth against Rabbah; and when he had fought against that city, he took it.

<sup>30</sup> And he took the diadem of the king of them* from his head, by weight [of] a talent of gold, and having precious pearls; and it was put on the head of David; but also David bare away full much prey of the city.

<sup>31</sup> And he led forth the people thereof, and sawed them, and did about them iron instruments of torment, and parted with knives, and led over by the likeness of tilestones; so he did to all the cities of the sons of Ammon. And David turned again, and all his host, into Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 13

<sup>2</sup> And Amnon perished greatly for her, so that he was sick for her love. For since she was a virgin, it seemed hard to him, that he should do any-thing dishonestly with her.

<sup>3</sup> But there was a friend to Amnon, Jonadab by name, the son of Shimeah, the brother of David; and Jonadab was a full prudent [or a full sly] man.

<sup>4</sup> Which said to Amnon, Son of the king, why art thou made feeble so by leanness, by all days? why showest thou not to me? And Amnon said to him, I love Tamar, the sister of my brother Absalom.

<sup>5</sup> And Jonadab answered to him, Lie thou on thy bed, and feign thou sickness; and when thy father cometh, that he visit thee, say thou to him, I pray, come Tamar, my sister, that she give meat to me, and make a stew, that I eat it of her hand.

<sup>6</sup> Therefore Amnon lay down, and feigned to be sick. And when the king had come to visit him, Amnon said to the king, I beseech, come Tamar, my sister, that she make two suppings before my eyes, and that I take of her hand the meat made ready.

<sup>7</sup> Therefore David sent to the house of Tamar, and said, Come thou into the house of Amnon, thy brother, and make thou a stew to him.

<sup>8</sup> And Tamar came into the house of Amnon, her brother. And he lay down; and she took meal, and mixed together, and made moist before his eyes, and seethed [the] suppings;

<sup>9</sup> and she took that, that she had sodden, and poured it out, and set it before him, and he would not eat. And Amnon said, Put ye out all men from me. And when they had put out all men,

<sup>10</sup> Amnon said to Tamar, Bear the meat into the bed-closet, that I eat of thine hand. Therefore Tamar took the suppings which she had made, and brought in to Amnon, her brother, in the bed-closet.

<sup>11</sup> And when she had proffered the meat to him, he took her, and said, Come thou, my sister, lie thou with me.

<sup>12</sup> And she answered to him, My brother, do not thou, do not thou oppress me, for this is not leaveful in Israel; do not thou do this folly.

<sup>13</sup> For I shall not be able to bear my shame, and thou shalt be as one of the unwise men in Israel; but rather speak thou to the king, and he shall not deny me to thee.

* CHAPTER 12:30 That is, 'the crown of the idol of them', which is called Malcham or Milcom, that is interpreted 'the king of them'.

<sup>15</sup> And then, with full great hatred Amnon hated her, so that the hatred was greater, by which he hated her, than the love by which he loved her before. And Amnon said to her, Rise thou, and go.

<sup>16</sup> And she answered to him, This evil is more which thou doest now against me, and puttest me out, than that, that thou didest before. And he would not hear her;

<sup>17</sup> but when the child was called, that ministered to him, he said, Put thou out this woman from me, and close thou the door after her.

<sup>18</sup> And she was clothed with a coat down to the heel; for the king's daughters who were virgins used such clothes. Then the servant of Amnon put her out, and closed the door after her.

<sup>20</sup> And Absalom, her brother, said to her, Whether Amnon, thy brother, hath lain with thee? But now, sister, be still; he is thy brother, and torment thou not thine heart for this thing. Therefore Tamar dwelled mourning in the house of Absalom, her brother.

<sup>21</sup> Forsooth when king David had heard these words, he was full sorry, and he would not make sore the spirit of Amnon, his son; for he loved Amnon, for he was his first begotten son.

<sup>23</sup> And it was done after the time of two years, that the sheep of Absalom were shorn in Baalhazor, which is beside Ephraim. And Absalom called all the sons of the king.

<sup>24</sup> And he came to the king, and said to him, Lo! the sheep of thy servant be shorn; I pray, come the king with his servants to his servant.

<sup>25</sup> And the king said to Absalom, Do not thou, my son, do not thou pray, that all we come, and charge thee. And when he constrained David, and he would not go, he blessed Absalom.

<sup>26</sup> And Absalom said to David, If thou wilt not come, I beseech thee, come namely Amnon, my brother, with us. And the king said to him, It is no need, that he go with thee.

<sup>28</sup> And Absalom had made a feast as the feast of a king. And Absalom [had] commanded to his children, and said, Espy ye, when Amnon is drunken of wine, and when I say to you, Smite ye, and slayeth him. Do not ye dread, for I am that command to you; be ye strengthened, and be ye strong men.

<sup>29</sup> Therefore the children of Absalom did against Amnon, as Absalom had commanded to them; and all the sons of the king rose up, and ascended [or went] each upon his mule, and fled.

<sup>30</sup> And when they went yet in the way, the fame came thereof to the king, and it was said, Absalom hath slain all the sons of the king, and namely not one is left of them.

<sup>32</sup> But Jonadab, the son of Shimeah, brother of David, answered and said, My lord the king, guess thou not, that all the young men, and sons of the king, be slain; Amnon alone is dead, for he was set in hatred to Absalom, from the day in which he oppressed Tamar, his sister.

<sup>35</sup> And Jonadab said to the king, Lo! the sons of the king come; after the word of thy servant, so it is done.

<sup>36</sup> And when he had ceased to speak, also the sons of the king appeared; and they entered, and raised up their voice, and wept; but also the king and all his servants wept with full great weeping.

<sup>38</sup> Forsooth Absalom, when he had fled, and had come into Geshur, was there three years.

CHAPTER 14

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Joab, the son of Zeruiah, understood, that the heart of the king was turned to Absalom;

<sup>2</sup> and he sent to Tekoah, and took from thence a wise woman, and he said to her, Feign thee to mourn, and be thou clothed with a cloth of dole, and be thou not anointed with oil, that thou be as a woman by mourning now in full much time a dead man.

<sup>3</sup> And thou shalt enter to the king, and thou shalt speak to him such manner words. And Joab put the words in her mouth.

<sup>4</sup> Therefore when the woman of Tekoah had entered to the king, she felled before him on the earth, and worshipped, and said, O! king, keep thou me.

<sup>5</sup> And the king said to her, What hast thou of cause? And she answered, Alas! I am a woman widow, for mine husband is dead;

<sup>6</sup> and twain [or two] sons were of thine handmaid, which debated against themselves in the field, and none was that might forbid them, and the one smote the tother, and killed him.

<sup>7</sup> And lo! all the kindred riseth against thine handmaid, and saith, Give thou him to us that killed his brother, that we slay him, for the life of his brother whom he killed, and that we do away the heir; and they seek to quench my spark that is left, that the name dwell not to mine husband, and that remnants be not to him on earth.

<sup>8</sup> And the king said to the woman, Go into thine house, and I shall command for thee.

<sup>9</sup> And the woman of Tekoah said to the king, My lord the king, this wicked-ness be on me, and on the house of my father; forsooth the king and his throne be innocent or guiltless.

<sup>10</sup> And the king said, Bring thou him to me, that against-saith thee, and he shall no more add to, that he touch thee.

<sup>11</sup> And she said, The king have mind on his Lord God, and the next kins-men of blood to take vengeance be not multiplied, and they shall not slay my son. And the king said, The Lord liveth, for none of the hairs of thy son shall fall upon the earth.

<sup>12</sup> Therefore the woman said, Thine handmaid speak a word to my lord the king. And the king said, Speak thou.

<sup>13</sup> And the woman said, Why hast thou thought such a thing against the people of God? and the king spake this word, that he do sin, and bring not again his son who is cast out?

<sup>14</sup> All we die, and as waters that shall not turn again, we slide into the earth; and God will not that a soul perish, but he withdraweth, and thinketh, lest he perish utterly, which is cast away.

<sup>15</sup> Now therefore come thou, that I speak to my lord the king this word, while the people is present; and thine handmaid said, I shall speak to the king, if in any manner the king do the word of his handmaid.

<sup>16</sup> And the king heard the words, that he should deliver his handmaid from the hands of all men, that would do away me, and my son together, from the heritage of the Lord.

<sup>17</sup> Therefore thine handmaid say, that the word of my lord the king be made as sacrifice, that is, that the sentence given of him be pleasant to God, as sacrifice pleaseth God; for as an angel of the Lord, so is my lord the king, that he be not moved by blessing neither by cursing. Wherefore and thy Lord God is with thee.

<sup>18</sup> And the king answered, and said to the woman, Hide thou not from me the word which I ask thee. And the woman said to him, Speak thou, my lord the king.

<sup>19</sup> And the king said, Whether the hand of Joab is with thee in all these things? The woman answered, and said, By the health of thy soul, my lord the king, neither to the left side neither to the right side is anything of all these things, which my lord the king hath spoken. For thy servant Joab himself commanded to me, and he putted [or put] all these words into the mouth of thine handmaid,

<sup>20</sup> that I should turn the figure of this word; for thy servant Joab commanded this thing. Forsooth thou, my lord the king, art wise, as an angel of God that hath wisdom, that thou understand all things on earth.

<sup>21</sup> And the king said to Joab, Lo! I am pleased, and I have done thy word; therefore go thou, and again-call thou the child Absalom.

<sup>22</sup> And Joab felled upon his face to the earth, and he worshipped, and blessed the king; and Joab said, Thy servant hath understood today, that I have found grace in thine eyes, my lord king, for thou hast done the word of thy servant.

<sup>24</sup> And the king said, Turn he again into his house, and see not he my face. Therefore Absalom turned again into his house, and saw not the face of the king.

<sup>25</sup> Soothly no man in all Israel was so fair as Absalom, and full comely; from the step of the foot unto the top, there was no wem in him;

<sup>26</sup> and inasmuch as he clipped more his hairs, by so much the more they waxed; but he was clipped once in the year, for his hair grieved him. And when he clipped the hairs, he weighed the hairs of his head by two hundred shekels by common weight.

<sup>29</sup> Therefore he sent to Joab, that he should send him to the king; and Joab would not come to him. And when he had sent the second time, and Joab would not come,

<sup>31</sup> And Joab rose up, and came to Absalom into his house, and said, Why have thy servants burnt [up] my corn with fire?

<sup>32</sup> And Absalom answered to Joab, I sent to thee, and besought that thou shouldst come to me, and that I should send thee to the king, that thou shouldst say to him,

Why came I from Geshur? It was better to me to have been there; therefore I beseech, that I see the face of the king, that if he is mindful of my wickedness, slay he me.

<sup>33</sup> Joab entered to the king, and told to him. And Absalom was called, and he entered to the king, and he worshipped on the face of [the] earth before him, and the king kissed Absalom.

CHAPTER 15

<sup>1</sup> Therefore after these things, Absalom made a chariot to him, and had knights and fifty men, that should go before him.

<sup>2</sup> And Absalom rose early, and stood beside the entering of the gate in the way; and Absalom called to him each man, that had a cause [or a need] that he should come to the doom of the king, and Absalom said, Of what city art thou? Which answered, and said, Of one lineage of Israel I am, thy servant.

<sup>3</sup> And Absalom answered to him, Thy words seem to me good and just, but none is ordained of the king to hear thee.

<sup>4</sup> And Absalom said, Who shall ordain me judge on the land, that all men that have a cause [or need] come to me, and I deem justly [or right-wisely]?

<sup>6</sup> and Absalom did this to all Israel, that came to doom to be heard of the king; and Absalom stole the hearts of [the] men of Israel.

<sup>7</sup> But after four years, Absalom said to king David, I shall go, and shall yield my vows, which I vowed to the Lord in Hebron;

<sup>8</sup> for thy servant vowing vowed, when he was in Geshur of Syria, and said, If the Lord bringeth again me [or me again] into Jerusalem, I shall make sacrifice to the Lord.

<sup>9</sup> And the king said to him, Go thou in peace. And Absalom rose up, and went into Hebron.

<sup>10</sup> Forsooth Absalom sent spyers into all the lineage[s] of Israel, and said, Anon as ye hear the sound of [the] clarion, say ye, Absalom shall reign in Hebron.

<sup>11</sup> And two hundred men called out of Jerusalem went forth with Absalom, and went with simple heart, and utterly they knew not the cause.

<sup>12</sup> Also Absalom called for Ahithophel of Giloh, the counsellor of David, from his city Giloh. And when he offered sacrifices, a strong swearing together was made, and the people running together was increased with Absalom.

<sup>14</sup> And David said to his servants that were with him in Jerusalem, Rise ye up, and flee we; for none escaping shall be to us from the face of Absalom; therefore haste ye to go out, lest he come, and occupy us, and fulfill upon us his falling, and smite the city with sharpness of [the] sword.

<sup>15</sup> And the servants of the king said to him, We thy servants shall perform gladly all things, whatever our lord the king shall command.

<sup>18</sup> And all his servants went beside him, and the legions of Cherethites and of Pelethites, and all the strong fighting men of Gath, six hundred men, that pursued [or followed] him from Gath, went on foot before the king.

<sup>19</sup> And the king said to Ittai of Gath, Why comest thou with us? Turn thou again, and dwell with the new king, for thou art a pilgrim, and wentest out from thy place.

<sup>20</sup> Thou camest yesterday, and today thou art compelled to go out with us. Soothly I shall go, whither I shall go; turn again, and lead again thy brethren with thee, and the Lord do mercy and truth with thee, for thou hast showed to me grace and faith.

<sup>21</sup> And Ittai answered to the king, and said, The Lord liveth, and my lord the king liveth, for in whatever place thou shalt be, my lord the king, either in death either in life, there thy servant shall be.

<sup>22</sup> And David said to Ittai, Come thou, and pass forth. And Ittai of Gath passed forth, and the king, and all men that were with him, and the tother multitude.

<sup>23</sup> And all men wept with great voice, and all the people passed forth; and the king went over the strand [or stream] of Kidron, and all the people went against the way of the olive trees, that beholdeth to the desert.

<sup>24</sup> Forsooth and Zadok the priest came, and all the deacons [or Levites] with him, and they bare the ark of [the] bond of peace of God, and they setted [or set] down the ark of God; and Abiathar went up, till all the people was passed forth that went out of the city.

<sup>25</sup> And the king said to Zadok, Bear again the ark of God into the city; if I shall find grace in the eyes of the Lord, he shall lead me again, and he shall show to me that ark, and his tabernacle.

<sup>26</sup> Soothly if the Lord saith, Thou pleasest not me; I am ready, do he that, that is good before himself.

<sup>27</sup> And the king said to Zadok, the priest, O! thou seer, that is, prophet, turn again into the city, with peace; and Ahimaaz, thy son, and Jonathan, the son of Abiathar, your two sons, be with you.

<sup>30</sup> Forsooth David went up upon the hill of olive trees, going up and weeping, with his head covered, and with bare feet passing forth; but also all the people that was with him, went up with their heads covered, and wept.

<sup>31</sup> And it was told to David, that Ahithophel was in the swearing together with Absalom; and David said, Lord, I beseech, make thou fond [or folly] the counsel of Ahithophel.

<sup>33</sup> And David said to him, If thou comest with me, thou shalt be to me a charge;

<sup>34</sup> soothly if thou turnest again to the city, and sayest to Absalom, I am thy servant, O king, suffer thou me to live; as I was the servant of thy father, so I shall be thy servant; thou shalt destroy the counsel of Ahithophel.

<sup>35</sup> And thou hast with thee Zadok and Abiathar, the priests; and what-ever word thou shalt hear in the house of the king, thou shalt show it to the priests, Zadok and Abiathar.

<sup>36</sup> And their two sons be with them, Ahimaaz, the son of Zadok, and Jonathan, the son of Abiathar; and ye shall send by them to me each word that ye shall hear.

CHAPTER 16

<sup>1</sup> And when David had passed a little the top of the hill, Ziba, the child of Mephibosheth, appeared into his coming, with twain [or two] asses, that were charged with two hundred loaves, and with an hundred bundles of dried grapes, and with an hundred gobbets of pressed figs, and with two vessels of wine.

<sup>2</sup> And the king said to Ziba, What will or mean these things to themselves? And Ziba answered, My lord the king, the asses be to the menials of the king, that they sit on them; and the loaves and the pressed figs be to thy children to eat; forsooth the wine is, that if any man fail in desert, he may drink.

<sup>3</sup> And the king said, Where is the son of thy lord? And Ziba answered to the king, He dwelled [still] in Jerusalem, and said, Today the Lord of the house of Israel shall restore to me the realm of my father.

<sup>4</sup> And the king said to Ziba, All things that were of Mephibosheth be thine. And Ziba said, I pray, find I grace before thee, my lord the king.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore king David came to Bahurim, and lo! a man of the family of the house of Saul, Shimei by name, [the] son of Gera, went out from thence; he went forth going out, and cursed.

<sup>8</sup> The Lord hath yielded to thee all the blood of the house of Saul, for thou hast ravished the realm from him; and the Lord hath given the realm into the hand of Absalom, thy son; and lo! thine evils oppress thee, for thou art a man of bloods.

<sup>9</sup> And Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, said to the king, Why curseth this dog, that shall die, my lord the king? I shall go, and I shall gird off his head.

<sup>10</sup> And the king said, Ye sons of Zeruiah, what is it to me and to you? Suffer ye him, that he curse; forsooth the Lord hath commanded to him, that he should curse David; and who is he that dare say, Why did he so?

<sup>11</sup> And the king said to Abishai, and to all his servants, Lo! my son, that went out of my womb, seeketh my life; how much more now this son of Benjamin? Suffer ye him, that he curse me by [the] commandment of the Lord;

<sup>14</sup> And so king David came, and all the people weary with him, and they were refreshed there.

<sup>15</sup> And Absalom, and all the people of Israel entered into Jerusalem, but also Ahithophel with him.

<sup>16</sup> And when Hushai of Archi, the friend of David, had come to Absalom, he said to him, Hail, king! hail, king!

<sup>18</sup> And Hushai answered to Absalom, Nay, for I shall be the servant of him, whom the Lord hath chosen, and all this people, and all Israel; and I shall dwell with him.

<sup>19</sup> But that I say also this, to whom shall I serve? whether not to the son of the king? as I obeyed to thy father, so I shall obey to thee.

<sup>21</sup> And Ahithophel said to Absalom, Enter thou [in] to the concubines of thy father, which he left to keep the house; that when all Israel heareth, that thou hast defouled thy father's bed, the hands of them be strengthened with thee.

<sup>23</sup> And the counsel of Ahithophel, which he gave in those days, was as if a man had counselled with God; so was all the counsel of Ahithophel, both when he was with David, and when he was with Absalom.

CHAPTER 17

<sup>3</sup> And I shall lead again all the people, as one man is wont to be turned again; for thou seekest one man, and all the people shall be in peace.

<sup>5</sup> And Absalom said, Call ye also Hushai of Archi, and hear we what also he saith.

<sup>6</sup> And when Hushai had come to Absalom, Absalom said to him, Ahithophel hath spoken such a word; owe we to do thereafter, either nay? what counsel givest thou?

<sup>8</sup> And again Hushai said, Thou knowest, that thy father, and the men that be with him, be most strong, and in bitter soul, as if a she bear is fierce in the forest, when her whelps be ravished from her; but also thy father is a man warrior, and he shall not dwell with the people.

<sup>9</sup> In hap now he is hid, either lurketh, in ditches, either in one place, in which he will hide him; and when any man falleth in the beginning, whoever shall hear it, he shall hear, and shall say, Vengeance is done in the people that pursued Absalom.

<sup>10</sup> And each full strong man, whose heart is as the heart of a lion, shall be discomforted for dread; for all the people of Israel knoweth, that thy father is strong, and that all the men be strong, that be with him.

<sup>11</sup> But this seemeth to me to be rightful [or right] counsel; all Israel be gathered to thee, from Dan till to Beersheba, unnumberable as the sand of the sea; and thou shalt be in the midst of them.

<sup>12</sup> And we shall fall upon him, in whatever place he is found, and we shall cover him, as dew is wont to fall on the earth; and we shall not leave of the men that be with him, soothly not one.

<sup>13</sup> That if he entereth into any city, all Israel shall compass that city with ropes, and we shall draw it into the strand [or stream], yea that nothing be found, soothly not a little stone thereof.

<sup>14</sup> And Absalom said, and all the men of Israel, The counsel of Hushai of Archi is better than the counsel of Ahithophel; and the profitable counsel of Ahithophel was destroyed by God's will, that the Lord should bring in evil on Absalom.

<sup>15</sup> And Hushai said to Zadok and to Abiathar, the priests, Ahithophel gave counsel to Absalom, and to the elder men of Israel in this and this manner, and I gave such and such counsel.

<sup>16</sup> Now therefore send ye soon, and tell ye to David, and say ye, Dwell thou not this night in [the] field places of the desert, but pass thou [over] without delay; lest peradventure the king be swallowed up, and all the people that is with him.

<sup>17</sup> And Jonathan and Ahimaaz stood beside the well of Rogel; and an handmaid went, and told to them, and they went forth to tell the message to king David; for they might not be seen, neither enter into the city.

<sup>18</sup> And a child saw them, and he showed it to Absalom; and they entered with swift going into the house of a man in Bahurim, that had a pit or well in his place, and they went down into that pit.

<sup>19</sup> And a woman took, and spread abroad a covering over the mouth of the pit, as if drying barley with the peel taken away, and so the thing was hid.

<sup>20</sup> And when the servants of Absalom had come into the house, they said to the woman, Where is Ahimaaz and Jonathan? And the woman answered to them, They passed the river of waters, that is, Jordan. And when they that sought them had not found them, they turned again into Jerusalem.

<sup>21</sup> And when they had gone forth, they went up from the pit; and they went, and told to king David, and said, Rise ye up, and passeth soon [over] the flood, for Ahithophel hath given such counsel against you.

<sup>22</sup> Therefore David rose up, and all the people that was with him, and they passed over Jordan, till it was clear day, before that the word was published; and soothly not one was left, that passed not over the flood.

<sup>23</sup> And Ahithophel saw, that his counsel was not done, and he saddled his ass, and rose up, and went into his house, and into his city; and when his house was disposed, he perished by hanging himself, and he was buried in the sepulchre of his father.

<sup>25</sup> And Absalom ordained Amasa for Joab upon his host; and Amasa was the son of a man that was called Ithra of Jezreel, the which entered to Abigail, the daughter of Nahash, and the sister of Zeruiah, that was the mother of Joab.

<sup>27</sup> And when David had come into the castles or Mahanaim, Shobi, the son of Nahash of Rabbah, of the sons of Ammon, and Machir, the son of Ammiel, of Lodebar, and Barzillai, of Gilead, of Rogelim,

<sup>28</sup> brought to him beddings, and tapets, and earthen vessels, and wheat, and barley, and meal, and flour, and beans, and lentils or vetches, and fried chickpeas,

<sup>29</sup> and honey, and butter, and sheep, and fat calves. And they gave those to David, and to the people that were with him, to eat; for they supposed the people to be made faint for hunger and thirst in desert.

CHAPTER 18

<sup>2</sup> And he gave the third part of the people under the hand of Joab; and the third part under the hand of Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, the brother of Joab; and the third part under the hand of Ittai, that was of Gath. And the king said to the people, Also I shall go out with you.

<sup>3</sup> And the people answered, Thou shalt not go out; for whether we flee, it shall not pertain to them by great work of us; whether half the part fall down of us, they shall not reckon enough, for thou art reckoned for ten thousand; therefore it is better, that thou be to us in the city in strong succour.

<sup>4</sup> And the king said to them, I shall do that, that seemeth rightful [or right] to you. Therefore the king stood beside the gate, and the people went out by their companies, by hundreds, and by thousands.

<sup>5</sup> And the king commanded to Joab, and to Abishai, and to Ittai, and said, Keep ye to me the child Absalom. And all the people heard the king commanding to all the princes for Absalom.

<sup>6</sup> Therefore the people went out into the field against Israel; and the battle was made in the forest of Ephraim.

<sup>7</sup> And the people of Israel was slain there of the host of David, and a great slaughter of twenty thousand was made in that day.

<sup>8</sup> And the battle was scattered there upon the face of all the land, and many more were of the people which the forest wasted, than they which the sword devoured in that day.

<sup>9</sup> Soothly it befelled, that Absalom, sitting on a mule, came against the servants of David; and when the mule had entered under a thick oak, and great, the head of Absalom cleaved to the oak; and when he was hanged betwixt heaven and earth, the mule, on which he sat, passed forth.

<sup>10</sup> And some man saw this, and told it to Joab, and said, I saw Absalom hanged on an oak.

<sup>11</sup> And Joab said to the man that told to him, If thou saw him, why piercedest thou not him through to the earth, and I should have given to thee ten shekels of silver, and a girdle?

<sup>12</sup> And he said to Joab, Though thou paidest in mine hands a thousand plates of silver, I would not send [or put] mine hand into the son of the king; for while we heard, the king commanded to thee, and to Abishai, and to Ittai, and said, Keep ye to me the child Absalom.

<sup>14</sup> And Joab said, Not as thou wilt, but I shall assail him before thee. Therefore Joab took three spears in his hand, and fixed those [or them] in the heart of Absalom. And when he sprawled, yet cleaving in the oak,

<sup>16</sup> And Joab trumped with a clarion, and held with him the people, lest it pursued Israel fleeing, and he would spare the multitude.

<sup>17</sup> And they took Absalom, and casted forth him into a great ditch in the forest, and bare together a full great heap of stones on him; and all Israel fled into their tabernacles.

<sup>18</sup> Forsooth Absalom, while he lived yet, had raised to him a memorial, which is in the valley of the king; for he said, I have no son, and this shall be the mind of my name; and he called the memorial by his name, and it is called The Hand, that is, the Work, of Absalom, till to this day.

<sup>19</sup> And Ahimaaz, the son of Zadok, said, I shall run, and I shall tell to the king, that the Lord hath made doom to him of the hand of his enemies.

<sup>20</sup> To whom Joab said, Thou shalt not be a messenger in this day, but thou shalt tell in another day; I will or desire not that thou tell this today, for the son of the king is dead.

<sup>22</sup> And again Ahimaaz, the son of Zadok, said to Joab, What hindereth, if also I run after Cushy? And Joab said to him, What wilt thou run, my son? Come thou hither, thou shalt not be a bearer of good message.

<sup>23</sup> The which answered, But what if I shall run? And Joab said to him, Run thou. Therefore Ahimaaz ran by the way of shortness, and speed, and passed Cushi.

<sup>24</sup> And David sat betwixt two gates; soothly the espyer, that was in the highness of the gate on the wall, raised up his eyes, and he saw a man alone running;

<sup>25</sup> and the espyer cried, and showed to the king. And the king said to him, If he is alone, good message is in his mouth. But while he hasted, and nighed near,

<sup>26</sup> the espyer saw another man run-ning; and the espyer cried on high, and said, Another man running alone appeareth to me. And the king said to him, And this man is a good mes-senger.

<sup>27</sup> Soothly the espyer said, I behold the running of the former, as the running of Ahimaaz, the son of Zadok. And the king said, He is a good man, and he cometh bringing a good message.

<sup>28</sup> And Ahimaaz cried, and said to the king, Hail king! And he worshipped the king lowly before him to the earth, and said, Blessed be thy Lord God, that hath enclosed altogether the men, that raised their hands against my lord the king.

<sup>29</sup> And the king said, Whether peace is to the child Absalom? And Ahimaaz said, I saw, that is, I heard, a great noise, when Joab, thy servant, thou king, sent me, thy servant; I know none other thing.

<sup>30</sup> To whom the king said, Pass thou, and stand here. And when he had passed, and stood,

<sup>31</sup> Cushi appeared; and he came and said, My lord the king, I bring good message; for the Lord hath deemed today for thee of the hand of all men that rised against thee.

<sup>32</sup> And the king said to Cushi, Whether peace is to the child Absalom? To whom Cushi answered, and said, The enemies of my lord the king, and all men that rise against him into evil, be made as the child.

<sup>33</sup> Therefore the king was sorry, and went up into the solar of the gate, and he wept, and spake thus going, My son, Absalom! Absalom, my son! who giveth to me, that I die for thee? Absalom, my son! my son, Absalom!

CHAPTER 19

<sup>2</sup> and the victory in that day was turned into mourning to all the people; for the people heard, that it was said in that day, The king maketh sorrow on his son.

<sup>3</sup> And the people eschewed to enter into the city in that day, as the people turned and fleeing from [the] battle is wont to bow away.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore Joab entered to the king into the house, and said, Thou hast shamed today the cheers of all thy servants, that have made safe thy life, and the life of thy sons and of thy daughters, and the life of thy wives, and the life of thy secondary wives.

<sup>6</sup> Thou lovest them that hate thee, and thou hatest them that love thee; and thou hast showed today that thou reckest not of thy dukes and of thy servants; and verily I have known now, that if Absalom lived, and all we had been dead, then it should please thee.

<sup>7</sup> Now therefore rise up, and go thou forth, and speak thou, and make satisfaction to thy servants; for I swear to thee by the Lord, that if thou shalt not go forth, soothly not one man shall dwell with thee in this night; and this shall be worse to thee, than all the evils that came [up] on thee from thy young waxing age till into this present time.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore the king rose up, and sat in the gate; and it was told to all the people, that the king sat in the gate, and all the multitude came before the king. Forsooth Israel fled into their tabernacles.

<sup>9</sup> And all the people strived in all the lineages of Israel, and said, The king delivered us from the hand of all our enemies, and he saved us from the hand of Philistines; and now he hath fled from the land for Absalom.

<sup>10</sup> Certainly Absalom, whom we anointed upon us, is dead in battle; how long be ye still, and bring not again the king? And the counsel of all Israel came to the king.

<sup>11</sup> And king David sent to Zadok and to Abiathar, the priests, and said, Speak ye to the greater men in birth of Judah, and say ye, Why came ye the last to bring again the king into his house? Soothly the word of all Israel came to the king, that they would bring him again into his house. For the king said, Ye shall say these things to the people,

<sup>13</sup> And say ye to Amasa, Whether thou art not my bone and my flesh? God do these things to me, and add these things too, if thou shalt not be master of chivalry, before me in all time after Joab.

<sup>14</sup> And David bowed to him the heart of all [the] men of Judah as of one man; and they sent to the king, and said, Turn thou again, and all thy servants.

<sup>15</sup> And the king turned again, and came till to Jordan; and all Judah came till into Gilgal to meet the king, and to lead him over the Jordan.

<sup>16</sup> But Shimei, the son of Gera, the son of Benjamin, of Bahurim, hasted, and came down with the men of Judah into the meeting of king David,

<sup>17</sup> with a thousand men of Benjamin; and Ziba, the child of the house of Saul, and fifteen sons of him, and twenty servants were with him; and they brake into the Jordan, before the king,

<sup>18</sup> and they passed over the fords, that they should lead over the house of the king, and do by the behest of the king. Soothly Shimei, the son of Gera, kneeled before the king, when he had passed now Jordan,

<sup>19</sup> and said to the king, My lord the king, areckon thou not wickedness to me, neither have thou mind of the wrongs of thy servant in the day, in which thou, my lord the king, wentest out of Jerusalem, neither set thou, king, those wrongs in thine heart;

<sup>20</sup> for I thy servant acknowledge my sin; and therefore today I came the first of all the house of Joseph, and I came down into the meeting of my lord the king.

<sup>21</sup> And Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, answered and said, Whether Shimei, that cursed the christ of the Lord, shall not be slain for these words?

<sup>22</sup> And David said, What is it to me and to you, ye sons of Zeruiah? Why be ye made to me today into Satan, that is, adversary? Therefore whether a man shall be slain today in Israel? Whether I know not me made king today on Israel?

<sup>24</sup> Also Mephibosheth, the son of Saul, came down with unwashed feet, and with his beard unclipped, into the coming of the king. And Mephibosheth had not washed his clothes, from the day in which the king went out of Jerusalem till to the day of his coming again in peace.

<sup>25</sup> And when at Jerusalem he had come to the king, the king said to him, Mephibosheth, why camest thou not with me?

<sup>26</sup> And he answered and said, My lord the king, my servant despised me; and I thy servant said to him, that he should saddle the ass to me, and I should ascend, and I should go with the king; for I thy servant am crooked.

<sup>27</sup> Moreover and he accused me, thy servant, to thee, my lord the king; but thou, my lord the king, art as the angel of God; do thou that, that is pleasant [or pleasing] to thee.

<sup>28</sup> For the house of my father was no but guilty to [the] death to my lord the king; soothly thou hast set [or puttest] me thy servant among the guests of thy board; what therefore have I of just complaint, either what may I more cry to the king?

<sup>29</sup> And the king said to him, What speakest thou more? that that I have spoken is steadfast; thou and Ziba part the possessions.

<sup>31</sup> Also Barzillai of Gilead, a full eld [or old] man, came down from Rogelim, and led the king over Jordan, ready also to pursue [or follow] him over the flood.

<sup>32</sup> And Barzillai of Gilead was full eld [or old], that is, of fourscore years; and he gave meats to the king, when the king dwelled in castles; for Barzillai was a full rich man.

<sup>33</sup> And so the king said to Barzillai, Come thou with me, that thou rest securely with me in Jerusalem.

<sup>34</sup> And Barzillai said to the king, How many be the days of [the] years of my life, that I go up with the king into Jerusalem?

<sup>35</sup> I am of fourscore years today; whether my wits be quick to deem sweet thing either bitter, either meat and drink may delight thy servant, either may I hear more the voice of singers either of singsters? Why is thy servant to be a charge to my lord the king?

<sup>37</sup> but I beseech thee, that I thy servant turn again, and die in my city, and be buried beside the sepulchre of my father and of my mother; forsooth my son Chimham is thy servant, my lord the king, go he with thee, and do thou to him that that seemeth good to thee.

<sup>38</sup> Therefore the king said to Bar-zillai, Chimham go forth with me; and I shall do to him whatever thing pleaseth thee, and thou shalt get all thing, that thou askest of me.

<sup>39</sup> And when all the people and the king had passed [over] Jordan, the king abode; and the king kissed Barzillai, and blessed him; and he turned again into his place.

<sup>40</sup> Then the king passed forth into Gilgal, and Chimham with him. And all the people of Judah had led the king over, and the half part only of the people of Israel was present.

<sup>41</sup> Therefore all the men of Israel came together to the king, and said to him, Why have our brethren, the men of Judah, stolen thee, and have led the king and his house over Jordan, and all the men of David with him?

<sup>42</sup> And each man of Judah answered to the men of Israel, For the king is near of kin to me; why art thou wroth upon this thing? Whether we have eaten anything of the king's, either gifts be given to us?

<sup>43</sup> And a man of Israel answered to the men of Judah, and said, I am greater by ten parts to the king, and David pertaineth more to me than to thee; why hast thou done wrong to me, and it was not told to me the former, that I should bring again my king? Forsooth the men of Judah answered harder to the men of Israel.

CHAPTER 20

<sup>1</sup> Also it befelled, that a man of Belial was there, Sheba by name, the son of Bichri, a man of the generation of Benjamin; and he sounded with a trump, and said, No part is to us in David, neither heritage in the son of Jesse; thou Israel, turn again into thy tabernacles.

<sup>2</sup> And all Israel was parted from David, and followed Sheba, the son of Bichri; and the men of Judah cleaved to their king, from Jordan till to Jerusalem.

<sup>3</sup> And when the king had come into his house in Jerusalem, he took [the] ten women, his secondary wives, which he had left to keep the house, and he betook them into keeping, and gave meat to them; and he entered not [in] to them; but they were enclosed till to the day of their death, and lived in widowhood.

<sup>4</sup> And David said to Amasa, Call thou together to me all the men of Judah into the third day, and be thou present.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore Amasa went forth, that he call together the people of Judah; and he dwelled over the covenanted time, which the king had set to him.

<sup>6</sup> And David said to Abishai, Now Sheba, the son of Bichri, shall torment us more than Absalom did; therefore take the servants of thy lord, and pursue him, lest in hap he find strengthened cities, and escape us.

<sup>8</sup> And when they were beside the great stone, which is in Gibeon, Amasa came, and ran to them; and Joab was clothed with a strait coat at the measure of his shape, and he was girded above with a sword hanging down unto his entrails in a sheath; and it went out, and felled down.

<sup>9</sup> And so Joab said to Amasa, Hail, my brother! And Joab held with his right hand the chin of Amasa, as kissing him.

<sup>10</sup> Forsooth Amasa took not keep of the sword, which sword Joab had, and Joab smote Amasa in the side, and shedded out his entrails into the earth, and Amasa was dead; and Joab added not the second wound. And Joab, and Abishai, his brother, pursued Sheba, the son of Bichri.

<sup>11</sup> In the meantime, when some of the children of David, of the fellows of Joab, had stood beside the dead body of Amasa, they said, Lo! he that would be the fellow of David, be for Joab.

<sup>12</sup> And Amasa was besprinkled with blood, and lay in the middle of the way. Some man saw this, that all the people abode to see Amasa, and he removed Amasa from the way into the field, and he covered Amasa with a cloth, lest men passing by should abide [still] for him.

<sup>13</sup> Therefore when he was removed from the way, each man passed forth, pursuing [or following] Joab to pursue Sheba, the son of Bichri.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth Sheba had passed by all the lineages of Israel till into Abel, and into Bethmaacah; and all the chosen men were gathered to him.

<sup>15</sup> Therefore they came, and fought against him in Abel, and in Beth-maacah, and encompassed the city with strongholds; and the city was besieged. And all the company, that was with Joab, enforced or endeav-oured to destroy the walls.

<sup>17</sup> And when he had nighed to her, she said to him, Art thou Joab? And he answered, I am. To whom she spake thus, Hear thou the words of thine handmaid. Joab answered, I hear.

<sup>18</sup> And again she said, A word was said in eld [or old] proverb, They that ask, ask in Abel; and so they profited.

<sup>19</sup> Whether I am not, that answer truth to Israel? and seekest thou to destroy a city, and to do away a mother city in Israel*? why castedest or throwest thou down the heritage of the Lord?

<sup>20</sup> And Joab answered, and said, Far be, far be this from me; I cast not down, neither I destroy.

<sup>21</sup> The thing hath not so itself; but a man of the hill of Ephraim, Sheba, the son of Bichri, by surname, raised his hand against king David; betake ye him alone to us, and we shall go away from the city. And the woman said to Joab, Lo! his head shall be sent to thee by the wall.

<sup>22</sup> Then the woman went in to all the people, and she spake to them wisely; and they threw out to Joab the head of Sheba, the son of Bichri, girded off. And Joab sounded with a trump, and they departed from the city, each man into his tabernacles; and Joab turned again to Jerusalem to the king.

CHAPTER 21

<sup>1</sup> And hunger was made in the land of Israel in the days of David, by three years continually. And David counselled the answer of the Lord, that is, asked counsel of the Lord in the answering place; and the Lord said, It is for Saul, and for his house, and for [the] blood, for he killed the men of Gibeon.

<sup>2</sup> Therefore when [the] Gibeonites were called, the king said to them; soothly Gibeonites be not of the sons of Israel, but they be the relics or remnants of Amorites; and the sons of Israel had sworn to them, that they should not slay them, and Saul would smite them for his fervent love, as for the sons of Israel and of Judah;

<sup>3</sup> therefore David said to Gibeonites, What shall I do to you, and what shall be your amends, that ye bless the heritage of the Lord?

<sup>4</sup> And Gibeonites said to him, No question is to us upon gold and silver, but against Saul, and against his house; neither we will, that a man of Israel be slain. To whom the king said, What therefore will ye, that I do to you?

<sup>5</sup> And they said to the king, We owe so to do away the man, that defouled and oppressed us wickedly, that not one soothly be left of his generation in all the coasts of Israel.

<sup>6</sup> Seven men of his sons be given to us, that we crucify them to the Lord in Gibeah of Saul, sometime the chosen man of the Lord. And the king said, I shall give them to you.

<sup>7</sup> And the king spared Mephibo-sheth, the son of Jonathan, the son of Saul, for the oath of the Lord, that was betwixt David and Jonathan, the son of Saul.

<sup>8</sup> And so the king took two sons of Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah, which she childed to Saul, Armoni, and Mephibosheth; and he took[the] five sons of Michal, the daughter of Saul, which she engendered to Adriel, the son of Barzillai, that was of Meholathites.

* CHAPTER 20:19 The woman speaketh in the person of the city, as if she said, 'This city held ever truth and faith to the king'; and therefore in Hebrew it is thus, 'I am one of peaceable and true', that is, one of the number of cities that be peaceable and true to the king.

<sup>9</sup> And he gave them into the hands of Gibeonites, and they did those seven sons upon a cross in an hill before the Lord; and these seven fell down slain together in the days of the first reaping, when the reaping of barley began.

<sup>10</sup> Forsooth Rizpah, daughter of Aiah, took an hair-shirt, and arrayed to herself a place above the stone or laid it under her upon a stone, from the beginning of harvest till water dropped on them from heaven; and she suffered not birds to tear them by day, neither beasts by night.

<sup>12</sup> And David went, and took the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan, his son, from the men of Jabesh of Gilead; which had stolen those bones from the street of Bethshan, in which Philistines had hanged them, when they had slain Saul in Gilboa.

<sup>13</sup> And David bare out from thence the bones of Saul, and the bones of Jonathan, his son; and they gathered the bones of them that were crucified,

<sup>14</sup> and they buried those [or them] with the bones of Saul and of Jonathan, his son, in the land of Benjamin, in the side of the sepulchre of Kish, the father of Saul. And they did all things, whatever the king commanded them; and the Lord did mercy to the land after these things.

<sup>15</sup> Forsooth battle of the Philistines was made again against Israel; and David went down, and his servants with him, and fought against the Philistines. Soothly when David failed, <sup>16</sup> Ishbibenob, that was of the kin of Harapha, that is, the father of the giants, and the iron of his spear weighed three hundred ounces, and he was girded with a new sword, enforced or endeavoured to smite David.

<sup>17</sup> And Abishai, the son of Zeruiah, was in help to David; and he smote and killed the Philistine. Then the men of David swore, and said, Now thou shalt not go out with us into battle, lest thou quench the lantern of Israel.

<sup>18</sup> Also the second battle was in Gob against [the] Philistines; then Sibbechai of Hushathites smote Saph, of the gen-eration of Harapha, of the kin of giants.

<sup>19</sup> Also the third battle was in Gob against [the] Philistines; in which battle a man given of God, the son of a forest, and an embroiderer, a man of Bethlehem, smote the brother of Goliath of Gath, whose spear shaft was as a beam of webs or a weaver.

<sup>20</sup> The fourth battle was in Gath; wherein was an high man, that had six fingers in his hands and six toes in his feet, that is, four and twenty digits; and he was of the kin of Harapha, that is, the father of the giants;

CHAPTER 22

<sup>2</sup> And David said, The Lord is my stone, and my strength or my strong-hold, and my saviour;

<sup>3</sup> my God, my strength, I shall hope into him; my shield, and the horn of mine health, my raiser up, and my refuge; my saviour, thou shalt deliver me from wickedness, that is, hast delivered.

<sup>7</sup> In tribulation I shall call thee, Lord, that is, I have called thee, Lord, and I shall cry to my God; and he heard from his holy temple my voice, and my cry shall come to his ears.

<sup>8</sup> The earth was moved, and trembled; the foundations of hills were smitten and shaken together, for the Lord was wroth to them.

<sup>11</sup> And he went upon cherubim, and flew; and he slid [up] on the pens or wings of the wind.

<sup>18</sup> He delivered me from my mightiest enemy, and from them that hated me; for they were stronger than I.

<sup>19</sup> They came before me in the day of my tormenting; and the Lord was made my steadfastness.

<sup>20</sup> And he led me out into largeness, and he delivered me; for I pleased him.

<sup>30</sup> For I girded, that is, made ready to battle, shall run in thee, that is, in thy strength; and in my God I shall skip over the wall.

<sup>31</sup> God, his way is without wem; the speech of the Lord is examined with fire, that is, is pure and clean as metal proved in the furnace; he is a shield of all men hoping in him.

* CHAPTER 22:27 For when wayward men be justly punished of God, they say that God doeth waywardly with them.

<sup>34</sup> and he hath made even my feet with harts', and hath set me upon mine high things;

<sup>38</sup> I shall pursue mine enemies, and I shall all-brake them; and I shall not turn again, till I waste them.

<sup>42</sup> They shall cry, that is, to idols either to men's help, and none shall be that shall save them; they shall cry to the Lord, and he shall not hear them.

<sup>43</sup> I shall do away them as the dust of [the] earth; I shall pound them, and I shall do [them] away as the clay, or the fen, of streets.

<sup>44</sup> Thou shalt save me from [the] against-sayings of my people; thou shalt keep me into the head of folks; the people, whom I know not, shall serve me.

CHAPTER 23

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth these be the last words, which David, the son of Jesse, said. The words that the man said, to whom it is ordained of Christ, of the God of Jacob, the noble psalm-maker of Israel;

<sup>3</sup> David said, God of Israel spake to me, the strong help of Israel, the just [or rightwise] Lord of men, is Lord in the dread of God.

<sup>4</sup> As the light of the morrowtide, when the sun riseth early, is bright without clouds; and as an herb cometh forth of the earth by rains.

<sup>5</sup> And mine house is not so great with God, that he should make with me everlasting covenant, steadfast and made strong in all things; for all mine health is of him, and all my will, that is, all my desire, goeth into him, and nothing is thereof, that maketh not fruit*.

<sup>7</sup> And if any man will touch those [or them], he shall be armed with iron, and with a piece of wood formed into a spear; and the thorns shall be kindled, and shall be burnt till to nought.

* CHAPTER 23:5 And this is done, when all thing that cometh forth of the will, either of advisement, is done into the glory of God.

<sup>8</sup> These be the names of the strong men of David. David sitteth in the chair, the wisest prince among the three; he is as a most tender worm of a tree, that killed eight hundred with one fierceness.

<sup>9</sup> After him was Eleazar, the son of his father's brother, Ahohite; he was among [the] three strong men, that were with David, when they said shame to the Philistines, and were gathered thither into battle. And when the men of Israel had gone up,

<sup>10</sup> he/eleazar stood in battle, when his fellows went aback, and smote the Philistines, till that his hand failed, and was stark with or fixed to the sword. And the Lord made great health or victory in that day; and the people that fled turned again, to draw away the spoils of [the] slain men.

<sup>11</sup> And after him was Shammah, the son of Agee, of Hararites. And Philistines were gathered in the station; and there was a field full of lentils, or vetches; and when the people of Israel[had] fled from the face of Philistines, <sup>12</sup> he stood in the midst of the field, and beheld it, for he defended the field; and he smote the Philistines, and the Lord made there [a] great health.

<sup>13</sup> Also and three men went down before, that were princes among the thirty, and came to David in the time of reaping into the den of Adullam. And the tents of Philistines were set in the valley of giants.

<sup>15</sup> Then David desired water of the well, and said, If any man would give to me drink of the water of the cistern, which is in Bethlehem, beside the gate.

<sup>16</sup> Therefore the three strong men brake into the tents of Philistines, and drew water of the cistern of Beth-lehem, that was beside the gate, and they brought it to David; and he would not drink, but offered it to the Lord,

<sup>17</sup> and said, The Lord be merciful to me, that I do not this; whether I shall drink the blood of these men, that went forth, and the peril of their lives? Therefore he would not drink. The Three full strong men did these things.

<sup>18</sup> Also Abishai, the brother of Joab, the son of Zeruah, was prince of [the] three; he it is that raised his spear against three hundred men, which he killed; he was named among [the] three,

<sup>19</sup> and was the nobler among the three, and he was the prince of them; but he came not to the three first men.

<sup>20</sup> And Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, the strongest man of great works, of Kabzeel, he smote [the] two lions of Moab, that is, two knights hardy as lions or two strong hardy knights; and he went down, and smote a lion in the middle of a cistern in the days of snow.

<sup>21</sup> Also he killed a man of Egypt, a man worthy of beholding, having a spear in his hand; and so when he had gone down with a rod to that man, by might he wrung out the spear from the hand of the man of Egypt, and killed him with his own spear.

<sup>22</sup> Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, did these things; and he was named among [the] three strong men, <sup>23</sup> that were among the thirty nobler men; nevertheless he came not to the first three. And David made him a counsellor of private to himself.

<sup>24</sup> Asahel, the brother of Joah, was among the thirty men; Elhanan, the son of his father's brother, of Bethlehem;

- <sup>29</sup> Heleb, the son of Baanah, and he was of Netophah; Ittai, the son of Ribai, of Gibeah, of the sons of Benjamin;
- <sup>30</sup> Benaiah, of Pirathon; Hiddai, of the strand [or stream] of Gaash;
- <sup>31</sup> Abialbon, of Arabah; Azmaveth, of Barhumites;
- <sup>32</sup> Eliahba, of Shaalbonites; the sons of Jashen, Jonathan, and Jashen;
- <sup>33</sup> Shammah, of Hararites; Ahiam, the son of Sharar, of Hararites;
- <sup>34</sup> Eliphelet, the son of Ahasbai, the son of Maachathite; Eliam, the son of Ahithophel, of Giloh;
- <sup>35</sup> Hezrai, of Carmel; Paarai, of Arbites;
- <sup>36</sup> Igal, the son of Nathan, of Zobah; Bani, of Gadites;
- <sup>37</sup> Zelek, of Ammonites; Nahari, of Beeroth, the squire of Joab, the son of Zeruah;
- <sup>38</sup> Ira, of Ithrites; Gareb, and he was of Ithrites;
- <sup>39</sup> Uriah of Hittites; all these were seven and thirty men.

CHAPTER 24

<sup>1</sup> And the strong vengeance of the Lord added to be wroth against Israel, and he stirred against them David, saying to Joab, Go thou, and number thou Israel and Judah.

<sup>2</sup> And the king said to Joab, the prince of his host, Go thou by all the lineages of Israel, from Dan till to Beersheba, and number thou the people, that I know the number thereof.

<sup>3</sup> And Joab said to the king, Thy Lord God increase to this people, how great it is now, and again multiply he it an hundredfold in the sight of my lord the king; but what will or mean my lord the king to himself in such a thing?

<sup>4</sup> But the word of the king overcame the words of Joab, and of the princes of the host; and Joab went out, and the princes of the knights, from the face of the king, that they should number the people of Israel.

<sup>5</sup> And when they had passed [over] Jordan, they came into Aroer, to the right side of the city that is in the valley of Gad; and they passed forth by Jazer

<sup>6</sup> into Gilead, and into the lower land of Hodshi, and they came into the woody places of Dan; and they went about beside Sidon,

<sup>7</sup> and passed nigh the walls of Tyre, and nigh all the land of Hivites, and of Canaanites; and they came to the south of Judah, in [to] Beersheba.

<sup>8</sup> And when all the land was com-passed, they came after nine months and twenty days into Jerusalem.

<sup>9</sup> And so Joab gave the number of [the] describing of the people to the king. And of Israel were found nine hundred thousand of strong men, that drew out sword; and of Judah five hundred thousand of fighters.

<sup>10</sup> And the heart of David smote him, that is, his conscience reproved him, after that the people was numbered; and David said to the Lord, I have sinned greatly in this deed; but, Lord, I pray, that thou turn away the wickedness of thy servant, for I have done full follily.

<sup>11</sup> Therefore David rose early; and the word of the Lord was made to Gad, the prophet and seer, and said,

<sup>12</sup> Go thou, and speak to David, The Lord saith these things, The choice of three things is given to thee; choose thou one, which thou wilt of these, that I do to thee.

<sup>13</sup> And when Gad had come to David, he told to him, and said, Either hunger shall come to thee in thy land seven years; either three months thou shalt flee thine adversaries, and they shall pursue thee; either certainly three days pestilence shall be in thy land; now therefore deliver thou, either advise or examine thou, and see, what word I shall answer to him that sent me.

<sup>14</sup> And David said to Gad, I am constrained on each side greatly; but it is better that I fall into the hands of the Lord, for his mercies be many, than into the hands of men.

<sup>15</sup> And the Lord sent pestilence into Israel from the morrowtide till to the time ordained; and seventy thousand of men were dead of the people from Dan till to Beersheba.

<sup>16</sup> And when the angel of the Lord had held forth his hand over Jerusalem, that he should destroy it, the Lord had mercy on the tormenting; and said to the angel smiting the people, It sufficeth now; withhold thine hand. And the angel of the Lord was beside the cornfloor of Araunah the Jebusite.

<sup>17</sup> And David said to the Lord, when he had seen the angel slaying the people, I am he that have sinned, and I have done wickedly; what have these [or they] done, that be sheep? I beseech, thine hand be turned against me, and against the house of my father.

<sup>18</sup> Forsooth Gad, the prophet, came to David in that day, and said to him, Go thou up, and ordain an altar to the Lord in the cornfloor of Araunah the Jebusite.

<sup>20</sup> And Araunah beheld, and perceived, that the king and his servants passed over to him; and he went out, and worshipped the king with low cheer to the earth;

<sup>21</sup> and said, What is the cause, that my lord the king cometh to his servant? To whom David said, That I buy of thee the cornfloor, and build an altar to the Lord, and the slaying cease, that is cruel in the people.

<sup>22</sup> And Araunah said to David, My lord the king take, and offer, as it pleaseth to him; thou hast oxen into burnt sacrifice, and a wain and yokes of oxen into uses of wood.

<sup>24</sup> To whom the king answered, and said, Not as thou wilt, but I shall buy it of thee for price, and I shall not offer to the Lord my God burnt sacrifices given freely. Therefore David bought the cornfloor *for six hundred shekels of gold**, and the oxen for fifty shekels of silver.

<sup>25</sup> And David builded there an altar to the Lord, and offered burnt sacrifices and peaceable sacrifices; and the Lord did mercy to the land, and the vengeance was refrained from Israel.

1ST KINGS

<sup>1</sup> And king David waxed eld, and had full many days of age; and when he was covered with clothes, he was not made hot.

<sup>2</sup> Therefore his servants said to him, Seek we to our lord the king a young waxing virgin; and stand she before the king, and nurse she him, and sleep in his bosom, and make hot our lord the king.

<sup>5</sup> And Adonijah, the son of Haggith, was raised up, and said, I shall reign. And he made to him a chariot, and knights, and fifty men, that ran before him.

<sup>6</sup> Neither David, his father, reproveth him any time, nor said, Why hast thou done this? But also he was full fair, the second child after Absalom;

<sup>8</sup> But Zadok, the priest, and Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, and Nathan, the prophet, and Shimei, and Cherethites and Pelethites, and all the strength of the host of David, were not with Adonijah.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore when rams were offered, and calves, and all fat things, beside the stone [of] Zoheleth, that was nigh the well of Rogel, Adonijah called all his brethren, the sons of the king, and all the men of Judah, servants of the king.

<sup>10</sup> Soothly he called not Nathan, the prophet, and Benaiah, and all the strong men, and Solomon, his brother.

<sup>11</sup> And so Nathan said to Bathsheba, the mother of Solomon, Whether thou hast heard, that Adonijah, the son of Haggith, hath reigned, and our lord David knoweth not this?

<sup>13</sup> Go thou, and enter to king David, and say thou to him, Whether not thou, my lord the king, hast sworn to me, thine handmaid, and saidest, that Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit in my throne? Why therefore reigneth Adonijah?

<sup>14</sup> And yet while thou shalt speak there with the king, I shall come after thee, and fulfill thy words.

<sup>15</sup> Therefore Bathsheba entered to the king in the closet or bed-place; and the king was full eld, and Abishag of Shunem ministered to him.

<sup>16</sup> And Bathsheba bowed herself, and worshipped or honoured the king; to whom the king said, What wilt thou to thee?

<sup>17</sup> And she answered, and said, My lord the king, thou hast sworn to thine handmaid by thy Lord God, Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit in my throne;

<sup>18</sup> and lo! Adonijah hath reigned now, while thou, my lord the king, knowest not;

<sup>19</sup> he hath slain oxen, and all fat things, and full many rams; and he hath called all the sons of the king, also Abiathar [the] priest, and Joab, the prince of the chivalry; but he called not Solomon, thy servant.

<sup>20</sup> Nevertheless, my lord the king, the eyes of all Israel behold into thee, that thou show to them, who oweth to sit in thy throne, my lord the king, after thee;

<sup>21</sup> and it shall be, when my lord the king hath slept with his fathers, I and my son Solomon shall be reckoned as sinners, that is, Adonijah shall put on us crimes, to deprive us from life.

<sup>23</sup> And they told to the king, and said, Nathan, the prophet, is present. And when he had entered in the sight of the king, and had worshipped him lowly to the earth,

<sup>24</sup> Nathan said, My lord the king, saidest thou, Adonijah reign after me, and sit he on my throne?

<sup>25</sup> For he came down today, and offered oxen, and fat things, and full many wethers; and he called all the sons of the king, [and the princes of the host], and also Abiathar, [the] priest; and when they ate, and drank before him, and said, King Adonijah live;

<sup>26</sup> he called not me, thy servant, and Zadok, the priest, and Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, and Solomon, thy son.

<sup>27</sup> Whether this word went out from my lord the king, and thou showedest not to me, thy servant, who should sit on the throne of my lord the king after him?

<sup>28</sup> And king David answered, and said, Call ye Bathsheba to me. And when she had entered before the king, and had stood before him,

<sup>30</sup> for as I swore to thee by the Lord God of Israel, and said, Solomon, thy son, shall reign after me, and he shall sit on my throne for me, so I shall do today.

<sup>32</sup> And king David said, Call ye Zadok, the priest, to me, and Nathan, the prophet, and Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada. And when they had entered before the king, <sup>33</sup> the king said to them, Take with you the servants of your lord, and put ye my son Solomon upon my mule, and lead ye him into Gihon.

<sup>34</sup> And [there] Zadok, the priest, and Nathan, the prophet, anoint him into king upon Israel and Judah; and ye shall sing with a trump, and ye shall say, Live king Solomon!

<sup>35</sup> Ye shall go up after him, and ye shall come to Jerusalem; and he shall sit upon my throne, and he shall reign for me; and I shall command to him, that he be duke on Israel and on Judah.

<sup>36</sup> And Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, answered to the king, and said, Amen; so speak the Lord God of my lord the king.

<sup>37</sup> As the Lord was with my lord the king, so be he with Solomon, and make he the throne of Solomon higher than the throne of my lord king David.

<sup>38</sup> Then Zadok, the priest, went down, and Nathan, the prophet, and Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, and Cherethites, and Pelethites; and they putted [or put] Solomon upon the mule of David, the king, and they brought him into Gihon.

<sup>39</sup> And Zadok, the priest, took an horn of oil out of the tabernacle, and anointed Solomon; and they sang with a clarion; and all the people said, Live king Solomon!

<sup>40</sup> And all the multitude went up after him, and the people of men singing with pipes, and being glad with great joy; and the earth sounded of the cry of them.

<sup>41</sup> And Adonijah heard, and all that were called of him to the feast; and then the feast was ended. But also Joab said, when the voice of the trump was heard, What will or mean it to itself the cry of the city making noise?

<sup>42</sup> Yet while he spake, Jonathan, the son of Abiathar, the priest, came; to whom Adonijah said, Enter thou, for thou art a strong man, and telling good things.

<sup>44</sup> and David hath sent with Solomon Zadok, the priest, and Nathan, the prophet, and Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, and Cherethites, and Peleth-ites; and they have put Solomon upon the mule of the king.

<sup>45</sup> And Zadok, the priest, and Nathan, the prophet, have anointed him king in Gihon; and they came down from thence being glad, and the city resounded; this is the voice that ye heard.

<sup>48</sup> and furthermore he spake these things, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, that hath given today a sitter in my throne, while mine eyes see.

<sup>49</sup> Therefore all that were called of Adonijah to the feast, were afeared, and rose up, and each man went into his way.

<sup>50</sup> And Adonijah dreaded Solomon, and rose up, and went into the tabernacle of the Lord, and he held the horn, or corner, of the altar.

<sup>51</sup> And they told to Solomon, and said, Lo! Adonijah dreadeth the king Solomon, and he holdeth the horn, or corner, of the altar, and said, King Solomon swear to me today, that he shall not slay his servant with sword.

<sup>52</sup> And Solomon said, If he is a good man, soothly not an hair of him shall fall into the earth; but if evil be found in him, he shall die.

CHAPTER 2

<sup>3</sup> And keep thou the keepings and the behests of thy Lord God, that thou go in his ways, and keep his ceremonies, and his behests, and his dooms, and witnessings, as it is written in the law of Moses; that thou understand all things which thou doest, and whither ever thou shalt turn thee.

<sup>4</sup> That the Lord confirm his words, which the Lord spake of me, and said, If thy sons keep my ways, and go before me in truth, in all their heart, and in all their soul, a man shall not be taken away of thee from the throne of Israel.

<sup>5</sup> Also thou knowest what things Joab, the son of Zeruah, did to me; what things he did to [the] two princes of the host of Israel, to Abner, the son of Ner, and to Amasa, the son of Jether, which he killed, and shedded the blood of battle in peace; and putted [or put] the blood of battle in his girdle, that was about his loins, and in his shoes, that was in his feet.

<sup>6</sup> Therefore thou shalt do by thy wisdom, and thou shalt not lead forth his hoariness peaceably to hells, either sepulchre.

<sup>7</sup> But also thou shalt yield grace to the sons of Barzillai of Gilead, and they shall be eating in thy board; for they met me, when I fled from the face of Absalom, thy brother.

<sup>8</sup> Also thou hast with thee Shimei, the son of Gera, the son of Benjamin, of Bahurim, the which Shimei cursed me by the worst cursing, when I went to the defensible places; but for-thy he came down to me into my meeting, when I passed over the Jordan, and I swore to him by the Lord, and said, I shall not slay thee with sword, <sup>9</sup> do not thou suffer him to be unpunished; forsooth thou art a wise man, and thou shalt know what thou shalt do to him, and thou shalt lead forth his hoar hairs with blood to hells [or hell].

<sup>11</sup> And the days, in which David reigned upon Israel, be forty years; in Hebron he reigned seven years, and in Jerusalem three and thirty years.

<sup>12</sup> Forsooth Solomon sat upon the throne of David, his father, and his realm was made steadfast greatly.

<sup>13</sup> And Adonijah, the son of Haggith, entered to Bathsheba, the mother of Solomon; and she said to him, Whether thine entering is peaceable? And he answered, It is peaceable.

<sup>14</sup> And he added, A word of me is to thee. And she said, Speak thou.

<sup>15</sup> And he said, Thou knowest that the realm was mine, and all Israel purposed to make me into king to them; but the realm is translated or transferred, and is made my brother's; for of the Lord it is ordained to him.

<sup>16</sup> Now therefore I pray of thee one asking; shame thou not my face. And she said to him, Speak thou.

<sup>17</sup> And he said, I pray, that thou say to Solomon the king; for he may not deny anything to thee; that he give me Abishag of Shunem to wife.

<sup>19</sup> Therefore Bathsheba came to king Solomon, to speak to him for Adonijah; and the king rose against the coming of her, and worshipped her, and sat on his throne; and a throne was set to the mother of the king, and she sat at his right side.

<sup>20</sup> And she said to him, I pray of thee one little asking; shame thou not my face. And the king said to her, My mother, ask thou; for it is not leaveful that I turn away thy face.

<sup>22</sup> And king Solomon answered, and said to his mother, Why askest thou Abishag of Shunem to Adonijah? Ask thou to him also the realm; certainly he is mine elder brother, and he hath Abiathar, priest, and Joab, the son of Zeruiah.

<sup>23</sup> Therefore king Solomon swore by the Lord, and said, God do to me these things, and add these things too, for Adonijah hath spoken this word against his life.

<sup>24</sup> And now the Lord liveth, that hath confirmed me, and hath set me on the throne of [David], my father, and that hath made to me an house, as he spake, for Adonijah shall be slain today.

<sup>26</sup> Also the king said to Abiathar, the priest, Go thou into Anathoth, to thy field; and soothly thou art a man of death, that is, worthy of death, for conspiring against me, and David, my father; but today I shall not slay thee, for thou barest the ark of the Lord God before David, my father, and thou sufferedest travail in all things, in which my father travailed.

<sup>27</sup> Therefore Solomon putted out Abiathar, that he should not be priest of the Lord, that the word of the Lord were [ful] filled, which he spake on the house of Eli in Shiloh.

<sup>28</sup> And a messenger came to Solo-mon, and said that Joab had bowed after Adonijah, and that he had not bowed after Solomon. Therefore Joab fled into the tabernacle of the Lord, and took the horn of the altar.

<sup>29</sup> And it was told to king Solomon, that Joab had fled into the tabernacle of the Lord, and was beside the altar; and Solomon sent Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, and said, Go thou, and slay him.

<sup>30</sup> And Benaiah came to the tabernacle of the Lord, and said to Joab, The king saith these things, Go thou out. And he said, I shall not go out, but I shall die here. Benaiah told the word to the king, and said, Joab spake these things, and answered these things to me.

<sup>31</sup> And the king said to Benaiah, Do thou as he hath spoken, and slay thou him, and bury him; and thou shalt remove the innocent blood, that was shed out of Joab, from me, and from the house of my father.

<sup>32</sup> And the Lord yield on his head his blood, for he killed two just men, and better than himself, and he killed them by sword, while David, my father, knew not, Abner the son of Ner, the prince of the chivalry of Israel, and Amasa, the son of Jether, the prince of the host of Judah.

<sup>33</sup> And the blood of them shall turn again into the head of Joab, and into the head of his seed without end; but peace be of the Lord till into without end to David, and to his seed, and to the house, and [the] throne of him.

<sup>34</sup> Therefore Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, went up, and assailed Joab, and killed him; and Joab was buried in his house in desert.

<sup>36</sup> Also the king sent, and called Shimei, and said to him, Build to thee an house in Jerusalem, and dwell thou there, and thou shalt not go out from thence hither and thither;

<sup>37</sup> for in whatever day thou goest out, and passest [over] the strand [or stream] of Kidron, know thou thee worthy to be slain; thy blood shall be on thine head.

<sup>38</sup> And Shimei said to the king, The word of the king is good; as my lord the king spake, so thy servant shall do. And so Shimei dwelled in Jerusalem many days.

<sup>39</sup> But it was done after three years, that the servants of Shimei fled to Achish, the son of Maachah, king of Gath; and it was told to Shimei, that his servants had gone into Gath.

<sup>40</sup> And Shimei rose up, and saddled his ass, and went to Achish, into Gath, to seek his servants; and he brought them again from Gath.

<sup>42</sup> And Solomon sent, and called him, and said to him, Whether I witnessed not to thee by the Lord, and before-said to thee, In whatever day thou shalt go out hither and thither, know thou that thou shalt die; and thou answeredst to me, The word is good, which I heard?

<sup>43</sup> Why therefore keptest thou not the oath of the Lord, and the commandment which I commanded to thee?

<sup>44</sup> And the king said to Shimei, Thou knowest all the evil, of which thine heart is guilty to thee, which evil thou didest to [David] my father; the Lord hath yielded thy malice into thine head.

<sup>46</sup> Therefore the king commanded to Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada; and he assailed Shimei, and smote him, and he was dead. Therefore the realm was confirmed into the hands of Solomon;

CHAPTER 3

<sup>1</sup> and by affinity, either alliance, he was joined to Pharaoh, king of Egypt; for he took the daughter of Pharaoh, and brought her into the city of David, till he [ful] filled building his house, and the house of the Lord, and the wall of Jerusalem by compass.

<sup>4</sup> And so Solomon went into Gibeon, to offer there; for that was the most high place. Solomon offered upon that altar in Gibeon a thousand offerings into burnt sacrifice.

<sup>5</sup> Soothly the Lord appeared to Solomon by sleep in the night, and said, Ask thou that, that thou wilt, that I give it to thee.

<sup>6</sup> And Solomon said, Thou hast done great mercy with thy servant David, my father, as he went in thy sight, in truth, and [in] rightwiseness, and in rightful [or right] heart with thee; thou hast kept to him thy great mercy, and hast given to him a son, sitting on his throne, as it is today.

<sup>7</sup> And now, Lord God, thou hast made thy servant to reign for David, my father; forsooth I am a little child, and not knowing mine out-going and mine in-coming.

<sup>8</sup> And thy servant is in the midst of the people, which thou hast chosen, of [a] people without number, that may not be numbered and reckoned, for multitude.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore thou shalt give to thy servant an heart able to be taught, that is, enlightened of thee, that he may deem thy people, and judge betwixt good and evil; for who may deem this people, thy people, this much people?

<sup>11</sup> And the Lord said to Solomon, For thou askedest this word, and askedest not to thee many days, neither riches, neither the lives of thine enemies, but thou askedest to thee wisdom to deem doom,

<sup>12</sup> lo! I have done to thee after thy words, and I have given to thee a wise heart and an understanding, in so much that no man before thee was like thee, neither shall rise up after thee.

<sup>13</sup> But also I have given to thee these things, which thou askedest not, that is, riches, and glory, that no man be like thee in kings in all times afterward.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth if thou goest in my ways, and keepest my biddings and [my] commandments, as thy father went in them, I shall make thy days long.

<sup>15</sup> Therefore Solomon waked, and understood what the sweven was. And when he had come to Jerusalem, he stood before the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord, and he offered burnt sacrifices, and made peaceable sacrifices, and a great feast to all his household or menials.

<sup>17</sup> of which one said, My lord, I beseech, I and this woman dwelled in one house, and I childed at her in a couch.

<sup>18</sup> And in the third day after that I had childed, also this woman childed; and we were together in the house, and none other was with us in the house, except us twain [or two].

<sup>19</sup> And the son of this woman was dead in the night, for she slept, and over-lay him;

<sup>20</sup> and she rose up in the fourth part of the night in silence, and took my son from the side of me, while thine handmaid was sleeping, and she laid it in her bosom; and she putted [or put] in my bosom her son, that was dead.

<sup>21</sup> And when I had risen early, to give milk to my son, he appeared dead; whom I beheld more diligently by clear light, and I perceived, that he was not mine, whom I had engendered.

<sup>22</sup> The tother woman answered, It is not as thou sayest, but thy son is dead; forsooth my son liveth. The contrary, she said, Thou liest; for my son liveth, and thy son is dead. And by this manner they strove before the king.

<sup>23</sup> Then the king said, This woman saith, My son liveth, and thy son is dead; and this woman answereth, Nay, but thy son is dead, and my son liveth.

<sup>24</sup> Therefore the king said, Bring ye to me a sword. And when they had brought a sword before the king, <sup>25</sup> he said, Part ye the quick young child in two parts, and give ye the half part to the one, and the half part to the tother.

<sup>26</sup> And the woman, whose son was quick, said to the king; for her entrails were moved on her son; Lord, I beseech, give ye to her the quick child, and do not ye slay him. The contrary, she said, Be he neither to me, neither to thee, but be he parted.

<sup>28</sup> Therefore all Israel heard the doom, which the king had deemed; and they dreaded the king, and saw, that the wisdom of God was in him, to make doom.

CHAPTER 4

<sup>4</sup> Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, was prince upon the host; and Zadok and Abiathar were priests;

<sup>5</sup> Azariah, the son of Nathan, was upon them that stood nigh [to] the king; Zabud, the son of Nathan, was[a] priest, a friend of the king;

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth Solomon had twelve prefects, either chief ministers, on all Israel, that gave lifelode to the king, and to his house; soothly by each month by itself in the year, each prefect by himself ministered necessities.

<sup>8</sup> And these be the names of them; Ben-hur, in the hill of Ephraim;

<sup>9</sup> Ben-dekar, in Makaz, and in Shaal-bim, and in Bethshemesh, and in Elon, and in Bethhanan;

<sup>13</sup> Ben-geber, in Ramoth of Gilead, had Havoth-jair, of the son of Man-asseh, in Gilead; he was sovereign in all the country of Argob, which is in Bashan, to sixty great cities and walled, that had brazen locks.

<sup>19</sup> Geber, the son of Uri, was in the land of Gilead, and in the land of Sihon, king of Amorites, and in the land of Og, king of Bashan, and upon all things that were in that land.

<sup>20</sup> The people of Judah and Israel were unnumberable, as the sand of the sea in multitude, eating, and drinking, and being glad.

<sup>21</sup> Forsooth Solomon was in his lord-ship, and had all the realms, as from the flood of the land of Philistines, unto the last part of Egypt, of men offering gifts, that is, tributes, to him, and serving to him, in all the days of his life.

<sup>23</sup> ten fat oxen, and twenty oxen of the pasture, and an hundred wethers, besides hunting of harts, of goats, and of bugles, and of birds made fat.

<sup>24</sup> For he held all the country that was beyond the flood, as from Tiphseh unto Azzah, and all the kings of those countries; and he had peace by each part in compass.

<sup>26</sup> And Solomon had forty thousand cratches of horses for chariots, and twelve thousand of road horses;

<sup>27</sup> and the foresaid prefects or chief masters of the king nourished those horses. But also with great busyness they gave [the] necessities to the board of king Solomon, in their time;

<sup>28</sup> also they brought barley, and forage of horses and of work beasts, into the place where the king was, after it was ordained to them.

<sup>29</sup> Also God gave to Solomon wisdom, and prudence full much, and largeness of heart, as the sand that is in the brink of the sea.

<sup>31</sup> and he was wiser than all men; he was wiser than Ethan the Ezrahite, and than Heman, and than Chalcol, and than Darda, the sons of Mahol; and he was named among all folks by compass.

<sup>33</sup> and he disputed of trees, from a cedar which is in Lebanon, till to the hyssop that goeth out of the wall; he disputed of work beasts, and birds, and of creeping beasts, and of fishes.

CHAPTER 5

<sup>3</sup> Thou knowest the will of David, my father, and for he might not build an house to the name of his God, for [the] battles nighing by compass, till the Lord gave them under the step of his feet.

<sup>5</sup> wherefore I think to build a temple to the name of my Lord God, as God spake to David, my father, and said, Thy son, whom I shall give to thee for thee upon thy throne, he shall build an house to my name.

<sup>6</sup> Therefore command thou, that thy servants hew down to me cedars of the Lebanon; and my servants be with thy servants; and I shall give to thee the meed of thy servants, whatever thou shalt ask; for thou knowest, that in my people is not a man that can hew trees, as Sidonians or the men of Sidon can.

<sup>7</sup> Therefore when Hiram had heard the words of Solomon, he was full glad, and said, Blessed be the Lord God today, that hath given to David the son most wise upon this people full much.

<sup>8</sup> And Hiram sent to Solomon, and said, I have heard whatever things thou sentest to me; I shall do all thy will, in trees of cedars, and in trees of box.

<sup>9</sup> My servants shall put down those trees from the Lebanon to the sea, and I shall array those trees in ships in the sea, unto the place that thou shalt signify to me; and I shall dress those [or them] there, that thou take those [or them]; and thou shalt give necessities to me, that meat be given to mine house.

<sup>12</sup> Also the Lord gave wisdom to Solomon, as he spake to him; and peace was betwixt Hiram and Solomon, and both they smote together bond of peace.

<sup>14</sup> And Solomon sent them into the Lebanon, ten thousand by each month by whiles, so that in two months by whiles they were in their houses; and Adoniram was on such a sum.

<sup>15</sup> And so seventy thousand of them, that bare burdens, were to Solomon, and fourscore thousand of masons in the hills, <sup>16</sup> without the sovereigns, that were masters of all the works, by the number of three thousand and three hundred, commanding to the people, and to them that made work.

<sup>17</sup> And the king commanded, that they should take great stones, and precious or heavy stones, into the fundament of the temple,

<sup>18</sup> and that they should make those square; which stones the masons of Solomon and the masons of Hiram hewed. And [the] men of Byblos made ready [the] trees and stones, to the house to be builded.

CHAPTER 6

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth it was done in the four hundred and fourscore year of the going out of the sons of Israel from the land of Egypt, in the fourth year of the realm of Solomon, in the month Zif; that is, the second month of the fourth year of the realm of Solomon on Israel; he began to build an house to the Lord.

<sup>3</sup> And a porch was before the temple of twenty cubits of length, by the measure of the breadth of the temple; and the porch had ten cubits of breadth, before the face of the temple.

<sup>5</sup> And he builded on the wall of the temple, buildings of boards by compass, in the walls of the house, by compass of the temple, and of God's answering place; and he made [the] sides in the compass.

<sup>6</sup> The building of boards, that was under, had five cubits of breadth; and the middle building of boards was of six cubits of breadth; and the third building of boards was having seven cubits of breadth. And he put beams in the house by compass withoutforth, that those cleaved not to the walls of the temple.

<sup>7</sup> And when the house was builded, it was built of perfectly hewn stones; and hammer, and ax, and all thing made of iron, were not heard in the house, while it was in building.

<sup>10</sup> and he builded a building of boards over all the house, by five cubits of height, and covered the house with cedar wood.

<sup>12</sup> This is the house, which thou buildest; if thou goest in my behests, and doest my dooms, and keepest all my commandments, and goest by those [or them], I shall make steadfast my word to thee, which word I spake to David, thy father;

<sup>13</sup> and I shall dwell in the midst of the sons of Israel, and I shall not forsake my people Israel.

<sup>15</sup> and he builded the walls of the house within with boards of cedar, from the pavement of the house unto the highness of the wall, and unto the couples; and he covered them with wood of cedar within; and he covered the pavement of the house with boards of box wood.

<sup>16</sup> And he builded a wall of boards of cedar of twenty cubits at the hinder part of the temple, from the pavement unto the higher parts; and he made the inner house of God's answering place into the holy of holy things.

<sup>18</sup> And all the house within was clothed with cedar, and had his smoothnesses, and his joinings made subtly, and engravings appearing above; all things were clothed with boards of cedar, and utterly a stone might not appear in the wall.

<sup>19</sup> And Solomon made God's answering place in the midst of the house, in the inner part, that he should set [or put] there the ark of bond of peace of the Lord.

<sup>20</sup> And God's answering place had twenty cubits of length, and twenty cubits of breadth, and twenty cubits of height; and he covered, and clothed it with purest gold; but also he clothed the altar with cedar.

<sup>21</sup> Also he covered with purest gold the house before God's answering place, or the oracle, and he fastened the plates with golden nails.

<sup>22</sup> Nothing was in the temple that was not covered with gold; but also he covered with gold all the altar of God's answering place.

<sup>23</sup> And he made in God's answering place two cherubims [or cherubim] of the trees of olives, of ten cubits of height;

<sup>24</sup> one wing of cherub was of five cubits, and the tother wing of cherub was of five cubits, that is, having ten cubits, from the highness of the one wing till to the highness of the tother wing.

<sup>25</sup> And the second cherub was of ten cubits in even measure; and one work was in the two cherubims,

<sup>27</sup> And he set [the] cherubims [or cherubim] in the midst of the inner temple; and the cherubims [or cher-ubim] held forth their wings, and one wing touched the one wall, and the wing of the second cherub touched the tother wall; and the other wings in the middle part of the temple touched themselves together.

<sup>28</sup> And he covered the cherubims [or cherubim] with gold, and all the walls of the temple by compass/about;

<sup>29</sup> and he engraved them with di-verse engravings and smoothness; and he made in those walls cherubims [or cherubim], and palms, and diverse paintures, as standing forth and going out of the wall.

<sup>31</sup> And in the entering of God's answering place he made two little doors of the trees of olives; and he made doorposts of five corners, <sup>32</sup> and [the] two doors of the trees of olives; and he engraved in those [or them] the painture of cherubims [or cherubim], and the likenesses of palms, and engravings above standing forth greatly; and he covered those [or them] with gold; and he covered as well the cherubims [or cherubim], as [the] palms, and other things, with gold.

<sup>34</sup> and he made [the] two doors of the trees of box, each against other; and ever either door was double, and it was opened holding itself together.

<sup>36</sup> And he builded a large street, or an alley, within, by three orders of stones made fair, and by one order of wood of cedar.

<sup>38</sup> and the house was made perfect, or ended, in all his work, and in all his vessels, either appurtenances, in the eleventh year, in the month [of] Bul; that is the eighth month; and he builded that house in seven years.

CHAPTER 7

<sup>2</sup> He builded an house of the forest, or out of the wood, of Lebanon, of an hundred cubits of length, and of fifty cubits of breadth, and of thirty cubits of height; and he builded four alleys betwixt the pillars of cedars; for he had hewn down [the] trees of cedars into pillars.

<sup>3</sup> And he clothed all the chambers with walls of cedar; the which chamber was sustained, or borne up, with five and forty pillars. And one order had fifteen pillars, set against themselves together,

<sup>4</sup> and beholding themselves each even against other by even space betwixt the pillars;

<sup>6</sup> And he made a porch of pillars of fifty cubits of length, and of thirty cubits of breadth; and he made an-other porch in the face of the greater porch; and he made pillars, and [the] pommels on the pillars.

<sup>7</sup> Also he made a porch of the king's seat, in which the seat of doom was; and he covered it with wood of cedar, from the pavement unto the highness.

<sup>8</sup> And a little house, in which he sat to deem, was in the middle porch, by like work. Also Solomon made an house to the daughter of Pharaoh, whom he had wedded, by such work, by what manner work he made and this porch.

<sup>9</sup> He made all things of precious stones, that were sawed at a rule and measure, both within and without-forth, from the foundation unto the highness of [the] walls, and within and till to the great street, either courtyard.

<sup>12</sup> And the greater court, either void space, was round, of three orders of hewn stones, and of one order of hewn cedar beams; also and in the inner large street of the house of the Lord, and in the porch of the house of the Lord.

<sup>14</sup> the son of a woman widow, of the lineage of Naphtali, of the father of a man of Tyre, a craftsman of brass, and full of wisdom, and understanding, and doctrine, or teaching, to make all work of brass. And when he had come to king Solomon, he made all his work.

<sup>15</sup> And he made two pillars of brass, one pillar of eighteen cubits of height; and a line of twelve cubits compassed ever either pillar.

<sup>16</sup> Also he made two pommels or capitals, molten of brass, which were set [or put] on the heads of the pillars; one pommel of five cubits of height, and the tother pommel of five cubits of height;

<sup>17</sup> and by the manner of a net, and of chains knit together to themselves, by wonderful work. Ever either pommel of the pillars was molten; seven works like nets of orders were in one pommel, and seven works like nets in the tother pommel.

<sup>18</sup> And he made perfectly the pillars, and two orders about all the works like nets, that those [or they] should cover the pommels, which were upon the highness of [the] pomegranates; in the same manner he did also to the second pommel.

<sup>19</sup> And the pommels, that were upon the heads of the pillars in the porch, were made as by work of lily, of four cubits;

<sup>21</sup> And he set the two pillars in the porch of the temple; and when he had set the right half pillar, he called it by name Jachin, that is, steadfast; in like manner he raised up the second pillar, and he called the name thereof Boaz, that is, strength.

<sup>22</sup> And he set upon the heads of the pillars a work by the manner of a lily; and the work of the pillars was made perfect.

<sup>23</sup> Also he made a molten sea, that is, a washing vessel for priests, round in compass, of ten cubits from brink to brink; the highness thereof was of five cubits; and a cord of thirty cubits went about it by compass.

<sup>24</sup> And the engraving under the brink compassed it, and it compassed or came about the sea by ten cubits; twain [or two] orders of engravings containing some stories were molten,

<sup>25</sup> and stood upon twelve oxen; of which oxen three beheld to the north, and three to the west, and three to the south, and three to the east; and the sea was above upon those oxen, of which all the hinder things were hid within.

* CHAPTER 7:13 Also known as Hiram.

<sup>26</sup> And the thickness of the sea was of four fingers, or a palm, and the brink thereof was as the brink of a cup, and as the leaf of a lily crooked again; the sea contained two thousand baths, that is, three thousand metretes.

<sup>27</sup> And he made ten brazen found-aments or bases, each fundament of four cubits of length, and of four cubits of breadth, and of three cubits of highness.

<sup>29</sup> And between the little crowns and the circles were lions, oxen, and cherubims [or cherubim]; and in the jointures in like manner above; and under the lions and the oxen were as reins of bridles of brass hanging down.

<sup>30</sup> And by each fundament were four wheels, and brazen axletrees; and by four parts were as little shoulder-ings under the washing vessel, the shoulderings, that is, short pillars to sustain the washing vessel, molten, and beholding against themselves together.

<sup>31</sup> And the mouth of the washing vessel within was in the highness of the head, and that, that appeared withoutforth, was of one cubit, and it was all-round, and had altogether one cubit and an half; and diverse engravings were in the corners of [the] pillars, and the middle pillar between was square, not round.

<sup>32</sup> And the four wheels, which were by [the] four corners of the found-ament, cleaved together to themselves under the fundament; one wheel had one cubit and an half of height.

<sup>33</sup> And the wheels were such, which manner wheels be wont to be made in a chariot; and the axletrees, and the nave-stocks, and the spokes, and [the] felloes or the dowels of those wheels, all things were molten.

<sup>34</sup> For also the four little shoulderings, by all the corners of one fundament, were joined together, and [were] molten of that fundament, that is, were molten together with that fundament, and made one body.

<sup>35</sup> And in the highness of the founda-ment was a roundness, of one cubit and an half, so made craftily, that the washing vessel might be set above, having his portrayings, and diverse engravings of itself.

<sup>36</sup> Also he engraved in those walls, that were of brass, and in the corners, cherubims [or cherubim], and lions, and palms, as by the likeness of a man standing, that those [or they] seemed not engraved, but put to by compass.

<sup>38</sup> Also he made ten washing vessels of brass; one washing vessel took, or held, forty baths, and it was of four cubits; and he put each washing vessel by itself by each fundament by itself, that is, ten.

<sup>40</sup> Also Hiram made cauldrons, and pans, and wine vessels; and he made perfectly all the work of king Solomon in the temple of the Lord.

<sup>41</sup> He made two pillars, and two cords of the pommels, that is, circles compassing the pommels, at the manner of cords, upon the pommels of the pillars, and two works like nets, that those [or they] should cover the two cords, that were upon the heads of the pillars.

<sup>42</sup> And he made pomegranates four hundred in two works like nets; and two orders of pomegranates in each work like a net, to cover the cords of the pommels, that were on the heads of [the] pillars.

<sup>45</sup> and cauldrons, and pans, and wine vessels. All the vessels, which Hiram made to king Solomon in the house of the Lord, were of latten.

<sup>48</sup> And Solomon made all the vessels in the house of the Lord; soothly he made the golden altar, that is, the altar of incense, that was within the temple, and the golden board, upon which the loaves of setting forth were set;

<sup>50</sup> and pots, and hooks, and vials, and mortars, and censers of purest gold; and the hinges of the doors of the inner house of the holy of holy things, and of the doors of the house of the temple, were of gold.

<sup>51</sup> And Solomon performed all the work, that he made in the house of the Lord; and he brought in the things, which David, his father, had hallowed; silver, and gold, and vessels; and he kept those in the treasures of the house of the Lord.

CHAPTER 8

<sup>1</sup> Then all the greater men in birth in Israel, with [the] princes of the lineages, and the dukes of [the] meines of the sons of Israel, were gathered to king Solomon, into Jerusalem, that they should bear the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord from the city of David, that is, from Zion.

<sup>2</sup> And all Israel came together [to king Solomon] in the month [of] Ethanim, that is September, in the solemn day; which is the seventh month.

<sup>4</sup> and they bare the ark of the Lord, and the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace, and all the vessels of the saintuary, that were in the tabernacle; and the priests and deacons bare those [or them].

<sup>5</sup> And king Solomon, and all the multitude of Israel, that came together to him, went with him before the ark; and they offered sheep and oxen, without guessing and number*.

<sup>6</sup> And [the] priests brought the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord into his place, into God's answering place of the temple, into the holy of holy things, under the wings of the cherubims [or cherubim].

<sup>8</sup> And when the bars stood forth, and the highness of those [or them] appeared without the saintuary, before God's answering place, those bars appeared no further withoutforth; the which bars also were there unto this present day.

<sup>9</sup> And in the ark was none other thing, no but [the] two tables of stone, which Moses in Horeb had put in the ark, when the Lord made bond of peace with the sons of Israel, when they went out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>10</sup> And it was done when the priests had gone out of the saintuary, a cloud filled the house of the Lord;

* CHAPTER 8:5 This is said by figurative speech, called hyperbole, to signify the multitude of sacrifices.

<sup>12</sup> Then Solomon said, The Lord said, that he would dwell in a cloud or a mist.

<sup>15</sup> And Solomon said, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, that spake with his mouth to David, my father, and performed it in his hands, and said,

<sup>16</sup> From the day in which I led my people Israel out of Egypt, I chose not a city of all the lineages of Israel, that an house should be builded, and my name should be there; but I chose David, that he should be over my people Israel.

<sup>17</sup> And David, my father, would build or would have builded an house to the name of the Lord God of Israel.

<sup>18</sup> And the Lord said to David, my father, That thou thoughtest in thine heart to build an house to my name, thou didest well, treating this same thing in thy soul;

<sup>19</sup> nevertheless thou shalt not build an house to me, but thy son, that shall go out of thy reins, he shall build an house to my name.

<sup>20</sup> The Lord hath now confirmed his word, that he spake; and I stood for David, my father, and I sat upon the throne of Israel, as the Lord spake; and I have builded an house to the name of the Lord God of Israel.

<sup>21</sup> And I have ordained there a place of the ark, in which ark the bond of peace of the Lord is, which he smote with our fathers, when they went out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>23</sup> and said, Lord God of Israel, no God in heaven above, neither on earth beneath, is like thee, which keepest covenant and mercy to thy servants, that go before thee in all their heart;

<sup>24</sup> and thou keepest to David, my father, thy servant, those things which thou hast spoken to him; by mouth thou hast spoken it, and by hands thou hast fulfilled it, as this day proveth.

<sup>25</sup> Now therefore, Lord God of Israel, keep thou to thy servant David, my father, those things which thou spakest to him, and saidest, A man of thee shall not be taken away from before me, which man shall sit on the throne of Israel, so nevertheless if thy sons keep thy way, that they go before me, as thou wentest in my sight.

<sup>26</sup> And now, Lord God of Israel, thy words be made steadfast, which thou spakest to thy servant David, my father.

<sup>27</sup> Therefore whether it is to guess, that God dwelleth verily on earth; for if heaven, and heaven of heavens be not able to take thee, how much more this house, that I have builded to thee.

<sup>28</sup> But, my Lord God, behold thou to the prayer of thy servant, and to the beseechings of him; hear thou the hymn, either praising, and [the] prayer, which thy servant prayeth before thee today;

<sup>29</sup> that thine eyes be opened on this house by night and day, on the house of which thou saidest, My name shall be there; that thou hear the prayer, which thy servant prayeth to thee in this place;

<sup>30</sup> that thou hear the beseeching of thy servant, and of thy people Israel, whatever thing he prayeth in this place, and hear thou in the place of thy dwelling in heaven; and when thou hast heard, thou shalt be merciful.

<sup>32</sup> thou shalt hear in heaven, and thou shalt do, and thou shalt deem thy servants; and thou shalt condemn the wicked man, and shalt yield his way on his head, and thou shalt justify the just [or rightwise] man, and shalt yield to him after his rightfulness [or rightwiseness].

<sup>33</sup> If thy people Israel fleeth his enemies, for he shall do sin to thee, and they do penance, or repent their sin, and acknowledge to thy great name, and come, and worship, and beseech thee in this house, <sup>34</sup> hear thou in heaven, and forgive thou the sin of thy people [Israel]; and thou shalt lead them again into the land, which thou hast given to the fathers of them.

<sup>35</sup> If heaven is closed, and it raineth not for the sins of them, and they pray in this place, and do penance to thy name, and be converted, or altogether turned, from their sins for their torment,

<sup>36</sup> hear thou them in heaven, and forgive thou the sins of thy servants, and of thy people Israel, and show thou to them a good way, by which they shall go, and give thou rain to them upon the land, which thou hast given to them into possession.

<sup>37</sup> If hunger riseth in the land, either pestilence is, either corrupt air is, either rust, either locust, either mildew, and if his enemy tormenteth him, and besiegeth the gates of him, and bringeth in all wound, all sickness,

<sup>38</sup> all cursing, and all wishing of evil, that befalleth to each man of thy people Israel, if any man knoweth the wound of his heart, and holdeth forth his hands in this house,

<sup>39</sup> thou shalt hear in heaven, in the place of thy dwelling, and thou shalt do mercy, and thou shalt do that thou give to each man after all his ways, as thou seest his heart; for thou alone knowest the heart of all the sons of men,

<sup>40</sup> that they dread thee in all days in which they live on the face of the land, which thou hast given to our fathers.

<sup>42</sup> for thy great name, and thy strong hand, and thine arm stretched out, shall be heard everywhere; therefore when he cometh, and prayeth in this place,

<sup>43</sup> thou shalt hear in heaven, in the firmament of thy dwelling place, and thou shalt do all things, for which the alien calleth thee; that all peoples of lands learn to dread thy name, as thy people Israel doeth, and prove [they], that thy name is called on this house, which I [have] builded.

<sup>44</sup> If thy people goeth out to battle against his enemies, by the way whither ever thou sendest them, they shall pray thee against the way of the city which thou hast chosen, and over against the house that I have builded to thy name,

<sup>45</sup> and thou shalt hear in heaven the prayers of them, and the beseechings of them, and thou shalt make the doom of them.

<sup>46</sup> That if they sin to thee, for no man is that sinneth not, and thou art wroth, and betakest them to their enemies, and they be led prisoners into the land of enemies, far either nigh,

<sup>47</sup> and they do penance in their heart in the place of their imprisoning, and be converted, or altogether turned, and beseech in their imprisoning, and say, We have sinned, we have done wickedly, we have done unfaithfully;

<sup>48</sup> and they turn again to thee in all their heart, and in all their soul, in the land of their enemies, to which they be led prisoners, and they pray thee over against the way of their land, which thou hast given to their fathers, and of the city which thou hast chosen, and of the temple which I [have] builded to thy name,

<sup>49</sup> thou shalt hear in heaven, in the firmament of thy seat, the prayers of them, and the beseechings of them, and thou shalt make the doom of them;

<sup>50</sup> and thou shalt be merciful to thy people, that have sinned to thee, and to all the wickednesses, by which they have trespassed against thee; and thou shalt do mercy before those men, that had them prisoners, that those men do mercy to them.

<sup>52</sup> that thine eyes be open to the beseeching of thy servant, and of thy people Israel; and thou shalt hear them in all things, for which they call thee.

<sup>53</sup> For thou hast separated them to thee into thine heritage from all the peoples of [the] earth, as thou spakest by Moses, thy servant, when thou, Lord God, leddest our fathers out of Egypt.

<sup>54</sup> Forsooth it was done, when Solomon, praying the Lord, had filled all this prayer and beseeching, he rose up from [the] sight of the altar of the Lord; for he had set fast ever either knee to the earth, and he had held forth his hands to heaven.

<sup>55</sup> Therefore he stood, and blessed all the church of Israel, and said with [a] great voice,

<sup>56</sup> Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, that hath given rest to his people Israel, by all things which he spake; a word felled not down, soothly neither one, of all the goods which he spake by Moses, his servant.

<sup>57</sup> Our Lord God be with us, as he was with our fathers, and forsake not us, neither cast us away;

<sup>58</sup> but bow he our hearts to himself, that we go in all his ways, and keep his commandments, and ceremonies, and dooms, whichever he commanded to our fathers.

<sup>59</sup> And these words of me, by which I have prayed before the Lord, be they nighing to our Lord God by day and night, that he make doom to me his servant, and to his people Israel by all days;

<sup>60</sup> and all the peoples of [the] earth know, that the Lord himself is God, and [there is] none other without him.

<sup>61</sup> Also our heart be perfect with our Lord God, that we go in his dooms, and keep his commandments, as also today.

<sup>63</sup> And Solomon slew peaceable sacrifices, which he offered to the Lord; of oxes two and twenty thousand, and of sheep sixscore thousand; and the king and the sons of Israel hallowed the temple of the Lord.

<sup>64</sup> In that day the king hallowed the middle of the great street, that was before the house of the Lord; for he made there burnt sacrifice[s], and offering, and the inner fatness of peaceable things; for the brazen altar that was before the Lord was too little, and it might not take the burnt sacrifice, and the offering, and the inner fatness of peaceable things.

<sup>65</sup> Therefore Solomon made in that time a solemn feast, and all Israel with him, a great multitude, from the entering of Hamath unto the strand [or river] of Egypt, before our Lord God, in seven days and seven days, that is, fourteen days.

<sup>66</sup> And in the eighth day he delivered the peoples, which blessed the king, and went forth into their tabernacles, and they were glad and of joyful heart on all the goods that God had done to David, his servant, and to Israel, his people.

CHAPTER 9

<sup>1</sup> And it was done, when Solomon had performed the building of the house of the Lord, and the building of the king, and all thing that he coveted, and would make,

<sup>2</sup> the Lord appeared to Solomon the second time, as he appeared to him in Gibeon.

<sup>3</sup> And the Lord said to him, I have heard thy prayer, and thy beseeching, that thou hast besought before me; I have hallowed this house, that thou hast builded, that I should set [or put] there my name without end; and mine eyes and mine heart shall be there in all days.

<sup>4</sup> Also if thou goest before me, as thy father went, in simpleness of heart, and in equity, and doest all things which I have commanded to thee, and keepest my dooms, and my lawful things,

<sup>5</sup> I shall set the throne of thy realm upon Israel without end, as I spake to David, thy father, and said, A man of thy kin shall not be taken away from the throne of Israel.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth if by turning away, ye and your sons turn away, and pursue [or follow] not me, and keep not my behests and ceremonies, which I have set forth to you, but ye go, and worship alien gods, and honour them,

<sup>7</sup> I shall do away Israel from the face of the land which I gave to them; and I shall cast away from my sight the temple, which I [have] hallowed to my name; and Israel shall be into a proverb and into a fable, to all peoples.

<sup>8</sup> And this house shall be into ensample of God's offence; each man that shall pass by it, shall wonder, and shall hiss, and shall say, Why hath the Lord done thus to this land, and to this house?

<sup>9</sup> And they shall answer, For they forsook their Lord God, that led the fathers of them out of Egypt; and they pursued [or followed] alien gods, and worshipped them, and honoured them; therefore the Lord hath brought in upon them all this evil.

<sup>10</sup> Soothly when twenty years were [ful] filled, after that Solomon had builded twain [or two] houses, that is, the house of the Lord, and the house of the king,

<sup>11</sup> while Hiram, king of Tyre, gave to Solomon trees of cedar, and of fir, and gold, by all thing that he had needful; then Solomon gave to Hiram twenty cities in the land of Galilee.

<sup>12</sup> And Hiram went out of Tyre that he should see the cities, which Solomon had given to him, and those [or they] pleased not him;

<sup>13</sup> and he said, Whether these be the cities, which thou, brother, hast given to me? And he called those cities the land of Cabul, that is, displeasing, unto this day.

<sup>16</sup> For Pharaoh, king of Egypt, ascended or went up, and took Gezer, and burnt it by fire; and he killed Canaanites, that dwelled in the city, and gave it into a dower to his daughter, the wife of Solomon.

<sup>18</sup> and Baalath, and Tadmor in the land of wilderness;

<sup>19</sup> and he made strong all the towns, that pertained to him, and were with-out wall, and the cities of chariots, and the cities of knights, and what-ever thing pleased him to build in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land of his power.

<sup>20</sup> Solomon made tributaries unto this day all the people, that were left of the Amorites, Hittites, and Perizzites, and Hivites, and Jebusites, which be not of the sons of Israel,

<sup>22</sup> Soothly king Solomon ordained not any man of the sons of Israel to serve, that is, in vile works, and of the fields, but they were men of war, and servants of him, and princes, and dukes, and masters of his chariots and horses.

<sup>23</sup> And five hundred and fifty princes were sovereigns over all the works of Solomon, the which princes had the people subject to them, and command-ed to [the] works ordained.

<sup>24</sup> And the daughter of Pharaoh went up from the city of David into her house, which house Solomon had builded to her; then he builded the Millo.

<sup>25</sup> Also Solomon offered in three times by all years burnt sacrifices and peaceable sacrifices, on the altar which he had builded to the Lord; and he burnt incense before the Lord, and the temple was performed.

CHAPTER 10

<sup>1</sup> But also the queen of Sheba, when the fame of Solomon was heard, came in the name of the Lord to assay him in dark and doubtful questions.

<sup>2</sup> And she entered with much fellow-ship and riches into Jerusalem, and with camels bearing sweet smelling things, and gold greatly without number, and precious stones; and she came to king Solomon, and spake to him all things which she had in her heart.

<sup>3</sup> And Solomon taught her all [the] words which she had put forth; no word was, that might be hid from the king, and which he answered not to her.

<sup>4</sup> And the queen of Sheba saw all the wisdom of Solomon, and the house that he had builded, <sup>5</sup> and the meats of his table, and the dwelling places of his servants, and the orders of the men serving him, and the clothes of them, and the butlers, and the burnt sacrifices which he offered in the house of the Lord; and she had no more spirit.

<sup>6</sup> And she said to the king, The word is true, that I heard in my land, of thy words, and of thy wisdom;

<sup>7</sup> and I believed not to men telling to me, till I myself came, and saw with mine eyes, and proved that the half part was not told to me; thy wisdom is more and thy works, than the fame that I heard.

<sup>9</sup> Blessed be thy Lord God, whom thou pleasedest, and hath set thee on the throne of Israel; for the Lord loved Israel without end, and hath ordained thee king, that thou shouldest do doom and rightfulness [or rightwiseness].

<sup>10</sup> Therefore she gave to the king sixscore talents of gold, and full many sweet smelling things, and precious stones; so many sweet smelling things were no more brought, as those which the queen of Sheba gave to king Solomon.

<sup>12</sup> And king Solomon made of the trees of thyine undersettings of the house of the Lord, and of the king's house, and harps, and citoles to singers; such trees of thyine were not brought there, neither seen again, till into this present day.

<sup>13</sup> Soothly king Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all things which she would have, and asked of him, besides these things which he had given to her by the king's gift will-fully; and she turned again, and went into her land with her servants.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth the weight of gold, that was offered to Solomon by each year, was of six hundred and six and sixty talents of gold,

<sup>15</sup> besides that which the men that were on the tollages, that is, rents of things borne about in the land, and that merchants, and all men selling shields, and that all the kings of Arabia, and the dukes of the land, gave.

<sup>17</sup> and he made three hundred buck-lers of proved gold; three hundred talents of gold covered one buckler. And the king put those bucklers in the house of the forest of Lebanon.

<sup>18</sup> Also king Solomon made a great throne of ivory, and covered it with full fine gold;

<sup>19</sup> and the throne had six degrees; and the highness of the throne was round in the hinder part; and twain [for two] hands were on this side and on that side, holding the seat, and two lions stood beside each hand;

<sup>20</sup> and twelve little lions standing on [the] six degrees, on this side and on that side; such a work was not made in all realms.

<sup>21</sup> But also all the vessels, of which king Solomon drank, were of gold, and all the appurtenance of the house of the forest of Lebanon was of purest gold; silver was not used at all, neither it was areckoned of any price in the days of Solomon.

<sup>22</sup> For the ships of the king went once by three years with the ships of Hiram into Tharshish, and brought from thence gold, and silver, and teeth of elephants, and apes, and peacocks.

<sup>24</sup> And all earth desired to see the cheer of Solomon, to hear the wisdom of him, which wisdom God had given in his heart.

<sup>25</sup> And all men brought gifts to him, vessels of gold, and of silver, clothes, and armours [or arms] of battle, and sweet smelling things, and horses, and mules, by each year.

<sup>26</sup> And Solomon gathered together chariots, and horsemen; and a thou-sand and four hundred chariots were made to him, and twelve thousand horsemen; and he disposed them by [the] strengthened cities, and with the king in Jerusalem.

<sup>27</sup> And he made, that so great abundance of silver was in Jerusalem, how great was also of stones; and he gave the multitude of cedars as sycamores, that grow in field places.

<sup>28</sup> And the horses of Solomon were led out of Egypt, and of Coa; for merchants of the king bought them of Coa, and brought them to him, for [the] price ordained.

<sup>29</sup> For a chariot went out of Egypt for six hundred shekels of silver, and an horse for an hundred and fifty shekels; and by this manner all the kings of Hittites, and of Syria, sold horses.

CHAPTER 11

<sup>2</sup> of the folks of which the Lord said to the sons of Israel, Ye shall not enter to those folks, neither any of them shall enter to you; for most certainly they shall turn away your hearts, that ye follow the gods of them. And so king Solomon was coupled to these women, by most burning love.

<sup>3</sup> And wives as queens were seven hundred to him, and three hundred secondary wives; and the women turned away his heart.

<sup>4</sup> And when he was then eld [or old], his heart was beshrewd by women, that he pursued [or followed] alien gods; and his heart was not perfect with his Lord God, as the heart of David, his father, was perfect.

<sup>6</sup> and Solomon did that, that pleased not before the Lord, and he full-filled not that he pursued [or followed] the Lord, as David, his father.

<sup>8</sup> And by this manner he did to all his alien wives, the which burnt incenses, and offered to their gods.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore the Lord was wroth to Solomon, for his soul was turned away from the Lord God of Israel; that appeared to him the second time, <sup>10</sup> and [had] commanded of this word, that he should not pursue [or follow] alien gods; and he kept not those things, which the Lord commanded to him.

<sup>11</sup> Therefore the Lord said to Solomon, For thou haddest this thing with thee, and kepest not my covenant, and my behests, which I commanded to thee, I shall break, and I shall part thy realm, and I shall give it to thy servant.

<sup>12</sup> Nevertheless I shall not do it in thy days, for David, thy father; I shall cut it from the hand of thy son;

<sup>13</sup> neither I shall do away all the realm, but I shall give one lineage to thy son, for David, my servant, and for Jerusalem, which I chose.

<sup>15</sup> For when David was in Idumea, and Joab, the prince of his chivalry, had gone up to bury them that were slain, and he had slain each male kind in Idumea;

<sup>16</sup> for Joab, and all Israel, dwelled there by six months, till they had killed each male kind in Idumea;

<sup>17</sup> Hadad himself fled, and some men of Idumea, of the servants of his father, with him, that he should enter into Egypt; soothly Hadad was a little child.

<sup>18</sup> And when they had risen from Midian, they came into Paran; and they took with them men of Paran, and entered into Egypt, to Pharaoh, king of Egypt; and Pharaoh gave an house to him, and ordained to him meats, and assigned to him land.

<sup>20</sup> And the sister of Tahpenes engen-dered to him a son, Genubath; and Tahpenes nursed him in the house of Pharaoh; and Genubath dwelled before Pharaoh, with the sons of Pharaoh.

<sup>21</sup> And when Hadad had heard in Egypt, that David slept with his fathers, and that Joab, the prince of chivalry, was dead, he said to Pharaoh, Suffer thou me, that I go into my land.

<sup>22</sup> And Pharaoh said to him, And of what thing hast thou need with me, that thou seekest to go to thy land? And he answered, Of nothing; but I beseech thee, that thou deliver me or let me go.

<sup>24</sup> and [he] gathered men against him, and was made the prince of thieves, when David killed them of Zobah; and they went to Damascus, and dwelled there; and they made him king in Damascus.

<sup>25</sup> And he was [an] adversary of Israel in all the days of Solomon; and this is besides the evil of Hadad, and his hatred against Israel; and he reigned in Syria.

<sup>26</sup> Also Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, of Ephraim of Zereda, the servant of Solomon, of which Jeroboam, a woman widow, Zeruah by name, was his mother, he also raised his hand against the king.

<sup>28</sup> Forsooth Jeroboam was a mighty man and strong; and Solomon saw the young waxing man to be of good kindred, and witting in things to be done, and Solomon made him prefect, either sovereign, upon the tributes of all the house of Joseph.

<sup>29</sup> Therefore it was done in that time, that Jeroboam went out of Jerusalem; and Ahijah of Shiloh, a prophet, covered with a new mantle, found him in the way; and they twain [or two] were alone in the field.

<sup>30</sup> And Ahijah took his new mantle, with which he was covered, and he cut it into twelve parts;

<sup>31</sup> and said to Jeroboam, Take to thee ten cuttings of the mantle; for the Lord God of Israel saith these things, Lo! I shall cut the realm from the hand of Solomon, and I shall give to thee ten lineages;

<sup>32</sup> but one lineage shall dwell to him, for David, my servant, and for Jerusalem, the city which I chose of all the lineages of Israel;

<sup>33</sup> this cutting of the realm shall be; for Solomon forsook me, and worship-ped Astarte, the goddess of Sidonians, and Chemosh, the god of Moab, and Moloch, the god of the sons of Ammon; and [he] went not in my ways, that he did rightwiseness before me, and my behests, and my dooms, as David, his father, did.

<sup>34</sup> And I shall not take away all the realm from his hand, but I shall put him duke in all the days of his life, for David, my servant, whom I chose, which kept my behests, and my commandments.

<sup>35</sup> Soothly I shall take away the realm from the hand of his son, and I shall give [the] ten lineages to thee;

<sup>36</sup> forsooth I shall give one lineage to his son, that a lantern dwell to David, my servant, in all days before me in Jerusalem, the city which I chose, that my name should be there.

<sup>37</sup> Forsooth I shall take thee, and thou shalt reign on all things which thy soul desireth, and thou shalt be king upon Israel.

<sup>38</sup> Therefore if thou shalt hear all things which I shall command to thee, and if thou shalt go in my ways, and if thou shalt do that, that is rightful [or right] before me, and if thou shalt keep my commandments, and my behests, as David, my servant, did, I shall be with thee, and I shall build a faithful house to thee, as I builded an house to David, and I shall give Israel to thee;

<sup>39</sup> and I shall torment the seed of David on this thing, nevertheless not in all days.

<sup>40</sup> Therefore Solomon would slay Jeroboam, which rose, and fled into Egypt, to Shishak, king of Egypt; and he was in Egypt unto the death of Solomon.

<sup>41</sup> Forsooth the residue of the words of Solomon, and all things which he did, and his wisdom, lo! all those things be written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of Solomon.

<sup>43</sup> And Solomon slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David, his father; and Rehoboam, his son, reigned for him.

CHAPTER 12

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Rehoboam came into Shechem; for all Israel was gathered thither to make him king.

<sup>2</sup> And soothly Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, when he was yet in Egypt, and fled from the face of king Solomon, turned again from Egypt, for the death of Solomon was heard;

<sup>3</sup> and they sent, and called him. Therefore Jeroboam came, and all the multitude of Israel, and they spake to Rehoboam, and said,

<sup>4</sup> Thy father putted the most hard yoke upon us, therefore abate thou a little now of the hardest commandment of thy father, and of the full grievous yoke that he hath put upon us, and we shall serve to thee.

<sup>5</sup> And Rehoboam said to them, Go ye till to the third day, and turn ye again to me. And when the people had gone,

<sup>6</sup> king Rehoboam took counsel with the elder men, that stood before Solomon, his father, while he lived yet; and Rehoboam said, What counsel give ye to me, that I answer to the people?

<sup>7</sup> Which said to him, If thou obeyest today to this people, and servest this people, and givest stead to their asking, and speakest to them light, or easy, words, they shall be servants to thee in all days.

<sup>8</sup> And Rehoboam forsook the counsel of [the] eld [or old] men, which they gave to him, and took young men, that were nourished with him, and stood nigh [to] him;

<sup>9</sup> and he said to them, What counsel give ye to me, that I answer to this people, that said to me, Make thou easier the yoke that thy father hath put upon us?

<sup>10</sup> And the young men, that were nourished with him, said to him, Thus speak thou to this people, that spake to thee, and said, Thy father made grievous our yoke, relieve thou us; thus thou shalt speak to them, My least finger is greater than the back of my father;

<sup>11</sup> and now though my father putted [or put] on you a grievous yoke, forsooth I shall add on your yoke; my father beat you with scourges, but I shall beat you with scorpions*.

<sup>12</sup> Therefore Jeroboam, and all the people, came to Rehoboam, in the third day, as the king spake, saying, Turn ye again to me in the third day.

<sup>13</sup> And the king answered hard things to the people, while the counsel of [the] elder men was forsaken, that they had given to him;

<sup>14</sup> and he spake to them by the counsel of [the] young men, and said, My father made grievous your yoke, forsooth I shall add to your yoke; my father beat you with scourges, but I shall beat you with scorpions.

<sup>15</sup> And the king assented not to the people, for the Lord had turned him away, that the Lord should raise up his word, that he had spoken in the hand of the prophet Ahijah of Shiloh to Jeroboam, the son of Nebat.

<sup>16</sup> Then the people saw, that the king would not hear them, and the people answered to the king, and said, What part is to us in David, either what heritage in the son of Jesse? Israel, turn thou again into thy tabernacles; now, David, see thou to thine house. And Israel went into his tabernacles.

* CHAPTER 12:11 That is, a kind of hardest scourge, that hath knots of lead, either of iron, in the ends of cords.

<sup>18</sup> Therefore king Rehoboam sent Adoram, that was on the tributes; and all the people of Israel stoned him, and he was dead. Forsooth king Rehoboam went up hastily upon his chariot, and fled into Jerusalem;

<sup>19</sup> and Israel departed from the house of David, till into this present day.

<sup>20</sup> Forsooth it was done, when all Israel had heard that Jeroboam [was] turned again, they sent, and called him, when the company was gathered together, and they made him king upon all Israel; and no man followed the house of David, except the lineage alone of Judah.

<sup>21</sup> And Rehoboam came to Jerusalem, and gathered together all the house of Judah, and the lineage of Benjamin, an hundred and fourscore thousand of chosen men and warriors, that they should fight against the house of Israel, and should bring again the realm to Rehoboam, the son of Solomon.

<sup>22</sup> Forsooth the word of God was made to Shemaiah, the man of God, and said,

<sup>23</sup> Speak thou to Rehoboam, the son of Solomon, king of Judah, and to all the house of Judah and of Benjamin, and to the residue of the people, and say thou,

<sup>24</sup> The Lord saith these things, Ye shall not go up, neither ye shall fight against your brethren, the sons of Israel; turn each man again into his house, for this word is done of me. They heard the word of the Lord, and they turned again from the journey, as the Lord commanded to them.

<sup>26</sup> And Jeroboam said in his heart, Now the realm shall turn again to the house of David,

<sup>27</sup> if this people ascendeth [or go up] to Jerusalem, that it make sacrifice in the house of the Lord in Jerusalem; and then the heart of this people shall turn again to their lord, Rehoboam, king of Judah; and they shall slay me, and shall turn again to him.

<sup>28</sup> And by counsel thought out, Jeroboam made twain [or two] golden calves, and he said to the people, Do not ye ascend [or go up] more into Jerusalem; Israel, lo! thy gods, that led thee out of the land of Egypt.

<sup>30</sup> And this word was made to Israel into sin; for the people went into Dan, to worship the calf.

<sup>31</sup> And Jeroboam made temples in high places, and he made priests of the last men of the people, the which were not of the sons of Levi.

<sup>32</sup> And the king ordained a solemn day in the eighth month, in the fifteen day of the month, by [the] likeness of the solemnity that was hallowed in Judah. And the king went up, and made in like manner an altar in Bethel, that he should offer to the calves, which he had made; and he ordained in Bethel priests of the high places, which he had made.

<sup>33</sup> And he went up upon the altar, which he had builded in Bethel, in the fifteenth day of the eighth month, which he had feigned of his heart; and he made a solemnity to the sons of Israel, and he went upon the altar, that he should burn incense.

CHAPTER 13

<sup>2</sup> And he cried out against the altar, by the word of the Lord, and said, Altar! altar! the Lord saith these things, Lo! a son, Josiah by name, shall be born to the house of David; and he shall offer upon thee the priests of high things, the which burn now incense in thee, and he shall burn the bones of men upon thee.

<sup>3</sup> And he gave a sign in that day, and said, This shall be the sign that the Lord spake, Lo! the altar shall be cut, and the ash which is therein, shall be shed out.

<sup>4</sup> And when the king had heard the word of the man of God, which he had cried against the altar in Bethel, the king held forth his hand from the altar, and said, Take ye him. And his hand dried up, which he had held forth, and he might not draw it again to himself.

<sup>5</sup> Also the altar was cut, and the ash was shed out of the altar, by the sign which the man of God before-said, in the word of the Lord.

<sup>6</sup> And the king said to the man of God, Beseech thou before the face of the Lord thy God, and pray thou for me, that mine hand be restored to me. And the man of God prayed before the face of the Lord; and the hand of the king turned again to him, and it was made as it was before.

<sup>7</sup> And the king spake to the man of God, Come thou home with me, that thou eat, and I shall give gifts to thee.

<sup>8</sup> And the man of God said to the king, Though thou shalt give to me the half part of thine house, I shall not come with thee, neither I shall eat bread, neither I shall drink water in this place.

<sup>9</sup> for so it was commanded to me by the word of the Lord, commanding, Thou shalt not eat bread, neither thou shalt drink water, neither thou shalt turn again by the way by which thou camest.

<sup>10</sup> Therefore he went by another way, and turned not again by the way, by which he came into Bethel.

<sup>11</sup> Forsooth an eld [or old] prophet dwelled then in Bethel, to whom his sons came, and told to him all the works which the man of God had done in that day in Bethel; and they [also] told to their father the words which he spake to the king.

<sup>12</sup> And the father of them said to them, By what way went he? His sons showed to him the way, by which the man of God went, that came from Judah.

<sup>13</sup> And he said to his sons, Saddle ye an ass to me. And when they had saddled the ass, he ascended or went up,

<sup>14</sup> and went after the man of God, and found him sitting under a terebinth. And he said to the man of God, Whether thou art the man of God, that camest from Judah? He answered, I am.

<sup>15</sup> And he said to him, Come thou with me home, that thou eat bread.

<sup>16</sup> And he said, I may not turn again, neither come with thee, neither I shall eat bread, neither I shall drink water in this place;

<sup>17</sup> for the Lord spake to me in the word of the Lord, and said, Thou shalt not eat bread, and thou shalt not drink water there, neither thou shalt turn again by the way by which thou wentest thither.

<sup>18</sup> And he said to him, And I am a prophet like thee; and an angel spake to me by the word of the Lord, and said, Lead again him into thine house, that he eat bread, and drink water. He deceived the man of God,

<sup>20</sup> And when he sat at the table, the word of the Lord was made to the prophet* that brought him again;

<sup>21</sup> and he cried [out] to the man of God that came from Judah, and said, The Lord saith these things, For thou obeyedest not to the mouth of the Lord, and keptest not the commandment which thy Lord God commanded to thee,

* CHAPTER 13:20 Revelation of prophesy is given some-time to evil men, as to Balaam, in the 22 nd Chapter of Numbers.

<sup>22</sup> and thou turnedest again, and atest bread, and drankest water in the place in which I commanded to thee, that thou shouldest not eat bread, neither shouldest drink water; thy dead body shall not be borne into the sepulchre of thy fathers.

<sup>23</sup> And when he had eaten and drunk, the prophet, whom he had brought again, saddled his ass.

<sup>24</sup> And when he had gone forth, a lion found him in the way, and killed him. And his dead body was cast forth in the way; soothly the ass stood beside him, and the lion also stood beside the dead body.

<sup>25</sup> And lo! men passing saw the dead body cast forth in the way, and the lion standing beside the dead body; and they came, and published it in the city, in which the eld [or old] prophet dwelled.

<sup>26</sup> And when that prophet, that brought him again from the way, had heard this, he said, It is the man of God, that was unobedient to the mouth of God; and the Lord betook him to the lion, that hath broken him, and killed him, by the word of the Lord which he spake to him.

<sup>27</sup> And he said to his sons, Saddle ye an ass to me. And when they had saddled, <sup>28</sup> and he had gone, he found his dead body cast forth in the way, and the ass and the lion standing beside the dead body; and the lion ate not the dead body, neither hurted the ass.

<sup>29</sup> Therefore the prophet took the dead body of the man of God, and put it on the ass; and he turned again, and brought it into the city of the eld [or old] prophet, that he should bewail him.

<sup>30</sup> And he put his dead body in his sepulchre, and they bewailed him, and said, Alas! alas! my brother!

<sup>31</sup> And when they had bewailed him, he said to his sons, When I shall be dead, bury me in the sepulchre, in which the man of God is buried; put ye my bones beside his bones.

<sup>32</sup> For soothly the word shall come, which he before-said in the word of the Lord, against the altar that is in Bethel, and against all the temples of [the] high places, which be in the cities of Samaria.

<sup>33</sup> After these words Jeroboam turned not again from his worst way, but on the contrary, of the last of the people he made priests of high places; who-ever would, [he] fulfilled his hand, and he was made [a] priest of high places.

<sup>34</sup> And for this cause the house of Jeroboam sinned, and it was destroyed, and done away from the face of the earth.

<sup>2</sup> And Jeroboam said to his wife, Rise thou up, and change clothing, that thou be not known, that thou art the wife of Jeroboam; and go thou into Shiloh, where Ahijah, the prophet, is, which spake to me, that I should reign upon this people.

<sup>3</sup> Also take thou in thine hand ten loaves, and a cake, and a vessel of honey, and go thou to him; for he shall show to thee, what shall befall to this child.

<sup>4</sup> The wife of Jeroboam did as he said, and she rose up, and went into Shiloh, and came into the house of Ahijah; and Ahijah might not see, for his eyes dimmed for eld age.

<sup>5</sup> Forsooth the Lord said to Ahijah, Lo! the wife of Jeroboam entereth, that she counsel with thee on her son, which is sick; thou shalt speak these and these things to her. Therefore when she had entered, and had feigned herself to be that which she was not,

<sup>6</sup> Ahijah heard the sound of the feet of her entering by the door; and he said, Enter thou, the wife of Jeroboam; why feignest thou thee to be another? Forsooth I am sent to be an hard messenger, that is, telling hard things, to thee.

<sup>7</sup> Go thou, and say to Jeroboam, The Lord God of Israel saith these things, For I enhanced thee from the midst of the people, and I gave thee to be duke on my people Israel,

<sup>8</sup> and I cutted the realm of the house of David, and I gave it to thee, and thou were not as my servant David, that kept my behests, and pursued [or followed] me in all his heart, and did that that was pleasant [or pleasing] in my sight;

<sup>9</sup> but thou hast wrought evil, over all men that were before thee, and madest to thee alien gods, and welled those together, that thou shouldest excite me or stir me to wrathfulness, soothly thou hast cast forth me behind thy back.

<sup>10</sup> Therefore lo! I shall bring in evils upon the house of Jeroboam, and I shall smite the house of Jeroboam unto a pisser to the wall, and unto him that is imprisoned, and the last in Israel; and I shall cleanse the relics, or remnants, of the house of Jeroboam, as dung is wont to be cleansed unto purity, either cleanness*;

<sup>12</sup> Therefore rise thou, and go into thine house; and in that entering of thy feet into the city, the child shall die.

<sup>13</sup> And all Israel shall bewail him, and shall bury him; for this child alone of Jeroboam shall be borne into the sepulchre, for a good word is found on him of the Lord God of Israel, in the house of Jeroboam.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth the Lord shall ordain to him a king upon Israel, that shall smite the house of Jeroboam, in this day, and in this time, that is, of nigh;

<sup>15</sup> and the Lord God of Israel shall smite, as a reed in the water is wont to be moved; and he shall draw out Israel from this good land, which he gave to their fathers, and he shall winnow them over the flood, for they made to them maumet woods, that they should stir the Lord to ire.

<sup>16</sup> And the Lord God shall betake Israel to his enemies, for the sins of Jeroboam, that sinned, and made Israel to do sin.

<sup>17</sup> Therefore the wife of Jeroboam rose, and went, and came into Tirzah; and when she entered into the thresh-old of the house, the child was dead.

<sup>18</sup> And they buried him; and all Israel bewailed him, by the word of the Lord, which he spake in the hand of his servant, Ahijah the prophet.

<sup>19</sup> Forsooth, lo! the residue of the words of Jeroboam, how he fought, and how he reigned, be written in the book of [the] words of the days of [the] kings of Israel.

<sup>21</sup> Forsooth Rehoboam, the son of Solomon, reigned in Judah; Rehoboam was of one and forty years, when he began to reign, and he reigned seven-teen years in Jerusalem, the city which the Lord chose of all the lineages of Israel, that he should set [or put] his name there. And the name of his mother was Naamah the Ammonite.

<sup>22</sup> And Judah did evil before the Lord, and they stirred him to ire on all things, which their fathers did in their sins, by which they sinned.

<sup>23</sup> For also they builded to them-selves altars, and images, and woods, on each high hill, and under each tree full of boughs.

* CHAPTER 14:10 That is, dung is not cleansed in itself, but the place in which the dung is, is cleansed, when the dung is cast out.

<sup>24</sup> But also men of women's conditions or womanish men were in the land, and they did all the abominations of heathen men, which the Lord all-brake before the face of the sons of Israel.

<sup>25</sup> Forsooth in the fifth year of the realm of Rehoboam, Shishak, the king of Egypt, went up into Jerusalem;

<sup>26</sup> and he took the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the king's treasures, and he ravished all things; also he ravished the golden shields which Solomon made.

<sup>27</sup> For which king Rehoboam made brazen shields, and gave those [or them] into the hands of [the] dukes of shield-makers, and of them that waked [or watched] before the door of the house of the king.

<sup>28</sup> And when the king entered into the house of the Lord, they that had office to go before, bare those [or them], and they bare those again to the place of arms [or the armory place] of [the] shield-makers.

<sup>29</sup> Forsooth, lo! the residue of the words of Rehoboam, and all things which he did, be written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of [the] kings of Judah.

CHAPTER 15

<sup>2</sup> Three years he reigned in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Maachah, the daughter of Abishalom.

<sup>3</sup> And he went in all the sins of his father, which he did before him; and his heart was not perfect with his Lord God, as the heart of David, his father, was perfect.

<sup>4</sup> But for David, his Lord God gave to him a lantern in Jerusalem, that he should raise his son after him, and that he should stand in Jerusalem;

<sup>5</sup> for David had done rightfulness [or right] in the eyes of the Lord, and had not bowed [away] from all things that the Lord had commanded to him, in all the days of his life, except the word of Uriah the Hittite*.

<sup>7</sup> Soothly the residue of the words of Abijam, and all things that he did, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Judah? And battle was betwixt Abijam and Jeroboam.

<sup>12</sup> and he took away from the land men of women's conditions [or the womanish-made men], and he purged all the filths of idols, which his fathers made.

* CHAPTER 15:5 *David sinned in the numbering of the people, and in sentence given against Mephibosheth, as it is told in the 2nd book of Samuel, but these sins were full little (sic*), in comparison of the sin in the deed of Uriah, and therefore these be not areckoned; for a little thing is areck-oned as nothing, as the Philosopher saith in 2nd book of Physics. (*David's decision to number, or count, the people led to the death of 70,000 innocent Israelites. TPN.)*

<sup>13</sup> Furthermore and he removed Maachah, his grandmother, that she should not be princess in the solemn things of the idol Priapus, and in his maumet woods that she had hallow-ed; and he destroyed the den of him, and he brake the foulest simulacrum, and burnt it in the strand [or stream] of Kidron;

<sup>15</sup> And he brought into the house of the Lord those things, which his father had hallowed, and avowed [or vowed], silver, and gold, and vessels.

<sup>18</sup> Therefore Asa took all the silver and gold, that were left in the treasuries of the house of the Lord, and in the treasuries of the king's house, and gave it into the hands of his servants; and he sent it to Benhadad, the son of Tab-rimon, son of Hezion, the king of Syria, that dwelled in Damascus, and said,

<sup>19</sup> A bond of peace is betwixt me and thee, and betwixt my father and thy father, and therefore I sent to thee gifts, gold, and silver; and I ask, that thou come, and make void the bond of peace, that thou hast with Baasha, king of Israel, and that he go away from me.

<sup>20</sup> Benhadad assented to king Asa, and sent the princes of his host into the cities of Israel; and they smote Ijon, and Dan, and Abel, the house of Maachah or Abelfthmaachah, and all Cinneroth, that is, all the land of Naphtali.

<sup>22</sup> Forsooth king Asa sent [a] message into all Judah, and said, No man be excused. And they took away the stones of Ramah, and the trees thereof, by which Baasha had builded; and king Asa builded of the same stones and trees Geba of Benjamin, and Mizpah.

<sup>23</sup> Soothly the residue of all the words of Asa, and of all his strength, and all things that he did, and the cities which he builded, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of [the] kings of Judah? Nevertheless Asa had ache in his feet, in the time of his eld age.

<sup>25</sup> Forsooth Nadab, the son of Jeroboam, reigned on Israel, in the second year of Asa, king of Judah; and he reigned on Israel two years.

<sup>26</sup> And he did that, that was evil in the sight of the Lord, and he went in the ways of his father, and in the sins of him, in which he made Israel to do sin.

<sup>27</sup> And Baasha, the son of Ahijah, of the house of Issachar, setted treason to him, and he smote him in Gibbe-thon‡, which is a city of Philistines; and Nadab and all Israel besieged Gibbethon.

<sup>29</sup> And when he had reigned, he smote all the house of Jeroboam; he left not one man of his seed, till he did away him, by the word of the Lord, which he spake in the hand of his servant, Ahijah of Shiloh, a prophet,

† CHAPTER 15:14 That is, high places, in which the sons of Israel made sacrifice to God, before that the temple was builded; and for that time it was leaveful, not afterward.    ‡ CHAPTER 15:27 Gibbethon was a city in the lineage of Dan, but Philistines occupied it, against which city Nadab went to recover it.

<sup>30</sup> for the sins of Jeroboam which he sinned, and in which he made Israel to do sin, and for the trespass, by which he wrathed the Lord God of Israel.

<sup>31</sup> Soothly the residue of the words of Nadab, and all things which he wrought, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Israel?

<sup>33</sup> In the third year of Asa, king of Judah, Baasha, the son of Ahijah, reigned upon all Israel, in Tirzah, four and twenty years.

<sup>34</sup> And he did evil before the Lord, and he went in the ways of Jeroboam, and in his sins, by which he made Israel to do sin.

CHAPTER 16

<sup>2</sup> For that that I raised thee from dust, and setted [or set] thee duke on Israel, my people; soothly thou wentest in the way of Jeroboam, and thou hast made my people Israel to do sin, that thou shouldest stir me to ire, in the sins of them;

<sup>3</sup> lo! I shall cut away the hinder things of Baasha, and the hinder things of his house, and I shall make thine house as the house of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat.

<sup>4</sup> Dogs shall eat that man of Baasha, that shall be dead in the city, and [the] birds of the air shall eat that man of Baasha, that shall die in the field.

<sup>5</sup> Soothly the residue of the words of Baasha, and whatever things he did, and his battles, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Israel?

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth when the word of the Lord was made in the hand of Jehu, the son of Hanani, against Baasha, and against his house, and against all the evil which he did before the Lord, to stir him to ire in the works of his hands, that he should be as the house of Jeroboam, for this cause he killed him*.

<sup>8</sup> In the six and twentieth year of Asa, king of Judah, Elah, the son of Baasha, reigned upon Israel, in Tirzah, two years.

<sup>10</sup> Therefore Zimri felled in, and smote Elah, and killed him, in the seven and twentieth year of Asa, king of Judah; and [he] reigned for him.

<sup>11</sup> And when he had reigned, and sat upon his throne, he smote all the house of Baasha, and he left not thereof a pisser to the wall, and his kinsmen, and friends.

<sup>12</sup> And Zimri did away all the house of Baasha, by the word of the Lord, which he spake to Baasha, in the hand of Jehu, the prophet, <sup>13</sup> for all the sins of Baasha, and for the sins of Elah, his son, which sinned, and made Israel to do sin, and wrathed the Lord God of Israel in their vanities.

<sup>14</sup> Soothly the residue of the words of Elah, and all things which he did, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Israel?

<sup>15</sup> In the seven and twentieth year of Asa, king of Judah, Zimri reigned seven days in Tirzah; forsooth the host of Israel besieged Gibbethon, the city of Philistines.

* CHAPTER 16:7 The words that follow, 'that is, Jehu, the prophet, the son of Hanani, the prophet,' are not in Hebrew; it is a gloss.

<sup>16</sup> And when it had heard, that Zimri had rebelled, and had slain the king, all Israel made Omri king to them, that was prince of the chivalry, on Israel, in that day, in their tents.

<sup>18</sup> And Zimri saw, that the city should be overcome, and he entered into the palace, and burnt himself with the king's house; and he was dead

<sup>19</sup> in his sins which he sinned, doing evil before the Lord, and going in the way of Jeroboam, and in his sins, by which he made Israel to do sin.

<sup>20</sup> Soothly the residue of the words of Zimri, and of his treasons, and tyranny, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Israel?

<sup>21</sup> Then the people of Israel was parted into two parts; the half part of the people followed Tibni, the son of Ginath, to make him king, and the other half part followed Omri.

<sup>22</sup> And the people that was with Omri, had the mastery over the people that followed Tibni, the son of Ginath; and Tibni was dead, and Omri reigned.

<sup>24</sup> And he bought of Shemer, for two talents of silver, the hill of Samaria, and builded on that hill; and he called the name of the city, which he had builded, by the name of Shemer, [the] lord of the hill of Samaria.

<sup>25</sup> Forsooth Omri did evil in the sight of the Lord, and wrought waywardly, or wickedly, over all men that were before him.

<sup>26</sup> And he went in all the way of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, and in his sins, by which he made Israel to do sin, that he should stir to ire, in his vanities, the Lord God of Israel.

<sup>27</sup> Forsooth the residue of the words of Omri, and his battles, which he did, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Israel?

<sup>28</sup> And Omri slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria; and Ahab, his son, reigned for him.

<sup>29</sup> Forsooth Ahab, the son of Omri, reigned upon Israel, in the eight and thirtieth year of Asa, king of Judah; and Ahab, the son of Omri, reigned upon Israel, in Samaria, two and twenty years.

<sup>30</sup> And Ahab, the son of Omri, did evil in the sight of the Lord, over all men that were before him;

<sup>31</sup> and it sufficed not to him that he went in the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, furthermore and he wedded a wife, Jezebel, the daughter of Ethbaal, king of Sidonians; and he went and served Baal, and worshipped him.

<sup>32</sup> And he set up an altar to Baal in the temple of Baal, which he had builded in Samaria,

<sup>33</sup> and he planted a maumet woods; and Ahab added to that in his work, and stirred to ire the Lord God of Israel, more than all [the] kings of Israel that were before him.

<sup>34</sup> Forsooth in his days Hiel of Bethel builded Jericho; in Abiram, his first son, he founded it†, and in Segub, his last son, he setted [or set] the gates thereof, by the word of the Lord, which he had spoken in the hand of Joshua, the son of Nun.

† CHAPTER 16:34 That is, when he setted the foundations, Abiram, his first engendered son, died, and when he went forth in building, his sons died each after the other, till to the last son, that was dead in the filling of the work.

CHAPTER 17

<sup>1</sup> And Elijah the Tishbite, of the dwellers of Gilead, said to Ahab, The Lord God of Israel liveth, in whose sight I stand, dew and rain shall not be in these years, no but by the words of my mouth.

<sup>2</sup> And the word of the Lord was made to him, and said,

<sup>4</sup> and there thou shalt drink of the strand; and I have commanded to [the] crows, that they feed thee there.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore he went, and did by the word of the Lord; and when he had gone, he sat in the strand [or stream] of Cherith, that is against Jordan.

<sup>6</sup> And [the] crows bare to him bread and flesh early; and in like manner in the eventide; and he drank of the strand [or stream].

<sup>8</sup> Therefore the word of the Lord was made to him, and said,

<sup>9</sup> Rise thou, and go into Zarephath of Sidonians, and thou shalt dwell there; for I have commanded to a woman widow there, that she feed thee.

<sup>10</sup> He rose, and went into Zarephath of Sidonians; and when he had come to the gate of the city, a woman widow gathering sticks appeared to him; and he called her, and said to her, Give thou to me a little of water in a vessel, that I drink.

<sup>11</sup> And when she went to bring it, he cried behind her back, and said, I beseech, bring thou to me also a morsel of bread in thine hand.

<sup>12</sup> And she answered, Thy Lord God liveth, for I have no bread, no but as much of meal in a pot, as a fist[ful] may take, and a little of oil in a vessel; lo! I gather two sticks, that I enter, and make it to me, and to my son, that we eat, and die.

<sup>13</sup> And Elijah said to her, Do not thou dread, but go, and make as thou saidest; nevertheless make thou first to me of that little meal a little loaf, baked under ashes, and bring thou it to me; soothly thou shalt make after-ward to thee and to thy son.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth the Lord God of Israel saith these things, The pot of meal shall not fail, and the vessel of oil shall not be abated, till to the day in which the Lord shall give rain on the face of the earth.

<sup>15</sup> And she went, and did by the word of Elijah; and he ate, and she, and her house.

<sup>16</sup> And from that day the pot of meal failed not, and the vessel of oil was not abated, by the word of the Lord, which he had spoken in the hand of Elijah.

<sup>17</sup> Forsooth it was done after these words, the son of a woman house-wife, was sick, and the sickness was full strong, so that breath dwelled not in him.

<sup>18</sup> Therefore she said to Elijah, What to me and to thee, thou man of God? Enteredest thou to me, that my wicked-ness should be remembered, and that thou shouldest slay my son?

<sup>19</sup> And Elijah said to her, Give thy son to me. And he took that son from her bosom, and bare into the solar, where he dwelled; and he put him on his bed.

<sup>20</sup> And he cried to the Lord, and said, My Lord God, whether thou hast tormented also the widow, with whom I am sustained in all manner, that thou killedest her son?

<sup>21</sup> He spread abroad himself, and was meted [or measured] upon the child by three times; and he cried to the Lord, and said, My Lord God, I beseech, the soul of this child turn again into the entrails of him.

<sup>23</sup> And Elijah took the child, and put him down of the solar into the lower house, and betook him to his mother; and he said to her, Lo! thy son liveth.

<sup>24</sup> And the woman said to Elijah, Now in this I have known, that thou art a man of God, and the word of the Lord is sooth in thy mouth.

CHAPTER 18

<sup>1</sup> After many days the word of the Lord was made to Elijah, in the third year, and said, Go, and show thee to Ahab, that I give rain upon the face of the earth.

<sup>4</sup> For when Jezebel killed the prophets of the Lord, he took an hundred prophets, and hid them, by fifties and fifties, in dens, and fed them with bread and water.

<sup>5</sup> Then Ahab said to Obadiah, Go thou into the land, to all the wells of waters, and into all valleys, if in hap we may find grass, and save horses and mules; and [the] work beasts perish not utterly.

<sup>6</sup> And they parted the countries to themselves, that they should compass those [or them]; Ahab went by one way, and Obadiah went by another way, by himself.

<sup>7</sup> And when Obadiah was in the way, Elijah met him; and when he had known Elijah, he felled on his face, and said, Whether thou art my lord Elijah?

<sup>8</sup> To whom he answered, I am. And Elijah said, Go thou, and say to thy lord, Elijah is present.

<sup>9</sup> And Obadiah said, What have I sinned, for thou betakest me in the hand of Ahab, that he slay me?

<sup>10</sup> Thy Lord God liveth, for no folk either realm is, whither my lord, seeking thee, sent not; and when all men answered, He is not here, he charged greatly all realms and folks, for thou were not found;

<sup>12</sup> And when I shall depart from thee, the Spirit of the Lord shall bear thee away into a place which I know not; and I shall enter, and tell to Ahab, and he shall not find thee, and he shall slay thee; forsooth thy servant dreadeth the Lord from his young childhood.

<sup>13</sup> Whether it is not showed to thee, my lord, what I did, when Jezebel killed the prophets of the Lord, that I hid of the prophets of the Lord an hundred men, by fifty and fifty, in dens, and I fed them with bread and water?

<sup>14</sup> And now thou sayest, Go, and say to thy lord, Elijah is present or is nigh, that he slay me.

<sup>16</sup> Therefore Obadiah went into the meeting of Ahab, and showed it to him; and Ahab came into the meeting of Elijah.

<sup>17</sup> And when he had seen Elijah, he said, Whether thou art he, that troublest Israel?

<sup>18</sup> And he said, Not I trouble Israel, but thou, and the house of thy father, which have forsaken the command-ments of the Lord, and pursued [or followed] Baalim.

<sup>19</sup> Nevertheless now send thou, and gather to me all Israel, into the hill of Carmel, and the four hundred and fifty prophets of Baal, and [the] four hundred prophets of maumet woods, that eat of the table of Jezebel.

<sup>20</sup> Ahab sent to all the sons of Israel, and gathered together the prophets in the hill of Carmel.

<sup>21</sup> Forsooth Elijah nighed to all the people of Israel, and said, How long halt ye into two parts? If the Lord is God, pursue ye [or followeth] him; and if Baal is God, pursue ye [or followeth] him. And the people answered not one word to him.

<sup>22</sup> And Elijah said again to the people, I dwelled alone a prophet of the Lord; soothly the prophets of Baal be four hundred and fifty, and the prophets of the maumet woods be four hundred men.

<sup>23</sup> Twain oxes [or two oxen] be given to us; and choose they one ox, and they shall cut it into gobbets, and put it on wood, but put they not fire under; and I shall make ready the tother ox into sacrifice, and I shall put it on the wood, and I shall not put fire under it either.

<sup>24</sup> Call ye the name of your gods, and I shall call the name of my God; and the God that heareth by fire falling down, given from heaven to waste the sacrifice, be he God. And all the people answered, and said, The reason is best, that Elijah hath spoken.

<sup>25</sup> Therefore Elijah said to the prophets of Baal, Choose ye one ox to you, and make ye ready first your sacrifice, for ye be the more; and call ye the names of your gods, and put ye not fire under.

<sup>26</sup> And when they had taken the ox, whom [or that] Elijah gave to them, they made ready the sacrifice, and called the name of Baal, from the morrowtide till to midday, and said, Baal, hear us! And no voice was, neither any that answered; and they skipped over the altar, which they had made.

<sup>27</sup> And when it was then midday, Elijah scorned them, and said, Cry ye with [a] greater voice, for Baal is your god, and in hap he speaketh with another; either he is in a harbourgerie, either in the way, either certainly he sleepeth, that he be raised up.

<sup>28</sup> Therefore they cried with [a] greater voice, and they cut themselves with knives and lancets, after their custom, till they were beshed with blood.

<sup>29</sup> But after that midday passed, and while they prophesied, or prayed, the time came, in which the sacrifice is wont to be offered, neither voice was heard of their gods, neither any answered, neither perceived them praying.

<sup>30</sup> [And] Elijah said to all the people, Come ye to me. And when the people came to him, he arrayed the altar of the Lord, that was destroyed.

<sup>31</sup> And he took twelve stones, by the number of the lineages of the sons of Jacob, to which Jacob the word of the Lord was made, and said, Israel shall be thy name.

<sup>32</sup> And he builded an altar of stones, in the name of the Lord, and he made a leading-to of water, either a ditch, as by two little ditches, or furrows, in the compass of the altar*.

<sup>33</sup> And he dressed [the] wood, and he parted the ox by its members, and put it upon the wood, and said, Fill ye four pots with water, and pour ye it upon the burnt sacrifice, and upon the wood.

<sup>34</sup> And again he said, Also the second time do ye this. And they did it the second time. And he said, Do ye the same thing the third time; and they did it the third time.

<sup>35</sup> And the waters ran about the altar, and the ditch, or rut, of [the] leading-to of water was filled.

<sup>36</sup> And when the time was then, that the burnt sacrifice should be offered, Elijah the prophet nighed, and said, Lord God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Israel, show thou today that thou art God of Israel, and that I am thy servant, and have done all these words by thy commandment.

<sup>37</sup> Lord, hear thou me; Lord, hear thou me; that this people learn, that thou art the Lord God, and that thou hast converted again the heart of them.

* CHAPTER 18:32 In Hebrew it is thus, 'And he made a furrow of three bushels of seed, that is, so much seed as might be sown within the compass of the furrow', as Rabbi Solomon saith.

<sup>38</sup> Soothly [the] fire of the Lord felled down then, and devoured the burnt sacrifice, the wood, and the stones, and it licked up also the powder, and the water that was in the leading-to, or the rut, of water.

<sup>39</sup> And when all the people had seen this, the people felled into his face, and said, The Lord, he is God; the Lord, he is God.

<sup>40</sup> And Elijah said to them, Take ye the prophets of Baal; not one soothly escape of them. And when they had taken them, Elijah led them to the strand [or stream] of Kishon, and killed them there.

<sup>41</sup> And Elijah said to Ahab, Go thou up, and eat, and drink, for the sound of much rain is nigh.

<sup>42</sup> Ahab went up to eat and drink; but Elijah went up into the top of the hill of Carmel, and he set lowly his face to the earth, betwixt his knees;

<sup>43</sup> and said to his servant, Go thou up, and behold thou against the sea. And when he had gone up, and beheld, he said, Nothing is there. And again Elijah said to him, Turn thou again, seven times.

<sup>44</sup> And in the seventh time, lo! a little cloud, as the step of a man, went up from the sea. And Elijah said, Go thou up, and say to Ahab, Join thy chariot, and go down, lest the rain before-occupy thee.

<sup>45</sup> And when they turned them hither and thither, lo! heavens were made dark, and cloud, and wind, and great rain was made. Therefore Ahab went into his chariot, and went into Jezreel;

<sup>46</sup> and the hand of the Lord was made upon Elijah, and when his loins were girded, he ran before Ahab, till he came into Jezreel.

CHAPTER 19

<sup>3</sup> Therefore Elijah dreaded, and rose, and went whither ever his will bare him; and he came into Beersheba of Judah, and he left there his child;

<sup>4</sup> and went into desert, the way of one day. And when he came, and sat under one juniper tree, he asked to his soul, that he should die; and he said, Lord, it sufficeth to me, take my soul; for I am not better than my fathers.

<sup>5</sup> And he casted forth himself, and slept in the shadow of the juniper tree. And lo! the angel of the Lord touched him, and said to him, Rise thou, and eat.

<sup>6</sup> He beheld, and, lo! at his head was a loaf baked under ashes, and a vessel of water. Therefore he ate, and drank, and slept again.

<sup>7</sup> And the angel of the Lord turned again the second time, and touched him; and he said to him, Rise thou, and eat; for a great way is to thee.

<sup>8</sup> And when he had risen, he ate, and drank; and he went in the strength of that meat forty days and forty nights, unto Horeb, the hill of God.

<sup>9</sup> And when he had come thither, he dwelled in a den; and lo! the word of the Lord was made to him, and said to him, Elijah, what doest thou here?

<sup>10</sup> And he answered, By fervent love, that is, of all the heart, I have loved fervently, for the Lord God of hosts; for the sons of Israel have forsaken the covenant of the Lord; they have destroyed thine altars, and killed with sword thy prophets; and I am left alone, and they seek my life, that they do it away.

<sup>11</sup> And he said to Elijah, Go thou out, and stand in the hill, before the Lord. And lo! the Lord passeth by, and a great wind, and strong, turning upside-down hills, and all-breaking stones before the Lord; not in the wind is the Lord. And after the wind is a stirring; not in the stirring is the Lord.

<sup>12</sup> And after the stirring is a fire; not in the fire is the Lord. And after the fire is an hissing of thin wind, or breathing softly; there is the Lord.

<sup>13</sup> And when Elijah had heard this, he covered his face with a mantle, and he went out, and stood in the door of the den. And a voice spake to him, and said, Elijah, what doest thou here?

<sup>14</sup> And he answered, With fervent love I have loved fervently, for the Lord God of hosts; for the sons of Israel have forsaken thy covenant; they have destroyed thine altars, and they have killed with sword thy prophets; and I am left alone, and they seek my life, that they do it away.

<sup>15</sup> And the Lord said to him, Go, and turn again into thy way, by the desert, into Damascus; and when thou shalt come thither, thou shalt anoint Hazael king upon Syria;

<sup>16</sup> and thou shalt anoint king upon Israel, Jehu, the son of Nimshi; and thou shalt anoint a prophet for thee, Elisha, the son of Shaphat, that is of Abelmeholah.

<sup>17</sup> And it shall be, whoever shall flee the sword of Hazael, Jehu shall slay him; and whoever shall flee the sword of Jehu, Elisha shall slay him.

<sup>18</sup> And I shall leave to me in Israel seven thousand of men, of which the knees be not bowed before Baal, and each mouth that worshipped not him, and kissed not his hand.

<sup>19</sup> Therefore Elijah went forth from thence, and found Elisha, the son of Shaphat, earing in twelve yokes of oxen; and he was one in the twelve yokes of oxen, earing. And when Elijah had come to him, Elijah [or he] casted his mantle upon him.

<sup>20</sup> And he ran anon after Elijah, when the oxen were left, and said, I pray thee, kiss I my father and my mother, and so I shall pursue [or follow] thee. And Elijah said to him, Go thou, and turn again, for I have done to thee that that was mine to do.

<sup>21</sup> Soothly he turned again from Elijah, and took twain [or a pair of] oxen, and killed them; and with the plow of the oxen he seethed the flesh, and gave to the people, and they ate; and he rose, and went, and pursued [or followed] Elijah, and ministered to him.

CHAPTER 20

<sup>2</sup> And he sent messengers to Ahab, king of Israel, into the city, and they said to him, Benhadad saith these things, <sup>3</sup> Thy silver and thy gold is mine, and thy wives, and thy best sons be mine.

<sup>4</sup> And the king of Israel answered, By thy word, my lord the king, I am thine, and all my things be thine.

<sup>5</sup> And the messengers turned again, and said, Benhadad, that sent us to thee, saith these things, Thou shalt give to me thy silver, and thy gold, and thy wives, and thy sons.

<sup>6</sup> Therefore tomorrow, in this same hour, I shall send my servants to thee, and they shall seek throughout thine house, and the house of thy servants; and they shall put in their hands, and take away all thing that shall please them.

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth the king of Israel called all the elder men of the land, and said, Perceive ye, and see, that he setteth treason to us; for he sent to me for my wives, and sons, and for silver, and gold, and I forsook not.

<sup>8</sup> And all the greater men in birth, and all the people said to him, Hear thou not, neither assent thou to him.

<sup>9</sup> And he answered to the messengers of Benhadad, Say ye to my lord the king, I shall do all things, for which thou sentest in the beginning to me, thy servant; but I may not do this thing. And the messengers turned again, and told all things to him.

<sup>10</sup> Which sent again, and said, Gods do these things to me, and add these things too, if the dust of Samaria shall suffice to the fist[ful]s of all the people that pursueth [or followeth] me.

<sup>11</sup> And the king of Israel answered, and said, Say ye to him, A girded man, that is, he that goeth to battle, have not glory evenly as a man ungirded, that is, as he that hath the victory, and hath put off his armours.

<sup>12</sup> And it was done, when Benhadad had heard this word, he drank, and also the kings, in shadowing places; and he said to his servants, Encompass ye the city. And they encompassed it.

<sup>13</sup> And lo! one prophet nighed to Ahab, king of Israel, and said to him, The Lord God saith these things, Certainly thou hast seen all this multitude full great; lo! I shall betake it into thine hand today, that thou know that I am the Lord.

<sup>14</sup> And Ahab said, By whom? And he said to Ahab, The Lord saith these things, By the squires, or the footmen, of the princes of provinces. And Ahab said, Who shall begin to fight? And the prophet said, Thou.

<sup>15</sup> Therefore he numbered the chil-dren or servants of the princes of [the] provinces, and he found the number of two hundred and two and thirty; and after them he numbered the people, all the sons of Israel, seven thousand.

<sup>16</sup> And they went out in midday. Forsooth Benhadad drank, and was drunken in his shadowing place, and two and thirty kings with him, that came to the help of him.

<sup>17</sup> And the children of the princes of provinces went out in the first front. Therefore Benhadad sent men, which told to him, and said, Men went out of Samaria.

<sup>18</sup> And he said, Whether they come for peace, take ye them quick; whether to fight, take ye them quick. [And he saith, Whether for peace they come, taketh them alive; whether that they fight, taketh them alive.]

<sup>22</sup> Forsooth a prophet nighed to the king of Israel, and said, Go thou, and be comforted, and know, and see, what thou shalt do; for the king of Syria shall ascend [or go up] against thee in the year pursuing [or following].

<sup>23</sup> Soothly the servants of the king of Syria said to him, The Gods of hills be the Gods of the sons of Israel, therefore they overcame us; but it is better that we fight against them in [the] field places, and we shall get them there.

<sup>25</sup> and restore thou the number of knights, that felled [or fell] of thine, and [the] horses after the former horses, and restore thou[the] chariots, by the chariots which thou haddest before; and we shall fight against them in [the] field places, and thou shalt see, that we shall get them. He believed to the counsel of them, and did so.

<sup>26</sup> Therefore after that the year had passed, Benhadad numbered men of Syria, and he went up into Aphek, to fight against Israel.

<sup>27</sup> Forsooth the sons of Israel were numbered; and when meats were taken, they went forth even against; and they, as two little flocks of goats, setted tents against men of Syria. Forsooth men of Syria filled the land.

<sup>28</sup> And one prophet of God nighed, and said to the king of Israel, The Lord God saith these things, For men of Syria said, God of hills is the Lord of them, and he is not God of valleys, I shall give all this great multitude in thine hand, and ye shall know that I am the Lord.

<sup>29</sup> And seven days these and they dressed battle arrays even against each other; and in the seventh day the battle was joined altogether; and the sons of Israel smote of the men of Syria an hundred thousand of footmen in one day.

<sup>30</sup> And they that were left fled into the city of Aphek, and the wall felled [or fell] down upon seven and twenty thousand of men that were left. Forsooth Benhadad fled, and entered into the city, into a closet that was within a bed-closet;

<sup>31</sup> and his servants said to him, [Lo!] We have heard that the kings of the house of Israel be merciful, therefore put we sackcloths in our loins, and cords in our heads, and go we out to the king of Israel; in hap he shall save our lives.

<sup>32</sup> They girded their loins with sackcloths, and put cords in their heads, and they came to the king of Israel, and said to him, Thy servant Benhadad saith, I pray thee, let my soul live. And he said, If Benhadad liveth yet, he is my brother.

<sup>33</sup> Which thing the men of Syria took for a gracious word, and they ravished hastily the word of his mouth, and said, Thy brother Benhadad liveth. And Ahab said to them, Go ye, and bring ye him to me. Therefore Benhadad went out to him, and he raised up Benhadad into his chariot.

<sup>34</sup> [The] Which Benhadad said to him, I shall yield the cities which my father took from thy father, and make thou streets to thee in Damascus, as my father made in Samaria; and I shall be bound to peace, and I shall depart from thee. Therefore Ahab made [a] bond of peace with him, and delivered him.

<sup>35</sup> Then a man of the sons of the prophets said to his fellow, in the word of the Lord, Smite thou me. And he would not smite.

<sup>36</sup> To whom the prophet said, For thou wouldest not hear the voice of the Lord, lo! thou shalt go [away] from me, and a lion shall smite thee. And when he had gone a little from him, a lion found him, and slew him.

<sup>37</sup> But also the prophet found another man, and he said to that man, Smite thou me. And he smote him, and wounded him.

<sup>38</sup> Therefore the prophet went, and met the king in the way; and he changed with a cloth, that is, by wrap-ping of a cloth, his mouth and eyes.

<sup>39</sup> And when the king had passed by, he cried to the king, and said, Thy servant went out to fight anon, and when one man had fled, a man brought him to me, and said, Keep thou this man; and if he escapeth, thy life shall be for his life, either thou shalt pay a talent of silver.

<sup>40</sup> Soothly while I was troubled, and turned me hither and thither, suddenly he appeared not. And the king of Israel said to him, This is thy doom that thou [thyself] hast deemed.

CHAPTER 21

<sup>2</sup> Therefore Ahab spake to Naboth, and said, Give thou to me thy vineyard, that I make to me thereof a garden of worts, for it is nigh to me, and nigh mine house; and I shall give to thee a better vinery [or vineyard] for it; either if thou guessest it more profitable to thee, I shall give thee the price of silver, as much as it is worth.

<sup>3</sup> To whom Naboth answered, The Lord be merciful to me, that I give not to thee the heritage of my fathers.

<sup>4</sup> Therefore Ahab came into his house, having indignation, and gnashing on the word which Naboth of Jezreel had spoken to him, and said, I shall not give to thee the heritage of my fathers. And Ahab casted down himself into his bed, and turned away his face to the wall, and ate not bread.

<sup>5</sup> And Jezebel, his wife, entered to him, and said to him, What is this thing, whereof thy soul is made sorry? and why eatest thou not bread?

<sup>6</sup> Which answered to her, I spake to Naboth of Jezreel, and I said to him, Give thy vineyard to me for money taken, either if it pleaseth thee, I shall give to thee a better vinery [or vineyard] for it. And he said, I shall not give to thee my vineyard.

<sup>7</sup> Therefore Jezebel, his wife, said to him, Thou art of great authority, and thou governest well [the realm of] Israel; rise thou, and eat bread, and be thou patient, either comforted; I shall give to thee the vinery [or vineyard] of Naboth of Jezreel.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore she wrote letters in the name of Ahab, and sealed those [or them] with the ring of him; and she sent to the greater men in birth, and to the best men, that were in the city of Naboth, and dwelled with him.

<sup>9</sup> And this was the sentence of the letters; Preach ye fasting, and make ye Naboth to sit among the first men of the people;

<sup>10</sup> and send ye privily two men, the sons of Belial, against him, and say they false witnessing, Naboth hath blessed God, and the king*, that is, hath cursed; and lead ye out him, and stone ye him, and die he so.

<sup>11</sup> Therefore his citizens, the greater men in birth, and the best men that dwelled with him in the city, did as Jezebel had commanded [to them], and as it was written in the letters, which she had sent to them.

<sup>13</sup> and when two men, sons of the devil, were brought, they made them to sit against him, and they, that is, as men of the devil, said false witnessing against him before all the multitude, Naboth blessed God, and the king, that is, Naboth hath cursed God, and the king; for which thing they led him without the city, and killed him with stones.

<sup>15</sup> Forsooth it was done, when Jezebel had heard Naboth stoned and dead, she spake to Ahab, Rise thou, take in possession the vinery [or vineyard] of Naboth of Jezreel, which would not assent to thee, and give it for [the] money taken; for Naboth liveth not, but is dead.

<sup>16</sup> And when Ahab had heard this, that is, Naboth to be dead, he rose, and went down into the vinery [or vineyard] of Naboth of Jezreel, to have it into possession.

* CHAPTER 20:43 Josephus saith that he killed the prophet. * CHAPTER 21:10 That is, 'cursed', as in the 2nd Chapter of Job, 'Bless thou God, and die thou'; for the horror of cursing, Jews signified it by the contrary name.

<sup>17</sup> Therefore the word of the Lord was made to Elijah of Tishbe, and said,

<sup>18</sup> Rise thou, go down into the coming of Ahab, king of Israel, which is in Samaria; lo! he goeth down to the vinery [or vineyard] of Naboth, that he have it in possession.

<sup>19</sup> And thou shalt speak to him, and say, The Lord saith these things, Thou hast slain Naboth, furthermore and thou hast taken his vineyard in possession; and after these things thou shalt add, [These things saith the Lord], In this place, wherein dogs licked the blood of Naboth, they shall lick also thy blood.

<sup>20</sup> And Ahab said to Elijah, Whether thou hast found me thine enemy? And Elijah said, I have found thee so, for thou art sold to the devil that thou shouldest do evil in the sight of the Lord.

<sup>21</sup> Therefore the Lord saith these things, Lo! I shall bring in upon thee evil, and I shall cut away thine hinder things, and I shall slay of Ahab a pisser to the wall, and the imprisoned, and the last in Israel;

<sup>22</sup> and I shall give thine house to be as the house of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, and as the house of Baasha, the son of Ahijah; for thou didest evil to excite [or stir] me to wrathfulness, and madest Israel to do sin.

<sup>25</sup> Therefore none other was such as Ahab, that was sold to do evil in the sight of the Lord; for Jezebel his wife excited [or stirred] him thereto;

<sup>26</sup> and he was made abominable, in so much that he followed the idols that Amorites made, which men the Lord wasted from before the face of the sons of Israel.

<sup>27</sup> Therefore when Ahab had heard these words, he rent his cloth, and covered his flesh with an hair-shirt, and he fasted, and slept in a sackcloth, and went with the head cast down.

<sup>28</sup> And the word of the Lord was made to Elijah of Tishbe, and said,

<sup>29</sup> Whether thou hast not seen Ahab made low before me? Therefore for he is made low for the cause of me, I shall not bring in evil in his days, but in the days of his son I shall bring in evil to his house.

<sup>3</sup> And the king of Israel said to his servants, Know ye not, that Ramoth of Gilead is ours, and we be negligent to not take it back from the hand of the king of Syria?

<sup>4</sup> And he said to Jehoshaphat, Whether thou shalt come with me to fight in Ramoth of Gilead? And Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, As I am, so and thou; my people and thy people be one; and my knights and thy knights be one.

<sup>5</sup> And Jehoshaphat said to the king of Israel, I pray thee, ask thou today the word of the Lord.

<sup>6</sup> Therefore the king of Israel gathered together [the] prophets, about four hundred men, and he said to them, Owe I to go into Ramoth of Gilead to fight, either owe I to rest? Which answered, Go thou up, and the Lord shall give it into the hand of the king.

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth Jehoshaphat said, Is there not here any other prophet of the Lord, that we ask by him?

<sup>8</sup> And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, One man, Micaiah, the son of Imlah, is left, by whom we may ask the Lord; but I hate him, for he prophesieth not good to me, but evil. To whom Jehoshaphat said, King, speak thou not so.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore the king of Israel called some chamberlain, and said to him, Haste thou to bring Micaiah, [the] son of Imlah.

<sup>10</sup> Forsooth the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, sat, each in his throne, clothed with king's ornament, in the large house beside the door, or wicket, of the gate of Samaria; and all the prophets prophesied in the sight of them.

<sup>11</sup> Also Zedekiah, the son of Chena-anah, made to himself horns of iron, and said, The Lord God saith these things, With these thou shalt scatter Syria, till thou do away it.

<sup>12</sup> And all [the] prophets prophesied in like manner, and said, Ascend thou [or Go up] into Ramoth of Gilead, and go thou with prosperity; and the Lord shall betake thine enemies into the hand of the king.

<sup>13</sup> Soothly the messenger, that went to call Micaiah, spake to him, and said, Lo! the words of the prophets with one mouth preach goods [or good things] to the king; therefore thy word be like them, and speak thou goods.

<sup>14</sup> To whom Micaiah said, The Lord liveth, for whatever thing the Lord shall say to me, I shall speak this.

<sup>15</sup> Therefore he came to the king. And the king said to him, Micaiah, owe we go into Ramoth of Gilead to fight, either cease? To which king he answered, Ascend thou or Go up, and go in prosperity; and the Lord shall betake it into the hand of the king.

<sup>16</sup> Forsooth the king said to him, Again and again I conjure [or adjure] thee, that thou speak not to me, no but that that is sooth in the name of the Lord.

<sup>17</sup> And he said, I saw all Israel scattered in the hills, as sheep not having a shepherd; and the Lord said, These have no lord, each man turn again into his house in peace.

<sup>18</sup> Therefore the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, Whether I said not to thee, that he prophesieth not good to me, but ever[more] evil?

<sup>20</sup> And the Lord said, Who shall deceive Ahab, king of Israel, that he ascend or go up, and fall in Ramoth of Gilead? And one said such words, and another in another manner.

<sup>22</sup> To whom the Lord spake, In what thing? And he said, I shall go out, and I shall be a spirit of leasing in the mouth of all his prophets. And the Lord said, Thou shalt deceive him, and shalt have the mastery; go thou out, and do so.

<sup>23</sup> Now therefore, lo! the Lord gave a spirit of leasing in the mouth of all prophets that be here; and the Lord spake evil against thee.

<sup>24</sup> Forsooth Zedekiah, [the] son of Chenaanah, nighed, and smote Micaiah on the cheek, and said, Whether the Spirit of the Lord forsook me, and spake to thee?

<sup>25</sup> And Micaiah said, Thou shalt see in that day, when thou shalt go into a closet within a bed-closet, that thou be hid.

<sup>26</sup> And the king of Israel said, Take Micaiah, and dwell he at Amon, [the] prince of the city, and at Joash, the son of Amalek;

<sup>27</sup> and say ye to them, The king saith these things, Send ye this man into prison, and sustain ye him with bread of tribulation, and with water of anguish, till I turn again in peace.

<sup>28</sup> And Micaiah said, If thou shalt turn again in peace, the Lord spake not in me. And he said, Hear ye, all peoples.

<sup>29</sup> Therefore the king of Israel ascended or went up, and Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, into Ramoth of Gilead.

<sup>30</sup> Therefore the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, Take thou armours [or arms], and enter thou into battle, and be thou clothed in thy clothes, that is, in the noble signs of the king. Certainly the king of Israel changed his clothing, and entered into battle.

<sup>31</sup> Soothly the king of Syria had commanded to [the] two and thirty princes of chariots, and said, Ye shall not fight against any man [the] less, either [the] more, but against the king of Israel only.

<sup>32</sup> Therefore when the princes of chariots had seen Jehoshaphat, they supposed that he was king of Israel, and by fierceness made, they fought against him. And Jehoshaphat cried [out], calling for God's help, and declaring his banner;

<sup>34</sup> Soothly some man bent a bow, and dressed an arrow into uncertain, and by hap he smote the king of Israel betwixt the lung and the stomach. And the king said to his charioteer, Turn thine hand, and cast me out of the host, for I am wounded grievously.

<sup>35</sup> Therefore [the] battle was joined in that day, and the king of Israel stood in his chariot against men of Syria, and he was dead at eventide. Forsooth the blood of the wound floated [or flowed] down into the bottom of the chariot.

<sup>36</sup> And a crier sounded in all the host, before that the sun went down, and said, Each man turn again into his city, and into his land.

<sup>37</sup> Forsooth the king was dead, and was borne into Samaria; and they buried the king in Samaria.

<sup>38</sup> And they washed his chariot in the cistern of Samaria, and dogs licked his blood, and they washed the armours, by the word of the Lord which he had spoken.

<sup>39</sup> Soothly the residue of [the] words of Ahab, and all things which he did, and the house of ivory which he builded, and of all [the] cities which he builded, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Israel?

<sup>42</sup> Jehoshaphat was of five and thirty years, when he began to reign, and he reigned five and twenty years in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Azubah, [the] daughter of Shilhi.

<sup>43</sup> And he went in all the way of Asa, his father, and [he] bowed not [aside] from it; and he did that, that was rightful [or right] in the sight of the Lord. Nevertheless he did not away [the] high things, for yet the people made sacrifice, and burnt incense, in high places.

<sup>45</sup> Soothly the residue of [the] words of Jehoshaphat, and the works and battles, which he did, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Judah?

<sup>46</sup> But also he took away from the land the relics of [the] men turned into women's conditions [or womanish-made men], that were left in the days of Asa, his father.

<sup>48</sup> Forsooth king Jehoshaphat made ships in the sea, that should sail into Ophir for gold, and those [or they] might not go, for they were broken in Eziongeber.

<sup>49</sup> Then Ahaziah, [the] son of Ahab, said to Jehoshaphat, My servants go with thine in our ships. And Jehoshaphat would not consent to that.

<sup>51</sup> Forsooth Ahaziah, [the] son of Ahab, began to reign on Israel, in Samaria, in the seventeenth year of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah; and Ahaziah reigned on Israel two years.

<sup>52</sup> And he did evil in the sight of the Lord, and went in the way of his father, and of his mother, and in the way of Jeroboam, [the] son of Nebat, that made Israel to do sin.

<sup>53</sup> And he served Baal, and worship-ped him, and wrathed the Lord God of Israel, by all things which his father had done.

* CHAPTER 22:50 Also known as Joram.

2ND KINGS

<sup>2</sup> And Ahaziah felled [or fell] through the alures, [or windows]/or lattice of his solar, which he had in Samaria, and was made sick; and he sent messengers, and said to them, Go ye, and counsel with Baalzebub, [the] god of Ekron, whether I may live after this sickness of me.

<sup>3</sup> Forsooth the angel of the Lord spake to Elijah of Tishbe, and said, Rise thou, and go down into the meeting of the messengers of the king of Samaria; and thou shalt say to them, Whether God is not in Israel, that ye go to counsel Baalzebub, [the] god of Ekron?

<sup>4</sup> For which thing the Lord saith these things, Thou shalt not go down off the bed, on which thou ascended-est [or wentest upon]. And Elijah went forth.

<sup>5</sup> And the messengers turned again to Ahaziah. And he said to them, Why turned ye again?

<sup>6</sup> And they answered to him, A man met us, and said to us, Go ye, turn ye again to the king, that sent you; and ye shall say to him, The Lord saith these things, Whether for God was not in Israel, thou sendest, that Baalzebub, [the] god of Ekron, be counselled? Therefore thou shalt not go down off the bed, on which thou ascendedest [or wentest upon], but thou shalt die by death.

<sup>7</sup> Which Ahaziah said to them, Of what figure and habit is that man, that met you, and spake to you these words?

<sup>8</sup> And they said, An hairy man, and gird with a girdle of leather in the reins. Which said to them, It is Elijah of Tishbe.

<sup>9</sup> And he sent to Elijah a prince of fifty, and [the] fifty men that were under him. Which prince ascended [or went up] to him, and said to him, sitting in the top of the hill, Man of God, the king commandeth, that thou come down.

<sup>10</sup> And Elijah answered, and said to the prince of fifty men, If I am the man of God, fire come down from heaven, and devour thee and thy fifty men. Therefore fire came down from heaven, and devoured him, and the fifty men that were with him.

<sup>11</sup> Again he sent to Elijah another prince of fifty, and fifty men with him, which spake to Elijah, Man of God, the king saith these things, Haste thou, come thou down.

<sup>12</sup> Elijah answered, and said, If I am the man of God, fire come down from heaven, and devour thee and thy fifty men. Therefore the fire of God came down from heaven, and devour-ed him and his fifty men.

<sup>13</sup> Again he sent the third prince of fifty men, and [the] fifty men that were with him. And when the prince had come, he bowed the knees against Elijah, and prayed him, and said, Man of God, do not thou despise my life, and the lives of these fifty men, thy servants, that be with me.

<sup>14</sup> Lo! fire came down from heaven, and devoured twain [or two], the first two princes of fifty men, and the fifty men that were with them; but now, I beseech, that thou have mercy on my life.

<sup>15</sup> Forsooth the angel of the Lord spake to Elijah of Tishbe, and said, Go thou down with him; dread thou not. Therefore Elijah rose up, and came down with him to the king;

<sup>16</sup> and he spake to the king, The Lord saith these things, For thou sentest messengers to counsel Baalzebub, god of Ekron, as if no God were in Israel, of whom thou mightest ask a word; therefore thou shalt not go down off the bed, on which thou ascendedest [or wentest upon], but thou shalt die by death.

<sup>17</sup> Therefore he was dead by the word of the Lord, which word Elijah spake; and Joram*, his brother, reigned for him, in the second year of Jehoram†, the son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah; for Ahaziah had no son.

<sup>18</sup> Soothly the residue of [the] words of Ahaziah, which he wrought, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Israel?

CHAPTER 2

<sup>2</sup> And Elijah said to Elisha, Sit thou here, for the Lord [hath] sent me till into Bethel. To whom Elisha said, The Lord liveth, and thy soul liveth, for I shall not forsake thee. And when they had come down to Bethel, <sup>3</sup> the sons of prophets, that were in Bethel, went out to Elisha, and said to him, Whether thou knowest, that the Lord shall take away thy lord today from thee? Which answered, And I know; be ye still.

<sup>4</sup> Forsooth Elijah said to Elisha, Sit thou here, for the Lord [hath] sent me into Jericho. And he said, The Lord liveth, and thy soul liveth, for I shall not forsake thee. And when they had come to Jericho,

<sup>5</sup> the sons of prophets, that were in Jericho, nighed to Elisha, and said to him, Whether thou knowest, that the Lord shall take away thy lord today from thee? And he said, I know; be ye still.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth Elijah said to Elisha, Sit thou here, for the Lord [hath] sent me to the Jordan. Which said, The Lord liveth, and thy soul liveth, for I shall not forsake thee. Therefore both went together;

<sup>7</sup> and fifty men of the sons of prophets pursued [or followed], which also stood far even against; soothly they both stood over the Jordan.

<sup>8</sup> And Elijah took his mantle, and wrapped it, and smote the waters; which were parted into ever either part, and both went by [or through] the dry.

<sup>9</sup> And when they had passed [over], Elijah said to Elisha, Ask thou that, that thou wilt that I do to thee, before that I be taken away from thee. And Elisha said, I beseech, that thy double spirit be made in me or with me*.

<sup>10</sup> Which Elijah answered, Thou askest an hard thing; nevertheless if thou shalt see me, when I shall be taken away from thee, that that thou askest shall be; soothly if thou shalt not see, it shall not be.

<sup>11</sup> And when they went, and spake going, lo! a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, parted ever either; and Elijah ascended [or went up] by a whirlwind into heaven†.

<sup>12</sup> Forsooth Elisha saw, and cried, My father! my father! the chariot of Israel, and the charioteer thereof. And he saw no more Elijah. And he took his clothes, and rent those into two parts.

<sup>13</sup> And he raised the mantle of Elijah, that felled down to him; and he turned again, and stood over the river of Jordan.

<sup>14</sup> And with the mantle of Elijah, that felled down to him, he smote the waters, which were not parted. And he said, Where is [the] God of Elijah also now? And he smote the waters, and those [or they] were parted hither and thither; and Elisha passed [over].

* CHAPTER 1:17 Also known as Jehoram. † CHAPTER 1:17 Also known as Joram(!). * CHAPTER 2:9 As Elijah's successor, Elisha asked for the share that the first-born son inherited by law from his father. (Good News Bible) † CHAPTER 2:11 Not into heaven of stars, neither of brightness in bliss, but into heaven of the air; and by the air Elijah was borne into earthly paradise, whither Enoch was translated before.

<sup>15</sup> Soothly the sons of [the] prophets, that were in Jericho even against, saw, and said, The spirit of Elijah rested on Elisha. And they came into the meeting of him, and worshipped or honoured him lowly to [the] earth.

<sup>16</sup> And they said to him, Lo! with thy servants be fifty strong men, that may go, and seek thy lord, lest per-adventure the Spirit of the Lord hath taken him, and hath cast forth him in one of the hills, either in one of the valleys. And Elisha said, Do not ye send.

<sup>17</sup> And they constrained him, till he assented to them, and said, Send ye. And they sent fifty men; and when they had sought him by three days, they found him not.

<sup>18</sup> And they turned again to Elisha; and he dwelled in Jericho. And he said to them, Whether I said not to you, Do not ye send?

<sup>19</sup> Therefore the men of the city said to Elisha, Lo! the dwelling of this city is full good, as thou thyself, lord, seest; but the waters be most evil, and the land is barren.

<sup>20</sup> And he said, Bring ye to me a new vessel, and put ye salt into it. And when they had brought it to him,

<sup>21</sup> he went out to the well of waters, and sent salt into it, and said, The Lord saith these things, I have healed these waters, and neither death, nor barrenness, shall be more in them.

<sup>23</sup> Forsooth Elisha went up from thence into Bethel; and when he went up by the way, little children went out of the city, and scorned him, and said, Go up, thou bald one! go up, thou bald one!

<sup>24</sup> And when he had beheld, he saw them, and cursed them in the name of the Lord. And two bears went out of the forest, and rent two and forty children of them.

CHAPTER 3

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Joram*, [the] son of Ahab, reigned on Israel, in Samaria, in the eighteenth year of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah. And he reigned twelve years,

<sup>2</sup> and he did evil before the Lord, but not as his father and his mother; for he took away the images of Baal, which his father had made,

<sup>3</sup> nevertheless he cleaved to the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, that made Israel to do sin; and he went not away from them.

<sup>4</sup> Forsooth Mesha, king of Moab, nourished many beasts, and paid to the king of Israel an hundred thousand of lambs, and an hundred thousand wethers, with their fleeces.

<sup>5</sup> And when Ahab was dead, he brake the bond of peace, which he had with the king of Israel.

<sup>7</sup> And he sent to Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, and said, The king of Moab hath gone away from me; come thou with me against him to battle. And Jehoshaphat answered, I shall go up with thee; he that is mine, is thine; my people is thy people; and mine horses be thine horses.

<sup>8</sup> And he said, By what way shall we ascend [or go up]? And Joram answered, By the desert of Idumea.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore the king of Israel, and the king of Judah, and the king of Edom, went forth, and compassed by the way of seven days; and there was not water to the host, and to the beasts, that pursued [or followed] them.

* CHAPTER 3:1 Also known as Jehoram.

<sup>10</sup> And the king of Israel said, Alas! alas! alas! the Lord hath gathered together us three kings to betake us into the hand of Moab.

<sup>11</sup> And Jehoshaphat said, Whether any prophet of the Lord is here, that we beseech the Lord by him? And one of the servants of the king of Israel answered, Elisha, the son of Shaphat, is here, that poured water upon the hands of Elijah.

<sup>12</sup> And Jehoshaphat said, Is the word of the Lord at him? Which said, Yea or It is. And the king of Israel, and Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, and the king of Edom, went down to him.

<sup>13</sup> And Elisha said to the king of Israel, What is to me and to thee, an idolater? Go thou to the prophets of thy father and of thy mother. And the king of Israel said to him, Why hath the Lord gathered together these three kings, to betake them into the hands of Moab?

<sup>14</sup> And Elisha said to him, The Lord of hosts liveth, in whose sight I stand, if I were not ashamed† of the cheer of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, truly I had not perceived, neither I had beheld thee.

<sup>15</sup> Now forsooth bring ye to me a psalterer. And when the psalterer sang, the hand of the Lord was made upon Elisha,

<sup>16</sup> and he said, The Lord saith these things, Make ye the womb, either the depth, of this strand [or stream], ditches and ditches.

<sup>19</sup> and ye shall smite each strength-ened city, and each chosen city, and ye shall cut down each tree bearing fruit, and ye shall stop all the wells of waters, and ye shall cover with stones each noble field.

<sup>20</sup> Therefore it was done early, when sacrifice is wont to be offered, and, lo! waters came by the way of Edom, and the land was filled with waters.

<sup>22</sup> And men of Moab rose full early, and when the sun was risen then even against the waters, they saw the waters red as blood even against them.

<sup>23</sup> And they said, It is the blood of sword, that is, shed out by sword; [the] kings have fought against them-selves, and they be slain together; now go thou, Moab, to the prey.

<sup>24</sup> And they went into the castles [or tents] of Israel; forsooth Israel rose, and smote Moab, and they fled before the men of Israel. Then they that had overcome, came, and smote Moab, <sup>25</sup> and destroyed their cities; and all men sending stones filled each best field, and stopped all the wells of waters, and cut down all the trees bearing fruit, so that only [the] earthen walls were left; and the city was encompassed of men setting engines, and it was smitten by great part thereof.

<sup>26</sup> And when the king of Moab had seen this, that is, that the enemies had the mastery, he took with him seven hundred men drawing out swords, that they should break through into the king of Edom; and they might not.

<sup>27</sup> And he took his first engendered son, that should reign for him, and offered him as a burnt sacrifice on the wall; and great indignation was made in Israel; and anon they went away from him, and turned again into their land.

CHAPTER 4

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth a woman of the wives of prophets cried to Elisha, and said, Thy servant, mine husband, is dead, and thou knowest that thy servant dreaded God; and lo! the creancer, that is, he to whom debt is owed, cometh to take my two sons to serve him.

<sup>2</sup> To whom Elisha said, What wilt thou that I do to thee? say thou to me, what hast thou in thine house? And she answered, I thine handmaid have not anything in mine house, no but a little of oil, with which I shall be anointed.

<sup>3</sup> To whom he said, Go thou, and ask by borrowing of all thy neighbours void vessels, not a few.

<sup>4</sup> And enter, and close thy door, when thou art within, thou and thy sons; and put ye thereof into all these vessels; and when those [or they] shall be full, thou shalt take away.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore the woman went, and closed the door on herself and on her sons, they brought the vessels, and she poured in.

<sup>6</sup> And when the vessels were full, she said to her son, Bring yet a vessel to me. And he answered, I have not. And then the oil stood, increasing no more.

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth she came, and showed it to the man of God; and he said, Go thou, sell the oil, and yield to thy creancer; and thou and thy children live ye off the remnant, or the residue.

<sup>8</sup> Forsooth a day was made, and Elisha passed by a city, Shunem; and a great woman was there, which held him, that he should eat bread, that is, busily prayed him to come to meat or to a meal. And when he passed oft thereby, he turned to her, that he would eat bread with her.

<sup>9</sup> And she said to her husband, I perceive that this is an holy man of God, that passeth oft by us;

<sup>10</sup> therefore make we a little solar to him, and put we therein a little bed to him, and a board, and a chair, and a candlestick; that when he cometh to us, he dwell there.

<sup>11</sup> Therefore a day was made, and Elisha came, and turned in to the solar, and rested there.

<sup>12</sup> And he said to Gehazi, his child or servant, Call thou this Shunammite. And when he had called her, and she had stood before him, <sup>13</sup> he said to his child, Speak thou to her, Lo! thou hast ministered to us busily in all things; what wilt thou that I do to thee? Whether thou hast a cause, and wilt that I speak to the king, either to the prince of the chivalry? And she answered, I dwell in the midst of my people. And then she went away.

<sup>14</sup> And he said, What then will she that I do to her? [And] Gehazi said to him, Ask thou not, for she hath no son, and her husband is eld [or old].

<sup>15</sup> Therefore Elisha commanded, that he should call her. And when she was called, and stood before the door,

<sup>16</sup> he said to her, In this time, as in time of life, thou shalt embrace a son*. And she answered, Do not thou, my lord, the man of God, I beseech, do not thou lie to thine handmaid.

<sup>17</sup> And the woman conceived, and childed a son in the time, and in the same hour, in which Elisha had said.

<sup>18</sup> Soothly the child increased; and when some day was, and the child was gone out, and went to his father, and to the reapers,

<sup>19</sup> he said to his father, Mine head acheth, mine head acheth. And his father said to a servant, Take, and lead him to his mother.

* CHAPTER 4:16 That is, 'In the year turned about, thou shalt live whole as now, and thou shalt embrace a son born then', as Rabbi Solomon saith.

<sup>20</sup> And when he had taken, and had brought him to his mother, she setted [or put] him on her knees unto midday, and he was dead.

<sup>21</sup> Certainly she went up, and laid him on the little bed of the man of God, and closed the door. And she went out,

<sup>22</sup> and called her husband, and said, I beseech, send thou with me one of the children or servants, and an ass, and I shall run out unto the man of God, and I shall turn again.

<sup>23</sup> And he said to her, For what cause goest thou to him? today be not calends, neither sabbath. And she answered, I shall go.

<sup>24</sup> And she saddled the ass, and commanded to the child, Drive thou, and haste thee; make thou no tarrying to me in going, and do thou this thing which I command to thee.

<sup>25</sup> Then she went forth, and came to the man of God, into the hill of Carmel. And when the man of God had seen her even against him, he said to Gehazi, his child, Lo! that Shunammite;

<sup>26</sup> go thou therefore into the meeting of her, and say thou to her, Whether it is done rightfully about thee, and about thine husband, and about thy son? And when the servant came and asked her, she answered, It is done rightfully.

<sup>27</sup> And when she had come to the man of God, into the hill, she took hold of his feet; and Gehazi nighed, that he should remove her. And the man of God said, Suffer thou her; for her soul is in bitterness, and the Lord hath held it privy from me, and showed it not to me.

<sup>28</sup> And she said to him, Whether I asked a son of thee, my lord? Whether I said not to thee, Scorn thou not me?

<sup>29</sup> And he said to Gehazi, Gird thy loins, and take my staff in thine hand, and go; and if a man meet thee, greet thou not him; and if any man greeteth thee, answer thou not him; and put thou my staff upon the face of the child.

<sup>30</sup> Forsooth the mother of the child said, The Lord liveth, and thy soul liveth, I shall not leave thee. Therefore he rose, and pursued [or followed] her.

<sup>31</sup> And Gehazi went before them, and putted [or put] the staff upon the face of the child; and there was not voice in him, neither wit. And Gehazi turned again into the meeting of him; and told to him, and said, The child rose not.

<sup>33</sup> And he entered, and closed the door on himself, and on the child; and prayed to the Lord.

<sup>34</sup> And Elisha went up, and lay upon the child; and he putted [or put] his mouth upon the mouth of the child, and his eyes upon the eyes of the child, and his hands upon the hands of the child. And he bowed himself upon the child; and the flesh of the child was made hot.

<sup>35</sup> And he turned again, and walked in the house once hither and thither; and again Elisha went up, and lay upon the child, and the child sobbed seven times, and opened the eyes.

<sup>36</sup> And he called Gehazi, and said to him, Call thou this Shunammite. And she was called, and entered to him. And he said, Take thy son.

<sup>37</sup> She came, and felled [or fell] down to his feet, and worshipped [or honoured] on the earth; and she took her son, and went out.

<sup>38</sup> And Elisha turned again into Gilgal. Forsooth hunger was in the land, and the sons of prophets dwelled before him. And Elisha said to one of his servants, Set thou a great pot on the fire, and seethe thou pottage to the sons of prophets†.

<sup>39</sup> And one went out into the field to gather herbs of the field; and he found as it were a wild vine, and he gathered thereof gourds of the field. And he [full-]filled his mantle, and he turned again, and shredded those into the pot of pottage; for he knew not what it was.

<sup>40</sup> Therefore they poured in to fellows to eat; and when they had tasted of the seething, they cried out, and said, Death is in the pot! death is in the pot! thou man of God. And they might not eat it.

<sup>41</sup> And he said, Bring ye meal. And when they had brought, he put it into the pot, and said, Pour ye out to the company, that they eat; and anything of bitterness was no more in the pot.

<sup>42</sup> Forsooth some man came from Baalshalisha, and bare to the man of God loaves of the first fruits, twenty loaves of barley, and thing made of corns, in his scrip. And the man of God said, Give thou to the people, that it eat.

<sup>43</sup> And his servant answered to him, What is this, that I set [or put] before an hundred men? Again Elisha said, Give thou to the people, that it eat; for the Lord saith these things, They shall eat, and there shall leave [over].

CHAPTER 5

<sup>1</sup> Naaman, prince of the chivalry of the king of Syria, was a great man, and worshipped with his lord; for by him the Lord gave health or victory to Syria; soothly he was a strong man and rich, but he was leprous.

<sup>2</sup> Forsooth thieves went out of Syria, and led away as prisoner from the land of Israel a little damsel, that was in the service of the wife of Naaman.

<sup>3</sup> And she said to her lady, Would God, that my lord had been at the prophet that is in Samaria; soothly the prophet would have cured him of [the] leprosy that he hath.

<sup>4</sup> Therefore Naaman entered to his lord, and told to him, and said, A damsel of the land of Israel spake so and so.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore the king of Syria said to him, Go thou, and I shall send letters to the king of Israel. And when Naaman had gone forth, and had taken with him ten talents of silver, and six thousand golden plates, either florins, and ten changings of clothes,

<sup>6</sup> he brought letters to the king of Israel by these words; When thou hast taken this epistle, know thou, that I have sent to thee Naaman, my servant, that thou cure him of his leprosy.

<sup>7</sup> And when the king of Israel had read the letters, he rent his clothes, and said, Whether I am God, that may slay and quicken, for this king sent to me, that I cure a man of his leprosy? Perceive ye, and see, that he seeketh occasions against me.

<sup>8</sup> And when Elisha, the man of God, had heard this, that is, that the king of Israel had rent his clothes, he sent to the king, and said, Why rentest thou thy clothes? come he to me, and know he, that there is a prophet in Israel.

<sup>9</sup> Then Naaman came with horses and chariots, and stood at the door of the house of Elisha.

<sup>10</sup> And Elisha sent to him a mes-senger, and said, Go, and be thou washed seven times in Jordan; and thy flesh shall receive health, and thou shalt be cleansed.

<sup>11</sup> Naaman was wroth, and went away, and said, I guessed, that he would have gone out to me, and that he would have stood, and inwardly have called the name of the Lord his God, and that he should have touched with his hand the place of the leprosy, and should have cured me so.

<sup>12</sup> Whether Abana and Pharpar, the floods of Damascus, be not better than all the waters of Israel, that I be washed in them, and be cleansed? Therefore when he had turned himself, and went away, having indignation, <sup>13</sup> his servants nighed to him, and spake to him, Father, though the prophet had said to thee a great thing, certainly thou oughtest to do it; how much more for now he said to thee, Be thou washed, and thou shalt be cleansed.

<sup>14</sup> Then Naaman went down, and washed him seven times in the Jordan, by the word of the man of God; and his flesh was restored as the flesh of a little child, and he was cleansed.

<sup>15</sup> And he turned again with all his fellowship to the man of God, and came, and stood before him; and said, Verily I know, that none other God is in all [the] earth, no but only [the] God of Israel; therefore, I beseech, that thou take [a] blessing, that is, a gift, of thy servant.

<sup>16</sup> And Elisha answered, The Lord liveth before whom I stand, for I shall not take it of thee. And when he made great force thereto, Elisha assented not utterly.

<sup>17</sup> Then Naaman said, As thou wilt; but, I beseech, grant thou to me, thy servant, that I take of this earth the charge of two burdens; for thy servant shall no more make burnt sacrifice, either slain sacrifice, to alien gods, no but to the Lord.

<sup>18</sup> Forsooth this thing is only, of which thou shalt pray the Lord for thy servant, that when my lord shall enter into the temple of Rimmon, that he worship there, and while he shall lean on mine hand, if I worship in the temple of Rimmon, while he worshipeth in the same place, that the Lord forgive to thy servant, for this thing.

<sup>19</sup> And Elisha said to him, Go thou in peace. And so Naaman went from Elisha in a chosen time of the land.

<sup>20</sup> And Gehazi, the child of the man of God, said in his heart, My lord hath spared this man of Syria, that he took not of him that, that he brought; the Lord liveth, for I shall run after him, and I shall take of him something.

<sup>21</sup> And Gehazi pursued [or followed] after the back of Naaman; and when Naaman had seen Gehazi running to him, he skipped down off the chariot into the meeting of Gehazi; and said, Whether all things be rightful?

<sup>22</sup> And he said, Rightfully; my lord sent me to thee, and said, Two young men of the hill of Ephraim, of the sons of prophets, came now to me; give thou to them a talent of silver, and double changing of clothes.

<sup>23</sup> And Naaman said, It is better that thou take two talents. And Naaman constrained him; and Naaman bound the two talents of silver in two bags, and the double clothes, and he put those upon his two servants, the which also bare it before Gehazi.

<sup>24</sup> And when Gehazi had come then in the eventide, he took it from the hand of them, and laid it up in the house; and he delivered the men, and they went forth.

<sup>25</sup> And then Gehazi entered, and stood before his lord. And Elisha said, Gehazi, from whence comest thou? Which answered, Thy servant went not to any place.

<sup>26</sup> And Elisha said, Whether mine heart was not present there, when the man turned again from his chariot into the meeting of thee? Now there-fore thou hast taken silver, and thou hast taken clothes, that thou buy places of olives, and vineries [or vines], and sheep, and oxen, and servants, and handmaids;

<sup>27</sup> but also the leprosy of Naaman shall cleave to thee, and to thy seed without end. And Gehazi went out from him leprous as snow.

CHAPTER 6

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth the sons of prophets said to Elisha, Lo! the place in which we dwell before thee, is strait to us;

<sup>2</sup> go we therefore to Jordan, and each man take a portion of wood for himself, that we build to us there a place to dwell therein. And Elisha said, Go ye.

<sup>3</sup> And one of them said, Therefore and thou come with thy servants. He answered, I shall come.

<sup>5</sup> And it befell, that when a man of them had cut down [a] matter, or a piece of wood, the iron of the ax felled [or fell] into the water; and he cried [out], and said, Alas! alas! alas! my lord, and I had taken this same thing by borrowing.

<sup>6</sup> Soothly the man of God said, Where felled [or fell] it? And he showed to him the place. Therefore he cutted down a tree, and sent it thither where the iron was; and the iron floated.

<sup>8</sup> Forsooth the king of Syria fought against Israel; and he took counsel with his servants, and said, Set we ambushments in this place, and in that.

<sup>9</sup> And therefore the man of God sent to the king of Israel, and said, Beware, lest thou pass to that place, for men of Syria be there in ambushments.

<sup>10</sup> Therefore the king of Israel sent to the place, which the man of God had said to him, and before-occupied it, and kept himself there, not once, neither twice.

<sup>11</sup> And the heart of the king of Syria was troubled for this thing; and when his servants were called together, he said, Why show ye not to me, who is my traitor with the king of Israel?

<sup>12</sup> And one of his servants said, Nay, my lord the king, but Elisha, the prophet, that is in Israel, sheweth to the king of Israel all things, whatever things thou speakest in thy bed-closet.

<sup>13</sup> And the king said to them, Go ye, and see, where he is, that I send, and take him. And they told to him, and said, Lo! he dwelleth in Dothan.

<sup>14</sup> And the king sent thither horses, and chariots, and the strength of his host; which, when they had come by night, encompassed the city.

<sup>15</sup> Soothly the minister [or servant] of the man of God rose early, and went out, and he saw an host in the compass of the city, and horses, and chariots. And he told to the man of God, and said, Alas! alas! alas! my lord, what shall we do?

<sup>17</sup> And when Elisha had prayed, he said, Lord, open thou the eyes of this child, that he see. And the Lord opened the eyes of the child, and he saw. And, lo! the hill was full of horses, and of chariots of fire, in the compass of Elisha.

<sup>18</sup> And the enemies came down to him; but Elisha prayed to the Lord, and said, I beseech thee, smite this folk with blindness. And the Lord smote them, that they saw not, by the word of Elisha.

<sup>19</sup> Forsooth Elisha said to them, This is not the way, neither this is the city; pursue ye [or followeth] me, and I shall show you the man, whom ye seek. And he led them into Samaria.

<sup>20</sup> And when they had entered into Samaria, Elisha said, Lord, open the eyes of these men, that they see now. And the Lord opened their eyes, and they saw, that they were in the midst of Samaria.

<sup>21</sup> And the king of Israel, when he had seen them, said to Elisha, My father, whether I shall smite them?

<sup>22</sup> And he said, Thou shalt not smite them, for thou hast not taken them by thy sword and bow, that thou smite them; but set [or put] thou bread and water before them, that they eat and drink, and go to their lord again.

<sup>23</sup> And much preparing of meats was set [or put] forth to them; and they ate, and drank. And the king let them go, and they went to their lord; and [the] thieves of Syria came no more into the land of Israel.

<sup>25</sup> And great hunger was made in Samaria; and so long it was besieged, till [that] the head of an ass were sold for fourscore plates of silver, and the fourth part of a measure called [a] cab, out of the craw of culvers*, was sold for five plates of silver.

<sup>26</sup> And when the king of Israel passed by the wall of the city, a woman cried to him, and said, My lord the king, save thou me.

<sup>27</sup> Which said, Nay, the Lord save thee; whereof may I save thee? out of [the] cornfloor, either out of [the] presser [or wine press]?

<sup>28</sup> And the king said to her, What wilt thou that I do to thee? And she answered, This woman said to me, Give thy son, that we eat him today, and we shall eat my son tomorrow.

<sup>29</sup> Therefore we seethed my son, and ate him. And I said to her in the tother day, Give thy son, that we eat him; and she hid her son.

<sup>30</sup> And when the king had heard this, he rent his clothes, and passed by the wall; and all the people saw the hair-shirt, with which the king was clothed at the flesh within;

<sup>31</sup> And the king said, God do to me these things, and add these things too, if the head of Elisha, the son of Shaphat, shall stand on him today.

<sup>32</sup> Soothly Elisha sat in his house, and eld [or old] men sat with him; then the king before-sent a man to Elisha, and before that that messenger came, Elisha said to the eld [or old] men, Whether ye know, that Benhadad the son of a man-queller [hath] sent hither, that mine head be girded off? Therefore see ye, when the messenger cometh, shut ye the door, and suffer ye not him to enter; for lo! the sound of the feet of his lord is behind him.

<sup>33</sup> And yet while he spake to them, the messenger that came to him appear-ed; and then also the king who said, Lo! so great evil is of the Lord; sooth-ly what more shall I abide of the Lord?

CHAPTER 7

<sup>2</sup> And one of the dukes, on whose hand the king leaned, answered to the man of God, and said, Though the Lord make also the gutters of heaven to be opened, whether that, that thou speakest, may be? And Elisha said, Thou shalt see it with thine eyes, and thou shalt not eat thereof.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore four leprous men were beside the entering of the city's gate, which said together, What will we be here, till we die?

<sup>4</sup> Whether we will enter into the city, we shall die for hunger; whether we dwell here, we shall die. Therefore come ye, and flee we over to the tents of Syria; if they shall spare us, we shall live; soothly if they will slay us, nevertheless we shall die.

<sup>5</sup> Then they rose up in the even-tide, to come to the tents of Syria; and when they had come to the beginning of the tents of Syria, they found not any man there.

* CHAPTER 6:25 In Latin it is said, 'of the drit of culvers'; but 'drit' is not taken here properly, but improperly, for 'the throat', where corns, eaten of culvers, be gathered, and cooks of rich men sold these corns to the people, for hunger.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth the Lord had made a sound of chariots, and of horses, and of a full much host to be heard in the tents of Syria; and they said together, Lo! the king of Israel hath hired by meed against us the kings of Hittites, and of Egyptians; and they came suddenly upon us.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore when those leprous men had come to the beginning of the castles, or tents, they entered into one tabernacle, and ate, and drank; and they took from thence silver, and gold, and clothes; and went, and hid it; and again they turned again to another tabernacle, and in like manner they took away from thence, and hid.

<sup>9</sup> And they said together, We do not rightfully, for this is a day of good message; if we hold it still, and do not tell till the morrowtide, we shall be reprov'd of trespassing; come ye, go we, and tell it in the king's hall.

<sup>10</sup> And when they had come to the gate of the city, they told to them, and said, We went to the castles [or tents] of Syria, and we found not any man there, but horses and asses tied up, and [the] tents fastened in place.

<sup>12</sup> And the king rose up by night, and said to his servants, I say to you, what the men of Syria have done to us; they know, that we travail with hunger, therefore they have gone out of the castles [or tents], and be hid in the fields, and say, When they shall go out of the city, we shall take them quick, and then we shall be able to enter into the city.

<sup>13</sup> And one of his servants answered, Take we [the] five horses, that [be] left in the city; for those [or they] be left only in all the multitude of Israel, for [the] other horses be wasted; and we sending may espy.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore they brought forth two horses; and the king sent men upon them into the tents of the men of Syria, and said, Go ye, and see.

<sup>15</sup> The which went after them unto the Jordan; lo! forsooth all the way was full of clothes, and of vessels, which the men of Syria casted forth, when they were troubled. And the messengers turned again, and showed it to the king.

<sup>16</sup> And the people went out, and ravished the castles [or tents] of Syria; and a bushel of tried flour was made sold for a stater, and two bushels of barley for a stater, by the word of the Lord.

<sup>17</sup> Forsooth the king ordained at the gate that duke, in whose hand the king leaned; whom the company trode with their feet, and he was dead, by the word, which the man of God spake, when the king came down to him.

<sup>18</sup> And it was done by the word of the man of God, that he [had] said to the king, when he said, Two bushels of barley shall be sold for a stater, and a bushel of tried wheat flour for a stater, in this same time tomorrow in the gate of Samaria;

<sup>19</sup> when that duke answered to the man of God, and said, Yea, though the Lord shall make the gutters in heaven to be opened, whether this that thou speakest may be? and the man of God said, Thou shalt see it with thine eyes, and thou shalt not eat thereof.

<sup>20</sup> Therefore it befelled to him, as it was before-said; and the people trode him with their feet in the gate, and he was dead.

CHAPTER 8

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Elisha spake to the woman, whose son he made to live, and said, Rise thou, and go, both thou and thine house, and go in pilgrimage or make pilgrimage, wherever thou shalt find it best; for the Lord shall call hunger, and it shall come upon the land seven years.

<sup>2</sup> And she rose, and did after the word of the man of God; and she went with her house, and was in pilgrimage in the land of Philistines many days.

<sup>3</sup> And when seven years were ended, the woman turned again from the land of Philistines; and she went out, to ask the king for her house, and [for] her fields.

<sup>4</sup> And the king spake with Gehazi, the child of the man of God, and said, Tell thou to me all the great deeds that Elisha did.

<sup>5</sup> And when he told to the king, how Elisha had raised a dead man, the woman appeared, whose son he had made to live, and she cried to the king for her house, and for her fields. And Gehazi said, My lord the king, this is the woman, and this is her son, whom Elisha raised.

<sup>6</sup> And the king asked the woman, and she told to him, that the things were sooth. And the king gave, or assigned, to her a chamberlain, and said, Restore thou to her all things that be hers, and all [the] fruits of the fields, from the day in which she left the land unto this present time.

<sup>7</sup> Also Elisha came to Damascus, and Benhadad, king of Syria, was sick; and they told to him, and said, The man of God came hither.

<sup>8</sup> And the king said to Hazael, Take with thee gifts, and go thou into the meeting of the man of God, and ask thou counsel by him of the Lord, and say thou, Whether I may escape from this my sickness?

<sup>9</sup> Therefore Hazael went in to the meeting of him, and had with him gifts, and all the goods of Damascus, the burdens of forty camels. And when he had stood before Elisha, he said, Thy son, Benhadad, king of Syria, sent me to thee, and said, Whether I may be healed of this my sickness?

<sup>10</sup> And Elisha said, Go thou, and say to him, Thou shalt be healed; forsooth the Lord [hath] showed to me that he shall die by death.

<sup>11</sup> And he stood with him, and he was troubled, unto the casting down of his cheer; and the man of God wept.

<sup>12</sup> And Hazael said, Why weepeth my lord? And he answered, For I know what evils thou shalt do to the sons of Israel; thou shalt burn [up] by fire the strengthened cities of them, and thou shalt slay by sword the young men of them, and thou shalt hurtle down the little children of them, and thou shalt part the women with child.

<sup>13</sup> And Hazael said, What soothly am I, thy servant, a dog, that I do this great thing? And Elisha said, The Lord hath showed to me that thou shalt be king of Syria.

<sup>14</sup> And when he had departed from Elisha, he came to his lord; which said to Hazael, What said Elisha to thee? And he answered, Elisha said to me, Thou shalt receive health.

<sup>15</sup> And when the tother day had come, Hazael took the cloth [or coverlet] that lay on the bed of Benhadad, and he beshedded it with water, and he spreaded it abroad upon the face of Benhadad; and when he was dead, Hazael reigned for him.

<sup>16</sup> In the fifth year of Joram*, son of Ahab, king of Israel, and of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, Jehoram†, the son of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, reigned.

<sup>17</sup> He was of two and thirty years when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

<sup>18</sup> And he went in the ways of the kings of Israel, as the house of Ahab had gone; for the daughter of Ahab was his wife; and he did that, that was evil in the sight of the Lord.

* CHAPTER 8:16 Also known as Jehoram. † CHAPTER 8:16 Also known as Joram.

<sup>19</sup> Forsooth the Lord would not destroy Judah, for David, his servant, as he promised to David, that he should give to him a lantern, and to his sons in all days.

<sup>20</sup> In those days Edom, that is, Idumea, went away, that it should not be under Judah; and made a king to itself.

<sup>21</sup> And Jehoram came to Zair; and all the chariots with him; and he rose by night, and smote Idumeans, that encompassed him, and the princes of chariots; soothly the people fled into their tabernacles.

<sup>22</sup> Therefore Edom went away, that it was not under Judah till to this day; then also Libnah went away in that time.

<sup>23</sup> Certainly the residue of the words of Jehoram, and all things which he did, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Judah?

<sup>24</sup> And Jehoram slept with his fathers, and was buried with them in the city of David; and Ahaziah, his son, reigned for him.

<sup>26</sup> Ahaziah, the son of Jehoram, was of two and twenty years, when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Athaliah, the daughter of Omri, king of Israel.

<sup>27</sup> And he went in the ways of the house of Ahab, and did that, that is evil, in sight of the Lord, as the house of Ahab did; for he was [the] husband of a daughter of the house of Ahab.

<sup>28</sup> Also he went with Joram, the son of Ahab, to fight against Hazael, king of Syria, in Ramoth of Gilead; and men of Syria wounded Joram.

<sup>29</sup> Which turned again, to be healed in Jezreel; for men of Syria wounded him in Ramoth, fighting against Hazael, king of Syria. And Ahaziah, the son of Jehoram, the king of Judah, came down to see Joram, the son of Ahab, into Jezreel, that was sick there.

CHAPTER 9

<sup>2</sup> And when thou shalt come thither, thou shalt see Jehu, the son of Jehosh-aphat, the son of Nimshi; and thou shalt enter, and shalt raise him up from the midst of his brethren, and thou shalt lead him into an inner closet.

<sup>3</sup> And thou shalt hold the vessel of oil, and thou shalt pour it on his head, and thou shalt say, The Lord saith these things, I have anointed thee into king upon Israel; and then thou shalt open the door, and shalt flee thence, and thou shalt not abide there.

<sup>4</sup> Therefore the young waxing man, the child of the prophet, went into Ramoth of Gilead,

<sup>5</sup> and entered thither. Lo! soothly the princes of the host sat there; and he said, O! prince, I have a word to thee. And Jehu said, To whom of all us? And he said, To thee, thou prince.

<sup>6</sup> And he rose, and entered into the bed-closet. And that child poured the oil upon the head of him, and said, The Lord God of Israel saith these things, I have anointed thee into king on the people of the Lord, of Israel;

<sup>7</sup> and thou shalt smite the house of Ahab, thy lord, that I avenge the blood of my servants the prophets, and the blood of all the servants of the Lord, of the hand of Jezebel.

<sup>8</sup> And I shall lose all the house of Ahab, and I shall slay of the house of Ahab a pissur to the wall, and the enclosed, and the last in Israel.

<sup>9</sup> And I shall give or make the house of Ahab as the house of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, and as the house of Baasha, the son of Ahijah.

<sup>10</sup> Also dogs shall eat Jezebel in the field of Jezreel; and there shall be none that shall bury her. And the child opened the door, and fled.

<sup>11</sup> And Jehu went out to the servants of his lord, which said to him, Whether all things be rightful? What came this mad man to thee? Which said to them, Ye know the man, and what he spake.

<sup>12</sup> And they answered, It is false; but more rather tell thou us what he said. The which said to them, He spake these things and these to me, and said, The Lord saith these things, I have anointed thee king of Israel.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore Jehu, the son of Jehosh-aphat, the son of Nimshi, swore with others together against Joram*. For-sooth Joram had besieged Ramoth of Gilead, he and all Israel, against Hazael, king of Syria.

<sup>15</sup> And Joram turned again to be healed in Jezreel for wounds that he had; for men of Syria had smitten him fighting against Hazael, king of Syria. And Jehu said, If it please you, let no man go out fleeing from the city, lest he go, and tell it in Jezreel.

<sup>16</sup> And Jehu went up, and went forth into Jezreel; for Joram was sick there; and Ahaziah, king of Judah, came down to visit Joram.

<sup>17</sup> Therefore an espyer, that stood above in a tower of Jezreel, saw the multitude of Jehu coming, and he said, I see a multitude. And Joram said, Take thou a chariot, and send it into the meeting of him; and say the goer, Whether all things be rightful?

<sup>18</sup> Then he, that went upon the chariot, went into the meeting of Jehu, and said, The king saith these things, Whether all things be peaced? And Jehu said to him, What to thee and to peace? Pass thou from Joram, and pursue [or follow] me. And the espyer told to Joram, and said, The messenger came to them, and he turneth not again.

<sup>19</sup> Also the king sent the second chariot of horses, and he came to them, and said, The king saith these things, Whether peace is with you? And Jehu said, What to thee and to peace? Pass thou forth, and pursue [or follow] me.

<sup>20</sup> And the espyer told to Joram, and said, He came unto them, and he turneth not again; forsooth the going of the duke is as the going of Jehu, son of Nimshi; certainly he goeth fast.

<sup>21</sup> And Joram said, Join ye up a chariot. And they joined up his chariot. And Joram, king of Israel, went out, and Ahaziah, king of Judah, went out, each in his chariot; and they went out into the meeting of Jehu, and they found him in the field of Naboth of Jezreel.

<sup>22</sup> And when Joram had seen Jehu, he said, Jehu, is peace? And he answered, What peace? Yet the fornications, that is, idolatries, of Jezebel, thy mother, and many poisonings of her be in strength.

<sup>25</sup> And Jehu said to Bidkar the duke, Take thou him away, and cast forth him in the field of Naboth of Jezreel; for I have mind, when I and thou sat in the chariot, and pursued [or followed] Ahab, his father, that the Lord raised on him this burden, and said,

* CHAPTER 9:14 Also known as Jehoram.

<sup>26</sup> If not for the blood of Naboth, and for the blood of his sons, which I saw yesterday, saith the Lord, I shall yield to thee in this field, saith the Lord. Now therefore do thou away him, and cast forth him in the field, by the word of the Lord.

<sup>27</sup> Forsooth Ahaziah, king of Judah, saw this, and fled by the way of the house of the garden; and Jehu pursued him, and said, Also smite ye this man in his chariot. And men smote Ahaziah in the going up of Gur, that is beside Ibleam; and Ahaziah fled into Megiddo, and was dead there.

<sup>31</sup> Jehu entering by the gate, and she said, Whether peace may be to Zimri, that killed or slew his lord?

<sup>32</sup> And Jehu raised up his face to the window, and said, What woman is this? And twain [or two] either three chamberlains bowed themselves to him, and said to him, This is that Jezebel.

<sup>33</sup> And he said to them, Cast ye her down. And they casted down her; and the wall was besprinkled with her blood, and the hooves of horses, that treaded her.

<sup>34</sup> And when he had entered to eat and drink, he said, Go ye, and see that cursed woman, and bury ye her, for she is a king's daughter.

<sup>35</sup> And when they had gone to bury her, they found not of her, no but the skull, and the feet, and the ends of her hands;

<sup>36</sup> and they turned again, and told to him. And Jehu said, This is the word of the Lord, which he spake by his servant, Elijah of Tishbe or Elijah the Tishbite, and said, Dogs shall eat the flesh of Jezebel in the field of Jezreel;

<sup>37</sup> and the fleshs of Jezebel shall be as dung upon the face of the earth in the field of Jezreel, so that men passing forth thereby say, Lo! this is that Jezebel.

CHAPTER 10

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth seventy sons in Samaria were to Ahab. Therefore Jehu wrote letters, and sent into Samaria to the best men of the city, and to the greater men in birth, and to all the nurses of the sons of Ahab, and said,

<sup>2</sup> Anon as ye have taken these letters, ye that have the sons of your lord, and the chariots, and horses, and strong cities, and arms,

<sup>3</sup> choose the best, and him that pleaseth to you of the sons of your lord, and set [or putteth] him on the throne of his father, and fight ye for the house of your lord.

<sup>4</sup> And they dreaded greatly, and said, Lo! two kings might not stand before him, and how shall we be able to against-stand him?

<sup>5</sup> Therefore the sovereigns of the house, and the prefect of the city, and the greater men of birth, and the nurses sent to Jehu, and said, We be thy servants; whatever things thou commandest, we shall do, and we shall not make a king to us; do thou whatever thing pleaseth thee.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth he wrote again to them letters the second time, and said, If ye be mine, and obey to me, take ye off the heads of the sons of your lord, and come ye to me in this same hour tomorrow into Jezreel. And the sons of the king, seventy men, were nursed [or nourished] at or by the best men of the city.

<sup>7</sup> And when the letters had come to them, they took the sons of the king, and killed those seventy men, and they putted [or put] the heads of them in coffins; and sent those to Jehu into Jezreel.

<sup>8</sup> And a messenger came to him, and showed to him, and said, They have brought the heads of the sons of the king. Which answered, Put ye those heads into twain [or two] heaps, beside the entering of the gate, till the morrowtide.

<sup>9</sup> And when it was clear day, he went out, and stood, and said to all the people, Ye be just [or rightwise] men; if I conspired against my lord, and killed him, who killed all these?

<sup>10</sup> Therefore see ye now, that none of the words of the Lord hath fallen down into the earth, which the Lord spake on the house of Ahab; and the Lord hath done that, that he spake in the hand of his servant, Elijah.

<sup>12</sup> And he rose, and came into Samaria; and when he had come to the chamber of the shepherds in the way,

<sup>13</sup> he found there the brethren of Ahaziah, king of Judah; and he said to them, Who be ye? And they answered, We be the brethren of Ahaziah, and we came down to greet the sons of the king, and the sons of the queen.

<sup>14</sup> And Jehu said, Take ye them quick. And when they had taken them quick, they strangled them in the cistern, beside the chamber, two and forty men; and he left not any of them alive.

<sup>15</sup> And when he had gone from thence, he found Jehonadab, the son of Rechab, coming into meeting of him; and he blessed him. And Jehu said to him, Whether thine heart is rightful [or right] with mine heart, as mine heart is with thine heart? And Jehonadab said, It is. And Jehu said, If it is, give me thine hand. Which gave his hand to him; and Jehu raised him up to him into his chariot.

<sup>16</sup> And he said to him, Come thou with me, and see my fervent love for the Lord. And he led him, put in his chariot, into Samaria.

<sup>17</sup> And he killed all men that were residue, or left, of Ahab in Samaria, till to one, by the word of the Lord, which he spake by Elijah.

<sup>19</sup> Now therefore call ye to me all the prophets of Baal, and all his servants, and all his priests; none be that come not, for great sacrifice is of me to Baal; whoever shall fail to come, he shall not live. Forsooth Jehu did this by treason, that he should destroy all the worshippers of Baal.

<sup>20</sup> And he said, Hallow ye a solemn day to Baal. And Jehu called,

<sup>21</sup> and sent into all the terms of Israel; and all the servants of Baal came, none was left, and soothly not one was that came not. And they entered into the temple of Baal; and the house of Baal was [full-]filled, from one end till to the tother.

<sup>22</sup> And Jehu said to them that were sovereigns over the priests' clothes, Bring ye forth [the] vestments to all the servants of Baal; and they brought forth [the] vestments to them.

<sup>23</sup> And Jehu entered, and Jehonadab, the son of Rechab, into the temple of Baal. And Jehu said to the worshippers of Baal, Inquire ye, and see, lest per-adventure any of the servants of the Lord be with you; but that the servants be alone of Baal.

<sup>24</sup> Then they entered, to make slain sacrifices, and burnt sacrifices. Soothly Jehu had made ready to him without-forth fourscore men, and had said to them, Whoever shall flee away of all these, which I shall bring into your hands, the life of him that suffereth any to escape shall be for the life of him that escapeth.

<sup>25</sup> Forsooth it was done, when the burnt sacrifice was [ful] filled, Jehu commanded to his knights and [his] dukes, Enter ye, and slay them, that none escape. And the knights and dukes smote [them] with the sharpness of [the] sword, and cast forth. And they went into the city of the temple of Baal,

<sup>27</sup> and all-brake it. Also they destroyed the house of Baal, and made privies for it unto this day.

<sup>29</sup> nevertheless he went not away from the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, that made Israel to do sin, neither he forsook the golden calves, that were in Bethel and in Dan.

<sup>30</sup> Forsooth the Lord said to Jehu, For thou didest busily that that was rightful [or right], and that pleased in mine eyes, and hast done against the house of Ahab all things that were in mine heart, thy sons till to the fourth generation shall sit on the throne of Israel.

<sup>31</sup> Forsooth Jehu kept not, that he went in the law of the Lord God of Israel in all his heart; for he went not away from the sins of Jeroboam, that made Israel to do sin.

<sup>32</sup> In those days the Lord began to be annoyed* upon Israel; and Hazael smote them in all the coasts of Israel,

<sup>33</sup> from Jordan against the east coast, all the land of Gilead, and of Gad, and of Reuben, and of Manasseh, from Aroer, which is on the strand [or stream] of Arnon, and Gilead, and Bashan.

<sup>34</sup> Forsooth the residue of [the] words of Jehu, and all things that he did, and his strength, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Israel?

CHAPTER 11

<sup>2</sup> And Jehosheba, the daughter of king Jehoram*, the sister of Ahaziah, took Joash†, the son of Ahaziah, and stole him from the midst of the sons of the king, that were slain; and she took the nurse of him from the house of three stages; and she hid him from the face of Athaliah, so that he were not slain.

<sup>4</sup> But in the seventh year Jehoiada, the priest, sent, and took chieftains upon hundreds, and knights, and he brought them to him into the temple of the Lord; and covenanted with them a bond of peace, and he made them to swear in the temple of the Lord, and showed to them the son of the king.

* CHAPTER 10:32 That is, to have abomination of her deeds, for the worshipping of idols had endured long then, and many other evils came forth with those, and therefore that realm was suffered to be tormented by Hazael in many manners.    * CHAPTER 11:2 Also known as Joram.    † CHAPTER 11:2 Also known as Jehoash.

<sup>5</sup> And he commanded to them, and said, This is the word, that ye owe to do; the third part of you enter in on the sabbath day, and keep ye the watches of the king's house;

<sup>6</sup> and another third part be at the gate of Sur; and the third part be at the gate that is behind the dwelling place of the makers of shields; and ye shall keep the wakings [or watches] of the house of Masah.

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth two parts of you all going out in the sabbath, keep they the wakings [or watches] of the house of the Lord about the king.

<sup>8</sup> And ye shall encompass the king, and ye shall have arms in your hands; and if any man enter into the enclosing [or precinct] of the temple, be he slain; and ye shall be with the king going in and going out.

<sup>9</sup> And the chieftains upon hundreds did by all things that Jehoiada, the priest, had commanded to them; and they all taking their men that entered to the sabbath day, with them that went out from the sabbath day, came to Jehoiada, the priest.

<sup>10</sup> Which gave to them [the] spears, and [the] armours of king David, that were in the house of the Lord.

<sup>11</sup> And all stood having arms in their hand, from the right side of the temple unto the left side of the altar and of the house, about the king.

<sup>12</sup> And he brought forth the son of the king, and put upon his head a diadem, and the witnessing; and they made him king, and anointed him; and they clapped with the hand[s], and said, The king live!

<sup>13</sup> Forsooth Athaliah heard the voices of the people running, and she enter-ed to the companies into the temple of the Lord,

<sup>14</sup> and she saw the king standing on the throne, by custom, and singers, and companies nigh him, and all the people of the land being glad, and singing with trumps. And she rent her clothes, and cried, Swearing together! swearing together! or Conjuraton! con-juration! either treason.

<sup>15</sup> Certainly Jehoiada commanded to the chieftains upon hundreds, that were upon the host, and said to them, Lead ye her out of the enclosings [or precincts] of the temple; and whoever pursueth [or followeth] her, be he smitten with [a] sword. And the priest said, Be she not slain in the temple of the Lord.

<sup>16</sup> And they putted [or put] hands on her, and hurled her by the way of the entering of [the] horses beside the palace; and she was slain there.

<sup>17</sup> Therefore Jehoiada made bond of peace betwixt the Lord and the king, and betwixt the people, that it should be the people of the Lord; and betwixt the king and the people.

<sup>18</sup> [And] All the people of the land entered into the temple of Baal; and they destroyed the altars of him, and all-brake strongly the images; and they killed before the altar Mattan, the priest of Baal. And Jehoiada the priest set keepings in the house of the Lord;

<sup>19</sup> and he took [the] chieftains upon hundreds, and [the] legions of Chereth-ites, and Pelethites, and all the people of the land. And they led forth the king from the house of the Lord; and they came by the way of the gate of the makers of shields into the palace; and Joash sat upon the throne of kings.

<sup>20</sup> And all the people of the land was glad, and the city rested. Forsooth Athaliah was slain by sword in the house of the king.

CHAPTER 12

<sup>1</sup> Joash* reigned in the seventh year of Jehu; he reigned forty years in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Zibiah of Beersheba.

<sup>4</sup> And Joash said to the priests, All the money of [the] holy things, that is brought of men passing forth into the temple of the Lord, and that is offered for the price of [the] soul, and that men bring willfully, and by freedom of their heart, into the temple of the Lord, [the] priests by their order take it.

<sup>7</sup> And Joash, the king, called Jehoi-ada, the bishop, and the priests, and said to them, Why have ye not repaired the coverings of the temple? Therefore do not ye more take money by your order, but yield it to the reparation of the temple.

<sup>8</sup> And the priests were forbidden to take [any] more money of the people, and to repair the coverings of the house.

<sup>9</sup> And Jehoiada, the bishop, took a coffer of the treasury, and opened an hole [there] above, and setted it beside the altar, at the right side of men entering into the house of the Lord; and [the] priests, that kept the doors, sent, or put, into it all the money that was brought to the temple of the Lord.

<sup>10</sup> And when they saw that full much money was in the treasury, the scribe of the king and the bishop went up, and poured it out, and they numbered the money that was found in the house of the Lord.

<sup>11</sup> And they gave it by number and measure into the hand of them, that were sovereigns to the masons of the house of the Lord, the which gave it in carpenters, and in these masons, that wrought in the house of the Lord, and made the coverings,

<sup>12</sup> and in these men that hewed stones; and that they should buy trees and stones, that were hewn down; so that the reparation of the house of the Lord was [ful] filled in all things, that needed cost to make strong the house.

<sup>13</sup> Nevertheless water pots of the temple of the Lord were not made of the same money, and fleshhooks, and censers, and trumps; each vessel of gold and of silver were not made of the money, that was brought into the temple of the Lord.

<sup>14</sup> For it was given to them that made the work, that the temple of the Lord should be repaired.

<sup>15</sup> And reckoning was not made to these men that took the money, that they should deal it to [the] craftsmen; but they treated, or spended, it in faith.

<sup>16</sup> Soothly they brought not into the temple of the Lord the money offered for trespass, and the money for sins, for it was the priests'.

<sup>17</sup> Then Hazael, king of Syria, went up, and fought against Gath; and he took it, and dressed his face, that he should ascend [or go up] into Jerusalem.

<sup>18</sup> Wherefore Joash, king of Judah, took all the hallowed things, that Jehosh-aphat had hallowed, and Jehoram†, and Ahaziah, the fathers of him, kings of Judah, and which things he had offered, and all the silver, that might be found in the treasures [or treasuries] of the temple of the Lord, and in the palace of the king. And he sent these to Hazael, king of Syria; and he went away from Jerusalem.

<sup>21</sup> For Jozachar, the son of Shimeath, and Jehozabad, the son of Shomer, his servants, smote him, and he was dead; and they buried him with his fathers in the city of David; and Amaziah, his son, reigned for him.

CHAPTER 13

<sup>1</sup> In the three and twentieth year of Joash*, the son of Ahaziah, king of Judah, Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu, reigned upon Israel, in Samaria seven-teen years.

<sup>2</sup> And he did evil before the Lord, and he pursued [or followed] the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, that made Israel to do sin; and he bowed not away from those sins.

<sup>3</sup> And the strong vengeance of the Lord was wroth against Israel, and he betook them into the hand of Hazael, king of Syria, and in the hand of Benhadad, son of Hazael, in all days.

<sup>4</sup> Forsooth Jehoahaz besought the face of the Lord, and the Lord heard him; for he saw the anguish of Israel, for the king of Syria had all-broken them.

<sup>5</sup> And the Lord gave a saviour to Israel, and he was delivered from the hand of the king of Syria; and the sons of Israel dwelled in their tabernacles, as yesterday and the third day ago.

<sup>6</sup> Nevertheless they departed not from the sins of the house of Jero-boam, that made Israel to do sin; but they went in those sins; soothly also the [maumet] wood dwelled in Samaria.

<sup>7</sup> And to Jehoahaz were not left of the people, but five hundred knights, and ten chariots, and ten thousand of footmen; for the king of Syria had slain them, and had driven them [down] as into powder in the threshing of a corn-floor.

<sup>8</sup> Forsooth the residue of [the] words of Jehoahaz, and all things that he did, and the strength of him, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Israel?

<sup>10</sup> In the seven and thirtieth year of Joash, king of Judah, Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz, reigned upon Israel in Samaria sixteen years‡.

<sup>11</sup> And he did that, that is evil in the sight of the Lord; for he bowed not away from all the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, that made Israel to do sin; but he went in those sins.

<sup>12</sup> Forsooth the residue of [the] words of Jehoash, and all things that he did, but also his strength, how he fought against Amaziah, king of Judah, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Israel?

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth Elisha was sick in a sickness, by which and he was dead; and Jehoash, king of Israel, went down to him, and wept before him, and said, My father! my father! the chariot of Israel, and the charioteer thereof!

<sup>15</sup> And Elisha said to him, Bring thou a bow and arrows. And when he had brought to Elisha a bow and arrows,

<sup>16</sup> he said to the king of Israel, Set [or Put] thine hand on the bow. And when he had set [or put] his hand, Elisha setted [or put] his hands on the hands of the king,

<sup>17</sup> and said, Open thou the east window. And when he had opened, Elisha said, Shoot thou an arrow; and he shot. And Elisha said, This is an arrow of [the] health or victory of the Lord, and an arrow of health against Syria; and thou shalt smite Syria in Aphek, till thou waste it.

<sup>18</sup> And Elisha said, Take away the arrows. And when he had taken away, Elisha said to him, Smite thou the earth with a dart. And when he had smitten three times, and had stood,

<sup>19</sup> the man of God was wroth against him, and said, If thou haddest smitten five times, either six times, either seven times, thou shouldst have smitten Syria unto the ending; now forsooth thou shalt smite it three times.

<sup>20</sup> Then Elisha was dead, and they buried him. And the thieves of Moab came into the land in that year.

<sup>21</sup> Forsooth some men buried a man, and they saw the thieves, and they cast forth the dead body into the sepulchre of Elisha; and when it had touched the bones of Elisha, the man lived again, and stood up on his feet.

<sup>23</sup> And the Lord had mercy on them, and turned again to them for his covenant, that he had made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; and he would not destroy them, neither cast them away utterly, into this present time.

<sup>25</sup> Forsooth Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz, took away [the] cities from the hand of Benhadad, the son of Hazael, which he had taken by the right of battle from the hand of Jehoahaz, his father; Jehoash smote him three times, and he yielded those cities to Israel.

CHAPTER 14

<sup>1</sup> In the second year of Jehoash*, the son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel, Amaziah, the son of Joash†, king of Judah, reigned.

<sup>2</sup> Amaziah was of five and twenty years, when he began to reign; and he reigned in Jerusalem nine and twenty years; the name of his mother was Jehoaddan of Jerusalem.

<sup>3</sup> And he did rightfulness [or right] before the Lord, nevertheless not as David, his father, did; he did by all things that Joash, his father, did, <sup>4</sup> no but this only, that he did not away high things; for yet the people made sacrifice, and burnt incense in high things.

<sup>5</sup> And when he had gotten the realm, he smote his servants, that had killed the king, his father;

<sup>6</sup> but he killed not the sons of them that had slain the king or his father, by that that is written in the book of the law of Moses, as the Lord commanded to Moses, and said, [The] Fathers shall not die for the sons, neither the sons for the fathers, but each man shall die in his own sin.

<sup>7</sup> He smote Edom in the valley of makings of salt, he smote ten thousand, and took the Stone in battle; and he called the name thereof Joktheel‡, which it is still called unto this present day.

<sup>8</sup> Then Amaziah sent messengers to Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu, king of Israel, and said, Come thou, and see we us in battle.

* CHAPTER 14:1 Also known as Joash. † CHAPTER 14:1 Also known as Jehoash(!). ‡ CHAPTER 14:7 That is, 'soreness of teeth', for they that were slain there gnashed with teeth, for the horror and sorrow of death.

<sup>9</sup> And Jehoash, king of Israel, sent again to Amaziah, king of Judah, and said mystically, The carduus, or thistle, that is, a low herb, and full of thorns, of the Lebanon sent to the cedar, that is in the Lebanon, and said, Give thy daughter as wife to my son; and the beasts of the forest, that be in the Lebanon, passed forth, and trode down the carduus.

<sup>10</sup> Thou hast smitten Edom, and haddest the mastery upon it, and thine heart hath raised thee; be thou satisfied with this glory, and sit in thine house; why excitest, or stirrest up, thou evil, so that thou fall, and Judah with thee?

<sup>11</sup> And Amaziah assented not to be in peace; and Jehoash, king of Israel, went up, and he and Amaziah, king of Judah, saw themselves when they met in battle in Bethshemesh, a city of Judah.

<sup>12</sup> And Judah was smitten before Israel; and they fled each man into his tabernacles.

<sup>13</sup> Soothly Jehoash, king of Israel, took in Bethshemesh Amaziah, king of Judah, the son of Joash, the son of Ahaziah, and brought him into Jerusalem; and he brake the wall of Jerusalem, from the gate of Ephraim unto the gate of the corner, by four hundred cubits.

<sup>14</sup> And he took all the gold and silver, and all the vessels, that were found in the house of the Lord, and in the treasures [or treasuries] of the king; and he took hostages, and turned again into Samaria.

<sup>15</sup> Soothly the residue of [the] words of Jehoash, which he did, and his strength, by which he fought against Amaziah, king of Judah, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Israel?

<sup>16</sup> And Jehoash slept with his fathers, and was buried in Samaria with the kings of Israel; and Jeroboam II, his son, reigned for him§.

<sup>17</sup> Forsooth Amaziah, the son of Joash, king of Judah, lived five and twenty years, after that Jehoash, the son of Jehoahaz, king of Israel, was dead.

<sup>18</sup> Forsooth the residue of the words of Amaziah, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Judah?

<sup>19</sup> And swearing together, that is, conspiracy, in Jerusalem was made against him, and he fled into Lachish; and they sent after him into Lachish, and killed him there.

<sup>23</sup> In the fifteenth year of Amaziah, the son of Joash, king of Judah, Jeroboam II, the son of Jehoash, king of Israel, reigned in Samaria one and forty years;

<sup>24</sup> and did that, that is evil before the Lord; he went not away from all the sins of Jeroboam, [the] son of Nebat, that made Israel to do sin.

<sup>25</sup> He restored the terms of Israel, from the entering of Hamath unto the sea of wilderness, by the word of the Lord God of Israel, which he spake by his servant Jonah, the son of Amittai, by Jonah, the prophet, that was of Gath, that is in Hephher.

<sup>26</sup> For the Lord saw the full bitter torment of Israel, and that they were wasted unto the enclosed men of prison, and to the last men, and there was none that helped Israel.

<sup>27</sup> And the Lord spake not, that he should do away [the name of] Israel from under heaven, but he saved them in the hand of Jeroboam II, the son of Jehoash.

<sup>1</sup> In the seven and twentieth year of Jeroboam II, king of Israel, Azariah*, the son of Amaziah, king of Judah, reigned;

<sup>2</sup> he was of sixteen years, when he began to reign, and he reigned two and fifty years in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Jecoliah of Jerusalem.

<sup>3</sup> And he did that, that was pleasant before the Lord, by all things that Amaziah, his father, had done;

<sup>5</sup> Forsooth the Lord smote the king, and he was leprous till into the day of his death; and he dwelled in an house freely by himself. Soothly Jotham, [the] son of the king, governed the palace, and deemed the people of the land.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth the residue of the words of Azariah, and all things that he did, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Judah?

<sup>8</sup> In the eight and thirtieth year of Azariah, king of Judah, Zechariah, the son of Jeroboam, reigned upon Israel in Samaria six months.

<sup>9</sup> And he did that, that was evil before the Lord, as his fathers did; he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, that made Israel to do sin.

<sup>10</sup> Forsooth Shallum, the son of Jabesh, conspired against him in Samaria; and Shallum smote him before the people, and killed him, and reigned for him.

<sup>12</sup> This is the word of the Lord, which he spake to Jehu, and said, Thy sons till to the fourth generation shall sit on the throne of thee of Israel; and it was done so.

<sup>13</sup> Shallum, the son of Jabesh, reigned in the ninth and thirty year of Azariah, king of Judah; soothly he reigned one month in Samaria.

<sup>24</sup> And he did that, that was evil before the Lord; he departed not from the sins of Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, that made Israel to do sin.

<sup>25</sup> Forsooth Pekah, the son of Re-maliah, a duke of his host, conspired against him, and smote him in Samaria, in the tower of the king's house, that is, the palace, besides Argob, and besides Arieah; and he smote him with fifty men of the sons of Gileadites; and Pekah killed him, and reigned for him.

<sup>30</sup> Forsooth Hoshea, the son of Elah, conspired, and set treasons against Pekah, the son of Remaliah, and smote him, and killed him; and he reigned for him, in the twentieth year of Jotham, the son of Uzziah, that is, the son of Azariah.

<sup>38</sup> And Jotham slept with his fathers, and was buried with them in the city of David, his father; and Ahaz, his son, reigned for him.

CHAPTER 16

<sup>2</sup> Ahaz was of twenty years, when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem; he did not that, that was pleasant in the sight of his Lord God, as David, his father, did,

<sup>3</sup> but he went in the way of the kings of Israel. Furthermore and he hallowed his son, and bare, or drew him, through the fire, after the idols of heathen men, which the Lord destroyed before the sons of Israel.

<sup>4</sup> And he offered sacrifices, and burnt incense in high places, and in hills, and under each tree full of boughs.

<sup>5</sup> Then Rezin, king of Syria, and Pekah, son of Remaliah, king of Israel, went up into Jerusalem to fight with Ahaz; and when they besieged Ahaz, they might not overcome him.

<sup>6</sup> In that time Rezin, king of Syria, restored Elath to Syria, and casted out the Jews from Elath; and Idumeans and men of Syria came into Elath, and dwelled there till into this day.

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth Ahaz sent messengers to Tiglathpileser, king of Assyrians, and said, I am thy servant and thy son; go thou up, and make me safe from the hand of the king of Syria, and from the hand of the king of Israel, that have risen together against me.

<sup>8</sup> And when Ahaz had gathered together silver and gold, that might be found in the house of the Lord, and in the treasures [or treasures] of the king, he sent gifts to the king of Assyrians;

<sup>9</sup> and he assented to his will. Soothly the king of Assyrians went up into Damascus, and wasted it, and translated or brought over the dwellers thereof to Kir; soothly he killed Rezin.

<sup>10</sup> And king Ahaz went into meeting to Tiglathpileser, king of Assyrians; and when king Ahaz had seen the altar of Damascus, he sent into Jerusalem to Urijah, the priest, the exemplar and [the] likeness thereof, by all the work thereof.

<sup>11</sup> And Urijah, the priest, builded an altar by all things that king Ahaz had commanded from Damascus; so did the priest Urijah, till king Ahaz came from Damascus.

<sup>13</sup> and he went up, and offered burnt sacrifices, and his sacrifice; and he offered moist [or liquor] sacrifices, and he poured the blood of peace-able things, which he had offered, on the altar.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth he did away the brazen altar, that was before the Lord, from the face of the temple, and from between the place of the new altar, and the place of the temple of the Lord; and setted [or put] it on the side of the new altar at the north or he set God's altar at the north side of his altar.

<sup>15</sup> Also king Ahaz commanded to Urijah, the priest, and said, Offer thou upon the more altar, that is, on the new altar, the burnt sacrifice of the morrowtide, and the sacrifice of the eventide, and the burnt sacrifice of the king, and the grain sacrifice of him, and the burnt sacrifice of all the people of the land, and the grain sacrifices of them, and the moist [or liquor] sacrifices of them; and thou shalt pour out upon that new altar all the blood of [the] burnt sacrifice, and all the blood of [the] slain sacrifice; soothly the brazen altar shall be [made] ready at my will.

<sup>17</sup> Forsooth king Ahaz took away the painted foundations or bases of the pillars, and the washing vessel, that was set above, and he put down the sea, that is, the washing vessel for priests, from [off] the brazen oxen, that sustained it, and he setted [or put] it on the pavement arrayed with stone.

<sup>18</sup> Also he turned the chamber of [the] sabbath, which he had builded in the temple, and he turned the entering of the king withoutforth into the temple of the Lord, for to please the king of Assyrians.

<sup>19</sup> Forsooth the residue of [the] words of Ahaz, and all things which he did, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Judah?

CHAPTER 17

<sup>2</sup> And he did evil before the Lord, but not as the kings of Israel, that were before him.

<sup>4</sup> And when the king of Assyrians had perceived, that Hoshea enforced or endeavoured to rebel, and had sent messengers to So, king of Egypt, that he should not give tributes to the king of Assyrians, as he was wont by all years, the king of Assyrians besieged him, and sent him bound into prison.

<sup>5</sup> And Shalmaneser went through-[out] all the land, and he went up to Samaria, and besieged it three years.

<sup>6</sup> Forsooth in the ninth year of Hoshea, the king of Assyrians took Samaria, and translated or brought over Israel into Assyrians; and he put them in Halah, and in Habor, beside the flood [of] Gozan, in the cities of Medes.

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth it was done, when the sons of Israel had sinned before their Lord God, that led them out of the land of Egypt, from under the hand of Pharaoh, king of Egypt, they worship-ped alien gods;

<sup>8</sup> and went by the custom of heathen men, which the Lord had wasted in the sight of the sons of Israel, and of the kings of Israel, for they had done in like manner.

<sup>9</sup> And the sons of Israel offended their Lord God by words not rightful [or right], and they builded to them-selves high things in all their cities, from the tower of keepers unto a strengthened city.

<sup>10</sup> And they made to them images, and maumet woods, in each high hill, and under each tree full of boughs;

<sup>11</sup> and they burnt there incense on the altars, by the custom of heathen men, which the Lord had translated or brought over from the face of them. And they did [the] worst words, that is, worst works, and they wrathed the Lord;

<sup>12</sup> and [they] worshipped [the] unclean-nesses, of which the Lord commanded to them, that they should not do this word.

<sup>13</sup> And the Lord witnessed in Israel and in Judah, by the hand of all prophets, and [the] seers, and said, Turn ye again from your worst or your full evil ways, and keep my commandments, and [my] ceremonies, by all the law which I commanded to your fathers, and as I sent to you in the hand of my servants the prophets.

<sup>15</sup> And they casted away the lawful things of him, and the covenant that he covenanted with their fathers, and the witnessings by which he witnessed to them; and they pursued [or followed] vanities, that is, idols, and did vainly; and pursued [or followed] heathen men, that were about them; of which things the Lord commanded to them, that they should not do as also those heathen men did.

<sup>16</sup> And they forsook all the command-ments of their Lord God, and they made to them two molten calves, and maumet woods, and worshipped all the knighthood of heaven, that is, sun, and moon, and other planets; and they served Baal, <sup>17</sup> and [they] hallowed to him their sons, and their daughters, through fire, and they served to false divining, and to divining by chittering of birds; and they gave themselves to do evil before the Lord, and they wrathed him.

<sup>19</sup> But neither Judah himself kept the behests of the Lord his God, but nevertheless he erred, and went in the error of Israel, which it wrought.

<sup>20</sup> And the Lord casted away all the seed of Israel, and tormented them, and betook them in the hand of raveners; till he had cast away them from his face,

<sup>21</sup> from that time in which Israel was parted from the house of David, and [they] made to them a king, Jeroboam, the son of Nebat. For Jeroboam separated Israel from the Lord, and made them to do great sin.

<sup>22</sup> And the sons of Israel went in all the sins of Jeroboam, which he had done; and they departed not from those sins,

<sup>23</sup> till the Lord did away Israel from his face, as he spake in the hand of all his servants the prophets; and Israel was translated or brought over from his land into Assyrians till into this day.

<sup>24</sup> Forsooth the king of Assyrians brought people from Babylon, and from Cuthah, and from Ava, and from Hamath, and from Sepharvaim, and set them in the cities of Samaria for the sons of Israel; and these had in possession Samaria, and they dwelled in the cities thereof.

<sup>25</sup> And when they began to dwell there, they dreaded not the Lord; and the Lord sent to them lions, the which killed them.

<sup>26</sup> And it was told to the king of Assyrians, and was said, The folks which thou hast translated or brought over, and madest to dwell in the cities of Samaria, know not the lawful things of [the] God of the land; and the Lord hath sent lions into them, and lo! those [or they] slay them; for they know not the custom of [the] God of the land.

<sup>27</sup> Soothly the king of Assyrians commanded, and said, Lead ye thither one of the priests, which ye brought as prisoners from thence, that he go, and dwell with them, and teach them the lawful things of God of the land.

<sup>28</sup> Therefore when one of these priests had come, that were led away as prisoners from Samaria, he dwelled in Bethel, and taught them, how they should worship the Lord.

<sup>29</sup> And each folk made his god, and they setted [or put] those gods in the high temples, which the men of Samaria had made, folk and folk in their cities, in which they dwelled.

<sup>31</sup> and Avites made Nibhaz and Tartak; soothly they that were of Sepharvaim burnt their sons in fire to Adrammelech and Anammelech, the gods of Sepharvaim.

<sup>32</sup> And nevertheless they worshipped the Lord; forsooth of the last men, that is, of vile persons, that were not of priests' kin, by the law of Moses, they made priests of the high things, and setted [or put] them in high temples.

<sup>33</sup> And when they worshipped God, they served also their gods, by the custom of heathen men, from which they were translated or brought over to Samaria;

<sup>34</sup> till to this present day they pursue [or follow] the eld [or old] custom; they dreaded not the Lord, neither they keep his ceremonies, and dooms, and law, and commandment, which the Lord commanded to the sons of Jacob, whom he named Israel;

<sup>35</sup> and the Lord [had] smote a covenant with them, and [had] commanded to them, and said, Do not ye dread alien gods, and honour ye not outwardly them, neither worship ye inwardly them, and make ye not sacrifice to them;

<sup>36</sup> but your Lord God, that led you out of the land of Egypt in great strength, and in an arm stretched out, dread ye him, and worship ye him, and make ye sacrifice to him.

<sup>37</sup> Also keep ye the ceremonies, and [the] dooms, and the law, and the commandment, which he wrote to you, that ye do it in all days; and dread ye not alien gods.

<sup>41</sup> Therefore soothly these heathen men dreaded God; but nevertheless they served also their idols, for both their sons and the sons of their sons do so, till into this present day, as their fathers did.

CHAPTER 18

<sup>1</sup> In the third year of Hoshea, the son of Elah, king of Israel, reigned Hezekiah, son of Ahaz, king of Judah.

<sup>2</sup> He was of five and twenty years, when he began to reign, and he reigned in Jerusalem nine and twenty years; the name of his mother was Abi, the daughter of Zechariah.

<sup>4</sup> And he destroyed [the] high places, and all-brake [the] images, and cut down [the maumet] woods, and he brake the brazen serpent, whom Moses had made; for unto that time the sons of Israel burnt incense to it; and he called the name of it Nehushtan.

<sup>5</sup> And he hoped in the Lord God of Israel; therefore after him none was like him of all the kings of Judah, but neither also in the kings that were before him.

<sup>6</sup> And he cleaved to the Lord, and went not away from his steps, and he did the commandments of the Lord, which the Lord commanded to Moses;

<sup>7</sup> wherefore and the Lord was with him, and he governed wisely himself in all things, to which he went forth. Also he rebelled against the king of Assyrians, and therefore he served not to him;

<sup>8</sup> and he smote [the] Philistines till to Gaza, and all the terms of them, from the tower of the keepers unto a city made strong.

<sup>9</sup> In the fourth year of king Heze-kiah, that was the seventh year of Hoshea, the son of Elah, king of Israel, Shalmaneser, king of Assyrians, went up to Samaria, and fought against it,

<sup>10</sup> and took it. For after three years, in the sixth year of Hezekiah, that is, in the ninth year of Hoshea, king of Israel, Samaria was taken;

<sup>11</sup> and the king of Assyrians translated or brought over Israel into Assyrians, and he set them in Halah, and in Habor, rivers of Gozan, in the cities of Medes;

<sup>12</sup> for they heard not the voice of their Lord God, but they brake his covenant; they heard not, neither did all things, which Moses, the servant of the Lord, [had] commanded.

<sup>14</sup> Then Hezekiah, king of Judah, sent messengers to the king of Assyrians into Lachish, and said, I have sinned; go away from me, and I shall bear all things, that thou shalt put to me. Therefore the king of Assyrians putted on Hezekiah, king of Judah, a fine of three hundred talents of silver, and thirty talents of gold.

<sup>15</sup> And Hezekiah gave all the silver, that was found in the house of the Lord, and in the king's treasures [or treasuries], to the king of Assyrians.

<sup>16</sup> In that time Hezekiah brake the gates of the temple of the Lord, and the plates of gold, which he had fastened to them, and he gave those [or them] to the king of Assyrians.

<sup>17</sup> Forsooth the king of Assyrians sent Tartan, and Rabsaris, and Rabshakeh, from Lachish to king Hezekiah, with strong hand to Jerusalem; and when they had gone up, they came to Jerusalem, and stood beside the water conduit of the higher cistern, which is in the way of the fuller, either tucker.

<sup>18</sup> And they called the king; soothly Eliakim, the son of Hilkiah, the sovereign of the house, and Shebna, the scribe, and Joah, chancellor, the son of Asaph, went out to them.

<sup>19</sup> And Rabshakeh said to them, Speak ye to Hezekiah, The great king, the king of Assyrians, saith these things, What is this trust, in which thou enforcest or endeavourest thee?

<sup>21</sup> Whether thou hopest in a staff of a reed and broken, that is, upon Egypt, on which, if a man leaneth, it shall be broken, and shall enter into his hand, and shall pierce it. So is Pharaoh, king of Egypt, to all men that trust in him.

<sup>22</sup> That if thou sayest to me, We have trust in the Lord our God; whether this is not he, whose high things and altars Hezekiah took away, and commanded to Judah and to Jerusalem, saying, Ye shall worship before this altar in Jerusalem?

<sup>23</sup> Now therefore, give ye weds to my lord, the king of Assyrians, and I shall give to you two thousand of horses, and see ye, whether ye may have riders of them?

<sup>25</sup> Whether I ascended [or went] up without God's will to this place, that I should destroy it? The Lord said to me, Ascend thou [or Go ye up] to this land, and destroy thou it.

<sup>26</sup> Forsooth Eliakim, the son of Hilkiah, and Shebna, and Joah, said to Rabshakeh, We pray thee, that thou speak by the language of Syria to us, thy servants; for we understand this language; and that thou speak not to us by the language of Jews, while the people heareth, which is on the wall.

<sup>27</sup> And Rabshakeh answered, and said, Whether my lord sent me to thy lord and to thee, that I should speak these words, and not rather to the men that sit on the wall, that they eat their turds, and drink their piss with you?

<sup>28</sup> Therefore Rabshakeh stood, and cried with [a] great voice by language of Jews, and said, Hear ye the words of the great king, the king of Assyrians.

<sup>30</sup> neither give he trust to you on the Lord, and say, The Lord delivering shall deliver us, and this city shall not be betaken in the hand of the king of Assyrians;

<sup>31</sup> do not ye hear Hezekiah. For the king of Assyrians saith these things, Do ye with me that, that is profitable to you, and go ye out to me; and each man shall eat of his vinery [or vine], and of his fig tree, and ye shall drink waters of your cisterns,

<sup>32</sup> till I come, and translate you, or bear you over, into a land which is like your land, into a fruitful land, and plenteous of wine, a land of bread, and of vineries [or vines], a land of olive trees, and of oil, and of honey; and ye shall live, and ye shall not die. Do not ye hear Hezekiah, that deceiveth you, and saith, The Lord shall deliver you.

<sup>34</sup> Where is [the] god of Hamath, and of Arpad? Where is [the] god of Sepharvaim, of Hena, and of Ivah? Whether they delivered Samaria from mine hand?

<sup>35</sup> For who be they in all [the] gods of lands, that delivered their country from mine hand, that the Lord may deliver Jerusalem from mine hand?

<sup>36</sup> Therefore the people was still, and answered not anything to him; for they had taken commandment of the king, that they should not answer to him.

<sup>37</sup> And Eliakim, the son of Hilkiah, the sovereign of the house, and Shebna, the scribe, and Joah, the chancellor, the son of Asaph, came with rent clothes to Hezekiah; and told to him the words of Rabshakeh.

CHAPTER 19

<sup>3</sup> The which said to him, Hezekiah saith these things, This day is a day of tribulation, and of blaming, and of blasphemy; sons came unto the birth, and the mother travailing hath not strength thereto.

<sup>4</sup> If peradventure thy Lord God hear all the words of Rabshakeh, whom the king of Assyrians, his lord hath sent, that he should despise the Lord living, and reprove by words, which thy Lord God heard; and make thou prayer for these remnants of the people, that be found.

<sup>6</sup> and Isaiah said to them, Say ye these things to your lord, The Lord saith these things, Do not thou dread of the face, or showing, of the words, that thou heardest, by which the children of the king of Assyrians blasphemed me.

<sup>7</sup> Lo! I shall send to him a spirit, and he shall hear a messenger, and he shall turn again into his land; and I shall cast him down by sword in his own land.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore Rabshakeh turned again, and found the king of Assyrians fighting against Libnah; for he had heard, that the king had gone away from Lachish.

<sup>9</sup> And when he had heard of Tirhakah, king of Ethiopia, men saying, Lo! he went out, that he fight against thee; that he should go against that king, he sent messengers to Hezekiah, and said,

<sup>10</sup> Say ye these things to Hezekiah, king of Judah, Thy Lord God, in whom thou hast trust, deceive not thee, neither say thou, Jerusalem shall not be betaken into the hands of the king of Assyrians;

<sup>11</sup> for thou thyself hast heard what things the kings of Assyrians have done in all lands, how they have wasted them; whether therefore thou alone mayest be delivered?

<sup>12</sup> Whether the gods of heathen men delivered all men which my fathers destroyed, that is, Gozan, and Haran, and Rezeph, and the sons of Eden, that were in Thelasar?

<sup>13</sup> Where is the king of Hamath, and the king of Arpad? and the king of the city of Sepharvaim, of Hena, and of Ivah?

<sup>14</sup> Therefore when Hezekiah had taken the letters from the hand of the messengers, and had read them, he went up into the house of the Lord, and spreaded abroad those letters before the Lord;

<sup>15</sup> and prayed in his sight, and said, Lord God of Israel, that sittest upon cherubim, thou art God alone of all kings of [the] earth; thou madest heaven and earth.

<sup>16</sup> Bow [down] thine ear, and hear; open thine eyes, Lord, and see; and hear all the words of Sennacherib, the which hath sent to us, that he would despise the living God.

<sup>18</sup> and they have sent the gods of them into fire; for they were not gods, but [the] works of men's hands, of wood and of stone; and they destroyed them.

<sup>19</sup> Now therefore, our Lord God, make us safe from the hand of them, that all the realms of [the] earth know that thou art the Lord God alone.

<sup>20</sup> Forsooth Isaiah, the son of Amoz, sent to Hezekiah, and said, The Lord God of Israel saith these things, I have heard those things, which thou prayedest me on Sennacherib, king of Assyrians.

<sup>23</sup> By the hand of thy servants thou hast despised the Lord, and saidest, In the multitude of my chariots I went up into the high things of hills, in the highness of Lebanon, and [I] cutted down the high cedars thereof, and the chosen box trees thereof; and I entered unto the terms, or uttermost coasts, thereof, and I cutted down the forest of Carmel thereof;

<sup>25</sup> Whether thou heardest not, what I made at the beginning? From [the] eld [or old] days I made it, and now I have brought it forth; and strengthened cities of fighters shall be into falling of hills.

<sup>26</sup> And they that sit meek in hand in those cities, trembled together, and be shamed; they be made as the hay of the field, and as green herb of roofs, which dried, or withered, before that it came to ripeness.

<sup>27</sup> And I knew thy dwelling [place], and thy going out, and thine entering or thy going in, and thy way, and thy strong vengeance against me.

<sup>28</sup> Thou were wroth against me, and thy pride went up into mine ears; therefore I shall put a ring in thy nostrils, and a barnacle in thy lips, and I shall lead thee again into the way by which thou camest.

<sup>29</sup> Forsooth Hezekiah, this shall be a sign to thee; eat thou in this year that, that thou findest; forsooth in the second year, those things that grow by their own will; soothly in the third year, sow ye, and reap ye, and plant ye vineries [or vines], and eat the fruits of those [or them].

<sup>30</sup> And whatever thing shall be residue, or left over, of the house of Judah, it shall send root downward, and shall make fruit upward.

<sup>33</sup> He shall turn again by the way by which he came, and he shall not enter into this city, saith the Lord;

<sup>34</sup> and I shall defend this city, and I shall save it for myself, and for David, my servant.

<sup>35</sup> Therefore it was done, in that night the angel of the Lord came, and smote in the castles [or tents] of the Assyrians an hundred fourscore and five thousand. And when Sennacherib had risen early, he saw all the bodies of [the] dead men;

<sup>36</sup> and he departed, and went away. And Sennacherib, king of Assyrians, turned again, and dwelled in Nineveh.

<sup>37</sup> And when he worshipped in the temple Nisroch his god, Adrammelech and Sharezer, his sons, killed him with sword; and they fled into the land of Armenia; and Esarhaddon, his son, reigned for him.

CHAPTER 20

<sup>1</sup> In those days Hezekiah was sick unto the death; and Isaiah, the prophet, the son of Amoz, came to him, and said to him, The Lord God saith these things, Command or Dispose to thine house, that is, make thy testament, for thou shalt die, and thou shalt not live.

<sup>2</sup> And Hezekiah turned his face to the wall, and worshipped the Lord, and said,

<sup>3</sup> I beseech, Lord, have mind, how I have gone before thee in truth, and in a perfect heart, and I did that, that was pleasant before thee. Then Hezekiah wept with a great weeping.

<sup>4</sup> And before that Isaiah went out half the part of the courtyard, the word of the Lord was made to Isaiah, and said,

<sup>5</sup> Turn thou again, and say to Hezekiah, the duke of my people, The Lord, God of David, thy father, saith these things, I have heard thy prayer, and I saw thy tears, and lo! I have healed thee. In the third day thou shalt go up into the temple of the Lord,

<sup>6</sup> and I shall add fifteen years to thy days; but also I shall deliver thee and this city from the hand of the king of Assyrians, and I shall defend this city for me, and for David, my servant.

<sup>7</sup> And Isaiah said, Bring ye to me a gobbet of figs. And when they had brought it, and had put it on the botch of Hezekiah or on his botch, he was healed.

<sup>8</sup> And Hezekiah said to Isaiah, What shall be the sign, that the Lord shall heal me, and also that in the third day I shall go up into the temple of the Lord?

<sup>9</sup> To whom Isaiah said, This shall be a sign of the Lord, that the Lord shall do the word which he spake; wilt thou, that the shadow of the sun go further by ten lines, either turn again by so many degrees?

<sup>10</sup> And Hezekiah said, It is light, or easy, that the shadow increase by ten lines, neither I will or desire that this be done, but that it turn again back-ward by ten degrees.

<sup>11</sup> Then Isaiah, the prophet, called inwardly the Lord, and brought again backward by ten degrees the shadow by the same lines, by which it had gone down then in the horologe of Ahaz.

<sup>12</sup> In that time, Berodach-baladan, the son of Baladan, the king of Babylon, sent letters and gifts to Hezekiah; for he had heard that Hezekiah had been sick, and had recovered.

<sup>13</sup> And Hezekiah was glad in the coming of them, and he showed to them the house of spiceries, and gold, and silver, and diverse pigments, also ointments, and the house of his vessels, and all things that he might have in his treasures [or treasures]; there was not any word, or thing, in his house, and in all his power, that Hezekiah showed not to them.

<sup>14</sup> Soothly Isaiah, the prophet, came to king Hezekiah, and said to him, What said these men, either from whence came they to thee? To whom Hezekiah said, They came to me from a far land, from Babylon.

<sup>15</sup> And he answered, What have they seen in thine house? Hezekiah said, They have seen all things, whatever things be in mine house; nothing is in my treasures [or treasures], which I showed not to them.

<sup>17</sup> Lo! days come, and all things that be in thine house, and which things thy fathers made till into this day, shall be taken away into Babylon; not anything shall dwell, saith the Lord.

<sup>18</sup> But also of thy sons, that shall go out of thee, which thou shalt beget, shall be taken [away], and they shall be geldings in the palace of the king of Babylon.

<sup>19</sup> And Hezekiah said to Isaiah, The word of the Lord, which he spake, is good; only peace and truth be in my days.

<sup>20</sup> Forsooth the residue of [the] words of Hezekiah, and all his strength, and how he made a cistern, and a water conduit, and brought water into the city, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Judah?

CHAPTER 21

<sup>1</sup> Manasseh was of twelve years, when he began to reign, and he reigned five and fifty years in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Hephzibah.

<sup>2</sup> And he did evil in the sight of the Lord, after the evils of heathen men, the which men the Lord did away from the face of the sons of Israel.

<sup>3</sup> And he was turned, and builded [up] high things, which Hezekiah, his father destroyed; and he raised up altars of Baal, and he made maumet woods, as Ahab, king of Israel, had done; and he worshipped withoutforth all the knighthood of heaven, and worshipped it in heart.

<sup>4</sup> And he builded altars in the house of the Lord, of which the Lord said, I shall set my name in Jerusalem.

<sup>6</sup> and he led over his son through the fire; and he used false divinings in altars, on which sacrifice was made to fiends, and he kept false divinings by chittering of birds; and he made men to have evil spirits speaking in the womb, and he multiplied false diviners in entrails of beasts sacrificed to fiends, that he should do evil before the Lord, and stir him to ire.

<sup>7</sup> And he set an idol of wood, that he had made, in the temple of the Lord, of which temple the Lord spake to David, and to Solomon, his son, saying, I shall set [or put] my name without end in this temple, and in Jerusalem, which I chose of all the lineages of Israel.

<sup>8</sup> And I shall no more make the foot of Israel to be moved from the land which I gave to the fathers of them; so nevertheless if they keep in work all things that I have commanded to them, and all the law that Moses, my servant, commanded to them.

<sup>9</sup> Soothly they heard not, but were deceived of Manasseh, that they did evil over heathen men, which the Lord all-brake from the face of the sons of Israel.

<sup>11</sup> For Manasseh, king of Judah, did these worst abominations over all things which Amorites did before him, and made also the people of Judah to do sin in his uncleannesses;

<sup>12</sup> therefore the Lord God of Israel saith these things, Lo! I shall bring in evils upon Jerusalem and Judah, that whoever heareth of it, both his ears [shall] tingle, or ring;

<sup>13</sup> and I shall hold forth upon Jerusalem the cord of Samaria, and the burden of the house of Ahab, and I shall do away Jerusalem, as tables be wont to be done away; and I shall do away and overturn it, and I shall lead full oft a pointel upon the face thereof.

<sup>14</sup> Forsooth I shall leave [the] remnants of mine heritage, and I shall betake them into the hand of enemies thereof; and they shall be into destroying, and into raven to all their adversaries;

<sup>15</sup> for they did evil before me, and they continued in stirring me to ire, from the day in which their fathers went out of the land of Egypt, unto this day.

<sup>16</sup> Furthermore also Manasseh shedded full much innocent blood, till he filled Jerusalem unto the mouth, without his sins by which he made Judah to do sin, to do evil before the Lord.

<sup>17</sup> Forsooth the residue of the words of Manasseh, and all things that he did, and his sin that he sinned, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Judah?

<sup>19</sup> Amon was of two and twenty years, when he began to reign; and he reigned two years in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Meshullemeth, the daughter of Haruz of Jotbah.

<sup>21</sup> And he went in all the way, by which his father had gone, and he served to [the] uncleannesses, that is, idols, to which his father had served, and he worshipped those [or them];

<sup>23</sup> And his servants setted treasons to him, and killed the king in his house.

<sup>24</sup> Soothly the people of the Lord smote all the men, that had conspired against king Amon, and they ordained to them a king, Josiah, his son, for him.

<sup>25</sup> Forsooth the residue of [the] words of Amon, and all things which he did, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Judah?

CHAPTER 22

<sup>1</sup> Josiah was of eight years, when he began to reign, and he reigned one and thirty years in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Jedidah, the daughter of Adaiah of Boscath.

<sup>3</sup> Forsooth in the eighteenth year of king Josiah, the king sent Shaphan, the son of Azaliah, the son of Meshullam, [the] scribe, either doctor, of the temple of the Lord, and said to him,

<sup>4</sup> Go thou to Hilkiah, the great priest, and command that the money, which is borne into the temple of the Lord, be molten together, which money the porters of the temple have gathered of the people;

<sup>5</sup> and that it be given to craftsmen by the sovereigns of the house of the Lord; which also parted [or dealed] that money to them that work in the temple of the Lord, to repair the roofs of the temple of the Lord,

<sup>6</sup> that is, to carpenters, and to masons, and to them that make [together] broken things, and that timber and stones of quarriers be bought, to repair the temple of the Lord;

<sup>7</sup> nevertheless the silver, that the workmen take, be not reckoned to them, but have they it in power, and in faith.

<sup>8</sup> And Hilkiah, the bishop, said to Shaphan, the scribe, I have found the book of the law in the house of the Lord. And Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan, the scribe, which also read it.

<sup>9</sup> Also Shaphan, the scribe, came to the king, and told to him those things, which Hilkiah had commanded, and he said, Thy servants have spende the money, that was found in the house of the Lord, and they have given, that it should be parted to [the] craftsmen of the sovereigns of [the] works of the temple of the Lord.

<sup>10</sup> Also Shaphan, the scribe, told to the king, and said, Hilkiah, the priest of God, hath given to me a book; and when Shaphan had read that book before the king,

<sup>11</sup> and the king had heard the words of the book of the law of the Lord, he rent his clothes.

<sup>12</sup> And he commanded to Hilkiah, the priest, and to Ahikam, the son of Shaphan, and to Achbor, the son of Michaiah, and to Shaphan the scribe, and to Asahiah, servant of the king, and said,

<sup>13</sup> Go ye, and ask, or counsel ye, the Lord on me, and on the people, and on all Judah, of the words of this book, that is found; for great ire of the Lord is kindled against us, for our fathers heard not the words of this book, to do all thing which is written to us.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore Hilkiah, the priest, and Ahikam, and Achbor, and Shaphan, and Asahiah, went to Huldah, the prophet-ess, the wife of Shallum, the son of Tikvah, the son of Harhas, keeper of the clothes, the which Huldah dwelled in Jerusalem, in the second dwelling or the second environing of the wall; and they spake to her.

<sup>15</sup> And she answered to them, The Lord God of Israel saith these things, Say ye to the man, that sent you to me,

<sup>16</sup> The Lord God of Israel saith these things, Lo! I shall bring evils upon this place, and upon the dwellers thereof, and I shall fulfill all the words [of the law], which the king of Judah read;

<sup>17</sup> for they forsook me, and made sacrifice to alien gods, and stirred me to ire in all the works of their hands; and mine indignation shall be kindled in this place, and shall not be quenched.

<sup>18</sup> Soothly to the king of Judah, that sent you, that ye shall counsel with the Lord or that ye shall ask the Lord's counsel, ye shall say thus, The Lord God of Israel saith these things, For thou heardest the words of the book,

<sup>19</sup> and thine heart was afeared, and thou were made meek before the Lord, when his words were heard against this place, and against the dwellers thereof, that is, that they should be made into wondering, and into cursing, and thou rentest thy clothes, and weptest before me, and I heard, saith the Lord;

<sup>20</sup> therefore I shall gather thee to thy fathers, and thou shalt be gathered to thy sepulchre in peace; that thine eyes see not all the evils, which I shall bring in upon this place. And they told to the king that, that she said;

CHAPTER 23

<sup>1</sup> which king sent, and all the eld [or old] men of Judah, and of Jerusalem, were gathered to him.

<sup>2</sup> And the king went up into the temple of the Lord, and all the men of Judah, and all the men that dwelled in Jerusalem with him, the priests and the prophets, and all the people from little unto great; and the king read, while all men heard, all the words of the book of [the] bond of peace of the Lord, the which was found in the house of the Lord.

<sup>3</sup> And the king stood on the degrees; and smote a bond of peace before the Lord, that they would go after the Lord, and keep his commandments and witnessings and ceremonies in all their heart and in all their soul, and that they should raise up the words of this bond of peace, that were written in that book; and the people assented to the covenant.

<sup>4</sup> And the king commanded to Hilkiah, the bishop, and to the priests of the second order, and to the porters, that they should cast out of the temple [of the Lord] all the vessels, that were made to Baal, and in the maumet wood, and to all the knight-hood of heaven; and he burnt those vessels without or outside Jerusalem, in the even valley of Kidron, and he bare the powder of those vessels into Bethel.

<sup>5</sup> And he did away [the] false diviners, which the kings of Judah had set to make sacrifice in high things by the cities of Judah, and in the compass of Jerusalem; and he did away them that burnt incense to Baal, and to the sun, and to the moon, and to the twelve signs, and to all the knight-hood of heavens.

<sup>6</sup> And the king made the wood of maumetry to be borne out of the house of the Lord, without Jerusalem, in the even valley of Kidron, and he burnt it there; and he drove it into powder, and casted it forth upon the sepulchres of the common people.

<sup>7</sup> Also he destroyed the little houses of [the] womanish[-made] men, the which houses were in the house of the Lord; for the which houses women weaved, or wattled, as little houses of the woods.

<sup>8</sup> And he gathered all the priests from the cities of Judah, and he defouled the high things, where the priests made sacrifice, from Geba unto Beersheba; and he destroyed the altars of the gates in the entering of the door of Joshua, the prince of a city, which door was at the left half of the gate of the city.

<sup>9</sup> Nevertheless the priests of [the] high things went not up to the altar of the Lord in Jerusalem, but only they ate therf loaves in the midst of their brethren.

<sup>10</sup> Also he defouled Topheth, which is in the even valley of the son of Hinnom, that no man should hallow his son either his daughter by fire to Moloch.

<sup>11</sup> Also he did away [the] horses, that the kings of Judah had given to the sun, in the entering of the temple of the Lord, beside the chamber of Nathanmelech, the gelding, that was in Parvarim, that is, suburbs, or living quarters; forsooth he burnt by fire the chariots of the sun.

<sup>12</sup> Also the king destroyed the altars, that were on the roofs of the solar of Ahaz, which the kings of Judah had made; and the king destroyed the altars, which Manasseh had made in the two great places of the temple of the Lord; and he ran from thence, and scattered the ashes of those altars into the strand [or stream] of Kidron.

<sup>13</sup> Also the king defouled the high things, that were in Jerusalem at the right half of the hill of offence, that is, the hill of Olivet or Olives, which Solomon, king of Israel, had builded to Ashtoreth, the idol of Sidonians, and to Chemosh, the offence of Moab, and to Malcham, the abomination of the sons of Ammon;

<sup>14</sup> and he all-brake [the] images, and cutted down [the maumet] woods, and filled the places of those [or them] with the bones of dead men.

<sup>15</sup> Furthermore also he destroyed the altar that was in Bethel, and the high solemn thing, which Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, had made, that made Israel to do sin; and he destroyed that high altar, and burnt it, and all-brake it into powder, and cutted down also the [maumet] wood.

<sup>16</sup> And Josiah turned, and saw there sepulchres that were in the hill; and he sent, and took the bones from the sepulchres, and burnt those [or them] on the altar, and defouled it, after the word of the Lord, that the man of God spake, that before-said these words.

<sup>17</sup> And the king said, What is this burial, that I see? [or Whose is this tomb that I see?] And the citizens of that city answered to him, It is the sepulchre of the man of God, that came from Judah, and before-said these words, which thou hast done upon the altar of Bethel.

<sup>19</sup> Furthermore also Josiah did away all the temples of [the] high things, that were in the cities of Samaria, which the kings of Israel had made to stir the Lord to ire; and he did to those temples by all things which he had done in Bethel.

<sup>20</sup> And he killed all the priests of [the] high things, that were there upon the altars, and he burnt men's bones on those altars; and he turned again to Jerusalem;

<sup>21</sup> and he commanded to all the people, and said, Make ye pask to the Lord your God, after that, that is written in the book of this bond of peace.

<sup>22</sup> Certainly such a pask was not made, from the days of judges that deemed Israel, and of all the days of the kings of Israel, and of Judah,

<sup>24</sup> But also Josiah did away men having fiends speaking in their wombs, and false diviners in altars, and he did away the figures of idols, and all[the] uncleannesses, and [the] abominations, that were in the land of Judah and in Jerusalem, that he should do the words of the law, that were written in the book, that Hilkiah, the priest, found in the temple of the Lord.

<sup>25</sup> No king before him was like him, that turned again to the Lord in all his heart, and in all his soul, and in all his strength, after all the law of Moses; neither after him rose any like him.

<sup>26</sup> Nevertheless the Lord was not turned away from the ire of his great vengeance, by which his strong vengeance was wroth against Judah, for the stirrings to ire by which Manasseh had stirred him to ire.

<sup>27</sup> Therefore the Lord said, I shall do away also Judah from my face, as I did away Israel; and I shall cast away this city Jerusalem, which I chose, and the house of which I said, My name shall be there.

<sup>28</sup> Forsooth the residue of the words of Josiah, and all things that he did, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of [the] days of the kings of Judah?

<sup>29</sup> In the days of Josiah, Pharaoh Necho, the king of Egypt, went up against the king of Assyrians, to the flood Euphrates; and Josiah, king of Judah, went into the meeting of Pharaoh, to forbid him to pass through Judah; and Josiah was slain in Megiddo, when he had seen Pharaoh.

<sup>30</sup> And his servants bare him dead from Megiddo, and brought him into Jerusalem, and buried him in his sepulchre; and the people of the land took Jehoahaz*, the son of Josiah, and anointed him, and made him king for his father.

* CHAPTER 23:30 Also known as Joahaz.

<sup>31</sup> Jehoahaz was of three and twenty years, when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremy of Libnah.

<sup>33</sup> And Pharaoh Necho bound him in prison in Riblah, that is in the land of Hamath, that he should not reign in Jerusalem; and Pharaoh set a pain, either a fine, to the land of Judah, in an hundred talents of silver, and in one talent of gold.

<sup>34</sup> And Pharaoh Necho made king Eliakim, the son of Josiah, for Josiah, his father; and he turned the name of him to Jehoiakim; forsooth Pharaoh took Jehoahaz, and led him into Egypt, and he died there.

<sup>35</sup> Soothly Jehoiakim gave silver and gold to Pharaoh, when he had com-manded to the land by all years, that it should be brought, by the command-ment of Pharaoh; and Jehoiakim raised of each man by his mights, or after his power, both silver and gold, of the people of the land, that he should give to Pharaoh Necho.

<sup>36</sup> Jehoiakim was of five and twenty years, when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Zebudah, the daughter of Pedaiah of Rumah.

CHAPTER 24

<sup>1</sup> In the days of Jehoiakim, Nebu-chadnezzar, king of Babylon, went up into Judah, and Jehoiakim was made a servant to him by three years; and again Jehoiakim rebelled against him.

<sup>2</sup> And the Lord sent to him thieves of Chaldees, and thieves of Syria, and thieves of Moab, and thieves of the sons of Ammon; and he sent them into Judah, that he should destroy it, by the word of the Lord, which he spake by his servants the prophets.

<sup>3</sup> Forsooth this was done by the word of the Lord against Judah, that he should do away it from before himself, for the sins of Manasseh, and all things which he did,

<sup>4</sup> and for the guiltless blood that he shed out; and he filled Jerusalem with the blood of innocents; and for this thing the Lord would not do mercy.

<sup>5</sup> Forsooth the residue of [the] words of Jehoiakim, and all things which he did, whether these be not written in the book of [the] words of days of the kings of Judah?

<sup>7</sup> And the king of Egypt added no more to go out of his land; for the king of Babylon had taken all things that were the king's of Egypt, from the strand [or river] of Egypt unto the flood Euphrates.

<sup>8</sup> Jehoiachin was of eighteen years, when he began to reign, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Nehushta, the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem.

<sup>11</sup> And Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, came to the city with his servants, that he should fight against it.

<sup>12</sup> And Jehoiachin, king of Judah, went out to the king of Babylon, he, and his mother, and his servants, and his princes, and his chamberlains; and the king of Babylon received him, in the eighth year of his realm.

<sup>13</sup> And he brought forth from thence all the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the king's house; and he beat together all the golden vessels, which Solomon, king of Israel, had made in the temple of the Lord, by the word of the Lord.

<sup>14</sup> And he translated or brought over all Jerusalem, and all the princes, and all the strong men of the host, ten thousand, into captivity, and each craftsman, and goldsmith; and nothing was left, except the poor people/s of the land.

<sup>15</sup> Also he translated or brought over Jehoiachin into Babylon, and the mother of the king, the wives of the king, and the chamberlains of the king; and he led the judges of the land into captivity from Jerusalem into Babylon;

<sup>16</sup> and all the strong men, seven thousand; and craftsmen and gold-smiths, a thousand; yea, all strong men and warriors; and the king of Babylon led them away as prisoners into Babylon.

<sup>17</sup> And he ordained Mattaniah, the brother of his father, to reign for him; and putted [or put] to him the name Zedekiah.

<sup>18</sup> Zedekiah had one and twenty years of age, when he began to reign, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Hamutal, the daughter of Jeremy of Libnah.

CHAPTER 25

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth it was done in the ninth year of his realm, in the tenth month, in the tenth day of the month, Nebu-chadnezzar, king of Babylon, came, he, and all his host, into Jerusalem; and they encompassed it, and builded strongholds in the compass thereof.

<sup>3</sup> in the ninth day of the month; and hunger had mastery in the city, and there was not bread to the people of the land.

<sup>4</sup> And the city was broken into, and all men warriors fled in the night by the way of the gate, that is betwixt the double wall, toward the garden of the king; soothly the Chaldees besieged the city in compass/about. Therefore Zedekiah fled by the way that leadeth to the field places of the wilderness;

<sup>5</sup> and the host of Chaldees pursued the king, and took him in the plain of Jericho; and all the warriors, that were with him, were scattered abroad, and left him.

<sup>6</sup> Therefore they led the king taken to the king of Babylon, into Riblah, which spake doom with him, that is, with Zedekiah.

<sup>7</sup> Soothly he killed the sons of Zedekiah before him, and putted [or put] out his eyes, and bound him with chains, and led him into Babylon.

<sup>8</sup> In the fifth month, in the seventh day of the month, that is the nine-teenth year of Nebuchadnezzar, the king of Babylon, Nebuzaradan, prince of the host, [the] servant of the king of Babylon, came into Jerusalem;

<sup>9</sup> and he burnt the house of the Lord, and the house of the king, and the houses of Jerusalem, and he burnt by fire each house thereof;

<sup>10</sup> and all the host of Chaldees, that was with the prince of knights, destroyed the walls of Jerusalem in compass.

<sup>11</sup> Forsooth Nebuzaradan, prince of the chivalry, translated or brought over the tother part of the people, that dwelled in the city, and the fleers, that had fled over to the king of Babylon, and the remnant common people;

<sup>13</sup> Soothly Chaldees brake the brazen pillars, that were in the temple, and the foundations, and the sea of brass, that was in the house of the Lord; and they translated, or bare over, all the metal into Babylon.

<sup>14</sup> And they took the pots of brass, and trowels, and fleshhooks, and cups, and mortars, and all [the] brazen vessels, in which they ministered;

<sup>15</sup> and censers also, and vials. The prince of the chivalry took those things that were of gold, and those that were of silver,

<sup>16</sup> that is, two pillars, one sea, and the foundations, or bases, which king Solomon had made to the temple of the Lord; and there was no certain weight of [the] metal of all the vessels.

<sup>17</sup> One pillar had eighteen cubits of height, and a brazen pommel or capital upon it of the height of three cubits, and a work like a net, and pom-egranates upon the pommel of the pillar, all things of brass; and the second pillar had like adorning.

<sup>18</sup> Also the prince of the chivalry took Seraiah, the first priest, and Zephaniah, the second priest, and [the] three porters,

<sup>19</sup> and an honest and chaste servant of the city, that was sovereign over [the] men warriors, and five men of them that stood before the king, which he found in the city; and he took the Sopher, the prince of the host, that proved [the] young knights, either men able to battle, of the people of the land, and sixty men of the commons, that were found in the city;

<sup>20</sup> which Nebuzaradan, prince of the chivalry, took, and led to the king of Babylon, into Riblah.

<sup>21</sup> And the king of Babylon smote them, and killed them in Riblah, in the land of Hamath; and Judah was translated or brought over from his land.

<sup>23</sup> And when all the dukes of knights had heard these things, they, and [all] the men that were with them, that is, that the king of Babylon had ordained Gedaliah to be their sovereign in Judah, they came to Gedaliah, in Mizpah, that is, Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, and Johanan, son of Careah, and Seraiah, son of Tanhumeth of Netophah, and Jaazaniah, son of the Maachathite, they, and the fellows of them.

<sup>24</sup> And Gedaliah swore to them, and to the fellows of them, and said, Do not ye dread to serve the Chaldees; dwell ye in the land, and serve ye the king of Babylon, and it shall be well to you.

<sup>25</sup> Forsooth it was done in the seventh month, that is, since Gedaliah was made sovereign, that Ishmael, the son of Nethaniah, the son of Elishama, of the king's seed, came, and ten men with him, and they smote Gedaliah, which died; but also they smited[the] Jews and [the] Chaldees, that were with him in Mizpah.

<sup>26</sup> And all the people rose, from the little unto the great, and the princes of knights, and they came, or fled, into Egypt, and dreaded the Chaldees.

<sup>27</sup> Therefore it was done in the seven and thirtieth year of the transmigration, either passing over, of Jehoi-achin, king of Judah, in the twelfth month, in the seven and twentieth day of the month, Evilmerodach, king of Babylon, in the year in which he began to reign, raised [up] the head of Jehoiachin, king of Judah, from prison,

<sup>29</sup> And Evilmerodach changed the clothes of Jehoiachin that he had in prison; and he ate bread ever~~[more]~~ in the sight of Evilmerodach, in all the days of his life.

<sup>30</sup> Also Evilmerodach ordained sus-tenance for Jehoiachin without ceasing; which sustenance also was given of the king to him by all days, in all the days of his life.

<sup>20</sup> gave help to them; and Hagarites, and all men that were with them, were betaken into the hands of Reuben, and Gad, and Manasseh; for they called inwardly the Lord, while they fought, and the Lord heard them, for they believed in to him.

<sup>21</sup> And they took all things which Hagarites had in possession, fifty thousand of camels, and two hundred and fifty thousand of sheep, two thousand of asses, and an hundred thousand persons of men;

<sup>22</sup> for many men were wounded and felled down; for it was the battle of the Lord. And they dwelled there for Hagarites till to the conquest.

<sup>29</sup> Also beside the sons of Manasseh, Bethshean and his towns, Taanach and his towns, Megiddo and his towns, Dor and his towns; and the sons of Joseph, son of Israel, dwelled in these towns.

* CHAPTER 7:14 Here the Hebrew text speaks of 'an Aramean', that is, 'a citizen of Aram'. In Wycliffe's time, 'Aram' was also called 'Syria'. And so the translators mistakenly made the 1st person name, 'Sira'.

<sup>33</sup> And the sons of Japhlet were Pasach, and Bimhal, and Ashvath; these were the sons of Japhlet.

<sup>40</sup> All these were the sons of Asher, princes of kindreds, chosen men and full strong dukes of dukes; and the number, of the age of them that were able to battle, was six and twenty thousand.

CHAPTER 9

- <sup>1</sup> Therefore all Israel was numbered, and the sum of them was written in the book of [the] kings of Israel and of Judah; and they were translated or brought over into Babylon for their sin.
- <sup>2</sup> And they that dwelled first in their cities, and in the possessions of Israel, and the priests, and the deacons [or Levites], and Nethinims,

- <sup>7</sup> And of the sons of Benjamin; Sallu, the son of Meshullam, the sons of Hodaviah, the sons of Hasenuah,
- <sup>8</sup> and Ibneiah the son of Jeroham, and Elah the son of Uzzi, the sons of Michri, and Meshullam the son of Shephathiah, the son of Reuel, son of Ibnijah,
- <sup>9</sup> and the brethren of them, by their meines; nine hundred [and] six and fifty. All these were princes of their kindreds by the houses of their fathers.

- <sup>11</sup> and Azariah, the son of Hilkiyah, son of Meshullam, the son of Zadok, the son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, was[the] bishop of the house of the Lord.

- <sup>13</sup> also their brethren, princes by their meines, were a thousand seven hundred and fourscore, men full strong in bodily might, to make the work of [the] service in the house of the Lord.
- <sup>14</sup> And of the deacons [or Levites]; Shemaiah, the son of Hasshub, the son of Azrikam, the son of Hashabiah, of the sons of Merari;

<sup>15</sup> also Bakbakkar, the carpenter, and Galal, and Mattaniah, the son of Micah, son of Zichri, son of Asaph,

<sup>16</sup> and Obadiah, the son of Shemaiah, son of Galal, the son of Jeduthun, and Berechiah, the son of Asa, the son of Elkanah, that dwelled in the porches of Netophathites.

<sup>17</sup> And the porters were Shallum, and Akkub, and Talmon, and Ahiman, and the brethren of them; Shallum was the prince;

<sup>18</sup> till to that time they kept by their whiles in the gate of the king at the east, of the sons of Levi.

<sup>19</sup> Shallum forsooth, the son of Kore, the son of Ebiasaph, the son of Korah, with his brethren, and with the house of his father; these be the sons of Korah upon the works of the service, keepers of the porches of the tabernacle, and the meines of them kept by whiles, or times, the entering of the castles [or tents] of the Lord.

<sup>22</sup> All these chosen into porters by gates were two hundred and twelve, and they were described, or presented, in their own towns, which deacons, or ministers, David and Samuel, the prophet, ordained in their faith,

<sup>26</sup> All the number of porters was betaken to these four deacons [or Levites], and they kept the chambers, and the treasures of the house of the Lord.

<sup>27</sup> Also they dwelled in their keepings by the compass of the temple of the Lord, that when time were, they should open the gates early.

<sup>28</sup> Men of their kin were also on the vessels of [the] service; for the vessels were borne in at the number, and were borne out of them.

<sup>29</sup> And they that had the vessels of the saintuary betaken to their keeping, were sovereigns of [the tried] flour, and [the] wine, and oil, and incense, and sweet smelling spiceries.

<sup>30</sup> And some of the sons of [the] priests made ointments of sweet smelling spiceries.

<sup>31</sup> And Mattithiah, deacon [or Levite], the first begotten son of Shallum of the kindred of Korah, was the sovereign of all things that were fried in the frying pan.

<sup>32</sup> And men of the sons of Kohath, the brethren of them, were on the loaves of setting forth, that they should make ready ever new loaves by each sabbath.

<sup>33</sup> These be the princes of chanters, by the meines of Levites, that dwelled in chambers, so that they should serve continually day and night in their service.

CHAPTER 10

- <sup>1</sup> Forsooth the Philistines fought against Israel, and the sons of Israel fled from the Philistines, and felled down wounded in the hill of Gilboa.
<sup>2</sup> And when the Philistines had nighed pursuing Saul and his sons, they killed Jonathan, and Abinadab, and Malchishua, the sons of Saul.
<sup>4</sup> And Saul said to his squire, Draw out thy sword, and slay me, lest these uncircumcised men come, and scorn me. But his squire was afeared by dread, and would not do this; there-fore Saul took a sword, and felled upon it.
<sup>5</sup> And when his squire had seen this, that is, that Saul was dead, he felled also on his sword, and was dead.
<sup>7</sup> And when the men of Israel, that dwelled in field places, had seen this, they fled; and when Saul and his sons were dead, they forsook their cities, and were scattered hither and thither; and Philistines came, and dwelled in those [or them].
<sup>9</sup> And when they had spoiled him, and had girded off the head, and had made him naked of the armours, they sent his head into their land, that it should be borne about, and should be showed in the temples of idols, and to peoples;
<sup>11</sup> When men of Jabesh of Gilead had heard this, that is, all things which the Philistines did on Saul,
<sup>12</sup> all [the] strong men rose together, and took the dead bodies of Saul and of his sons, and brought those [or them] into Jabesh; and they buried the bones of them under an oak, that was in Jabesh; and fasted seven days.
<sup>13</sup> Therefore Saul was dead for his wickednesses, for he brake the behest of the Lord, which he [had] command-ed, and kept not it, but furthermore also he took counsel at a woman having a fiend speaking in the womb,
<sup>14</sup> and he hoped not in the Lord; for which thing both the Lord killed him, and translated his realm to David, the son of Jesse.

CHAPTER 11

- <sup>1</sup> Therefore all Israel was gathered to David in Hebron, and said, We be thy bone and thy flesh;
<sup>2</sup> also yesterday and the third day ago, when Saul reigned yet upon Israel, thou it was that leddest out and leddest in Israel; for the Lord thy God said to thee, Thou shalt feed my people Israel, and thou shalt be prince upon it.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore all the greater men in birth of Israel came to the king in Hebron; and David made with them a bond of peace before the Lord, and they anointed him king upon Israel, by the word of the Lord, which he spake in the hand of Samuel.

<sup>5</sup> And they that dwelled at Jebus said to David, Thou shalt not enter hither. Forsooth David took the high tower of Zion, which is the city of David;

<sup>6</sup> and he said, Each man that slayeth the first Jebusite, shall be prince and duke. Therefore Joab, the son of Zeruiah, went up first, and was made prince.

<sup>8</sup> and he builded the city in compass, from Millo till to the compass about; and Joab builded the tother part of the city.

<sup>10</sup> These be the princes of the strong men of David, that helped him, that he should be king upon all Israel, by the word of the Lord which he spake to Israel.

<sup>12</sup> And after him was Eleazar, the son of his father's brother, that was of Ahohites, the which Eleazar was among [the] three mighty men.

<sup>13</sup> This was with David in Pasdam-mim, when Philistines were gathered to one place into battle; and a field of that country was full of barley, and the people fled from the face of Philistines.

<sup>15</sup> Soothly three of [the] thirty princes went down to the stone, wherein David was, to the den of Adullam, when the Philistines setted tents in the valley of Rephaim.

<sup>17</sup> Therefore David desired water, and said, I would, that some man gave to me water of the cistern of Bethlehem, which is in the gate.

<sup>18</sup> Therefore these three went through the middle of the castles [or tents], or of the hosts, of [the] Philistines, and drew water of the cistern of Bethle-hem, that was in the gate, and they brought to David, that he should drink; and David would not drink it, but rather he offered it to the Lord,

<sup>19</sup> and said, Far be it, that I do this thing in the sight of my God, and that I drink the blood of these men, for in the peril of their lives they brought water to me; and for this cause he would not drink. [The] Three strongest men did these things.

<sup>20</sup> Also Abishai, the brother of Joab, he was the prince of the second three men, and he raised up his spear against three hundred, and wounded those men; and he was most named among these three,

<sup>21</sup> [and] among the second three, he was noble, and the prince of them; nevertheless he came not to the first three.

<sup>22</sup> Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, the strongest man of Kabzeel, that did many works; he killed two strong men of Moab; and he went down, and killed a lion in the midst of a cistern, in the time of snow;

<sup>23</sup> and he killed a man of Egypt, whose stature was of five cubits, and he had a spear as the beam of webs or weaver's; therefore Benaiah went down to him with a rod, and ravished the spear, which he held in his hand, and killed him with his own spear.

<sup>24</sup> Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, did these things, he that was most named among the second three strong men, <sup>25</sup> and he was the first among [the] thirty; nevertheless he came not to the first three; and David set him at his ear for a good counsellor.

CHAPTER 12

<sup>1</sup> Also these came to David in Ziklag, when he fled yet from Saul, the son of Kish; the which were full strong men and noble fighters,

<sup>2</sup> bending bow, and casting stones with slings with ever either hand, and directing arrows; of the brethren of Saul of Benjamin,

<sup>8</sup> But also some of Gadites' strongest men, and best fighters, holding shield and spear, fled over to David, when he was hid in desert; the faces of them as the face of a lion, and they were swift as caprets in hills.

<sup>14</sup> these of the sons of Gad were princes of the host; and the least, that is, he that had the least power, was sovereign over an hundred knights, and the most was over a thousand.

<sup>15</sup> These it be that passed over Jordan in the first month, when it was wont to flow over his brinks; and they drove away all men, that is, heathen men, that dwelled in the valleys at the east coast, and [at the] west coast.

<sup>17</sup> And David went out against them, and said, If ye come peaceable to me, for to help me, mine heart be joined to you; forsooth if ye set ambush to me for mine adversaries, since I have not wickedness in the hands, God of our fathers see and deem.

<sup>18</sup> And the spirit clothed Amasai, the prince among thirty, and he said, O! David, we be thine, and thou, son of Jesse, we shall be with thee; peace, peace to thee, and peace to thine helpers, for thy Lord God helpeth thee. Therefore David received them, and made [them] princes of the company.

<sup>19</sup> And men of Manasseh fled over to David, when he came with Philistines to fight against Saul, and he fought not with them; for after that the princes of Philistines had taken counsel, they sent him again, and said, With peril of our head, he shall turn again to Saul his lord.

<sup>20</sup> Therefore when David turned again into Ziklag, men of Manasseh fled over to him, Adnah, and Jozabad, Jediahel, and Michael, and Jozabad, and Elihu, and Zilthai, princes of knights of horsemen in Manasseh.

<sup>22</sup> But also by each day men came to David, for to help him, till that the number was made as great as the host of God.

<sup>23</sup> Also this is the number of [the] princes of the host that came to David, when he was in Hebron, that they should translate the realm of Saul to him, by the word of the Lord;

<sup>24</sup> the sons of Judah, bearing shield and spear, six thousand and eight hundred, ready to battle;

<sup>28</sup> also Zadok, a young man of noble wit, and the house of his father, two and twenty princes;

<sup>29</sup> and of the sons of Benjamin, the brethren of Saul, three thousand; for a great part of them pursued [or followed] yet the house of Saul;

<sup>31</sup> and of the half part of the lineage of Manasseh, eighteen thousand; all came by their names, to make David king;

<sup>32</sup> also of the sons of Issachar, two hundred princes, learned men, that knew each time to command what the people of Israel ought to do; and all the remnant of the lineage pursued [or followed] the counsels of them;

<sup>33</sup> and of Zebulun came fifty thousand into his help, not in double heart, which went out to battle, and stood in the battle array, and were made ready with armours [or arms] of battle;

<sup>36</sup> and of Asher forty thousand men, going out to battle, and stirred to battle in the battle array.

<sup>38</sup> All these men warriors and ready to battle, came with perfect heart into Hebron, to make David king upon all Israel; but also all the residue of Israel were of one heart, that David should be made king upon all Israel.

<sup>39</sup> And they were there at David three days, and ate and drank; for their brethren had made ready to them;

<sup>40</sup> but also they that were nigh them, till to Issachar and Zebulun and Naphtali, brought loaves on asses, and camels, and mules, and oxen, for to eat; meal, bundles of pressed figs, and dried grapes, wine, and oil, oxen and wethers, to all plenty; for joy was in Israel.

CHAPTER 13

<sup>2</sup> and he said to all the company of the sons of Israel, If it pleaseth you, and if the word that I speak goeth out from the Lord our God, send we to the remnant of our brethren to all the countries of Israel, and to [the] priests and deacons [or Levites] that dwell in the suburbs of cities, that they be gathered to us,

<sup>3</sup> and that we bring again to us the ark of our God; for we sought not at it in the days of Saul.

<sup>4</sup> And all the multitude answered, that it should be done so; for the word pleased all the people.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore David gathered together all Israel, from Shihor of Egypt till that thou enter into Hamath, that he should bring the ark of God from Kiriathjearim.

<sup>6</sup> And David went up, and all the men of Israel, to the hill of Kiriathjearim, which is in Judah, that he should bring from thence the ark of the Lord God sitting on cherubim, where his name was inwardly called.

<sup>7</sup> And they putted [or put] the ark of the Lord God on a new wain from the house of Abinadab; and Uzza and his brethren drove the wain.

<sup>8</sup> And David and all Israel played before the Lord, with all might, in songs, and in harps, and psalteries, and in tympan, and in cymbals, and trumps.

<sup>9</sup> And when they had come to the cornfloor of Chidon, Uzza stretched forth his hand to sustain, or stable, the ark; for the oxes waxing wild had bowed it [down] a little.

<sup>10</sup> Therefore the Lord was wroth against Uzza, and smote him, for he had touched the ark; and he was dead there before the Lord.

<sup>11</sup> And David was sorry, for the Lord had parted, or slain, Uzza; and he called that place The Parting of Uzza, as it is still called unto this present day.

<sup>12</sup> And David dreaded the Lord in that time, and said, How may I bring into me the ark of the Lord?

<sup>13</sup> And for this cause he brought not it to him, that is, into the city of David, but he turned it into the house of Obededom of Gath.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore the ark of God dwelled in the house of Obededom of Gath three months; and the Lord blessed his house, and all things that he had.

CHAPTER 14

<sup>2</sup> And David knew that the Lord had confirmed him into king upon Israel; and that his realm was raised upon his people Israel.

<sup>4</sup> And these be the names of them that were born to him in Jerusalem; Shammua, and Shobab, Nathan, and Solomon,

<sup>8</sup> Forsooth the Philistines heard that David was anointed king on all Israel, and [they] all went up to seek David, to destroy him. And when David had heard this thing, he went out against them.

<sup>10</sup> and David counselled with the Lord, and said, Whether I shall go up to the Philistines? and whether thou shalt betake them into mine hands? And the Lord said to him, Go thou up, and I shall betake them into thine hand.

<sup>11</sup> And when the Philistines had gone up into Baalperazim, David smote them there, and said, God hath parted mine enemies by mine hand, as waters be parted. And therefore the name of that place was called Baalperazim, that is, the Lord of the Breakthrough;

<sup>14</sup> and again David counselled with the Lord, and the Lord said to him, Thou shalt not go up after them; go [thou] away from them, and thou shalt come against them even against the pear trees.

<sup>15</sup> And when thou shalt hear the sound of a goer in the top, or height, of the pear trees, then thou shalt go out to battle; for the Lord is gone out before thee, to smite the powers of [the] Philistines.

<sup>16</sup> Therefore David did as God commanded to him, and he smote the castles, [or tents], or powers of the Philistines, from Gibeon till to Gazer.

CHAPTER 15

<sup>1</sup> And David made to him houses in the city of David, and he builded a place to the ark of the Lord, and arrayed a tabernacle to it.

<sup>2</sup> Then David said, It is unleaveful, that the ark of God be borne about of any others, no but of the deacons [or Levites], which the Lord chose to bear it, and for to minister to him into without end.

<sup>3</sup> And David gathered together all Israel into Jerusalem, that the ark of God should be brought into his place, which he had made ready to it;

<sup>12</sup> and said to them, Ye that be princes of the meines of Levi, be ye hallowed with your brethren, and bring ye the ark of the Lord God of Israel to the place, that is made ready to it;

<sup>13</sup> lest, as at the beginning, for ye were not present, the Lord smote us, so and now it be done, if we do any unleaveful thing.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore the priests and deacons [or Levites] were hallowed, that they should bear the ark of the Lord God of Israel.

<sup>15</sup> And the sons of Levi took the ark of God with bars upon their shoulders, as Moses commanded by the word of the Lord.

<sup>16</sup> And David said to the princes of deacons [or Levites], that they should ordain of their brethren singers in organs of musics, that is, in gitterns, and harps, and cymbals; that the sound of gladness should sound on high.

<sup>17</sup> And they ordained deacons [or Levites], Heman, the son of Joel, and of his brethren, Asaph, the son of Berechiah; soothly of the sons of Merari, [the] brethren of them, they ordained Ethan, the son of Kushaiah,

<sup>18</sup> and the brethren of them with them; in the second order Zechariah, and Ben, and Jaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maaseiah, and Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obedom, and Jeiel, porters;

<sup>19</sup> and the singers, Heman, Asaph, and Ethan, sounding in brazen cymbals;

<sup>20</sup> and Zechariah, and Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, and Eliab, and Maaseiah, and Benaiah, these sang privates in gitterns;

<sup>21</sup> and Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obedom, and Jeiel, and Azaziah, sang in harps for the eighth, and epinicion, that is, thankings that owe to be done to God, over-comer and victor;

<sup>22</sup> and Chenaniah, the prince of deacons [or Levites], and of prophecy, was sovereign to before-sing [the] melody, for he was full wise;

<sup>24</sup> and Shebaniah, and Jehoshaphat, and Nethaneel, and Amasai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer, priests, sounded with trumps before the ark of the Lord; and Obedom, and Jehiah, were porters of the ark.

<sup>25</sup> Therefore David, and the greater men in birth of Israel, and the tribunes, went to bring the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord from the house of Obedom with gladness.

<sup>26</sup> And when God had helped the deacons [or Levites] that bare the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord, seven bulls and seven rams were offered.

<sup>27</sup> And David was clothed with a white stole, and all the deacons [or Levites] that bare the ark, and the singers, and Chenaniah, the prince of the prophecy among [the] singers, were clothed in white stoles; and also David was clothed with a linen surplice.

<sup>28</sup> And all Israel led forth the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord, and sounded in joyful song, and in sound of clarions, and in trumps, and in cymbals, and in gitterns, and harps.

<sup>29</sup> And when the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord had come into the city of David, Michal, the daughter of Saul, beheld forth by a window, and saw king David dancing and playing; and she despised him in her heart.

CHAPTER 16

<sup>1</sup> Therefore they brought the ark of God, and setted [or set] it in the midst of the tabernacle, that David had arrayed thereto; and they offered burnt sacrifices and peaceable sacrifices before the Lord.

<sup>2</sup> And when David offering burnt sacrifices and peaceable sacrifices had fulfilled, he blessed the people in the name of the Lord;

<sup>3</sup> and he parted to all, to each by himself, from man to woman, one cake or a cake of bread, and a part of roasted flesh of a bugle, and flour fried in oil.

<sup>4</sup> And he ordained before the ark of the Lord, of the Levites, that is, deacons, that should minister, that is, serve, and have mind of the works of the Lord, and glorify and praise the Lord God of Israel;

<sup>5</sup> Asaph the prince, and Zechariah his second; forsooth Jeiel, and Shemi-ramoth, and Jehiel, and Mattithiah, and Eliab, and Benaiah, and Obededom, and Jeiel, on the organs of the psaltery, and on the harps; but he ordained Asaph to sound with cymbals;

<sup>22</sup> And he said, Do not ye touch my christs, that is, patriarchs anointed with the anointing of grace; and do not ye do wickedly against my prophets.

<sup>35</sup> And say ye, Thou God, our saviour, save us, and gather us together, and deliver us from heathen men; that we acknowledge to thine holy name, and be fully glad in thy songs.

<sup>36</sup> Blessed be the Lord God of Israel from without beginning and into with-out end; and all the people say, Amen, and say praising to God.

<sup>39</sup> And he ordained Zadok priest, and his brethren, priests, before the tabernacle of the Lord, in the high place that was in Gibeon,

<sup>40</sup> for to offer burnt sacrifices to the Lord upon the altar of burnt sacrifice continually, in the morrowtide and eventide, by all things that be written in the law of the Lord, which he commanded to Israel.

<sup>41</sup> And after him David ordained Heman and Jeduthun, and [the] other chosen men, each man by his name, for to acknowledge to the Lord; for his mercy is without end.

<sup>42</sup> And he ordained Heman and Jeduthun, with trumping, and shaking cymbals, and all organs of musics, for to sing to God; forsooth he made the sons of Jeduthun to be porters.

<sup>43</sup> And all the people turned again into their house, and David turned again, to bless also his house.

CHAPTER 17

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth when David dwelled in his house, he said to Nathan, the prophet, Lo! I dwell in an house of cedars; and the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord is under skins.

<sup>2</sup> And Nathan said to David, Do thou all things that be in thine heart, for God is with thee.

<sup>3</sup> Therefore in that night, the word of the Lord was made to Nathan, and said,

<sup>4</sup> Go thou, and speak to David, my servant, The Lord saith these things, Thou shalt not build to me an house to dwell in;

<sup>5</sup> certainly I have not dwelled in an house, from that time in which I led Israel out of the land of Egypt till to this day, but ever[more] I have changed places of the tabernacle, and have dwelled in a tent with all Israel.

<sup>6</sup> Whether I have spoken namely to one of the judges of Israel, to which I commanded that they should feed my people, and said, Why hast thou not builded to me an house of cedar?

<sup>7</sup> Now therefore thou shalt speak thus to my servant David, The Lord of hosts saith these things, I took thee, when thou pursuedest [or followedest] the flock in the pastures, that thou shouldest be duke upon my people Israel;

<sup>8</sup> and I was with thee whither ever thou wentest, and I killed all thine enemies before thee, and I made to thee a name, as of one of the great men that be made worshipful, either famous, in [the] earth.

<sup>9</sup> And I gave a place to my people Israel; it shall be planted, and shall dwell therein, and it shall no more be moved, and the sons of wickedness shall not defoul them, as from the beginning,

<sup>10</sup> from the days in which I gave judges to my people Israel; and I made low all thine enemies. There-fore I tell to thee, that the Lord shall build an house to thee.

<sup>11</sup> And when thou hast fulfilled thy days, that thou go to thy fathers, I shall raise up thy seed after thee, that shall be of thy sons, and I shall stablish his realm;

<sup>13</sup> I shall be to him into a father, and he shall be to me into a son; and I shall not do away my mercy from him, as I took it away from him that was before thee;

<sup>14</sup> and I shall ordain him in mine house and in my realm into without end; and his throne shall be most steadfast without end.

<sup>16</sup> And when king David had come, and had set before the Lord, he said, Lord God, who am I, and what is mine house, that thou shouldest give such things to me?

<sup>17</sup> But also this is seen little in thy sight, and therefore thou hast spoken of the house of thy servant, yea, into time to coming [or to come]; and thou hast made me worthy to be beholden over all men. My Lord God,

<sup>20</sup> Lord, none is like thee, and none other God is without thee, of all which we have heard with our ears.

<sup>21</sup> For who is another as thy people Israel, one folk in [the] earth, to whom God went, to deliver and make a people to himself, and to cast out by his greatness and dreads nations from the face thereof, the which people he delivered from Egypt?

<sup>22</sup> And thou hast set thy people Israel into a people to thee into without end, and thou, Lord, art made the God thereof.

<sup>23</sup> Now therefore, Lord, the word which thou hast spoken to thy servant, and on his house, be it confirmed with-out end, and do, as thou hast spoken;

<sup>24</sup> and thy name dwell, and be magnified without end; and be it said, The Lord of hosts is God of Israel, and the house of David, his servant, dwelling before him.

<sup>25</sup> For thou, my Lord God, hast made revelation in the ear of thy servant, that thou wouldest build to him an house; and therefore thy servant hath found trust, that he pray before thee.

<sup>26</sup> Now therefore, Lord, thou art God, and hast spoken to thy servant so great beneficences [or benefits];

<sup>27</sup> and thou hast begun to bless the house of thy servant, that it be ever-[more] before thee; for, Lord, for thou blessest, it shall be blessed without end.

CHAPTER 18

<sup>2</sup> and he smote Moab; and Moabites were made the servants of David, and brought gifts to him.

<sup>3</sup> In that time David smote also Hadadezer*, king of Zobah, of the country of Hamath, when he went to alarge his empire till to the flood Euphrates.

* CHAPTER 18:3 Also known as Hadarezer.

<sup>4</sup> Therefore David took a thousand four-horsed carts of his, and seven thousand of horsemen, and twenty thousand of footmen; and he hocked all the horses of the chariots, except an hundred four-horsed carts, which he kept to himself.

<sup>6</sup> and David set knights in Damascus, that Syrians also should serve him, and bring to him gifts. And the Lord helped David in all things to which he went.

<sup>7</sup> And David took [the] golden arrow cases, which the servants of Hadadezer had, and he brought those [or them] into Jerusalem;

<sup>8</sup> also and of Tibhath, and of Chun, the cities of Hadadezer; he took full much of brass, whereof Solomon made the brazen sea, that is, washing vessel, and pillars, and brazen vessels.

<sup>9</sup> And when Tou, king of Hamath, had heard this thing, that is, that David had smitten all the host of Hadadezer, king of Zobah, <sup>10</sup> he sent Hadoram, his son, to David the king, for to ask of him peace, and for to thank him, for he had overcome and smitten Hadadezer; for why king Hadadezer was adversary of Tou. And Hadoram brought vessels of gold and silver and bronze, as gifts.

<sup>11</sup> But also king David hallowed to the Lord all the vessels of gold, and of silver, and of brass; and the silver, and the gold, which the king had taken of all folks, as well of Idumea, and of Moab, and of the sons of Ammon, as of [the] Philistines, and of Amalek.

<sup>13</sup> And he set strongholds in Edom, that Idumeans should serve David. And the Lord saved David in all things, to which he went.

<sup>15</sup> Forsooth Joab, the son of Zeruiah, was on the host; and Jehoshaphat, the son of Ahilud, was chancellor;

<sup>16</sup> and Zadok, the son of Ahitub, and Abimelech, the son of Abiathar, were priests; and Shavsha was scribe;

CHAPTER 19

<sup>2</sup> And David said, I shall do mercy with Hanun, the son of Nahash; for his father gave mercy to me. And David sent messengers, to comfort him on the death of his father. And when they were come into the land of the sons of Ammon, for to comfort Hanun,

<sup>3</sup> the princes of the sons of Ammon said to Hanun, In hap thou guessest, that David, for cause of honour into thy father, sent men, that should comfort thee; and thou perceivest not, that his servants be come to thee to espy, and inquire, and to seek through thy land.

<sup>4</sup> Therefore Hanun made bald and shaved the servants of David, and cutted the coats off them from the buttocks of them till to the feet; and let them go.

<sup>5</sup> And when they had gone forth, and had sent this to David, he sent into the meeting of them; for they had suffered great despite; and he com-manded, that they should dwell in Jericho, till their beards waxed, and then they should turn again.

<sup>6</sup> And the sons of Ammon saw, that they had done wrong to David, both Hanun and the other people, and they sent a thousand talents of silver, for to hire to them chariots and horse-men of Mesopotamia, and of Syria, of Maachah, and of Zobah;

<sup>7</sup> and they hired to them two and thirty thousand of chariots, and the king of Maachah with his people. And when they were come, they set their tents even against Medeba; and the sons of Ammon were gathered together from their cities, and came to battle.

<sup>9</sup> And the sons of Ammon went out, and dressed battle array beside the gate of the city; but the kings, that were come to help them, stood asides half in the field.

<sup>10</sup> Therefore Joab understood, that [the] battle was made against him even against and behind his back, and he chose the strongest men of all Israel, and went against Syrians;

<sup>12</sup> And Joab said, If Syrians shall overcome me, thou shalt help me; and if the sons of Ammon shall over-come thee, I shall help thee;

<sup>13</sup> be thou comforted, and do we manly for our people, and for the cities of our God; and the Lord do that, that is good in his sight.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore Joab went forth, and the people that was with him, against Syrians to battle, and he drove them away.

<sup>15</sup> And the sons of Ammon saw, that Syrians had fled, and they [also] fled from Abishai, his brother, and entered into the city; and Joab turned again into Jerusalem.

<sup>16</sup> And Syrians saw, that he had fallen down before Israel, and he sent messengers, and brought [forth]to them Syrians, that was beyond the flood; and Shophach, the prince of [the] chivalry of Hadadezer, was the duke of them.

<sup>17</sup> And when this was told to David, he gathered all Israel, and passed over the Jordan; and he felled in on them, and dressed battle array even against them, fighting on the contrary.

<sup>18</sup> And Syrians fled from Israel, and David killed of the men of Syria seven thousand of chariots, *that is, seven thousand men fighting in chariots**, and forty thousand of footmen, and Shophach, the prince of the host of the army.

<sup>19</sup> And the servants of Hadadezer saw, that they were overcome of Israel, and they fled over to David, and served him; and Syria would no more give help to the sons of Ammon.

CHAPTER 20

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth it was done after the end of a year, in that time wherein kings be wont to go forth to battles, Joab gathered the host, and the strength of chivalry, and he wasted the land of the sons of Ammon, and went, and besieged Rabbah; forsooth David dwelled in Jerusalem, when Joab smote Rabbah, and destroyed it.

* CHAPTER 19:18 For there were seven hundred of chariots, as it says in thesecond bookofKings, 10th Chapter (that is, in 2nd Samuel, Chapter 10), and in each chariot were 10 men, and these make seven thousand men fighting in chariots.

<sup>3</sup> And he led out the people that was therein, and made brads, either instruments by which corns be broken, and sleds, and iron chariots, to pass over on them, so that all men were cut into diverse parts, and were all-broken; David did thus to all the cities of the sons of Ammon, and he turned again with all his people into Jerusalem.

<sup>4</sup> After these things, a battle was made in Gezer against Philistines, wherein Sibbechai the Hushathite slew Sippai of the kin of Rephaim, that is, of the kind of giants, and he meeked them.

<sup>5</sup> Also another battle was done against the Philistines, in which a man given of God, the son of the forest, a man of Bethlehem, killed Goliath of Gath, the brother of giants, of whose shaft, or spear, the wood was as the beam of webs.

<sup>6</sup> But also another battle befelled in Gath, in which a full long man was, having six fingers on each hand, and six toes on each foot, that is, altogether four and twenty, and he was begotten of the generation of Rephaim, that is, of the giants;

<sup>2</sup> And David said to Joab, and to the princes of the people, Go ye, and number all Israel from Beersheba till to Dan, and bring ye the number to me, that I know what it is.

<sup>3</sup> And Joab answered, The Lord increase his people an hundredfold more than they be; my lord the king, whether all be not thy servants? Why seeketh my lord this thing, that shall be areckoned into sin to Israel?

<sup>4</sup> But the word of the king had more the mastery; and Joab went out, and compassed all Israel, and turned again into Jerusalem.

<sup>5</sup> And he gave to David the number of them, which he had compassed; and all the number of Israel was found a thousand thousand, and an hundred thousand of men, drawing out sword; forsooth of Judah were three hundred thousand, and seventy thousand warriors.

<sup>8</sup> And David said to God, I have sinned greatly, that I would do this thing; I beseech thee, Lord, do thou away the wickedness of thy servant, for I did follily.

<sup>9</sup> And the Lord spake to Gad, the prophet of David, and said to him,

<sup>10</sup> Go thou, and speak to David, and say to him, The Lord saith these things, I give to thee the choosing of three things; choose thou one which thou wilt, that I do to thee.

<sup>11</sup> And when Gad was come to David, he said to David, The Lord saith these things, Choose thou that that thou wilt of these,

<sup>12</sup> either pestilence three years, either that three months thou flee thine enemies, and be not able to escape their sword, either that the sword of the Lord and death reign three days in the land, and that the angel of the Lord slay in all the coasts of Israel. Now therefore see thou, what I shall answer to him that sent me.

<sup>13</sup> And David said to Gad, Anguishes oppress me on each part, but it is better to me, that I fall into the hands of the Lord, for his merciful doings be many, then into the hands of men.

<sup>15</sup> Also the Lord sent an angel into Jerusalem, that he should smite it; and when it was smitten, the Lord saw, and had mercy upon the greatness of evil; and he commanded to the angel that smote, and said, It sufficeth, now thine hand cease. And the angel of the Lord stood beside the cornfloor of Ornan the Jebusite.

<sup>16</sup> And David raised up his eyes, and saw the angel of the Lord standing betwixt heaven and earth, and a drawn sword in his hand, turned against Jerusalem. And both he and the greater men in birth were clothed with hair-shirts, and they fell down upon the earth.

<sup>17</sup> And David said to the Lord, Whether I am not he that commanded that the people should be numbered? I it am that sinned, I it am that did evil; what hath this flock deserved? My Lord God, I beseech thee, thine hand be turned against me, and against the house of my father; but thy people be not smitten.

<sup>18</sup> And the angel of the Lord commanded [to] Gad, that he should say to David, that he should go up, and build an altar to the Lord God in the cornfloor of Ornan the Jebusite.

<sup>20</sup> And when Ornan had beheld, and saw the angel, and his four sons with him had seen, they hid them-[selves], for in that time Ornan threshed wheat in the cornfloor.

<sup>21</sup> Therefore when David came to Ornan, Ornan beheld David, and went forth from the cornfloor against or towards him, and worshipped him lowly upon the ground.

<sup>22</sup> And David said to him, Give the place of the cornfloor to me, that I build therein an altar to the Lord; so that thou take as much silver as it is worth, and that the vengeance cease from the people.

<sup>23</sup> And Ornan said to David, Take thou it, and my lord the king do he whatever thing pleaseth him; but also I give oxen into burnt sacrifice, and instruments of wood, whereby corns be threshed, into sticks to be burnt, and wheat into sacrifice; I give gladly all these things.

<sup>24</sup> And king David said to him, It shall not be done so, but I shall give to thee silver for as much as it is worth; for I owe not to take away from thee, and offer so to the Lord burnt sacrifices freely given.

<sup>25</sup> Therefore David gave to Ornan for the place six hundred shekels of gold of full just weight.

<sup>26</sup> And David builded there an altar to the Lord, and offered thereon burnt sacrifices and peaceable sacrifices, and he inwardly called God; and God heard him in fire from heaven upon the altar of burnt sacrifice.

<sup>28</sup> Then anon David saw, that the Lord had heard him in the cornfloor of Ornan the Jebusite, and he offered there slain sacrifices.

<sup>29</sup> Forsooth the tabernacle of the Lord, that Moses had made in the desert, and the altar of burnt sacrifices, was in that tempest in the high place of Gibeon;

<sup>30</sup> and David might not go to the altar, to beseech God there, for he was afeared with full great dread, seeing the sword of the angel of the Lord.

CHAPTER 22

<sup>2</sup> And David commanded that all converts, that is, all men turned from heathenness to the law of Israel, should be gathered together of the land of Israel; and he ordained of them masons for to cut, or hew, stones and to polish them, and that the house of the Lord should be builded;

<sup>5</sup> And David said, Solomon, my son, is a little child and delicate, that is, for tenderness of age; soothly the house, which I will to be builded to the Lord, oweth to be such, that it be named in all countries; therefore I shall make ready necessities to him. And for this cause David before his death made ready all [the] costs.

<sup>6</sup> And he called Solomon, his son, and commanded to him, that he should build an house to the Lord God of Israel.

<sup>7</sup> And David said to Solomon, My son, it was my will to build an house to the name of the Lord my God;

<sup>8</sup> but the word of the Lord was made to me, and said, Thou hast shed out much blood, and thou hast fought full many battles; thou mayest not build an house to my name, for thou hast shed out so much blood before me;

<sup>9</sup> the son that shall be born to thee, shall be a man most peaceable; for I shall make him to have rest of all his enemies by compass, and for this cause he shall be called Peaceable; and I shall give peace and rest in Israel in all his days.

<sup>10</sup> He shall build an house to my name; he shall be to me into a son, and I shall be to him into a father; and I shall make steadfast the seat of his realm on Israel without end.

<sup>11</sup> Now therefore, my son, the Lord be with thee; and have thou prosperity, and build thou an house to the Lord thy God, as he hath spoken of thee.

<sup>12</sup> And the Lord give to thee prudence and wit, that thou may govern Israel, and keep the law of the Lord thy God.

<sup>13</sup> For then thou mayest profit, if thou keepest the behests and dooms, which the Lord commanded to Moses, that he should teach Israel; be thou comforted,, and do thou manly, dread thou not withoutforth, neither dread thou within.

<sup>14</sup> Lo! in my poverty I have made ready the costs of the house of the Lord; an hundred thousand talents of gold, and a thousand thousand talents of silver; soothly of brass and iron is no weight, for the number is overcome by greatness; I have made ready wood and stones at all costs.

<sup>15</sup> Also thou hast full many crafts-men, masons, and layers of stones, and craftsmen of timber, and of all crafts, most prudent to make work,

<sup>16</sup> in gold, and silver, and brass, and in iron, of which is no number; therefore rise thou up, and make it, and the Lord shall be with thee.

<sup>17</sup> Also David commanded to all the princes of Israel, that they should help Solomon, his son, and said,

<sup>18</sup> Ye see, that the Lord your God is with you, and he hath given to you rest by compass/about, and he hath betaken all [the] enemies in your hand, and the earth is subject before the Lord, and before his people.

<sup>19</sup> Therefore give ye your hearts and your souls, that ye seek the Lord your God; and rise ye up together, and build ye a saintuary to the Lord our God, that the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord be brought in thither, and that vessels hallowed to the Lord be brought into the house, that is builded to the name of the Lord.

CHAPTER 23

<sup>1</sup> Then David was eld [or old] and full of days, and he ordained Solomon, his son, king upon Israel.

<sup>3</sup> and the deacons [or Levites] were numbered from twenty years and above, and eight and thirty thousand of men were found of them.

<sup>4</sup> And four and twenty thousand men were chosen of them, and were parted or set apart into the service of the house of the Lord; and of sov-ereigns, and judges, six thousand;

<sup>5</sup> and four thousand that were porters of gates and doors, and so many singers, singing to the Lord in organs, which David had made for to sing with.

<sup>10</sup> And the sons of Shimei were Jahath, and Zina, and Jeush, and Beriah; these four were the sons of Shimei.

<sup>11</sup> And Jahath was the former, and Zizah, the second; and Jeush and Beriah had not full many sons, and therefore they were reckoned in one meine, and in one house.

<sup>13</sup> The sons of Amram were Aaron and Moses; and Aaron was separated, that he should minister in the holy of holy things, he and his sons without end, and to burn incense to the Lord by his custom, and to bless his name without end.

<sup>17</sup> And the sons of Eliezer were Rehabiah the first, and other sons were not to Eliezer; forsooth the sons of Rehabiah were multiplied full much.

<sup>22</sup> And Eleazar was dead, and had not sons, but daughters; and the sons of Kish, the brethren of them, that is, cousins-germane, wedded them.

<sup>24</sup> These were the sons of Levi in their kindreds and meines, and they were princes by whiles, and the number of all the heads, that did the travail of the service of the house of the Lord, from twenty years and above.

<sup>25</sup> For David said, The Lord God of Israel hath given rest to his people, and a dwelling in Jerusalem into with-out end;

<sup>26</sup> and it shall not be the office of deacons [or Levites] for to bear [any] more the tabernacle, and all the vessels thereof for to minister therein.

<sup>28</sup> and they shall be under the hand of the sons of Aaron, into the worship of the house of the Lord, in porches, and in chambers, and in the place of cleansing, and in the saintuary, and in all works of the service of the temple of the Lord.

<sup>29</sup> And [the] priests shall be over the loaves of proposition, that is, setting forth, and to the sacrifice of [tried] flour, and to the pastes sodden in water, and to the therf loaves, and to the frying pan, and to [the] hot flour, and to singe, and over all weight and measure.

<sup>30</sup> And the deacons [or Levites] shall be, that they stand early, for to ac-knowledge and sing to the Lord, and in like manner at eventide,

<sup>31</sup> as well in the offering of burnt sacrifices of the Lord, as in sabbaths, and calends, and other solemnities, by the number and ceremonies of each thing, continually before the Lord;

<sup>32</sup> and that they keep the observ-ances of the tabernacle of the bond of peace of the Lord, and the custom of the saintuary, and the observance of the sons of Aaron, their brethren, that they minister in the house of the Lord.

CHAPTER 24

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth to the sons of Aaron these portions shall be; the sons of Aaron were Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar;

<sup>2</sup> but Nadab and Abihu were dead without free children before their father, and Eleazar and Ithamar were set in priesthood.

<sup>3</sup> And David parted or separated them, that is, with the help of Zadok, of the sons of Eleazar, and Ahimelech, of the sons of Ithamar, by their whiles, and their service;

<sup>4</sup> and the sons of Eleazar were found many more in the men as princes, than the sons of Ithamar. And David parted or separated to them, that is, to the sons of Eleazar, sixteen princes by their meines and houses; and to the sons of Ithamar eight princes by their meines and houses.

<sup>5</sup> And he parted or separated ever either meines among themselves by lots; for there were princes of the saintuary, and princes of the house of God, as well of the sons of Eleazar, and of the sons of Ithamar.

<sup>6</sup> And Shemaiah, the son of Nethane-el, a scribe of the lineage of Levi, described them before the king and [the] princes, and before Zadok, the priest, and Ahimelech, the son of Abiathar, and to the princes of meines of the priests and of the deacons [or Levites]; he described one house of Eleazar, that was sovereign to [the] others, and the tother house of Ithamar, that had [the] other priests and deacons or Levites under him.

<sup>10</sup> the seventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to Abiah,

<sup>19</sup> These were the whiles, or times, of them by their services, that they enter into the house of God, and by their custom under the hand of Aaron, their father, as the Lord God of Israel commanded.

<sup>20</sup> Forsooth Shubael was prince of the sons of Levi that were residue or were left, of the sons of Amram; and the son of Shubael was Jehdeiah;

<sup>30</sup> the sons of Mushi were Mahli, Eder, and Jerimoth. These were the sons of Levi, by the houses of their meines.

<sup>31</sup> Also and they sent lots against their brethren, the sons of Aaron, before David the king, and before Zadok, and Ahimelech, and before the princes of meines of [the] priests, and of deacons [or Levites]; [the] lot parted evenly all things, both the greater and the less.

CHAPTER 25

<sup>1</sup> Therefore David, and the magis-trates of the host, parted or separated to the service of the sons of Asaph, and of Heman, and of Jeduthun, the which should prophesy in harps, and in psalteries, and in cymbals, by their number, and serve the office hallowed, or enjoined, to them.

<sup>2</sup> Of the sons of Asaph; Zaccur, and Joseph, and Nethaniah, and Asarelah; and the sons of Asaph, under the hand of Asaph, prophesied beside the king.

<sup>3</sup> And the sons of Jeduthun were these; Gedaliah, Zeri, Jeshaiiah, Shimei, and Hashabiah, and Mattithiah, six; under the hand of their father Jeduthun, that prophesied in an harp, upon men acknowledging and praising the Lord.

<sup>4</sup> Also the sons of Heman were these of Heman; Bukkiah, Mattaniah, Uzziel, Shebuel, and Jerimoth, Hananiah, Hanani, Eliathah, Giddalti, and Romam-tiezer, and Joshbekashah, Mallothi, Hothir, and Mahazioth;

<sup>5</sup> all these the sons of Heman were prophets of the king in the words of God, that he should enhance the horn, or strength. And God gave to Heman fourteen sons and three daughters.

<sup>6</sup> All these under the hand of their father were dealed, either assigned, to sing in the temple of the Lord, in cymbals, and psalteries, and harps, into the service of the house of the Lord, nigh the king, that is say, Asaph, and Jeduthun, and Heman.

<sup>7</sup> And the number of them, with their brethren that taught the song[s] of the Lord, all the teachers, was two hundred fourscore and eight.

<sup>8</sup> And they sent lots by their whiles evenly, as well the greater as the less, also a wise man and an unwise.

<sup>9</sup> And the first lot went out to Joseph, that was of Asaph, and to his sons and to his brothers, twelve; the second to Gedaliah, to him, and to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;

<sup>14</sup> the seventh to Jesharelah, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;

<sup>15</sup> the eighth to Jeshaiiah, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;

- 16 the ninth to Mattaniah, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 17 the tenth to Shimei, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 18 the eleventh to Azareel, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 19 the twelfth to Hashabiah, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 20 the thirteenth to Shubael, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 21 the fourteenth to Mattithiah, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 22 the fifteenth to Jeremoth, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 23 the sixteenth to Hananiah, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 24 the seventeenth to Joshbekashah, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 25 the eighteenth to Hanani, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 26 the nineteenth to Mallothi, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 27 the twentieth to Eliathah, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 28 the one and twentieth to Hothir, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 29 the two and twentieth to Giddalti, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 30 the three and twentieth to Mahaz-ioth, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve;
- 31 the four and twentieth to Romam-tiezer, to his sons and to his brethren, twelve.

CHAPTER 26

- 1 Forsooth these were the partings of [the] porters; of the sons of Korah, Meshelemiah was the son of Kore, of the sons of Asaph.
- 2 The sons of Meshelemiah were Zechariah the first begotten, Jediael the second, Zebadiah the third, Jathniel the fourth,
- 3 Elam the fifth, Jehohanan the sixth, Elioenai the seventh.
- 4 And the sons of Obededom were these; Shemaiah the first begotten, Jehozabad the second, Joah the third, and Sacar the fourth, Nethaneel the fifth,
- 5 Ammiel the sixth, Issachar the seventh, Peulthai the eighth, for the Lord blessed him.
- 6 And to Shemaiah, his son, were born sons, sovereigns of their meines; for they were full strong men.
- 7 Therefore the sons of Shemaiah were Othni, and Rephael, and Obed, and Elzabad; and his brethren, full strong men, also Elihu, and Semachiah.
- 8 All these were of the sons of Obededom; they and their sons and their brethren, full strong men for to serve, two and sixty of Obededom.
- 9 And of Meshelemiah were eighteen sons and brethren, full strong men.
- 10 And of Hosah, that is, of the sons of Merari, Simri was prince; and for he had no first begotten son, therefore his father ordained him into [a] prince;
- 11 and Hilkiah the second, Tebaliah the third, Zechariah the fourth; all these thirteen were the sons and brethren of Hosah.
- 12 These were parted into porters, that ever[more] the princes of [the] keepings, as also their brethren, should minister in the house of the Lord.
- 13 Therefore lots were sent, or cast, evenly, both to the little and to the great, by their meines, into each of the gates.
- 14 Therefore the lot of the east coast befelled to Shelemiah; and the north coast befelled by lot to Zechariah, his son, a full prudent man and well learned;
- 15 and to Obededom and to his sons lot fell at the south coast, in which part of the house was the council of the elder men;
- 16 Shuppim and Hosah were at the west coast, besides the Shallecheth gate that leadeth to the way of going up, keeping against keeping [or ward against ward].
- 17 And at the east part were six deacons [or Levites], and at the north were four by day; and at the south also were four at midday; and, where the council was, were twain and twain [or two and two].

<sup>20</sup> And of the Levites, Ahijah was over the treasures [or treasuries] of the house of the Lord, and over [the] vessels of the holy things.

<sup>25</sup> and his brother, Eliezer; whose son was Rehabiah; and his son was Jeshaiiah; and his son was Joram; and his son was Zichri; but and his son was Shelomith.

<sup>26</sup> That Shelomith, and his brethren, were over the treasures [or treasuries] of the holy things, which David the king hallowed, and the princes of meines, and the tribunes, and the centurions, and the dukes of the host,

<sup>27</sup> of the battles, and of the spoils of battles, which they hallowed to the reparation and appurtenance of the temple of the Lord.

<sup>28</sup> And Samuel, the prophet, hallowed all these things, and Saul, the son of Kish, and Abner, the son of Ner, and Joab, the son of Zeruiah; and all these hallowed those things by the hand of Shelomith, and of his brethren.

<sup>30</sup> And of Hebronites, Hashabiah, and his brethren, full strong men, a thousand and seven hundred, were sovereigns upon Israel beyond Jordan against the west, in all the works of the Lord, and into the service of the king.

<sup>31</sup> And Jerijah was prince of Hebron-ites, by their meines and kindreds. In the fortieth year of the realm of David there were numbered, and were found full strong men in Jazer of Gilead;

<sup>32</sup> and his brethren, of stronger age, two thousand and seven hundred, princes of meines. And king David made them sovereigns of Reubenites, and Gadites, and of the half lineage of Manasseh, into all the service of God, and of the king.

CHAPTER 27

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth the sons of Israel by their number, the princes of meines, the tribunes, and centurions, and prefects, that ministered to the king by their companies of knights, entering in and going out by each month in the year, were sovereigns, each by him-self, upon four and twenty thousand.

<sup>2</sup> Jashobeam, the son of Zabdiel, was sovereign of the first company in the first month, and under him were four and twenty thousand;

<sup>4</sup> Dodai Ahohite had the company of the second month, and after him-self he had another man, Mikloth by name, that governed a part of the host of four and twenty thousand.

<sup>5</sup> And Benaiah, the son of Jehoiada, the priest, was duke of the third company in the third month, and four and twenty thousand were in his parting;

<sup>6</sup> that is Benaiah, the strongest man among thirty, and above thirty; and Ammizabad, his son, was sovereign of his company after him.

<sup>7</sup> In the fourth month, the fourth prince was Asahel, the brother of Joab, and Zebadiah, his son, after him, and four and twenty thousand were in his company.

<sup>8</sup> In the fifth month, the fifth prince was Shamhuth Izrahite, and four and twenty thousand were in his company.

<sup>9</sup> In the sixth month, the sixth prince was Ira, the son of Ikkesh, Tekoite, and four and twenty thousand were in his company.

<sup>10</sup> In the seventh month, the seventh prince was Helez the Pelonite, of the sons of Ephraim, [and] four and twenty thousand were in his company.

<sup>11</sup> In the eighth month, the eighth prince was Sibbecai the Hushathite, of the generation of Zarhites or the sons of Zareh, and four and twenty thousand were in his company.

<sup>12</sup> In the ninth month, the ninth prince was Abiezer the Anetothite, of the generation of Benjamin, and four and twenty thousand were in his company.

<sup>13</sup> In the tenth month, the tenth prince was Maharai, and he was Netophath-ite, of the generation of Zarhites, and four and twenty thousand were in his company.

<sup>14</sup> In the eleventh month, the eleventh prince was Benaiah the Pirathonite, of the sons of Ephraim, and four and twenty thousand were in his company.

<sup>15</sup> In the twelfth month, the twelfth prince was Heldai the Netophathite, of the generation of Othniel, and four and twenty thousand were in his company.

<sup>16</sup> Forsooth these were the sovereigns of the lineages of Israel; duke Eliezer, the son of Zichri, was sovereign to Reubenites; duke Shephatiah, the son of Maachah, was sovereign to Simeon-ites;

<sup>19</sup> Ishmaiah, the son of Obadiah, was sovereign to Zebulunites; Jerimoth, the son of Azriel, was sovereign to Naphtalites;

<sup>20</sup> Hoshea, the son of Azaziah, was sovereign to the sons of Ephraim; Joel, the son of Pedaiah, was sovereign to the half lineage of Manasseh;

<sup>21</sup> and Iddo, the son of Zechariah, was sovereign to the other half lineage of Manasseh in Gilead; and Jaasiel, the son of Abner, was sovereign to Benjamin;

<sup>22</sup> and Azareel, the son of Jeroham, was sovereign to Dan; these were the princes of the sons of Israel.

<sup>23</sup> And David would not number them that were within twenty years, for the Lord [had] said, that he would multiply Israel as the stars of heaven.

<sup>24</sup> Joab, the son of Zeruiah, began for to number Israel, but he fulfilled not; for ire of God fell upon Israel for this thing, and therefore the number of them that were numbered, was not told in the books of chronicles of king David.

<sup>25</sup> Forsooth Azmaveth, the son of Adiel, was sovereign on the treasures [or treasures] of the king; but Jehona-than, the son of Uzziah, was sovereign over these treasures [or treasures], that were in cities, and in towns, and in towers.

<sup>26</sup> And Ezri, the son of Chelub, was sovereign upon the work of husbandry, and upon [the] earth-tillers, that tilled the land;

<sup>27</sup> and Shimei the Ramathite was sovereign upon [the] tillers of vineries; and Zabdi the Shiphmite was sovereign upon the wine cellars;

<sup>28</sup> for Baalhanan the Gederite was sovereign[up] on the olive places, and the fig places, that were in the field places; and Joash was sovereign upon the shops, either cellars, of oil;

<sup>29</sup> and Shitrai the Sharonite was sovereign upon the droves that were pastured in Sharon; and Shaphat, the son of Adlai, was over the oxen in valleys;

<sup>32</sup> And Jonathan, the brother of David's father, was a counsellor, a mighty man, and prudent, and lettered; he and Jehiel, the son of Hachmoni, were with the sons of the king.

CHAPTER 28

<sup>1</sup> Therefore David called together all the princes of Israel, the dukes of lineages, and the sovereigns of companies, that ministered to or served the king, also the tribunes, and centurions, and them that were sovereigns over the cattle, or chattel, and the possessions of the king, and his sons, with [the] eunuchs, and all the mighty and strong men in the host of Jerusalem.

<sup>2</sup> And when the king had risen, and stood up, he said, My brethren and my people, hear ye me. I thought for to build an house, wherein the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord, and the stool of the feet of our God, should rest; and I have made ready all things to build it.

<sup>3</sup> But God said to me, Thou shalt not build an house to my name, for thou art a man warrior, and hast shed blood.

<sup>4</sup> But the Lord God of Israel chose me of all the house of my father, that I should be king on Israel without end; for of Judah he hath chosen princes, soothly of the house of Judah, he hath chosen the house of my father, and of the sons of my father, it pleased him to choose me king on all Israel.

<sup>5</sup> But also of my sons, for the Lord hath given to me many sons, he hath chosen Solomon, my son, that he should sit in the throne of the realm of the Lord on Israel.

<sup>6</sup> And he said to me, Solomon, thy son, shall build mine house, and mine altars; for I have chosen him to me into a son, and I shall be to him into a father;

<sup>7</sup> and I shall make steadfast his realm into without end, if he shall continue to do my behests and [my] dooms, as and today.

<sup>8</sup> Now therefore before all the company of Israel, in the hearing of God, keep ye and seek ye all the commandments of your Lord God, that ye have in possession a good land, and that ye leave it to your sons after you into without end.

<sup>9</sup> But thou, Solomon, my son, know [thou] the God of thy father, and serve thou him with perfect heart, and with a willful soul, or mind; for the Lord searcheth all hearts, and he understand-eth all the thoughts of souls; if thou seekest him, thou shalt find him; forsooth if thou forsakest him, he shall cast thee away without end.

<sup>11</sup> And David gave to Solomon, his son, the describing, either the en-sample, of the porch of the temple, and of [the] cellars, and of the solar, and of *[the]*bed-closets in privy places, and of the house of propiti-ation, or of mercy doing, that is, of the holy of holy things, where the propitiatory was;

<sup>12</sup> also and he gave him ensample of all things which he thought, of the large places, and of [the] chambers by compass, into the treasures [or treasuries] of the house of the Lord, and into the treasures [or treasuries] of [the] holy things,

<sup>13</sup> and of the partings of [the] priests and deacons [or Levites], into all the works of the house of the Lord, and all [the] vessels of service of the temple of the Lord.

<sup>14</sup> Of gold in weight by each vessel of service, and of silver, for [the] diversity of vessels, and of works;

<sup>15</sup> but also to [the] golden candle-sticks, and to their lanterns, he gave gold, for the measure of each candle-stick, and of its lanterns; also and in [the] silveren candlesticks, and in their lanterns, he betook to them the weight of silver, for the diversity of measure of those.

<sup>16</sup> And he gave gold into the board[s] of setting forth, for the diversity of measure, also and he gave silver into other silveren boards;

<sup>17</sup> also to [the] fleshhooks, and vials, and to censers of purest gold; and to golden basins, for the manner of measure, he separated a weight into a basin and a basin; also and into silveren basins he separated diverse weight of silver.

<sup>18</sup> And he gave most fine gold to the altar, wherein incense was burnt, that a likeness of the cart of cherubims, holding forth wings, and covering the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord, should be made thereof.

<sup>19</sup> And David said, All things came written by the hand of the Lord to me, that I should understand all the works of the exemplar or ensampler.

<sup>20</sup> And David said to Solomon, his son, Do thou manly, and be thou comforted, and make; dread thou not withoutforth, neither dread thou within; for my Lord God shall be with thee, and he shall not leave thee, neither he shall forsake thee, till thou perform all the work of the service of the house of the Lord.

<sup>21</sup> Lo! the partings of priests and of deacons [or Levites], into all the work of the service of the house of the Lord, shall stand nigh [to] thee; and they be ready to do their service, and both the princes and the people know to do all thy commandments.

CHAPTER 29

<sup>1</sup> And king David spake to all the church, God hath chosen Solomon, my son, yet a child and tender; forsooth the work is great, and a dwelling is not made ready to man, but to God.

<sup>2</sup> Soothly I in all my mights have made ready the costs of the house of my God; gold to golden vessels, silver to silveren vessels, brass to brazen vessels, iron to iron vessels, and tree to treen vessels, onyx stones, and stones as of the colour of women's ointment, and each precious stone of diverse colours, and marble of diverse colours, most plenteously.

<sup>3</sup> And over these things, I give gold and silver into the temple of my God, which I have offered of my proper chattel [or mine own treasure] into the house of my God, besides these things which I have made ready into the holy house,

<sup>4</sup> three thousand talents of gold, of the gold of Ophir, and seven thousand of talents of silver most proved, to overgild the walls of the temple;

<sup>5</sup> and for the works which be made by the hands of craftsmen, wherever gold is needful, of gold, and wherever silver is needful, of silver; and if any man offereth by his free will, *[full-]*fill he his hand today, and offer he that that he will to the Lord.

<sup>6</sup> Therefore the princes of [the] meines, and the dukes of the lineages of Israel, and the tribunes, and the centurions, and the princes of the possessions of the king, promised to give thereto or to give gifts to the temple;

<sup>7</sup> and they gave into the works of the house of the Lord, five thousand talents of gold, and ten thousand shillings; and ten thousand talents of silver, and eighteen thousand talents of brass, and an hundred thousand talents of iron.

<sup>8</sup> And at whomever precious stones were found, they gave into the treasure or the treasury of the house of the Lord, by the hand of Jehiel the Gershonite.

<sup>9</sup> And the people was glad, when they promised avows [or vows] by their free will, for with all the heart they offered those [or them] to the Lord. But also king David was glad with great joy,

<sup>10</sup> and he blessed the Lord before all the multitude, and said, Lord God of Israel, our father; thou art blessed from without beginning [and] into without end;

<sup>11</sup> Lord, worthy doing is thine, that is, thy doing is worthy and great, and power, and glory, and victory, and praising is to thee; for all things that be in heaven and in earth be thine; Lord, the realm is thine, and thou art over all princes;

<sup>12</sup> riches be thine, and glory is thine; thou art Lord of all; in thine hand is strength, and power, and in thine hand is greatness, and lordship of all.

<sup>14</sup> Who am I, and who is my people, that we may promise all these things to thee? All things be thine, and we have given to thee those things, which we have taken of thine hand.

<sup>15</sup> For we be pilgrims and comelings before thee, as all our fathers were; our days be as shadow on the earth, and there is no tarrying.

<sup>16</sup> Our Lord God, all this plenty of diverse goods which we have made ready, that an house should be builded to thine holy name, is of thine hand; and all things be thine.

<sup>17</sup> My God, I know, that thou provest hearts, and that thou lovest simpleness, that is, lowness, or meekness, of heart; wherefore in the simpleness of mine heart, I have offered gladly all these things; and I have seen with great joy thy people, which is found here, to offer gifts to thee.

<sup>18</sup> Lord God of Abraham, and of Isaac, and of Israel, our fathers, keep thou without end this will of their hearts; and this mind dwell ever [more] into the worshipping of thee.

<sup>19</sup> Also give thou to Solomon, my son, a perfect heart, that he keep thy behests, and thy witnessings, and thy ceremonies; and do all these things, and that he build the house, whose costs I have made ready.

<sup>20</sup> Soothly David commanded to all the church, that is, all the people gathered together, Bless ye the Lord our God. And all the church, that is, the people, blessed the Lord God of their fathers, and they bowed them-selves, and worshipped God, and [then] afterward honoured the king.

<sup>21</sup> And they offered slain sacrifices to the Lord, and they offered burnt sacrifices in the day pursuing [or following]; a thousand bulls, and a thousand rams, and a thousand lambs, with their flowing [or liquor] sacrifices, and with all the custom, most plente-ously, into all Israel.

<sup>22</sup> And they ate and drank before the Lord in that day, with great glad-ness. And they anointed the second time Solomon, the son of David; and they anointed him into prince to the Lord, and Zadok into bishop.

<sup>23</sup> And Solomon sat on the throne of the Lord into king, for David, his father; and it pleased all men, and all Israel obeyed to him.

<sup>24</sup> But also all [the] princes, and mighty men, and all the sons of king David, gave hand, that is, swearing or steadfastly promising to be faithful, and were subject to Solomon the king.

<sup>25</sup> Therefore the Lord magnified, or made great, Solomon upon all Israel, and gave to him glory of the realm, what manner glory no king of Israel had before him.

<sup>26</sup> And David, the son of Jesse, reigned upon all Israel;

<sup>27</sup> and the days in which he reigned upon Israel were forty years; in Hebron he reigned seven years, and in Jerusalem he reigned three and thirty years.

<sup>28</sup> And he died in [a] good eld age, and was full of days, and riches, and glory; and Solomon, his son, reigned for him.

<sup>29</sup> Forsooth the former and the last deeds of king David, be written in the book of Samuel, the prophet, and in the book of Nathan, the prophet, and in the book of Gad, the prophet;

<sup>30</sup> and of all his realm, and strength, and times, that passed under him, either in Israel, either in all realms of lands.

2ND CHRONICLES

<sup>2</sup> And Solomon commanded to all Israel, to tribunes, and centurions, and to dukes, and to doomsmen of all Israel, and to the princes of meines;

<sup>3</sup> and Solomon went with all the multitude into the high place of Gibeon, where the tabernacle of [the] bond of peace of the Lord was, which tabernacle Moses, the servant of the Lord, made in wilderness.

<sup>4</sup> Forsooth David had brought the ark of God from Kiriathjearim into the place which he had made ready to it, and where he had set a tabernacle to it, that is, in Jerusalem.

<sup>5</sup> And the brazen altar, which Bezaleel, the son of Uri, the son of Hur, had made, was there before the tabernacle of the Lord; which also Solomon and all the church sought.

<sup>6</sup> And Solomon went up to the brazen altar, before the tabernacle of the bond of peace of the Lord, and offered in it a thousand sacrifices.

<sup>7</sup> Lo! forsooth in that night God appeared to him, and said, Ask that that thou wilt, that I give to thee.

<sup>8</sup> And Solomon said to God, Thou hast done great mercy with David, my father, and hast ordained me king for him.

<sup>9</sup> Now therefore, Lord God, thy word be fulfilled, which thou promisedest to David, my father; for thou hast made me king upon thy great people, which is so unnumberable as the dust of [the] earth.

<sup>10</sup> Give thou to me wisdom and understanding, that I go in and go out before thy people; for who may deem worthily this thy people, which is so great?

<sup>11</sup> And God said to Solomon, For that this thing pleased more thine heart, and thou askedest not riches, and chattel, and glory, neither the lives of them that hate thee, but neither full many days of thy life; but thou hast asked for wisdom and knowing, that thou mayest deem my people, upon which I have ordained thee king,

<sup>12</sup> wisdom and knowing be given to thee; and over this, I shall give to thee riches, and chattel, and glory, so that none among kings, neither before thee, nor after thee, be like thee.

<sup>13</sup> Then Solomon came from the high place of Gibeon into Jerusalem, before the tabernacle of the bond of peace, and he reigned upon Israel.

<sup>14</sup> And Solomon gathered together to him chariots and knights, and a thousand and four hundred chariots were made to him, and twelve thousand knights; and he made them to be in the cities of carts, and with the king in Jerusalem.

<sup>15</sup> And the king gave in Jerusalem gold and silver as stones in plenty, and he gave cedar trees as sycamores, that come forth in field places in great multitude.

<sup>16</sup> And horses were brought to him from Egypt, and from Coa, by the merchants of the king, which went, and bought by price, <sup>17</sup> a chariot of horses for six hundred pieces of silver, and an horse for an hundred and fifty. In like manner buying was made of all the realms of cities, and of the kings of Syria.

CHAPTER 2

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Solomon deemed, or purposed, to build an house to the name of the Lord, and a palace to himself.

<sup>2</sup> And he numbered seventy thousand of men bearing burdens in shoulders, and fourscore thousand that should cut, or hew, stones in hills; and the sovereigns of them were three thousand and six hundred.

<sup>3</sup> And Solomon sent to Hiram*, the king of Tyre, and said, As thou didest with my father David, and sentest him trees of cedar, that he should build to him an house, in which also he dwelled; so do thou with me,

<sup>4</sup> that I build an house to the name of the Lord my God, and that I hallow it, to burn incense before him, and to make odour of sweet smelling spices, and to [the] everlasting setting forth of loaves, and to [the] burnt sacrifices in the morrowtide and eventide, and in [the] sabbaths, and new moons, that is, feasts in the beginnings of months, and in solemnities of the Lord our God into without end, which observ-ances and hallowings be commanded to Israel.

<sup>6</sup> Who therefore may have might to build a worthy house to him? For if heaven and heavens of heavens may not take, or hold, him, how great am I, that I may build an house to him, but to this thing only, that incense be burnt there before him?

<sup>7</sup> Therefore send thou to me a learned man, that can work in gold, and in silver, in brass, and iron, in purple, and in red silk, and in jacinth; and that can engrave engraving with these craftsmen, which I have with me in Judah and in Jerusalem, the which men David, my father, before made ready.

<sup>8</sup> But also send thou to me cedar trees, and pine trees, and thyine trees of the Lebanon; for I know, that thy servants can cut trees of the Lebanon; and my servants shall be with thy servants,

<sup>10</sup> Furthermore to thy servants, work-men that shall cut trees, I shall give into meats twenty thousand cors of wheat, and so many cors of barley, and twenty thousand measures of oil, that be called baths.

<sup>11</sup> And Hiram, king of Tyre, said by letters which he sent to Solomon, For the Lord [hath] loved his people, there-fore he hath made thee to reign upon it.

<sup>12</sup> And Hiram added to, saying, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, that made heaven and earth, which hath given to king David a wise son, and learned, and witting, and prudent, that he should build an house to the Lord, and a palace to himself.

<sup>13</sup> Therefore I have sent to thee a prudent man and most knowing, Hiram†, my father,

<sup>14</sup> the son of a woman of the lineage of Dan, whose father was a man of Tyre; the which Hiram can work in gold, and silver, in brass, and in iron, and in marble, and in trees, also in purple, and jacinth, and bis, and in red silk; and the which Hiram can engrave in all engraving, and can find prudently, whatever thing is needful in work with thy craftsmen, and with the craftsmen of my lord David, thy father.

<sup>15</sup> Therefore, my lord, send thou to thy servants the wheat, and barley, and oil, and wine, which thou hast promised.

<sup>16</sup> And we shall cut down trees of the Lebanon, how many ever thou hast need of; and we shall bring those trees in ships by the sea into Joppa; and it shall be thine doing to lead those [or them] over into Jerusalem.

<sup>17</sup> Then Solomon numbered all men converted from heathenness, that were in the land of Israel, after the numbering that David, his father, had numbered; and an hundred thousand and three and fifty thousand and six hundred were found of them.

* CHAPTER 2:3 Also known as Hiram. † CHAPTER 2:13 Also known as Hiram(!).

<sup>18</sup> And he made of them seventy thousand, that should bear burdens on their shoulders, and fourscore thousand, that should cut, or hew, stones in hills; and he made three thousand and six hundred sovereigns of [the] works of the people.

CHAPTER 3

<sup>3</sup> And these were the foundations, which Solomon setted [or laid], that he should build the house of God; sixty cubits of length in the first measure, and twenty cubits of breadth.

<sup>4</sup> And he builded a porch before the front, that was stretched forth along beside or at the measure of the breadth of the house, of twenty cubits, and the highness was of an hundred and twenty cubits; and he overgilded it within with cleanest gold.

<sup>5</sup> Also he covered the greater house with boards of box wood, and he fastened plates of gold of the best colour all about; and he engraved therein palm trees, and as small chains embracing themselves together.

<sup>6</sup> And he arrayed the pavement of the temple with most precious marble, in much fairness. And the gold was most proved,

<sup>7</sup> of whose plates he covered the house, and the beams thereof, and the posts, and the walls, and the doors; and he graved cherubims, that is, angels, in the walls.

<sup>8</sup> Also he made an house to the holy of holy things, in length by the breadth of the house, of twenty cubits, and the breadth also of twenty cubits; and he covered it with golden plates, as with six hundred talents in value.

<sup>9</sup> And also he made golden nails, so that each nail weighed fifty shekels; and he covered the solars with gold.

<sup>10</sup> Also he made in the house of the holy of holy things, two cherubims [or cherubim] by the work of an image maker, and covered them with gold.

<sup>11</sup> The wings of cherubims [or cher-ubim] were holden forth by twenty cubits, so that one wing had five cubits, and it touched the wall of the house; and the tother wing had five cubits, and it touched the wing of the other cherub.

<sup>12</sup> In like manner the one wing of the other cherub had five cubits, and it touched the wall, and the other wing thereof that was of five cubits, touched the wing of the other cherub.

<sup>13</sup> Therefore the wings of ever either cherub were spread abroad, and they were holden forth by twenty cubits; and those cherubims stood upon [the] feet raised up, and their faces were turned to the outermore house.

<sup>14</sup> Also he made a veil of jacinth, and purple, of red silk, and bis; and weaved cherubims [or cherubim] therein.

<sup>15</sup> Also before the gates of the temple he made two pillars, which had five and thirty cubits of height; and the heads of those pillars were of five cubits in height.

<sup>16</sup> Also he made as it were little chains in God's answering place, and he putted them on the heads of the pillars; also he made an hundred pomegranates, which he setted [or put] betwixt the little chains.

CHAPTER 4

<sup>1</sup> Also he made a brazen altar of twenty cubits of length, and of twenty cubits of breadth, and of ten cubits of height;

<sup>2</sup> he made also a molten sea, that is, a great washing vessel for priests, of ten cubits from brink to brink, round by compass; it had five cubits of height; and a cord of thirty cubits encompassed the compass thereof.

<sup>3</sup> And the likeness of oxen was under it, and by ten cubits some engravings withoutforth encompassed the brink of the sea, as with twain [or two] orders; and the oxen were molten.

<sup>4</sup> And that sea was set upon twelve oxen, of which oxen three beheld to the north, and other three to the west, and three others beheld to the south, and [the] three that were residue beheld the east, and these had the sea set above them; but the hinder parts of the oxen were within under the sea.

<sup>5</sup> And the thickness of the sea had the measure of the palm of an hand, and the brink thereof was as the brink of a cup, either as of a lily crooked again, and the sea held three thousand metretes of measure.

<sup>6</sup> Also he made ten hollow vessels, and setted [or put] five at the right side, and five at the left side, that they should wash in those [or them] all things, which they should offer into burnt sacrifice; soothly the priests were washed in the sea.

<sup>8</sup> And he made also ten tables, and he setted those [or put them] in the temple, five at the right side, and five at the left side. Also he made an hundred golden vials, or basins.

<sup>9</sup> Also he made a large place of priests, and a great house, and [the] doors in the great house, which he covered with brass.

<sup>11</sup> Also Hiram made cauldrons, and fleshhooks, and vials, or basins, and he fulfilled all the work of the king in the house of God,

<sup>12</sup> that is, he made two pillars, and their pommels or capitals, and heads, and as some nets, that covered the heads above the pommels;

<sup>13</sup> also he made forty pomegranates, and two works like nets, so that the two orders of pomegranates were joined to each work like nets, which covered the pommels, and the heads of the pillars.

<sup>14</sup> He made also foundations, and hollow vessels, which he set upon the foundations or bases;

<sup>15</sup> he made one sea, and twelve oxen under the sea,

<sup>16</sup> and cauldrons, and fleshhooks, and vials, or basins. Hiram, the father of Solomon, that is, called so for reason of age, either of excellence of craft, made to him all the vessels in the house of the Lord of cleanest brass.

<sup>17</sup> The king melted out those vessels in the country of Jordan, in [the] clay land between Succoth and Zeredathah.

<sup>19</sup> And Solomon made all the vessels of God's house, the golden altar, and boards or meat tables, and the loaves of setting forth upon those [or them];

<sup>21</sup> and he made some works like flowers, and lanterns, and golden tongs; all these things were made of cleanest gold;

<sup>22</sup> also he made pans for coals to burn incense, and censers, and vials, or basins, and mortars, of purest gold. And he engraved the doors of the inner temple, that is, in the holy of holy things, and the golden doors of the temple withoutforth;

CHAPTER 5

<sup>1</sup> and so all the work was [ful] filled that Solomon made in the house of the Lord. Therefore Solomon brought in all things, that is, silver, and gold, which David, his father had avowed [or vowed]; and he putted [or put] all the vessels in the treasuries of the house of the Lord.

<sup>2</sup> After which things he gathered together all the greater men in birth of Israel, and all the princes of lineages of tribes, and the heads of meines, of the sons of Israel, into Jerusalem, that they should bring the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord from the city of David, which is Zion.

<sup>5</sup> and they brought it, and all the array of the tabernacle, into the temple. And the priests with the deacons [or Levites] bare the vessels of the saintuary, that were in the tabernacle.

<sup>6</sup> And king Solomon, and all the companies of Israel, and all that were gathered together, offered before the ark wethers and oxen without number; for the multitude of slain sacrifices was so great that it might not be numbered.

<sup>7</sup> And [the] priests brought the ark of [the] bond of peace of the Lord into the place thereof, that is, to God's answering place of the temple, into the holy of holy things, under the wings of cherubims [or cherubim];

<sup>8</sup> so that cherubims [or cherubim] spreaded forth their wings over the place, in which the ark was put, and covered that ark with his bearing bars.

<sup>9</sup> Soothly the heads, or pommels, of the bars, with which the ark was borne, were open, or uncovered, before God's answering place, for those heads were a little longer than the stretching out of cherubs' wings; but if a man had been a little without-forth, he might not see those bearing bars. Therefore the ark was there till into the present day;

<sup>10</sup> and there was none other thing in the ark, but [the] two tables, which Moses had put therein in Horeb, when the Lord gave the law to the sons of Israel going out of Egypt.

<sup>11</sup> And after this the priests went out of the saintuary, for all the priests, that might be found there, were hallowed, and the whiles, or certain times, and the order of services among priests, was not parted yet in that time;

<sup>12</sup> and both deacons [or Levites] and singers, that is, both they that were under Asaph, and they that were under Heman, and they that were under Jeduthun, their sons and brethren, clothed with white linen clothes, sounded with cymbals and psalteries and harps, and stood at the west coast, or corner, of the altar, and with them were sixscore priests trumping.

<sup>13</sup> Therefore when they all sang together, both with trumps, and voice, and cymbals, and organs, and of diverse kinds of musics, and they raised [up] their voice on high, the sound was heard [a] far, so that when they had begun to praise the Lord, and to say, Acknowledge ye to the Lord, for he is good, for his mercy is into the world, either without end; the house of God was filled with a cloud, <sup>14</sup> and the priests might not stand to serve for the darkness; for the glory of the Lord had filled the house of the Lord.

CHAPTER 6

- <sup>1</sup> Then Solomon said, The Lord promised, that he would dwell in [the] darkness;
<sup>4</sup> and he said, Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for he hath fulfilled in work that thing, that he spake to David, my father, and said,
<sup>5</sup> From the day in which I led my people out of the land of Egypt, I chose not a city of all the lineages of Israel, that an house should be builded therein to my name, neither I chose any other man, that he should be duke upon my people Israel;
<sup>6</sup> but I chose Jerusalem, that my name be therein, and I chose David, to ordain him upon my people Israel.
<sup>7</sup> And when it was of the will of David, my father, to build an house to the name of the Lord God of Israel,
<sup>8</sup> the Lord said to him, For this was thy will, to build an house to my name, soothly thou didest well, having such a will,
<sup>9</sup> but yet thou shalt not build an house to me; nevertheless the son, that shall go out of thy loins, he shall build an house to my name.
<sup>10</sup> Therefore the Lord hath fulfilled his word, that he spake; and I rose up for David, my father, and I sat on the throne of Israel, as the Lord spake, and I have builded an house to the name of the Lord God of Israel;
<sup>11</sup> and I have put therein the ark, in which is the covenant of the Lord, which he covenanted with the sons of Israel.
<sup>12</sup> Therefore Solomon stood before the altar of the Lord even against all the multitude of Israel, and stretched forth his hands.
<sup>13</sup> For Solomon had made a brazen fundament, and had set [or put] it in the midst of the great house, and it had five cubits of length, and five cubits of breadth, and three cubits of height, and he stood there upon [it]; and from that time he kneeled against all the multitude of Israel, and he raised up his hands into heaven,
<sup>14</sup> and said, Lord God of Israel, none is like thee; thou art God in heaven, and in earth, which keepest covenant and mercy with thy servants, that go before thee in all their heart;
<sup>15</sup> thou hast given to David thy servant, my father, whatever thing thou hast spoken, or promised, to him; and thou hast fulfilled in work those things, which thou promisedest by mouth, as also this present time proveth.
<sup>16</sup> Now therefore, Lord God of Israel, fulfill thou to thy servant, my father David, whatever things thou hast spoken, saying, A man of thee shall not fail before me, that shall sit upon the throne of Israel; so nevertheless if thy sons keep my ways, and go in my law, as and thou hast gone before me.
<sup>17</sup> And now, Lord God of Israel, thy word be made steadfast, which thou spakest to thy servant David.
<sup>18</sup> Therefore whether it is believable, that the Lord dwell with men on earth? If heaven and the heavens of heavens may not take, either may not hold thee, Lord, how much more this house, which I have builded?
<sup>19</sup> But hereto only it is made, that thou, my Lord God, behold there the prayer of thy servant, and the beseeching of him, and that thou hear the prayers, which thy servant poureth [out] before thee;
<sup>20</sup> that thou open thine eyes upon this house by days and nights, upon the place in which thou promisedest, that thy name should be in-called, and that thou wouldest hear the prayer, which thy servant prayeth therein.

<sup>21</sup> Hear thou the prayers of thy servant, and of thy people Israel; who-ever prayeth in this place, hear thou from thy dwelling place, that is, from heaven, and do thou mercy to him.

<sup>23</sup> thou shalt hear from heaven, and shalt do the doom of thy servants; so that thou yield to the wicked man his way into his own head, and that thou avenge the just [or rightwise] man, and yield to him after his rightwiseness.

<sup>24</sup> If thy people Israel is overcome of enemies, for they shall do sin against thee, and if they converted do penance, and beseech thy name, and pray in this place,

<sup>25</sup> thou shalt hear from heaven, and do thou mercy to the sin of thy people Israel, and bring them again into the land, which thou hast given to them, and to their fathers.

<sup>26</sup> If when heaven is closed, rain come not down for the sin of thy people, and they beseech thee in this place, and acknowledge to thy name, and be turned from their sins, when thou hast tormented them,

<sup>27</sup> hear thou, Lord, from heaven, and forgive thou the sins to thy servants, and to thy people Israel, and teach thou them a good way, by which they shall enter, and give thou rain to the land, which thou hast given to thy people to have in possession.

<sup>28</sup> If that hunger riseth in the land, and pestilence, and rust, and wind destroying corns, or crops, and if that a locust, and a bruchus cometh; and if enemies besiege the gates of the city, after that the countries be destroyed; and if in any manner vengeance and sickness oppresseth thy people;

<sup>29</sup> if any of thy people Israel beseech-eth, and knoweth his vengeance, that is, his sin wherefore he hath deserved vengeance, and sickness, and if he spreadeth abroad his hands in this house,

<sup>30</sup> thou shalt hear from heaven, that is, from thine high dwelling place, and do thou mercy, and yield thou to each man after his ways, which thou knowest, that he hath in his heart; for thou alone knowest the hearts of the sons of men;

<sup>31</sup> that they dread thee, and go in thy ways in all days, in which they live on the face of [the] earth, which thou hast given to our fathers.

<sup>32</sup> Also thou shalt hear from heaven, thy most steadfast dwelling place, a stranger, which is not of thy people Israel, if he cometh from a far land for thy great name, and for thy strong hand, and thine arm stretched forth, and prayeth in this place;

<sup>33</sup> and thou shalt do all things, for which that pilgrim inwardly calleth thee, that all the people of earth know thy name, and dread thee, as thy people Israel doeth; and that they know, that thy name is called on this house, which I have builded to thy name.

<sup>34</sup> If thy people goeth out to battle against his adversaries, by the way in which thou sendest them, they shall worship thee against the way in which this city is set, which thou hast chosen, and the house which I [have] builded to thy name,

<sup>35</sup> that thou hear from heaven their prayers and their beseeching, and do thou vengeance to their adversaries.

<sup>36</sup> And if they sin against thee, for no man is alive that sinneth not, and if thou art wroth with them, and betakest them to their enemies; and enemies lead them prisoners into a far land, either certainly which land is nigh;

<sup>37</sup> and if they be converted in their heart in the land, to which they be led prisoners, and they do penance, and beseech thee in the land of their captivity, and say, We have sinned, we have done wickedly, we did unjustly;

<sup>38</sup> and if they turn again to thee in all their heart, and in all their soul, in the land of their captivity, to which they be led, and if they shall worship thee against the way of their land, which thou hast given to the fathers of them, and against the way of the city which thou hast chosen, and of the house which I [have] builded to thy name;

<sup>39</sup> that thou hear from heaven, that is, from thy steadfast dwelling place, the prayers of them, and that thou make doom, and forgive to thy people, though they be sinful;

<sup>40</sup> for thou art my God; I beseech thee, be thine eyes opened, and thine ears be attentive to the prayer that is made in this place.

<sup>42</sup> Lord God, turn thou not away the face of thy christ or thine anointed; have thou mind on the mercies of David thy servant.

CHAPTER 7

<sup>1</sup> And when Solomon shedding out his prayers had full ended them, fire came down from heaven, and it devoured the burnt sacrifices, and the slain sacrifices; and the majesty, or shining, of the Lord full-filled the house.

<sup>2</sup> And the priests might not enter into the temple of the Lord; for the mighty shining of the Lord had full-filled the temple of the Lord.

<sup>3</sup> But also all the sons of Israel saw fire coming down, and the glory of the Lord upon the house, and they felled down low to the earth, upon the pavement arrayed, or paved, with stone, and they worshipped, and praised the Lord, For he is good, for his mercy is into the world.

<sup>4</sup> And the king and all the people offered slain sacrifices before the Lord.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore king Solomon killed sacrifices of oxen two and twenty thousand, of wethers sixscore thou-sand; and the king and all the people hallowed the house of God.

<sup>6</sup> And the priests stood in their offices, and [the] deacons [or Levites] in organs of songs of the Lord, which king David made to praise the Lord, For his mercy is into the world; and they sang the hymns of David by their hands in organs and other instruments; and the priests sang with trumps before them, and all the people of Israel stood.

<sup>7</sup> Therefore Solomon hallowed the middle of the large place before the temple of the Lord; for he had offered there burnt sacrifices, and the inner fatnesses of peaceable sacrifices, for the brazen altar which he had made might not sustain, or hold, the burnt sacrifices, and slain sacrifices, and inner fatnesses of peaceable sacrifices.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore Solomon made a solemnity in that time in seven days, and all Israel with him, a full great church, or congregation, from the entering of Hamath unto the strand [or stream] of Egypt.

<sup>9</sup> And in the eighth day he made a gathering of money, that is, for necessities of the temple, for he had hallowed the altar in seven days, and had made [the] solemnity in seven more days.

<sup>10</sup> Therefore in the three and twentieth day of the seventh month, he let the peoples go to their tabernacles, joying and gladding upon the good-ness that God had done to David, and to Solomon, and to his people Israel.

<sup>11</sup> And Solomon performed or finish-ed the house of the Lord, and the house of the king, and all things which he had disposed in his heart for to do in the house of the Lord, and in his own house; and he had prosperity.

<sup>12</sup> Forsooth the Lord appeared to him in the night, and said, I have heard thy prayer, and I have chosen this place to me into an house of sacrifice.

<sup>13</sup> If I close heaven, and rain cometh not down, and if I send, and command to the locust, that he devour the land, and if I send pestilence into my people;

<sup>14</sup> forsooth if my people is converted, on which my name is called, and if it beseecheth me, and seeketh my face, and doeth penance of his full evil ways, then I shall hear from heaven, and I shall be merciful to the sins of them, and I shall heal the land of them.

<sup>15</sup> And mine eyes shall be opened, and mine ears shall be raised up to the prayer of him, that prayeth in this place;

<sup>16</sup> for I have chosen, and hallowed this place, that my name be there without end, and that mine eyes and mine heart dwell there in all days.

<sup>17</sup> Also if thou goest before me, as David thy father went, and doest by all those things which I commanded to thee, and keepest my rightfulnesses and my dooms,

<sup>18</sup> I shall raise up the throne of thy realm, as I promised to David thy father, and said, A man of thy generation shall not be taken away, that shall be prince in Israel.

<sup>19</sup> But if ye turn away, and forsake my rightfulnesses and my commandments, which I have set forth to you, and ye go, and serve alien gods, and worship them,

<sup>20</sup> I shall draw you away from my land, which I gave to you, and I shall cast away from my face this house which I have builded to my name, and I shall give it into a parable, and into ensample to all peoples.

<sup>21</sup> And this house shall be into a proverb to all men passing forth; and they shall say, wondering in them-selves, Why did the Lord so to this land, and to this house?

<sup>22</sup> And they shall answer, For they forsook the Lord God of their fathers, that led them out of the land of Egypt, and they took alien gods, and worship-ped [them], and praised them; there-fore all these evils came upon them.

CHAPTER 8

<sup>2</sup> he builded the cities, which Hiram* had given to Solomon; and he made the sons of Israel to dwell there.

<sup>6</sup> also he builded Baalath, and all the strong cities that were of Solomon; and all the cities of carts, and the cities of knights, king Solomon builded, and disposed all things, whichever he would, in Jerusalem, and in Lebanon, and in all the land of his power.

<sup>7</sup> And Solomon made subject into tributaries till into this day all the people that was left of Hittites, and Amorites, and Perizzites, and Hivites, and Jebusites, that were not of the generations of Israel, <sup>8</sup> and of the sons of them, and of the after-comers of them, which the sons of Israel had not slain.

<sup>9</sup> For of the sons of Israel Solomon set not, that they should serve the works of the king; for they were men warriors, and the first, or chief, dukes, and princes of his chariots, and of his knights;

<sup>10</sup> and all the princes of the host of king Solomon were two hundred and fifty, that taught, or ruled, the people.

<sup>11</sup> And Solomon translated or brought over the daughter of Pharaoh from the city of David into an house, that he had builded to her; for the king said, My wife shall not dwell in the house of David, king of Israel, for it is hallowed, for the ark of the Lord entered into that house.

* CHAPTER 8:2 Also known as Hiram.

<sup>12</sup> Then Solomon offered burnt sacrifices to the Lord on the altar of the Lord, which he had builded before the porch,

<sup>13</sup> that by all days offering should be offered in it, by the commandment of Moses, in sabbaths, and in calends, and in feast days, thrice by the year, that is, in the solemnity of therf loaves, and in the solemnity of weeks, and in the solemnity of tabernacles.

<sup>14</sup> And he ordained by the ordinance of David, his father, the offices of priests in their services, and the deacons [or Levites] in their order, that they should praise and minister before [the] priests by the custom of each day; and he ordained[the] porters in their partings by gate and gate. For David, the man of God, had commanded so;

<sup>15</sup> and both priests and deacons [or Levites] passed not from the command-ments of the king of all things which he had commanded.

<sup>16</sup> And Solomon had all [the] costs, or dispenses, or expenses, made ready in the keepings of [the] treasuries, from that day in which he founded the house of the Lord, till into the day in which he performed it.

<sup>18</sup> Therefore Hiram sent to him, by the hands of his servants, ships, and shipmen knowing of the sea, and they went with the servants of Solomon into Ophir, and they took from thence four hundred and fifty talents of gold, and they brought it to king Solomon.

CHAPTER 9

<sup>1</sup> And the queen of Sheba, when she had heard of the fame of Solomon, came into Jerusalem for to assay him in dark figures*, or likenesses, with great riches, and camels, that bare sweet smelling spices, and full much of gold, and precious gems, either pearls. And when she was come to Solomon, she spake to him whatever things were in her heart.

<sup>2</sup> And Solomon expounded to her on all things which she had put forth to him, and nothing was, that he made not open, or known, to her.

<sup>3</sup> And after that she saw these things, that is, the wisdom of Solomon, and the house that he had builded, <sup>4</sup> also and the meats of his board, and the dwelling places of his servants, and the offices of his ministers, and the clothes of them, and the butlers, and their clothes, and the sacrifices which he offered in the house of the Lord, there was no more spirit in her for wondering, for these things passed her understanding.

<sup>5</sup> And she said to the king, The word is true, which I heard in my land, of thy virtue, and [of thy] wisdom;

<sup>6</sup> I believed not to [the] tellers, till I myself had come, and mine eyes had seen, and I had proved that scarcely the half of thy wisdom was told to me; thou hast overcome, or surpassed, the fame by thy virtues.

<sup>8</sup> Blessed be the Lord God, that would ordain thee on his throne king of the people of the Lord thy God; truly for God loveth Israel, and will save him without end, therefore he hath set thee king upon him, that thou do dooms and rightfulness [or rightwiseness].

<sup>9</sup> And she gave to the king sixscore talents of gold, and full many sweet smelling spices, and most precious gems; there were not such sweet smelling spices, as these which the queen of Sheba gave to king Solomon.

* CHAPTER 9:1 Figurative speech is to speak one thing, and to understand another.

<sup>10</sup> But also the servants of Hiram†, with the servants of Solomon, brought gold from Ophir, and trees of thyine, and most precious gems;

<sup>11</sup> of which, that is, of the thyine trees, the king made degrees in the house of the Lord, and in the house of the king, and also he made harps, and psalteries to singers; such trees were never seen in the land of Judah.

<sup>12</sup> And [king] Solomon gave to the queen of Sheba all things which she would or desired, and which she asked for, many more than she had brought to him. And she turned again, and went into her land with her servants.

<sup>13</sup> And the weight of gold, that was brought to Solomon by each year, was six hundred and six and sixty talents of gold,

<sup>14</sup> besides that sum which the legates of diverse folks, and merchants were wont to bring, and all the kings of Arabia, and the princes of lands, which brought together gold and silver to Solomon.

<sup>15</sup> Therefore king Solomon made two hundred golden spears of the sum of six hundred florins, either pieces of gold, that were spenden in each spear;

<sup>16</sup> and he made three hundred golden shields of three hundred florins of gold, with which each shield was covered; and the king putted those [or put them] in the armoury place, that was set in the woods.

<sup>18</sup> and he made six degrees by which men went up to the seat, and a golden stool, and twain [or two] arms, one against the tother, and two lions standing beside the arms;

<sup>19</sup> but also he made twelve little lions standing upon [the] six degrees on ever either side of the throne. Such a throne was not in all realms, that is, in none of all the realms of the world.

<sup>20</sup> And all the vessels of the feast of the king were of gold, and the vessels of the house of the forest of Lebanon were made of most pure gold; for silver in those days was areckoned for nought.

<sup>21</sup> For also the ships of the king went into Tarshish with the servants of Hiram once in three years, and they brought from thence gold, and silver, and ivory, and apes, and peacocks.

<sup>23</sup> And all the kings of lands desired to see the face of Solomon, for to hear the wisdom that God had given in his heart;

<sup>24</sup> and they brought to him gifts, vessels of silver and of gold, clothes, and armours [or arms], and sweet smelling spices, horses and mules, by each year.

<sup>25</sup> And Solomon had forty thousand of horses in stables, and twelve thousand of chariots and of knights; and he ordained them in the cities of chariots, and where the king was in Jerusalem.

<sup>27</sup> And he gave so great plenty of silver in Jerusalem, as of stones, and so great multitude of cedar trees, as of sycamores that grow in field places.

<sup>29</sup> Soothly the residue of the former works and the last of Solomon, be written in the words of Nathan, the prophet, and in the words of Ahijah of Shiloh, and in the vision, either prophecy, of Iddo, the prophet, against Jeroboam, the son of Nebat.

† CHAPTER 9:10 Also known as Hiram.

<sup>31</sup> and he slept with his fathers; and they buried him in the city of David, and Rehoboam, his son, reigned for him.

CHAPTER 10

<sup>2</sup> And when Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, that was in Egypt, for he fled thither from before Solomon, had heard this, he turned again anon.

<sup>3</sup> And they called him, and he came with all Israel, and they spake to Rehoboam, and said,

<sup>4</sup> Thy father oppressed us with a full hard yoke; command thou lighter things on us than thy father, the which set upon us a grievous servage; and release thou a little of our burden, that we serve thee.

<sup>5</sup> And he said, After three days turn ye again to me. And when the people was gone [away], <sup>6</sup> he took counsel with [the] eld [or old] men, that stood before his father Solomon, while he lived yet, and said, What counsel give ye, that I answer to the people?

<sup>7</sup> And they said to him, If thou pleasest this people, and makest them soft, or quietest them, by meek words, they shall serve thee in all time.

<sup>8</sup> And he forsook the counsel of the eld [or old] men, and began to treat this in thought with young men, that were nourished with him, and were in his company.

<sup>9</sup> And he said to them, What seemeth to you? either what thing owe I answer to this people, that said to me, Release thou the yoke, that thy father hath put upon us?

<sup>10</sup> And they answered, as young men, and nourished with him in delights, and said, Thus thou shalt speak to the people that said to thee, Thy father made grievous our yoke, release thou it; and thus thou shalt answer to them, My least finger is greater than the loins of my father;

<sup>11</sup> my father put upon you a grievous yoke, and I shall lay to you a greater burden; my father beat you with scourges, but I shall beat you with scorpions, that is, hard-knotted ropes.

<sup>12</sup> And Jeroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam in the third day, as he had commanded to them.

<sup>14</sup> and he spake by the will of the young men, My father putted [or put] on you a grievous yoke, which I shall make grievouser; my father beat you with scourges, soothly I shall beat you with scorpions.

<sup>15</sup> And Rehoboam assented not to the prayers of the people; for it was the will of God, that his word should be [ful] filled, which he had spoken by the hand of Ahijah of Shiloh to Jero-boam, the son of Nebat.

<sup>16</sup> And when the king had said these harder things, all the people spake thus to him, No part be to us in David, neither heritage in the son of Jesse; Israel, turn thou again into thy tabernacles; and thou, David, feed thine own house. And Israel went into his tabernacles.

<sup>18</sup> And king Rehoboam sent Hador-am, that was sovereign over the tributes; and the sons of Israel stoned him, and he was dead. And king Rehoboam hasted him to go up into his chariot, and fled into Jerusalem.

<sup>19</sup> And Israel went away from the house of David unto this day.

CHAPTER 11

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth Rehoboam came into Jerusalem, and he called together all the house of Judah and of Benjamin, unto ninescore thousand of chosen men and warriors, for to fight against Israel, and for to turn again his realm to him.

<sup>2</sup> And the word of the Lord was made to Shemaiah, the man of God, and said,

<sup>4</sup> The Lord saith these things, Ye shall not go up, neither ye shall fight against your brethren; each man turn again to his house, for this thing is done by my will. And when they had heard the word of the Lord, they turned again, and went not against king Jeroboam.

<sup>11</sup> And when he had enclosed those [or them] with walls, he set [or put] princes in them, and barns of meats, that is, of oil, and of wine.

<sup>12</sup> But also in each city he made places of armours of shields, and spears, and he made those [or them] strong with most diligence; and he reigned on Judah and Benjamin.

<sup>13</sup> And the priests and the deacons [or Levites], that were in all Israel, came to Rehoboam from all their cities,

<sup>14</sup> and they forsook their suburbs and their possessions, and they passed into Judah and to Jerusalem; for Jeroboam and his after-comers had cast them away, that they should not be set in the priesthood of the Lord;

<sup>15</sup> the which Jeroboam made to him-[self] priests of high places, and of fiends, and of calves, which he had made.

<sup>16</sup> But also of all the lineages of Israel, whichever gave their heart to seek the Lord God of Israel, they came to Jerusalem for to offer their sacrifices before the Lord God of their fathers.

<sup>17</sup> And they strengthened the realm of Judah, and strengthened Rehoboam, the son of Solomon, by three years; for they went in the ways of David, and of Solomon, only by three years.

<sup>21</sup> And Rehoboam loved Maachah, the daughter of Absalom, above all his wives and his secondary wives. And he had wedded eighteen wives, and he had sixty secondary wives; and he begat eight and twenty sons, and sixty daughters.

<sup>22</sup> And he ordained Abijah, the son of Maachah, the head, duke over all his brethren; for he thought to make Abijah king, <sup>23</sup> for he was wiser and mightier over all his sons; and in all the coasts of Judah and of Benjamin, and in all the walled cities, he set his sons; and he gave to them full many meats, and he had many wives or he took to them many wives.

CHAPTER 12

<sup>1</sup> And when the realm of Reho-boam was made strong and comforted, he forsook the law of the Lord, and all Israel with him.

<sup>2</sup> And in the fifth year of the realm of Rehoboam, Shishak, king of Egypt, went up into Jerusalem, for they, that is, the men of Jerusalem, [had] sinned against the Lord;

<sup>3</sup> and he ascended with a thousand and two hundred chariots, and with sixty thousand horsemen, and no number was of the common people, that came with him from Egypt, that is, Libyans, and Troglodytes, and Ethiopians.

<sup>5</sup> And Shemaiah, the prophet, entered to Rehoboam, and to the princes of Judah, which, fleeing from Shishak, were gathered together in Jerusalem. And he said to them, The Lord saith these things, Ye have forsaken me, and I have forsaken you in the hand of Shishak.

<sup>6</sup> And the princes of Israel and the king were astonished, and said, The Lord is just [or rightwise].

<sup>7</sup> And when the Lord had seen that they were meeked, the word of the Lord was made to Shemaiah, and said, For they be meeked, I shall not destroy them, and I shall give to them a little help, and my strong vengeance shall not drop upon Jerusalem by the hand of Shishak.

<sup>8</sup> Nevertheless they shall serve him, that they know the diversity of my service, and of the service of the realm of lands.

<sup>9</sup> Therefore Shishak, the king of Egypt, went away from Jerusalem, after that he had taken away the treasures [or treasuries] of the house of the Lord, and of the king's house; and he took all things with him, and the gold shields which Solomon had made,

<sup>10</sup> for which golden shields king Rehoboam made brazen shields, and he betook those [or them] to the princes of [the] shield-makers, that kept the porch of the palace.

<sup>11</sup> And when the king entered into the house of the Lord, the shield-makers came, and took those shields, and they brought them again to his armoury place.

<sup>12</sup> Nevertheless for they were meeked, the ire of the Lord was turned away from them, and they were not done away utterly; for good works were found also in Judah.

<sup>13</sup> Therefore king Rehoboam was comforted in Jerusalem, and reigned. And he was of one and forty years, when he began to reign, and he reigned seventeen years in Jerusalem, the city which the Lord chose of all the lineages of Israel, that he should confirm his name there. And the name of his mother was Naamah an Ammonitess.

<sup>14</sup> And he did evil, and he made not ready his heart to seek God.

<sup>15</sup> And the first and the last works of Rehoboam be written, and diligently declared, in the books of Shemaiah the prophet, and of Iddo the prophet. And Rehoboam and Jeroboam fought in all days against themselves.

<sup>16</sup> And Rehoboam slept with his fathers, and was buried in the city of David; and Abijah, his son, reigned for him.

<sup>2</sup> he reigned three years in Jeru-salem; and the name of his mother was Michaiah, the daughter of Uriel of Gibeah. And battle was betwixt Abijah and Jeroboam.

<sup>3</sup> And when Abijah had begun battle, and had with him most chival-rous men, and four hundred thousand of chosen men, Jeroboam arrayed on the contrary the battle array with eight hundred thousand of men, and they were chosen men, and most strong men to battle.

<sup>4</sup> And Abijah stood upon the hill Zemaraim, that was in Ephraim, and he said, Hear thou, Jeroboam, and all Israel;

<sup>5</sup> whether ye know not, that the Lord God of Israel gave to David the realm on Israel without end, to him and to his sons into the covenant of salt, that is, steadfast and stable?

<sup>6</sup> And now Jeroboam, the son of Nebat, the servant of Solomon, the son of David, hath risen up, and hath rebelled against his lord.

<sup>7</sup> And most vain men, the sons of Belial, were gathered together to him, and they had might against Rehoboam, the son of Solomon. Certainly Rehoboam was boistous, either fond or untaught, and of fearedful heart, and might not against-stand them.

<sup>8</sup> Now therefore ye say, that ye be able to against-stand the realm of the Lord, that he holdeth in possession by the sons of David; and ye have a great multitude of people, and ye have golden calves, which Jeroboam made into gods to you.

<sup>9</sup> And ye have cast away the priests of the Lord, the sons of Aaron, and the deacons [or Levites], and ye have made priests to you, as all the peoples of other lands have priests; whoever cometh and halloweth his hand in a bull, in oxes [or oxen], and in seven wethers, anon he is made priest of them that be not gods.

<sup>10</sup> But our Lord is God, whom we forsake not; and [the] priests of the sons of Aaron minister to the Lord, and deacons [or Levites] be in their order;

<sup>11</sup> and they offer burnt sacrifices to the Lord by each day in the morrow-tide and eventide, and also incense made by commandments of the law; and loaves be set forth in a most clean board; and at us is the golden candlestick, and the lantern thereof, that it be tended ever at eventide; and we keep the behests of our God, whom ye have forsaken.

<sup>12</sup> Therefore God is duke in our host, and his priests, that trump and sound against you; do not ye, sons of Israel, fight against the Lord God of your fathers, for it speedeth not to you.

<sup>14</sup> And Judah beheld, and he saw battle nigh even against before them, and behind their back; and he cried to the Lord, and [the] priests began to trump.

<sup>15</sup> And all the men of Judah cried out, and, lo! while they cried on high, God made afear'd Jeroboam and all Israel, that stood even [or over] against Judah and Abijah.

<sup>17</sup> Therefore Abijah and his people smote them with a great wound, and there felled down of them five hundred thousand of strong men wounded.

<sup>18</sup> And the sons of Israel were made low in that time, and the sons of Judah were comforted full greatly, for they had hoped in the Lord God of their fathers.

CHAPTER 14

<sup>3</sup> and he destroyed the altars of strange worshipping, that is, of idolatry, and the high places, and brake alto-gether the images, and cutted down [the] maumet woods;

<sup>6</sup> And he builded strong cities in Judah; for he was in rest, and no battles rose in his times, for the Lord gave him peace.

<sup>7</sup> And Asa said to Judah, Build we [up] these cities, and encompass we them with walls, and strengthen we them with towers, and gates, and locks, as long as all things be restful from battle; for we have sought the Lord God of our fathers, and he hath given to us rest by compass. There-fore they builded, and there was no hindering in the building.

<sup>8</sup> And Asa had in his host three hundred thousand of men of Judah bearing shields and spears; and of Benjamin, he had two hundred thousand and fourscore thousand of shield-bearers and of archers; all these were full strong men.

<sup>10</sup> Certainly Asa went out against them, and they arrayed battle array in the valley of Zephathah, which is beside Mareshah.

<sup>11</sup> And Asa inwardly called the Lord God, and said, Lord, no diversity is with thee, whether thou help in few, either in many; our Lord God, help thou us, for we have trust in thee, and in thy name, and we came against this multitude; Lord, thou art our God, a man have not the mastery against thee.

<sup>13</sup> and Asa and his people, that was with him, pursued them unto Gerar. And Ethiopians felled down to death, for they were all-broken by the Lord slaying, and by his host fighting. Then they took many spoils,

<sup>14</sup> and they smote all the cities about Gerar; for great dread had assailed all men. And they spoiled or rifled the cities, and bare away much prey;

<sup>15</sup> and also they destroyed the folds of sheep, and they took multitude without number of sheep and of camels, and they turned again into Jerusalem.

CHAPTER 15

<sup>2</sup> he went out into the meeting of Asa; and said to him, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin, hear ye me; the Lord is with you, for ye were with him; if ye seek him, ye shall find him; soothly if ye forsake him, he shall forsake you.

<sup>3</sup> Forsooth many days shall pass in Israel without very God, and without priest, and without teacher, and without law.

<sup>4</sup> And when they turn again in their anguish, and cry to the Lord God of Israel, and seek him, they shall find him.

<sup>5</sup> In that time [there] shall not be peace to go out and to go in, but dreads on all sides on all the dwellers of the land.

<sup>6</sup> For folk shall fight against folk, and a city against a city, for the Lord shall disturb [or trouble] them in all anguish;

<sup>8</sup> And when Asa had heard this thing, that is, the words and [the] prophecy of Azariah, the son of Oded, the prophet, he was comforted, and he did away all the idols from all the land of Judah and of Benjamin, and from the cities which he had taken of the hill of Ephraim. And he hallowed the altar of the Lord, that was before the porch of the house of the Lord.

<sup>9</sup> And he gathered together all Judah and Benjamin, and with them the comelings of Ephraim, and of Manasseh, and of Simeon; for many of Israel, seeing that his Lord God was with him, fled over to him.

<sup>10</sup> And when they had come into Jerusalem, in the third month, in the fifteen year of the realm of Asa,

<sup>11</sup> they offered to the Lord in that day, both of the spoils and of the prey, which they had brought, seven hundred oxen, and seven thousand wethers.

<sup>12</sup> And Asa entered by custom to make strong the bond of peace, that they should seek the Lord God of their fathers in all their heart, and in all their soul.

<sup>13</sup> And the king said, If any man seeketh not the Lord God of Israel, die he, from the least unto the most, from man unto woman.

<sup>14</sup> And all that were in Judah swore with cursing to the Lord, that is, oblig-ing themselves to cursing and pain of death, if they did against the oath, with [a] great voice, in hearty song, and in sound of trump, and in sound of clarions;

<sup>15</sup> for they swore in all their heart, and in all their will they sought him, and found him; and the Lord gave to them rest by compass.

<sup>16</sup> But also he put down Maachah, the grandmother of Asa the king, that is, his own grandmother, from the strait empire, for she had made in a wood a simulacrum, or a likeness, of a man's rod; and he all-brake that simulacrum, and pounded it into gobbets, and burnt it in the strand [or stream] of Kidron.

<sup>17</sup> But yet [the] high places were left in Israel; nevertheless the heart of Asa was rightful in all his days.

<sup>18</sup> And he brought into the house of the Lord those things that his father [had] avowed, silver and gold, and diverse appurtenance of vessels;

CHAPTER 16

<sup>2</sup> And Asa brought forth gold and silver from the treasures [or treasuries] of the house of the Lord, and from the king's treasures [or treasuries]; and sent to Benhadad, king of Syria, that dwelled in Damascus, and said,

<sup>3</sup> Bond of peace is betwixt me and thee, and my father and thy father had accord together; wherefore I have sent to thee silver and gold, that when thou hast broken the bond of peace, which thou hast with Baasha, king of Israel, thou make him to go away from me.

<sup>6</sup> And king Asa took all Judah, and they took from Ramah the stones, and [the] wood, which Baasha had made ready to building; and he builded of those Geba, and Mizpah.

<sup>7</sup> In that time Hanani, the prophet, came to Asa, king of Judah, and said to him, For-thy that thou haddest trust in the king of Syria, and not in the Lord thy God, therefore the host of the king of Syria escaped from thine hand.

<sup>8</sup> Whether Ethiopians and Libyans were not many more in chariots, and knights, and in full great multitude; which, when thou haddest believed to the Lord, he betook them into thine hands?

<sup>9</sup> For the eyes of the Lord behold all the earth, and give strength to them, that with perfect heart believe into him. Therefore thou hast done follily, and for this trust in men, yea, in this present time battles shall rise against thee.

<sup>10</sup> And Asa was wroth against the prophet, and commanded him to be sent into the stocks. Forsooth the Lord had indignation greatly upon this thing, and he killed full many of the people in that time.

<sup>12</sup> And Asa was sick full greatly in the aching of his feet, in the nine and thirtieth year of his realm; and neither in his sickness he sought the Lord, but he trusted more in the craft of leeches.

<sup>14</sup> And they buried him in his sep-ulchre, which he had made to himself in the city of David; and they put him on his bed full of sweet smelling spices and ointments of whores, that where made altogether by the craft of ointment makers, and they burnt these upon him with full great cost.

CHAPTER 17

<sup>2</sup> And he set numbers of knights in all the cities of Judah, that were encompassed with walls, and he disposed strongholds in the land of Judah, and in the cities of Ephraim, which Asa, his father, had taken.

<sup>4</sup> but he hoped in the Lord God of David, his father, and he went in the commandments of God, and not after the sins of Israel.

<sup>5</sup> And the Lord confirmed the realm in his hand; and all Judah gave gifts to Jehoshaphat, and riches without number, and much glory was made to him.

<sup>6</sup> And when his heart had taken hardiness for the ways of the Lord, he took away also high places and [maumet] woods from Judah.

<sup>7</sup> And in the third year of his realm, he sent of his princes, Ben-hail, and Obadiah, and Zechariah, and Nethane-el, and Michaiah, that they should teach in the cities of Judah;

<sup>8</sup> and with them he sent nine deacons [or Levites], that is, Shemaiah, and Nethaniah, and Zebadiah, and Asahel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehonathan, and Adonijah, and Tobijah, and Toba-donijah, deacons [or Levites]; and with them Elishama and Jehoram, priests;

<sup>9</sup> and they taught the people in Judah, and had the book of the law of the Lord; and they compassed all the cities of Judah, and taught all the people.

<sup>10</sup> Therefore the dread of the Lord was made upon all the realms of lands, that were about Judah; and those durst not fight [or they were not hardy to fight] against Jehoshaphat.

<sup>11</sup> But also [the] Philistines brought gifts to Jehoshaphat, and toll, or tribute, of silver; and men of Arabia brought to him sheep, seven thousand and seven hundred wethers, and so many bucks of goats.

<sup>12</sup> Then Jehoshaphat increased, and was magnified till to on high; and he builded in Judah houses at the like-ness of towers, and full strong cities;

<sup>13</sup> and he made ready many works in the cities of Judah. Also men warriors and strong men were in Jerusalem;

<sup>14</sup> of which this is the number, by the houses and meines of all men in Judah. Duke Adnah was prince of the host, and with him were three hundred thousand full strong men.

<sup>16</sup> After this also Amasiah, the son of Zichri, was hallowed to the Lord, and with him were two hundred thousand of strong men.

<sup>17</sup> And of Benjamin; Eliada, a mighty man to battles, pursued [or followed] this Amasiah, and with him were two hundred thousand of men holding bow and shield.

CHAPTER 18

<sup>2</sup> And after certain years Jehosh-aphat came down to Ahab into Samaria; at whose coming Ahab killed full many wethers and oxen, and to the people that came with him; and Ahab counselled Jehosh-aphat to go up with him into Ramoth of Gilead.

<sup>3</sup> And Ahab, king of Israel, said to Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, Come thou with me into Ramoth of Gilead. To whom he answered, As and I am, so and thou art; and as thy people, so and my people; and we shall be with thee in battle.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore the king of Israel gathered together four hundred men of prophets, and said to them, Owe we to go into Ramoth of Gilead for to fight, either take rest? And the prophets said, Go ye up, and God shall betake it into the hand of the king.

<sup>6</sup> And Jehoshaphat said, Whether no other prophet of the Lord is here, that we may also ask of him?

<sup>7</sup> And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, One man is, of whom we may ask the will of the Lord, but I hate him, for he prophesieth not good, but evil to me, in all time; soothly it is Micaiah, the son of Imla. And Jehosh-aphat said to him, King, speak thou not in this manner.

<sup>8</sup> Then the king of Israel called one of his geldings, or his honest and chaste servants, and said to him, Call thou anon Micaiah, the son of Imla.

<sup>9</sup> And the king of Israel and Jehosh-aphat, king of Judah, sat ever either in his seat, and they were clothed in king's array; and they sat in the corn-floor, beside the gate of Samaria; and all the prophets prophesied before them.

<sup>10</sup> And Zedekiah, the son of Chena-anah, made to him iron horns, and said, The Lord saith these things, With these, thou shalt winnow the men of Syria, till thou all-brake them.

<sup>11</sup> And all the prophets prophesied in like manner, and said, Go thou up into Ramoth of Gilead, and thou shalt have prosperity; and the Lord shall betake them into the hands of the king.

<sup>12</sup> And the messenger, that went to call Micaiah, said to him, Lo! the words of all the prophets tell with one mouth good things to the king; therefore, I pray thee, that thy word dissent not from them, and that thou speak prosperities to him.

<sup>14</sup> Therefore he came to the king. To whom the king said, Micaiah, owe we go into Ramoth of Gilead to fight, either take rest, and not to go thither? To whom Micaiah answered, Go ye up thither, for all prosperities shall come to you, and [the] enemies shall be taken into your hands.

<sup>15</sup> And the king said to him, Again and again I charge thee, that thou speak not to me no but that that is sooth in the name of the Lord.

<sup>16</sup> And he said, I saw all Israel scattered abroad in the hills, as sheep without a shepherd. And the Lord said, These men have not lords; each man therefore turn again into his house in peace.

<sup>17</sup> The king of Israel said to Jehosh-aphat, Whether I said not to thee, that he prophesied not any good to me, but those things that be evil?

<sup>19</sup> And the Lord said, Who shall deceive Ahab, king of Israel, that he go up, and fall down in Ramoth of Gilead? And when one said in this manner, and another said in another manner, <sup>20</sup> a spirit came forth, and stood before the Lord, and said, I shall deceive him. To whom the Lord said, And wherein shalt thou deceive him?

<sup>21</sup> And he answered, I shall go out, and I shall be a lying spirit in the mouth of all his prophets. And the Lord said, Thou shalt deceive him, and thou shalt have the mastery; go thou out, and do so.

<sup>22</sup> Now therefore, lo! the Lord hath given a spirit of leasing in the mouth of all thy prophets, and the Lord hath spoken evil things of thee, that is, he hath said of the evil things to come to thee.

<sup>23</sup> And Zedekiah, the son of Chena-anah, nighed, and he smote Micaiah upon the cheek, and said, By what way hath the Spirit of the Lord passed from me to speak with thee?

<sup>25</sup> And the king of Israel commanded, saying, Take ye Micaiah, and lead ye him to Amon, [the] prince of the city, and to Joash, the son of Amalek or of Ahab;

<sup>26</sup> and ye shall say to them, The king saith these things, Send ye this man into prison, and give ye to him a little of bread, and a little of water, till I turn again in peace.

<sup>27</sup> And Micaiah said, If thou turnest again in peace, the Lord spake not to me. And he said, All peoples hear ye.

<sup>29</sup> And the king of Israel said to Jehoshaphat, I shall change my cloth-ing, and so I shall go to fight; but be thou clothed in thy king's clothes. Therefore when the king of Israel had changed clothing, he came to battle.

<sup>30</sup> And the king of Syria command-ed to the dukes of the multitude of his knights, and said, Fight ye not against the least, nor against the most; but against the king alone of Israel.

<sup>31</sup> Therefore when the princes of the multitude of knights had seen Jehosh-aphat, they said, This is the king of Israel; and they encompassed him, and fought against him. And Jehosh-aphat cried to the Lord; and the Lord helped him, and turned them away from him.

<sup>32</sup> And when the dukes of the multitude of knights had heard, or understood, that it was not the king of Israel, they left him or let him go.

<sup>33</sup> And it befelled, that one man of the people shot an arrow into uncer-tainty, and he smote the king of Israel betwixt the neck and the shoulders. And he said to his charioteer, Turn thine hand, and lead me out of the battle array; for I am wounded.

<sup>34</sup> And the battle was ended in that day. Certainly the king of Israel stood in his chariot against men of Syria till to eventide, and he died, when the sun went down.

CHAPTER 19

<sup>2</sup> Whom the prophet Jehu, the son of Hanani met, and said to him, Thou givest help to a wicked man, and thou art joined by friendship to them that hate the Lord; and therefore soothly thou deservedest the wrath of the Lord;

<sup>4</sup> Therefore Jehoshaphat dwelled in Jerusalem; and again he went out to the people from Beersheba to the hill of Ephraim, and he called them again to the Lord God of their fathers.

<sup>6</sup> And he commanded to the judges, and said to them, See ye, that is, be ye ware, what ye do; for ye use not the doom of man, but the doom of the Lord; and whatever thing ye deem unjustly, it shall turn against you;

<sup>7</sup> the dread of the Lord be with you, and do ye all things with diligence, that is, with discretion; forsooth with the Lord your God is no wickedness, neither taking, or accepting, of persons, neither covetousness of gifts.

<sup>8</sup> And also in Jerusalem Jehoshaphat ordained deacons [or Levites], and priests, and the princes of the meines of Israel, that they should deem the doom and the cause of the Lord, to the dwellers of Jerusalem.

<sup>9</sup> And he commanded to them, and said, Thus ye shall do in the dread of the Lord, faithfully, and in perfect heart.

<sup>10</sup> Each cause that cometh to you of your brethren, that dwell in their cities, betwixt kindred and kindred, wher-ever is question of the law, of the commandment, or of ceremonies, either sacrifices, or of justifiings, show ye to them, that they do not sin against the Lord, and that wrath of the Lord come not upon you, and upon your brethren. Therefore ye doing thus shall not do sin.

<sup>11</sup> And Amariah, your priest and bishop, shall be sovereign in these things, that pertain to God. And Zeba-diah, the son of Ishmael, that is duke in the house of Judah, shall be sovereign upon the works that pertain to the office of the king, and ye have master deacons [or Levites] before you; be ye comforted, and do ye diligently, that is, studiously, or busily, and the Lord shall be with you in goods.

CHAPTER 20

<sup>2</sup> And messengers came, and showed this to Jehoshaphat, saying, A great multitude of those places that be beyond the sea, and of Syria, is come against thee; and lo! they stand together in Hazazontamar, which is Engedi.

<sup>4</sup> And Judah was gathered together for to pray the Lord, and also all men came from their cities for to beseech him.

<sup>5</sup> And when Jehoshaphat had stood in the midst of the company of Judah and of Jerusalem, in the house of the Lord, before the new large place of the temple,

<sup>6</sup> he said, Lord God of our fathers, thou art God in heaven, and thou art Lord of all realms of folks; strength and power be in thine hand, and none may against-stand thee.

<sup>7</sup> Whether not thou, our God, hast slain all the dwellers of this land before thy people Israel, and hast given it to the seed of Abraham, thy friend, with-out end?

<sup>9</sup> If evils come [up] on us, the sword of doom, pestilence, or hunger, we shall stand before this house without end in thy sight, in which house thy name is called, and we shall cry to thee in our tribulations; and thou shalt hear us, and shalt make us safe.

<sup>10</sup> Now therefore lo! the sons of Ammon, and of Moab, and the hill of Seir, by whom thou grantedest not to the sons of Israel for to pass through their lands, when they went out of Egypt, but they bowed away from them, and killed not them,

<sup>11</sup> but they do on the contrary, and endeavour to cast us out of the possession, which thou, our God, hast given to us;

<sup>12</sup> therefore whether thou, Lord, shalt not deem them? Truly in us is not so great strength, that we may against-stand this multitude, that falleth in upon us; but since we know not what we owe to do, we, the residue, have this only, that we dress our eyes to thee.

<sup>14</sup> And Jahaziel, the son of Zechariah, the son of Benaiah, the son of Jeiel, the son of Mattaniah, was a deacon [or Levite], and of the sons of Asaph, upon whom the Spirit of the Lord was made in the midst of the company,

<sup>15</sup> and he said, All Judah, and ye that dwell in Jerusalem, and thou, king Jehoshaphat, perceive ye, or taketh heed, The Lord saith these things to you, Do not ye dread, neither be ye afeared of this multitude, for it is not your battle, but God's battle.

<sup>17</sup> For it shall not be ye, that shall fight; but only stand ye trustily, and ye shall see the help of the Lord upon you. O! Judah and Jerusalem, do not ye dread, neither be ye afeared; tomorrow ye shall go out against them, and the Lord shall be with you.

<sup>19</sup> And the deacons [or Levites] of the sons of Kohath, and of the sons of Korah, praised the Lord God of Israel with [a] great voice on high.

<sup>20</sup> And when upon the morrow they had risen early, they went out by the desert of Tekoa; and when they had gone forth, Jehoshaphat stood in the midst of them, and said, Judah, and all the dwellers of Jerusalem, hear ye me; believe ye in the Lord your God, and ye shall be secure; believe ye to his prophets, and all prosperities shall come to you.

<sup>21</sup> And he gave counsel to the people, and he ordained the singers of the Lord, that they should praise him in their companies, and that they should go before the host, and say with according voice, Acknowledge ye to the Lord, for he is good; for his mercy is without end.

<sup>22</sup> And when they began to sing praisings, the Lord turned the ambush-ments of them against themselves, that is, of the sons of Ammon, and of Moab, and of the hill of Seir, which went out to fight against Judah; and they were slain.

<sup>23</sup> For why the sons of Ammon and of Moab rose together against the dwellers of the hill of Seir, to slay, and to do away them; and when they had done this thing in work, they were then also turned against them-selves, and they fell down together by wounds, each slaying other.

<sup>24</sup> Certainly when Judah was come to the den, that beholdeth, or is over against, the wilderness, he saw afar all the large country full of dead bodies, and that none was left, that might escape death.

<sup>25</sup> Therefore Jehoshaphat came, and all the people with him, to draw away the spoils of [the] dead men, and they found among the dead bodies diverse appurtenance of household, and clothes, and full precious vessels; and they ravished, or took those things away, in diverse manners, so that they might not bear all things, neither they might take away the spoils by three days, for the greatness of [the] prey.

<sup>26</sup> Soothly in the fourth day they were gathered together in the valley of Blessing; for-thy that they blessed the Lord there, they called that place the valley of Blessing, unto this present day.

<sup>27</sup> And each man of Judah turned again, and the dwellers of Jerusalem, and Jehoshaphat went before them, into Jerusalem with great gladness; for the Lord God had given to them joy of their enemies.

<sup>29</sup> Forsooth the dread of the Lord felled [or fell] on all the realms of lands, when they had heard, that the Lord had fought against the enemies of Israel.

<sup>30</sup> And the realm of Jehoshaphat rested from war; and the Lord gave peace to him all about.

<sup>31</sup> And Jehoshaphat reigned upon Judah; and he was of five and thirty years, when he began to reign; and he reigned five and twenty years in Jerusalem; and the name of his mother was Azubah, the daughter of Shilhi.

<sup>32</sup> And he went in the way of Asa his father, and bowed not from it, and he did whatever things were pleasant before the Lord.

<sup>33</sup> Nevertheless he did not away the high places; and yet the people had not dressed their heart to the Lord God of their fathers.

<sup>34</sup> Forsooth the residue of the former and the last deeds of Jehoshaphat be written in the book of Jehu, the son of Hanani, which he ordained in the book of [the] kings of Israel.

<sup>35</sup> After these things Jehoshaphat, king of Judah, made friendships with Ahaziah, king of Israel, whose works were full evil or most evil;

<sup>36</sup> and he was partner to him, and they made ships, which should go into Tarshish; and they made one ship to go into Eziongaber.

<sup>37</sup> And Eliezer, the son of Dodavah, of Mareshah, prophesied to Jehoshaphat, and said, For thou hast had bond of peace with Ahaziah, the Lord hath destroyed thy works; and the ships be broken, and [they] might not go into Tarshish.

CHAPTER 21

<sup>2</sup> And he had brethren, the sons of Jehoshaphat, Azariah, Jehiel, and Zech-ariah, and Azariah, and Michael, and Shephatiah; all these were the sons of Jehoshaphat, king of Judah.

<sup>3</sup> And their father gave to them many gifts of gold and of silver, and he gave them pensions, or rents, with full strong cities in Judah; but he gave the realm to Jehoram, for he was his first begotten son.

<sup>4</sup> And Jehoram rose up on the realm of his father; and when he had con-firmed himself in the realm, he slew all his brethren by sword, and also some of the princes of Judah.

<sup>5</sup> Jehoram was of two and thirty years, when he began to reign; and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem.

<sup>6</sup> And he went in the ways of the kings of Israel, as the house of Ahab had done, for the daughter of Ahab was his wife; and he did evil in the sight of the Lord.

<sup>7</sup> But the Lord would not destroy the house of David, for the covenant which he had made with David, and for he had promised to give to him a lantern, and to his sons, in all time.

<sup>8</sup> In those days Edom rebelled, so that it was not subject to Judah, and it ordained a king to itself.

<sup>9</sup> And when Jehoram had passed forth with his princes, and all the multitude of knights, that was with him, he rose up by night, and smote Edom, that encompassed him, and all the dukes of his multitude of knights.

<sup>10</sup> Nevertheless Edom rebelled, that it was not under the lordship of Judah unto this day. In that time also Libnah went away, that it was not under the hand of him; for he had forsaken the Lord God of his fathers.

<sup>11</sup> Furthermore he made high places in the cities of Judah, and made the dwellers of Jerusalem to do fornication, that is, idolatry, and Judah to break the law.

<sup>12</sup> And letters were brought to him from Elijah, the prophet, in which it was written, The Lord God of David, thy father, saith these things, For that thou hast not gone in the ways of Jehoshaphat, thy father, and in the ways of Asa, king of Judah,

<sup>13</sup> but thou hast gone by the way of the kings of Israel, and thou hast made Judah and the dwellers of Jerusalem to do fornication, and thou hast pur-sued [or following] the fornication of the house of Ahab; furthermore and thou hast slain thy brethren in the house of thy father, that is, princes of the house of thy father, which were better than thou;

<sup>14</sup> lo! the Lord shall smite thee with a great vengeance, and thy people, and thy sons, and thy wives, and all thy chattel [or substance];

* CHAPTER 21:1 Also known as Joram.

<sup>17</sup> and these went up into the land of Judah, and they wasted it, and they took away all the substance, that was found in the house of the king, furthermore and his sons, and his wives they took away; and no son was left to him, but Jehoahaz, that was his least or youngest son in birth.

<sup>19</sup> And when day came after day, and the spaces of time were turned about, the course of two years was fulfilled; and so he was wasted by long rot, so that he casted out also his own entrails, and so he wanted sorrow and life together, and he was dead in the worst sickness. And the people did not to him [the] service of dead men by the custom of burning, as it had done to his greater, either ancestors.

<sup>20</sup> He was of two and thirty years when he began to reign, and he reigned eight years in Jerusalem, and he went not rightfully; and they buried him in the city of David, nevertheless not in the sepulchres of kings.

CHAPTER 22

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth the dwellers of Jerusalem ordained Ahaziah, the youngest son of Jehoram*, to be king for him; for the thieves of Arabia, that felled into the castles [or tents]of Judah, had slain all his greater or elder brethren, which were begotten before him. And Ahaziah, the son of Jehoram, king of Judah, reigned.

<sup>2</sup> Ahaziah was of two and forty or twenty years old, when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Athaliah, the daughter of Omri.

<sup>4</sup> Therefore he did evil in the sight of the Lord, as the house of Ahab; for they were counsellors to him into his perishing, after the death of his father;

<sup>5</sup> and he went in the counsel of them. And he went with Joram†, the son of Ahab, king of Israel, into battle against Hazael, king of Syria, into Ramoth of Gilead. And men of Syria wounded Joram;

<sup>6</sup> which turned again for to be healed in Jezreel; for he had taken many wounds in the foresaid battle. Therefore Ahaziah‡, king of Judah, the son of Jehoram, went down to visit Joram, the son of Ahab, that was sick in Jezreel;

<sup>7</sup> for it was God's will against Ahaziah, that he came to Joram. And when he was come, he went out with him against Jehu, the son of Nimshi, whom God anointed, that he should do away the house of Ahab.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore when Jehu destroyed the house of Ahab, he found the princes of Judah, and the sons of the brethren of Ahaziah, that ministered to him; and he killed them.

<sup>9</sup> And he sought that Ahaziah, and caught him hid in Samaria, and after that he was brought to Jehu, Jehu killed him; and they buried him, for he was the son of Jehoshaphat, that had sought God in all his heart. And none hope was more, that any of the generation of Ahaziah should reign.

<sup>10</sup> And Athaliah, the mother of Ahaziah, saw that her son was dead, and she rose up, and killed all the king's generation of the house of Jehoram.

<sup>11</sup> Forsooth Jehoshabeath, the daughter of the king, took Joash, the son of Ahaziah, and stole him from the midst of the sons of the king, when they were slain; and she hid him with his nurse in a closet of beds [or bed place]. For Jehoshabeath, that hid him, was the daughter of king Jehoram, and wife of Jehoiada, the bishop, and the sister of Ahaziah; and therefore Athaliah killed not her.

* CHAPTER 22:1 Also known as Joram. † CHAPTER 22:5 Also known as Jehoram(!). ‡ CHAPTER 22:6 Here the KJV erroneously has Azariah.

<sup>12</sup> Therefore he was hid with them in the house of God six years, in which Athaliah reigned on the land.

CHAPTER 23

<sup>1</sup> Forsooth in the seventh year Jehoi-ada was comforted, and took [the] centurions, that is, Azariah, the son of Jeroham, and Ishmael, the son of Jehohanan, and Azariah, the son of Obed, and Maaseiah, the son of Adaiah, and Elishaphat, the son of Zichri; and he made with them a counsel and a bond of peace.

<sup>2</sup> The which compassed Judah, and gathered together deacons [or Levites] of all the cities of Judah, and the princes of the families of Israel, and they came into Jerusalem.

<sup>3</sup> And all the multitude made covenant in the house of the Lord with the king. And Jehoiada said to them, Lo! Joash the son of the king shall reign, as the Lord spake on the sons of David.

<sup>4</sup> Therefore this is the word, that ye shall do. The third part of you that be come to the sabbath, of priests, and of deacons [or Levites], and of porters, shall be in the gates;

<sup>5</sup> and a third part shall be at the house of the king; and the other third part shall be at the gate, which is called of the fundament. And all the other common people be in the large places of the house of the Lord;

<sup>6</sup> and none other man enter into the house of the Lord, no but [the] priests, and they that minister of the deacons [or Levites]; only enter they, that be hallowed, and all the other common people keep they the keep-ings of the Lord.

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth the deacons [or Levites] encompass the king, and each man have his armours [or arms]; and if any other man entereth into the temple, be he slain; and be they with the king entering and going out.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore the deacons [or Levites] and all Judah did by all things which Jehoiada, the bishop, had commanded; and all took the men, that were with them, and came by the order of [the] sabbath with them, that had [ful] filled now the sabbath, and should go out. For Jehoiada, the bishop, suffered not the companies to go away, that were wont to come one after the tother by each week.

<sup>9</sup> And Jehoiada, the priest, gave to the centurions spears, and shields, and bucklers, of king David, which he had hallowed in the house of the Lord.

<sup>10</sup> And he ordained all the people, of them that held swords, at the right side of the temple unto the left side of the temple, before the altar and the temple, by compass of the king.

<sup>11</sup> And they led out Joash the son of the king, and they set a diadem upon his head; and they gave to him in his hand the law to be holden, and they made him king. And Jehoiada, the bishop, and his sons, anointed him; and they prayed heartily, and said, The king live!

<sup>12</sup> And when Athaliah had heard this thing, that is, the voice of men running and praising the king, she entered in to the people, into the temple of the Lord.

<sup>13</sup> And when she had seen the king, standing on the degrees in the entering of the temple, and the princes and the companies of knights about him, and all the people of the land joying, and sounding with trumps, and singing together with organs of diverse kind, and the voice of men praising, she rent her clothes, and said, Treasons! treasons!

<sup>14</sup> And Jehoiada, the bishop, went out to the centurions, and to the princes of the host, and said to them, Lead ye her without the precincts, either enclosings, of the temple, and be she slain withoutforth by sword; and the priest commanded, that she should not be slain in the house of the Lord.

<sup>15</sup> And they setted [or put] hands on her noll; and when she had entered into the gate of the horses, of the king's house, they killed her there.

<sup>16</sup> Forsooth Jehoiada covenanted a bond of peace betwixt himself and all the people and the king, that it should be the people of the Lord.

<sup>17</sup> Therefore all the people entered into the house of Baal, and they destroyed it, and they brake the altars and the simulacra thereof; but they killed before the altars Mattan, the priest of Baal.

<sup>18</sup> And Jehoiada ordained sovereigns in the house of the Lord, that under the hands of priests, and of deacons [or Levites], which David parted in the house of the Lord, they should offer burnt sacrifices to the Lord, as it is written in the book of Moses, in joy and in songs, by the ordinance of David.

<sup>19</sup> Also he ordained porters in the gates of the house of the Lord, that an unclean man in anything should not enter into it.

<sup>20</sup> And he took the centurions, and the strongest men, and princes of the people, and all the common people of the land. And they made the king to go down from the house of the Lord, and to enter by the midst of the higher gate into the house of the king; and they set him in the king's throne.

CHAPTER 24

<sup>5</sup> And he gathered together [the] priests and deacons [or Levites], and said to them, Go ye out to the cities of Judah, and gather ye of all Israel money, to the repairing of the temple of your Lord God, by each year; and do ye this thing hastily. Certainly the deacons did this thing negligently.

<sup>6</sup> And the king called Jehoiada, the prince of priests, and said to him, Why was it not a charge to thee, to constrain the deacons [or Levites] to bring in money of Judah and of Jerusalem, which money was ordained of Moses, the servant of the Lord, that all the multitude of Israel should bring it into the tabernacle of witnessing?

<sup>7</sup> For the wicked woman Athaliah, and her sons, destroyed the house of God; and of all the things, that were hallowed to the temple of the Lord, they adorned the temple of Baalim.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore the king commanded, and they made an ark, and setted [or put] it beside the gate of the House of the Lord withoutforth.

<sup>9</sup> And it was preached in Judah and Jerusalem, that each man should bring to the Lord the price, that Moses, the servant of God, ordained upon all Israel, in desert.

<sup>10</sup> And all the princes and all the people were glad, and they entered, and brought, and sent freely their gifts into the ark of the Lord, so that it was filled with treasure.

<sup>11</sup> And when it was time, that they should bear the ark before the king's officials by the hands of deacons [or Levites], for they saw much money, the clerk of the king entered, and he whom the first, or chief, priest had ordained, and they poured out the money, that was in the ark; and they bare again the ark to his place,. And so they did by all days, and money without number was gathered together;

<sup>12</sup> which the king and Jehoiada gave to them that were sovereigns of the works of the house of the Lord. And they hired thereof cutters of stones, and craftsmen of all works, that they should repair the house of the Lord; also they hired smiths of iron, and of brass, that that thing should be underset, that began to fall.

<sup>13</sup> They that wrought did craftily, and the crazing of the walls was stopped by the hands of them; and they raised the house of the Lord into the former state, and made it to stand steadfastly.

<sup>14</sup> And when they had fulfilled all the works, they brought before the king and Jehoiada the tother part of the money, of which money vessels were made into the service of the temple, and to burnt sacrifices; also vials, or basins, and other vessels of gold and of silver were made thereof. And burnt sacrifices were offered in the house of the Lord continually, in all the days of Jehoiada.

<sup>15</sup> And Jehoiada full of days waxed eld, and he was dead, when he was of an hundred years and thirty;

<sup>17</sup> But after that Jehoiada died, the princes of Judah entered, and worship-ped the king, which was flattered with their services, and assented to them.

<sup>18</sup> And they forsook the temple of the Lord God of their fathers, and served idols in woods, and graven images; and the ire of the Lord was made against Judah and Jerusalem for this sin.

<sup>19</sup> And he sent to them prophets, that they should turn again to the Lord; the which prophets' witnessing, they would not hear.

<sup>20</sup> Then the Spirit of the Lord clothed, or environed, Zechariah, the priest, the son of Jehoiada; and he stood in the sight of the people, and said to them, The Lord saith these things, Why break ye the commandment of the Lord, which thing shall not profit to you, and ye have forsaken the Lord, that he should forsake you?

<sup>22</sup> And king Joash had not mind on the mercy, or goodness, which Jehoi-ada, the father of Zechariah, had done with him; but he killed the son of Jehoiada. And when Zechariah died, he said, The Lord see this thing, and again-seek it.

<sup>23</sup> And when a year was turned about, either ended, the host of Syria went up against Joash, and it came into Judah and into Jerusalem, and it killed all the princes of the people; and they sent all the prey to the king of Damascus.

<sup>24</sup> And certainly, when a full little number of men of Syria was come into Judah, the Lord betook in their hands a multitude of Jews without number, for they had forsaken the Lord God of their fathers. Also they used shameful dooms against Joash;

<sup>25</sup> and they went away from him, and they left him in great sorrows. And his servants rose up against him, into vengeance of the blood of the son of Jehoiada, priest; and killed him in his bed, and he was dead. And they buried him in the city of David, but not in the sepulchres of kings.

<sup>27</sup> Soothly his sons, and the sum of money that was gathered under him, and the repairing of the house of God, be written diligently in the book of Kings. And Amaziah, his son, reigned for him;

CHAPTER 25

<sup>1</sup> Amaziah was of five and twenty years, when he began to reign, and he reigned nine and twenty years in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Jehoaddan, of Jerusalem.

<sup>4</sup> but he killed not the sons of them; as it is written in the book of the law of Moses, where the Lord commanded, saying, [The] Fathers shall not be slain for the sons, neither the sons for their fathers; but each man shall die in, or for, his own sin.

<sup>5</sup> Therefore Amaziah gathered to-gether Judah, and ordained them by meines, and tribunes, and centurions, in all Judah and Benjamin; and he numbered them from twenty years and above, and he found thirty thousand of able young men, that went out to battle, and held spear and shield.

<sup>6</sup> Also for meed, he hired of Israel an hundred thousand of strong men, for an hundred talents of silver; that they should fight against the sons of Edom.

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth a man of God came to him, and said, A! king, the host of Israel go not out with thee, for the Lord is not with Israel, and with all the sons of Ephraim;

<sup>8</sup> for if thou guessest that battles stand in the might of an host, the Lord shall make thee to be overcome of thine enemies, forsooth it is of God for to help, and to turn men into flight.

<sup>9</sup> And Amaziah said to the man of God, What then shall be done of the hundred talents, which I gave to the knights of Israel? And the man of God answered to him, The Lord hath, whereof he may yield to thee much more things than these.

<sup>10</sup> Therefore Amaziah separated the host that came to him from Ephraim, that it should turn again into his place; and they were wroth greatly against Judah, and they turned again into their country.

<sup>11</sup> And Amaziah led out trustily his people, and went into the valley of makings of salt, and he killed of the sons of Seir ten thousand.

<sup>12</sup> And the sons of Judah took other ten thousand of men, and brought to the high scarp of a stone; and they cast them down from the highest part into a pit; which all brake.

<sup>13</sup> And that host that Amaziah had sent again, that it should not go with him to battle, was spread abroad in the cities of Judah from Samaria unto Bethhoron; and after the host of Israel had slain three thousand of Judah, it took away a great prey.

<sup>14</sup> And Amaziah, after the slaying of Idumeans, and after that he had brought thence with him the gods of the sons of Seir, he ordained them to be into gods to himself, and he worshipped them, and burnt incense to them.

<sup>15</sup> Wherefore the Lord was wroth against Amaziah, and he sent to him a prophet, that said to him, Why worshippest thou gods which have not delivered their people from thine hand?

<sup>16</sup> And when the prophet spake these things, Amaziah answered to him, Whether thou art a counsellor of the king? cease thou, lest peradventure I slay thee. And the prophet went away from him, and said, I know, that the Lord hath thought to slay thee; for thou hast done this evil, and furthermore thou assentedest not to my counsel.

<sup>17</sup> Therefore Amaziah, the king of Judah, when he had taken a full evil counsel, sent to the king of Israel, Jehoash*, the son of Jehoahaz, the son of Jehu, and said, Come thou, and see we us together.

* CHAPTER 25:17 Also known as Joash.

<sup>18</sup> And Jehoash, the king of Israel, sent messengers back to him, and said mystically, A thistle, that is in the Lebanon, sent to a cedar tree of the Lebanon, and said, Give thy daughter as a wife to my son; and lo! [the] beasts that were in the wood of the Lebanon went and defouled the thistle.

<sup>19</sup> Thou saidest, I have smitten Edom, and therefore thine heart is raised into pride; sit thou still in thine house; why stirrest thou evil against thyself, that thou fall, and Judah with thee?

<sup>20</sup> Amaziah would not hear this, for it was the will of the Lord, that he should be betaken into the hands of his enemies, for the gods of Edom which he worshipped.

<sup>23</sup> And [Jehoash], the king of Israel, took in Bethshemesh Amaziah, the king of Judah, the son of Joash, the son of Jehoahaz†, and brought him into Jerusalem; and he destroyed the walls thereof from the gate of Ephraim to the gate of the corner, by four hundred cubits in length.

<sup>24</sup> And he led again into Samaria all the gold and silver, and all the vessels that he found in the house of the Lord, and at Obedom, in the treas-uries also of the king's house, also and the sons of hostages.

<sup>25</sup> And Amaziah, king of Judah, the son of Joash, lived fifteen years after that Jehoash, king of Israel, the son of Jehoahaz, was dead.

<sup>26</sup> Soothly the residue of the former and the last words of Amaziah, be written in the book of [the] kings of Judah and of Israel.

<sup>27</sup> And after that he had gone away from the Lord, they set to him treasons in Jerusalem; and when he had fled to Lachish, they sent thither, and killed him there;

CHAPTER 26

<sup>3</sup> Uziah was of sixteen years, when he began to reign; and he reigned two and fifty years in Jerusalem; and the name of his mother was Jecoliah, of Jerusalem.

<sup>4</sup> And he did that, that was rightful [or right] in the sight of the Lord, by all things which Amaziah, his father, had done.

<sup>5</sup> And he sought the Lord in the days of Zechariah, understanding and seeing God; and when he sought God, God ruled him in all things.

<sup>6</sup> And he went out, and fought against Philistines, and destroyed the wall of Gath, and the wall of Jabneh, and the wall of Ashdod; and he builded strong places in Ashdod, and in Philistines.

<sup>9</sup> And Uziah builded towers in Jerusalem over the gate of the corner, and over the gate of the valley, and other towers in the same side of the wall; and he made those steadfast, or strong.

† CHAPTER 25:23 A variant form of Ahaziah (the son of Jehoram, king of Judah). * CHAPTER 26:1 Also known as Azariah.

<sup>10</sup> Also he builded towers in the wilderness, and digged full many cisterns; for he had many beasts, as well in the field places, as in the vastness of desert. Also he had vineries [or vines], and tillers of vines in the hills, and in Carmel or the great mountains; for he was a man given to earth-tilling.

<sup>11</sup> And he had the host of his warriors, that went forth to battles, under the hand of Jeiel, scribe, and of Maaseiah, the teacher, and under the hand of Hananiah, that was of the dukes of the king.

<sup>13</sup> And under them was all the host, three hundred thousand and seven thousand and five hundred, that were able to battle, and fought for the king against adversaries.

<sup>14</sup> And Uzziah made ready to them, that is, to all the host, shields, and spears, and basinets, and habergeons, and bows, and slings to cast stones.

<sup>15</sup> And he made in Jerusalem engines of diverse kind, which he set in towers, and in the corners of walls, that those [or they] should cast out arrows and great stones; and his name went out far, for the Lord helped him, and had made him strong.

<sup>16</sup> But when he was made strong, his heart was raised up into his perishing; and he despised the Lord his God; and he entered into the temple of the Lord, and would burn incense upon the altar of incense.

<sup>18</sup> which against-stood the king, and said to him, Uzziah, it is not of thine office, that thou burn incense to the Lord, but of the priests of the Lord, that is, the sons of Aaron, that be hallowed to such service; go thou out of the saintuary; and despise thou not God; for this thing shall not be areck-oned of the Lord God to thee into glory.

<sup>19</sup> And Uzziah was wroth, and he held in his hand the censer for to offer incense, and he menaced [or threat-ened] the priests; and anon leprosy was sprung forth in his forehead, before the priests in the house of the Lord, upon the altar of incense.

<sup>20</sup> And when Azariah, the bishop, had beheld him, and also all the other priests, they saw leprosy in his fore-head, and anon they putted [or put] the king out of the temple; but also he was afeared, and hasted to go out; for he feeled anon the vengeance of the Lord.

<sup>21</sup> Therefore king Uzziah was leprous unto the day of his death, and dwelled in an house by itself, and he was full of leprosy; for which he was cast out of the house of the Lord. And Jotham, his son, governed the house of the king, and deemed the people of the land.

CHAPTER 27

<sup>1</sup> Jotham was of five and twenty years, when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem; the name of his mother was Jerushah, the daughter of Zadok.

<sup>2</sup> He did that, that was rightful [or right] before the Lord, by all things which Uzziah, his father, had done; except that he entered not into the temple of the Lord, and the people trespassed yet.

<sup>4</sup> also he builded cities in the hills of Judah, and he builded castles and towers in forests [or high woods].

<sup>5</sup> He fought against the king of the sons of Ammon, and overcame him; and the sons of Ammon gave to him in that time an hundred talents of silver, and ten thousand cors of barley, and so many of wheat; the sons of Ammon gave these things to him in the second, and the third years.

<sup>7</sup> Forsooth the residue of [the] words of Jotham, and all his battles, and works, be written in the book of the kings of Israel and of Judah.

<sup>8</sup> He was of five and twenty years, when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem.

<sup>9</sup> And Jotham slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of David; and Ahaz, his son, reigned for him.

CHAPTER 28

<sup>1</sup> Ahaz was of twenty years, when he began to reign, and he reigned sixteen years in Jerusalem; he did not rightfulness [or right] in the sight of the Lord, as David, his father, did;

<sup>2</sup> but he went in the ways of the kings of Israel. Furthermore and he melted out images to Baalim.

<sup>3</sup> He it is that burnt incense in the valley of Ben-hinnon, and purged his sons by fire, by the custom of heathen men, whom the Lord killed in the coming of the sons of Israel from Egypt or towards the land of promise.

<sup>4</sup> Also he made sacrifice, and burnt incense in high places, and in hills, and under each tree full of boughs.

<sup>5</sup> And the Lord his God betook him into the hand of the king of Syria, which smote Ahaz, and took a great prey of his empire, and brought into Damascus. Also Ahaz was betaken to the hands of the king of Israel, and he was smitten with a great wound.

<sup>6</sup> And Pekah, the son of Remaliah, killed of Judah sixscore thousand in one day, all the men warriors; for they had forsaken the Lord God of their fathers.

<sup>7</sup> In the same time Zichri, a mighty man of Ephraim, killed Maaseiah, the son of Jotham, the king; and he killed Azrikam, the duke of his house, and Elkanah, the second person from the king.

<sup>8</sup> And the sons of Israel took of their brethren two hundred thousand of women and of children and of damsels, and prey without number, and bare it into Samaria.

<sup>9</sup> In that tempest, or time of vengeance, a prophet of the Lord, Oded by name, was there, which went out against the host of Israel coming into Samaria, and he said to them, Lo! the Lord God of your fathers was wroth against Judah, and he hath betaken them into your hands; and ye have slain them cruelly, so that your cruelty stretcheth forth into heaven.

<sup>10</sup> Furthermore and ye will make subject to you the sons of Judah and of Jerusalem into servants and hand-maids; which thing is not needful to be done; certainly ye have sinned in this thing to the Lord your God.

<sup>11</sup> But hear ye my counsel, and lead again the prisoners, which ye have brought thence of your brethren; for great vengeance of the Lord nigheth to you.

<sup>12</sup> Therefore men of the princes of the sons of Ephraim, Azariah, the son of Johanan, Berechiah, the son of Meshill-emoth, Jehizkiah, the son of Shallum, and Amasa, the son of Hadlai, stood against them that came from the battle;

<sup>13</sup> and said to them, Ye shall not bring in hither the prisoners, lest we do more sin against the Lord; why will ye lay to on your sins, and heap more on your old trespasses? Certain-ly this is great sin; the wrath of the strong vengeance of the Lord nigheth on Israel.

<sup>15</sup> And the men stood there, which we remembered before, and they took the prisoners, and they clothed of the spoils all that were naked; and when they had clothed them, and shod them, and refreshed them with meat, and with drink, and anointed them for travail, and gave cure, either medicine, to them; whichever of them were feeble, and might not go, they putted [or put] on horses, and they brought them to Jericho, the city of palms, to their brethren; and they turned again into Samaria.

<sup>18</sup> Also [the] Philistines were spread abroad by cities of the fields, and at the south of Judah; and they took Beth-shemesh, and Ajalon, and Gederoth, and Shocho, and Timnah, and Gimzo, with their villages; and they dwelled in those [or them].

<sup>19</sup> For the Lord made low Judah for Ahaz, the king of Judah*; for he had made him naked of help, and despised the Lord.

<sup>21</sup> Therefore Ahaz, after that he had spoiled the house of the Lord, and the house of the king, and of the princes, gave gifts to the king of Assyrians, and nevertheless it profited nothing to him.

<sup>23</sup> offered sacrifices to the gods of Damascus, his smiters, or destroyers, and he said, The gods of the kings of Syria help them, which gods I shall please by sacrifices, and they shall help me; when, on the contrary, they were falling to him, and to all Israel.

<sup>24</sup> Therefore after that Ahaz had taken away, and broken all the vessels of the house of God, he closed the gates of God's temple, and he made altars to himself in all the corners of Jerusalem.

<sup>25</sup> And in all the cities of Judah he builded altars to burn incense to other gods, and he stirred the Lord God of his fathers to wrathfulness.

<sup>26</sup> Soothly the residue of his words and of all his works, the former and the last, be written in the book of [the] kings of Judah and of Israel.

<sup>27</sup> And Ahaz slept with his fathers, and they buried him in the city of Jerusalem; for they received not him into the sepulchres of the kings of Israel; and Hezekiah, his son, reigned for him.

CHAPTER 29

<sup>1</sup> And Hezekiah began to reign, when he was of five and twenty years, and he reigned in Jerusalem nine and twenty years; the name of his mother was Abijah, the daughter of Zechariah.

<sup>2</sup> And Hezekiah did that, that was pleasing in the sight of the Lord, by all things that David, his father, had done.

<sup>3</sup> In that year, and in the first month of his realm, he opened the gates of the house of the Lord, and restored, or repaired, those gates;

<sup>4</sup> and he brought the priests, and deacons [or Levites], and he gathered them together into the east street,

* CHAPTER 28:19 Here the KJV mistakenly says, 'king of Israel'.

<sup>5</sup> and said to them, Sons of Levi, hear ye me, and be ye hallowed; cleanse ye the house of the Lord God of your fathers; and do ye away all uncleanness from the saintuary.

<sup>6</sup> Our fathers have sinned, and done evil in the sight of the Lord our God, and forsook him; they turned away their faces from the tabernacle of the Lord our God, and gave their back.

<sup>7</sup> They closed the doors that were in the porch, and quenched the lanterns; and they burnt not incense, and they offered not burnt sacrifices in the saintuary of God of Israel.

<sup>8</sup> Therefore the strong vengeance of the Lord was raised upon Judah and Jerusalem; and he gave them into stirring or moving, or unstableness, and into perishing, and into hissing, either scorning, as ye see with your eyes.

<sup>9</sup> Lo! our fathers have fallen down by swords; our sons, and our daughters, and our wives be led away as prisoners for this great trespass.

<sup>10</sup> Now therefore it pleaseth me, that we make a bond of peace with the Lord God of Israel, and that he turn from us the strong vengeance of his wrath.

<sup>11</sup> My sons, do not ye herein be reckless; the Lord hath chosen you, that ye stand before him, and serve him, that ye praise him, and burn incense to him.

<sup>12</sup> Therefore the deacons [or Levites] rose up, Mahath, the son of Amasai, and Joel, the son of Azariah, of the sons of Kohath; and of the sons of Merari, Kish, the son of Abdi, and Azariah, the son of Jehalelel; and of the sons of Gershon, Joah, the son of Zimmah, and Eden, the son of Joah;

<sup>14</sup> also of the sons of Heman, Jehiel, and Shimei; but also of the sons of Jeduthun, Shemaiah, and Uzziel.

<sup>15</sup> And they gathered together their brethren, and they were hallowed; and they entered by the commandment of the king, and by [the] commandment of the Lord, for to cleanse the house of the Lord.

<sup>16</sup> Also [the] priests entered into the temple of the Lord, for to hallow it, and they bare out all the uncleanness, that they found therein in the porch, either large place, of the house of the Lord; which uncleanness the deacons [or Levites] took, and they bare it out to the strand [or stream] of Kidron withoutforth.

<sup>17</sup> Soothly they began to cleanse in the first day of the first month, and in the eighth day of the same month they entered into the porch of the house of the Lord, and they cleansed the temple eight days; and in the sixteenth day of the same month they [ful] filled that, that they had begun.

<sup>18</sup> And they entered to Hezekiah, the king, and said to him, We have hallowed, or cleansed, all the house of the Lord, and the altar of burnt sacrifice thereof, and the vessels thereof, also and the board of setting forth with all his vessels,

<sup>19</sup> and all the appurtenance of the temple, that king Ahaz had defouled in his realm, after that he brake the law; and lo! all things be set forth before the altar of the Lord.

<sup>20</sup> And Hezekiah, the king, rose up in the morrowtide, and he gathered together all the princes of the city, and he went up into the house of the Lord;

<sup>21</sup> and they offered together seven bulls, and seven rams, seven lambs, and seven bucks of goats, for [the] sin, for the realm, for the saintuary, and for Judah. And he said to [the] priests, the sons of Aaron, that they should offer sacrifices on the altar of the Lord.

<sup>22</sup> Therefore they killed bulls, and the priests took the blood, and poured it upon the altar; also they killed rams, and they poured the blood of those [or them] upon the altar; and they offered lambs, and they poured the blood upon the altar.

<sup>23</sup> And they brought [the] bucks of goats for sin before the king and all the multitude, and they setted their hands on those [or them];

<sup>24</sup> and the priests offered them, and they sprinkled the blood of them before the altar, for the cleansing of all Israel. For the king commanded, that burnt sacrifice should be made for all Israel, and for sin thereof.

<sup>25</sup> Also he ordained deacons [or Levites] in the house of the Lord, with cymbals, and psalteries, and harps, by the ordinance of David the king, and of Gad, the prophet, and of Nathan, the prophet; for it was the command-ment of the Lord by the hand of his prophets.

<sup>27</sup> And Hezekiah commanded, that they should offer burnt sacrifices upon the altar; and when burnt sacrifices were offered, they began to sing praisings to the Lord, and to sound with trumps, and with diverse organs, which David, king of Israel, had made ready to sound with.

<sup>28</sup> Forsooth when all the company worshipped/And when all the company worshipped the Lord, [the] singers and they that held trumps were in their office, till the burnt sacrifice was filled.

<sup>29</sup> And when the offering was ended, the king was bowed down, and all that were with him, and they worship-ped God.

<sup>30</sup> And Hezekiah and the princes commanded to the deacons [or Levites], that they should praise the Lord with the words of David, and of Asaph, the prophet; which praised him with great gladness, and kneeled, and worshipped.

<sup>31</sup> Soothly Hezekiah added also these things, Ye have filled your hands with blessings to the Lord; nigh ye, and offer sacrifices and praisings in the house of the Lord. Therefore all the multitude offered with devout soul sacrifices, and praisings, and burnt sacrifices.

<sup>34</sup> And the priests were few, and they might not suffice for to draw, or flay off, the skins of [the] burnt sacrifices; wherefore and the deacons [or Levites] their brethren helped them, till the work was [ful] filled, and the priests were hallowed; for the deacons [or Levites] be hallowed by lighter custom than the priests.

<sup>35</sup> Therefore there were full many burnt sacrifices, and inner fatness of peaceable sacrifices, and the moist [or liquor] sacrifices of burnt sacrifices, and thereby the worship of the house of the Lord was [ful] filled.

<sup>36</sup> And Hezekiah was glad, and all the people, for the service of the Lord was fulfilled; for it pleased, that this was done suddenly.

CHAPTER 30

<sup>1</sup> And Hezekiah sent to all Israel and to Judah, and he wrote epistles to Ephraim and to Manasseh, that they should come into the house of the Lord in Jerusalem, and make pask to the Lord God of Israel.

<sup>2</sup> Therefore when counsel was taken of the king, and of [the] princes, and of all the company of Jerusalem, they deemed, or purposed, to make pask in the second month.

<sup>3</sup> For they deemed not to be able to do this in his time, that is, the first month; for the priests which might suffice thereto were not yet hallowed, and the people was not yet gathered into Jerusalem.

<sup>5</sup> And they deemed to send mes-sengers into all Israel, from Beersheba unto Dan, that they should come, and make pask to the Lord God of Israel in Jerusalem; for many men had not done it, as it is before-written in the law.

<sup>6</sup> And couriers went forth with epistles, by [the] commandment of the king and of his princes, into all Israel and Judah, and preached by that, that the king had commanded, Sons of Israel, turn ye again to the Lord God of Abraham, and of Isaac, and of Israel; and he shall turn again to the remnant of men, that escaped the hands of the kings of Assyrians.

<sup>7</sup> Do not ye be made as your fathers and your brethren, which went away from the Lord God of their fathers; and he gave them into perishing, as ye see.

<sup>8</sup> Do not ye make hard your nolls, as your fathers did; give ye your hands to the Lord in promising that ye shall serve him faithfully, and come ye to his saintuary, which he hath hallowed without end; serve ye the Lord God of your fathers, and the wrath of his strong vengeance shall turn away from you.

<sup>9</sup> For if ye turn again to the Lord, your brethren and your sons shall have mercy before their lords that led them prisoners; and they shall turn again into this land. For the Lord our God is pious, either benign, and merci-ful; and he will not turn away his face from you, if ye turn again to him.

<sup>12</sup> Forsooth the hand of the Lord was made in Judah, that he gave to them one heart, and that they did the word of the Lord, by the command-ment of the king and of the princes.

<sup>14</sup> And they rose, and destroyed the altars, that were in Jerusalem; and destroyed all things in which incense was burnt to idols, they casted them forth into the strand [or stream] of Kidron.

<sup>15</sup> And they offered pask in the fourteenth day of the second month; also the priests and the deacons [or Levites] were hallowed at the last, and offered burnt sacrifices in the house of the Lord.

<sup>16</sup> And they stood in their order, by the ordinance and law of Moses, the man of God. Soothly the priests took of the hands of deacons [or Levites] the blood to be shed out, <sup>17</sup> for much of the company was not hallowed; and therefore the deacons [or Levites] offered pask for them, that might not be hallowed to the Lord.

<sup>18</sup> Also a great part of the people of Ephraim, and of Manasseh, and of Issachar, and of Zebulun, that was not hallowed, ate pask not by that that is written. And Hezekiah prayed for them, and said, The good Lord shall do mercy to all men, <sup>19</sup> which seek in all their heart the Lord God of their fathers; and it shall not be areckoned to them into sin, that they be not hallowed by offering of gifts.

<sup>21</sup> And the sons of Israel, that were found in Jerusalem, made the solemnity of therf loaves seven days in great gladness, and they praised the Lord by each day; and the deacons [or Levites] and [the] priests praised the Lord by organs, which accorded to their office.

<sup>22</sup> And Hezekiah spake to the heart of all the deacons [or Levites], that had good understanding of the Lord; and they ate by seven days of the solemnity, offering sacrifices of peace-able things, and praising the Lord God of their fathers.

<sup>23</sup> And it pleased all the multitude to hallow also other seven days; which thing also they did with great joy.

<sup>24</sup> Forsooth Hezekiah, king of Judah, gave to the multitude a thousand bulls, and seven thousand of sheep; and the princes gave to the people a thousand bulls, and ten thousand sheep. There-fore a full great multitude of priests was hallowed*;

<sup>25</sup> and all the company of Judah was filled with gladness, as well of priests and deacons [or Levites], as of all the multitude that came from Israel, and of [the] converts of the land of Israel, and of [the] dwellers in Judah.

<sup>26</sup> And great solemnity was made in Jerusalem, what manner was not in that city from the days of Solomon, the son of David, king of Israel.

<sup>27</sup> And [the] priests and deacons [or Levites] rose up, and blessed the people; and the voice of them was heard, and their prayer came into the holy dwelling place of heaven.

CHAPTER 31

<sup>1</sup> And when these things were done rightfully, all Israel went out, that was found in the cities of Judah; and they brake [the] simulacra, and cutted down [maumet] woods, and wasted [the] high places, and destroyed [the] altars, not only of all Judah and Benjamin, but also of Ephraim and Manasseh, till that they had destroyed those altars or their idols utterly. And then all the sons of Israel turned again into their possessions and cities.

<sup>2</sup> And Hezekiah ordained companies of priests and deacons [or Levites] by their partings, each man in his own office, that is, as well of priests as of deacons [or Levites], to burnt sacrifices and peaceable sacrifices, that they should minister, and acknowledge, and sing in the gates of the castles [or tents] of the Lord.

<sup>3</sup> And the part of the king's sacrifice was, that of his own substance, or chattel, burnt sacrifice should be offered evermore in the morrowtide and in the eventide, also in sabbaths, and calends, and in other solemnities, as it is written in the law of Moses.

<sup>4</sup> Also he commanded to the people of them that dwelled in Jerusalem, to give parts to the priests and deacons [or Levites], that they might give attention to the law of the Lord.

<sup>5</sup> And when this was known in the ears of the multitude, the sons of Israel offered full many first fruits of wheat, of wine, of oil, and of honey; and of all things which the earth bringeth forth, they offered tithes.

<sup>6</sup> But also the sons of Israel and of Judah, that dwelled in the cities of Judah, offered tithes of oxen, and of sheep, and the tithes of holy things, which they avowed [or vowed] to their Lord God, and they brought all things, and made full many heaps.

<sup>7</sup> In the third month they began to lay the foundations of the heaps, and in the seventh month they filled, or ended, those heaps.

<sup>8</sup> And when Hezekiah and his princes had entered, they saw the heaps, and they blessed the Lord, and the people of Israel.

<sup>10</sup> And Azariah, the first, or chief, priest of the generation of Zadok, answered to him and said, Since the first fruits began to be offered in the house of the Lord, we have eaten of those fruits, and been fulfilled, and full many things be left; for the Lord hath blessed his people; and this plenty, which thou seest, is of the remnants.

* CHAPTER 30:24 That is, ordained to kill and offer to the Lord these beasts.

<sup>12</sup> they brought in faithfully both the first fruits, and tithes, and whatever things they had avowed [or vowed]. And Conaniah, the deacon [or Levite], was [the] sovereign of those things; and Shimei, his brother was the second, next to him;

<sup>13</sup> after whom Jehiel, and Azaziah, and Nahath, and Asahel, and Jerimoth, and Jozabad, and Eliel, and Ismachiah, and Mahath, and Benaiah, were sov-ereigns under the hands, or powers, of Conaniah and Shimei, his brother, by the commandment of Hezekiah the king, and of Azariah, the bishop of the house of the Lord, to whom all things pertained.

<sup>14</sup> But Kore, the son of Imnah, deacon [or Levite], and porter of the east gate, was sovereign of those things that were offered by free will to the Lord, and of the first fruits, and of [the] things hallowed into the holy things of the number of holy things;

<sup>15</sup> and under his care, were Eden, and Miniamin, Jeshua, and Shemaiah, and Amariah, and Shecaniah, in the cities of priests, that they should part faithfully to their brethren the parts, to the less and to the greater,

<sup>16</sup> besides males from three years and above, these things to all that entered into the temple of the Lord, and whatever thing by each day was hired in the service and observances, by their partings.

<sup>17</sup> To priests by their families, and to deacons [or Levites] from twenty years and above, by their orders and companies, <sup>18</sup> and to all the multitude, that is, both to the wives, and the free children of them of ever either kind, meats,, were given faithfully of these things that were hallowed.

<sup>19</sup> But also men of the sons of Aaron were ordained, by the fields and by suburbs of all the cities, which men should deal parts to all the male kind of priests, and deacons [or Levites].

<sup>20</sup> Therefore Hezekiah did all these things, which we have said, in all Judah, and he wrought that, that was rightful [or right] and good and true before the Lord his God, <sup>21</sup> in all the religion of the service of the house of the Lord, by the law and by the ceremonies; and he would seek his Lord God in all his heart, and he did so, and had prosperity.

CHAPTER 32

<sup>1</sup> After which things and such truth, Sennacherib, the king of Assyrians, came and entered into Judah; and he besieged strong cities, and would take those [or them].

<sup>2</sup> And when Hezekiah had heard this thing, that is, that Sennacherib had come, and that all the fierceness of his battle was turned against Jerusalem,

<sup>3</sup> he took counsel with [the] princes and with most strong men, that they should stop the heads of wells, which were without the city; and when the sentence of all men deemed this profitable,

<sup>4</sup> he gathered together a full great multitude of men, and they stopped up all the wells, and the river, that flowed in the midst of the land; and said, Lest the kings of Assyrians come, and find abundance of waters.

<sup>5</sup> Also Hezekiah did wittingly, and he builded all the wall that was destroyed, and he builded towers on the wall, and another wall without-forth. And he repaired Millo in the city of David; and made armour or arms of all kind, and shields.

<sup>6</sup> And he ordained princes of warriors in the host; and he called together all men in the street of the gate of the city, and spake to the hearts of them, and said,

<sup>7</sup> Do ye manly, and be ye comfort-ed; do not ye dread, neither be ye afeared of the king of Assyrians, nor of all the multitude that is with him; for many more be with us than with him.

<sup>8</sup> A fleshly arm is with him; and the Lord our God is with us, which is our helper, and shall fight for us. And the people was comforted with such words of Hezekiah, king of Judah.

<sup>9</sup> And after that these things were done, Sennacherib, [the king of Assyria], sent his servants to Jerusalem; for he himself, with all the host, besieged Lachish. He sent to Hezekiah, king of Judah, and to all the people that was in the city of Jerusalem, and said,

<sup>11</sup> Whether not Hezekiah deceiveth you, that ye betake you to death in hunger and thirst, and he affirmeth, that the Lord your God shall deliver you from the hand of the king of Assyrians?

<sup>12</sup> Whether this is not Hezekiah, that destroyed high places, and altars of him, and commanded to Judah and Jerusalem, and said, Ye shall worship before one altar, and therein ye shall burn incense?

<sup>13</sup> Whether ye know not what things I have done, and my fathers, to all the peoples of lands? Whether the gods of folks and of all lands might deliver their country from mine hand?

<sup>14</sup> Who is, of all the gods of folks, which my fathers destroyed, that might deliver his people from mine hand, that also your God may deliver you from mine hand?

<sup>15</sup> Therefore Hezekiah deceive not you, neither scorn he you by vain counselling, neither believe ye to him; for if no god of all folks and countries might deliver his people from mine hand, and from the hand of my fathers, pursuingly [or followingly] neither your God shall be able to deliver you from this mine hand.

<sup>17</sup> Also he wrote epistles full of blas-phemy against the Lord God of Israel, and he spake against God, and said, As the gods of other folks might not deliver their people from mine hand, so and the God of Hezekiah may not deliver his people from mine hand.

<sup>18</sup> Furthermore, and with [a] great cry in the language of Jews, he sounded against the people, that sat on the walls of Jerusalem, to make them afeared, and to take the city.
